THE GRAND CANON

A WORLDWIDE BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE GRAND CANYON AND LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGIONS IN THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

GENERAL PUBLICATIONS

HISTORICAL, GEOGRAPHICAL, SOCIAL, CULTURAL,
BIOGRAPHICAL, POPULAR, AND COMMONPLACE
WORKS CONCERNING THE GRAND CANYON AND LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGIONS

Publications comprising history, regional geography, biography, narratives, essays, non-fictional literature, and incidental materials that relate to the Grand Canyon or the lower Colorado River region

PART 2. GENERAL PUBLICATIONS

HISTORICAL, GEOGRAPHICAL, SOCIAL, CULTURAL, BIOGRAPHICAL, POPULAR, AND COMMONPLACE WORKS
CONCERNING THE GRAND CANYON AND LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGIONS

OVERVIEW. This part includes publications that focus on the Grand Canyon and/or the lower Colorado River region, and writings that address larger areas but embrace these regions. It comprises material written for a popular audience as well as scholarly publications, everything that is, broadly speaking, about the humanities—except items that pertain more specifically to other parts of the bibliography. Publications that casually or cursorily note, in general ways, the Grand Canyon or lower Colorado River areas, or parts of them, are included. Travel literature that is more travelogue or memoir in presentation (rather than specific guides to attractions and facilities) are in this part. Material that may otherwise be arbitrarily classified as “Miscellaneous” (and not pertinent to other parts of the bibliography) is also in this part.

RELATED MATERIAL

PART 3. THE NEW YORK TIMES for additional items that relate to this part of the bibliography

Part 2 includes citations of items that contain potentially offensive material, with sexual or other matter that some users, for religious, moral, or personal reasons, may not wish to encounter. The pertinent citations are grouped in the Supplement at the end of Part 2. It is additionally important to segregate these citations as this is an internationally focused bibliography with an international audience, whose particular perspectives may not be known to this compiler. The cited items themselves may contain explicit material but a few of them do not; yet these, too, are segregated because the serials in which they appear do contain such matter. (Off-color language is not considered reason for segregation.)

PART 2. GENERAL PUBLICATIONS

HISTORICAL, GEOGRAPHICAL, SOCIAL, CULTURAL, BIOGRAPHICAL, POPULAR, AND COMMONPLACE WORKS

NOTES FOR PART 2

THIS is by far the largest part of this work; 27.2 percent of the bibliography. It includes everything that is, broadly speaking, the humanities, except items that pertain more specifically to other parts of the bibliography. It embraces popular, academic, and organizational and government productions; and it includes everything from commonplace items and notes on the fly, to lengthy monographs and stout coffee-table books.

A great many publications include both the Grand Canyon and the lower Colorado River, in such ways that it is unreasonable to segregate the works that focus on Grand Canyon versus those that focus on the lower Colorado River; many works embrace both areas. To compile separate lists for the two areas would repeat a very large number of citations in both lists. Since this is a bibliography about the Grand Canyon and the lower Colorado River regions, it is just as unreasonable to remove from the General Publications part of the bibliography those works that are exclusively about the lower Colorado River (those with no substantive mention of the Grand Canyon). To help distinguish items that are solely about the lower Colorado River region, Item numbers in colored italics within Part 2 (for example, 2.11822) denote these geographically restricted items.<sup>165</sup> Item numbers that are not italicized in Part 2 pertain to the Grand Canyon region or to both the Grand Canyon and lower Colorado River regions.

As a rule of thumb, publications listed herein that predate the 1858 first explorations (by westerners) of the Grand Canyon, will by default embrace only the lower Colorado River region. However, some earlier works, even some from the 16th to 19th centuries, are considered to include the Grand Canyon–lower Colorado River geographic set even though most of the lands were territories unknown. This is due either to these publications’ continental focus or because they are, topically, entradas into the great (even if unknown) region in which lies the Grand Canyon country. Some—for example, publications about the Sitgreaves expedition of 1851—will have entered the greater Grand Canyon region south of the canyon enroute to the lower Colorado River and thus are counted among those titles. Where notations in the citations indicate “see pp.” without any indication of geographic area, one may assume that it pertains to the Grand Canyon region; these are legacy citations from early versions of this bibliography. Likewise, citations that have no “see” notation also be considered to include in some measure the Grand Canyon region.

<sup>165</sup> Colored italics are used for aesthetic and pragmatic reasons; color to stand out more on the page, italics in the event that a page in this bibliography is reproduced without the benefit of color.

PART 2. GENERAL PUBLICATIONS

HISTORICAL, GEOGRAPHICAL, SOCIAL, CULTURAL, BIOGRAPHICAL, POPULAR, AND COMMONPLACE WORKS
CONCERNING THE GRAND CANYON AND LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGIONS

Part 2 further includes most publications that, in previous bibliographies, had been heaped into a “Miscellaneous” part that was an arbitrary and unhelpful category, inasmuch as such items are as “commonplace” as they are “miscellaneous”.

Part 2 as well accommodates things that relate to, but are not categorized with, material in other parts of the bibliography. For example, it includes publications that pertain to modern social issues of the regions that otherwise are accommodated for their respective parts of the bibliography—such as Part 11, which embraces scientific and technical issues of the lower Colorado River region, but for which issues relating to modern social conditions would be out of place (such as the social concerns that pertain labor issues in the Imperial Valley).

Material that appears in periodically published regional tourists’ guides is selected. Often the texts are repeated from one season, and from one year, to the next; repeating them in the bibliography, especially in significant numbers, is not necessarily helpful. Moreover, it is rather difficult to locate complete sets of such productions. Thus, what appears in this bibliography should be considered a representative sample. If an item stands out from others that are usually repeated, or if their eye-catching titles differ greatly between installments, they will be cited as examples of editorial style and the editors’ intention to refocus the article’s interest for the visitor. More specifically, from the Grand Canyon Tusayan Guide (and variant titles) and the affiliated Williams guide that also includes Grand Canyon and Tusayan, both published by the Williams-Grand Canyon News, all general items are included in Part 2, rather than mixing them between this part and Part 9 (travel guides). This was done because the contexts and content of individual items are so closely interrelated that they could be listed in either part, or both, probably to even greater distraction to those who are browsing this bibliography. I feel that it is more beneficial to keep these frequently addressed, selected, items together.

There are so many works that are multidisciplinary, which are not convenient to cite under one subject, that they must be cited within several pertinent parts of the bibliography; their numbers are, however, relatively few. Were this bibliography rearranged into a database format, artificial subdivisions could be employed to allow for more precise (though contrived) subject sorting; but as I have explained elsewhere herein, THE GRAND CANON is purposely in monographic format, from which a database may be devised.

- 1794      2.29108      天經或問註解 [tenkyo wakumon chukai] [Heavenly commentary or Illustrated astronomy]. [Osaka, Japan: Sharin publishing house.] [See woodcut map, north polar projection with North and Central America.] [The title as given by Wheat (1957, Volume I, p. 242, including square brackets) is "Tenkyo Wakumon Chukai [North and Central America]", which is the title of the book, to which is added a description of the geographic coverage of the map at least as illustrated by Wheat. The information on publisher and date cited here are as given by Wheat; book title in Japanese is added here (see also the Bibliographical Note below). Wheat remarks that the map is ". . . included in a revised edition, in Japanese, of a rare Chinese volume by Yu I, a Chinese astronomer." Wheat further remarks (p. 153, his emphasis) that the map "is unique in that on it a vastly magnified peninsula of California is attached to the mainland at its southern, rather than its northern extremity." The map as illustrated by Wheat (facing p. 153) is half of a polar projection, with a caption (approximately rendered here as "地球改正面裏北"). The peninsula is labeled (inverting the map and reading south to north), "カリオルニア", which approximates the modern Japanese spelling of California (カリフォルニア). The map shows, interestingly, a significant river flowing into the (southern) head of the gulf, and otherwise on the eastern (mainland) side there are a few embayments such as those that appear on maps that depict California as an island, where the Colorado and other rivers enter the gulf mid-way through the "strait". This map is cited here for its novelty and as an early Japanese perspective.] [BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE: OCLC record 851880447, as found on WorldCat online, lists the 3-volume title, "Tenkyo Wakumon Chukai : illustrated astronomy", with authors "Irie Heima; Wakanaya Kohei", publisher "Yedo : Kangyuhā" (no date), with the notation, "Includes map of North America with Baja California connected at the south rather than the north." No other WorldCat record includes this notation, although there are records for similar editions.] [In Japanese.]

1869	2.30488	A romantic voyage. The Round Table (New York), 9(217) (March 20): 180-181. [Refers to "narrow canyons" of western rivers. "These fissures have not been scooped out by the watercourses, but are apparently the result of some titanic convulsion of nature which has rent the mountains asunder, and made a highway for the rivers to pass through. Of all these remarkable natural curiosities none exceeds in grandeur or extent the great Canyon of the Colorado, a region as little known to science as the interior of Africa, or the neighborhood of the North Pole. * * * On our best maps much of its [the Colorado River's] route is still a blank space; but a scientific party, mostly young men from Illinois, headed by professor Powell, is now on an exploring expedition, partly to enlarge their knowledge and recruit their health, but mainly to solve the mystery of the Upper Colorado and its wonderful canyon, by attempting to pass through it in boats or rafts—a passage which has as yet only been successfully accomplished by one man, whose adventures in the gorge form one of the most fascinating stories of peril and hair-breadth escapes we ever remember reading." omdat de wilde Indianen nog niet onderworpen zijn, en de streek zelve zoo goed als ontoegankelijk is. Voor beide zaken is slechts één middel—de spoorweg. De Rio Colorado is dikwijls „de Amerikaansche Nijl” genoemd, en hoewel zij dezen naam niet in allen deele verdient, zoo strekken zich toch van den Great Canon tot bijna het einde van de Californische golf eene reeks breede valleien uit, zoo laag, dat door dergelijke waterleidingen als nu op de landegte van Suez zijn aangelegd, een goed deel van deze woestenij in een tuin kan worden herschappen. Het klimaat hier is heet en drukkend, en de voortbrengselen zouden dezelfde zijn als die van de zuidelijke staten: katoen, rijst, suiker, enz. het Grate Basin, de woestijn, is op deze breedte slechts 200 mijlen lang tegen 700 op de meer noordelijke lijn.” (ENTIRE NOTE)] [In Dutch.]

The legend continues in contrived and mingled (mangled) fashion, especially peculiar given the date of publication: "—Unapproached in magnificence are the cañons of Colorado, which for more than a thousand miles of length rise not less than from a thousand feet to twelve hundred feet in perpendicular cliffs; and the Grand Cañon, for more than two hundred miles, has no rocks less than four thousand feet high. At the junction of the Grand and Green rivers there is produced a flood believed to be equal in volume to Niagara. Meeting in a narrow gorge, more than two thousand feet deep, at the place where the cañons of Colorado begin, its waters dash on to the First Cataract, a descent made with a velocity truly awful, the rush checked here and there by rocks, thus forming whirlpools. Where the walls of the chasm approach more nearly, the haste of the flood is augmented to a speed calculated at a mile in eighty seconds. Williams Cañon combines the beautiful with the sublime."]

A slim, light 'party,' weighing not over 100 pounds and occupying less than 15 inches horizontal space, would therefore probably be able to secure a seat for $2.50; while a 300-pound 'party,' requiring double seating space, would justly be charged $5. - 1906      2.26240      [Proposed cableway.] Engineering News, 55(16) (April 19): 447. ["An item has been sent out to the press by the publicity department of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe relating to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. We quote it in full as follows: [¶] 'It is proposed to stretch a heavy cable across the granite gorge of the Colorado River, from bank to bank, and attach to same a movable steel cage, in which passengers will be transported. The distance from rim to rim in mid air, as the crow flies, is thirteen miles. The distance going down the north wall, crossing the river on the cable and ascending the north wall, is fully twenty miles.' [¶] Those of our readers familiar with the mathematics of the catenary curve may be interested to compute the total vertical drop of a cable with a length of 20 miles and its points of support 13 miles apart. Those who are not can easily see by a roughly approximate computation that the lowest point of such a cable would be several miles lower than the Colorado River at the bottom of the gorge. It may be added that as a cable of such a span, even if made of high-grade steel wire, would barely support its own weight, no passengers are likely to take the dizzy ride for some time to come." - [Arizona Motor Company, Studebaker Sociability Run; 700 mile tour including Grand Canyon.]
- 1912      2.13013      Ford conquers Grand Canyon; perilous trip by Californian from canyon brink to the very edge of the Colorado River. The Automobile, 26(25) (June 20): 1398. [B. L. Graves drive from Peach Springs to Diamond Creek.]
- 1912      2.24500      Close call for rider lost in desert; Los Angeles motorcyclist was unconscious in waste of burning sand when found by automobile scout party. Motorcycle Illustrated, (June 13): 33. [Most of this item is quoted as written by the motorcyclist, but his identity is not revealed. He was riding a "3 h. 1909 Curtiss motorcycle" from Los Angeles to Phoenix, to follow the proposed National Highway route, when he bogged down in sand near Middle Wells east of Yuma, Arizona. He was rescued by an automobile sponsored by the Los Angeles Times that was crossing the continent.]
- 1912      2.15849      Graham Riebling wins Studebaker Run; A. D. Aiken placed second and R. C. Baker third in long reliability. Motorists travel 9 days, go 700 miles; many adventures recorded on trip from Phoenix to Grand Canyon and back. Motor Age, 21(25) (June 20): 12-14.
- 1912      2.15850      Grand Canyon conquered. B. L. Graves and Chester Lawrence drive a Ford to very edge of Colorado River in bottom of the earth's deepest wrinkle—Horses haul car back to civilization. Motor Age, 21(25) (June 20): 14-15. [Diamond Creek.]
- 1912      2.19261      Grand Canyon Studebaker run. Automobile Topics, 26(6) (June 22): 349. ["More than 100 owners of E-M-F '30' and Flanders '20' cars, recently completed a run of over 600 miles on a tour from Phoenix, Ariz., to Grand Canyon. The tour was open to Studebaker cars only, and had a Governor's Cup as the trophy." (ENTIRE ITEM)]
- 1912      2.12937      Arizona run picturesque; tourists glide and bump over all sorts of roads through fertile and sterile country; verdant valleys in strong contrast with barren lava beds. The Automobile, 26(26) (June 27): 1438-1439. [Studebaker tour, Phoenix to Grand Canyon.]
- 1912      2.14738      Prescott motorists have tour. In: News of the Week Condensed [SECTION]. The Automobile, 26(26) (June 27): 1448. Author indicated on Amazon web page as "Sherita Purviance" (who may have produced this volume). Cover depicts a stock color photo with graphical art superimposed. Pages seemingly with captions and no photos are only poorly designed "chapter" headings. Description from the Amazon.com posting (October 2021): "This book is a collection of the author's photos taken for the National Park Service. In 1941, the author was employed by the U.S. Department of the interior [ sic ] to photograph the National Parks in the Western United States. The photographs would be part of a 'Mural Project' for the Interior Department's new museum in Washington, D.C. The Interior's mural project would allow him to travel and photograph the National Parks[.]" The Interior Department's mural program was, as is well known, the work of Ansel Adams.] |

<sup>166</sup> The Samuel Adams who attempted to explore canyon rivers in Colorado (the Blue and Grand Rivers) at about the same time as the explorations of the Green and Colorado Rivers by John Wesley Powell. Adams's reports that pertain only to the upper Colorado River basin explorations are extralimital to this bibliography and thus are not cited. He is not to be confused with Samuel Adams [2], First Assistant Secretary of the Interior in the early 20th century, who is cited in Parts 11 and 12 of this bibliography.

<sup>167</sup> Holtzin's self-published works, without imprint, have over time been selectively re-released under new titles and dates but with little or no revision or new format other than cover and title-page. Once this approach was discovered, only those volumes that can be verifiably cited by physical examination without financial outlay will be listed in this bibliography.

PART 2. GENERAL PUBLICATIONS

HISTORICAL, GEOGRAPHICAL, SOCIAL, CULTURAL, BIOGRAPHICAL, POPULAR, AND COMMONPLACE WORKS CONCERNING THE GRAND CANYON AND LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGIONS

IN PART 2, ITEM NUMBERS IN ITALICS INDICATE PUBLICATIONS THAT PERTAIN ONLY TO THE LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGION OR TO ADJACENT UPPER GULF OF CALIFORNIA

(ENTIRE NOTE)] [NOTE: Munk (1908, ITEM NO. 1.96), p. 97, cites "Worthington, T. J. Arizona Sanatorium and Touring Company. Los Angeles, 1906." The Holbrook Argus (Arizona) for November 10, 1906, p. 8, and for December 1, 1906, p. 8, prints "Articles of Incorporation of the Arizona Sanatorium And Touring Company". If the prospectus cited here is in fact from ca. 1906, it is peculiar that the Grand Canyon tour description seems to refer to the eastern Grand Canyon as the destination, in favor of where the railroad had "touched" it, which is the Peach Springs area and even though a railroad branch had in fact finally reached Grand Canyon Village in 1901.]
