"Vid middagstiden den 9 juli steg jag af tåget i stationen Williams i Arizona, 1293 mil väster Kansas City, för att göra en afstickare till den berömda Grand Canyon. En 64 mil lång bibana leder från Williams norrut rakt till denna underbara plats. Grand Canyon är nog den i sitt slag mest utomordentliga företeelse i Amerika—en vildt söndersliten afgrundstafila af de mest skiftande och otroliga former och färgspel. Ingen beskrifning, ingen konst kan göra full rättvisa åt dessa klippformationer och bråddjup, inför hvilka man står bäfvande och häpen. Man erfar vid deras betraktande en obestämbar åtrå att bestiga och undersöka de otaliga vittrande pyramiderna, tinnarna och tornen, som, glittrande i alla regnbågens färger, möta blicken hvar än man skådar. Man ryser, när man skådar ner i den flera tusen fot under ens fötter belägna dalbotten, och man förlorar sig i funderingar öfver hur ett så fantastiskt landskap tillkommit. Grand Canyon är öfver 200 mil lång och i medeltal 10 mil bred. Till dess botten, där Colorado-floden slingrar fram mellan de egendomligt färglagda klippväggarna, leder en stig, den s. k. 'Bright Angel Trail', som är 7 mil lång. Afståndet mellan dess öfre och nedre ända är dock i rak linje blott 3 mil. En stor mängd resande besöka årligen Grand Canyon, och säkerligen har ingen ännu ånkrat att han besökt denna plats. Likväl skulle jag vilja i valet mellan Grand Canyon i Arizona och Yosemite-dalen i California gifva företrädet åt den senare. Den ger icke samma intryck af ödslighet och vildhet som den förra, men bjuder däremot på större omväxling. Grand Canyon är storslaget af grundsläk, Yosemite storslaget himmelsk. Ett stort hotell är uppfördt alldeles inne vid brädden af Grand Canyon, och bredvid hotellet finnes en liten tältstad, där man får nattkvarter något billigare än i hotellet. Jag hade på tåget gjort bekantskap med en landsman, som befann sig på väg till San Diego. En ovanligt intressant personlighet, storvuxen, hemma i många vetenskaper, erfaren och berest. Han hade varit guldgräfvare i Alaska, men senast bosatt i New York. Han kände flera af mina vänner i Chicago. Under våra samtal kom jag underfund med att han var spiritist. Han visste, hvem jag var, innan vi träffades, och påstod, att andar hviskat det till honom. Jag misstänker dock, att han sett mitt porträtt i någon tidning. Vi hyrde tält och säng tillsammans i Grand Canyon, och sedan vi lagt oss, uppbyggde han mig med andehistorier, tills jag började känna mig kuslig till mods. Han sade sig ha bedt andarna ge sig tillkänna för mig under nattens lopp genom att stöta eller knuffa mig, så att jag kunde bli viss om deras tillvaro. Icke trodde jag på allt det där, men inbillningen har en stor makt öfver en människa, och det dröjde ovanligt länge, innan jag kunde somna den natten. Jag har sedan fått ett synnerligen välskrifvet bref från honom, hvori han uppmanar mig att bortlägga tviflet och med allvar söka efter sanningen. Men på den vägen bryr jag mig nog icke om att söka den. Han har äfven skickat mig en bok af metafysiskt innehåll till begrundande, men jag finner mig oförmögen att förstå dess läror och har tills vidare 'lagt den på hyllan.' Emellertid tänker jag ändå med ett visst nöje på sammanträffandet med den originelle mannen och vår natt i tältet vid Grand Canyon. Under min vandring på Bright Angel-stigen, hvilken jag företog ensam, stötte jag på ett sällskap turister, som togo mig för en röfvare. Jag har väl aldrig sett på maken—jag den fredligaste bland de fredlige bli tagen för röfvare!"

(translation)

'At noon on July 9, I got off the train at Williams Station in Arizona, 1293 miles west of Kansas City, to make a detour to the famous Grand Canyon. A 64-mile branch line leads from Williams north straight to this wonderful place. The Grand Canyon is probably the most extraordinary phenomenon of its kind in America—a wildly torn plateau abyss of the most varied and incredible shapes and colors. No description, no art can do full justice to these rock formations and abysmal depths, before which one stands trembling and amazed. Upon observing them, one experiences an indefinable desire to climb and examine the innumerable weathering pyramids, pinnacles and towers, which, glittering in all the colors of the rainbow, meet the gaze wherever one looks. You shudder when you look down into the valley floor several thousand feet below your feet, and you get lost in thinking about how such a fantastic landscape came into being. The Grand Canyon is over 200 miles long and

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

on average 10 miles wide. To its bottom, where the Colorado River meanders between the strangely colored rock walls, leads a path, the so-called "Bright Angel Trail", which is 7 miles long. However, the distance between its upper and lower ends is in a straight line only 3 miles. A large number of travelers visit the Grand Canyon annually, and certainly no one has yet regretted that he visited this place. Nevertheless, in the choice between the Grand Canyon in Arizona and the Yosemite Valley in California, I would like to give preference to the latter. It does not give the same impression of desolation and savagery as the former, but on the other hand offers greater variety. The Grand Canyon is magnificent in form, Yosemite magnificently heavenly. A large hotel is built right beside the rim of the Grand Canyon, and next to the hotel there is a small tent city, where you get overnight accommodation slightly cheaper than in the hotel. I had met a countryman on the train who was on his way to San Diego. An unusually interesting personality, large, at home in many sciences, experienced and traveled. He had been a gold digger in Alaska, but most recently lived in New York. He knew several of my friends in Chicago. During our conversations, I found out that he was a spiritualist. He knew who I was before we met, and claimed that spirits whispered to him. I suspect, however, that he saw my portrait in some newspaper. We rented a tent and a bed together in the Grand Canyon, and after we went to bed, he built me up with spirit stories, until I started to feel eerily at ease. He said he had asked the spirits to make themselves known to me during the night by bumping or pushing me so that I could be sure of their existence. I did not believe in all that, but the imagination has a great power over a human being, and it took an unusually long time before I could fall asleep that night. I have since received a very well-written letter from him, in which he urges me to dispel doubts and seriously search for the truth. But in that, I probably do not care to seek it. He has also sent me a book of metaphysical content for reflection, but I find myself unable to understand its teachings and have so far "put it on the shelf." However, I still think with some pleasure of meeting an original man and our night in the tent at the Grand Canyon. During my hike on the Bright Angel Trail, which I undertook alone, I came across a company of tourists, who took me for a robber. I have probably never seen such a match—I the most peaceful among the peaceful be taken for robbers!

Van Loan, Ida A.

- 795 1910 A tour through the West with the Jersey City Elks, No. 211. New York: [no imprint] (Isaac H. Blanchard Co., New York, printer; Edwrad McWhood, New York, binder), 146 pp. [Cover title: Los Angeles 1909 Elks' Tour.]

See chapter, "Grand Canyon of Arizona", pp. 16-26. What canyon? The amenities are "it".

"Half way across Arizona, at Williams, a branch road leaves the main track to the greatest scenic wonder of the world. We arrived at the Grand Canyon at 8 A. M., July 9, expecting to see a grand sight, as we stepped off the train; but first we have to climb a long flight of stairs that lead to the hotel; as you reach the top you can see a great deal of it; but the nearer you get to the edge, the more wonderful the view. A low parapet marks the edge, and a number of benches are ranged along for visitors to witness the wonders. The spectators are silent, awe-struck. It is like looking into another world, different from anything you have ever seen before." And from here, without even so much as a paragraph break in three pages, the author proceeds through a peculiarly scrambled set of Grand Canyon statistics and reflections; first on the rim, then on a trail with only the recommendation to spend the night rather than to make it a day trip, then back to the rim ("I have been told the awful wonders of the trip make some people hysterical. I should think they would."), lays out the dimensions of El Tovar and appreciates its lighting fixtures and the "broad porch where you can sit comfortably and order refreshments", then the dimensions of the dining room ("The waitresses are all dressed in white uniforms.") Chugging along, she pauses for a Harvey Girl poem by S. E. Kiser, and counts "more than a hundred sleeping-rooms" in El Tovar ("Everything looks bright and cheerful at El Tovar."), remarking on the wall paper, furniture, and wilton carpets; and oh yes, "They have twenty large bathrooms." And the El Tovar flourish—"As you look up you may see some friend smiling from the rotunda rail where the ladies' lounging-room is located, draped in crimson hangings." She hussies across the way to Hopi House, describes its riches and the Hopi mesas where their ceremonies "are among the most interesting religious observances of any primitive people in the world"; and without so much as taking a breath, continues, as pleased as if chatting at a ladies' tea, "while seated in our train waiting to start at 9 P. M., quite a number of our party on the platform were singing, 'My mama told me if I was goodie, that she would buy me a rubber dollie; but when I told her I loved a soldier, she would not buy me a rubber dollie.' Nearly everyone on the platform joined in, and it was finally taken up by those on the train, which made quite a loud chorus." And the last half of the "Grand Canyon" chapter has nothing to do with it.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Verkamp, John G.

- 796 NO DATE Views of Grand Canyon, Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: John G. Verkamp, 15 hand-colored photographs, string-bound. [Copyright 1910.]

Waine, W. W.

- 797 1910 Social features of the convention. From: Farnsworth, Fred E. (compiler), Proceedings of the Fourth Annual Meeting; Clearing House Section, American Bankers' Association; being the Twelfth Annual Meeting, Conference of Clearing Houses, at Los Angeles, California, Thursday, October 6, 1910. In: Farnsworth, Fred E. (compiler), Proceedings of the Thirty-Sixth Annual Convention of the American Bankers' Association and annual proceedings of the Trust Company Section, Savings Bank Section and Clearing House Section : held at Los Angeles, California, October 3 to 7, 1910 : also constitution, by-laws, appendices, list of officers and members of the association. New York: [American Bankers' Association], pp. 742-746.

"A day was spent at the Grand Canyon in Arizona, arriving there the previous night. The travelers witnessed a sunrise and a sunset. Drives were taken to various points of view on the brink of the canyon and many of the sight-seers rode down the canyon on bronchos via 'Bright Angel Trail.' The sublime grandeur of the canyon must be seen to be appreciated, and it is then indelibly photographed on the mind." (ENTIRE NOTE)

White, Stewart Edward

- 798 1910 The cabin; personal experiences in the Sierras. American Magazine, 70(3) (July): 376-381.

Part of a serialized article. See in "The Ethical Code of California John", p. 380; a conversation retold, but delightfully different, captured here in its entirety.

"California John is an individual more or less traveled. He has been to various places of which perhaps you have never heard; such as Honey Lake, and Hoopa Valley, and the country of the Siskiyou. To be sure, he has never visited Paris, London or Berlin, as we have; but then, he has at least heard of them, and that is where he is ahead of us. • • •

"With it all he still loves the Sierras the best, and has homed to them in his approaching age. nevertheless, the single thing that impressed him most was the Grand Cañon of the Colorado.

"`That place,' said he to us one day, 'is self actin'! All this,' he waved his hand abroad, 'has to be taken care of or it gets ruined by somebody. That's what we rangers are tryin' to do. But the Grand Cañon takes care of herself.' He slid from his saddle and squatted on his heels, as was invariably his habit when really earnest talk was forward. 'My idee is about like this,' said he, 'I believe the Lord made that place just for himself. All the rest of the earth He gave to mankind. "Go to it," says he, "do what you want. Go the limit. Cut down the trees, and dam up the rivers, and paint advertising signs on and over everthin' you can stick a brush to. I ain't in favor of these proceedings; but it's up to you." And I reckon we've done it—Injins, buffalo, pine woods, Niagara Falls—all the rest of it. But the Grand Cañon the Lord made for Himself. There ain't no water, there ain't no ways of gettin' around, there ain't no possible way of paintin' a sign you could make out with the Lick telescope. They can't dynamite it for stone, or plant parks in it, or build things in it.'

"`They've got a big modern hotel on the rim now,' I suggested.

"` Oh, yes,' he waved that lauded structure aside, 'they can put up things, of course. But a full grown World's Fair goin' full blast with the blower on you wouldn't even see across that cañon. That little crack will look just the same as it does to-day a thousand years form now, when our descendants are wearin' sky blue plants with ruffles on 'em and otherwise attractin' horrified attention from the angels.'

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"We laughed together over this, for California John never takes his extravagances seriously. Then abruptly he became solemn.

"`Son,' said he, 'the gold light of evenin' on these mountains is a mighty fine thing, but if you don't believe all I've been sayin' you ought to see the Cañon at sunset.'

"`I've seen it,' said I.

"`You remember how she changes, then, slow and solemn, like the shift of scenes in a theatre. Only there ain't no hurry about it. He don't care whether folks has to catch a train, or it's gettin' chilly out there on the Rim, or dinner is ready. And do you recollect how the peaks come out from the other cañon wall, and draw back again, one by one? It's just as if they was answering roll call. And all the colors in the world come out to answer roll call too, and wait a minute, and then melt back again. The Lord has built Him a fine place; and He's fixed it so we can't never bother it. I think it's mighty good of Him to let us come look at it.'

"`Why didn't you stay there,' I asked, 'if you like it so well?'

"`It takes a mighty good man or a mighty dumb fool to live by the Cañon always. It's like sheep that way. It takes apostles or Basques to get along.'"

Willey, Day Allen

799 1910 Hance of the Grand Cañon. Outing Magazine, 56(1) (April): 30-31.

Sort of a biographical sketch, with a few personable insights about the man who is inseparable from the canyon. More reminiscent of his place near Red Canyon than the village area that he attended to at the time.

"His dooryard is a little grove of stunted pines. His back yard is—the cañon. You cannot see it from the house because the rock wall of the rim turns upward and reaches above the roof. So when Hance wants to go to the back yard he climbs a wooden stairway. When he reaches the top he looks off into the world forty miles in a straight line, while the river flows six thousand feet below his 'observatory.' No nature lover on earth has such a scene as Hance views every morning, for here is one of the corners of the cañon where it turns from the south to the southwest and a picture of vastness, of silence, of desolation has been made that no human being can realize unless he has stood on the rock that Hance calls his observatory. And every morning of his life he goes to it. That's his religion."

X. Y. Z. [anonymous mark]

800 1910 The western tour of the American Chemical Society. Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering, 8(9) (September): 517-518.

Letter to the editor regarding the trip aboard a special Santa Fe train to San Francisco. The stop at Grand Canyon is described.

"Next morning we awakened in a fine forest of pine trees and were at the Grand Canyon, the most imposing spectacle I have ever seen. Some of us took horses and through a narrow trail along precipices followed the guide who led our party deeper and deeper into the hot canyon. As I am writing now I am still suffering (after about two weeks) from blisters on my unprotected sunburned hands. My wife made the trip, too, and bravely enjoyed the whole performance. What a luxury it was to have a bath in the hotel after our return from a day in the saddle.

"If the petrified forest was hot, this was hotter. But the precipices make you forget the heat when your mule walks on the edge of the trail and there are a few thousand feet just below you. The clerk at the hotel described the canyon as follows: 'Between hell and the canyon trail there is but a screen door.'"
(ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1911

Anonymous

- 801 1911 The Packard chief tunes up on high speed in Indian Gardens. The Packard (Packard Motor Car Company, Detroit, Michigan), (16) (April 1): 7.

Henry B. Joy, president of the Packard company, shown posing heroically in the canyon, probably at Plateau Point, during an "outing" to Indian Garden. His only quote: "Words fail to describe one's sensations, standing on the brink of the chasm, awe struck and speechless at the gigantic panorama."

- 802 1911 Campus calendar. The Michigan Alumnus (University of Michigan), 17 (June): 533-534.

See under "Past Events", p. 533: "Wednesday, [May] 3. ••• F. E. Matthes, of the U. S. Geological Survey, addressed Sigma Xi on 'How the Map of the Grand Canon was Made.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 803 1911 [American Library Association party from Chicago en route to conference in California.] Library Journal, 36(6) (June): 273.

Includes note, "The journey was happily broken by the stay of two days at the beautiful El Tovar hotel on the edge of the Grand Canyon, so that the occupants of the special train reached Pasadena on the 18th freshened for their week's work." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 804 1911 Boston. American Art News, 9(32) (June 17): 5.

Includes notice of exhibition of oils by American painters at the Vose Galleries. "Of the living painters represented . . . Elliot Daingerfield's 'Lifting of the Veil—Arizona Grand Canon' is a weird piece of pyrotechnical imagination, hard and brittle in quality, and simply impossible in color. (Try again, Daingerfield)." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 805 1911 The Missouri Valley and Southwest Special. In: American Medical Association [SECTION]. The Medical Herald (St. Joseph, Missouri), 30(8) (August): 371-373.

An account, more properly addressed to the "complaint department", of a one-day special-train stop at Grand Canyon carrying physicians from Missouri en route to the west coast, which met up with trains from Iowa and "Southwest". Continuations of the article are not applicable to this bibliography.

"A stop of twenty-four hours at Grand Canyon, and a strenuous trip down Bright Angel Trail served as a diversion for the majority of our members. The pleasure of this otherwise delightful trip was somewhat marred by a lack of accommodations at the canyon, many of those taking the 'Trail' were without food and water for eight to ten hours. We heard the Santa Fe management severely criticised for allowing so large a number of people [300 on these trains alone] to visit the canon [sic] on one day without making due preparation for their comfort on the 'Trail.' There seems to be some friction between the management of El Tovar Hotel and those in charge of the 'Trail' (which is a government reserve), one could not reach the hotel by phone from the canon, when help was needed by those who were overcome by fatigue. No burros or horses were to be had. (One Chicago physician succeeded in procuring three horses, at a cost (in advance) price [sic] of $36, and sent them down to rescue some of his friends who were overcome.) There was no one to give advice to those entering the 'Trail' as to the requirements, or lack of food, and drink. Lemonade was dispensed at the half-way house at twenty-five cents per glass, and the supply was exhausted before one-half the thirsty ones were satisfied. The government should see to it that no more people are admitted to the Trail than can be cared for properly. The hotel should provide a cafe, or at least a lunch counter, for the relief of those who return late from the 'Trail.' It was impossible for some of our members to obtain even a glass of milk after returning (being without food since morning), because the hotel dining room had closed."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Under the heading, "Yawnings From the Chasm", are some observations about the doctors' encounter with Grand Canyon: "Dr. H. B. McCall's $12 panama hat is somewhere in the archives of the Grand Canyon.

"Sitting at the entrance of the trail to the Grand Canyon where the archway inscription read, 'The Angel Trail,' we watched the breathless, pop-eyed, pale pedestrians return and drop any old place to rest. As the rested we heard these comments [selected here]:

'Never again! No money could induce me.'

"The Angel Trail" (reading the inscription) "It's the trail to h—I."

"The guide starting down with ten mules for those who could not get back said, 'of all the fools who have gone down this trail this bunch of doctors is the worst ever.'"

806 1911 The Los Angeles session. Iowa State Medical Society, Journal, 1(2) (August 15): 77-78.

"Seven heavily loaded trains moved out of Kansas City Wednesday morning reaching Grand Canon Saturday morning and after a little more than twenty-four hours for sight seeing moved on with the same precision the remainder of the journey to Los Angeles without an accident to passenger or to equipment." (ENTIRE NOTE)

807 1911 American Institute of Mining Engineers; an account of the California Meeting and excursions preliminary to starting for Japan. Mines and Minerals, 32(5) (December): 294-295.

"The Grand Cañon of the Colorado was reached early Tuesday morning [October 3], where two delightful days were spent at the magnificent Hotel El Tovar. While the cañon was more or less familiar to all, either through Moran's painting or college textbooks, no preconceived idea is comparable with that derived from actually seeing what may be called 'the eighth wonder of the world.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Benignus, Wilhelm

808 1911 Winter am Grand Cañon von Arizona. Verbands Deutscher Schriftsteller in Amerika, Jahrbuch (New York), 1911: 112-113. [In German.]
(transl. 'Winter in the Grand Canyon of Arizona')

Weit über den obern Klippen des roten Riesencañons wüten dämonisch schreckliche Winterstürme, Schnee wirbelt, Eis knirscht, Hagel knatteri.

Zwischen den Bergwällen aber, unten, am Grunde entlang, wo des Kolorado tobende Flut, trüb, rot, schlammig,
zornig Felsblöde wälzt und Klippen zernagt,
da ist es sommerlich, da ist es wohnlich, da blühen filße wilde Blumien, da fingen auf Büschen Vögel vom Sü

Und der Wasser Schwall und Fall,
Geflute, Getropf, Gerinsel, braust eine prächtige Chormusik,
und die große Felsenharfe des Cañons, von den Risenhänden des Sturms geschlagen, rauscht in mächtigen Melodien.

Bohn, John J.

809 1911 The Imperial City of Silence. In: James, George Wharton, The 1910 trip of the H. M. M. B. A. to California and the Pacific Coast. San Francisco: Bolte and Braden Co., pp. 43, 45-46, 49, 51-52.

Bohn reflects, at length, on the Grand Canyon visit by conventioners of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"The eternal forces of creation in the dim ages of the past seem to have broken their silence to appear before the world and again fall in slumber. Here was the scene of their mightiest activities; here a moment of their supreme triumph. Now all is calm.

"In beholding the Imperial City of Silence, its endless avenues of vast structures, framed, formed, fashioned in overpowering majesty of beauty and grandeur in this mighty chasm, the human mind is instantly endowed with powers new in the conception of the physical world. New and heretofore unknown and unfelt standards of conception are developed on the instant, and from these spring new emotions. Memories of the common experiences of life vanish or assume the form of merest trivialities. You are uplifted, exalted, ennobled.

"You will never know the canyon if you do not feel it; if you are not attuned to its harmony. It is not the size, not the depth and width, not its incomprehensibility; you are aided by no description, no data, no analysis, no process of study or reasoning. And when the soul is awakened by what is contemplated, you will experience that ecstasy of emotion, that exalted condition in which natural sublimity and moral sublimity unite, and then will come to you as if by magic the powers with which to comprehend the finished beauty, the majesty, the grandeur, the sublimity of what is before you. Words may fail you, but you need no words; you are not dwarfed, not depressed, not belittled; self-thought is lost and the harmony of the senses and soul brings with it a glory never before born through the contemplation of creation in any of its forms.

"One must be forgiven for describing his emotions rather than the canyon. To me the canyon is a subject too sacred, too ennobling, to admit of description. Any attempt is so belittling as to be a sacrilege. Words, giving facts and figures debase it. The canyon is a theme only for the gifted poet, and he depicts on the page only his emotions; or the painter, who must, through the imagery of the artist soul, speak of what he feels, not what he alone sees, or he is lost.

"You must feel the spirit of the canyon; then you will for the first moment of your life appreciate the genius of its creation, and thereby the creator. One moment on the edge of this chasm—a fit setting for a city that makes a man-city a toy, yet elevates man to a plane where he may realize that he is a fit inhabitant—may seem the greatest of your life, and this appears possible though you may imagine you have lived since the age of Pericles. The spirit of the canyon when felt brings with it that harmony of the soul and mind in which all is at rest—a condition where strife, antagonism, undoing, retrogression, the negative forms, may not enter in. You may have contemplated the beautiful and sublime in nature a thousand times before; you may have stood entranced before a great painting, or felt the divine spark in the work of an orator or in that of inspired music, but the silent, inaudible music that seems to come from the mysterious and unknown depths of this mighty Imperial City of Silence, unfelt to the ears, and seemingly to all the outward senses, has a meaning never felt before. Until now you have never experienced the satisfaction that comes with a state embodying perfect purity, harmony and goodness.

"The canyon is a universe of peace, calmness, tranquility. Viewed from the rim, when the sun is sinking low, and the foundations, sides, towers, turrets and temples of the great structures are glowing in colors, from the fiery red of the furnace to the varying shade of mountain, valley and plain, the song of a bird disturbs the silent harmony. It is not awful nor ominous. The mind, seemingly getting a glimpse of the infinite, flies back over ages and ages into the past here revealed, and finds nothing of warfare, of upheaval, of tumult; it has been a work of time, millions upon millions of years, progressing silently, peacefully, unceasingly. Only gravity and chemical action have wrought out its increasing beauty during all these ages, and the countless years have not brought the wreck and ruin ascribed to the 'fierce spirit of the glass and scythe!'

"The edge or rim, yonder, thirteen miles distant, opposite from where you stand, is perfectly level. The foundations, the coping, cornices, and lines of these gigantic structures, miles upon miles in length, are level, true, as carefully laid as the monument at Washington. If a little piece the size of a twenty-story business block has fallen down a thousand feet it is such a trifle that it awakens no thought of great activity, of great tumult; it is a trifling detail in the silent work and finish that has been in progression during aeons. You feel instinctively that nothing has happened during the age of man to cause a sudden change; nothing will transpire for ages to come to transform this overwhelming unity of the beautiful and grand. But, predominating above all else is the exquisite spirit of peace, and you would not have it changed for a world of common material. If you are at Hopi point, miles distant from the water, when all is calm, and your ear is trained, you may hear a faint, soft sighing

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

of the river's current, not unlike a breeze playing through the needles of a pine. But that is all; not a whisper, not a note, a sound from any source breaks the reverie. Its wondrous change in color, as painted by sun, moon, cloud, sky and atmosphere, are silent transformations. The canyon breathes the spirit of eternal repose."

Bohn pauses to write for moment of geology, and geologists, then, bursting the silence, wakens to material surroundings.

"It is noon time. The train has been groaning up the grades and curves to the El Tovar. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Brant, host and hostess, are there to meet any special guests, and all are welcomed to—not a hotel, but what at a glance seems a great art studio, with possibly a hotel plant attached somewhere in the rear. You are invited, first of all, to step fifty feet to the edge of the canyon and take a glance over the rim, even before venturing to your room. I am not recording any first impression; the final one is of more value and far more correct. You see the great structural masses, marvelous in size and color, and which you later learn are thousands of feet in height, but of which, at the time, you have no conception. You detect distant pinnacles and towers, varying in form, but all designed after the one architect, and far down in the bottom is a slender, tiny thread, just discernible. It is the trail or road. Beyond is a thin streak of green, of grass—it consists of willow trees along a little stream. You make the same attempt to distinguish objects that you did in boyhood when studying the alleged mountains on the moon. The person who glances into the canyon and then leaves it, believing he has seen the canyon, is hopelessly, irretrievably deceived.

In a blink, Bohn pops into the canyon; perhaps not so much in depth as in summary reflection, and seemingly he leaves some of his inner self in the inner canyon, the self of which he shared with great feeling a short while ago, and then suggests the ways in which, perhaps, to find it again.

"The seeming danger of the forenoon trip into the canyon kept the eyes of the inexperienced on the mule and the trail, with the knees hugging the saddle. Once at the bottom, strength, courage and daring grew rapidly, and on the homeward trip there was much turning in the saddles, with backward, side and front views taken, and the gigantic structures, the smaller canyons, the enormous towers, pinnacles, chasms, precipices, and all the features that form the great and silent city are seen and studied to better advantage. It seems less difficult, less dangerous to ride up the trail than down. And to see the riders far ahead and far above you, the ladies in costumes, was a beautiful, a charming sight, if you could for a moment forget the surroundings. All were happy; there was singing, laughing, hilarity all the way. Half-past five, and your dear, old, patient mule has safely landed you at the door of the El Tovar. How gladly would I have given Mary a tip of five dollars, could she have appreciated it!

"It has been a day of supreme, of over-powering inspiration. The wonder of it all! You would not exchange it for a hundred other days, though they comprehended a tour of the world with the Grand Canyon left out! Thrilling, seemingly extremely dangerous, few ever faint or fall, or are injured, and the one regretting this daring venture is yet to be found. In our party here was a lady who had never been on a horse before! Young school teachers who had never climbed a real mountain were Napoleons on this forced march into the depths of the canyon. It requires far less courage, but more endurance, to make the journey on foot. The little hotel at the first stop on Bright Angel Trail will keep you all night, and the timid and least assured should walk and remain down all night, though some return even on foot the same day.

"Before leaving, see the canyon from the rim alone, by yourself. Escape from even your best friend. As the sun is setting, when all is perfect calm, watch the changing colors passing over this Imperial City of Silence; study the outlines, the proportions; the wondrous symmetry of the gigantic structures, letting the mind expand to the plane where it seems to comprehend this unity of the beautiful and sublime. This you can do only after you have made the tour to the bottom and the mind has subjectively encompassed what it has unconsciously contemplated.

"This venture into the Grand Canyon brought us all close together, and we looked upon each other with much of the respect and even admiration that ordinarily comes only with years of acquaintanceship."

He closes by quoting two stanzas from John Greenleaf Whittier's "Sunset on the Bearcamp", written in 1876, changing Whittier's "valley" to read "canyon"—his credit to the poet silent.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Touched by a light that hath no name.
A glory never sung,
Aloft on sky and mountain wall
God's great pictures hung.

* * * * *

"The canyon holds its breath; no leaf
Of all its pines is twirled;
The silence of eternity
Seems falling on the world."

Brown, Glenn

- 810 1911 The Forty-fourth Annual Convention, A. I. A. American Institute of Architects, Quarterly Bulletin, 12(1) (April): 5-8.

See Brown's reflections, "The Grand Canyon", pp. 7-8. The usual recitations, giving an otherwise unoriginal paragraph each to vastness, silence, mystery, and beauty; summed by memories.

- 811 1911 Glenn Brown on the Grand Canyon. The Architect and Engineer of California, Pacific Coast States, 26(1) (August): 77.

From American Institute of Architects Quarterly Bulletin (see above), with editor's introductory paragraph.

- 812 1911 The Grand Canyon. In: Brown, Glenn (ed.), Proceedings of the Forty-fourth Annual Convention of the American Institute of Architects : held in the Fairmount Hotel, San Francisco, January 17 to 21, Palo Alto, Monterey, Santa Barbara, January 21 to 23, Los Angeles, Cal., January 23 to 25, 1911. [No place]: Board of Directors, American Institute of Architects, p. 156.

This item is separately indexed (p. 159) as "Grand Canyon, an impression". Repeats the Brown items cited above.

Bunnell, Lafayette Houghton

- 813 1911 Discovery of the Yosemite and the Indian war of 1851 that led to that event. Los Angeles: G. W. Gerlicher, 4th ed. ("reprinted from third edition, with new map and illustrations"), 355 pp.

See p. 324: "The scenery of the Yellowstone and of the Colorado Cañon have characteristic wonders that are sui generis [Latin, 'of its own kind']; but those localities are not desirable for continuous occupation." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Burroughs, John

- 814 1911 The Grand Cañon of the Colorado. Century Illustrated Magazine, 81(3) (January): 425-438.

"A friend of mine who took a lively interest in my Western trip wrote me that he wished he could have been present with his kodak when we first looked upon the Grand Cañon. Did he think he could have gotten a picture of our souls? His camera would have shown him only our silent, motionless forms as we stood transfixed by that first view of the stupendous spectacle. Words do not come readily to one's lips, or gestures to one's body, in the presence of such a scene. One of my companions said that the first thing that came into her mind was the old text, 'Be still, and know that I am God.' To be still on such an occasion is the easiest thing in the world, and to feel the surge of solemn and reverential emotions is equally easy—is, indeed, almost inevitable. The immensity of the scene, its tranquillity, its order, its strange, new beauty, and the monumental character of its many forms—all these tend to beget in the beholder an attitude of silent wonder and solemn admiration. I wished at the moment that we might have been alone with the glorious spectacle, or that we might have hit upon an hour when the public had gone to dinner. The smoking and joking tourists sauntering along in apparent indifference, or sitting with their backs to the great geologic drama, annoyed me."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

815 1911 The Grand Canon of the Colorado. The Medical Herald (St. Joseph, Missouri), 30(1) (January): 58.
Brief excerpt from Burroughs (1911, Century Illustrated Magazine).

816 1911 The Grand Cañon of the Colorado. In: Fulton, Edward, English prose composition : with illustrative examples. New York: Henry Holt and Co., pp. 227-231.
From Burroughs (1911, Century Illustrated Magazine).

Calvin, Thomas

817 1911 German literature. In: Lectures on literature. New York: Columbia University Press, pp. 291-310.
(Volume: Columbia University Lectures series.)

Lecture delivered during the academic year 1909-1910.

"Which is the most soul-stirring sight, the Jungfrau from Mürren, the Bay of Naples, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, or the view from Acro-Corinth? As a patriotic American I could cheerfully vote for the Grand Canyon, but the truth is, I prefer Acro-Corinth." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Carnegie, Andrew

818 1911 The people who lived in darkness have seen a great light. In: Noble, Ettore A. (ed.), Proceedings : the Third American Peace Congress : held in Baltimore, Maryland, May 3 to 6, 1911. Baltimore, Maryland: Waverly Press, pp. 18-21.

Includes note, "I was beholding the greatest natural wonder in the world, the Grand Canyon, last spring, when the New York papers arrived and I read the President's divine message, and was exalted."

President William Howard Taft's message pertained to a "league of peace". See also Carnegie (1912).

Cassell, Mary E.

819 1911 Out to the golden West. Locomotive Engineers Journal, 45(8) (August): 684-687.

"On the return trip east a stop was made at the Grand Canyon. As it was my first time to gaze into its awe-inspiring depths I was overcome with the grandeur of it all, and will not attempt to describe the wondrous beauty of the Canyon."

Includes notes on Hopi dances and Navajo weavers at Hopi House.

Chenery, E. A.

820 1911 [Recap of lecture by Nat M. Brigham of Wheaton, Illinois, on Grand Canyon.] St. Louis Railway Club, Official Proceedings (St. Louis, Missouri), 15(10) (February 10): 325.

Included in the transcript of meeting proceedings; remarks by the President, in the first person but otherwise not signed.

Crawford, Jack [Crawford, John Wallace]

821 1911 John Wallace Crawford. The poet scout. "Whar the Hand of God is Seen, and Other Poems." In: New Publications [SECTION]. The Caledonian (New York), 11(3) (June): 139-140.

Notice of publication of Crawford (1910). No commentary, but three poems are reprinted, including "God's Ante-Room. (The Grand Canyon of Arizona.)" (p. 140).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Davis, W. L.; Koontz, Margaret A.; AND Prout, Thomas

822 1911 Topeka. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Employes' Magazine, 5(9) (August): 108, 110.

"Dr. R. S. McGee, eye and ear specialist for the company, in his wanderings to and fro upon the face of the earth fell on the self same day into the lure of the Grand Cañon and Colonel Hance [Captain John Hance], whose reputation for yarn spinning is proverbial. Dazed by the big picture show, the Doctor fell an easy victim and took some tall lessons in improvising, so that by the time he reached the 'Big Sea Water' he was assuring your correspondent that the schools of mackerel, which hastened to meet him, were wearing bifocal lenses and were winking at him, as they quarreled for places of honor on his lines." (ENTIRE ITEM)

DeLand, Charles Edmund

823 1911 Thoughts afield : comprising papers, addresses, contributions, communications, etc. upon historical, political, legal, commercial and miscellaneous subjects. Pierre, South Dakota: Hipple Printing Co., 419 pp.

See in "Part IV. Papers, Addresses and Reviews Upon Miscellaneous Topics": "The Three Canons", pp. [386]-387, "From notes by the author made at Williams, Ariz., after visiting the Grand Canon of the Colorado River, sixty-three miles north." Reflection principally on Grand Canyon, with remarks on Yellowstone and Yosemite.

"In the Grand Canon of Arizona the Colorado with her faraway murmur coming from the depth of ages is to the beholder the head of a universe. One is not struck with wonder. Distances are so mighty that the dumbness of comprehension will not register feelings of awe. One knows that here is the acme of all time in the travail of a river through barriers to the sea. Wonderful tinting of air-spaces contrasts with somber or brighter handiwork of Nature in wall-painting. It is all a mystery—it is all a simple tale of nature—both impressions are present and without friction or confusion. One feels that the word 'grand' is but a respectful libel."

Ford, Tirey L.

824 1911 Impressions of the Grand Canyon. Santa Fe Employes' Magazine, 5(10) (September): 87.

"Excerpts from a talk on the Grand Cañon, made by Mr. Ford at a dinner given by the Association of Traffic Managers of San Francisco. The speaker was introduced by F. J. Harrington, who had shortly before conducted to the Grand Cañon an excursion party in which were Mr. Ford and family."

"When we reached the Grand Canyon and I looked out upon its scenic grandeur, I couldn't help wondering why it had been placed in such a remote locality and amid such uninviting surroundings.

"I knew that when nature wanted to display a mighty mountain chasm she carved out Yosemite and set it down amid the giant peaks of California.

"I knew that when she wanted to exhibit her most beautiful sheet of water she brought it to California and gave it an artistic setting in the high Sierras at the base of Mount Tallac.

"I knew that when she wanted to charm mankind with the beauties of her redwood forests, she planted them in California and denied them to all other portions of the earth.

"I knew, indeed, that California had been the chosen spot of earth for the display of nature's choicest and rarest gifts.

"I was puzzled, therefore, to understand why this, the greatest of all nature's wonders, should have been set down amid the uncongenial surroundings of northern Arizona.

"Finally, like an inspiration, the cause became apparent. It was put there in order that Harrington might conduct excursions to it over the Santa Fe.

"Having settled this weighty problem and after a good night's rest at the magnificent El Tovar, I made a sincere and serious effort to grasp the grandeur and meaning of this Titan of chasms.

"I drove to Yavapai Point and gazed out over a mighty space from whose seemingly limitless depths rose colossal designs of architectural beauty as bewildering as they were fascinating.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"I watched the sun set at Hopi Point and stood as in a dream while the enchanted colors illumined the domes and temples of nature's silent sanctuary.

"I rode down Bright Angel Trail into the lowest depths of this mighty gorge and saw the Colorado cutting its way through the oldest rock formation of the earth.

"Finally from El Tovar I took a long last look from the canyon's rim with feelings that can never be translated into words.

"I am asked to give you my impressions of the Grand Canyon. You might as well ask me to give you my impressions of space, or of eternity, or of creation, or of anything that is too vast in its conception for the limits of the human mind. The painter's brush fails him when he attempts to transfer its beauties to canvass; the poet's imagination falls far short of sounding its hidden meaning; and the writer's pen moves haltingly when he essays to describe its infinite and various charms.

"The geologist alone can adequately tell the story of the Grand Canyon, and the story of the Grand Canyon is the geological history of the world. • • •

"No language written by man can convey to the human mind any adequate conception of this greatest of natural wonders. To understand it you must read it in the original as written by the hand of Almighty God in the multifarious forms that mark the beauty and grandeur of the world's greatest chasm."

H., J. F.

825

1911 At the Grand Cañon. Public Libraries, 16(6) (June): 260.

Dated May, 1911.

Mystical skyland,
Beauteous highland,
Sweet lullaby land,
    To sorrow and care;
Under thy shadows,
Over thy meadows,
Where never a red rose
    Illumines the air;
Oh, let us wander
And languidly squander
The hours, and ponder
    Our dreams and despair.

Hall, Sharlot M.

826

1911 Diary of a journey through northern Arizona and the "Arizona Strip". Arizona (Phoenix), 2(3) (December): 4-5; continued 1912, 2(4) (January): 7-9, 15; 2(6) (April): 6-7; 2(7) (May): 14; 2(8) (June): 9-10; 2(9) (July): 9, 13-14; 2(11) (September): 6-7, 14-15; continued 1913, 3(4) (February): 7-8, 13; 3(5) (March): 9, 13; 3(6) (April): 9, 13, 15. [Also reprinted as one volume (Northland Press, Flagstaff, 1975).]

Hall's protracted trip does spend some time on the North Rim.

"August 21. We are only a few hundred yards from the great northern rim of the cañon but the forest is so dense that our camp seems in a park on a mountain top. All the water here is in little cañons that cut into the rim in ragged notches.

"Our horses scramble down over a rough trail to a pool of clear water cold as the snow it had melted from and I went on above by a winding rope of path till the whole southern rim seemed to float out of the distance and the purplish blue vapor that filled the lower gorge.

"We could see the trail up from the river to El Tovar and the buildings there and at Bright Angel Camp fourteen miles across on an air line but nearly five hundred miles away by the wagon road which we had been obliged to follow. The smoke from a train on the Grand Cañon railroad drifted out and seemed strange enough—'so near and yet so far.' • • •

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"August 22. • • • From Greenland Point the southern rim takes on a larger grandeur than one could have imagined, though it is still some two thousand feet lower than the white spur on which we stood when the ride was done. The San Francisco Peaks and the group of peaks to the west and east of them stood up on their plateau as if raised on some vast stage, the highest peaks streaked with snow and cut with blue black lines of cañons that looked like ledges of black rock. We could see all the mountains west to Seligman Peak and perhaps some of the lower chains of hills were even farther west, and seen from the northern plateau they seemed more stern and rugged in outline than from any point in the region south of them.

"We had to leave our horses tied to trees back from the rim and walk out to the end of the point, and all along the ground was strewn with fossilized shells and crinoids, and the cliffs were of grayish white limestone overgrown with most beautiful lichens, black, orange, and sage green.

"August 23. We rode today to Bright Angel Point where a very fair trail goes down to the river where Messrs. Rust and Wooley have a cable and 'skip' by which persons and animals are sometimes taken across the river. So far the trip has not attracted a great number of people but the cable is being improved each year and it is only a matter of time when many visitors to the hotels on the southern rim will cross and spend a few days on the northern plateau and return to leave the cañon by the present railroad.

"The roar of Bright Angel Creek comes to the top of the point and there are several falls along the trail down which the water plunges and boils in foamy beauty. From the bottom the vast cliffs rise sheer for a thousand or two feet in one wall and the coloring all along is almost more beautiful than from the better-known southern rim.

"August 24. Today we took a pack outfit of two horses with food for several days and started for 'Skidoo Point,' which in spite of its name is the most beautiful point along this part of the cañon. The forest too was tall and unbroken except for little natural glades and shallow cañons with grassy bottoms like the ravines of the plains country. In these the bracken fern grew in island-like clumps and asters from palest blue to purple were in full blossom, with many other flowers. The beauty of the whole way was a constant delight.

"As we neared the rim the Painted Desert came into view to the east and lying some four or five thousand feet lower than this point which is said to be nine thousand feet above the sea. I almost forgot the vast and gorgeously colored chasm at our feet, the distant view was so strange and bewildering and yet so beautiful.

"Echo Cliffs along which we had journeyed from Tuba City to Lee's Ferry and which had towered above us in very good-sized mountains were now in the northern wall of the desert and showed to be the ragged, broken edge of a 'fault' where the earth had cracked and sunk and sagged away till it looked like along piece of broken pie crust,—which may not be a very elegant description but is exactly what it is like, though burned and browned to the richest reds and purples veiled over with a haze even more wonderful than that which hangs always over the cañon.

"Rolling westward from the cliffs, the desert dips into rounded hills and shadowed cañons like a bird's-eye view of some gigantic, frozen sea, but a sea of deeper reds and blues and streaked with brighter lines than anything but wet colors on an artist's canvas could show.

"No words can tell how weird and unearthly it looks, much as the moon may be, for to the southern edge the round crater cone of Black Butte stands out against the brighter color so distinct that the purple mirage around it seems almost volcanic smoke.

"Cutting the gorgeous desert clear across, the cañon of the Little Colorado seems another great break in the earth, ready to fall away perhaps and leave another 'fault-line' of peaks and another Painted Desert of rich-colored fragments. But however it seems to waver in the warm, bright haze it never becomes anything but a bottomless pit with jagged walls and dark side-cañons where at a point or two one may see the river in a silver streak.

"By moonlight it was still more wonderful and I could scarcely leave the rim to go to bed, and when I did the forest under the moon was so fine I wanted to stay up to watch it."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

James, George Wharton

- 827 1911 A little journey to strange places and peoples in our southwestern land (New Mexico and Arizona) : for home and school intermediate and upper grades. Chicago: A. Flanagan Co., 269 pp. (Library of Travel.) [Cover title: Little Journey to Strange Places and Peoples.]

Grand Canyon, see pp. 238-259.

- 828 1911 The 1910 trip of the H. M. M. B. A. to California and the Pacific Coast. San Francisco: Bolte and Braden Co., 377 pp.
- Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit Association. (This is distinct from the H.M.M.B.A. trip volume by James, 1896.) Grand Canyon, see pp. 39, 42-52, 55.

Jusserand, Jules J.

- 829 1911 Jules J. Jusserand (Ambassador of France) at the dinner in his honor, December 2, 1910. In: Elderkin, John, Lord, Chester S., and Price, Charles W. (arrangers), Speeches at the Lotos Club. New York: Printed for the Lotos Club, pp. 468-473. (Volume cover title: After dinner speeches at the Lotos Club.)

See p. 471, in speaking of wonders of the West: "There is nothing to be compared with the Grand Cañon of Arizona, which in parts has a depth of which seems to lead to the nether regions, and wonders of coloring that remind you of the other extreme." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Kolb Bros. [Kolb Brothers]

- 830 1911 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Elizabeth, New Jersey: Campbell Art Co., 19 hand-colored photos.

Leigh, W. R.

- 831 1911 Impressions of an artist while camping in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, Arizona. Out West, New Series, 2(1) (June): 15-27.

"Ten miles west—down the river—from where the Grand Canyon is reached by the railway, is a rock-cape extending three miles or more out into the great chasm; it is called Yuma Point in honor of the Indians of that name. A thousand feet approximately beneath this, a terrace-like formation continues quarter of a mile further out, and this has been named Columbus Point. Below this, other terraces extend on out until the last one breaks off within a few paces of the granite wall, the last great plunge, which ends at the water's edge. Upon Columbus Point I have pitched my tent, and propose spending a month all alone, painting."

Divided into inspirational sections: "Morning", "Forenoon", "Noon", "Afternoon", "Evening", "Night", "Sunrise". Illustrated by six photographs, none of which pertain to the artist's vantage point; and while there are no reproductions of any of the artist's works, each of the sections is a richly colored word painting.

Lloyd, J. William

- 832 1911 Songs of the desert. [No place]: The Berryhill Co. [privately printed], 23 pp.

Volume reprints Lloyd (1905). See "The Grand Canyon of Arizona", pp. 22-23, which reprints Lloyd (1904).

Lynch, Fred

- 833 1911 An automobile trip to the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Out West, 34 (October): 243-245.

While the description of routine trips from Flagstaff to the Grand Canyon are generally passed over in this bibliography, in favor of the tourists' impressions and experiences at the canyon, Lynch's entire article is reproduced here for its unusual set of hitches going to and coming from Grandview and, in hindsight, a few

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

laughs with Lynch—and with little mention of the canyon! Problems up and back—Lynch swears off automobiles—“But we saw the Grand Canyon”.

“All summer there has been an automobile livery carrying sight-seers, principally tourists, from Flagstaffs [sic] to the Grand Canyon of Arizona, a distance of seventy-three miles, and all summer I had been waiting a chance to make this overland trip. Finally the opportunity came. I took two days off for rest and recreation, but instead sandwiched in more real manual labor than I have undertaken since leaving the Indiana farm. For the trip was one of many unexpected adventures.

“The livery car, driven by Mr. McLucas, carried a precious load of four female school teachers from the Normal. Dick Carman and myself trailed in a two-seated thirty horse power Firestone car. We left town at 6:30 A. M., ran to the ‘Cedars,’ which is only a clump of cedar shrubbery where a supply of gasoline is kept for automobilists, thirty-one miles from Flagstaff. Here a fire was quickly built and breakfast cooked. The journey across the plains was then resumed. Everything went bully until we came to the Moqui water hole, where water for range cattle is stored during the dry season, fifty-five miles out. This was the thirteenth trip Mac had made to the Canyon during the summer, and it was certainly a Jonah. The water hole had been dry all summer, but the rainy season had struck that country before, and there was considerable water in the hole. Mac did not suppose that the water was deep and thought the bottom must be solid, so started his car across. When about two-thirds through, one rear wheel fell into a deep rut, and the old horse came to an abrupt halt. The stop fortunately was near enough shore that the ladies landed without wading. The car’s own engine was not powerful enough to move her. After sizing up the situation from all points, we tried hitching on both front and rear with the small car, but could not budge the obstinate thing. After exhausting every trick known to an automobile expert, Mac retreated about half a mile to a deserted log shack, not wishing to take chances with the old maid school teachers, removed his suit and substituted an old tar-smearred one, carried for emergencies, came plodding back the rocky road in Nature’s stockings and waded out in three feet of water. He slowly, but surely jacked the car up out of the mud, built a rock foundation under the real wheels, and after four hours strenuous labor, the three of us got the car out of the sink hole. Then we loaded in the women, who all this time had patiently watched our maneuvering, singing such inspiring ditties as ‘Throw Out the Life Line,’ etc., and bid a fond farewell to the Moqui water-hole. Fourteen miles beyond, while our cars were running beautifully through the wonderful Coconino forest, crack, went rear right-hand axle of Mac’s car, piling the women up in a heap by the road side. More gloom. It was three miles to Pete Berry’s hotel, Grand Canyon, and Mac took the females into the resort in two instalments, while Carman and I walked. A joy ride we were having, indeed. Had all gone well, we should have arrived at Berry’s at noon, but with all our grief we made it at six. However, we caught a sunset glimpse of the Canyon, when its [sic] most beautiful. The next morning we were up at six repairing the broken axle and bringing the large car to the Canyon settlement, made up chiefly of Berry’s huge log hotel, which is attractively ornamented on the interior in true Western style with Navajo Indian rugs and Moqui Indian baskets and plaques, with a fire place in one end of the building big enough to take in a log. A most cheerful corner to while away a chilly evening.

“After dinner we drove from the hotel to Grand View point, and took a parting glance at the sight which can never fade from memory. Every one has read graphic descriptions of this greatest of Nature’s scenic phenomena, but no pen or brush can do it full justice. It is eighteen miles from rim to rim, in many places. A rushing torent —the Colorado River—is very distinctly seen on the opposite side of the Canyon from Grand View Point, 12 miles distant and nearly one mile below. Scores of stupendous domes and gigantic pillars—beautiful architectural objects planned by the Great Architect—are everywhere, showing many colors of rock formation marvelous work of Nature’s paint brush. The mysterious awed silence overhanging the whole scene is almost overwhelming. One may sit for hours on the rim, looking down, and there always appears something new and strange from the mossy depths. Building[s] surrounding an abandoned copper mine at the bottom of the Canyon appear to be mere blocks of wood. Stray cattle imprisoned in the huge crevices of the Canyon seem but mere creeping things.

“At two o’clock we started back over the seventy-three miles of the distance without seeing a single human habitation, and only by sheer accident a wandering cow-puncher or forest ranger, loyal guardians of the cattle king’s herds and Uncle Sam’s domain. We were congratulating ourselves that the return journey was going to be without mishap, when near the famous water hole, one of Mac’s tires blew out going up a long steep hill. The women unloaded and hiked to the summit. We bound up the wounded tire with a rope, reached the top, and

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

once more sped the school mams, singing on their way. While filling the canteen with water for the car engine at a wash, Mac, the rascal, ran out of sight around a hill, and was going like the wind for Flagstaff. In our extreme haste to overtake him, we ran off on a branch trail. Neither of us had been over the road before, except going out, and all roads look like brothers on that great Mesa of sage brush and sand. The vastness of this great outdoors cannot be conveyed to one who has not been over it. We discovered our mistake after running several miles, and only then when our car became stalled in a wash. We worked desperately to release her, for we knew Mac was fast reeling off the miles ahead, and we also realized we were lost on the desert fifty miles from civilization. I grabbed the field glasses, ran to a near-by hill-top trying to spy the cuss with the women, but not a speck of anything resembling an automobile was in sight—nothing but a stray steer here and there toward the horizon—and the shadows of night beginning to creep over the knolls—grim sentinels of the desert. Then I ran back over the road we came and by close scrutiny located the road Mac had taken by the tell-tale mark of the rope-wound tire in the dirt. I gave Carman the high sign of hope; back he came. I boarded the car on the fly and we hit the trail after Mac like Burman on the Indianapolis [sic] speedway. Mac had waited at the Cedars, meantime supplying his machine with gasoline for the run home. Once more the women had shown remarkable patience, while waiting for us to come up to them, especially considering the fact that they were paying $10 each for this automobile trip, and still they sang. Ten miles beyond the Cedars, the small car went dead. Gobs of gloom. Regardless of all we had said to Mac at the Cedars about again running away from a couple of novices, our last grief found us alone once more without a mechanic, and a cloud of dust about two miles ahead was convincing—he was waiting for no man—like the tide. We coaxed the dawn [sic] contraption for thirty minutes, when all of a sudden she decided to move on. We made a good sprint from this point until within twelve miles of town, when the blamed contrivance threw up the sponge and took the final count. Bunches of gloom. We tried the coaxing gag again, vainly trying to fan the critter back to life and action, but, alas! she seemed beyond human succor. We pictured Mac and the women snugly in their beds, and the thought matched up with our predicament—stranded in the pine forest, without food or liquid refreshment, was not comforting. We worked in shifts cussing, then in chorus, and the pines moaned with us. Exhausting our vocabulary, we held a sane mass meeting, it being unanimously agreed to hike to flagstaff [sic]. Therefore, leaving our baby dead in the road, at ten P. M. we set out through the deep woods, with just sufficient illumination from the friendly moon filtering down through the pine boughs to show us dimly the road as it wound among the trees. Such had been our tribulations for two days, we were truly grateful that rain did not drench us to the hide as we trudged doggedly along the lonely pike. Neither had tasted water since we left the Canyon and a swig from a horse trough [sic] along the road revived us greatly. At 12:30 A. M. we staggered in One Lung's cafe, Flagstaff, in a hushed condition. I am now familiarly known as the 'walking kid,' and I haven't struck the boss for a day off since.

"Carman and I often speak humorously of the incidents of that trip, which were not jokes at the time. But we saw the Grand Canyon of the Arizona [sic]. Probably automobiles are the proper caper for some people, but next time, believe me, it'll be the good old horses and wagon for mine."

R., J. W.

- 834 1911 The San Francisco meeting of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering, 9(11) (November): 564-565.

Item signed "J.W.R.", who possibly is J. W. Richards, President of Electrochemical Publishing Co., publisher of this journal. Includes a visit to Grand Canyon en route to the meeting.

"Starting from Chicago by special train on Sept. 30, the Eastern members, gathering in numbers as they sped westward, paid their first respects to Western scenery by halting two days at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The first day was perfectly clear, and the marvelous depths and details of the canyon stood out clear-cut and distinct; the second day clouds and mists, with here and there a rift and patch of sunshine, showed the great gorge in its most playful mood, and, to many, in its most artistic setting." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Raymond, Rossiter Worthington

- 835 1911 Excursions and entertainments. In: Proceedings of the One Hundred and First Meeting, San Francisco, October, 1911. (Transactions of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.) American Institute of Mining Engineers, Bulletin, (59) (November): xii-xxxviii.

See "The Grand Cañon", pp. xiii-xiv.

"On Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 4.30 a.m., our train was parked at the Grand Cañon railway-station, at the end of the branch of the Santa Fe which leaves the main line at Williams, Ariz., and terminates within a few yards of the hotel 'El Tovar,' situated on the very brink of the Grand Cañon itself. Some of us arose early enough to witness that morning the splendid miracle of sunrise; others saw it the next morning; all saw the wondrous progressive panorama of the sunset; a large number made the picturesque trip down to the Colorado river (6,500 ft. below the hotel) and back; and not a few were content simply to sit all day upon the edge of the great chasm of glory, and watch the changing, though unchanged, scene, as it passed through innumerable phases of form and color, under the magic touch of sun and shadow and passing cloud. We were favored with the three types of weather needed to bring out all the splendors of the Cañon. On the first day, the sky was cloudless; on the second, it exhibited alternations of sunshine, cloud, and even storm.

"Let no one expect here a description of the Grand Cañon. Clarence Dutton, in his Tertiary History of the Grand Cañon (Monograph II., U. S. Geological Survey), besides giving a masterly discussion of the processes which formed it, devoted one chapter to its scenic glory. Whoever reads that chapter will not attempt a similar task. There is nothing left for him in the dictionary! Yet Dutton's famous description of a Grand Cañon sunset is not overdone or meretricious in its rhetoric. On the contrary, it is one of the best pieces of deliberate old-fashioned fine writing that can be found in English literature; for its epithets and adjectives are not merely vague and sonorous; they are accurate and fitting. Nevertheless, Dutton failed to translate the wonder into words. The thing simply could not be done. As Charles F. Lummis (after likewise trying and failing) remarks:

"The Grand Cañon is just the Grand Cañon, and that is all you can say. I have never seen any one who was prepared for it. I have never seen any one who could grasp it in a week's hard exploration, or any one, except some rare Philistine, who could even think he had grasped it. I have seen people rave over it; better people struck dumb with it; even strong men who cried over it; but I have never yet seen the man or woman that expected it!" (ENTIRE NOTE)

While Raymond cited and directed readers to Dutton, he failed to cite Lummis's quotation; it is from Lummis (1902), with minor variance.

Rice, A. F.; Hopping, Clyde; Maier, Walter A.; AND Blomquist, Eric W.

- 836 1911 Richmond. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Employes' Magazine, 5(8) (July): 112.

The Santa Fe Railway tops the canyon in this one (of course).

"The members of the transportation fraternity who made the trip to the Grand Cañon as the guests of the Santa Fe in May still are talking of their wonderful experiences. It would be hard to say which feature of the trip comes in for the greatest amount of praise—the fast running, the excellency of the Harvey cuisine or the ever amazing, spellbinding wonders of the cañon itself. It seems that this trip is destined to go down into the annals of the California Association of Traffic Agents in red letters, and courtesy they received at the hands of the Santa Fe will not soon be forgotten." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Smith, E. Quincy

- 837 1911 Travels at home and abroad. Volume II : The second trip to Jamaica, the California trip, the bond sale trip. New York and Washington: Neale Publishing Co., 169 pp.

The "California Trip" was with the American Bankers Association, in 1903. Grand Canyon, see pp. 91-95.

"We reached Williams, the junction with the road to the Grand Canyon, at 4:30 in the afternoon (Thursday). The most prominent feature of the surrounding country is 'Bill Williams Mountain,' with its seven rounded and wooded peaks, on the loftiest of which, over ten thousand feet high, is the grave of the famous scout of that name. The railroad passes out of the flat, sandy desert to the region of cedars and junipers, and with three engines we again climbed seventy-five hundred feet, the altitude of the Grand Canyon. A little way out from Williams we passed Red Lake, a volcanic sink-hole, with little water in it, and about halfway to the canyon Red Butte becomes a prominent land mark. This is called by the Indians the 'Mountain of the Clenched Fist,' and the reflection of the bright Arizona sunlight upon its red sandstone explains at once why Red Butte is so much a feature of this section of the painted desert. We reached the Grand Canyon at 8:30, and the entire train was at once emptied of passengers hurrying to the Bright Angel Hotel, for their first view of the glories of the Grand Canyon by moon light.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"The Bright Angel is at the head of the Bright Angel Trail, one of the oldest of the first known entrances to the canyon. The hotel is on the very rim of the canyon. It is a rather small, story and a half building, with perhaps twelve or fifteen rooms, but when necessary its accommodations are increased by a number of tents, including a permanent camp on the plateau of the canyon thirty-two hundred feet below its rim, but still over four thousand feet above sea level. At nine o'clock we gathered in the Indian Museum of the hotel and there several presentations were made: a silver decanter to Mr. Roach, the manager of the train; a silver loving cup to Mr. Warren its promoter; and a gold pencil to a Mr. Smith, the steward and head of the commissary department. Appropriate speeches of presentation were delivered and felicitous replies made by the recipients.

At 5:20 Wednesday morning we all arose to see the sun rise over the canyon, but the sunrise for some reason was very much delayed and did not arrive until seven o'clock. In the meantime we shivered and shook in the darkness in a bitter cold wind. At last the sunrise came, the purple hues lightened, and one by one the distant peaks of the canyon came into view, until the whole grand proportions of this noblest gorge in all the world were visible. It is impossible to attempt any description of the canyon. It has never been properly described and never will be. Its extent is so vast, its depths are so great, its coloring is so varied and ever changing, its grandeur is so awe-inspiring, that words convey no idea of it, and a volume would but elaborate a few individual impressions.

At eight o'clock the ladies went for a three hours' ride upon the canyon's rim, while a party of nineteen of us, with three guides, went for a trip down into the canyon over the Bright Angel Trail. I rode an ancient and honorable mule named Moses, a mule with undoubtedly good intentions, but a badly moth-eaten back and a generally saddened expression. I presume in his early days he was a handsome mule, but his youthful trouble in the bulrushes and the vicissitudes of a long and checkered career had definitely removed him from the beauty class. Upon reaching the plateau we ate our luncheon upon the rocks overhanging the river thirteen hundred feet below. The gorge has almost perpendicular sides cut through black granite, and the river, which appeared from where we were to be a little brook over which one could easily jump, was in reality twenty five feet deep and a quarter of a mile wide. A rapid just below, which seemed to be but a ripple in the stream, we were told was a fall thirty-five feet in height. Our trip occupied seven hours, more horseback riding than most of us had done before in seven years, but it was an unmixed pleasure which we shall never forget." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Stevens, Nina Spalding

- 838 NO DATE Souvenir of a journey to the Grand Canyon of Arizona, the artist's paradise : a story of a pilgrimage from New York City made by five artists and their friends, November, Nineteen Hundred and Ten. Written by Mrs. Nina Spalding Stevens. Chicago: Print of the Fine Arts Journal Press, paginated 105-117.

Apparently an offprint of Stevens (1911, below), with an addition(?).

- 839 1911 A pilgrimage to the artist's paradise. Fine Arts Journal, 34(2) (February): 105-113.

In November 1910, five famous American artists travel to the Grand Canyon on a private Santa Fe Railway car—Thomas Moran, Elliott Daingerfield, Frederick Ballard Williams, DeWitt Parshall, and Edward Potthast—"men of radically different schools of painting, who would each translate the great scenes before them by the white light of their own temperaments." Accompanying them were the wives of Daingerfield and Parshall, Moran's daughter,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ruth, and a number of guests. Includes several interesting photographs of the artists at and in the canyon; Moran, Daingerfield, and Williams at the canyon; a group photo at John Hance's cabin.

En route, "The days flew by like moments, each one filled with interest. Many of the party never had been farther west than Chicago and every new phase of the country was eagerly watched. There was much discussion, as was inevitable, of paint, technique, quality, juries and art museums. One subject started by Mr. [Gustave H.] Buek as a jest became a prolific source of argument.

"Well, what is Art?" he asked one morning when there seemed to be no chance of agreement. This became a by-word and never failed to bring its laugh. • • •

"The party arrived at El Tovar hotel a few moments before sunset. They were rapidly driven to Hopi Point, three miles beyond, from which is one of the most beautiful views of the Canyon. There was a most unusual sunset. The road lay through the forest; between the deep green of the pines, the sky along the horizon [sic] was as red as a pigeon-blood ruby; it was as though the sun shone through a stained glass window.

"The artists were led to the rim with their eyes closed, that the vision might burst upon them for the first time in its entirety. All was still with the silence of infinity. This was a tremendous moment, one of the most impressive that life could hold. It was as though the earth had opened before them and heaven was spread at their feet. So unreal, so unearthly did it seem that one feared it might burst like an iridescent bubble and vanish before one's gaze. This fear was never quite lost even in the days that followed, and awaking at night one ran to the window for the assurance of its reality. Slowly the color faded from the sky and the distant towers and domes changed from pink to blue, leaving the pinnacles alone crested with light as though illumined from within. Great purple shadows gathered about their foundations. The awful depth became mysterious and terrifying and no sound was heard save the rushing of the wind through the pines and a far away murmur of the mighty rapids of the Colorado a mile below. No word was spoken on the homeward drive. It was like going from one world to another to enter the comfortable and luxurious Inn [El Tovar] with its lights, its glowing fires and to hear again the voice of man in lightsome talk. • • •

"Everyone awakened at dawn with somewhat the same feeling that they had when children, waiting for Christmas morning. The painters were out making color notes for hours before breakfast. Mr. Daingerfield was sometimes silent and, sometimes, colorful adjectives came tumbling from his lips in a passion of appreciation. Words in which his moments of ecstasy came nearer to describing the emotions of the Canyon than the most finished efforts of authors and poets. What mysterious forms of beauty, invisible to the rest, peopled the Canyon for him! For Nature is to Daingerfield an embodied spirit. • • • " [The dawn is briefly described, but not by any of the painters; the only colors mentioned are blue, mauve, pink, and gold, perhaps sufficient enough for a great artist.]

"The days that followed were filled with joy. Everyone in the party was tense with excitement. The realization of the beauty was so much deeper than the appreciation of vastness, that the terror of space came only in one's dreams and proved that the sub-consciousness [sic] had known and understood the truth which the veil of beauty had hidden from the mind. To sit and watch the changes of color and light from sunrise late into the moonlight night was a pleasure which angels might enjoy. The Canyon in the moonlight did not fall into a still white sleep, but dreamed wonderful dreams and the color transformed by the magic of the moon still came to one with a faint suggestion of the glories of the dawn. De Witt Parshall went quite moon-made and wandered for hours upon the rim in the unearthly [sic] splendor of its rays. • • •

"On a misty morning arrived W. J. Locke, the author, creator of Septimus and Pargot. At the end of the second day, when the sun had not yet pierced the veil of mist, and he had to leave without seeing the Canyon in its full glory, he said, appreciative of even this privilege, 'I was fortunate enough to see the Canyon first in fog, and, when the gray of it had lifted, to see it in storm.'

"One beautiful drive was taken to Grand View Point where the party stayed at Pete Berry's ranch. • • •

"The painters worked all day and sometimes half the night, wandering far upon the rim in search of ivory cliffs, characteristic trees and bits of composition. Mr. Williams painted constantly, as his time was shorter than their est and in his tiny sketches, one felt all the majesty of space. Mr. Potthast worked indefatigably with brush

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

and pencil, and took back numerous interesting sketches. Mr. Moran also was moved by the same spirit and again painted the Canyon in a mist.

"On stormy days there was a perfectly appointed studio in which to work, fitted up for the use of artists who might chance to come to the Canyon. After the clouds had lifted and the sun was shining once more, the party assembled, in riding array, to take 'The Trail to Those Below.' There was much amusement and much snapping of cameras in the little corral beside the hotel at the mounting of the mules. Pete and Johnny, two wise little animals whose packs were larger than themselves, led the way down the Bright Angel Trail, looking back occasionally to see that the long line of riders were following properly. •••" [The article includes a Kolb Brothers photo of the trail party; none are identified, and Moran seems not to have been with them.]

"John Hance, one of the most unique characters of the west, was waiting at the foot of the trail with a greeting. •••

"At this Indian garden, as it is called, the artists were left to work while the rest of the party pushed on [to] the river through great gorges and black iridescent rocks that looked as though set with myriads of infinitesimal and shining gems. Rocks that reflected the blue of the sky or lay sullenly in the shadow of the cliffs. Down trails so steep that it was not safe to remain mounted. The great granite cliffs gathered in tragic masses and seemed to close together overhead in an effort to shut out the happy light of the sky. They brooded over the wild, brown stream which rushed dramatically through the slit it had torn for itself in the solid rock. Here where death had set its seal and human life itself seemed frivolous and inconsequent, suddenly above the river fluttered a great tawny butterfly. A symbol of life in this chasm of death.

"The party slept that night in the moonlit valley. Great fortresses and Moorish palaces were silhouetted against the sky on either side, the architecture of the gods. The moonlight fell across the cliffs, leaving great shadows black and impenetrable, and touched the walls on the other side of the valley with a silver rime. Far, far up, upon that awful height of rim, gleamed the light of El Tovar. This wonderful memory of the last evening in the Canyon was one to hold close in one's heart until the end of life."

Utley, George B.

- 840 1911 The pre-conference trip. From: The travel side of the conference. In: Papers and proceedings of the thirty-third annual meeting of the American Library Association held at Pasadena, California, May 18-24, 1911. American Library Association, Bulletin, 5(4) (July): 197-198.

Item signed "G.B.U." Includes a Grand Canyon visit.

"The next morning brought us to the Grand Canyon and El Tovar Hotel. After breakfast some started on coaching trips along the rim, others started on mule-back down the Bright Angel trail, while others professed a delight for walking and decided to make the trip down to the Colorado river and back by 'Shank's mare.' The latter set out enthusiastic enough, but when seen near the close of day, puffing painfully up the trail, they were not so positive of the delights of footing it down a seven-mile cobbly and rocky trail, under a pitiless tropical sun, then retracing their weary way seven miles up the trail with the altitude pounding harder and harder at their breathing apparatus. But it was all in a day's work and an experience never to be forgotten—not even regretted.

"Those of us who chose mules for conveyance and company, at first nearly had heart failure at the alarming proportion of anatomy that 'Bessie' or 'Jennie' projected over the yawning abyss while deliberately rounding Cape Horn and other nearly equally perilous promontories. But it's all in getting used to things, so before long we were content to throw the reins on 'Bessie's' neck and trust to her tender mercies and sure feet. The good book tells us that the Lord taketh no delight in the legs of a man, but those who travel by the Bright Angel route surely learn to take delight in the legs of a mule.

"Sore in foot or otherwise, we all gathered for an appreciated dinner at El Tovar and a sound night's sleep, while we dreamed of cutting the figure 8 on a 98 per cent incline, as we wound down the tortuous ways of the Bright Angel trail. The next day some of the party took a thirty mile drive to Grand View, and although the journey was dusty and the region traversed most desolate, yet the magnificence of the sudden burst of grandeur well repaid the travelers, and the cheerful 'whoppers' with which the genial driver beguiled the weary miles

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

prepared them for what they should soon encounter from the enthusiastic lips of dwellers in the Golden State.”
(ENTIRE NOTE)

White, Stewart Edward

- 841 1911 The cabin. Garden City, New York: Doubleday, Page and Co., 283 pp. [Also later printings.]
Book version of the serialized article in The American Magazine. See pp. 238-240, reprinting from “the Ethical Code of California John” (see White, 1910).

1912

Anonymous

- 842 1912 A chat with Mr. David Horsley; by our roving commissioner. The Moving Picture News, 5(5) (February 3): 18-20.

Regarding the visit by the Nestor Co. (founded by Horsley) to Los Angeles. En route to California Horsley stopped at Grand Canyon, “where he procured 1,500 feet of excellent scenes, taking views first at Hermit Point, and then on the Bright Angel Trail. At Jacob’s Ladder, which is about half way down from the Bright Angel Plateau [sic] to the Colorado River, which rushes along the bottom of the canyon, pictures of the trail parting were taken. Wonderful panoramic views were taken at Sosser’s Point, from which you can look down five different canyons.” Also, “A new scheme for coloring has been devised by Mr. Horsley which will be exploited shortly. The films of the Grand Canyon and the Petrified Forest will be colored by this method.” (ENTIRE NOTES)

Item includes photo of John Hance, mounted, with a canyon view, and legend, “Captain John Hance, the first white man to enter the Grand Canyon of Arizona”, and photo of an Indian seated on canyon rim, with legend, “View in the Grand Canyon of Arizona appearing in a future Nestor release”.

- 843 1912 Western ice manufacturers in convention. Ice and Refrigeration, 42(4) (April 1): 199-223.

Western Ice Manufacturers’ Association, 14th Annual Convention. See p. 213, in “Second Day—Afternoon Session”, brief synopsis of illustrated lecture by W. H. Edwards of Greeley, Colorado, titled, “Down the Canyon”. See also “Third Day—Morning Session”, at which there was “a special vote of thanks to Mr. Edwards for his delightful lecture on the Grand Canyon” (p. 222).

- 844 1912 Ford conquers Grand Canyon; perilous trip by Californian from canyon brink to the very edge of the Colorado River. The Automobile, 26(25) (June 20): 1398.

With some scrambling due to poor editing; but see also the item following next.

“The Grand Canyon of Arizona has been conquered by the automobile. B. L. Graves, manager of the California branch of the Ford company, last week drove a Ford car to the very edge of the Colorado river.

“No one ever before attempted to drive an automobile into the canyon. Only two horse-drawn vehicles have ever been taken down the trail followed by Graves. The first buggy was driven into the canyon 24 years ago by John Nelson, Sr., and John Nelson, Jr., followed the Ford on horseback, with a supply of food, the day after it started. Had it not been for Nelson’s thoughtful act the daring motorist might have perished.

“The start was made from Peach Springs in the early morning. At Kingman, Graves had secured a supply of dynamite and several times it was necessary to blast a path for the Ford. Seven miles of the trail were literally buried under great boulders, many of which were rolled aside by main strength. they bumped over others that resisted their combined efforts. Once the car tipped over and only the fact that it rested on a big rock enabled it to be righted.

“Intense heat in the depth of the canyon caused the gasoline to boil, but water was used to wet bags to place over the tank.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"It took 7 hours to traverse the 22 miles through Diamond Canyon and along Diamond creek to the Colorado. When the river was reached there was no water, food or gasoline. The water in the Colorado was warm and thick with mud."

- 845 1912 Grand Canyon conquered. B. L. Graves and Chester Lawrence drive a Ford to very edge of Colorado River in bottom of the earth's deepest wrinkle—Horses haul car back to civilization. Motor Age, 21(25) (June 20): 14-15.

A bit more elaboration than the item just preceding, which may show that the two items were edited from press releases or from newspaper accounts.

"The Grand canyon of Arizona has been conquered by the motor car. B. L. Graves, manager of the California branch of the Ford Motor Car Co., last week drove a Ford stock car to the very edge of the Colorado river, in the bottom of the earth's deepest wrinkle. He was accompanied on the perilous journey by Chester Lawrence, a newspaper man.

"No one ever before attempted to drive a motor car into the canyon. Only two horse-drawn vehicles ever have been taken down the trail followed by Graves and Lawrence. The first buggy was driven into the canyon 24 years ago by John Nelson, Sr., and John Nelson, Jr., followed the Ford on horseback, with a supply of food, the day after it started. Had it not been for Nelson's thoughtful act the daring motorists might have perished in the depths of the great chasm.

"The start was made from Peach Springs in the early morning. At Kingman Graves had secured a supply of dynamite and several times it was necessary to blast a path for the Ford. Seven miles of the trail were literally buried under great boulders, many of which Lawrence and Graves rolled aside by main strength. They bumped the Ford over others that resisted their combined efforts. Once the car tipped over and only the fact that it rested on a big rock enabled them to right it. Intense heat in the depths of the canyon caused the gasoline to boil. They used their precious water to wet bags to place over the tank to keep cool the fuel contained therein.

"It took 7 hours to traverse the 22 miles through Diamond canyon and along Diamond creek to the Colorado. When they reached the river Graves and Lawrence were well nigh exhausted. They had no water, food or gasoline. The water in the Colorado was warm and thick with mud.

"For 12 hours they remained by the side of the Colorado. They were about to set out on foot for Peach Springs when Nelson reached them with food and water. After eating and drinking they climbed back up the trail to the rim. The grades were far too steep for the motor car and it was hauled out later by horses. The trip has occasioned all sorts of excitement in this section and it is regarded as a most wonderful performance."

- 846 1912 University calendar. Yale Alumni Weekly (Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut), 22(5) (October 18): 109.

"Wednesday, October 23—New Haven Educational Extension lecture. Nat M. Brigham. Lecture and a series of motion pictures on the Grand Canon of Arizona and California. College Street Hall, 8:00 P. M." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 847 1912 Stereopticon lectures. Our Work (Bulfinch Place Church, Boston), 9(1) (November): 4.

"Nov. 13. The Grand Canyon of Arizona, by Mr. Nat M. Brigham."

- 848 1912 A Ford motor car at the bottom of Grand Canyon! Ford Times, _____. [Specific issue not identified. Reprinted 1995 in O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(8): 4-5.]

Regarding the B. L. Graves drive to Diamond Creek. See also note from Edwin Druding, O' Pioneer, 6(10): 10.

- 849 1912 [Summary of illustrated lecture by [L.-H.] Quarles van Ufford.] From: Séance Ordinaire du Mercredi 24 Janvier 1912. In: Procès-Verbaux [SECTION]. Société Vaudoise des Sciences Naturelles, Bulletin (Université de Lausanne, Laboratoire de Botanique), 49(177): v-vi. [In French.]

Regarding a visit to the United States in spring 1911; including "les déserts du sud des Etats-Unis, nous visitons le Grand-Canyon du Colorado et descendons à la rivière qui coule au fond de ce gouffre immense." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(transl. '[in] the deserts of the southern United States, we visit the Grand Canyon of Colorado and descend to the river which flows at the bottom of this immense chasm')

Allen, Susan Janney

- 850 1912 Experiences with the Seminoles and Indians of the Southwest. [continued] The Friend (Philadelphia), 85(43) ("Fifth-Day, Fourth Month 25" [Thursday, April 25]): 339-340. [Series begins (and author there noted) in the March 28 issue, p. 306.]

Her Grand Canyon experience isn't the canyon.

"The morning after Adamana we went on to the Grand Canyon. Here I spent much time in the so-called Hopi House—a reproduction of an Indian village, similar to Acoma. There real Hopis live and carry on their industries as at home, and in the evening give a part of their native dances. To see a tiny girl weaving, and the Navajo at his work in silver, to say nothing of the wonderful collection of Indian articles of all kinds—blankets, baskets, silverware, beadwork and almost every Indian object, any one of which might become your own, if you had sufficient courage and an indulgent father, were all-sufficient reasons for spending many hours there. Then, too, I must not forget the wonderful Indian photographs for sale at the hotel, the El Tovar. These alone, one could spend a long time in examining. . . . [ellipsis is part of the quotation].

"But I must hurry on to California . . . ."

Armstrong, Margaret

- 851 1912 Canyon and glacier. Overland Monthly, New Series, 59(2) (February): 95-104.

See "Dripping Spring" (pp. 95-99), which is an account of four women riding horses down Hermit and Dripping Springs Trails, where they meet and lunch with Louis Boucher in his lair.

"Our road lay along the edge of the Grand Canyon. From the cloudless turquoise sky above us, the fiery June sunlight beat pitilessly down on the arid red earth and yellow sand of Arizona. The warm air was sweet with faint scents drawn by the heat of the sun from the stunted shrubs and strange desert flowers.

"It was ten miles to Dripping Spring—eight to the point on the Rim where the trail leaves the level and plunges abruptly down into the Canyon. The path wound through a forest of gnarled cedars, twisted into all sorts of weird shapes by the wind and weather. It was of barren yellow sand, in which our horses' feet sank heavily, but the gorgeous tropical foliage of the desert bordered it on either hand with a mass of color. Tall yuccas, bearing heavy clusters of wax-white blossoms above their scimitar leaves, were just bursting into bloom, and prickly cacti, starred with blood-red flowers, sparkling like rubies in the sunlight, were scattered over the sand. Patches of pink and purple gerardia clustered under the cedars, and fuzzy quinine bushes, sprinkled all over with small white flowers, gave out a delicate perfume as we rode by, while here and there a late Mariposa lily still lingered.

"Away to the right we could see, across the Canyon, the huge, fantastic domes and minarets of the peaks on the farthest side. From where we rode the Canyon itself was invisible, but its sinister presence never left our thoughts, and we seemed always to feel it brooding there far below us. Like some wonderful enchantress, it lies basking in the sun, absorbing his light and heat, until the scarlet depths of the great chasm seem to glow with primeval fire.

"We were a party of four, all women, led by Billy Hill, most considerate and entertaining of guides, and we were mounted on fairly good horses. One of our number did not like steep places, and it was amusing to hear our guide distract her attention when we came to dangerous spots, with interesting stories of his experiences with tourists. He told us of a lady who rode safely down into the Canyon by the Bright Angel trail, but was so frightened at her achievement that she positively refused to return.

"She spent half the night down there, and then six men came down for her and carried her up in a litter. Her husband was 'most wild!'

"It needed a good deal of eloquence to reassure us when we reached the Rim and began to descend. The trail was so rough that it was almost impassable. A narrow ledge, in places not more than a foot wide, and covered with loose stones of all sizes, wound like a corkscrew down the side of the Canyon, the precipice rising sheer above us on one hand, and on the other dropping away abruptly. If we were not too dizzy we could look straight down into the Canyon yawning below us. Sometimes there were a few holly bushes, or a tuft of prickly pears, along the edge, and sometimes there was nothing between us and the bottom but a fearfully steep, crumbling slope of rock. The distant landscapes lay shimmering in the glaring sun. The far-off cliffs were banded with yellow and pink in the strange fashion of the Canyon; their masses of pale color broken here and there by the sharp violet shadows of projecting rocks.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Our horses crept down as slowly and carefully as snails, dropping from step to step of the narrow stone staircase, until we ached from leaning back in the saddle. Again and again they would stop, with their nostrils to the ground, looking for a place where it would be safe to stop, then plant their fore-feet on the lower stone and bring their hind legs down afterwards with a grunt of disgust. The trail from the Rim to Dripping Spring is only two miles long, but so steep and in such poor condition that again and again our hearts were in our mouths, for fear our horses would make a false step. It was very hot, and we were getting rather tired, when suddenly we heard a laugh from the guide, who was ahead.

"I'd rather take you down Bright Angel, covered with ice than over this trail!" he exclaimed triumphantly, and we realized that we were down.

"We found ourselves in a small level space, a sort of terrace half way down the Canyon. It was a corral, its red earth floor trampled smooth by the feet of burros, and fringed all around with small green trees and shrubs. At one side an indefinite trail went rambling on down the Canyon, and on the other rose a tremendous wall of rock which towered above us like the battlements of a giant's castle. The upper part far overhung the lower, making a large shallow cave, with a roof of rock and a floor of beaten earth. A little house made of two tents was built into one side of the cave like a swallow's nest in a chimney. From the white canvas roof a small rusty stove-pipe emerged, and a little drift of blue smoke rose lazily into the air.

"We dismounted, and Billy Hill tied our horses to the trees, and we all walked up the narrow, winding path that led to the cave. There was a gate at the end of the path, and as we reached it, an old man came out of the house, attracted by the unusual sound of voices, and greeted us cordially, Billy Hill introducing him to us as Louis Boucher. He had a long, curling, gray beard and aquiline features, and was picturesquely dressed in a yellow flannel undershirt and baggy trousers. He bade us welcome with an elaborately courteous manner, and opened the gate and ushered us in, with evident pleasure. We went through the little gate, out of the glare of the scorching sun, into the cool shadow of the cave.

"The lofty roof, blackened with smoke from the little stove-pipe, was ribbed with rough ridges of yellowish-red stones that looked as if they might fall and crush us at any moment. Near the center of this massive ceiling hung a cluster of maiden-hair fern, the tender emerald-green feathers in lovely contrast to the barren rock from which they grew. The never-failing spring of clear, fresh water, which gives the place its name, trickled through a crevice in the rocky roof, and, dripping from the fresh green fronds of the ferns, fell through the air, tinkling into a stone basin built below to catch the precious drops of icy water as they came down one by one.

"We each had a delicious drink of water from the spring, and then Boucher put on a waistcoat and cravat in our honor and prepared to show us over his little domain. He is an old prospector, who came to the Canyon twenty years ago, only a few years after Captain Hanse [Hance], the oldest inhabitant.

"There was nobody traveling here them days, Mistress; just men looking for gold. I was always looking for it, but there's no free gold here.' So he settled down to live in the Canyon, and now he loves the solitude and the towering cliffs, and would not be happy anywhere else.

"Not every one feels like he does,' put in Billy Hill. 'Captain Hanse says you might as well live in hell, if it wasn't for the name of it, and the disgrace!'

"Boucher smiled condescendingly, and attracted our attention to a flat red stone lying by the spring. He poured a dipper of water over it, and immediately the outlines of what he called a 'ferren,' and the footprints of some small prehistoric beast came out clearly. He knew a good deal about the strange formation of the Canyon, and discoursed about 'the third sedimentary from the primitive'—whatever that may be. [The ferns and footprints were probably from the Hermit Shale, in the third generally-grouped series of strata above the "granite" (being, ascending, the Cambrian strata, the Redwall and adjacent limestones, and then the undifferentiated Supai and Hermit strata).] There were some strange, dark brown objects in the cave of a peculiar shape, and looking as if carved from wood, which puzzled us, until we were told they were very old horns of Big Horn sheep—that he had found on the cliffs near by. He used to shoot the sheep and deer, he told us, until he 'took a step for the betterment.'

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"The little fish were pointed out with pride and affection. Boucher had brought them all the way from Kansas in a 'vial.' We asked if they would not freeze when it grew cold, for there is ice and snow in Arizona in winter, but he said that down here in the warm heart of the canyon it was always summer, and the little fish were comfortable all the year round. In the stone basin of the spring some crisp heads of lettuce and a few beets were floating, looking strangely sophisticated and misplaced in the heart of the desert. They came from Boucher's garden, five miles farther down the Canyon, near the river. A garden that is always green, where he grows vegetables and fruit. Grape vines grow there, and tomatoes and orange trees, and last year the oranges bloomed, although there is not much sunlight in the bottom of the Canyon, for the soil is good wherever there is water. How we wished that we could see that strange Canyon garden, but the trail was too rough, even for our clever little horses.

"Our host opened the door of his little house, and we peeped in. Over the lintel a small horseshoe, covered with silver paper, was nailed to bring good luck. The little kitchen was as neat as wax and quite comfortably arranged. From a couple of deer horns hung various cooking utensils and the picture of a girl, on a gaudy calendar, black-haired and crimson-cheeked, smiled upon us from the wall. Outside, near the spring, was a wooden table, and a long, low couch covered with a gay Navajo blanket. Here we had our lunch. Billy Hill brought some sandwiches and fruit out of his saddle bags. Boucher made us some coffee, and we all found that we were hungry. Everything tasted very good. A warm breeze, sweet with the scent of the quinine flowers, blew in our faces. The spring tinkled musically. A small iridescent lizard ran across the earthen floor and disappeared under a stone.

"There was something peculiarly delightful about the little place. Perhaps its greatest charm was owing to the vivid contrast between the cool shadow in which we sat and the burning valley spread out below us. We could hear far off the burro bells, and after lunch Billy Hill rode off to bring in the burros for us to see. In a little while, one after the other, in a long line, they came up the path and into the corral, led by an old white mule. Some of them were very pretty, and Boucher told us with pride that one of his 'burro family' had been bought by a millionaire last year, and was now living in the East. The little creatures were very tame, and ate bits of bread and orange peel from their master's hand, while we took their photographs. [She includes in her article a photo of "Boucher and his 'burro family'".]

"We were reluctant to leave this cool, sweet little spot and go out again into the glare and heat, but the afternoon was wearing away, and we had a long ride home, so we bade our kind host good-bye and mounted again on our patient little horses. It was not so hot or so dizzy going up as coming down, but the climb was very hard on our poor beasts, and by the time we reached the top they were breathing heavily.

"We had a long, pleasant ride home, over the sand and through the cedar wood, past the white yuccas and the crimson cactus flowers. We rode briskly, and soon we had left far behind us the enchanted spring, dripping cool and clear, through the rugged rock, into the quiet pool where the two little gold fish swim about and the scarlet flowers nod at their reflections in the shining water."

Burroughs, John

852      1912      Time and change. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge). (Riverby Edition. The Writings of John Burroughs. Volume 16.)

See "The Divine Abyss", pp. 39-70. From Burroughs (1911, Visit to the Grand Cañon).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Carnegie, Andrew

- 853 1912 Mr. Carnegie's address to the Trustees. In: Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Year Book for 1911. Washington, D.C.: Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, pp. 5-6.

"Now, gentlemen, I think only one word in explanation is needed. You will have noticed that this gift [of ten million dollars] was really inspired by the President's declaration. I was at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, elevated and inspired by that grand spectacle, the grandest spectacle in the world, so far as I know, and I received a New York paper and read what he had said in New York. I then said to myself: 'President Taft, foremost among rulers of men, has really bridged the chasm between peace and war.'" (ENTIRE NOTE) (On March 22, 1910, at a meeting of the American Peace and Arbitration League, President William Howard Taft had presented a declaration favoring unrestricted arbitration treaties.)

Eubank, Victor

- 854 1912 Log of an auto prairie schooner; motor pioneers on the "Trail to Sunset"—An account of the first through tourist automobile train (limited) from New York to Los Angeles. Sunset, 28(2) (February): 188-195.

"From Phoenix we condescended to make use of the restricted pleasures afforded by a train confined to steel rails and we went up to get a peek into the painted chasm of the Grand Cañon of the Colorado.

"Then we got back into our prairie-schooners again and resumed our trek across the country." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Galsworthy, John

- 855 1912 The inn of tranquillity : studies and essays. London: William Heinemann, 278 pp. [Also printed by Charles Scribners' Sons (New York, 1912) and Bernhard Tauchnitz (Leipzig, 1912).]

See "Meditation on Finality", pp. 203-211 (Heinemann ed.). Begins:

"In the Grand Canyon of Arizona, that most exhilarating of all natural phenomena, Nature has for once so focussed her effects, that the result is a framed and final work of Art. For there, between two high lines of plateau, level as the sea, are sunk the wrought thrones of the innumerable gods, couchant, and for ever revering, in their million moods of light and colour, the Master Mystery." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Griffith, L. A.

- 856 1912 The wonderful moving pictures in color. Leslie's, 115(2990) (December 26): 672, 676.

Principally about a "moving picture play" filmed in Kinemacolor at Grand Canyon. One photo legend notes, "This scene was posed at the Grand Canyon of Arizona in a play called 'The Explorers.' This was so as to get natural scenery as a background. Mrs. Griffith, the girl, is the author of this article. The natural colors of the mountain show in the film." [Indications have been found that this film appeared in 1913, but thus far no information about it has been found. —E.E.S. July 7, 2021.]

Harker, Ray Clarkson

- 857 1912 The ministry of nature, music, and tears. Cincinnati: Jennings and Graham, and New York: Eaton and Mains, 80 pp.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 28-31. "The Grand Cañon of the Colorado River in Arizona is overwhelmingly sublime. You may as well attempt to paint the heavens as to describe the Grand Cañon." At the foot of the trail by the river Harker and friends postulated that the walls of Grand Canyon, as an amphitheater, "could comfortably seat over two hundred million people". "These majestic cliffs of stone, these tinted walls and glowing rocks, these purpling shadows, these mysterious caverns, these silent, somber solitudes all make this scene colossal, sublime, awful, overwhelming, and finite man seems so small and Infinite God so great."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hawley, Frances

- 858 1912 The Grand Canyon. The Citizen (Freeville, New York), 14(9) (April): 155.

"When some one tells you that the Grand Canyon of Arizona is the 'Eighth Wonder of the World', you have a somewhat amused feeling, for how many times has some one's 'wonder' been added to the historic seven! But after you have seen it, you permit no questioning on the subject. The Eighth Wonder! You rank it far up among the Seven. Your awe and admiration make it almost profanation to compare it with anything under the heavens above."

Hochreutiner, B. P. G. [Hochreutiner, Bénédict Pierre Georges]

- 859 1912 Plantæ Hochreutineranæ; étude systématique et biologique des collections faites par l'auteur au cours de son voyage aux Indes Néerlandaises et autour du monde pendant les années 1903 a 1905. Fascicule I. Conservatoire et du Jardin Botaniques de Genève, Annuaire, 15-16 [for 1911-1912] [1911-1913], 145-247 (item also concurrently paginated 1-103). [In French.]

(transl. 'Plantæ Hochreutineranæ: systematic and biological study of the collections made by the author during his trip to the Dutch Indies and around the world during the years 1903 to 1905.')

The itinerary for the round-the-world trip (pp. 148-151 / 4-7) includes in the U.S., May 10, 1903, "Excursion au fond du Gran Canon de Colorado, en suivant la route appelée Saint Angel's trail [sic, Bright Angel Trail]" (transl. 'Excursion to the bottom of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, following the route called Saint Angel's trail') (p. 151 / 7) (ENTIRE NOTE). The party seems to have not to have spent longer than a day at Grand Canyon, and it was not a collecting trip. Hochreutiner seems not to have published any separate record about his Grand Canyon visit.

("Plantæ Hochreutineranæ" is simply a Latinized caption, following some scholarly traditions, meaning "Hochreutiner's Plants". The systematic botany in this publication pertains chiefly to "Java", "Samoa", and "Sandwich", with the collaboration of [from volume table of contents] "MM. Aug. et C. de Candolle, Cardot, Christ, Herter, Hieronymus et Stephani"; and none of the plant gatherings pertain to this bibliography. Fascicule I was the only one published.)

Holitscher, Arthur

- 860 1912 Amerika heute und morgen : Reiseerlebnisse. Berlin: S. Fischer, 2nd ed., 429 [432] pp. [In German.] [Note as well 3rd ed., 1912; 1st ed. not seen.]
(transl. 'America today and tomorrow : travel experiences')

See "Der Canyon, der Göttergarten und der Vitagraph" ('The Canyon, the Garden of the Gods and the Vitagraph') (pp. 260-278), of which pp. 260-265 comprise his visit to the canyon, offering one of the richest set of remarks I have read from a Grand Canyon visitor; his of course with a strong showing of European culture, but worthy of Clarence Dutton's folding of world cultures into the canyon's geography.

"Man kommt auf der Coconino-Ebene an und sieht hinüber nach der Kaibab Ebene. Zwischen diesen beiden auf fast gleichem Niveau gelegenen Plateaus strahlt ein Abgrund. • • •

"Als sähe man sich die Schweiz bei Maloja in einer Schlangenmenschenpose umgekehrt durch die Beine hindurch an, so etwa sieht der Canyon aus • • •

"Man fühlt die Vorstellung in sich aufsteigen: hier hat der Höllenhund mit dreifachem spitzen Hundegebiss ein Stück Erde aus dem glatten Erdball herausgebissen. Blutig und zerfleischt strahlt das Erdinnere den Zuschauer oben auf dem Plateau an, wie eine offene Frucht. • • •

"Er wäre nicht halb so schaurig, wenn nicht die grellsten Farben, rot, hellgrün, gelb und bläulichbraun sich, wie mit dem Lineal gezogen, über diese ganze unterirdische Schweiz dahinzögen. Ein Kegel hat eine gelbe Kappe, einen blauen Rumpf und ein rotes Gesäß. Neben diesem Kegel ist Luft, graues Geklüft tief dahinter, mit dem unsichtbaren Strom in der Tiefe. Sieben Meilen weg beginnt ein eckiger Klotz oben gelb, wird in genau gleicher

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Höhe wie der Kegel blau und geht dann ins intensivste Rot über, das unten in nebelähnlichem Schmutzgrau versinkt. Auf diesem Dreiklang baut sich die ganze Farbenorgie auf. • • •

„Dankbarer ist es, sich an den Sonnenuntergang zu erinnern, dessen Schatten die Farben verändern, die Konturen verwandeln, Figuren, die leben, aus baren Felsenwänden heraustreiben, in glatte Felsenwände Höhlen, Grotten schlagen, Inschriften aufzeigen, die nur das Gottesauge entziffert und die dem Menschen nur sein Nichtswissen in einer einfachen Lösung vorzeichnen—über den langsam, langsam sich verdunkelnden zweihundert Meilen weiten Götterwitz.“

[And then the grand revue:] „Notizen: eine Fingalshöhle in den Lüften wird auf einmal ein toskanisches Felsenest. Aus einer roten Stadt erhebt sich eine schneeweiße Kathedrale. Ein Berg in der Nähe trägt die flachdächige Stadt Tunis auf seinem Rücken. Sie schmilzt aber zusehends zusammen, zu einer zickzackförmigen Terrassenzitadelle, die nicht mehr auf dem Berg, sondern in einer ausgekratzten Höhle wie ein Basrelief daliegt. Auf einer polierten Mauer von tausend Fuß im Geviert erscheinen, wie die Sonne ein bißchen nach links weitergeht, assyrische Menschengestalten, die mit fabelhafter Geschwindigkeit ihre Köpfe vertauschen, mit den Knien wackeln wie Komiker, die Zungen herausstrecken, mit Armen und Rumpf von rechts nach links oder von links nach rechts „müllern“. Die Zugspitze steht plötzlich zwischen zwei Kegeln, die sich verdunkelt haben, grell beleuchtet da, den Kopf nach unten. In den Zoroastertempel kommt Leben. Dunkle Fühlhörner strecken sich aus ihm aus nach den Tempeln der anderen Religionen. Es dauert nicht lange, und der Apollotempel mitsamt dem Monsalvatsch haben sich mit ihm zu einem Bund vereint, aus dem eine große gemeinsame Finsternis sich über alle Nachbarhöhen erstreckt, sie rasch auffressend. Die Bogenschützen, die Keilinschriften, die Rodinschen Unzuchtspaare, die von Michelangelo gemeißelten Figuren des Weltuntergangs, die sich lüstern streckenden und streckenden Steinpanther der Apokalypse verschwinden rasch in der von links nach rechts durch den Abgrund ziehenden Nacht. Aus ist die Vorstellung im Amphitheater des Canyon. Und die Menschlein, die heim ins Hotel El Tovar ziehen, finden dort den Eintrittspreis, wie sich's gehört, tüchtig in Dollar und Cent umgerechnet.“

[Yet it is not the end of the narrative!]

„In der Hotelhalle liegt ein Buch, darein die Völkerseharen, die hier vorübergezogen sind, ihre Eindrücke, Gedanken und Empfindungen geschrieben haben. Auf der Höhe meiner Sendung durchstößere ich dieses Fremdenbuch nach charakteristischen Äußerungen der amerikanischen Bürgerseele.

„Lobpreisungen der Vorsehung überwiegen. All diese Americanos führen ihre Bibel mit sich, das ist gewiß, sonst könnten sie Bibelstellen und Psalmen nicht so richtig zitieren. Gelehrte Leute aus der Intelligenzstadt Boston äußern sich im Sanskrit. Bewohner der Sonderlingsstadt Los Angeles lassen sich im Esperanto, mit Zitaten aus Omar Khayyam, Whittier, Goethe, Shelley und Mrs. Baker Eddy hören. Enthusiastische Leute aus Texas und Louisiana ergehen sich in patriotischen Expektorationen . . . . Einer nur hat einen vernünftigen Gedanken beim Hinunterstarren in den Abgrund gehabt. Er hat den lapidaren Ausruf ins Hotelbuch eingeschrieben: „O Hell, where is the Bottom?“

„Bis in den Schlaf hinein verfolgt einen das Bibelzitieren. Hinter der dünnen Wand diskuriert der Nachbar vor dem Zubettegehen mit seiner Ehefrau. Sie fragt nach Geologie, und der Gatte antwortet in den Pausen zwischen dem Gurgeln mit Theologie. • • • . . . wünsche mir, der Abgrund neben dem Haus möchte doch nicht so tot und stumm daliegen, sondern lieber wie ein riesiger Wasserfall rauschen und tosen, damit ich das Schnarchen nebenan nicht eine ganze lange Nacht zu hören brauchte!“

(translation)

‘One arrives on the Coconino Plateau and looks over to the Kaibab Plateau. Between these two plateaus, which are almost at the same level, there is an abyss. • • •

‘As if you were in Switzerland near Maloja, looking in a contortionist pose between your legs, that's what the canyon looks like. • • •

‘One feels the idea rising in oneself: here the hellhound has bitten a piece of earth out of the smooth surface of the earth with three sharp dog teeth. Bloodied and mangled, the interior of the earth gapes at the viewer on the plateau like an open fruit. • • •

‘It wouldn't be half as scary if the lurid colors, red, light green, yellow and bluish-brown, as if drawn with a ruler, were not stretched across this whole subterranean Switzerland. A ninepin has a yellow cap, blue body,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

and red base. Beside this ninepin is air, gray clefts deep behind, with the invisible stream below. Seven miles away, a square block starts yellow at the top, turns blue at exactly the same level as the ninepin, and then fades to the most intense red, sinking to misty gray dirt below. The whole orgy of colors is built on this triad. • • •

'[One should] remember the sunset, whose shadows change the colors, transform the contours, driving living figures out of bare rock walls, carving caves, grottos in smooth rock walls, revealing inscriptions that only the eye of God can decipher and that men's ignorance only outline a simple solution—the slowly, slowly darkening two hundred mile wide joke of the gods.'

And then the grand revue: 'Notes: a Fingal's Cave in the skies suddenly becomes a Tuscan rock nest. From a red city rises a snow-white cathedral. A nearby mountain carries the flat-roofed city of Tunis on its back. However, it is visibly melting into a zigzagging terraced citadel that no longer lies on the mountain but in a carved cave like a bas-relief. On a polished wall a thousand feet square, as the sun advances a little to the left, Assyrian human figures appear, exchanging heads with fabulous speed, wiggling their knees like comedians sticking out tongues, arms and torso from right to left or from left to right 'mill about.' Suddenly the Zugspitze stands between two ninepins that have darkened, brightly lit, head down. Zoroaster Temple comes to life. Dark feelers stretch out from it towards the temples of other religions. It doesn't take long before the Temple of Apollo and the Monsalvatsch have united with it to form an alliance from which a great common darkness extends over all neighboring heights, quickly consuming them. The archers, the cuneiform inscriptions, the Rodinian fornicators, the figures of the end of the world sculpted by Michelangelo lasciviously stretch, and bounding stone panthers of the Apocalypse vanish quickly in the night, moving from left to right through the abyss. The performance at the Canyon Amphitheater is over. And the little people who go home to the Hotel El Tovar will find the admission fee there, as it should be, converted into dollars and cents.'

Yet it is not the end of the narrative!

'. . . I rummage through [the hotel guest book] for characteristic expressions of the American bourgeois soul. Praises of Providence prevail. All these Americans carry their Bibles with them, that's for sure, otherwise they couldn't properly quote Scripture and Psalm. Learned people from the smart city of Boston express themselves in Sanskrit. Residents of the eccentric city of Los Angeles are heard in Esperanto, with quotes from Omar Khayyam, Whittier, Goethe, Shelley and Mrs. Baker Eddy. Enthusiastic folk from Texas and Louisiana indulge in patriotic expectorations . . . . Only one had a sensible thought while staring down into the abyss. He wrote the succinct exclamation in the hotel book [Holitscher quotes in English]: "O hell, where is the bottom?"'

'Quotations from the Bible haunt you until you fall asleep. Behind the thin wall, the neighbor argues with his wife before going to bed. She asks about geology, and he answers with theology in the pauses between gargling. • • • . . . I wish the abyss next to the hotel wouldn't be so dead and mute lying there, but rather rushing and roaring like a huge waterfall, so that I didn't have to listen to the snoring next door all night long!'

Hovey, Clarissa

861 1912 Clarissa Hovey's paper. From: Women's Federation [SECTION]. In: Philadelphia convention of the P. A. of A. the greatest in its history. Bulletin of Photography (Philadelphia), 11 (August 7): 194-198.

Report on the convention of the Professional Photographers' Society, New York. Takes particular note of (punctuation thus) ". . . a plate of the most charming, elusive, delicate rainbow, caught in the Grand Cañon, of Arizona (one of the most delightful autochromes I've seen) . . . ." Not illustrated; the photographer not noted.

862 1912 Color photography. The Photographic Times (New York), 44(9) (September): 354-359.

"A paper read before the Women's Federation of Photography, at Philadelphia." Takes particular note of ". . . a plate of the most charming, elusive, delicate rainbow, caught in the Grand Cañon of Arizona (one of the most delightful autochromes I have seen) . . . ." Not illustrated; the photographer not noted.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hunt, Caroline L.

863 1912 The life of Ellen H. Richards. Boston: Whitcomb and Barrows, 328 [329] pp.

See letter (pp. 250-253), Richards to [Emma Savage Rogers], written from Grass Valley, California, July 3, 1885, that includes note of a visit to the Grand Canyon (p. 251). Although the specific locality is not indicated, it must have been at Peach Springs. The writer was in the company of her geologist husband, Prof. Robert Hallowell Richards. (Hunt noted only that the letter was written to "Mrs. Rogers, widow of the founder of the Institute of Technology". The Massachusetts Institute of Technology was founded by William Barton Rogers, who had died in 1882.)

"Our greatest trip was the Grand Cañon of the Colorado river [sic]. We did not of course follow Powell on his journey on the river itself, which must be very dangerous, so we did not get the full grandeur of the gorge, but we saw more than we could take in of the mighty cliffs seamed with these rifts or cañons, in all directions. Since the strata of sandstone are left nearly horizontal the effect to the eye is not as impressive as the great height would warrant. For instance, standing at the base of a cliff 4,800 feet in almost perpendicular height it was very hard to believe it was half that height—only after some time and after repeated comparisons with the shrubs and cacti could one at all realize the immensity of the rock enclosing us. . . ." (ENTIRE ITEM; ellipsis is part of the quotation)

James, George Wharton

864 1912 [Reflections on tourists' comments overheard at Grand Canyon.] In: In the Editor's Den [SECTION]. Out West, 4(5) (November): 342-343.

His entire set of remarks in defense of the canyon and American Indians:

"I have just paid a visit to the Grand Canyon of Arizona. It is a wonderfully interesting place, not only because of its stupendous natural granduer [sic] but because of the inducements it offers to poor, weak human nature to make an all round general revelation of itself. No one can sit on one of the benches overlooking the Canyon for a few hours if he think at all without realizing this fact.

"Many of the comments are innane, some frivolous. Some of them make you feel that Sairey Gamp has come back to life and you can hear her firm, determined and resolute assurance 'There ain't no such place.'

"The remarks as to what caused the Canyon show how deeply the power of thought has taken hold of the American people for about one in a hundred thousand hits upon a theory big enough to account for its existence. Some few profess themselves dissatisfied with this, that or the other about its color, its majesty, its something else, and a few become petulant if they happen to reach it during a storm, when, in reality, that is by far the best time to see it in all its varied and marvelous self-revelations. Many people are sure that they can appreciate its vastness without descending into its depths, whereas it is no more possible to understand what the Canyon is without going at least a mile or so down one of the trails than it is to appreciate a rich, fresh date grown on the Colorado Desert in Southern California without tasting it.

"Near the Hotel at the Canyon is the Hopi House, an exact replica of a house in the Hopi Village of Oraibi. The other day one of these wise and self-assertive fellows, with a resonant voice that could be heard ten blocks, assured his companion that, 'No Indian who ever lived had energy enough to build a house that high,' and this in the face of the fact that are between twenty and thirty pueblos in Arizona and New Mexico all of which have buildings 'that high' erected by the 'lazy' Indians.

"Why will men and women not learn at least to be modest about things of which they know nothing? The American nation has yet much to learn and one of those things is that in its arrogant assumption of knowledge it but reveals its colossal want of knowledge."

[*"Sarah or Sairey Gamp, Mrs. Gamp as she is more commonly known, is a nurse in the novel Martin Chuzzlewit by Charles Dickens, first published as a serial in 1843-1844. Mrs. Gamp is dissolute, sloppy and generally drunk. She became a notorious stereotype of untrained and incompetent nurses of the early Victorian era, before the reforms of campaigners like Florence Nightingale."* (Wikipedia online, accessed April 27, 2022)]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jenness, Kelley

865

1912      The pilot flame. Boston: Sherman, French and Co., 268 pp.

Religious inspiration. See pp. 97-98; the end of the "visitation" portion of the text. Jenness writes of a visit that took place before the railroad reached the canyon in 1901. Their destination was likely Hance's or Grandview.

"Before there was any railroad, we made the pilgrimage through the forest to behold the Grand Cañon of the Colorado. During four days we threaded our way through the pines, which is the best preparation for the great vision. On the afternoon of the fourth day, the guide, Hank, promised that we should see the sun set in the 'big hole.' The road kept threading through the pines, and we jogged on at the same pace, seeing nothing strange, almost ceasing to expect anything very great. As the long shadows were sifting through the pine needles, we started up a little rise, where there seemed to be a streak of light beyond the trees. Hank suggested that we might get out and walk, as we were nearing the cabin where we were to stop for the night. We came suddenly around the turn in front of the cabin. Then I saw it. Right at my feet, dropping away into purple depths, rising in flaming peaks of glory, the most stupendous vision of height and depth, of vastness, of distance, of detail, of flaming contrasting color and mingling deeps of harmony. The rays of the setting sun, falling through that crystal air crowned with glory all the procession of the Bright Angels, while the purple fingers of the night shadows were stretching up from the weird labyrinth of unexplored cañons. The tension of that that great vision held me paralyzed for some minutes. Then I felt a kind of lightness in my head. Seeing a little tree near, I went over and put my arm about it for support. My wife moved over and took hold of my arm, both reaching out instinctively for something that might steady us. I noticed that we both panted, drawing the convulsive breath of a great tension. Thus we stood, and looked and looked, straining to learn the details of the vision, ere the purple fingers of the night took the crown of glory from the Bright Angels.

"Hank called us to supper. We mechanically and silently accepted the supper. Hank began to laugh at us. 'Well,' he said, 'is it as big as I told you? You ain't as bad as the last folks I brought. The man went into hysterics and some of the women began to cry. They all act funny, and lots of them take hold of that tree just like you did. One woman I brought in fainted. They all feel strange. Some of them are silent, and sit and stare like you do. Again they get to talking, and will talk half the night, telling everything that ever happened to them. When I get folks out here, I always watch them, because they act like drunk folks.'" (This last part is a bit suspiciously a gathering of other [published] stories of seeing the Grand Canyon, to add to the author's own earlier visit.)

Kimball, Ivory G.

866

1912      Recollections from a busy life, 1843 to 1911. Washington, D.C.: The Carnahan Press, 229 pp.

See pp. 197-199, recalling a trip in 1906:

"My first view of the canyon was disappointing for it was early in the morning and the sun had not reached down into the vast depth. • • •

"My cousin and I joined a party of fourteen with two guides and made the trip down to the bottom of the canyon the morning after we arrived. Standing on the edge of the canyon we could not see any possible way that a trail could be made down those sheer walls, but we found that one had been made, sometimes out of the sides, at others built with rocks and earth supported by small projections, and at still other places running along a razor-like ridge with a sheer descent on either side. It was a fearful trip but I am glad I made it. It would take a very large inducement, however, to tempt me to make it again. • • •

"When I reached the top on our return I had to be helped from my mule by two men, as I was so stiff that I was unable to dismount alone. We could not secure berths at Grand Canyon for the continuation of our journey from Williams and risked securing them on the train. The conductor told us he had none, but to get on the train and if he could not arrange it we would have to get off at the next station, which would have been bad for us, as we were in the Arizona Desert, but the fact that both he and I were Masons made everything all right, for he changed the passengers about and gave us the berths needed."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kolb Bros. [Kolb Brothers]

- 867 1912 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Elizabeth, New Jersey: Campbell Art Co., 12 hand-colored photos.

Lawrance, William I.

- 868 1912 Across the continent. In: Unitarian Sunday School Society [SECTION]. The Christian Register (Boston), 91(9) (February 29): 213-214.

Largely a description of the author's three-day visit to Grand Canyon.

"Three golden days, the generous earth here unbosoming her golden treasures to match the glorious sky,—that is the memory. It is easy to fall into superlatives, if not into verse . . . •••

"At the hotel is kept a guest-book in which visitors have attempted to write their impressions of the Canyon. One wonders whether mine host provided it as a safety-valve for dangerously expanded feelings or as a trap for unsuspecting tourists. Certainly its pages rest the mind wearied with vastness and color. 'A city of temples thrown into a state of chaos' neighbors with 'Some kind of a ditch, all right, all right!' 'Grand,' with its variant, 'simply grand,' abounds on every page, meaning, no doubt, just what the one meant who wrote 'and then some.' English is found insufficient (several berate Webster for his stinginess of words), and here we find almost every European language, flanked by Japanese.' Two fall back on classical Greek, several upon Latin, and one delivers himself in shorthand. It is a Frenchman, one H. de Waterville of Lyons, who takes matters most seriously. He, too, must write in a foreign tongue, in English, and his sentiment is, 'After that let us go and die.'"

"The journey to the river, a full mile below in a straight line, is not undertaken, but walks and a drive along the rim gives new points of view. The Irish driver's good nature and unlettered intelligence add much to the pleasure, and the mighty sunken peaks known as Buddha's Temple and the Pyramid of Cheops would certainly not resent his speaking of them as 'Buddy's Temple' and "Choppy's Pyramid.' Nor does the Educated Lady on the Back Seat greatly disturb. She assures us that for the past three months she has been studying the Canyon, preparatory for this visit,—'studying, you will understand,—not reading, but studying, studying!' And then she adds, with an air of pensive thought, 'I'm not sure whether it was an advantage or not.'" At a viewpoint pause she concludes, "Well, sir, the mind just reels!"

Macfarlane, Peter Clark

- 869 1912 The Big Ditch; the man on the job. Everybody's Magazine, 27(2) (August): 236-245.

About the Panama Canal, but see his remark:

"I have stood on the rim of the Grand Cañon of the Colorado and looked across its purling depths of swimming air for seven miles to the other side. I have forced my eye downward past all those chromolithic wonders to the black wall at the bottom which frowns above a patch of gleaming silver and gray, knowing that patch to be the roaring flood of the river, one mile below its original channel. Gazing thus, I marveled. The soul of me was filled with awe—for this was the work of God."

The author continues with his sight of the Culebra Cut of the canal, from Contractor's Hill, ". . . and again my soul has been filled with awe—for this is the work of man."

Murphy, Thomas D.

- 870 1912 Three wonderlands of the American West. (Illustrations by Thomas Moran.) Boston: L. C. Page and Co., 180 pp. [Also a new revised ed., 1913, 184 pp.; reprinted 1919]

"A FIRST GLIMPSE OF THE GRAND CANYON. If the Yellowstone leaves a predominating impression of weirdness upon the mind—and the Yosemite of beauty—what shall we say of this vast Arizonian chasm where weirdness strives with beauty for the mastery? It is so unlike anything else on earth that the most hardened traveler is unprepared for its revelation; nowhere else has he seen—or may he see—its match for strangeness and beauty

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

in color and form. Here the Architect Divine planned a succession of pyramids and palaces of overwhelming immensity and past human imagining in their ever-changing riot of color. Here the artisans of the ages, fire and wind and flood, have wrought an endless array of gigantic structures which no mortal mind could have conceived and no mortal hand have reared. The memory of it is as the memory of some splendid but fantastic dream and at times it is hard to convince myself, who have seen with my own eyes this crowning wonder of the American West, that it has existence in reality. And I hesitate to attempt the task of portraying its marvels in words, knowing that I must fail as all before me have failed to a greater or lesser degree to measure up to the grandeur and beauty of the scenes I would describe. But I shall have the great advantage of supplementing my words with Mr. Moran's splendid pictures, which perhaps come nearer than any other agency to bringing the scenes of the Grand Canyon to the eyes of those who have never visited it, and in this particular, at least, I have ample warrant for my venture. If words and pictures combine to turn the feet of the appreciative American traveler to one of the most soul-inspiring works of Nature in our own land, it is enough."

After arriving at the canyon, the writer proceeds through pages of the expected salutations to form, color, and mystery, with a trot around the world in literature and gaze.

"The trails are fatiguing at best and hardly to be recommended to persons with much tendency to nausea when on giddy heights, but seldom indeed is there dissent to the proposition that the fatigue of a descent is well worth white. For, indeed, to appreciate the grandeur and matchless magnitude of these temples and palaces, one must go down among them and look upward to them from the depths; to know the awful majesty and resistless power of that sullen river he must stand on its very bank. Missing such an opportunity is not to be thought of."

At sunset, "Not elsewhere on this planet do I hope to behold a scene of such overpowering grandeur so softened with ethereal beauty as that which greets my eyes from Hopi Point."

"DOWN BRIGHT ANGEL TRAIL. ••• Yonder rises Shiva Temple, the dominating pile of Bright Angel Trail, wonderfully symmetrical in form—an oriental palace of gigantic dimensions built of intricately carved stone and surmounted by a pinnacled dome of light yellow. Truly, it seems as if one might enter its awful portals and come into the hall of some potentate of giant stature amidst surroundings of barbaric splendor, a fit ruler for the enchanted land in which we sojourn today. •••"

Below Indian Garden, ". . . worst of all is the Devil's Corkscrew—for his satanic majesty has almost as many possessions in the Grand Canyon as in the Yellowstone; we do not hear so much of him in the elysian vale of the Yosemite, thank heaven. But the Corkscrew is rightly named, whether the devil has aught to do with it or not. •••"

At last, "rounding a granite cliff we find ourselves on the shores of the vexed torrent which in countless ages has wrought the wonderland through which it courses. Its waters are turbid and foam-crested and the granite precipices resound with its sullen roar. The opposite shore seems no more than a stone's throw away, but the missile hurled by the most dextrous of our party falls in midstream—in such stupendous surroundings one is deceived as to the river's width. We gaze at its whirling waters with a strange fascination—there is indeed no match for the Colorado among the greater rivers of the world. Other great streams are the friendly servants of man, affording him means of travel and patiently bearing his burdens. How different the demon torrent that writhes before us—almost inaccessible to man, it resists and defies his puny efforts to subdue its somber waters. The most intrepid explorers alone have ridden its angry waves and they traversed its tortuous course only with unparalleled danger and fatigue. Its waters are surcharged with sand and are almost as turbid as those of the Mad Missouri; there is nowhere the crystal and emerald glory of the Yellowstone. It is hemmed in by solid walls of black granite and it rushes over a bed of the same material so hard that erosion now proceeds but slowly, despite the awful force of the torrent. Here and there the waters swirl and eddy around huge boulders, which in some remote time have plunged down from the towering cliffs. •••"

"AT THE EL TOVAR. As we return to the hotel [following the American Indian dances at Hopi House] we pause to again contemplate the mysterious depths of the weird chasm where ghostly forms and dark shadows seem to struggle with the fitful moonbeams and behold another phase of its ever-changing and indescribable beauty.

"The El Tovar is brilliant with myriads of electric lights, for this unique palace in the wilderness has every modern improvement and convenience. It is a somewhat rambling building of huge proportions, constructed of

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

native logs and boulders, though the plan is hardly so happily conceived or so well carried out as that of the Old Faithful Inn in the Yellowstone. Perhaps it has less of the genuine atmosphere of the wild about it."

And the author languishes and lavishes over the many great artists who have graced canvases with their own impressions of the chasm; and muses for pages on early explorers, particularly Powell.

Parry, E. H.

871 1912 Sunrise at the Grand Canyon. Overland Monthly, 59(6) (June): 531.

An amber glow is leaping in the east
To herald dawn; the shadowy, brooding cloud
That trails above the canyon as a shroud
Dissolves to song of bird and bark of beast.
The glow has spread to flame, the flame increas'd
Till Point Sublime and peaks and crags that crowd
About it to the west, are gold-endow'd
By streaming shafts of light, and night has ceas'd.

Now upward stealing from their hiding place,
So slowly and discreetly, gilded white—
But boldened by the day—come mists to light;
As blessed angels move they on through space,
Or mount as souls that, freed from earth and night,
Arise to seek their God and lasting grace.

Percival, Charles G.

872 NO DATE The trail of the "Bull-dog": a 50,000 mile journey by motor car through the United States, Canada, Mexico, B.C., Alaska, and the Klondike. [No imprint], 96 pp. [1912.]

North American tour in an Abbott-Detroit "44" touring car in 1910-1911. Includes Grand Canyon.

Phelps, William Lyon

873 1912 Teaching in school and college. New York: Macmillan Co., 186 pp.

See pp. 9-10, writing of teachers' lasting influence on their pupils. "I sat in the smoking-car of the little branch train leaving the Grand Canyon in Arizona. The regular fireman of the locomotive had a day off, and he came and sat with me. I said to him, 'This has been a new experience for me, this Canyon; it is the most wonderful thing I ever saw. Does it affect you the same way? Of course you see it every day. Does it seem wonderful to you? or is it just the beginning and the end of the day's run?' He replied, 'Do you want to know what I think of it?' and then he quoted word for word the whole of Bryant's Thanatopsis. Now I suppose some poor, underpaid school-mistress had taught the boy that poem, and this was her reward." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Whether or Phelps's anecdote is from life, or is a lesson, William Cullen Bryant's Thanatopsis ("a consideration of death"; date uncertain but perhaps about 1811-1816) is as follows (retrieved from Wikipedia, <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Thanatopsis>, May 28, 2022). It is not flagged here as a Grand Canyon poem because it is neither "about" nor "inspired by" the Grand Canyon. Even so, it is the essence of the Canyon.

To him who in the love of Nature holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness, and a smile
And eloquence of beauty, and she glides
Into his darker musings, with a mild
And healing sympathy, that steals away
Their sharpness, ere he is aware. When thoughts
Of the last bitter hour come like a blight

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Over thy spirit, and sad images
Of the stern agony, and shroud, and pall,
And breathless darkness, and the narrow house,
Make thee to shudder, and grow sick at heart;—
Go forth, under the open sky, and list
To Nature's teachings, while from all around—
Earth and her waters, and the depths of air—
Comes a still voice—Yet a few days, and thee
The all-beholding sun shall see no more
In all his course; nor yet in the cold ground,
Where thy pale form was laid, with many tears,
Nor in the embrace of ocean, shall exist
Thy image. Earth, that nourished thee, shall claim
Thy growth, to be resolved to earth again,
And, lost each human trace, surrendering up
Thine individual being, shalt thou go
To mix for ever with the elements,
To be a brother to the insensible rock
And to the sluggish clod, which the rude swain
Turns with his share, and treads upon. The oak
Shall send his roots abroad, and pierce thy mould.

Yet not to thine eternal resting-place
Shalt thou retire alone, nor couldst thou wish
Couch more magnificent. Thou shalt lie down
With patriarchs of the infant world—with kings,
The powerful of the earth—the wise, the good,
Fair forms, and hoary seers of ages past,
All in one mighty sepulchre. The hills
Rock-ribbed and ancient as the sun,—the vales
Stretching in pensive quietness between;
The venerable woods—rivers that move
In majesty, and the complaining brooks
That make the meadows green; and, poured round all,
Old Ocean's gray and melancholy waste,—
Are but the solemn decorations all
Of the great tomb of man. The golden sun,
The planets, all the infinite host of heaven,
Are shining on the sad abodes of death,
Through the still lapse of ages. All that tread
The globe are but a handful to the tribes
That slumber in its bosom.—Take the wings
Of morning, pierce the Barcan wilderness,
Or lose thyself in the continuous woods
Where rolls the Oregon, and hears no sound,
Save his own dashings—yet the dead are there:
And millions in those solitudes, since first
The flight of years began, have laid them down
In their last sleep—the dead reign there alone.
So shalt thou rest, and what if thou withdraw
In silence from the living, and no friend
Take note of thy departure? All that breathe
Will share thy destiny. The gay will laugh
When thou art gone, the solemn brood of care
Plod on, and each one as before will chase
His favorite phantom; yet all these shall leave
Their mirth and their employments, and shall come

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

And make their bed with thee. As the long train
Of ages glide away, the sons of men,
The youth in life's green spring, and he who goes
In the full strength of years, matron and maid,
The speechless babe, and the gray-headed man—
Shall one by one be gathered to thy side,
By those, who in their turn shall follow them.

So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry-slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

S., G. H.

874 1912 The Grand Canyon. The Notre Dame Scholastic (University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Indiana), 46(3) (October 5): 35.

A vast and depthless wound in nature's breast,
Where silence broods and glooms in sleepless rest:
Some ancient conflict rent the world apart,
Upheaved the earth and cleft its mighty heart.

'Twas here that gods and Titans must have warred
In frightful clash and awful strife, to lord
The infinite skies and boundless virgin world.
Jove's thund'rous, all-destroying bolts were hurled
With such tremendous impact that the shock
Tore wide this monstrous chasm in the rock.
And lo! the blood that drenched the battle-plain
Ensanguined all a dark, eternal stain.

Here, too, the Cyclops dwelt in mammoth cave.
Whose painted gates perennial Avatars lave.
They wrought with giant hands the massive walls.
And chiseled age on age the sculptured halls.
They reared a fane that reached celestial realms,
A temple wondrous formed that awes, o'erwhelms—
Great, monolithic shafts colossal rise,
Supporting pillars for Olympian skies.

The graven splendors of ten thousand years.
Worn here by time and heaven's erosive tears.
The dying glory of a million suns.
Are caught within the granite cliff that runs
For countless miles in stately palisades.
Arrayed in purple, bronze and cobalt shades.

The muffled tumult of torrential wave
Reverberates along the temple's nave;
Low minor chords that blend with twilight mgod
At whispered close of vesper interlude.
And when the dusk-clad spirit of the night
Invites the soul away in starry flight,
'Tis then the solemn, epic grandeur fills

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

The gloom with mystic music, moves and thrills
The heart and chastens into silence all
The world, as darkness drapes it with her pall.

In vain does inspiration guide the mind.
To compass all this scene in terms defined.
Not all the fancy of the poet's heart,
Nor all the genius of the painter's art
Could ever reproduce this gorge sublime.
Upheaved by God, coeval with all time!

S., L. E.

- 875 1912 National Academy of Design. In: Art [SECTION]. The Nation (New York), 95 (December 19): 597-598.

Winter Exhibition at the National Academy of Design. Includes: "De Witt Parshall's [DeWitt Parshall] Abyss of Shadows gives the ghostly rock formations of the mighty Canyon of the Colorado with the shadows of night around them. He expresses by a suggestive glimpse more successfully than most, something of the awe which that restless, illusive depth inspires in the mind of man." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Spero, Schuyler Colfax

- 876 1912 Morn at the Grand Canyon. In: Among Our Poets [SECTION]. Santa Fe Employes' Magazine, 7(1) (December): 95.

I see the eastern hills aglow,
The burning sun, immense and slow,
Crown the rosy new-born day
Through the cloudland's silver way.

From yon sunrise and morning light
To sunset fair, and dreamy night,
Thy wonderful cathedral spires
Flash the glow of eternal fires.

Out of thy gray chaotic mass
Towering mountains loom; they pass
Like monarchs bold in grand array
To meet the glory of the day.

The silent pines with limbs up curled,
They sentinel thy underworld
That lies majestic, deep and wide,
And constant as the moon and tide.

The lights and shades thy rocks entwine,
Like to things almost divine;
While far below the river's way
Now greets with smiles the new-born day.

I see thy deep untrampled floor;
I hear the cataracts that roar
In muffled tones—they harmonize
With soft keyed winds and sunny skies.

Yon distant crags that pierce the west
Are wrapt in beauty like the rest;
They stand afar like burning piles—
Like panoramic blazing isles.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Now on and on to sunset rim
Soft purple shades thy caverns skim;
And as farewell is said to thee
The more you seem a mystery;
For when we try to comprehend
The power, the cause, the plan, the end,
Our thoughts float o'er a wild weird sea
And marvel at thy destiny.

Stackpole, George F.

877 1912 My travels through Europe and my western trip. Riverhead, New York: The County Review Press, 133 pp.

See pp. 101-105, from a diary entry dated "Grand Canyon, Arizona, Oct. 5, 1906".

"At Ash Forks [sic] I changed to the Santa Fe Road and rode back 23 miles to Williams, where I arrived at 8 P. M., Thursday. Here I went on board the car that was to start at 11.20 P. M., for the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. I made myself as comfortable as I could in a chair car and passed the night as best I could, arriving at the Grand Canyon about sunrise, Friday morning. I went to the hotel, ate some breakfast and went out to the brink to get my first view of that wonder of the world about which I had read and heard so much. ••• I could stand on the rim and look down the almost perpendicular cliff nearly a mile. A zigzag path had been cut in the cliff, leading to the bottom. I looked down from that dizzy height and wondered if any living thing could go down and up that perpendicular cliff. I hunted up a guide and made inquiries about it. I asked him if many were killed in attempting to make the trip. He assured me that no one had ever been killed and that ladies frequently made the trip.

"That settled the matter and I engaged the guide and a couple of mules. At 8.30 A. M. I was astride of a mule, with the guide on his mule leading the way down the cliff. •••"

We hear, time and again, from tourists who fretted (to put it mildly) over their mule's predilection to scaring the daylighters out of the rider, and how they held on for life and dear life. Stackpole, on the other hand, not so fretful although he was a tight holder, offers for once the mule's perspective of things:

"The path would lead a few rods in one direction and then reverse and run in another direction. It was interesting to see the mule turn the corners on a little pedestal not much larger than a good sized chair bottom. She would stop and gather her feet under and stand with her fore legs erect and stiff and work her hind feet round inch by inch until she was reversed and then she would creep on. At places there were steps, at which the mule would stop with her fore feet on the extreme edge of the step, steady herself for a moment and then drop both feet together down the step, with her legs straight and rigid. The jar was not pleasant for a man weighing 200 pounds. At one place the guide dismounted and told me to do the same, as it was not safe to ride. Here short logs had been bolted into the cliff to make a foot hold, but this was too much for even a mule to undertake with a man on her back, so we let the mules creep down ahead and we followed on foot.

"I was so interested in the wonderful scenery and in watching and admiring the work of the mule that I was not dizzy and had not the least sense of fear. After three hours' clambering down the dizzy heights we reached the bottom. The river at the bottom is 300 feet wide, very deep and rapid, with an average fall of 17 feet to the mile. It is very crooked and one can see only a short distance of it in any one place. After a rest and lunch we remounted the mules and started back over our seven miles' climb. The ascent is easier than the descent. We reached the rim about 5 o'clock, well repaid for our 14 miles' ride.

"After reaching the top I walked along the cliff a mile, then took a stage and rode three and one-half miles out to Roe's [Rowe's] Point, said to be one of the finest views of the canyon. Here we could see the fantastic shapes into which the stones had been worn. Solomon's Temple, the Temple of Isis and many other renowned temples of antiquity were pointed out to us, and in the slanting rays of the setting sun and with a little stretch of the imagination, we could see the faithful outlines and much of the splendor of the renowned works of architecture, the remains of which are the wonder of the present age. It is useless to attempt to describe with words this marvelous creation of the forces of nature. President Roosevelt is reported to have said on seeing it: 'Every person in the United States ought to see this wonder of the world.' It is said that the President rode down the canyon, but the guides deny this. It would have been all right as a cowboy, but it is too perilous to be undertaken by the President, no matter how ready he might be to undertake it." [The guides were right, and although T.R. would have quite disagreed with the author's suggestion of peril, a trail ride was omitted because of the President's full itinerary in a rush to California—and in the meantime, everyone wanted to meet the president. See Roosevelt (1903) herein.] "After riding back to the hotel and eating supper, nature reminded me that I had had very little rest for two days and two nights, so I laid down to refreshing sleep and pleasant dreams of the many wonderful things of beauty to be seen in this land that we call ours."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Sterling, George

878 1912 At the Grand Cañon. Poetry, 1(3) (December): 76.

Thou settest splendors in our sight, O Lord!
It seems as tho' a deep hued sunset falls
Forever on these Cyclopean walls—
These battlements where Titan hosts have warred
And hewn the world with devastating sword,
And shook with trumpets the eternal halls
Where seraphim lay hid by bloody palls
And only Hell and Silence were adored.
Lo! the abyss wherein great Satan's wings
Might gender tempests, and his dragons' breath
Fume up in pestilence. Beneath the sun
Or starry outposts on terrestrial things,
Is no such testimony unto Death
Nor altars builded to Oblivion.

W., J., AND K., E.

879 1912 The Christmas trip of the Musical Clubs to the Pacific coast. Michiganensian (University of Michigan), 1912: 354-356.

Only mentions the side trip from Williams to the Grand Canyon during the ride back East, but includes one photo of four people posing at the canyon rim.

Whiting, Frederic J.

880 1912 To and from the Seattle convention. Stone and Webster Public Service Journal (Boston), 11 (August): 97-122, and illustration facing p. 97.

Grand Canyon, pp. 104-107 and illustration facing p. 107. Text includes a Kolb Brothers photo of the trail party.

"Williams was passed in the late hours of the night. It is a steep grade from there to the Canyon, which we reached before seven o'clock on the morning of Thursday, May 30. A long flight of steps leads from the railroad station to El Tovar, the large and finely appointed hotel which the Santa Fe road maintains on the brink of the chasm. Some of the men of our party failed to realize that we were 6,000 feet above sea level and took the steps about as rapidly as they are accustomed to emerge from a New York or Boston subway. During the remainder of their stay in those high altitudes they acted differently.

"No words and no pigments can picture the Grand Canyon. It transcends the imagination. I am convinced, from all I have been able to gather, that it is absolutely unique, that there is nothing on the earth's surface that can be classed with it. • • •

"Nowhere can there be found such an harmonious union of majesty and loveliness. 'What is man, that thou art mindful of him!' [Psalms 8:4] was the only thing that occurred to me as I stood spellbound. The serenity of it

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

all is what overpowers you; here the creative mind employed its most titanic forces, but the effect upon him who beholds ther result is one of divine tranquility. • • •

"Some of our party made the descent of the Canyon. More of us would have done so had our stay been longer. It was a question which would be most profitable—to go to the bottom and look up a mile to the top, or to drive for miles along the brink and study the extent of the illimitable chasm. As we could not do both, I chose to do the latter. Besides, the descent, which is made on mules, is an exceptionally arduous feat and is much more advisably undertaken, where there are women concerned, after one has had a day or two in which to get accustomed to the rarified air and the intense head of that locality. On this particular day the temperature was considerably in excess of 100 at the bottom of the Canyon. It is universal opinion, however, that the trip is worth the effort."

Whiting describes the rim drive, and expounds briefly on the history of exploration of the canyon, with a brief remark of having met "two men" (the Kolb brothers) "who last year exactly duplicated Powell's feet [sic]."

"My account of the Grand Canyon would be incomplete if I should fail to mention that we were there at the full of the moon. Here again all powers of description fail."

Williamson, Alice

- 881 1912 From France to America's sunset land. Country Life in America, 21(7) (February 1): 27-30, 62, 64. [Grand Canyon, see pp. 62, 64; and illustrations, p. 30.]

"Through high, fragrant pine forest country, ringed with far mountains, I arrived at the Grand Cañon; and no sooner had I walked up the small hill from the railway station (which is like a screen for the surpassing grandeurs beyond) than I knew I was face to face with one of the world's greatest marvels. Standing in the terrace of one of the most perfect hotels ever built, I seemed to be looking down, down, through a golden glow to the red heart of the earth. Down there were castles and cities; and even the mountains, high though they were, lay in their rose and purple ranges far beneath the golden levels on which I stood. All the moulds from which the noblest castles of history or fairy legend were fashioned, are still down there in the mystic depths of the Grand Cañon of Arizona. What a study for architects! And if Wagner were never there in body, he must have gone in his dreams, or he could not have written the music of the gods, as he did. There in the Grand Cañon Walhall [sic] towers up; there among the ruddy rocks glows the fire which rings Brunhilde round till Siegfried comes." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Wilson, W. P.

- 882 1912 Report of the Director. From: Annual Report of the Philadelphia Museums for the Year 1911. In: First annual message of Rudolph Blankenburg, Mayor of the City of Philadelphia : with the annual reports of George D. Porter, Director of the Department of Public Safety, and of the chiefs of bureaus constituting said department : also Philadelphia museums, free libraries, public aquarium, and art jury : for the year ending December 31, 1911 : issued by the City of Philadelphia, 1912. Volume I. Philadelphia: Dunlap Printing Co.

See p. 753, in list of public lectures: "January 21. 'Grand Canon of the Colorado,' Prof. H. Clay Borden." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1913

Anonymous

- 883 1913 DeWitt Parshall at Folsom's. American Art News, 11(18) (February 8): 8.

Folsom Galleries, New York. "The 'Great Abyss,' a Grand Canyon subject, which holds the place of honor, is beautiful in color and is a well proportioned and interesting composition." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 884 1913 [Note.] In: Around the Galleries [SECTION]. American Art News, 11(19) (February 15): 10.
"Elliott Daingerfield recently sold to Moulton & Ricketts from his studio, what he calls, and with reason, 'His masterpiece,' a large picture, entitled, 'The Genius of the Canyon,' now on exhibition . . . in the New York galleries of the firm . . . ." A nude study, it "evolved in the artist's mind from memories of his recent visits to and study of, the grand canon of the Colorado in Arizona. Thomas Moran, and even Marcius Simons, combined, could not have produced a more gorgeous color scheme or fantastic 'vision.' The color is marvelously clear and rich and the work, despite its not easily understandable title, is the strongest the painter has yet produced."
- 885 1913 Hudson first car to climb Bright Angel Trail. The Hudson Triangle (Hudson Motor Car Co., Detroit), 3(3) (July 19): [4].
Hudson Six 54 driven from Williams, Arizona, to Grand Canyon at head of Bright Angel Trail. Promotional item.
- 886 1913 Drives car to canyon's brink. In: From the Four Winds [SECTION]. Motor Age, 24(4) (July 24): 40.
"The distinction of piloting a motor car to a point where a car never has been driven before is one that rarely comes to the motorist nowadays, but George W. Jiminez of the Hudson motor car agency at Los Angeles achieved this feat recently when he drove a Hudson six to the head of the Bright Angel trail at the brink of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado." (ENTIRE ITEM)
- 887 1913 Annual convention of the Train Dispatchers' Association of America. Santa Fe Magazine, 7(9) (August): 43-45.
"A side trip to the Grand Cañon was arranged and the entire party availed themselves of the opportunity to view the Wonder of the World." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 888 1913 Dr. Muller sees Grand Canyon. In: In the Santa Fe Southwest [SECTION]. The Earth (Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway, Chicago), 10(3) (March): 2.
In part, crafted as a Santa Fe promotional item.
"Returning from the Pacific Coast, Dr. Lauro Muller, secretary of state of the Republic of Brazil, and special ambassador of his country, returning a visit paid by Elihu Root, former secretary state of the United States, to Brazil, stopped at the Grand Canyon of Arizona. After viewing the great chasm, his comment was, 'It has been all day like a beautiful fantasy. It has hard to believe the wonderful handiwork of the Almighty is real. It touches the loftiest emotons of the soul. Some day I am coming back for a long stay. I want to go out to the rim at Maricopa Point all alone, in the evening, and watch the sun set on this most wonderful work of God.'
"During his stay at the canyon Dr. Muller was driven over the rim road, which lately has been constructed by the Santa Fe Railway for the pleasure of tourists, and also visited the many points of interest. He was very much interested in the band of Hopi Indians and their work adjacent to El Tovar Hotel." (ENTIRE ITEM)
- 889 1913 Hudson Six first machine driven to Grand Canyon. Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record, 11(6) (August 9): 4.
- 890 1913 Michigan State Federation of Art. Aesthetics (Hackley Art Gallery, Muskegon, Michigan), 2(1) (October): 16-17.
Fall Exhibition. Noted: "De Witt Parshall—Temple of Vishnu, Grand Canyon." and "F. Ballard Williams—Flying Clouds, Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTES) DeWitt Parshall.
- 891 1913 [Alvin Langdon Coburn exhibition of Grand Canyon photographs, Goupil Gallery, London.] In: Notes [SECTION]. Nature (London), 92 (October 9): 174.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

892 1913 Moving Picture Educator [SECTION]. Moving Picture World (New York), 18(8) (November 22): 856-.

See listings, p. 858: "The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Edison 30Jl. [30 July]" and "The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Majestic 19Ag. [19 August]". (ENTIRE NOTE) ("Edison" refers to the firm of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., Orange, New Jersey. There have been some attributions to a "Thomas Edison" film of the Grand Canyon presumed to have been an early personal production by the inventor, but such attributions are likely errors for the Edison firm.)

893 1913 In the Galleries [SECTION]. The International Studio, 49: LXXXI-LXXXVI.

"At the Montross Galleries [Pittsburgh], Arthur Wesley Dow showed seventeen pictures, large and small [not illustrated] of the Grand Canyon of Arizona, a decided change from the Marshes of New England, his previous field of endeavor. Mr. Dow has given himself an impossible task. To render this welter of nature, earth's terrific struggles with the Titans, is given to no painter to achieve, but he has given us the spirit and mystery, the color and silence to a great degree, and for that we must be grateful. These treeless wastes, these unpeopled rock cities, these weird panoramas of wonderful but God-forsaken tracts of country have made their appeal to Mr. Dow at the bewitching red-orange stage of sunset, and in some of his pictures these temples not hewn by man have become veritable sanctuaries." (ENTIRE NOTE)

894 1913 Wednesday, March 13. In: The Smoke Talks [SECTION]. Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, Annual Record, 274(1911-1912): 61-62.

Includes brief review, p. 62, of a travel talk by Arthur K. Peck on the Southwest including Grand Canyon.

Art Institute of Chicago

895 1913 Catalogue of etchings and lithographs by Joseph Pennell. The Art Institute of Chicago from January 28 to February 21, 1913. [No imprint], [6] pp. [including wraps].

Lists "Sunset; Grand Canyon" and "The Temple; Grand Canyon" (p. [5]). Not illustrated.

896 1913 Painters of the Far West : first annual exhibition, February 27 to March 16, 1913. Chicago: Art Institute of Chicago, [14] pp.

Introductory note, p. [2], indicates that "the Grand Cañon", with other locales, "are fields comparatively untouched" artistically. See p. [5], Elliott Daingerfield, "From rim to rim" (illustrated); p. [8], Thomas Moran, "Zoroaster Peak, Grand Cañon" (illustrated); p. [9], De Witt Parshall, "Temple of Vishnu, Grand Cañon" (illustrated) and "The great abyss"; p. [14], Frederick Ballard Williams, "Flying clouds, Grand Cañon" and "After the storm, Grand Cañon" (illustrated).

Barck, C.

897 1913 Caves. Mazama, 4(2) (December): 61-69.

The author notes having visited two "limestone caverns in the mountain regions of the west"; one "is in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, on the 'Grand View' or 'Berry's' trail, about 2500 feet below the rim." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Brandreth, Paul

898 1913 A first impression of the Canyon. Forest and Stream, 81(24) (December 13): 759.

"The most strenuous effort of imagination, the wildest fight of fancy fail utterly in their attempt to prepare one, even in a small way, for a first view of the Grand Canyon."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Britton, James P.

- 899 1913 Painters of the Far West. In: With the Dealers [SECTION]. American Art News, 12(11) (December 20): 4.

Exhibition at Macbeth by the Society of Men Who Paint the Far West, including two by Frederick Ballard Williams, "Bright Angel Trail" and "Afternoon Light".

Brückner, Ed.

- 900 1913 Die transkontinentale Exkursion der Amerikanischen Geographischen Gesellschaft durch die Vereinigten Staaten, August bis Oktober 1912. Geographischen Gesellschaft, Mitteilungen, 56: 611-651. [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. 'The American Geographical Society's transcontinental excursion through the United States, August to October 1912.')

Transcontinental Excursion of 1912. Includes Grand Canyon.

Buek, Gustave H.

- 901 1913 Thomas Moran. In: Interesting People [SECTION]. American Magazine (New York), 75(3) (January): 10 [color frontispiece], 28-34.

Frontispiece: "A Glimpse of the Grand Canon of Arizona from the New Hermit Rim Road". From a painting made in the spring of 1912, by Thomas Moran, N.A."

Cadby, Carine, AND Cadby, Will A.

- 902 1913 London Letter [COLUMN]. Photo-Era, 31(6) (December): 322.

Includes remarks on a set of 17 Grand Canyon photos exhibited in the Goupil Gallery by Alvin Langdon Coburn.

Calciati, Cesare

- 903 1913 L'escursione geografica transcontinentale 1912 negli Stati Uniti d'America. Reale Società Geografica, Bollettino (Società Geografica Italiana, Roma), Serie 5, Volume 2, Parte 1 (Anno 47, Volume 50), (Fasc. 5): 471-513. [\[In Italian.\]](#)
(transl. 'The 1912 Transcontinental Geographical Excursion, United States of America.')

Grand Canyon, see pp. 507-508:

"Il 2 ottobre arriviamo finalmente al Gran Cañon del Colorado nell'Arizona, la meraviglia delle meraviglie! E qui vorrei cedere la penna ad un grande poeta affinché cercasse di darne una descrizione degna della realtà! Nessuno, per quanto abbia letto o ne abbia sentito parlare, potrà mai immaginare come sia realmente il fantastico spettacolo presentato da questo baratro aperto nella crosta terrestre! Le fotografie stesse, oso dire, ottengono l'effetto contrario, ossia forzano l'immaginazione a diminuirne la grandiosità.

"La vista che si ha del gran Cañon dal suo ciglio superiore è senza alcun dubbio grandiosa ed al tempo stesso stravagante; però non si intuiscono ancora esattamente le dimensioni sue reali. Per rendersi conto della sua profondità di 1.700 metri è necessario scendere fino nel fondo del baratro, e misurarsi con lo spessore enorme degli strati geologici che prima vi sembravano di pochi metri.

"Per avere un'idea della sua larghezza bisogna volontariamente pensare che il bordo della riva opposta che vi sembra così vicino si trova ad una distanza media di 14 km. e più!

"Ciò che contribuisce in modo unico al pittoresco dello spettacolo è il color rosso di quasi tutti gli strati, e gli effetti di luce che risultano dalle forme ardite prodotte e rispettate dall'erosione mentre proiettano le loro ombre in modo variante secondo le ore del giorno.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Di questa regione possediamo già parecchie magistrali descrizioni geologiche (Dutton, Powell, Walcott, Davis, de Margerie) che ci dispensano dal riassumerle, soprattutto perchè uscirebbero dal campo di questo articolo."

(translation)

'On 2 October we finally arrived at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona, the wonder of wonders! And here I would like to give the pen to a great poet so that he would try to give a description worthy of reality! No one, however much they have read or heard of it, will ever be able to imagine what the fantastic spectacle presented by this chasm opened in the earth's crust really is! Photographs themselves, I dare say, obtain the opposite effect, that is, they force the imagination to diminish its grandeur.

'The view of the great Canyon from its upper edge is undoubtedly grandiose and at the same time extravagant; however, its real dimensions are not yet fully understood. To realize its depth of 1,700 meters, it is necessary to go down to the bottom of the abyss, and to place yourself against the enormous thickness of the geological layers that previously seemed to you like a few meters.

'To get an idea of its width, one must voluntarily think that the edge of the opposite shore that seems so close to you is located at an average distance of more than 14 km!

'What contributes in a unique way to the picturesqueness of the view is the red color of almost all the layers, and the effects of light that result from the bold shapes produced and respected by erosion as they cast their shadows in varying ways according to the hours of the day.

'We already have several masterful geological descriptions of this region (Dutton, Powell, Walcott, Davis, de Margerie) which exempt us from summarizing them, especially because they would fall outside the scope of this article.'

City Art Museum of St. Louis

- 904 1913 Special exhibition catalogue. City Art Museum of St. Louis. A group of paintings of the Far West by American artists. Opening Sunday, February 2, 1913. St. Louis, Missouri: City Art Museum, [20] pp. [including wraps]. (City Art Museum of St. Louis, Special Exhibition Catalogue, Series 1913, No. 3.)

Includes: Elliott Daingerfield, "From Rim to Rim" (illustrated); Thomas Moran, "Zoroaster Peak, Grand Canon" (illustrated); DeWitt Parshall, "Temple of Vishnu, Grand Canon" (illustrated); Frederick Ballard Williams, "Flying Clouds, Grand Canon" (not illustrated) and "After the Storm, Grand Canon" (illustrated).

Cobb, Irvin S.

- 905 1913 Roughing it de luxe; canonized pilgrims. Saturday Evening Post, 185(49) (June 7): 3-5, 44-46.

A classic humorous Grand Canyon account, frequently reprinted and extracted.

"It is generally conceded that the Grand Cañon beggars description. I shall therefore endeavor to refrain from doing so. Nearly everybody, on taking a first look at the Grand Cañon, comes right out and admits its wonders are absolutely indescribable—and then proceeds to write anywhere from two thousand to fifty thousand words, giving the full details. Speaking personally, I wish to say that I do not know anybody who has yet succeeded in getting away with the job. • • •

"In the presence of the Grand Cañon, language just simply fails you and all the parts of speech go dead lame. When the Creator made it He failed to make a word to cover it. To that extent the thing is incomplete."

Cobb begins with the train journey from Chicago to Grand Canyon, including a running narration about the frantic man who was fixated for the whole trip about whether one had to change in Williams for the Grand Canyon, then changed his tenor to what to wear for the Canyon, when as the train approached Grand Canyon early risers were aware of him in his upper berth, flailing; and on arrival, "He had solved the question of what to wear while gazing at the Grand Cañon. He was dressed in a new golf suit, complete—from the dinky cap to the Scotch plaid stockings."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cobb recites the expected litany of paints and pyres, “. . . imagine them splashed and splattered over with all the earthly colors you ever saw and a lot of unearthly colors you never saw before; imagine them carved and fretted and scrolled into all shapes—tabernacles, pyramids, battleships, obelisks, Moorish palaces . . . monuments minarets, temples, turrets, castles, spires, domes, tents, tepees, wigwams, shafts!”—and six whole paragraphs more, each beginning with “Imagine . . .”

“You stand there, stricken dumb, with your whole being dwarfed yet transfigured; and in the glory of that moment you can even forget the gabble of the lady tourist alongside of you who, after searching her soul for the right words, comes right out and gives the Grand Cañon her cordial indorsement. She pronounces it to be just perfectly lovely!

Then the trip down Bright Angel Trail to the plateau: “Down a winding footpath moves the procession, with the guide in front, and behind him in single file his string of pilgrims—all as nervous as cats and some holding to their saddle-pommels with deathgrips. Just under the first terrace a halt is made while the official photographer takes a picture; and when you get back he has your finished copy ready for you, so you can see for yourself just how pale and haggard and wall-eyed and like a typhoid patient you looked.” The trail descends, “clinging to the sheer side of the dizziest, deepest chasm in the known world.” Farther along, “Apparently about every other person who came this way remarked to himself that this cañon was practically completed and only needed his signature as collaboration to round it out—so then he signed it and it was a finished job. Some of them brought down colored chalk and stencils, and marking pots, and paints and brushes, and cold chisels to work with, which must have been a lot of trouble, but was worth it—it does add so greatly to the beauty of the Grand Cañon . . . .”

906 1913 Roughing it de luxe; the hydrophobic skunk; or, Rabid and his friends. (Illustrated by John T. McCutcheon.) Saturday Evening Post, 185(52) (June 28): 14-15, 28-30.

A continuation of the article in the June 7 issue (above); this time with description of a trip down Hermit Trail, along which first is met the “residence of Shorty, the official hermit of the Grand Cañon” and his dog, Toby. Farther down, at Hermit Camp (not mentioned by name), a rare description of the state of affairs there:

“This was roughing it de luxe with a most de-luxey vengeance! Here were three tents, or rather three canvas houses, with wooden half-walls; and they were spick-and-span inside and out, and had glass windows in them and doors and matched wooden floors. The one that was a bedroom had gay Navajo blankets on the floor, and a stove in it, and a little bureau, and a washstand with white towels and good lathery soap. And there were two beds—not cots or bunks, but regular beds—with wire springs and mattresses and white sheets and pillowslips. They were not veteran sheets and vintage pillowslips, either, but clean and spotless ones. The mess tent was provided with a table with a clean cloth to go over it, and there were china dishes and china cups and shiny knives, forks and spoons. Every scrap of this equipment had been brought down from the top on burro packs. The Grand Cañon is scenically artistic, but it is a non-producing district. And outside there was a corral for the mules; a canvas storehouse; hitching stakes for the burros; a Dutch oven, and a little forge where the guides sometimes shoe a mule. They aren’t blacksmiths; they merely have to be.”

After a sumptuous meal, then come the stories of the “Hydrophoby Skunks” of the canyon, which, biting, won’t let go until sun-up. Worthy of John Hance, who, Cobb back at the village later, described as “the official prevaricator of the Grand Cañon. He moons round from spot to spot, romancing as he goes.”

907 1913 Roughing it de luxe. Santa Fe Magazine, 7(11) (October): 23-32.
From Saturday Evening Post.

Cook, Florence M.

908 1913 Los Angeles, Cal.—Florence M. Cook, E and ΔΔ. In: Some Newsly Letters To You [SECTION]. The Lyre of Alpha Chi Omega (Menasha, Wisconsin), 17(1) (November): 66.

AXΩ women’s fraternity. “It has been my happy experience to visit the Grand Canyon of Arizona this summer. Would that I could have taken all of you with me, as description defies even the painter’s brush. Select all the words synonymous with magnificence, sublimity and grandeur, yet you have no words of fit description for this huge paint pot of irregular mountain masses. Color is rampant here, the dull yellows shading into orange, then pinks and reds with the dark blue of scattered shadows everywhere. But by moonlight the titanic chasm assumes a misty glory, enhancing the wonders a hundred fold." (ENTIRE ITEM)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Daingerfield, Elliott

- 909 1913 The Genius of the Canyon. In: Pattison, James William, Some important picture sales. Fine Arts Journal, 28(3) (March): 184.

Pages 183-184 are about Elliott Daingerfield's painting, "The Genius of the Canyon" (illustrated p. 164) in the collection of Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, of Chicago. Pattison repeats a verse written by the artist at the time when the picture was completed:

Strip from the earth her crest, and see revealed the carven glory of the inner world,
Templed, domed, silent,—the while the Genius of the Canyon broods,
Nor counts the ages of mankind a thought, amid the everlasting calm.

Dearing, J. S.

- 910 1913 A drummer's experience. Colorado Springs, Colorado: Pikes Peak Publishing Co., 567 pp.

This book comprises life lessons, interspersed with personal experiences. See Chapter 17, "The Grand Canon", pp. 159-171 (although restricted to "The Canon", pp. 166-171). Includes note of a trip down Bright Angel Trail.

"If a linguist should attempt to describe the Grand Canon of the Colorado, he would bankrupt the English language and overdraw his account with Webster's Dictionary, and still not describe the wonderful, awe-inspiring chasm that bears the name of the Grand, and which is in every way appropriate. There are a great many Canons which have the word 'Grand' prefixed to their name, but the man who named them had surely never seen the Grand Canon of the Colorado, or possibly he wanted to steal some thunder.

"Of all the awe-inspiring sights that ever met the eye, this caps the climax. The Yellowstone is possibly more beautiful, the Matter-horn more majestic, but they have not that breath-taking and bewildering magnitude that meets the eye on beholding the Grand Canon of the Colorado. • • •

"All that we can say is, 'Wonderful, wonderful!'"

See also p. 391: "I formed the acquaintance of a man while on my way to visit the Grand Canon of Colorado [sic]. My fellow traveler was also bound for the Canon. We arrived at the Bright Angel Hotel about 5 P. M. He registered at the desk and left his grip. We walked to the brink of the wonderful chasm. He looked at it like he was looking into a sink hole ten by ten feet—no traces of pleasure, excitement or awe; he walked down a few hundred feet and took another dazed look, then headed for the hotel and asked what time the next train left. When told it would go in thirty minutes, he checked his baggage and hit the road."

Du Bois, W. E. Burghardt [Du Bois, William Edward Burghardt]

- 911 1913 Editorial. The Crisis (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, New York), 6(3) (33) (July): 130-132.

See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 130-131. This is probably the first account of Grand Canyon published by an African American; and its remarkable poetic gaze is unlike anything else that has been written of the canyon. See also Du Bois (1920), which elaborates on this.

"It is a cruel gash in the bosom of the earth down to its very entrails—a wound where the dull titanic knife has turned and twisted in the hole, leaving its edges livid scarred, jagged and pulsing over the white and red and purple of its mighty flesh, while down below, down, down below, in black and severed vein, boils the dull and sullen flood of the Colorado.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"It is awful. There can be nothing like it. It is the earth and skies gone stark and raving mad. The mountains uptwirled, disbodied and inverted stand on their peaks and throw their bowels to the skies. Their earth is air—their ether blood-red rock engreened. You stand upon their roots and fall into their pinnacles a mighty mile.

"Behold this mauve and purple mocking of time and space. See yonder peak! No human foot has trod it. Into that blue shadow only the eye of God has looked. Listen to the accents of that gorge which mutters: 'Before Abraham was, I am.' [John 8:58] Is yonder wall a hedge of black, or is it the rampart between Heaven and hell? I see greens—is it grass or giant pines? I see specks that may be boulders. Ever the winds sigh and drop into those sun-swept silences. Ever the gorge lies motionless, unmoved, until I fear. It is an awful thing, unholy, terrible. It is human—some mighty drama unseen, unheard, is playing there its tragedies or mocking comedy and the laugh of endless years is shrieking onward from peak to peak, unheard, unechoed and unknown." (ENTIRE ITEM)

Fiske, Stephen

912 1913 The Stage [SECTION]. The Field Illustrated (New York), (September 6): 241-242.

Includes the note, "America, the splendid new spectacle with which the Hippodrome reopened last Saturday, does for the United States what previous spectacles have done for the world at large. [Tableaux include] . . . the Grand Canyon in Colorado [sic] . . . . To compare this Hippodrome production with its predecessors is impossible • • • it must be seen to appreciate its grandeur and picturesqueness."

Gallois, L., AND Margerie, Emm. de [Margerie, Emmanuel de]

913 1913 L'excursion transcontinentale aux États-Unis (Août-Octobre 1912). Annales de Géographie (Paris), 22(122) (March 15): 113-114. [In French.]
(transl. "The transcontinental excursion to the United States (August-October 1912).")

Item signed "L. G. et Emm. de M." This number is devoted to articles relating to portions of the Transcontinental Excursion of 1912, by the American Geographical Society of New York, but none other than this introduction mention the Grand Canyon.

Gilbert, Charles B.

914 1913 What children study and why : a discussion of educational values in the elementary course of study. Boston, New York, and Chicago: Silver, Burdett and Co., 331 pp.

Under the section, "Enriching Vocabulary", see remark (p. 65),

"I was visiting the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona. A lady, after gazing long at the stupendous, awe-inspiring panorama, turned to a companion and said, 'Isn't it just the cutest thing you ever saw in your life?'

"To remove this poverty of words to express varying ideas should be one aim of the language lesson."

Doubtfully original, as the "cute" metaphor has been in print long before, as always attributed to a woman.

Harris, James A., Jr.

915 1913 Touring in prehistoric America. An interesting account of an automobile visit to a section of the country rich in relics of a race whose existence antedates every known period. The Automobile Journal, 36(10) (December 25): 49-53.

See p. 52, visit to Grand Canyon, without reference to archaeology. See also Harris (1914).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jefferson, Charles E.

- 916 1913 The parable of the wedding garment; sermon. The Bible Magazine (New York), 1(9) (September): 667-675.

Sermon by the pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle Church, New York. Includes: "I once heard a man standing near the edge of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado say to a friend near him: 'I wonder how soon we can get out of here.' He had arrived only a few minutes before. He had looked at the canyon possibly two minutes, and he had gotten enough of it. His mind turned at once to time tables and the next train. The canyon was to him only a big hole in the ground. The marvelous coloring did not appeal to him. The wonderful sculpture of Nature, wrought by the wind and the rain and the river, counted for nothing. The miracle of beauty and grandeur spread out at his feet had no fascination for his eye. He was no doubt a successful man as the world counts success. He knew the size and the beauty of a dollar and could gaze for hours at mortgages and clipped coupons, but when Nature invited him to the very greatest of her feasts he stood speechless and passed swiftly into the outer darkness. He was not prepared to stand even for a half hour in the palace of the King."

Johnston, A. A.; Canavan, S., Jr.; AND Harding, Bruce

- 917 1913 Gallup. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 7(5) (April): 98, 10

"On a recent pleasant Sunday, W. P. Cavanaugh, revising clerk, and E. R. Ball, stenographer to Mr. Johnson, disguised as gentlemen—excuse us, we mean tourists—made a trip to the Grand Cañon. They rode 'shanks' mare' down the trail and back, and there was a shortage of liniment at the village drug store immediately after their return. They had a fine trip, but Ball is still wondering how much it cost Fred Harvey to build the cañon." (ENTIRE NOTE) (The term "shanks' mare" means on foot.)

Kemp, James Furman

- 918 1913 The appeal of the natural sciences. Columbia University Quarterly, 16(1) (December): 1-15.

See pp. 11-12, brief note of Thomas Moran and Clarence Dutton at Grand Canyon 30 years earlier, and their unique expressions of Grand Canyon.

King, C. A.

- 919 1913 Phoenix, Ariz. In: From Local Unions [SECTION]. The Typographical Journal (Indianapolis, Indiana), 43(2) (August): 191-192.

See p. 192: "W. P. Doheney, an operator on the Republican, and without doubt the most daring motorcycle rider in the entire west, proved his skill by joining a party of motorcyclists, riding to the Grand Canyon of Arizona." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Kolb Bros. [Kolb Brothers]

- 920 1913 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Elizabeth, New Jersey: Campbell Art Co., 1 p., 20 plates.

- 921 1913 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Kolb Brothers, 12 hand-tinted prints, string-tied. [Wraps with photo laid on.]

Long, William Simon

- 922 1913 The charms of the great Southwest. American Catholic Quarterly Review, 38 (April) (150): 305-321.

Includes Grand Canyon. Largely the usual, although he sights the unusual "cyclopean tabernacle borne aloft by obelisks". His long description of a nighttime storm is, however, probably one of the most peculiarly, intensely

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

tortured descriptions from the canyon. If he attempts to out-adjective, out-analogy the greatest of Grand Canyon writers, he sorely loses—as did they.

“At midnight we brave the fury of a merciless tempest to view the most sublime cyclorama of the subaerial world—a torrential storm sweeping the pinnacles and steeples of this grim and ghastly bedlam of volcanic cones. We seem to stand on an eminence between supernal heights and lowest reaches of the infernal bourne. A black and ominous aerial sea engulfs the universe as the oceans above cast their deluge upon the Plutonian furnace beneath. The alabaster tower, the convent esplanade, the chalcedonic walk of early morn now transform to great and hideous imps, flaming parapets and smoking caldrons. Blinding flashes sever the sombre pall and crash against the bastions of empurpled ogres now up raising cavalcades of monstrous and blood-curdling mould. Once again the luminous beacon in its shattering flight lays bare the breastworks of Satanic cells, and again the artillerist of unerring aim flings low his terrific broadsides into the Stygian pits that groan with maledictions and lamentations of ghouls that haunt the chambers of perdition. Again and again the thunderous roars of bursting mortars and celestial searchlights take the gruesome arsenals of the flame-swept inferno; across the reaches of the rumbling brocken an empyreal strategist trains his belching cannon, until all beneath the firmament is seized within the grip of a conflagration that casts its diabolical hue far above and beyond the shrouds encompassing the world. The demonian batteries have been silenced and all is tranquil as the deathlike sea gives way to Luna's sheet of dazzling silver. We swing the glass on the imperial Temple of Osiris, disdainfully scowling on the lofty Pyramid of Cheops, which in turn flings out its castellated battlements high above the Dragon Head emerging from the profound catacombs of the gorge. Far beyond the plateaus and buttes, waterfalls and towers seemingly beneath our feet, but in reality many miles in the distant Aztec Amphitheatre toward the west, there repose a group of edenic gardens coursed by streams of gently shimmering water. Again the camera [telescope] is leveled across the troughlike gulch to the east, and we behold the crumbling walls of an impregnable fortress that repelled the ablest general of his time. Now a giant boulder crashes madly down the precipitous steeples and leaps with thunderous clap from crag to crag as it hurls along the vortex thousands of feet below. It is the signal for the midnight revel, and as a plume of jet flits beneath the nocturnal lamp, thee stalk forth an army of incorporeal phantoms and grotesque spectres that thrill and hold transfixed the very soul and heart of mortal man. We stand entranced, appalled and stupefied. All is dead; all is silent; all is ghastly.”

The trip to the river “on the sure-footed little donkey called the burro” offers far less to the stupefied author on the banks of the Colorado: “The seven miles along the Bright Angel Trail is consummated in about three hours, and now we view a vortex of maddened cataracts that sweep over boulder and mound at a death-dealing pace.”

Thoughtfully concluding, “Geologists assert that the erosion represents the work of ages, and perhaps their computations are correct; but right or wrong, the torrential floods of the Colorado River, in their onward roll to the Gulf of California, have given to man a prospect of cavernous voids, empyreal temples and fearful depths the mind of mediocrity utterly fails to comprehend.”

McGuire, F. E.

923      1913      A sermon on the Grand Cañon. Santa Fe Magazine, 7(6) (May): 73.

Sermon delivered at Trinity Church; from the City of Mexico Herald, with a brief introductory paragraph by the editor. “Stand on the rim of the great chasm and let not the dearest friend on earth interrupt your meditations.” And predictable acknowledgements of the “Supreme Architect of the Universe”.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Michaëlis, Sophus

- 924 1913 Blaaregn. København and Kristiania: Gyldendalske Boghandel—Nordisk Forlag, 193 [196] pp.
[Also another ed. 1920.] [In Danish.]
(transl. 'Rain showers')

See "Kæmpekløften; Grand Canyon i Arizona" (transl. 'The Giant Gap: Grand Canyon in Arizona'), pp. 78-80. The Creator reveals to the poet the forms and colors of the Grand Canyon, the haunt of souls. "Fall down and worship!"

Jeg saae Dine Troner,
O Almagt! og stirrede længe.
Johannes Ewald.

Hvem tog mig op paa denne stejle Rand, hvor røde Tinder af et Ørkenøde optaarner tusind Templer tændt i Brand?
Hvor Klippetroner tyst i Solen gløde,
Trinpyramider, som Naturen skaber til Ventested for alle Jordens Døde.
Se, Kloden til sit Hjertekammer gaber, et Saar i Skorpen skar sit Kæmpesnit, hvis Blodrand sig i Horisonten taber.
Inferno, ubefolket milevidt,
men Sjæle-hjemsøgt, set i Drøm af Dante, hvis Seerblik mod denne Kløft har stridt.
Solbaalene med svovlblaa Luer kante bundløse Dybder, hvor usynligt stimle de Pinselsdømte og de Rædselsvante.
Et Svælg, hvor Jordens Ørne bliver svimle og Vingerne til Overfart kun spændes af Erkeengle fra de høje Himle.
Et Skaberværksted, som af Solen tændes hver Dag i Blus fra tusind tavse Esser, mens Jordens Lag keramisk sammenbrændes af Fortidshaves Skaldyr, der sig presser til Kalk og Marmor med Krystalglassur, og miledybt i Bunden Floden messer imellem Mur af Gnejs i Vandfalds-Dur.
—Ukendte Kilder i mit Hjerte bløde:
Fald ned og tilbed! — Evige Natur, hvem tog mig op i dette Ørkenøde og stilled mig paa denne stejle Rand og lod mig selve Skaberkraften møde og aabenbared for mig dette Land?

Midwest Special Service

- 925 1913 In the Middle West. In: Correspondence [SECTION]. Moving Picture World (New York), 18(11)
(December 13): 1293.

"Kolb Brothers, who made a famous trip through the Grand Canon of Arizona and got some wonderful still pictures as well as moving pictures, are showing their films in the Middle West, but mainly before church and similar organisations." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Olufsen, Ole

- 926 1913 Den transkontinentale Ekskursion 1912 igennem de Forende Stater i Nordamerika. Geografisk Tidsskrift (Kongelige Danske Geografiske Selskabet, København), 22(2): 46-68, (3): 69-96. [In Danish.]

Transcontinental Excursion of 1912 (American Geographical Society of New York). Grand Canyon, see pp. 91-93.

Olyntho dos Santos Pires, Antonio

- 927 1915 St. Louis, 31 de Outubro de 1904. In: Actas de 1905 [SECTION], Sessão de 4 março de 1905 [SUBSECTION]. Sociedade de Geographia do Rio de Janeiro, Revista, 18(1/4): 49-53. [This number was not published until 1915.] [In Portuguese.]

Letter to the president of the society, Sr. Marquez de Paranaguá (João Lustosa da Cunha Paranaguá, Marquês de Paranaguá), regarding the author's representation of the society on the field trip of the 8th International Geographical Congress, which paid a visit to the Grand Canyon en route to Mexico. Few records are had of this trip as written by international correspondents—in fact, few records by any members of the congress other than to simply state they went to the Grand Canyon en route to Mexico—so the entire entry on the visit to Grand Canyon (pp. 50-51) is reproduced here (with translation following). (Compare also the remarks by the Czech, Stanislav Hanzlik, 1905, the German, Heinrich Fischer, 1904, the Chilean, Roberto Maldonado C., 1907, and the very much lengthier remarks by the German, Richard Marek, 1906. See also the brief remarks by a wife of one of the attendees of the congress, the Brazilian, Maria Clara da Cunha Santos, 1908.)

“Carta do Dr. Antonio Olyntho dos Santos Pires, representante da Sociedade no 8.º Congresso Internacional de Geographia, carta que pela sua importancia merece ser aqui transcripta: • • •

“Ahi nos detivemos para examinar o Grand Canyon do Colorado, de onde remetti a V. Ex. um folheto descriptivo desse interessante phenomeno geologico. O rio Colorado, antes de se despejar no golpho da California, abriu nos planaltos de Utah e do Arizona uma excavação gigantesca, com cerca de 217 milhas na direcção de este-oeste, tendo na média 12 milhas de largura e mais de 5.000 pés de pro fundidade.

“O terreno desnudado deixa facilmente vê a superposição das camadas e das rochas caracteristicas das diferentes idades geologicas:—desde os gneiss azoicos até aos alluviões modernos. Na base, na parte mais baixa, onde hoje está o leito do rio Colorado, se vê o gneiss negro, em grande espessura, ás vezes atravessado por diks de granito; acima delles estão os quartzitos, com varias colorações e tendo a espessura média de 800 pés; vêm depois grandes penhascos de grês em mais de 600 pés; seguem-se cama das de grês e calcareos com 700 pés de espessura; acima estão os calcareos, que, em alguns pontos, se trans formam em bello marmore, todos elles colorados de vermelho vivo; seguem-se novamente os grês pardos e vermelhos brilhantes, que alternam em mais de 500 pés de espessura, produzindo o effeito de fitas gigantescas ali estendidas horizontalmente, e por cima destas novas camadas de calcareo com perto de 1.000 pés de espessura, nas quaes se encontra o gypsum e as vezes o puro alabastro branco, não sendo raro ver-se tambem, no meio desse calcareo, camadas de agathas e de cornalinas; essas camadas superiores, contadas inais fundamente que as outras, apresentam as vezes pontas e torres que tomam fórmas fantasticas.

“Todos esses elementos, desde a base negra dos gneiss até ás torres alabastrinas de cima, têm diferentes formas e são coloridas de cores vivas e varias, dando um conjuncto de effeito bellissimo para a vista e como que representando as folhas abertas de um enorme livro de geologia. No fundo dessa excavação, onde descí, corre o rio Colorado, ora espreado- se em margens amplas com mais de 200 pés de largura, ora espumante e apertado entre gargantas asperas e profundas, que suas aguas violentas procuram constantemente alargar. Por toda a parte estão collocadas placas metalicas do United States Geological Surviey, dan do a altitude dos diferentes pontos, desde o Bright Angel Hotel, que está no planalto superior a 7.050 pés, até as margens do rio Colorado, que ali corre apenas a 1.800 pés acima do nivel do mar.”

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(translation)

'Letter from Dr. Antonio Olyntho dos Santos Pires, representative of the Society at the 8th International Congress of Geography, a letter that, due to its importance, deserves to be transcribed here: • • •

"There we stopped to examine the Grand Canyon of Colorado, whence I sent Your Excellence a leaflet describing this interesting geological phenomenon. The Colorado River, before pouring into the Gulf of California, opened a gigantic excavation in the Utah and Arizona highlands, about 217 miles in an east-west direction, averaging 12 miles wide and over 5,000 feet in depth.

'The bare terrain easily reveals the superposition of layers and rocks characteristic of different geological ages:—from the Azoic gneiss to the modern alluvium. At the base, in the lowest part, where the bed of the Colorado River is today, you can see the black gneiss, in great thickness, sometimes crossed by granite dikes; above them are the quartzites, with various colors and having an average thickness of 800 feet; then come great sandstone cliffs over 600 feet; bedding of sandstone and limestone, 700 feet thick, follows; above are the limestones, which, in some places, are transformed into beautiful marble, all of them colored bright red; brown and red stoneware are again followed, alternating over 500 feet in thickness, producing the effect of gigantic ribbons stretched out horizontally, and on top of these new layers of limestone, nearly 1,000 feet thick, in which finds gypsum and sometimes pure white alabaster, and it is not uncommon to also see, in the middle of this limestone, layers of agathas and carnelians; these upper layers, counted more fundamentally than the others, sometimes have spikes and towers that take on fantastic shapes.

'All these elements, from the black base of the gneiss to the alabaster towers above, have different shapes and are colored in bright and varied colors, giving a set of very beautiful effects to the eye, as if representing the open pages of a huge book of geology. At the bottom of this excavation, where I descended, flows the Colorado River, now spreading out on broad banks more than 200 feet wide, now frothing and [flowing tightly] in a rough and deep gorge, which its violent waters constantly seek to widen. Metal plates from the United States Geological Survey are placed everywhere, giving the altitude of the different points, from the Bright Angel Hotel, which is on the plateau above 7,050 feet, to the banks of the Colorado River, which runs there at only 1,800 feet above sea level.'

Pennell, Joseph

928 1913 The Grand Cañon of the Colorado; six lithographs drawn from nature in 1912 for the Century by Joseph Pennell. Century Illustrated Magazine, 86(2) (June): 202-207.

No text; illustrations black-and-white. Also note separate colored cover illustration by George Inness, Jr.

Raymond, Rossiter Worthington

929 1913 The Grand Cañon; Colorado [sic]. In: Howard, John R. (compiler), The changing year : a book of nature verse. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., p. 228.

Reprints Raymond (1906), with minor variations of punctuation and the introduction of a stanza break:

A thought of God on earth expressed!—
The silence of His perfect rest;
The patience of eternal power;
The ceaseless change from hour to hour;
Forms in alternate gloom and flame
That bide evermore the same,
And do but wear such fitful guise,
Reflected in our human eyes,
Which compass only in their range
The things that change, or seem to change;
The blended hues of heavenly birth
Beyond the tenderest tints of earth,
That fill and flood her spaces wide

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

With surges of celestial tide;
The beauty of that awful brink
Where meaner thoughts in rapture sink,
And souls see clear, though eyes grow dim,
While space and time are lost in Him!

Methinks I could not faint or flee
In any conflict yet to be,
Whatever pathway must be trod,
Might I but keep this thought of God!

[Santa Fe Railway]

- 930 1913 An American School of Painting. The Fra (The Roycrofters, East Aurora, New York), 11(3) (June) (Travel Number): xvii.

An essay about art and artists in the Grand Canyon, written in the first person without by-line, but in context an advertisement placed by the Santa Fe Railway, which solicits requests for the book obtained gratis, Titan of Chasms; essay printed in the Roman-numeral advertising section of this magazine.

Sterling, George

- 931 1913 At the Grand Canyon. Santa Fe Magazine, 7(2) (January): 70.

Credited to George Sterling in Poetry (i.e. Sterling, 1912); reprinted here with minor variations of typography.

Sutcliffe, J. B.

- 932 1913 Photography in Britain; a review of the month from our own correspondent. Wilson's Photographic Magazine, 50(11) (November): 487-489.

See: "American Views", regarding American landscape views shown to the author by Miss Helen M. Murdock. "The American views referred to are in the same process and for the most part were in the district about the Grand Canyon of Colorado [sic]." And see: "The Art of the Skyscraper", which includes notes of an exhibition by Alvin Langdon Coburn in the Goupil Gallery, London. "Several post-impressionistic studies of the Grand Canyon in Colorado [sic] are arousing favorable criticism in art circles. Three in particular, 'The Temple of Ohm,' 'Temples Before Sunset,' and 'The Great Temple,' are arresting compositions of rock and sky."

Van Dyke, Henry

- 933 1913 Daybreak in the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Scribner's Magazine, 54(3) (September): 275-278.

What makes the lingering Night so cling to thee?
Thou vast, profound, primeval hiding-place
Of ancient secrets, gray and ghostly gulf
Cleft in the green of this high forest land,
And crowded in the dark with giant forms!
Art thou a grave, a prison, or a shrine?

A stillness deeper than the dearth of sound
Broods over thee: a living silence breathes
Perpetual incense from thy dim abyss.
The Morning-stars that sang above the bower
Of Eden, passing over thee, are dumb
With trembling bright amazement; and the Dawn
Steals through the glimmering pines with naked feet,
Her hand upon her lips, to look on thee.
She peers into thy depths with silent prayer
For light, more light, to part thy purple veil.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

O Earth, swift-rolling Earth, reveal, reveal!
Turn to the East, and show upon thy breast
The mightiest marvel in the realm of Time!
'Tis done,—the morning miracle of light,
The resurrection of the world of hues
That die with dark, and daily rise again
With every rising of the splendid Sun!

Be still, my heart! Now Nature holds her breath
To see the vital flood of radiance leap
Across the chasm; and crest the farthest rim
Of alabaster with a glistening white
Rampart of pearl; and flowing down by walls
Of changeful opal, deepen into gold
Of topaz, rosy gold of tourmaline,
Crimson of garnet, green and gray of jade,
Purple of amethyst, and ruby red,
Beryl, and sard, and royal porphyry;
Until the cataract of color breaks
Upon the blackness of the granite floor.

How far below! And all between is cleft
And carved into a hundred curving miles
Of unimagined architecture! Tombs,
Temples, and colonnades are neighbored there
By fortresses that Titans might defend,
And amphitheatres where Gods might strive.
Cathedrals, buttressed with unnumbered tiers
Of ruddy rock, lift to the sapphire sky
A single spire of marble pure as snow;
And huge aërial palaces arise
Like mountains built of unconsuming flame.
Along the weathered walls, or standing far
In riven valleys where no foot may tread,
Are lonely pillars, and tall monuments
Of perished æons and forgotten things.

My sight is baffled by the close array
Of countless forms: my vision reels and swims
Above them, like a bird in whirling winds.
Yet no confusion fills yon awful chasm;
But spacious order and a sense of peace
Are wide diffused. For every shape that looms
Majestic in the throng, is set apart
From all the others by its far-flung shade,—
Blue, blue, as if a mountain-lake were there.

How still it is! Dear God, I hardly dare
To breathe, for fear the fathomless abyss
Will draw me down into eternal sleep.
What force has formed this masterpiece of awe?
What hands have wrought these wonders in the waste?
O river, gleaming in the narrow rift
Of gloom that cleaves the valley's nether deep,— Fierce Colorado, prisoned by thy toil,
And blindly toiling still to reach the sea,—
Thy waters, gathered from the snows and springs
Amid the Utah hills, have carved this road
Of glory to the Californian Gulf.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

But now, O sunken stream, thy splendor lost,
Twixt iron walls thou rollest turbid waves,
Too far away to make their fury heard!

At sight of thee, thou sullen laboring slave
Of gravitation,—yellow torrent poured
From distant mountains by no will of thine,
Through thrice a hundred centuries of slow
Fallings and liftings of the crust of Earth,—
At sight of thee my spirit sinks and fails.
Art thou alone the Maker? Is the blind
And thoughtless power that drew thee dumbly down
To cut this gash across the layered globe,
The sole creative cause of all I see?
Are force and matter all? The rest a dream?

Then is thy gorge a canyon of despair,
A prison for the soul of man, a grave
Of all his dearest daring hopes! The world
Wherein we live and move is meaningless,
No spirit here to answer to our own!
The stars without a guide! The chance-born Earth
Adrift in space, no Captain on the ship!
Nothing in all the universe to prove
Eternal wisdom and eternal love!
And man, the latest accident of Time,
Who thinks he loves, and longs to understand,
Who vainly suffers, and in vain is brave,
Who dupes his heart with immortality,
Man is a living lie,—a bitter jest
Upon himself,—a conscious grain of sand
Lost in a desert of unconsciousness,
Thirsting for God and mocked by his own thirst.

Spirit of Beauty, mother of delight,
Thou fairest offspring of Omnipotence,
Inhabiting this lofty lone abode!
Speak to my heart again and set me free
From all these doubts that darken earth and heaven!
Who sent thee forth into the wilderness
To bless and comfort all who see thy face?
Who clad thee in this more than royal robe
Of rainbows? Who designed these jewelled thrones
For thee, and wrought these glittering palaces?
Who gave thee power upon the soul of man
To lift him up through wonder into joy?
God! let the radiant cliffs bear witness! God,
Let all the shining pillars signal—God!
He only, on the mystic loom of light,
Hath woven webs of loveliness to clothe
His most majestic works: and He alone
Hath delicately wrought the cactus-flower
To star the desert floor with rosy bloom.
O Beauty, handiwork of the Most High,
Where'er thou art He tells his Love to man,
And lo, the day breaks, and the shadows flee!

How far beyond all language and all art
In thy wild splendor, Canyon Marvellous,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

The secret of thy stillness lies unveiled
In wordless worship! This is holy ground,
No grave, no prison, but a shrine thou art.
Garden of Temples filled with Silent Praise,
If God were blind thy Beauty could not be!

Warner, Robert L.

- 934 1913 Louis Akin, American artist. American Museum Journal, 13(3) (March): frontispiece, 112-117.

See the color frontispiece to this issue of the journal, reproducing Aiken's "The Grand Cañon", loaned to the museum for its Southwest exhibition by the Santa Fe Railway. The article also reproduces, in black-and-white, a canvas by Aiken (no title provided) and "The Temple"; both Grand Canyon scenes.

Wern, A. W.

- 935 1913 From the last to the first : a collection of beautiful poems, descriptive of gems in America and Europe. Los Angeles: Glass Book Binding Co., 148 pp.

See "Grand Canyon", pp. 43-44; with photo facing p. 43 showing three mule riders and guide, viewed at trail level, dated "May 1 '08" (probably a Kolb photo).

A wondrous sight that greets our eye
Beyond mortal mind's conception,
Immensities 'neath turquoise sky
With e'er endless great attraction,
Produced by nature's architect
With wondrous skilful grand effect.

Its record ever has defied
And baffled all inquiring mind,
To solve this mysterious grand divide,
The widest, deepest of its kind—
Perchance for eons in creation
In all its various relation.

On terraces and ramparts high,
In caves 'mong crags the lion and bear
The hunter's step and gun defy;
All rest serenely in their lairs,
Or cunningly search night and day
For harmless creatures as their prey.

High over all the towering spires
The eagle soars with outspread wings
And piercing eyes with keen desire
An easy prey with talons clings,
And carry to his hungry brood
That greets with shrieks the luscious food.

The winding trail o'er rocks and rills
Leads to the turbulent rushing stream,
Whose cataracts the cliffs oft trill.
The shadows oft like phantoms seem
That o'er eddies glim'ring ripples,
Oft move about like sailing shiplets.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Flow on, thou river as of old—
Down to the mystic ocean deep,
And like ourselves do thy life mould
Until with us in peaceful sleep
Thou goest to an unknown land,
Yet ever in a supreme hand.

1914

Anonymous

936 1914 Exhibition of American art. Kalamazoo Normal Record (Western State Normal School, Kalamazoo, Michigan), 4(8) (May): 311-312.

Kalamazoo Art Association exhibition. Noted: "Fred'k Ballard Williams, 'After the Storm—Grand Canyon,' $2,500." (ENTIRE ITEM)

937 1914 Paxton's fine genre. American Art News, 12(31) (May 9): 2.

"The Grand Canon, as interpreted by De Witt Parshall, and well interpreted, holds the visitor with its sense of depth and space and fine color and air." DeWitt Parshall, at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia.

938 1914 An Indian artist. Santa Fe Magazine, 9(1) (December): 32.

Lone Wolf, a Blackfeet Grand Canyon painter.

939 1914 Foraging their way. Santa Fe Magazine, 9(1) (December): 40.

Miss Margaret Geist of Germany, and burro, "Jerry", registered at El Tovar during their cross-country trip, New York to San Francisco. A stunt (with conditions) promoted by a syndicate of German newspapers.

940 1914 Tries to "wheel" across Grand Canyon. The Arrowhead (Magazine of Western Travel and Development) (San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad, Industrial Department, Los Angeles), _____.

Probably by Supervisor Pelton of Kaibab National Forest (author attribution vide Stephen C. Jett). Not located for this bibliography.

Adams, W. I. Lincoln

941 1914 The camera at the Grand Canyon. The Photographic Times (New York), 47(5) (May): frontispiece [166], 167-172, 198.

American Federation of Arts

942 1914 American Art Annual. Volume XI. New York: American Federation of Arts.

See p. 170, Hackley Gallery of Art, Muskegon: "Some of the more important paintings acquired during 1912-1914 are: . . . 'Grand Canyon,' by Ballard Williams . . . ."; and in the section, "Paintings Sold at Auction, 1912-1913": p. 446, George H. McCord (1840-1909), American artist: "[purchaser and price] Rubino-90. Grand Canyon, Arizona (20x30)-[asking] 80".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bell, Archie

- 943 1914 Exploring the largest canon. Written by Archie Bell for the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Reformatory Press (Anamosa, Iowa), 16(52) (January 31): 3.
Kolb Brothers.

Bryan, William Jennings

- 944 1914 Address of Hon. William Jennings Bryan. The Advocate of Peace (American Peace Society), 76(6) (June): 128-129.

Address to the American Peace Society. Concludes with remarks on his visit with his wife to Grand Canyon, as a generic parable: "It takes the work of all to accomplish the total result. A few years ago my wife and I visited the Grand Canyon in Arizona. We went down 4,600 feet from the top of the Canyon to where the Colorado River wends its way, and there we saw evidences of the action of the waters through the ages. As we looked upon that stream, I wondered how many drops of water had found their way through that Canyon. No arithmetic would enable us to compute them; neither could we tell just what influence each one had had—it was the work of all. And so with every great movement—it is the work not of one, or of a few, but of the multitude. I am glad to be with those who, as a part of the multitude, are working for peace."

Burton, J. C.

- 945 1914 Linking five old trails to make a modern motor highway. Motor Age (Chicago), 26(7) (August 13): 5-11.

Map (p. 6) depicts National Old Trails highway, comprising Braddocks Road, Cumberland Trail, Boon's Lick Road, Santa Fe Trail, and Kearney's Route, which crosses the Colorado River at Yuma. However, see p. 8: "In its rambling across the state of Arizona, the road barely avoids the grand canyon [sic] and tempts the tourists to make a detour to that most impressive of nature's wonders—that colossal multi-colored gash in the rocks, burst up stern and grim like the wild playground of monster giants." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Cannon, George L.

- 946 1914 The pronunciation and derivation of our state name. The Colorado School Journal (Denver), 30(1) (September): 14-16.

Includes remarks on the Grand Canyon, although it does not mention Arizona as its location. However, it does refer to travelers seeing the Colorado "near the Needles, at the foot of Bright Angel Trail, or from the 'Rim Trips' near the El Tovar hotel", again without reference to the location of these places that are outside of Colorado. Also includes historical references of the Colorado River's earlier names. Article concludes with references to supposed ancient Chinese accounts of visits to the "great canon", here noting Arizona and with the concluding remark, "One of the names given by the Chinese to this geological wonder is quite appropriate—"The Chasm of the Almighty God."" No source citations; shameful for a school journal.

Chaloner, John Armstrong

- 947 1914 The swan-song of "Who's Looney Now?" Hippodrome Edition. Dedicated to the press of the United States. Roanoke Rapids, North Carolina: Palmetto Press, lxxv, 371 pp.

See "A Voice From the Tomb", pp. 173-366; specifically, "Rex' Lecture. May 10th, 1914. (Behind closed doors.)", pp. 326-336, and in particular, p. 331: "The last time your lecturer was in Arizona was in 1884. He then passed through Flagstaff on his way to one of the most glorious and wonderful sights in the world, the Grand Canon of the Colorado River." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cobb, Irvin S.

- 948 1914 Roughing it de luxe. (Illustrated by John T. McCutcheon.) New York: George H. Duran Co., 219 pp. [Binding variants noted. Paperback ed. with Fred Harvey imprint, 1914.]

Includes his Grand Canyon tales (see Cobb, 1913).

- 949 1914 Europe revised. (Illustrated by John T. McCutcheon.) New York: George H. Doran Co., 467 pp.

Regarding foreign military dress uniforms: "But the Austrian officer is the walking sunset effect of creation. For color schemes I know of nothing in Nature to equal him except the Grand Cañon of the Colorado." (p. 201).

Cole, B. F.

- 950 1914 Auto Atoms [COLUMN]. The American Chauffeur, 2(12) (December): 864.

See item: "Capt. Bass Forsakes Horse. Capt. W. W. ('Bill') Bass, Grand Canyon poet and guide, who has roamed Arizona since boyhood, aboard a cayuse, is now Grand Canyon dealer in Studebaker cars." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Field, A. G. [Field, Archelaus G.]

- 951 1914 Scraps. Des Moines, Iowa: [no imprint], 88 pp.

Reprinted letters and articles by the author, privately printed by Welch Printing Co. [Des Moines?]. See the final chapter, "A Day at the Grand Canyon of Arizona", pp. 86-88, reprinted from the Des Moines Capital, July 24, 1911. It begins,

"One bright June morning, about twelve hundred scholars, ladies and gentlemen, left the long rows of Pullmans that were a part of the American Medical Association special and climbed the half dozen flights of stairs to the plateau where stands that architectural freak and commodious hotel El Tovar upon the brink of the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

"The region is occupied almost exclusively by Indians, and near by is their 'Hopi House,' which in times past was a fort and place of refuge from enemies, as well as an abode for some forty families."

After describing Hopi House, Field takes note of the low stone wall along the rim, and observes clinically, "Short sections of iron tubing have been mounted upon pedestals and advantageous positions, with both lateral and vertical movements, that may be trained upon the various objects indicated by metal plates upon the pedestals upon which the names are engraved."

He briefly notes Bright Angel Trail as seen from the rim, and reviews the physical dimensions and geological nature of the canyon with no special amazement, other than that of the sheer volume of the open-air canyon, the contents of which incidentally have been carried away without trace. Curiously, Field has no personal observations other than the architectural ones just noted.

Fitch, George

- 952 1914 Sizing up Uncle Sam : vestpocket essays (not especially serious) on the United States. New York: Frederick A. Stokes Co., 238 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 71-72; and see end-papers map. In presentation, part George Wharton James, part John T. McCutcheon, and maybe a touch of John Hance.

"The Grand Canyon of the Colorado is a small scratch on the earth's surface made by Providence to show man what an insignificant insect he is. It is 100 miles long, 13 miles wide and 6,000 feet deep. Viewed from Mars, it looks like a wrinkle on the face of Nature. Viewed from its brink, it is so awe inspiring that even Commercial Travelers look at it in silence, and famous writers claw hopelessly for adequate adjectives.

"The Grand Canyon was made by the Colorado River about the time the mother-in-law joke was invented. The Colorado is not a large stream, but it has always been very busy. It has eaten its way through a mile of sandstone and a thousand feet of granite and has produced a chasm filled with weird temples of red, yellow, white and black rock, 5,000 feet high. It is estimated that it has taken to accomplish this enough horse power to light a boulevard between here and the moon. One can always tell a power magnate by the way he weeps when he sees the canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"The Colorado Canyon runs through a vast desert and begins without warning. At any point for a hundred miles, it would be possible for the casual wanderer to step off of the United States and to starve to death before he got through falling. This shows the wisdom of Nature. Had she placed the Canyon near New York, 100,000 people a year would fall into it, while in its present position it does not need to be fenced at all. However, owing to its isolated position, the Canyon does not draw nearly as much tourist patronage as Niagara Falls, Mt. Vesuvius, Uncle Joe Cannon and other natural phenomena. More people see Coney Island in a night than see Colorado Canyon in a year. This is partly what is the matter with New York.

"The Canyon is located in Arizona, 65 miles away from the nearest drug store, and is already in the hands of a trust, there being only one railroad to it. It is so vast that thunder storms not only rage in it while the spectator watches them from above, but they sometimes wander off and get lost in the side canyons. Its grandeur is heightened by the fact that not a single sign adorns its walls. In spite of the unparalleled opportunity to announce the virtues of soaps and soups in letters half a mile high, no sign painter with nerve enough to tackle the job has been found. There is only one trail to the water below—the Bright Angel Trail, named for the people who have fallen off; and by mounting a burro the tourist can find himself in two hours in a scene of utter desolation which has never been penetrated by the automobile, the book agent, the pianola, the harem skirt, the tariff question or the senatorial scandal. Many tourists have taken this spot for Paradise and have had to be removed by force.

"The Grand Canyon is the greatest natural curiosity in existence, and it is a comfort to reflect that no matter what man may do to it, or how long he may keep on doing it, the results will only be visible through a strong glass. It is one thing in the world that is too big to be abused."

Gassaway, Gordon

953 1914 Trans-continental sign posting. Motor (New York), 22(6) (September): 42, 50, 128.

Automobile Club of Southern California road-signing campaign. Of special interest is a photograph at Grand Canyon (p. 42) near Lookout Studio (visible in background), a view downward of an automobile beside a wooden boardwalk on the edge of the canyon, with two Harvey Girls standing before a wooden railing. Also a photograph (p. 50) of automobile in front of Hopi House (identified only as "an old Indian house on the sign-posted route"). Grand Canyon is not specially mentioned in the text.

Gilpin, V. C.

954 1914 That wonderful scenery. National Electrical Contractor, 14(1) (November): 81.

Although this item describes future plans for a stop at the Grand Canyon en route to the national convention (about which see among the items under Anonymous, 1915), Gilpin offers here tips for the Grand Canyon stop. He does briefly provide a personal perspective from an earlier trip:

"The writer in his last visit made a fifteen mile walk on the upper rim, and he recalls it as a wonderful and pleasant trip, but I would advise one to go into training before attempting such a 'stroll' as I was only able to get out of my berth the next morning with the porter's assistance."

(Gilpin always signed, and was referred to, as "Gilpin, V. C.", even as such in a reminiscence of the writer, O. Henry (Seth Moyle, My Friend O. Henry, The H. K. Fly Co., New York, 1914, pp. 10, 11). In 1915, the Electrical Record for September (p. 73) notes that "V. C. Gilpin" had formed the firm of "Gilpin, V. C., Co." [sic] in New York, brokers in electrical merchandise.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Harris, Corra

955 1914 New wine in old bottles. Harper's Weekly, 58 (January 17): 24-25.

Regarding a "review" of the first issues of the Harper's Weekly produced under a new editor, as read by "an elderly country-woman living in the South." See p. 25: "There are, in the WEEKLY, no meadow spaces unpeopled by the littleness of man: no familiar hills—though I believe there is a reference to the Grand Cañon, which is a freak out of Nature with the 'sublime wildness' of the Earth." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Harris, James A., Jr.

956 1914 Motoring among the ruins of our mystic Southwest. The American Chauffeur, 2(3) (March): 73-77.

Automobile trip in a White Six, including a visit to Grand Canyon (pp. 75-76).

"The first glimpse of the canyon was obtained from Grand View, fifteen miles east of the canyon station. The car was driven out on Grand View Point [article contains a photograph of the car on the point, as seen from a distance], and the occupants looked down into the great chasm for many miles in all directions. The first view of this greatest of natural wonders can never be forgotten. The sense of realization is completely overwhelmed by its vast depths and formations. Only a small part of it can be seen at one time. Even pictures fail to depict its grandeur, but, insufficient as they are, the photographs give some idea of this incomparable canyon. [No other canyon photos are in this article.] Two of the best side trips from Grand Canyon stations [sic] are the drive along Hermit Run road [sic] and the descent of Bright Angel Trail into the canyon.

"After a day of frenzied excitement, the tourists returned to Holbrook . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Hoffmann, R.

957 1914 Travels through the United States in conjunction with the Eighth International Congress of Applied Chemistry at New York, by members of the congress. Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, 6(1) (January): 49-69.

Tour in 1912. Grand Canyon, see pp. 62-63.

After a train derailment between Seligman and Williams, Arizona, the travelers were placed on another train until their repaired special train met them again at Grand Canyon. So ". . . a full day was at our disposal which we were able to spend in a visit to the Grand Cañon. The majority of the party on mules and horses, three of us afoot, made a tour through the Grand Cañon to the Colorado River and back which distance we covered in nine hours (including stops) making a round trip of about seven miles and a total altitude of about 4000 feet. The Grand Cañon of the Colorado is one of the most wonderful sights in the world . . . ."

A brief description of the measured dimensions of the canyon concludes: "This enormous gorge has been formed by the action of the turbulent waters and shows the curious traveler all the formations from Cambrian to Tertiary from which the corroding influence of the waters has carved numberless cliffs and peaks. In wandering through this valley one is amazed by the brilliancy of layers which glow wonderfully with the most varied colors. In the upper portions of the ravine can be seen massive layers of light gray limestone to which, at lower levels, are joined red and white bands of sandstone, dark red limestone, dull gray slate, dark brown quartz and red granite."

Holmes, Burton

958 1914 Burton Holmes travelogues : with illustrations from photographs by the author. Volume Twelve. Chicago: The Travelogue Bureau, 341 pp. [Later printings 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920.]

Two canyon expeditions for the price of one—the first harkens back to a trip he took to Hance's in 1898. The volume is a collation of Holmes's very popular and well attended illustrated lectures of his tours of the world. See exhaustively, and profusely illustrated, "The Grand Cañon", pp. 113-224, which does bring his text and illustrations up to date in the presence of the railroad and El Tovar. His summary impressions, which are timeless,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

are recounted here, as well as some of his experience at Hance's and on Pete Berry's Grandview Trail. His paragraphs are sometimes breathlessly long; his impressions and studies at great length, by a master observer:

"The acme of sublimity in natural scenery is reached in Arizona. The world is not aware that this is true, nor do I hope to prove that it is true except to those who, with an interest aroused by words that are inadequate and pictures that fall far short of the reality, shall some day undertake the marvelous journey that glorified for me the summer of 1898.

"The cañon of the Colorado River has become for me a haunting memory, dwarfing all things that I have seen, belittling all the gorges, all the mountains that in the past impressed me, robbing the sun of Africa of its luster, causing the colors of the Orient to fade. I have to-day a new and totally different standard by which to measure all that I intend to see before the greater, the eternal journey is begun; and I am certain that in this life there is awaiting me no other spectacle equal to that afforded by the chasm of the Colorado. It has revolutionized my perceptions of the beautiful and the sublime.

"I believe that when we behold that scene for the first time, a series of new brain-cells is generated, and until they have become sufficiently developed, the cañon withholds its message. In the average mind there is no place for an impression so unlike any before received. At first sight the mentality is dazzled. He who looks but once sees not the cañon. He who would know its glory must first prepare the tablets of his mind,—erase all preconceived images, and then with reverence approach the brink, and sitting there day after day teach his blind eyes and blinder sense to read through the medium of feeling the exalted message which this supremest of earthly scenes imprints upon the soul. • • •

"• • • It is not in the power of man to put in words the glory of the cañon. Many have tried and all have failed, as I shall fail; there are degrees of failure that is all. Art has attempted to portray what tongue has not been able to translate, and art has failed. I say it boldly: No painting, photograph, or sketch can do more than suggest to those who have not seen. • • •

Holmes renders the long drive from Flagstaff to Hance's, and we join him as he approaches the camp.

"Beauty and exhilaration, the curious and the interesting, have characterized the day's experiences, but nothing has yet thrilled us. We have been happy, but we have not been impressed, until—late in the afternoon—we glance toward the northeast and see revealed, but oh, so faintly, in far-off regions, whether of sky or earth we cannot yet be sure, a vision of rosy glory, a suggestion of the infinite, a something that takes hold on the attention and will not let it go; a something that in spite of all its vagueness, remoteness, and unearthliness, causes our pulses to beat faster, for we know that yonder pinkish line is an emanation of the glory of the cañon, brooding on the distant farther shore of the great gulf that we have come so far to see. It is soon lost to view; our weary horses now attack the last ascending mile of the long trail and seem to travel with exasperating slowness, since our thoughts outspeed them in our haste to be upon the cañon brink and to know at last the true meaning of those words so often misapplied, 'sublime' and 'beautiful.'

"Another mile and we are near our destination, although no further sign of anything aside from sylvan scenery is manifest. And even when at last the tents of the Grand Cañon Camp loom snow-white amid the trees, we feel that there is some mistake; the cañon cannot be so near, and its grand presence so utterly dissembled.

"The details of arrival and installment in the tents now for a period monopolizes our time, and then the call of Arizona appetites must needs be heeded[,] for every man in Arizona finds himself the slave of an excellent appetite. The ladies are assigned to single tents, of which a score are scattered about. The men, all hungry as wild beasts, are led into a canvas caravansary big as a circus tent, where canvas cages for each one of us have been provided. We write our names in the register of this unique hotel, and then pick up and curiously peruse another volume of handwriting, marked, 'John Hance's Visitors' Book.' • • •

Holmes, continuing his lecture as if before an audience: "But why do you not lead us to the brink and show us that which we have come half-way across the continent to see? Why linger in this little camp concealed amid the trees when there awaits us so superb a spectacle? Why do you hesitate? Because I fear to disappoint you. I fear that I shall not be happy in the choice of the words with which to usher you into the presence of that scene. I am afraid that the only pictures that I can show you will not produce upon you the impressions that they should. I fear that you will misjudge both the cañon and also him who seeks to show it you, because of the imperfect media of revelation. A soul returned from Paradise would scarcely be at a greater loss for words or similes than one who strives to give the message of the Colorado Cañon to an expectant audience. And yet it must be done, no matter how ill.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

“Let me then beg your sympathy and pray your pardon while I slowly draw the veil, and with reverential gesture reveal at first a mere glimpse, and then another until at last the mind and eye be prepared to take and hold impressions born of wider vistas, which in themselves are but puny fractions of a mighty entirety that cannot be revealed. Within half a hundred yards of our forest-hidden tents yawns this unworldly chasm; great rocks stand about trembling on the brink, old pine-trees shed their cones into these hazy depths that are not fathomable to the eye. And we, unless we are of sterner stuff than the insensate rocks, must tremble too as we stand here listening to the most appalling silence that ever smote the ear of man, an awful silence that seems to tell the endless story of eternity and death. The sensation of him who for the first time looks and listens is one of expectant suspense. We gaze and wait and wait; for surely something is about to happen. This cannot last; it is not possible that a scene like this can remain unchanged; it cannot be that it is immobile; surely it must soon move or change. This rock must fall, these walls be shaken by an earthquake, or yonder cliff that soars above us must surely become animate and bow its proud head in reverence to the glory that is in the earth beneath and in the sky above. And yet the seconds and the minutes pass, and in all the earth there is no sound, no movement, and no change, unless we count the involuntary gasp with which we greet each wider vista, the pounding of our hearts, and the epoch-making change that is occurring in our minds—the shattering of old ideals of beauty and of grandeur, the forming of a new standard by which in the future we shall measure all that is beautiful or grand. And still, what we have yet seen is as nothing—mere glimpses of infinity, mere peeps at things which in the great ensemble of the cañon will never more be recognized or noted. • • •

In descending into the details from here, Holmes finds that he must quote instead at length from Clarence Dutton. Then the canyon beckons.

“It is one form of intense pleasure to view the cañon from above; it is a totally different experience to go down to its very depths and dip our fingers in the murky waters of the Colorado River, that in places glides with oily smoothness, in others foams and fights in its black granite gorge six thousand feet below, so far away that no sound of its struggling reaches us, buried so deep that it scarce seems to bear relationship to the living rivers of the upper world.

“To ramble on the brink calls for no effort greater than that attending a stroll along a forest path, for a smooth, safe, and almost level trail has been constructed, winding away and following the shore line of the bays and gulfs, to the tip ends of promontories jutting into space ten miles distant. Each step in advance reveals a new and ever-varying vista, and the return along the same easy trail holds in reserve surprises, new compositions of old views, strange new effects of light and shade, of brilliant sunshine, and of gloomy violet shadow.

“One day spent on the rim satisfies some minds. We are inclined to tell ourselves that we have seen all that it is possible to see; and many, feeling thus, depart the next morning after their arrival. But those who stay are rewarded as no travelers have ever been rewarded elsewhere, and the longer they remain the larger their reward; for every day brings to the eye new powers, opens to the mind new vistas; the joy of being here increases day by day, until we verge upon the state of perfect happiness. And oh, the infinite variety of our experiences! We have already strolled with ease and safety along the brow of countless precipices and looked down into a world that seems inviolable,—a world to which apparently man must remain a stranger for all time, and yet we, even we, the city-dwellers, the inhabitants of regions that are commonplace, may drop into the depths of this unearthly chasm, and, like Dante, see strange things, yet live to tell of that which we have seen; but alas! not with Dante’s words of power. Like Dante, we begin our wanderings in an obscure savage wood; but unlike Dante we are mounted—not on the winged horses of the Muses, but—on the mules and the burros of good old Captain Hance, who in our case replaces Virgil as guide. In early morning Captain Hance rounds up his stock and brings them saddled to the camp. Our wraps, camera, and blankets are tied on the packs, the men select the beasts to whom their lives are now to be entrusted, and climb into the comfortable western saddles. The only lady in our little band of bold adventurers must bow to the strict rules of Captain Hance and don divided skirts, for the old guide will have no ladies in his train who will not ride astride. He keeps a special skirt on hand

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

for those who do not come provided with the proper costume. The reason for this rule will soon be manifest, for when we reach the cañon brink, we, with a tremor born of surprise and of dizziness, launch our animals into the abyss. Now the path down which we have turned appears impossible. When yesterday we passed the place where it forks downward from the trail along the rim, we scarcely noted it, so faint and narrow did it look, so steep that we could not suppose that it was the beginning of the famous highway down which we were to ride upon the morrow. The pitch for the first mile is frightful; in places it almost surpasses the angle of repose; and to our dismayed, unaccustomed minds the inclination apparently increases, as if the cañon wall were slowly toppling inwards, and we anticipate the horror of the moment when the animals will not be able to retain a footing. And this impression that the wall is toppling is strengthened into conviction by an upward glance, for the dizzy rim, from which we drop away so suddenly, appears to sway; its sky-line, by that curious optical illusion peculiar to things that loom above us, seems to be continually advancing into space, as if in time the whole gigantic mass would overwhelm us. Were it not for the occasional stretches of comparatively level trail the suspense would soon become unbearable. The continued strain upon the consciousness is increased by the strange, almost human actions of the animals; by their slow, careful placing of the feet, by the jolt that follows every downward step, by the instant of recovery, at some unprotected 'elbow' of the trail where one stirrup dangles in the void, the eye plunges down a thousand feet, and the mind goes running back along life's pathway in a hasty search for those matters that are most insistently calling for repentance.

"There may be men who can ride unconcernedly down Hance's trail, but I confess that I am not one of them. My object in descending made it essential that I should live to tell the tale, and therefore, emboldened by the thought of a duty that I owed to prospective auditors, I mustered up sufficient moral courage to dismount and scramble down the steepest and most awful sections of the path on foot; and it takes more courage to get off and walk, while the only woman in the party remains in the saddle, than it does to face the horror of a fall. I say that I descended sections of the trail on foot. 'On foot,' however, does not express it, but on heels and toes, on hands and knees, and sometimes in the posture assumed by children when they come bumping down the stairs; thus did I glissade around 'Cape Horn,' and past a dozen other places, where neither the mocking laughter of the men nor the more bitter words of sympathy from the brave Amazon could tempt me to forget that my supremest duty was to live to give a lecture on the cañon. Captain Hance expressed it best when he referred to the 'lecturer who came down part way like a crab.'"

Holmes here lapses into some of the usual size comparisons filed with the canyon, even referring a little bit to Captain Dutton again.

"At last the roar of waters tells us that our ride is nearly ended, that in four hours we have made our way down to a level to attain which the Colorado has been laboring for ages upon ages. A few rods more and we behold the surging struggles of the great angry prisoner of the cañon; and as we dip our fingers in the murky, coffee-colored tide, we feel the same thrill that comes to him who for the first time stands upon a long-desired mountain-top and holds his hands aloft as if to touch the skies. Strange mountaineering this, where men go down to reach their goal and scale steep cliffs to reach the world of men once more!

"But as we look around us, we can scarcely realize that we are six thousand feet below the level of the surrounding land. We are disappointed to find no striking acme here, as the reward for our fatigue and labor. The descent and ascent are in themselves such magnificent experiences that there is no possibility of a satisfying culmination at the journey's end. It is as if we found ourselves in a region of broken, rocky mountains, carved into strange weird shapes, but not of overpowering size. The effect of being in a cañon is here completely lost. The Titanic walls have shrunk backward and also downward behind the minor buttes and palisades, and we look in vain for the outer limits of the gulf. The true skyline of the cañon is not visible, though here and there some isolated promontory-tip projects into the ether, like a dot left to mark the place where once the huge escarpment stood.

"Our thirst assuaged by draughts of water that is almost mud, filtered between the teeth, we first unpack the animals, indulge in a rude picnic beneath a meager cottonwood, and then, during a long, hot afternoon, we wander round about the camp, scaling low cliffs, in an endeavor to reach some stirring point of view. We clamber over rocks along the river brink, watching the river as it glides heavily around the long, sweeping curves, attacks with a fierce ardor the besetting rocks, and then rushes on from rapids into whirlpools, and out again into a broad smooth channel where for a space, its wrath appeased, it slips on silently, preparing for fresh struggles, gathering new strength with which to vanquish other greater obstacles below. At length, weary with the day's excitement, we sup in camp at twilight, and spreading down our sleeping-bags or blankets we are soon ushered into dreamland,—a land far less strange, far less unreal than the mysterious night-enveloped chasm that yawns above us, during our disturbed slumbers, like a moonlit gulf of space.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"It is not granted to every man to sleep six thousand feet underground, yet this place where we make our bed is one mile farther from the soaring moon than the camp in which we slept the night before. Here in the bottom of the cañon perpetual summer reigns, while on the brink above the seasons come and go, winter whitening the brows of all the palisades, and summer wreathing round the head of every cliff a diadem of leaves and flowers. We do not sleep as soundly as we might; the consciousness of the strange, mighty chamber where we lie disturbs our dreams and the muttering of the deep-voiced Colorado is in our ears.

"At last the dawn comes peeping into our apartment through a world-wide opening in the roof, and it looks down upon a group of slumberers smug and ridiculous enough to make Morning laugh. And laugh she does, with sunny laughter, and we on waking laugh at one another, and running to the river make a hasty toilet with cold mud for water and the Arizona sun for towels. Then at breakfast we indulge in ham and bread and beans that grow in cans, and sardines that never saw the sea, and tinned salmon that never learned to swim; anything is good enough for breakfast in this glorious Arizona land. Even the fact that the paper bags containing salt and sugar had exploded in the packs, and had mingled their gastronomically uncongenial contents, could not rob the coffee of its savor nor cause us to reject the tea. For loss of appetite I can conceive no surer cure than an excursion to the cañon. That which people elsewhere cannot eat they can and send to Arizona.

"Then Captain Hance rounds up the animals, saddles the horses, packs the mules, and we begin our skyward journey. The weary way is shortened by the tales of Captain Hance, who is, as all men know, a vivacious chronicler of the most unbelievable events that ever happened."

Holmes proceeds to relate a few of Hance's inspired histories, which I will let him get away with, with this closing, on the banks of the Colorado: ". . . I swum ashore, and I never see that fish again." The reader (here) can fill in all of the rest—and it will be true to the last drop.

Back on the rim, Holmes regales his audience with historical tales of a very different sort—several pages of the long geological history of Grand Canyon. Then, onward to another canyon adventure . . .

"Remembering these facts, we can with a more intelligent appreciation of its meaning again descend into the cañon. We chose this time a different starting-point, a different trail. Two or three miles from the little camp of tents where we made our headquarters during our visit in early June, 1898, we find a cosy comfortable hotel, a big log-house, erected and presided over by Mr. Peter Berry. For a hotel proprietor Mr. Berry was altogether too retiring. We were on the point of leaving the cañon in ignorance of the existence of this place, when, quite by accident, we stumbled upon it during an aimless ramble; but, once discovered, the attractions of this Grand View Hotel, and the Grand View Trail, at the head of which this hotel stands, proved so convincing that in August, after our return from the Hawaiian Islands, we came a second time to the Grand Cañon, purposely to explore that section of the cañon reached by the Grand View Trail, under the guidance of Mr. Peter Berry.

"I cannot say enough in praise of our kind host and of the comforts offered by his log hotel. Here, even in the colder seasons, a long sojourn would be a not uncomfortable experience. There is a cheeriness about the interior, an aspect of solidity and warmth in the stout log walls, and a whiteaproned, white-capped European personage, quite worthy of the title, 'chef,' presiding over the cuisine. For one of those wandering Continental culinary artists had drifted to this distant end of earth in the course of his restless world pilgrimage, and while he lingered near the cañon, all visitors to the Grand View Hotel enjoyed the luxury of Continental cooking,—a luxury that here appears to be ridiculously out of place."

Holmes relates some of the soberness of Mr. Berry, in contrast to Captain Hance. Then, on to take the plunge again into the canyon—the Grandview Trail. He does get to the human architectural wonders displayed in the canyon, but his, as a world traveler (he was not just a name-dropper) are actual recollections, and they are quite a bit refreshing from the litany of stale wonders seen by so many other canyon visitors (and those, probably, most because they had read about the canyon's representations from other writers). And so we nose into the canyon to find them.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"This time there is no horror in the thought of plunging into that great sea of beauty, and it is with an eagerness and an enthusiasm that is unmixed with any fear or hesitancy that we again push the noses of our horses into space and begin the all-day journey toward the center of the earth. From the very first we perceive that the trail makes no reassuring pretense of gentle inclination; at once in businesslike fashion it swings downward at most startling angles.

"The trail, although well constructed and perfectly safe, is steep enough to be thrilling, nor does it lack short, slippery turns with precipices underfoot and overhanging cliffs above. There are enough of these to keep the senses tingling, and to make the traveler feel as if the horse's reins were connected with electric batteries, or as if his stomach were asleep.

"Knowing the depths to which it must descend within so limited a time, it wastes no precious minutes in seeking soft declivities; instead, it boldly bridges gaps and ravines, or jumps from ledge to ledge, using long slender logs as alpenstocks. The animals at every step start little avalanches down the path, and to the music of the clattering stones we slide and glide with many a sudden stop at corners and many a pirouette at the extremities of every elbow of this zigzag chute. But now and then the trail reposes for a moment on a level ledge, and there the traveler may rest, all save his eyes, not a moment's respite is granted to the nerves that carry new and grand impressions from the optics to the brain. We see in the course of our descent a replica of almost every scenic marvel of the old world and the new. The gorges through which we rode in Corsica, Algeria, or Southern France are reproduced by hundreds, in heroic mold, yet they appear like tiny grooves, scarce worthy our consideration. You have read of the Wonder City of Algeria, Constantine, throned on its mighty citadel of rock, a thousand feet above the Algerian plateau. Here in the cañon there are five hundred imitations of the rocky pedestal of Constantine, and beside any one of them the African original would at once seem a puny boulder. I could recite a catalogue of other scenes that would here find their reproductions done on a scale ten times more grand and more imposing. But let us turn to architectural marvels. We have seen in Greece and Italy and Sicily the splendid outdoor theaters of the ancient Greeks and Romans,—theaters with marble seats for forty thousand people. Ride with me around yonder point and let me show you two natural theaters, twin theaters, a thousand times more ancient than those of Greece and Rome, ten thousand times more wonderful, for they were carved by the blind forces of the earth and not built up with hands; and though a conception of their magnitude cannot be conveyed by photographs, the two could offer seats to the entire population of Chicago, and then there would be sufficient room for half a million more of fashionable late-comers. And as for the surroundings of America's antique temples of the drama, what can Greece, or Italy, or Sicily offer that is grander and more beautiful than the world of wonder that here spreads around? Even the far-famed Taormina, reputed the most lovely place in all the world, can offer to the spectator in the ruined theater no more lovely vista than that which greets us as we dizzily swing around yonder cliff and pause again, not knowing whether to look up or down, to right or left, for everywhere in earth and sky there is a something that insistently demands our admiration. (Much later in his lecture Holmes sums, "Within this gulf the ruins of all man's masonry since Babel could be hurled . . .")

"Then, farther down, the trail itself again claims our attention; blasé indeed the rider who can come coasting on a slipping, struggling horse down the long unprotected chute, without reviewing his past life and making New Year's resolutions. Again the lens fails to convey an accurate impression; the section of the trail is steeper than it looks. A man on foot cannot walk down without digging his heels deep into the loose earth and steadying himself by clinging to the rocky walls; and to that wall all timid ones are glued by the horror that rises from the fathomless depths into which a false step, or the slipping of a bit of rock might drop the trembling traveler. But we made no pictures here until we reached this place next day during the slow ascent. While coming down, the traveler is too busy making mental snapshots—he has no time to use the camera. Perhaps you think that I exaggerate the pitch of the path, the sheerness of the precipice. If so, glance upward at the ladder down which we and our struggling beasts have come. A diagonal line marks the true pitch—45 degrees; there is no need to tilt the camera to one side to make the picture more effective. Yet truth, both verbal and photographic, falls so far short of giving to one who has not looked upon these scenes a convincing image of the cañon, that he who is to tell the story can easily persuade himself that honesty is not the best policy, that lies are not only pardonable but almost imperative.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"By noon our caravan arrives at a crude stone house, erected to shelter the men who formerly labored in Berry's copper mines three thousand feet below the rim. The mining industry has been practiced even in the cañon. In fact, had it not been for the discovery of this copper mine, the trail would never have been built. The mine has not fulfilled its promise, the cost of transportation being great; but the trail remains and will in time become a source of profit to its builders, when the great tourist army shall learn of the new world to conquer that awaits them here. At present, the accommodation in these depths is not luxurious; yet never did a palace banquet, served on golden plate, taste half so good as did the patent soups and canned meats that were served in battered tins on a pine table, under ragged awnings. We all agreed that among the few brief periods of perfect happiness and contentment that come to a man in life, we shall be compelled to number the minutes spent here in satisfying the demands of our vigorous Arizona appetites. The sleeping accommodations at the mine are not such as appeal to those who are encumbered with fastidious ideas concerning snowy linen. The one virtue of these beds, six of which graced one room of the shanty, was that they were well-aired; for they had been airing for at least three months, ever since the passing of the last caravan of tourists. These sleeping-machines were far less comfortable than the bare ground on which we slept while at the foot of Hance's trail, but having killed a rattlesnake not half-a-dozen rods away, we found the exaggerated altitude of our hard couches reassuring.

"During the afternoon we made a short excursion to the caves, reached by descending a narrow trail cut in the rockface of the mesa, and entered by a flat low portal through which our adventurous leader squeezed his way. Within, guided by Peter Berry, we file along low narrow corridors, creep on our hands and knees between half-opened jaws of rock that threaten instantly to close upon us, and then suddenly we stumble into high-arched chambers almost ecclesiastical in architecture. Then, following another corridor, we discover that it ends abruptly at a vertical wall; but the faint light of the candles reveals a dangling rope, and seizing this we walk with our bodies almost horizontal up the wall, cross to its farther side, and there descend by means of the same rope. We reach at last a point at least one thousand feet from the entrance, and we there turn back, having explored but a fraction of this natural labyrinth; finally we come in safety to the outer world again. We cannot be resigned to wandering in darkness, while above our heads there floats a world of glory, and while below us yawn almost untraveled depths, more somber, more inaccessible than those into which we have already ventured. We are now about two thousand feet below the miner's hut, about fifteen hundred feet above the river level. The lower trail, by which we came, is ruder, rougher, less secure than the upper, but equally dramatic, and it offers even more thrills of horror to the mile. The horses were abandoned at a point a few hundred feet above this spot, for we are informed that the trail thence to the river is possible only for men on foot.

"Higher and higher the walls and buttes and pinnacles have risen above us, until the walls of the great black gash that marks the pathway of the river spread downward like two world-wide shadows at our feet. Now, one by one the pinkish pinnacles, the rosy towers, and the dull red bastions of the middle cañon, seem to sink behind the darker lower masses, leaving but one or two buttes standing like sentinels to note our downward progress.

"Let us creep out around the ledge of rock and peer into that world of somber blackness. At last we see a cañon that agrees with our conception of the word. For until now we have been haunted by the thought that this great outer chasm is not a cañon, that it should have had another and a grander name. The most sublime of cañons that we hitherto have seen is the many-hued, surpassingly brilliant Cañon of the Yellowstone, and it is one of the few things in nature that do not suffer and shrink into utter commonplaceness when measured by the Arizona scenic standard. • • • "

So Holmes cannot resist playing the Yellowstone card, its playfully gambolling river contrasting to the stodgily recumbant Colorado (despite all its might). He also reflects on the former's "transcendent loveliness"—a term that must be positively horrifying to the Colorado River, at least in its grandest canyon. "The waters of the Colorado, when they give voice, sing dirges; the waters of the Yellowstone are chanting a perpetual joyous Hallelujah. • • • "

Holmes drifts into reflections on the Powell expedition on the Colorado, then less than a half-century earlier; Powell, who was "the hero of our Scientific Army"—"The river in places is as calm and tranquil as a well-fed lion, but farther on, where rocks rise to impede its progress, roars with anger, lashes itself into a fury, and woe betide the helpless craft which then falls into its clutches and becomes the victim of its rage!" And then the recounting of the disintegration of the expedition when three men left, and the "aimless wanderings" that led to their deaths.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

And, although Clarence Dutton forewarned us much earlier of the piracy of the "Grand Canyon" name, Holmes enlightens:

"Remembering this achievement of Major Powell, which in dramatic interest is unsurpassed in the history of American exploration, we marvel at the misconceptions that prevail concerning the Grand Cañon. Well-informed people tell me they have ridden through the Colorado Cañon while on a railway train, confusing this chasm with a comparatively petty gorge which lies in the State of Colorado; others are not even aware of the existence of this proudest of all our natural possessions. Children are taught the story of the cañon in the schools of Germany and England, while American men who edit journals, and women who read papers in their clubs, ask where the Colorado Cañon is, and are surprised to learn that it is not in Colorado but in Arizona. • • •

Holmes quotes some more from the Santa Fe's literature, but in the end he concludes, omitting the hand of man altogether, "one simple fact stands forth, significant because of its simplicity. This realm of wonder and of beauty, vast and intricate though it be, is the result of simple causes. It is the natural slow creation of the flowing waters which drop by drop have traversed it, reduced its rocks to sand, and borne the sand grain by grain to the distant all-embracing ocean, where even now the continents of some far future age are building."

Hough, Emerson

- 959 1914 Made in America; what Uncle Sam offers to Europe's tourist trade. Saturday Evening Post, 187(24) (December 12): 16-18, 40-43.

All about Grand Canyon.

"There is nothing like the Grand Cañon in all the world for subduing human egotism. The hotel manager tells you . . . 'The Cañon takes all that out of them'. • • •

"If you have not written an appreciation of the Grand Cañon you cannot be received into the selectest circles of American literature. The Cañon still seems untroubled, though its walls are littered with disjecta membra of parts of speech—jagged and fractured adjectives; exclamation points by the liberal peck. • • •

". . . I sat for some time on the same bench with a solid citizen, who looked out over the mighty scene for a long time in silence. At last he knocked the ashes out of his pipe on the arm of the seat. 'She's got the punch!' said he, sighing. I am not sure but that is the best comment I ever heard regarding the Cañon."

Lenz, J. M.

- 960 1914 [Postcard quoted.] In: Out of the Mail Bag [SECTION]. Telephony, 66(22) (May 30): 47.

"From J. M. Lenz, treasurer of the Runzel-Lenz Electrical Manufacturing Company, Chicago, who is making a business trip through the West, comes a post card on which he writes: 'Did the Grand Canyon last week. Some scenery! The only place yet where I failed to see Telephony. Regards to the Chi-feds.'" (ENTIRE ITEM)

Logan, Carlton

- 961 1914 A youth's description. Santa Fe Magazine, 9(1) (December): 66.

"Carlton Logan, a seventeen-year-old high school boy of Albany, Ore., recently was called upon to prepare an article on the Grand Cañon of Arizona on thirty minutes' notice. His attempt was highly creditable to the lad and makes pleasing reading:

"In the evening, standing on the brim of the Grand Cañon, one sees large spires and enormous temples; these seem too real to have been carved by the river, yet no man could have conceived such fantastic balustrades, parapets, turrets and towers. One seems to be in a city of dead buildings, whose ghosts rise up, clad in bright shrouds. There are carmine and all the other shades of red; also purple, blue, green and yellow. As the sun sets these colors merge and appear more like an artist's palette than the streaks they were a short time before. Dusk comes on. The buildings are no longer towers and turrets, but just huge masses in the dark.

"Come now and stand on the brink. It is noon, and the sun's rays seem to penetrate the very earth. No longer can we see the temples. The air, with its remarkable clearness, brings out cliffs and bluffs. We see them in their

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

stern reality. Gone are the bright colors and in their place are the dull yellows and reds which mark the different stratas [sic] of rock. We see that the temples and turrets of the evening before are merely slashes in the earth. Such is the intensity of the sun's rays that we are compelled to seek shelter. We leave, to return again in the evening and look once more upon the temples, for as such we still think of them." (ENTIRE ITEM)

Maynard, Reuben Leslie

962 1914 History of the Class of 1884, Hamilton College, 1884-1914. (Ἄριστος Καρπός Ὑψιφύει.) New York: [no imprint], 373 pp.

See "Ivan Petroff Balabanoff, A.B., A.M., M.D., F.A.C.S." (pp. 133-136; specifically, p. 135, brief note on Grand Canyon).

"On his way back from Chicago in 1913 Dr. Balabanoff visited the Grand Canyon in Arizona. We quote from his letter as follows: 'This Canyon is one of the wonder sights of the world. There are no words in Webster which can describe its grandeur. I have seen a good many natural wonders in this country and in Europe, but the Grand Canyon surpasses them all in greatness, beauty and magnificence.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

McCutcheon, John T.

963 1914 Doing the Grand Canyon; being some impressions of the "Titan of Chasms", the greatest natural wonder on the American continent. The World Traveller De Luxe, (August): 25-36.

Reprinted from McCutcheon, 1909, Appleton's Magazine.

Monroe, Harriet

964 1914 You and I. New York: The Macmillan Co., 236 pp.

See "The Temple of Vishnu. Grand Cañon of Arizona.", p. 147 (reprints Monroe, 1905); "At the Grand Cañon", p. 208 (reprints Monroe, 1899).

Munk, J. A. [Munk, Joseph Amasa]

965 1914 Grand Canyon of Arizona. California Eclectic Medical Journal (Los Angeles), 7(9) (September): 223-225.

"Last month I made my eighth trip to the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Repeated seeing of the great gorge does not seem to diminish its interest, but rather increases it. • • • The Canyon has never been adequately described, nor ever will be, although it seems to be the most written about of any single object in the universe." • • •

"It is a quiet, restful place away from the whirl and noise of the city, where the wheels run round and people go distracted. But to receive the greatest relief one must go without taking along the cares and worries of home and business. To make the trip under a high nervous tension and in a hurry to leave almost before getting there does very little good. There must be a proper mental poise of deliberation and relaxation to realize the greatest benefit."

The last half of this article curiously diverges to the San Francisco Peaks, the Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Mars, and the future of earth's climate.

Noble, Henry S.

966 1914 Superintendent's report. In: Report of the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane to the Governor for the two years ended September 30, 1914. Hartford: Published by the State, pp. 9-23. (Volume: State of Connecticut, Public Document 20.)

See "Amusements—Season of 1912-13", p. 20: "Jan. 16. [1913] Illustrated Lecture, 'The Grand Canyon of the Colorado,' by Miss M. V. Worstell." Listing only.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Nussbaum, F. [Nussbaum, Fritz]

- 967 1914 Die Transkontinentale Exkursion der Amerikanischen Geographischen Gesellschaft im Sommer 1912. Geographischen Gesellschaft von Bern, Jahresbericht, 23: 163-192. [In German.]

The American Geographical Society's Transcontinental Excursion of 1912, hosting international geographers, was an ambitious, private-train trip that criss-crossed the U.S. and Canada. See p. 190:

"Am Morgen des 2. Oktober standen wir beim Hotel El Tovar am Rande des Grand Canyon des Colorados. Der erste Blick auf die weite, aus vielfach verzweigten, bodenlos tiefen Schluchten zusammengesetzte Erosionslandschaft, die sich zu Füßen des Beschauers ausdehnte, war unbeschreiblich.

"Die Fülle und Mannigfaltigkeit der bis ins einzelste modellierten kleinen und grossen Formen war zunächst ganz verwirrend, und erst bei längerem Zusehen vermochte man eine wundervolle Gesetzmässigkeit der grossartigen Landschaft zu erkennen. Dazu kam ein ganz eigenartiges, prachtvolles Farbenspiel bei dem wechselnden Stande der Sonne, das durch die vorherrschende rote Farbe der Felswände erzeugt wurde, die in der Ferne in violett und zuletzt in dunkelblau überging.

"Wir brachten hier zwei höchst interessante Tage mit der Betrachtung der geologischen und orographischen Verhältnisse des Canyons zu." (ENTIRE NOTE)

(translation)

'On the morning of October 2nd we stood at the Hotel El Tovar on the edge of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The first glimpse of the wide eroded landscape, composed of many branched, bottomless deep gorges, which stretched out at the feet of the viewer, was indescribable.

'The fullness and variety of the small and large forms modeled down to the smallest detail was at first quite confusing, and only after a longer period of observation could one recognize the wonderful regularity of the magnificent landscape. In addition, there was a very peculiar, magnificent play of colors with the changing position of the sun, which was produced by the predominant red color of the rock walls, which in the distance turned into violet and finally into dark blue.

'We spent two most interesting days here observing the geology and orography of the canyon.'

Olcott, Charles S.

- 968 1914 The lure of the camera. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), 296 pp. [See Chapter 10, "The Grand Cañon of Arizona", pp. 273-296.]

"I arrived at the cañon on a cold night in January, 1903, alone. There were few guests at the hotel, which was a capacious log cabin, with long, single-storied frame structures projecting in various directions, to serve the purposes of sleeping-rooms and kitchens. It had a primitive look, far more in keeping with the solitude of its surroundings than the present comfortable hotel. An old guide (I hoped he might be John Hance) sat by the fire talking with a group of loungers, and I sauntered near enough to hear the conversation, expecting to listen to some good tale of the cañon. But the talk was commonplace. • • •

"I read the guidebooks and reached the conclusion that the cañon was not worth visiting if one did not go 'down the trail' to the bottom of it. So I inquired at the desk when the party would start in the morning, and was dismayed to be told that there would be none unless somebody wanted to go. I was told to put my name on the 'list' and no doubt others would see it and we might 'get up' a party. I therefore boldly signed my name at the top of a white sheet of paper, feeling much like a decoy, and awaited results. Again and again during the lonesome evening I sauntered over to the desk, but not one of the few guests had shown the slightest interest. At ten o'clock my autograph still headed an invisible list, as lonely as the man for whom it stood, and I went to bed, vowing to myself that if I could get only one companion, besides the guide, I would go down the trail. • • •

[The next morning, after viewing the canyon, with some unremarkable comments] "I returned to the hotel and entered the breakfast-room, with an appetite well sharpened by the crisp wintry air, first taking a furtive glance at the 'list,' where my name still presided in solitary dignity. • • •

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"By this time the table was well filled. There is no formality at such places and we were soon chatting together like old acquaintances. I resolved to open up the subject of the trail and asked my neighbor at the right whether he intended to make the trip. He said 'No,' rather indifferently, I thought, and I expressed my surprise. I had read the guidebooks to good purpose and was soon expatiating on the wonders of the trail, declaring that I could not understand why people should come from all parts of the world to see the cañon and miss the finest sight of all, the view from below. (Somebody said that in the guidebook.) They were all listening now. Some one asked if it was not dangerous. 'Not in the least,' I replied; 'no lives have ever been lost and there has never been an accident' (the guidebook said that, too)—'and, besides,' I continued, knowingly, 'it's lots of fun.' Just here a maiden lady of uncertain age, cadaverous cheeks, and a high, squeaky voice, piped out,—'I believe I'll go.' I remembered my vow about the one companion and suddenly felt a strange, sickly feeling of irresolution. But it was only for a moment. A little girl of twelve was tugging at her father's coat-tails—'Papa, can't I go?' Papa conferred with Mamma, who agreed that Bessie might go if Papa went too. I was making progress. A masculine voice from the other end of the table then broke in with a few more questions, and its owner, a man from Minnesota, whom we afterward called the 'Major,' was the next recruit. I had suddenly gained an unwonted influence. • • •

"After the meal was over, a lady approached and prefacing her request with the flattering remark that I 'looked respectable,' said that her daughter, a young lady of twenty, was anxious to go down the trail; she would consent if I would agree to see that no harm befell her. I thought I might as well be a chaperon as a cicerone, since I had had no experience as either, and promptly assured the mother of my willingness to accept the charge. It was a vain promise. • • •

"There were seven of us, including the guide, as we started down the long and crooked path. The guide rode a white horse, but the rest of the party were mounted, like myself, on big, sturdy mules—none of your little, lazy burros, as most people imagine. • • •

"It was a glorious ride. The trail itself was the only sign of human handiwork. Everything else in sight was as Nature made it—a wild, untouched ruggedness near at hand and a softer, gentler aspect in the distance, where the exposed strata of all the geologic ages caught the sunshine at millions of angles, each reflecting its own particular hue and all blending together in a rich harmony of color; where the bright blue sky and the fleecy clouds came down to join their earthly brethren in a revelry of rainbow tints, and the sun overhead, despite the snow about the rim, was smiling his happiest summer benison upon the deep valley. • • •

[At Indian Garden] "We had now left the steep zigzag path, and riding straight forward over a great plateau, we came to the brink of some granite cliffs, where we could at last see the Colorado River, thundering through the gorge thirteen hundred feet below. And what a river it is! From the rim we could only catch an occasional glimpse, looking like a narrow silver ribbon, threading in and out among a multitude of strangely fashioned domes and turrets. Here we saw something of its true character, though still too far away to feel its real power—a boiling, turbulent, angry, and useless stream dashing wildly through a barren valley of rock and sand, its waters capable of generating millions of horse-power, but too inaccessible to be harnessed, and its surface violently resisting the slightest attempt at navigation; a veritable anarchist of a river! • • •

[The author expends five pages to recount the Powell expedition.]

"We were obliged to content ourselves with a view of the river from this height, though I had expected to descend to the river's edge and felt correspondingly disappointed. We had started too late for so long a trip and now it was time to turn back. • • •

"As we approached the summit of the path some one remarked, 'I should think these mules would be so tired they would be ready to drop.' 'Wait and see,' said the guide. A few minutes later we reached the top and dismounted, feeling pretty stiff from the exertion. The mules were unsaddled and turned loose. Away they scampered like a lot of schoolboys at recess, kicking their heels high in the air and racing madly across the field. • • •

"Some years ago I had occasion to attend a stereopticon lecture on the Grand Cañon. The speaker was enthusiastic and his pictures excellent. But he fired off all his ammunition of adjectives with the first slide. For an hour and a half we sat listening to an endless repetition of 'grand,' 'magnificent,' 'sublime,' 'awe-inspiring,' etc. As we walked home a young lad in our party, who was evidently studying rhetoric in school, was heard to inquire, 'Mother, would n't you call that an example of tautology?' I fear I should merit the same criticism if I were to undertake a description of the cañon. Yet we may profitably stand, for a few moments, on Hopi Point, a promontory that projects far out from the rim, and try to measure it with our eyes." [He then conducts a tautological tour; a five-page guide to the world's geography and architecture.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Parker, O. K.

- 969 NO DATE A strenuous trip into the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Syracuse, New York: Franklin Automobile Co., 25 pp. [1914?]

Five passengers in Franklin touring car, from Peach Springs to the Colorado River, on behalf of Automobile Club of Southern California to determine feasibility of road construction. See also Parker under "Date Undetermined" in this bibliography.

Pratt, George D.

- 970 1914 Five reproductions from autochrome photographs of the Grand Canyon. Brooklyn Museum Quarterly, 1(2) (July): 81 and following. [Page 81, followed by five leaves tipped in between pp. 82/83, in color.]

Sherman, Leonard DeWitt

- 971 1914 A front-row seat in Grand Canon. Recreation and Outdoor World, 51(2) (August): 68, 81-83, 119-120.

This chatty story—delightfully more as a guide's eye view of things—jumps right in at Plateau Point, overlooking the Colorado River:

"That afternoon Earle Lewis, Grand Cañon guide, and I, stood on the point of the Grand Cañon Plateau, watching the Colorado River, a gray ribbon of water that swirled over the floor of the cañon far beneath our feet. In fact it was so directly beneath my feet that I involuntarily stepped back for fear of wetting them, having a particular aversion to wet feet from that altitude.

" 'How far to the river?' I inquired.

" 'Thirteen hundred feet, straight down,' he replied, 'an' about three miles by trail. Most ever'body goes by trail,' he added, thoughtfully.

" 'I'd like to try to make a photograph of you on the point, showing the river below and the mountains in the distance,' I announced.

" 'All right,' grinned Lewis. 'Go to it, and do your worst.'

"I moved back along the ragged edge of the plateau, with the camera under one arm, manœuvering the while to find a good viewpoint. In stepping across the head of a little draw the trailing tripod legs tripped and threw me face down on some loose shale rock. The shale began to slide and I went with it, in spite of my best endeavors. Then I pitched head first over the edge, onto a little pocket in the rim of the cliff, striking on my head and shoulders about twenty feet below. When I sat up my feet overhung the edge of the bench I had landed on and, rather hazily, I could see 'way down to the river between them. It was some view! No one was ever any more surprised than I was—to think I had fallen, in the first place, and that I had stopped after I started. Some one has said that when a person is going to sudden death his past life always overtakes him. Perhaps mine might have had I gone all the way to the river—speaking both literally and figuratively—but as it was I got the jump on it, and beat it to the finish. Come to think it over, I would be rather ashamed if I had not. It would be almost scandalous!

"Lewis came over on the run and called down to me.

" 'Yo' feel faint?' he inquired anxiously, looking me over.

I shook my head.

" 'Then don't move. Ah'll get a canteen off mah mule an' bring it to yo'; then Ah'll pull yo' out.'

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Notwithstanding Earle's advice to keep still, I did move my feet. They were too blamed far apart and gave me too large a view of the river.

"Man! that was a close call!" he exclaimed, when he dropped down beside me. "Yo' got a right smart cut on yo' haid. How do you feel?"

"All right, otherwise," I returned.

"Yo' hat is on the next bench about three hundred feet down. I saw the dust flyin' and knew yo'd fallen."

"After awhile we worked our way out. I felt a little foolish to have turned a tenderfoot trick like that right off the reel, and sought to relieve the situation by telling Lewis how I had outdistanced my past. 'But I didn't realize that I was within twenty feet of the edge,' I finally explained, seriously. 'And I didn't intend to fall.'

"That's the trouble with this here cañon," he replied; "it's so big nobody ever does realize it, an' it's the most treacherous place on earth, Ah reckon. Ah got a bad fall mahself, about a month ago, near the same place yo' tumbled. Put mah foot on a rock Ah'd stepped on twenty times befo', an' the whole side of the cliff just naturally slid away with me."

"We had mounted our mules by now and were riding back to our camp, below the Indian Gardens.

"This here whole fo'mation is mighty curious," he went on, after inquiring again how I felt. "It seems to be a mixture of hard shale and soft rock and sand, that is all the time breaking away and crumbling down. Every sto'm starts a new slide som'ers an' a man needs to watch out all the time. Ah'm goin' to take yo' up to the Gardens. There's a young chemist wo'king there in the platinum mine; he's got all the first aid stuff an' can fix up yo' haid."

"Is he a good worker in ivory?" I inquired, feeling vindictive.

"You bet," grinned Lewis, "or bone or anything like that. He could mend a broken promise—that one."

"There ought to be some stitches taken in one of those cuts," observed the chemist, as he sponged me up, "but I haven't a thing to do it with. It won't leave much of a scar anyhow. Anything else troubling you?"

"Nothing but a lame shoulder," I replied.

"You're lucky. You've sprained it, probably."

Lewis suggested we go back to the rim.

"Yo're going to be too stiff to ride tomorrow," he insisted. "Yo' better go while the goin' is good."

"But I couldn't see it that way. We had come down to stay over night and go to the river the next day and I hated to lose the trip.

"The chemist backed me up, so we went down to camp. • • •

"We had no tent. It scarcely ever rains in the Grand Cañon and it is a crime to spoil a Southwestern night camp by holeing up in a canvas house. The outfit furnished an air bed for me, while Lewis had the usual bed-roll of the cow-puncher. If there is one place in the world where the air mattress pays a dividend it is in these barren regions, and I crawled into the sleeping bag attachment of mine with some thankfulness. Then I lay and watched the stealthy dusk creep over the land.

"By and by the stars pricked out one by one, and hung suspended in a velvet canopy, it seemed, no higher than the cañon's rim. I cannot tell you about the wonderful beauty of that night, any more than I can describe the cañon itself. I remember that a clean, cool breeze wandered over the plateau, rustling the willows that grew beside the run, where a thin stream tinkled merrily. I always enjoy the soothing sound of running water at a night camp, but no amount of soothing could hasten my slumbers that night. To begin with, I wanted to stay awake and enjoy the night in that strange place, and secondly, I was too sore for slumber. Which perhaps was just as well, because when I did doze for a moment I only dreamed I was falling again. I pitched over that cliff a dozen times before Lewis returned with Pardner [the mule that had run off], and I made it a hundred before daylight. It seemed only necessary to close my eyes to bring it all back. My past life had caught up with me and was riding me hard, too. Still I was able to register the sensation of a profoundly uplifting experience, that of being cradled in Nature's mightiest crib. I wish I could put it in words.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Lewis turned out in the gray morning to start the fire and set the coffee pot to boiling. Lying in my bed I watched him haze in the mules and feed them, and I saw, also, the new day breaking over the eastern cliffs and the night shadows stealing down into their dungeons in the cañon's depths. After awhile the sun's rays, like molten amber, suddenly splashed the loftiest peaks, ran quickly down their giant sides, over the higher terraces,—wonderfully colorful stairs leading up to the brink of all creation—and so step by step, trickled softly down into the river. Then, as instantaneously as the pressing of an electric switch, the sun burst forth in incandescent splendor. Southwestern sunsets and sunrises are exactly like that. There is no twilight to speak of. Some one turns off the sun at night and likewise turns it on again in the morning. • • •

After breakfast, they head on down toward the river.

"From the Plateau the trail drops swiftly down, and in one place, a sheer 600 feet of zig-zag known as the 'Devil's Corkscrew' is too steep for comfortable riding.

" 'Ah had three ladies faint on me a time ago," observed Lewis. 'Right on this Corkscrew it was, an' mebbe Ah wasn't busy fo' a few minutes!'

"I suggested he must meet with some curious experiences during the course of a season's work.

" 'You bet,' he agreed. 'Ah've only been here three months, but Ah reckon Ah've been through the whole list of things that can happen. Yo'd be surprised some to see the way different people take this trail. Some of 'em—ones yo'd guess would never make it, too—go down and back without battin' an eye; while others, that look as if they'd stand it fine, go plumb to pieces. Just the other evenin' I had a lady give out when she was half way up from the Gardens. The first news Ah had that she minded it a bit was when she began to cry. She just sat [on] her mule and blubbered like a good one. She declared up and down she couldn't go another foot, an' was no use to tell her she was over the worst of the trip an' nearly out o' the cañon.'

" 'Ah took her off her mule, but that only made it worse. She had mo' faith in mules, Ah reckon, than she had in me. Ah scolded her awhile, an finally Ah got cross an' told her Ah was goin' to leave her. That started somethin' in a hurry. She climbed that mule like a puncher goin' to a barbeque.'

"Below the Corkscrew the trail winds down the dry, rocky bottom of Pipe Creek Cañon, until it debouches into the main cañon or Inner Gorge wherein the Colorado flows. The river itself is a roily, red colored flood that sweeps along with irresistible force, swift and lithe as a snake, but with no pronounced rapids in sight from the foot of the trail. Its width at this point is perhaps two hundred feet, and its depth varies from twenty feet at low water to seventy at full flood, its rise and fall, in common with all other Southwestern rivers, being very rapid at times. We merely stopped long enough to make a few photographs. It was hot as mustard down there and not a breath of air stirred.

" 'Some hot,' I remarked, as we mounted the sweating mules for the return trip.

" 'Now yo're whistlin,' agreed Lewis. 'It's only about one jump to hell from here. There's no breeze and the sun cuts in like a burnin' glass at mid-day.'

"Now you discover what mules were made for. Going down it is mostly easier and in some places safer, to walk, but it takes a mule to get you out. Nearing the top on the up trip, after having been to the river, one is better able to appreciate the vastness of the cañon. One also gradually becomes accustomed to the trail itself. The rocks seem to be about up to the standard; the grade is not too steep; the path, even, not too narrow. Merely taking in the local surroundings everything appears as calmly sedate as a country lane. Your mind reverts to its usual tranquil state. Then you round a corner and ride out on the edge of things. You recall your first impression of this big, mile-deep crack in the earth's crust, with its sunken mountains, its marvelous color and distances, and you go over again the hard seven-mile trip to the river. From where you sit you could jump off the mule and go down a thousand feet or so with scarcely any effort. Considering these things your sense of proportion instantly whirls away. Your mules are ants crawling on the mountain side. You, yourself, are no more than a speck on the face of Nature."

Sherman jumps into an alternating conversation—one a flash-back that the guide had had with a mule-skittish visitor—"St-e-a-dy mu-le!"—and a dialogue on the geology of the canyon begun with a question posed by the author. 'St-e-a-dy-mu-le. 'Oh, he's all right,' I answers. One eye's enough for any mule. He just fell over a cliff one day and blinded one of 'em and--' 'What! WHOA-Mule! I'm going to walk.' • • • "

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Late that afternoon Lewis and I stood on the rim once more, looking in. Near sundown the scenes changed with an alluring swiftness. The view, a monster kaleidoscope of color and design, was constantly shifting with every angle of the sun's rays. The night shadows were crawling up out of the cañon depths. Below us in dusky outline lay the pleateau. The tents, in the emerald green of the Indian Gardens, shone like tiny white pin points; and above all the Temples of Isis, Buddha and Zoroaster, tipped with the last rays of the setting sun glowed like jewels in the cañon 's outer ramparts. Lewis finally broke the spell.

"Well, son, she's some hole in the ground—what?"

"I nodded.

"Ah want to tell yo' one thing," he went on. "Hundreds of thousands of people have visited this here cañon, and a bunch of 'em have gone down into it, but durn few of 'em have seen it like you and me have."

"I get you, Steve," [American slang] I replied. "You mean—"

"Ah mean," he continued with a grin, "that in order to really appreciate this here cañon, yo' need to fall pretty damn near into it. Them that get poetical about its tremendous grandeur—from a safe distance—don't know nothin' at all about it. Yo' want to just take a little accidental tumble, enough to jolt yo' good, an' slide an' roll a bit, an' bring up a-danglin' on the aige of one of them long drops. When yo' get there and get your eyes open, and your past life has caught up to you, like you said, you've got a front-row seat and a fine uninterrupted view of the whole inside of hell. What?"

Sterling, George

- 972 1914 Beyond the Breakers and other poems. San Francisco: A. M. Robertson, 141 pp.
See p. 25, "At the Grand Canon". Reprints Sterling (1912) with minor variations of typography.

Taylor, E. A.

- 973 1914 The paintings of Augustus Koopman. The International Studio, 52 (May): 215-220.
"Last summer he held a successful exhibition in his own country, and while there spent some of the brighter days painting in the Grand Cañon of Arizona." (ENTIRE NOTE) (Koopman was American-born but lived most of his life in France. He had died on January 31, 1914.)

Van Dyke, Henry

- 974 1914 The Grand Canyon and other poems. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 78 pp. [Also printed by Copp Clark Co., Ltd. (Toronto, 1914).]
See "The Grand Canyon; Daybreak", pp. 3-8; reprints Van Dyke (1913).

Walsh, Thomas

- 975 1914 The forges of the sun. In the Grand Cañon of Colorado [sic]. The Bookman, 38 (January): 514.
As in the furnace depths of Geni-land
The molten sparks from off the anvils blow,
Adown the cañons now a brawny hand
Upon the bellows sets the days aglow;
Old Autumn with his sledges welds the gold
Of leaf and harvest, laughing loud and clear
At Vulcan and his magic shields of old,
And forging red the sunsets of the year.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wergeland, Agnes Mathilde

- 976 1914 Efterladte digte. (Foreword by Maren Michelet.) Minneapolis, Minnesota: The Free Church Book Concern, 175 pp. ("Copyright 1914 by Grace Raymond Hebard[, ] Laramie, Wyo.") [In Norwegian.] (transl. 'Surviving poems')

See "Rosen" ('Rose'), "Paa randen av Grand Cañon" ('On the edge of the Grand Canyon'), pp. 137-142 (in its entirety below). See also photo with legend, "Rosen", facing p. 137, which shows Wergeland writing on the rim at Grand Canyon. (Refer also to Michelet, 1916.) The poem (not translated here except for the selections in this paragraph) moves through the slow birth of the canyon, evolving, dissecting "in the wild dance of the waters", creating the panoply of colossal things that are seen in it; but it desiccated to become the scene for cactus and lizard, where "the sun did its work / the great artist with his palette", where "the Medusa of thirst stares down there / with snakes in tangled hair"; the scene is all that remains of "a race of warriors / monsters, giants, gods once". Then— "Then it was my eye fell on a rose, / a real, living rose tree ••• They were real roses—! / who breathed life despite the distress of the desert." It "smelled so sweet among rocks and stones."

Det var i istidens tumørke dage da alt var sne og hvirvlende vand at dette dyb var en eneste flake, en isbræ omspændte det hele land —
Men solen kom og i middagsheden blev gletscheren langsomt et bredfuldt hav, en malstrøm som rasende søgte sig udvei
og malte i sønder hvad ei bøied av.

Den bygged ei op—dens hast var utrolig, og dog det hændte den dreied tit top det sleipe ler hvor det slumrede rolig,
og runded det av til det smukt stod op:
Et punkt, en ø, i en indsjø bare som ingen mærked til strømmen vred begyndte tidt mindre uvorrent fare — æoner gik hen, den sank dybere ned.

Av slammet steg med de taarnende masser
saa lidt om senn en telteby — men større og større de blev, paladser, de steg i høiden, de steg mod sky!
Aartusener svandt — nu blev rigtig den mester,
og vandene blev dens skabende haand:
En vrimmel av volde, taame og fæster file udført i dyndet dens rastløse aand.

Den dreied og skar i knop og i kegle, den løfted og sænked og huled ud
den skrabad og rev med ivrige negle,
og dynked det over med bølgesprud,
et bolværk av klipper som aldrig fik briste,
hvor havet strømmed før uden stans,
alt menneskeværk var som tant mod disse,
der fremgik av vandenes vilde dans.

Og tiden gik — frit landet sig reiste av strømmens hvirvel alt høiere op, avdybet bestandig rankere kneiste forgaarder, templer, kolossers krop, til svimlende avgrunde skabtes dernede,
og floden blev kun en avsat monark

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

som grov i skummende avmagt og led — en mester forsmået av sit eget værk.

Men landet foroven blev til en ørken, av sand og klipper, et ufrugtbart dyb,
tilblivelsen endte i solbrandstørken,
her fostredes en kaktus og øglers kryb —
forladt av vand dets safter blev tørre, det blev til krøbling, dets græs blev grus,
forstenet det saa med useende øine,
forglemte det laa lig et uddødt hus.

O livets kilde, Du sprundlende vand, her tied Din stemme, her er Du forstummet,
da Du blev borte, blev dødt dette land,
en underlig stumhet raaded i rummet,
Din glade nynnen ei skapte om
den gamle vildskab til milde gaver,
Din godhed os ikke til undsætning kom,
og trylled av dyndet Babylons haver.

Men da fik solen forrette sin gjerning, den store kunstner med sin palet,
gav bronsens lød til hver kant og terning,
og guldets glød til hver nøgen plet,
violblaa skygge i hver en hulning,
et mørke dybt som den dybe brønd, et skjærende hvidt til livets skrænter
og mudderets flader brændende grønt.

Det sitred og skifted i glimt, i straalere, det brød og brændte i hede blink, jubelen med det sig i skjønhed ei maaler som evig gløder fra brink til brink.
Det er som solen vilde beklæde med smykker den brud som for den staar — men tørstens Medusa stirrer dernede med snogene i det flokede haar.

Lat avgrunden lyse med lyn og flammer, en farvevælde som spotter ord,
med svidende pile det øiet rammer, det er som gjennem en svær det fór —
for dybet dernede minder om bølger av helveds størknede taareflod, den glimrende maske kun pine dølger,
det tomme blik som stivner ens blod.

*

Kan ørkenen ei drive sit offer til vanvid, kan ikke den piske til raseri?
Det evige savn skaper gjøglebilleder,
her aander ei lise, ei harmoni,
og dybet tryller med slangens blikke,
mod det hjælper ei stengsel, ei skjul, dets snigende vilje undgaar en ikke —
det fanger ens sjæl lig en flaksende fugl.

Her leved kanhænde en race av kjæmper, uhyrer, giganter, guder engang —
men ikke det mere paa storheten læmper

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

at aldrig den brydes av fuglesang.
Her er der sletintet som varmer om hjertet, og ingenting end som stemmer en glad,
her er der langt mere av det som har smertet, og mere end godt er av grumhed og had.

Fra disse er templer som skabt til ofring, og andre som reist til blodig fest,
den grinende avgud har krævet sin soning,
den hæslige tro sin ypperstepræst:
Azteken har slagtet her sine gidsler
og Iuca'n har sat paa sit hoved en krans, og endnu skrænmnes av ofrets pinsler
i ørkenens stumhed ens skjælvende sans.

Da var det mit øie faldt paa en rose,
et virkeligt, levende rosentræ,
heroppe paa skrænten blandt cedar og pinje,
et træ som næsten var stort som de.
Og barken var laset, stammen knudret, det kjæmped saa haardt for det dyre liv —
og dog aanded hele træet sødme, var blomsterflor som til tidsfordriv.

Og bladene var smaa knortede fingre, forkrøllet, forkrøblet i hvert et led,
og træet var selv uanseligt, ringe,
var intet at fange øiet med.
Og dog, de hænder — en skaal av aroma de bar — saa krydret. sjelden og sød, en daarende duft! De var rigtige roser —!
som aanded sit liv trods ørkenens nød.

Hvem vil ei heller finde en rose end al denne blændende, kolde pragt, og skue dens ynde, en voksbleg mimose!
end dybet som blev under trolddom lagt?
Det haarde lys, disse rifter og revner, vil gjerne jeg gi for en eneste gren av træet som blomstred med kjærlige evner og dufted saa sødt blandt klipper og sten.

1915

Anonymous

977 1915 A trip to Desert View. Santa Fe Magazine, 9(2) (January): 59.

"W. H. Simpson, general advertising agent of the Santa Fe, accompanied by R. L. Watts, who is in charge of the electric light and steam heating plant at El Tovar, and Walter Hubbell, who sees that the El Tovar transportation is handled without a slip, took a trip to Desert View, Grand Cañon, a short time ago. They temporarily forsook the railroad and made the jaunt in an automobile. They have the distinction of being the first autoists to reach Desert View[.]

"There is an old wagon road to Desert View. Until now this has been frequented by only an occasional wagon camping party. The Santa Fe has just finished improving the road. Mr. Hubbell is now ready to take

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

parties by automobile from El Tovar to Desert View and back in one day. With the exposition visitors streaming back and forth, the [rail] road will be the liveliest it has ever been." (ENTIRE ITEM)

A photo of the men and their auto at Desert View accompanies the article.

978 1915 He had seen America. Puck, (January 30): 15.

Humorous, but fictional, story about a "fat man" on a train answering questions about places he had been in America, about which he replied not with impressions about the places but with remarks about the hotels there. Includes: "'How about the grand canyon of the Colorado?' 'Oh, fine. The main hotel has a rustic effect. Bark on the outside, onyx on the inside. Grizzly bear skins instead of rugs. You can't beat it.'" (But for realist examples, see Skinner, 1908, Van Loan, 1910, and Moore, 1915.)

979 1915 Is youngest president. International Railway Journal, 22(11) (February): 1-2.

J. W. McAdam, President of Veterans' Association of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad.

"He and Mrs. McAdam were on the Grand Canon Trip, and the writer, while in Lebanon recently, was regaled with a most thrilling account of a perilous mule ride which Mr. McA., in company with a number of venturesome spirits among the members [of the International Association of Ticket Agents], took along a precipitous trail in the Grand Canon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

980 1915 [Lecture.] In: Scientific Notes and News [SECTION]. Science, New Series, 41 (April 23): 606.

"Geologist Douglas W. Johnson lectured on April 7 at Johns Hopkins University on 'The Origin of Scenery in the Grand Canyon District'." (ENTIRE NOTE)

981 1915 Make transcontinental tour in small car easily. The Goodrich (B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, Ohio), (April): 8-9.

About trip by Mr. and Mrs. Seth H. Keene in a Metz runabout with Goodrich tires (with illustrations). The second half of the article is about the trip by F. L. Wing and O. K. Parker, of Los Angeles, to and into Grand Canyon [Diamond Creek] in a Metz roadster (with illustrations).

"Their [the Keenes] absence from mishaps was not phenomenal, for other similar ventures have been made in small cars. Notable is the one made by Messrs. F. L. Wing and O. K. Parker, of Los Angeles, who traveled in a 22 H. P. Metz roadster from that city to the edge of the Grand Canyon. Not satisfied with having made this trip, the pair ventured the descent to the bottom of the Canyon and return.

"The difficulties which they encountered make it almost unbelievable that a car could make the trip. At times the engine was forced to push the wheels up on boulders from 18 inches to 3 feet high. The axles were pounded and strained and the frame of the car taxed almost beyond the endurance of steel. At the bottom quicksands were encountered, and it was necessary to rush the car from one side to another with reckless abandon, for to get stuck meant to lose the car for good and all.

"Before the ascent was commenced, the front wheels were dipped in the waters of the Colorado River, full proof that the botom had been reached. What the brakes had been forced to do on the descent the engine was forced to achieve on the return to the top, and through it all the little roadster and its Goodrich tires carried the venturous tourists safely and never gave cause for complaint."

982 1915 Make transcontinental tour in small car easily. American Chauffeur, 3(6) (June): 260-261.

Reprints the item from The Goodrich (above), credited as from "Goodrich Magazine".

983 1915 Outdoors captured for Continent readers. The Continent (New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia), 46(23) (June 10): 775-778, and "Keys to Scenic Views", p. 792.

Photo collage. See p. 775, "Descending the Grand Canyon is easy with the help of sure-footed horses", which depicts a trail party coming up Bright Angel Trail.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 984 1915 The Seed Trade convention. In: News of the Seed Trade [SECTION]. The Florists' Review (Chicago), 36(917) (June 24): 56, 58, 60-64.

Regarding the 33rd annual convention of the American Seed Trade Association, in San Francisco. See "The Excursion Party", which left Chicago on June 12; includes the note, "On the way out the main party spent a most enjoyable day in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 985 1915 The National Editorial Association at San Francisco. The Michigan Bulletin (Michigan Press and Printers' Federation, Big Rapids, Michigan), 19(2 [sic, 4] (New Series, 2(5)) (July): 3-5.

"A day spent in reaching, viewing and traveling back from the Grand Canyon was a day never to be forgotten by the enraptured visitors. Words fail to describe the beauties of the Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 986 1915 The N. E. C. A. fifteenth annual convention. National Electrical Contractor, 14(10) (August): 38-40.

National Electrical Contractors' Association of the United States. "The trip across New Mexico and Arizona was enjoyed, and Wednesday morning early the train reached the Grand Canyon. Most of the passengers arose at four o'clock to see the sun rise on the canyon. They were well repaid for their efforts, and here one of the most wonderful sights was witnessed. Wednesday was spent at the canyon, some of the party going down the trail on mules and others taking the rim drive around the canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 987 1915 Some bright lights as we saw them. National Electrical Contractor, 14(10) (August): 46-47.

Includes note, and caricature cartoons, pertaining to visit to Grand Canyon en route to convention of National Electrical Contractors' Association of the United States. One cartoon shows nine men (named) all photographing the canyon. A second cartoon specifically refers to L. H. Woods' impression of mules at Grand Canyon (see also the item next below).

- 988 1915 Mule to climb ladders? In: Sparks from the N.E.C.A. Convention [SECTION]. National Electrical Contractor, 14(10) (August): 138.

Anecdote regarding L. H. Woods during visit to Grand Canyon by National Electrical Contractors' Association of the United States:

"L. H. Woods of New York City, President of the New York State Association of Electrical Contractors, made the trip down the Bright Angel Trail at Grand Canyon on a mule. He was so well pleased with the success of the mule climbing the 'Devil's Corkscrew' he remarked, 'That mule can climb anything. I'm going to buy him to carry me up twenty-story ladders on new buildings in New York City.' You New Yorkers watch out for the new form of elevator." (ENTIRE ITEM)

- 989 1915 DeVeau always there. In: Sparks from the N.E.C.A. Convention [SECTION]. National Electrical Contractor, 14(10) (August): 138-139, 148.

"President Galloway tells a story of how the DeVeau telephones were advertised in the Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE) There is a photo of DeVeau at Grand Canyon on p. 148. (National Electrical Contractors' Association of the United States. Albert S. DeVeau, DeVeau Telephone Manufacturing Company.)

- 990 1915 Photographs taken at the N. E. C. A. convention. National Electrical Contractor, 14(10) (August): 140-142, 151.

Most photos taken at Grand Canyon. National Electrical Contractors' Association of the United States.

- 991 1915 Down the Bright Angel Trail at Grand Canyon. [AND] N. E. C. A. at the Grand Canyon. National Electrical Contractor, 14(10) (August): 146-147.

National Electrical Contractors' Association of the United States. The "Bright Angel Trail" item is a photo collage, including a Kolb Brothers photo of a trail party. The accompanying N.E.C.A. item remarks, "We will not attempt to describe the grandeur of the scene, as so much has been written about the changing colors that we could not attempt to do the subject justice without using much space."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

992 1915 Exchange photo department. National Electrical Contractor, 14(10) (August): 152.

Includes note: "The camera men took photographs of the Grand Canyon in every conceivable way, and, in fact, all along the road the click of the camera was heard constantly." (ENTIRE NOTE) Also refer to two anonymous items from the August issue (above).

993 1915 The Santa Fe Railroad. School Music (Keokuk, Iowa), 16(76) (September): 31.

Santa Fe Railway appreciation piece, with promotional passage about Grand Canyon: "In particular on the Santa Fe line is the greatest single view in the Universe. No one has every edaquately [sic] pictured the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. No pen picture can possibly be drawn that will lead the imagination to conceive such an exhibition of immensity. It cannot be compared with other sights as there is no other place like it in all the world." (ENTIRE NOTE)

994 1915 On the Pacific Coast Special. In: News of the Engineering World [SECTION]. Engineering News, 74(13) (September 23): 621-622.

Train excursion to San Francisco. See p. 621: "The train arrived early Tuesday morning at the Grand Cañon of the Colorado River, and the visitors had the entire day to view this indescribable wonder." (ENTIRE NOTE)

995 1915 West's scenic splendors enliven trip to International Congress. In: News of the Week [SECTION]. Engineering Record, 72(13) (September 25): 398.

The "Engineers' Special", New York to San Francisco, for the International Engineering Congress. "At the Grand Canyon more than one-third of the party, including some ladies, showed their mettle by taking the trip down the Bright Angel trail, a very fatiguing descent of a mile to the river." (ENTIRE NOTE)

996 1915 San Francisco meeting of the Mechanical Engineers. American Machinist, 43(14) (September 30): 605-606.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers. See p. 605: "The route [to San Francisco included] the Grand Cañon, where some rode muleback or horseback down the Bright Angel trail, while others took the Hermit Run [sic] drive and the auto ride to Grand View." (ENTIRE NOTE)

997 1915 The California A. V. M. A. meeting a notable one. American Journal of Veterinary Medicine, 10(10) (October): 729-738.

American Veterinary Medical Association. "Those returning over the Santa Fe endured a wider and hotter desert than was traversed on the outgoing trip, but the view of the Grand Canyon of Arizona more than compensated them for the hardships of the desert." (ENTIRE NOTE)

998 1915 Movie motors invade wilds. American Chauffeur, 3(11) (November): 512-513.

Mitchell Car automobile outfitted with a "powerful 4,500,000 candle power lighting apparatus" (illustrated).

". . . arrangements have been completed to transport the entire company and a host of 'properties' to Northern Arizona, where this fall it is expected pictures will be staged in the Grand Canyon, and by means of the light from the portable plant, to delve into the depths of the caverns of the great crevass and to utilize the dark recesses, caves and trails. It will be the first time where the canyon has actually been employed as a stage for the pictured drama." (ENTIRE NOTE)

999 1915 Portable light plant. Illustrated World, 24(3) (November): 376.

Automobile fitted out with lights for night filming at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1000 1915 Lighting plant for movie work on motor car. Popular Mechanics, 24(5) (November): 660-661.

1001 1915 Speech is carried across Atlantic Ocean; wireless telephone developed by engineers of American Telephone and Telegraph Company demonstrated successfully between Arlington and the Eiffel Tower. Bell Telephone News (Chicago), 5(4) (November): 10-12.

"At the time of the experiments, President Vail, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was at a hotel in the Grand Canyon, Arizona." Includes his remarks on the successful experiment. (This issue also displays a photograph of Theodore N. Vail on the front page, associated with an unrelated article.)

1002 1915 Exhibitions for November. Detroit Museum of Art, Bulletin, 10(3) (November): 2-4.

See "Paintings by Bertha S. Menzler" (pp. 3-4), which notes, "There are seventeen pictures in the collection, all of them depicting the vast stretches of sand and sagebrush, and the gloriously tinted Grand Canyon."

1003 1915 Where runs the Santa Fe. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(1) (December): 82.

Verse by "inmate No. 9921 of the Iowa State Prison at Fort Madison". Includes a stanza mentioning Grand Canyon and El Tovar:

The social side of travel tide,
Delightful friendships formed,
Romantic ride with modest maid
The Cañon Grand along;
El Tovar, too, for day or two—
Informal parties gay;
I've shared it all—you'll find it all—
"Where runs the Santa Fe."

1004 1915 Temporary catalogue of the Department of Fine Arts, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, California, 1915. [No place]: The Wahlgreen Company, 56 pp. [Separately paginated part in Official catalogue of exhibits : Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915. [No place]: The Wahlgreen Company.]

See listings (with no further information): Bradley, Susan H. "1224. Grand Canyon." (p. 10); Liljestrom, Gustav F., "2390. Vishnu Temple: Grand Canyon" (p. 23); and Parshall, De Witt [DeWitt Parshall], "2785. The Hermit Creek Canyon. 2786. Great Abyss." (p. 27).

American Geographical Society

1005 1915 Memorial volume of the Transcontinental Excursion of 1912 of the American Geographical Society of New York. New York: American Geographical Society, 407 pp. [American Geographical Society, Special Publication 1.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Barnes, L. K. (Mrs.)

1006 1915 A visit to Hopi land. II. Missions (A Baptist Monthly Magazine) (Boston), 6(9) (October): 757-760.

Missionary visit. After the northern Arizona tour, a trip was made by rail to Grand Canyon, but is mentioned only by name without any comment.

Bass, William Wallace

1007 1915 Rhymes and jingles. Los Angeles: J. F. Rowny Press, 32 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Belcher, William W.

- 1008 1915 A visit to the Grand Canyon of Arizona. National Dental Association, Journal, 2(4) (November): 418-420.

"The most surprising thing was the unexpectedness of it • • •

"Were it not for its variegated tints, its living rejoicing colors[,] it would be a symphony of desolation, despair and silence. It is Hell with the fires drawn • • •

"Had the Creator of all things seen fit to place this most sublime of all earthly spectacles in a portion of the globe possessing a humid atmosphere, it might have been a wet[,] slimy, nasty mess, a breeding place for mosquitos, frogs and noxious insects, to be avoided by man and beast."

Black, Malcolm S.

- 1009 1915 The convention pilgrimage. Βήτα Θήτα Πι (Beta Theta Pi), 43(1) (October): 1-9.

Rail trip to the fraternity's 76th Annual Convention in California. Only very general remarks of the visit to Grand Canyon (below) but is accompanied by a photo of mounted riders on Bright Angel Trail taken at the Kolb Brothers' photo stop but mislabeled, "Half Way Down the Trail at the Canyon". The entire note about the Grand Canyon stop is as follows (all capitalizations and punctuation thus):

"From here [Williams] the special turned from the main line and traveled some sixty miles north to the Grand Canyon, reaching the station below the El Tovar Hotel in the middle of the afternoon, and wasting no time in reaching the brink of one of the most amazing spectacles in the world.

"That evening the boys gathered in the ball room of the hotel and loosened a few of the old favorite Beta songs. The rumor spread about that 'some college glee club' was giving a concert, which gathered an audience and not at all embarrassing applause. You cannot study the Grand Canyon at night, and dancing became a very popular phase of the interval. Fortunately there were some Beta girls to be acquired, so that the impromptu festival flourished until a late hour.

"The delay at Gallup having necessitated a change of schedule, more time was allowed at the Grand Canyon by cutting the itinerary at Los Angeles. So that Friday became a Grand Canyon day and the party again broke up into small groups some of which took the adventurous drive down the Hermit trail or the Bright Angel Trail into the Canyon; others the trip around the Hermit Rim Road to Hermits' Rest. Many contented themselves by taking short walks in the neighborhood of the hotel. One group walked down the Bright Angel Trail for the thrill of a dip in the Colorado River. It was not only the boys who enjoyed this trip. One of the well known alumnus brothers of the Cornell chapter kept in pace with the best of them. On the way back he outstripped them all and finished quite with the effect of having been but for a short stroll. Such fibre would seem to indicate that true Beta material!"

Blanchard, C. J. [Blanchard, Clarence J.]

- 1010 1915 Uncle Sam in the movies. American Forestry, 21(4) (April): 532-540.

See p. 536 regarding filming in Grand Canyon; and photo, p. 538, of woman with pack burro, "The Heroine of the Grand Canyon Film. This charming young lady [not named] was the star of the picture story taken for the Reclamation Service in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado."

Borlase, Jack

- 1011 1915 The message of the Grand Cañon. The Literary Digest, 50 (March 27): 705.

A purpose He had when He builded me,
When he covered me o'er with rock and tree.
And the purpose He had I will tell to thee;
For it seems that you do not know.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

The lynx and the lion, the lean coyote
And the mountain-sheep and the bearded goat have ever and o'er understood the whys
And the great wherefores of the painted skies
    Where the waters of myst'ry flow;
    But the "all-consuming" brain of a man
    Is a bit too weak to fathom the plan.

Since the day when the Master came and said,
"Now be a mountain instead of a bed.
And grit your teeth while I cut your head
    And your trunk and your tail clear through,"
I have often wept and I've often smiled
When I've thought of the poor fools, running wild,
And to tell the truth, there are moments still
When I weep my weep and I laugh my fill
    As I listen to some of you;
    But the message I bring is a vital thing,
    And a worthy song is the song I sing.

The old Pluto and the Navaho,
Tho their skins are bronze and their ways are slow,
Both listened to me in the long ago
    When I acted most infernal;
And above their failings, above their fears,
And beneath their smiles and beneath their tears,
Is the hope of a happy hunting-ground,
And the hope of a future to be found—
    Yea, faith in a life eternal.
    And this is the message I bring to you,
    Which is old as the hills and ever new.

1012 1915 The message of the Grand Canon. Improvement Era, 18(8) (June): 679.

Preceded by editor's introduction under the title, "A Utah Poet on the Grand Canyon". Reprinted from The Literary Digest (above).

Bowerman, George F.

1013 1915 Report of the Librarian. In: Annual Report of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia : year ended June 30, 1915. Vol. I. Miscellaneous reports. Washington, D.C.: [Commissioners of the District of Columbia], pp. 348-365. [District of Columbia, Commissioners, Annual Report.]

District of Columbia Free Public Library. See p. 355: "Mrs. [John B.] Henderson has now loaned a magnificent painting of the Grand Canyon of Arizona, also by Mr. [Lucien W.] Powell, and this has been hung above the east landing." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Brand, E. P.

1014 1915 The Northern Baptist Convention. Illinois Baptist Bulletin (Normal, Illinois), 7(2) (June): 17-18, 20.

Begins with a brief note of a visit to Grand Canyon en route to the convention in Los Angeles, but containing only the most general of remarks about the size and nature of the canyon, without any comment on grandeur.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Brashears, W. N.

- 1015 1915 Albuquerque. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 9(2) (January): 80.

"The writer was particularly impressed with the expression 'from the sublime to the ridiculous,' on a recent trip to the Grand Cañon, when he heard the following exclamation from another visitor looking at the cañon for the first time. This is the 's to the r': 'Marvelous, beautiful, majestic! Oh! isn't it awe-inspiring! Why, it's just a big hole in the ground!'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Brigham, Albert Perry

- 1016 1915 History of the excursion. In: Memorial volume of the Transcontinental Excursion of 1912 of the American Geographical Society of New York. New York: American Geographical Society, pp. 9-45.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 25, 44.

Brown, C. G.

- 1017 1915 En route. Holstein-Friesian World (Madison, Wisconsin), 12(30) (July 24): 1417-1419.

Begins with remarks of a stay at Grand Canyon, en route to Los Angeles. Plans for a trip down Bright Angel Trail were thwarted—"Every accommodation had been secured—not a mule could be had for any price"—so a rim ride sufficed; and even so, "Imagination cannot conceive anything more grand."

Burdick, Clayton A.

- 1018 1915 The Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The Sabbath Recorder (American Sabbath Tract Society, Plainfield, New Jersey), 78(18) (May 3) (3661): 551-555.

Begins with an unusually long description of a fitful train trip from Williams to the canyon, with frequent stops and sidetracking of cars to allow an inadequate engine to bring the whole train up. For example,

"Morning found part of us stranded at what is termed the 'Summit,' with the engine and three head coaches gone ahead to the canyon.

"While we waited here nearly an hour, the most of us alighted to investigate the surrounding country."

The remainder of the article relates to a day on the Bright Angel Trail, but begins,

"There were some who were very anxious to go; but our conductor refused to consider it for a moment. He said that he had sent people back home from here in a wood box at different times and he wanted no more such experiences. Only those who could show a clean bill of health could get his permission to go. The most of the company thought to prefer the easier way of taking the lookouts along the brink, believing that they could get as good an idea of the canyon in this way as could we; but those of us who went down into the depths know better."

A detailed running dialogue follows, with perspectives about the trail party and the canyon alike, though with a focus on the author's mule, Salome.

Burroughs, John

- 1019 1915 The writings of John Burroughs. XVIII. The breath of life. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), 295 pp.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 225, 228-229; from Burroughs (1911).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Chapman, E. O.

- 1020 1915 In the shadow of the Rockies. The Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer (New York), 43(3) (August 1): 113-117.

A series of letters written during travels. See "The Grand Canyon of Arizona", written at Williams, Arizona, July 2, 1915. The usual "cannot describe" narrative, with some observations nonetheless; adding:

"It seems impossible that the towering rocks shall not fall on us and the chasms invite us with an eloquence almost beyond resistance to cast ourselves headlong to oblivion. • • •

"If we are timid and fearful to attempt the ascent, a look at the river at our feet gives us courage. • • •

"I shall never look [a mule] in the face again without a feeling of gratitude and good fellowship."

Chappell, E. B.

- 1021 1915 Where nature only frowns. Christian Advocate (Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Nashville, Tennessee), 76(44)(3908) (October 29): 10-11 (concurrently paginated for volume, 1418-1419).

Grand Canyon. Apparently one of a series of items written from travels.

"Great things of which we have heard much are almost sure upon first sight to be disappointing. • • •

"And so again when I first gazed down into the dizzy depths of Grand Canyon. But after I had spent a few hours walking along its rugged precipice and contemplating it from a dozen different points of vantage, the impression of it became overwhelming. • • •

"The impression which, as a whole, it made upon me was that of venerable age and solemn grandeur."

Chapple, Joe Mitchell

- 1022 1915 A trip overland; enroute to the San Diego and San Francisco expositions [sic]; wonders of the Grand Canyon and the West revealed in "Seeing America" on a trip to the Pacific coast. The National Magazine (Boston), 42 (Panama-Pacific Exposition Number): 385-402.

Includes the usual reflections upon temples, battleships, and encampments of gods, but with a refreshingly unusual sighting, "almost in the centre of the very depths of the Canyon stands out almost as clearly as if it were painted by a poster man, the figure '7,' a number that was significant in ancient times."

Includes a description and photos of Hermit's Rest, "a triumph in bungalow architecture".

The party also went on an overnight trip down Hermit Trail, but about which all Chapple says is, "After the descent of 3,500 feet to the cozy retreat he will find pictures of Nature meeting the eye in every direction which a painter's brush cannot portray", though he does revel in a sunrise down there.

"Visitors come and go by the thousands, including presidents and many federal officials, cabinet ministers, congressmen and senators, and they all express wonderment at the superlative splendors and are chagrined to that the United States government has never as yet spent one cent in making it possible for American people to see and enjoy the Grand Canyon."

The remainder of the pages devoted to Grand Canyon are a repetitive call for greater government oversight.

Cole, E. P.

- 1023 1915 The camera man in California. The Valve World (Crane Co., Chicago), 12(11) (November): 333-338 (text, pp. 333-335; additional illustrations on pp. 336, 337, 338).

"On the way home I took one more look into the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona as a fitting close to a very interesting trip." (ENTIRE NOTE) With two photos of the canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cooke, Grace MacGowan

- 1024 1915 Grand Cañon in winter; the very "crack of doom" as it is called in the desert country, seen through the eyes of a popular woman-writer. (Photographs by H. E. Willsie.) The Delineator (New York), 86(1) (January): 9-10.

"To look upon the Grand Cañon of the Colorado for the first time . . . we scarcely know what to demand when humanity is outclassed.

"We arrived in a rain-storm, a sullen, dripping March evening, when the sodden earth seemed to produce as much moisture as the weeping skies. To the left, earth, trees and rocks fell away—ended suddenly in a mighty gulf of snowy vapor. • • •

"The sea of fog was perturbed by winds, rent, lifted, shifted and rebuilt continually. Now and again peaks, submerged ranges, bluffs and headlands of pink and purple, of heliotrope and faint blue, looked out of the mist and were obscured again by snowy, veiling billows. It was infinitely fascinating." When the fog cleared, "It was too big for any words. • • •

"The tourist may be silent or speak in undertones as he stares into the Cañon from the Rim, but there is in a corner of the hall at El Tovar a leather-bound volume in which guests have been courteously requested to record their impressions of the greatest gash in the world. The word 'indescribable' is used in this book, which isn't yet filled, some five hundred and twenty-seven times. The phrase 'Words cannot describe it' occurs with marked frequency. Some have, like Silas Wegg [a character in Charles Dickens's Our Mutual Friend], 'dropped into poetry,' but perhaps the most thoroughly characteristic inscription of all is that of a lady who embodies her impression in the single phrase, 'Very gratifying.'"

The trip down Bright Angel Trail began "raw and blustery, the trail a smother of half-frozen mud and slushy snow", but by the time they reached Indian Garden "it was the boyhood of the year, with a jubilant rill threading under green boughs."

Back on the rim the next day, she closes, "The silence thunders about one's ears. The winds bear odors not to be named that tease the fancy like memories of beauty. Life holds no great sensation than the Cañon gives."

Crapsey, Adelaide

- 1025 1915 Verse. Rochester, New York: The Manas Press, 95 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon", p. 51:

By Zeus!
Shout word of this
To the eldest dead! Titans,
Gods, Heroes, come who have once more
A home!

Daniels, Mark H.

- 1026 1915 Problems of our national parks. Park and Cemetery and Landscape Gardening (Chicago), 25(1) (March): 12-14. ("Address of Mark H. Daniels, Superintendent of National Parks and Landscape Engineer, before American Civic Association.")

"I know of nothing that has so potent an effect or is so efficacious in the development of a broad mind and a dignity of character as the repeated contemplation of an inspiring view. If anyone doubts this, let him stand on the brink of the Grand Canyon at dawn and view the myriad tints and changing views and those mile-high walls as the rays of the rising sun creep down . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dean, William Harper

1027 1915 The master movie maker. Technical World Magazine, 22(5) (January): 730-732, 788.

Herford T. Cowling, chief photographer, U.S. Reclamation Service. Includes Grand Canyon; with illustrations. "There are movies of the Grand Canyon which were made through a ray filter and which bring out with wonderful clearness the subtle lights that mingle in the innumerable crags. That film in itself is a wonder. Ordinarily the Grand Canyon is the despair of photographers. The blue lights which fill it make a gray smudge even when photographed with a still camera and given long exposures. A ray filter helps matters with the still camera, but whenever this attachment is placed over the lens the exposure must be multiplied many times. Then what chance was there to filter out these blues with a movie camera clicking away at snapshots? [¶] Cowling puzzled over the thing for a long time. Then he hit upon an idea and put it into effect. He had made a 'one-time' ray filter—one which called for a mere doubling of the exposure time. He tried it and it worked—worked to perfection." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Donahey, J. H., AND Kelly, Fred. C.

1028 1915 Seeing America first. Cartoons by J. H. Donahey. Diary by Fred C. Kelly. Cartoons Magazine, 8(1) (July): 100-105.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 100, 102.

Dunbar, Margaret E.

1029 1915 Towards the sunset : some impressions of California and the West in 1915. Brooklyn, New York, New York: [no imprint], 89 pp.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 7-11.

"Without a glance towards the hotel or its surroundings, we made our way eagerly across the grounds to the edge. It was about six o'clock in the morning, and the jostling, noisy world seemed very far away.

"I knew from many descriptions just what the Canyon would be like, but the longer I looked at it, the less familiar it became.

"••• The great gash itself would hardly attract the attention it has were it not for the fantastic shapes into which the jagged sides have been cut or worn. Even these shapes, which look like crouching animals of mammoth size in one place, and like the minarets and columns of Oriental or Greek temples in other places, would be less striking but for the coloring, in which red and yellow are the prevailing tones. These colors, moreover, shade off into a thousand blendings.

"For the most part the Canyon is entirely without vegetation except along the rim, but the sense of bareness is relieved by the shifting play of lights and shadows. We saw it shortly after sunrise, again at high noon, and then at sunset. Each time the outlook was entirely different. The shadows are deepest in the morning, and the colors more intense at sunset. At noon it looks a little faded.

"After breakfast we rode along the rim for six or eight miles, admiring the different points of view, and incidentally imbibing some more or less scientific information from our driver as to the origin of the Canyon. John, in an investigating spirit, tried to get an explanation in detail of 'erosion' and 'sedimentation,' but only succeeded in embarrassing our would-be instructor. It was the driver, however, who first named those hard words to us, and thus inflamed John's curiosity.

"In the afternoon we went by auto to the point called Grand View. For about an hour we spun along through a deep forest of splendid Norway pines. Considering the absence of water, I was quite unable to account for them. Suddenly we emerged on the edge of the Canyon at a point which commanded a wide sweep, and it certainly was a Grand View. Our chauffeur, a good-looking dark-eyed youth, escorted the Chicago girl and me to a specially dangerous looking bit of rock which he said was called Suicide Point. The walking was treacherous, and I was thankful that John's attention was otherwise engaged at the time, as something might have happened to him had he been with us. As it was, our guide's dashing sombrero blew off, rolled to the edge and went over.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

It caught somewhere six feet down, and he calmly swung himself over, captured it, and clambered back. My admiration of his daring was rather too strongly diluted with terror for comfort.

"On the whole it was rather a breathless day, but we had a half hour's quiet after dinner and before traintime, in which to sit on the comfortable benches overlooking the Canyon as the sun gradually withdrew. The rays would fall on a distant spire or dome throwing it into high and golden relief, and then pass on leaving it in deep shadow. Reluctantly we made our way to the waiting Pullman, but as we settled down into our accustomed quarters and exchanged sleepy but contented greetings with fellow-passengers, there was a sense of home-coming and peace, and we felt that life was good."

Edholm, C. L.

1030 1915 A motor car in Moqui Land. Motor (New York), 24(1) (April): 58-59.

Notes, "A trip quite off the beaten path for pleasure cars was made this summer by a party from Los Angeles, who drove a couple of heavy Marmons to the rim of the Grand Canyon . . . ." Marmon automobiles. Includes photo, p. 59, of vehicles at "The Hopi Village at El Tovar"; i.e., Hopi House.

Ellsworth, F. W.; Farr, William H.; Kinsey, H. R.; Stone, Herbert E.; AND Pease, Henry H.

1031 1915 (SPECIAL COMMITTEE) Convention Special across the continent. American Bankers Association, Journal, 8(3) (September): 282-283.

"Will any of us forget Saturday, August 14, 1915? The Grand Canyon! The most wonderful, the most incomprehensible, the most—but what's the use! We left there at sunset. Just to refer to 'sunset in the Grand Canyon' is enough. How utterly impotent words are after all." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Elmendorf, Dwight L.

1032 1915 Grand Canyon of Arizona. The Mentor, 3(16) (October 1) (92): 1-12, 6 color plates [entire number]. (The Mentor, Department of Travel.)

Color plates as frontispieces, each with text on verso, with banner, "The Grand Canyon", and footer, "Prepared by the editorial staff of The Mentor Association, illustration for The Mentor, Vol. 3, No. 16, Serial No. 92". Beneath title on verso text is: "Monograph Number ["One" through "Six", inclusive] in The Mentor Reading Course". Plates are as follows: One, "The Discovery and History of the Canyon"; Two, "Pioneers of the Canyon"; Three, "The Canyon in Art"; Four, "The Rim and Table Lands"; Five, "The Trails"; Six, "The Colorado River". Each color view is a recognized postcard view, although without separate credit. Page 1 contains legends for the six views: "On the Hermit Trail", "Camp at Foot of Hermit Trail", "On the Rim", "The Colorado River Seen from the Lower Plateau", "Bright Angel Canyon", "Scene on the Lower Plateau". Page 12 is "The Open Letter" column by W. D. Moffat, pertinent editorial remarks that appear with each number. A variant (not seen) is noted with the imprint, "The Ladies Home Journal Keeping-Up Club Edition".

Gallie, Harriet Hastings

1033 1915 Westward ho! National Dental Association, Journal, 2(4) (November): 415-417

On arriving at Grand Canyon,

"We were all famished and partook of such a breakfast—well, just the kind that [Fred] Harvey supplies; we have partaken of just such repasts at various places along the route and we knew this meal would not be an exception to the rule, indeed, in the pretty Norway dining room of El Trevor [sic] we found all the delicacies of the season. We spent the day viewing the Canyon, some of the party going down into it as far as their time and strength permitted and braving the excessive heat. Many of us were content to walk about and view it from various points and angles and afterwards took the Rim Ride, stopping to view it at various points, and finally coming to Hermit's Rest. This quaint place was built in the solid rock of a little hill overlooking the great chasm like a cave of prehistoric times. It would be presumption for the writer of this article to attempt to describe the

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Canyon. It is said that a well known painter went to the Grand Canyon and came away without unpacking his brushes. When he was asked why he made no sketches of that awe-inspiring chasm, he said simply, 'I could not insult God.'

"We saw the sun-set and after-glow and the stars came forth and finally the shadows fell like a veil and hid the chasm from our sight, and we turned reverently away." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Galloway, John R. (Mrs.)

- 1034 1915 Our trip to the coast. A review of the N. E. C. A. convention. National Electrical Contractor, 14(11) (September): 41, 46, 121-122. [With editor's introductory paragraph.]

National Electrical Contractors' Association of the United States.

"Our train carried us across New Mexico and Arizona, where we had the first glorious sight of the Grand Canyon at sunrise. Would you believe it, our people were all up at 4 a. m. and waiting for the train to stop, anxious to get a glimpse of the wonderful canyon when the sun came over the rim? We spent a day (all too short) enjoying its beauty. Some of our young people went down the trail on mules, while others enjoyed a ride viewing the canyon from the new scenic boulevard along the rim." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Gardiner, Sarah D., AND Quincy, Mary P.

- 1035 1915 Pages in azure and gold : the letters of Miss Gardiner and Miss Quincy. [No place]: Privately Printed, To be had at the Library of the Society of the Colonial Dames of America in New York, 293 pp. [Library of Congress record adds, "New Haven, The Tuttle, Morehouse & Taylor company".]

See p. 182, "In Winter and In Spring; Letter of Miss Quincy", June 15, 1903: "Some of our friends, who were leaving for a little journey to California, returning by way of the Grand Cañon, had been told by the German Ambassador that this marvel of nature 'would make an excellent boundary between the Fatherland and France!'" (ENTIRE NOTE).

Graves, John Temple

- 1036 1915 The world's sublimest spectacle. The Cosmopolitan, 59(4) (September): 417.

"I thank the ruler of my mortal circumstance that it has been my fortune once to see the Grand Cañon of the Colorado. No mortal eye has so great a scene. I should be ashamed—as any American should be ashamed—if, by my own choice, I had looked on Egyptian Pyramid, or Asian height, or European alp, and never seen my own country's glory in this sublimest spectacle of all the world. It is one great gulch of grandeur let down into the eternities. It is the soul and substance of all the mountains and all the chasms, of all the deeps and all the heights, sculptured and chiseled, majestically masoned, and magnificently upholstered in myriad splendors of light and shadow, of shape and color, by the Lord God Almighty. Here are vast Gibraltors that no artillery of earth could ever shake. Here are Alhambras more splendid than any sultan's dream. Here are thrones too magnificent for any mortal king—heights unspeakable, depths unutterable, and colors divine; crimson falling softly into brown, old gold fading into violet, domes of chalcedony on temples of porphyry, auroras crouching splendid among the rocks, and mighty cathedrals of purple and gold, where sunrise and sunset are married to the setting of a rainbow ring. No canvas or camera has ever caught the grandeur of the Cañon. No pen or tongue has ever done justice to this matchless peroration of the universe. Put away words! There is nothing to do before this unspeakable glory but to be silent and still, while the poor cramped soul beats against its bosom for expression, and in the impotence of all human speech simply whispers, 'God!'" (ENTIRE ITEM)

Gray, Horace

- 1037 1915 Horace Gray. In: Autobiographies and Addresses [SECTION]. Sexennial Report, Class of 1909, Harvard College. Cambridge, Massachusetts: Sexennial Report Committee, pp. 132-133.

Autobiographical sketch, noting in particular his post-college travel to China. Includes:

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

". . . the Grand Canyon with a ride along the brim that left me so lame that in San Francisco I saw little more than the view from the high-scramble limit of the dumpy cable-cars . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Minor, J. Harry

- 1038 1915 Motoring across the Mojave Desert. A motor car tour through the heart of Arizona which will be illuminating to automobile tourists from states east of the Mississippi River. The Automobile Journal, 39(10) (June): 11-16.

A tour guide resulting from the author's trip on behalf of the Touring Information Bureau of America, which includes mention of Grand Canyon at Peach Springs (pp. 12-13, capitalizations thus):

"The deepest and most picturesque sections of the Grand canon of the Colorado lie in Mohave county and lesser, but no less beautiful chasms, such as the Iceberg, the Black, the Bouler [sic] and the Mohave canons are also found here. Diamond canon, which forms a junction with the Grand canon, 20 miles from Peach Springs, is equal in its way to the others. One of its features is the Diamond creek caves, which are of extraordinary size and beauty." [Never mind the fact that the rest of these places were inaccessible to the automobile!]

Minot, John Clair

- 1039 1915 Coast to coast and back. The Delta Kappa Epsilon Quarterly ( $\Delta$ KE Fraternity, New York), 33(3) (October): 262-294.

Fraternity's trip to a meeting in California. Grand Canyon, see pp. 270-272. Includes a hike down Bright Angel Trail.

"Then the unspeakable wonders of the Grand Canyon. When we awoke the next morning our cars were sidetracked among the tall trees just behind the El Tovar Hotel, and a few steps took us to the very rim of the awful abyss down into which we stared, spell-bound, a sheer mile. When the Lord made the Grand Canyon He made no words to match it or describe it, and our boys soon gave up the attempt to find them in any available vocabulary. The problem whether we would make the descent of the Bright Angel Trail on muleback was solved for us. All the mules had been engaged in advance by several parties of tourists. Nothing daunted, the more adventurous members determined to go down the trail afoot, while the rest of us contented ourselves with rides or rambles along the rim. Those who went down the trail into the heat of the depths climbed back up the difficult path with considerable less enthusiasm and ardor than they had shown in setting out, but they all got back in one way or another, though several were somewhat the worse for wear.

"Those who went all the way to the river, where they cooled their feet in the water, were Brothers Burritt, Dickinson, Eisele, Hyde, Larkin, Neilson, Rogerson, Southwick and Wells, and with them was a plucky young lady member of another party, Miss Catherine M. Williams of Brooklyn. Others, who deemed discretion the better part of perpendicular trail climbing, with the thermometer far above the hundred mark, and so went down to the end of the plateau, were Brothers Goodspeed, Bausman, Becker, Behnke, Duffield, Foster, Frenzel, Gay, Gillette, Griswold, Hillyer, Joy, Lord, Leonard and Weak. It was a day never to be forgotten, whether we made the descent or rambled along the level rim for miles, and looked across to the northern wall a dozen miles away. After supper we watched the shadows of night gather far down in the Canyon, thousands of feet below, and then went reluctantly to our waiting train. That evening brought our real celebration of the Fourth. Some patriots, led by Brothers Goodspeed and Hann, produced a supply of fireworks, and the rear platform of the observation car seemed an ideal place for setting them off. No lives were lost, which seemed remarkable under the circumstances, and considering that several young ladies among the passengers assisted actively in the celebration." (ENTIRE NOTE) With illustrations.

Mock, Ed

- 1040 1915 The cruise of the Universal Special. Motography (Chicago), 13(20) (May 15): 774-776.

Regarding a special train from New York to California for the dedication of Universal City. Those portions that relate to Grand Canyon are as follows, and he thinks the world of the Kolbs:

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Grand Canyon was reached at early dawn march 11. The day was clear and crisp. If I wasn't the first to beat it up the hill past the hotel to the Canyon's rim, I was a close second. I wanted to see the sun dissipate the clouds that filled the world's sublimest gorge. I nearly froze to death during that performance, but it was a glorious experience. Dying wouldn't be so bad, if the stage setting defied criticism. Men have been trying to describe the Grand Canyon of the Colorado ever since it was discovered by a detachment of Coronado's expedition into Tusayan in 1540 and all have failed. I won't attempt it. I try to finish when [sic] I start. I simply record the fact that we were all there and saw what others had seen. My right hand points heavenward and I swear to boost the Canyon forever and ever."

The author then makes reference to a page of numbered photographs (p. 774), taking special notice of those from the Grand Canyon. Of one that shows a cameraman with tripod perched on the very brink: "It shows U. K. Whipple, the cameraman who slept with one eye open for a week." And of another at El Tovar: "The hotel, incidentally, becomes a second wonder worth seeing. It is so far from civilization; so complete in its appointments; so unique in its accommodation; so restful to the weary, that we recall it reverently. No matter what the rates; they're cheap when you get a slant at the location and realize it's a hundred and fifty miles to water in a prohibition state. El Tovar has my full approval."

"But it is difficult to classify the thrills. None of us will forget the two days spent at Grand Canyon. The weather was all in our favor. Those of us who did not go down the gorge, rode the rim and saw the storms from above the clouds and that never ceasing, ever-changing panoramic [sic] of lights and shadows and color. Hopi House, Bright Angel Trail, the Rim Road, Hermit House [Hermit's Rest] and Hermit Trail, Lookout Tower [Lookout Studio]*—*became the patter for all of us. I found the Kolb Brothers, most delightful companions. The Kolbs have lived at the Canyon for twelve years and know it intimately. My acquaintance with these boys began when I travelled with them through the Colorado river from Green River, Utah to the Gulf of California. They actually made this wonderful trip, encountering amazing obstacles—flirting with death. I followed with them, lying on a comfy couch in my library. The story came to me through my membership in the National Geographical Society. They have some motion pictures that do not appear on the regular programs. Emory Kolb lectures his films before the crowned and uncrowned heads. They are building a m. p. [motion picture] theater on a precipice at the head of Bright Angel Trail. The pictures are projected with a Powers 6A. (I hope Bill Barry gets that!) Their house will seat 170 and the program will never change. To see the show you will probably travel a long way, but it will repay you. Through the kindness of the Kolb Brothers I was shown many courtesies. They pointed out objects of interest I would otherwise have missed. Through their telescope I learned how to point my binoculars. I crept up to many of the temples and amphitheatres. I saw Dripping Springs, Mohave Point, Kaibab Plateau, the pyramids, the Dragon Head, Isis, Ra, Shiva, Osiris, Horus, Zoroaster, Buddha, Watana [Wotan], Solomon, Sheba, Apollo and Venus temples. All these were my playgrounds. Newberry Butte, Angel's Gateway, the Horseshoe Mesa became close-up stuff. I was directed to a spot where I could see all of Bright Angel trail without risknig [sic] my neck on a Santa Fe mule. The half-way house, the Indian gardens and many other points that have escaped my memory were made easily accessible because of the Kolbs. The world has folks in it, even in remote places. The Kolb brothers are likable humans. They were mighty kind to me."

Moore, W. Clement

1041 1915 The latest discovery of the West. W. Clement Moore, special correspondent, tells of what he saw on a trip across the continent. St. Louis Furniture News, 53(6) (September): 27-28.

A furnitureman's perspective of the Grand Canyon:

"Far up on the heights surrounding the Grand Canyon we visited the Indian relic and novelty store of Fred Harvey [Hopi House], where rugs, blankets, and reed goods are sold. There is one feature always noticeable about the Harvey goods and methods—that's the price. If you are able to reach it you will be sure of getting good quality goods in every way. I am not sure that the Harvey system is a wise one for furniture merchants to follow, for the secret of his success lies mainly in the lack of competition." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mullen, Leroy A.

- 1042 1915 When Greek met Greek. Βήτα Θήτα Πί (Beta Theta Pi), 43(1) (October): 10-20.

Regarding fraternity members' travel to the 76th Annual Convention in San Francisco. No particular text mention other than a passing reference to El Tovar, but includes several photos taken during the Grand Canyon stop.

O'Shaughnessy, Thomas J. H.

- 1043 1915 Rambles on overland trails. Chicago: "Privately Printed", 125 pp. (Printed by The Lakeside Press, R. R. Donnelley and Sons Co.)

A nine-week looping automobile tour through the West, from Oklahoma to California, and return. "This is not a history of places visited, neither is it a catalogue nor guidebook, but just a little reminder, or memento, written at the request of and for a few friends, of a wonderful trip taken this summer during the months of May, June, and July." (p. 13). Grand Canyon, pp. 45-46:

"Arriving at Grand View late in the afternoon, an incomparable view of the Grand Canyon by sunset was our reward, and that sight will ever remain fresh in my memory. The wonderful, everchanging effects of light and shadow, fairly and fancifully playing on your mind are long to be remembered. The rest of the evening I sat alone, gazing idly, trying to fathom the impenetrable depths, but the grandeur, the sublimity, the bigness and the awful stillness beggar description, which has been tried time and again, but all confess their inability to do justice. 'The Grand Canyon should be seen by all,' said Mr. Roosevelt, and he was right. Without seeing them, one cannot realize how, from vast depths below, those weird-shaped domes rise majestically, shining forth in their various haunting hues. In a shimmering glow of beauty, the gigantic rock forms are seen dimly outlined, as twilight casts her shadow, and all is bathed deep in mystery.

"A very picturesque driveway is followed from Grand View on the east side to El Tovar on the west side, where another beautiful view of the canyon is had, different from that seen at Grand View. Down to the depths of the canyon, there are many narrow trails, on which the bottom of the canyon may be reached by pony or burro, which are kept there for the benefit of tourists. Bright Angel trail gives one an idea of the wonders to be seen below." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company

- 1044 1915 The red book of views of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Official publication. San Francisco: Robert A. Reid, [unpaginated]. [Cover title: The red book of views of the Panama-Pacific International Exhposition. San Francisco. 1915.]

See: "The Grand Canyon. The Grand Canyon exhibit is made by the Santa Fe Railroad Company [sic]. It occupies a commanding position on The Zone. It is a gigantic undertaking to given an adequate idea of the Grand Canyon, but the result attained is wonderful in its realism." (ENTIRE ITEM) Photo depicts outside view of the entrance to the exhibit. The building is signed "Grand Canyon of Arizona".

- 1045 1915 Panama-Pacific International Exposition : popular information : the Panama Canal divides continents to unite the world : universal celebration of its opening to commerce at San Francisco : 1915. [No imprint], [24] pp. [including wraps].

Note "the awe-inspiring Grand Canyon of the Colorado" to the southeast of the exposition (p. [11]); "Nature in the Grand Canyon seems to have put further her utmost efforts to baffle all attempts of human powers of description" (p. [14]).

Paulson, David

- 1046 1915 A brief trip to the golden West. The Life Boat (Hinsdale, Illinois), 18(3) (March): 78-80.

See also inside front cover, Kolb Brothers photograph of Colorado River in Marble Canyon, with editor's legend, "Where the Creator Fills the Creature With Awe", directing readers to the Paulson article.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

En route to the Pacific coast by train, "I stopped one day at Grand Canyon. When I stepped to its edge and first beheld this stupenduous sight my soul was filled with awe. It seemed a foretaste of some of those marvelous visions that we expect to behold in the new world. One can not help wonder why this unparalleled sight was hidden away in this wilderness, where at best only a small fraction of earth's population can ever have a chance to view it. To stand on the edge of this titanic crevice and look down and see the Colorado River flowing more than a mile below, to see the ever-changing panorama of color, all pitched on a scale so vast, is a sight that never can be fully effaced from my mind.

"One of the most pleasant incidents of my stay out to Grand Canyon was a visit with Mr. Kolb, the local photographer, who with his brother a couple of years ago went way up into Wyoming, launched an ordinary rowboat in the Green River, and then floated down until they entered the Colorado River and, of course, the Grand Canyon. They actually succeeded in making this tremendous trip of hundreds of miles, over rocks, rapids, and rushing currents, and came out at the end alive. He showed me the identical boat in which they made this trip. I could not help but feel that if two young men could be willing to run such superhuman risks merely for the sake of adventure and to secure photographs that no one else had been able to obtain, I ought to be more willing to run some greater risks for the sake of saving perishing humanity." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Pope, Charles H.

1047 1915 Address. In: First Grade Meeting. Our Paper (Massachusetts Reformatory, Concord Junction), 31(34) (August 21): 399-400.

Text of an address regarding his trip to California. Indecisive about Grand Canyon and surely unhelpful in teaching first-graders about it.

"[We] came to the Grand Canyon of Arizona. My wife says the Grand Canyon is two hundred and seven miles long and I said it is fourteen miles wide. I remember that I called it the ugliest hole in the world. It may have been cut by a river, or it may be the result of the bottom dropping out of everything in some geologic period of the long-forgotten past. I never saw or imagined anything like it. As you looked across and around you would see great strata of rock, first gray, then red sand-stone, in long stripes, and in the middle of the canyon is a giant mound—a mountain—that is one mile high. At the foot of this mountain is a little brown thread that is the Colorado river—doing its work though in prison. During every part of the day the canyon shows new lights, new colours, and is a marvelous thing." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Ross, Raleigh E.

1048 1915 The lighter side of the 1915 convention trip; splendid entertainment en route—San Francisco Chapter caps the climax. The Bank Man, 10(9) (September): 215-216.

American Institute of Banking convention. General comments on the stop at Grand Canyon.

"Reached Grand Canyon at eight-thirty and, after a fine breakfast at the El Tovar Hotel, started out to see the canyon. Some took the rim drive, by automobile or carriage, some walked down the trail a way, some rode about five miles down to the plateau, and eight of us rode our burros clear to the bottom of the canyon and took a swim in the Colorado river. Four of these eight were Chicago boys. Some parts of this Bright Angel trail appeared dangerous and as our mountain canaries insisted upon keeping close to the edge, we all expected to join the bright angels any minute.

"The immensity and grandeur of this canyon is beyond description—its awesomeness cannot be analyzed—to be appreciated it must be seen." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rowe, Dorothy H.

1049 1915 [Visit to Grand Canyon.] In: The Letter-Box [SECTION]. St. Nicholas, 42(5) (March): 476.

A young girl from Oneonta, New York, writes a letter to the magazine. In its entirety:

"I wish to tell you about a very queer thing which happened when I was on my way to California a few winters ago. About one day before we reached the Grand Cañon, I was on the observation-car, when I noticed a little girl of about my size reading 'Little Women.' We soon became great friends. Next morning, every one was very much excited, for the next stop was at the Grand Cañon. Every one thought the train was never going to stop, but at last it did. Virginia and I were about the first to see the cañon, as the others were anxious to get their breakfast.

"One day, Virginia and I were out at the rim of the cañon, when a gust of wind came and blew off Virginia's hat. At first it caught in some bushes and we thought we could get it; but soon it was blown 'way down into the cañon. All the rest of the way Virginia had to wear her father's cap, as a summer hat was not suitable to wear in three feet of snow.

"We enjoyed watching all the Indians make rugs and baskets, and we also enjoyed watching them dance.

"I am sure every one who has ever been to the Grand Cañon hates as much as we did to leave it.

"From your loving reader,

"DOROTHY H. ROWE (age 11)."

Sandzen, Birger

1050 1915 The Southwest as a sketching ground. Fine Arts Journal, 33(3) (August): 332-344, 346-352.

Notes of Grand Canyon, in passing, pp. 339, 341, 349; and illustration of Elliott Daingerfield's "Genius of the Canyon", p. 388 (noted in text, p. 350).

[Santa Fe Railway]

1051 NO DATE Grand Canyon of Arizona replica : Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. [No imprint], [20] pp. [10-panel folded brochure]. [1915.]

The Santa Fe Railway's "reproduction" of the Grand Canyon, through which visitors rode in full-sized rail cars. This brochure is also reproduced in reduced size in Sarah J. Moore, Empire on display : San Francisco's Panama-Pacific International Exposition of 1915 (University of Oklahoma Press, 2013), pp. 164-165.

Schoenwald, E. J.

1052 1915 Delegates hold annual dinner; San Francisco convention and trip reacted. The Bank Man (Chicago), 10(12) (December): 264, 272.

"Following the dinner, Rollie Coleman, a member of the Bright Angel 'Cult,' was called upon to relate his exploits down the trail of that impression in the earth called the Grand Canyon, and, among other numerous things, divulged the secret of its beauteous coloring, which he requested us to keep strictly confidential as he, himself, was only able to obtain the information through the exercise of diplomacy. We are thankful indeed to Mr. Coleman for enlightening us." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Seaman, Daisy Hatton

1053 1915 A cross country frolic. Motordom (Albany, New York), 9(6) (October): 180-182.

One installment in much longer, serialized article about the author's eastward drive across the country in a Franklin automobile. The author writes in the first installment (February 1915), "Mr. Seaman is a practical man with legal mind that does not get diverted by a flower by the wayside, a color scheme or the appearance of the moon or stars, and I wish he would write about this trip instead of me." This part includes a drive to Grand Canyon through Williams and a couple of days at the chasm.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"August 13.—I left our chop bones near the tent door in hopes that the coyotes would come near, but they didn't. As we neared the Canyon we came over the crown of a hill, and there before us were some beautiful pine trees. What 'a sight for sore eyes' in this treeless country! I stopped and photographed them. I always loved trees, but I never realized what they meant to me till I traveled through these treeless expanses.

"After some miles through the government reserves, where we enjoyed the shade of pines and some cedars, we came to the artistic rail road station built of logs at Grand Canyon Station. Here we learned that there was no garage and that most people let their cars stand in the grounds of the El Tovar Hotel on the rim of the Canyon.

"How can I describe that Canyon to you? To understand you must see it. It is too vast to be framed in mere words. Walking to the low stone wall between the hotel and this yawning abyss, you look off into space. Before you are treeless mountains and chasms in a harmony of vivid reds, whites, creams, blues and greens, as far as eye could see, ending in a straight line on the horizon in the distance. The vastness of it is appalling. You look down, and more than a mile below you see the Colorado River like a twisted ribbon at the bottom.

"Such vivid coloring, such bold and rugged contour, such distances melting away on the horizon! The Canyon is 217 miles long, from 12 to 20 miles wide, and over a mile deep. The rim where we stood was fringed with trees struggling to get a root hold among the rugged rocks. I had a sensation as if I were an atom floating in space. The wonderful coloring came to you like the chords of some great organ and thrilled you. I noticed that even the young and frivolous spoke in subdued voices.

"After dinner we took a drive along the rim in a two-horse rig. Automobiles are not allowed on Hermit Rim Road, so we paid our three dollars apiece and the driver told us points of interest as we went along. • • •

"The Canyon in the sunset lights was glorious. After dinner we went to the Hoppie [sic] House and witnessed an Indian religious dance; also a war dance. • • •

"August 14.—• • • After breakfast we hurried to the corral, where we were to be mounted for the trip over Bright Angel Trail to the bottom of the Canyon. No woman is allowed to ride side ways, so they furnish divided skirts for the women and overalls for the men. Preferring my own clothes, I wore kaki trousers.

"It was a glorious day, with a brilliant sun. We left the rim and started down a steep, winding path. Gray Eagle [her mule] and I were near the guide and the Captain brought up the end of the line. One man dismounted and said he would sooner walk on the stiff grades, but they all laughed at him and he soon wearied of it. My cameras tied to the pommel of my saddle swung forward on Gray Eagle's shoulders when the grade was steep, and annoyed him, but he soon got used to it, and I hung my reins there, too, and commenced my picture taking. Some of my companions thought it unsafe not to hold the mule, but I was sure he knew more about the trail than I did, and as I couldn't ask everybody to stop because I wanted a picture, continued to take snap shots with rapid exposures from my mule, some times riding face to the front, sometimes to the back, and sometimes sitting sidewise. Of course my panorama could only be used when they halted to rest. • • •

"At Indian Gardens we stopped to rest and drink our fill of pure spring water, and the guide refilled his canteens; then with much grunting and stretching of aching limbs they all mounted and set off down the trail. Near the river the mules we retethered and we walked down to it. There were two guides and their parties, and box lunches were handed around and everyone made merry. 'The silvery Colorado' was a muddy, turbulent stream, and as the heat was intense the canteens were soon empty, and many were eager to get back to Indian Gardens to quench their thirst. Some suffered with the heat; others had indigestion and had to be fixed up. One man had a bad heart and had to be helped when we had to climb up ahead of the mules. One woman grew faint, and the Captain took the job of boosting her up. The Captain and I were used to roughing it, and we enjoyed every minute (at least I can speak for myself). Near the rim we met four men who had made the trip on foot. Only one of them had a smile left. They begged the guide for water, and he gave them all there was and said he would send back for them, but they said no, they would finish on foot after they rested a bit.

"I wanted to go on another trail that kept us out over night, but the Captain said we must be off. • • •

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"August 15 .—From the hotel we drove through a forest of pines and took a side trip to Grand View to take our last view of the Canyon. Here we met a carload of people from the hotel and promised to exchange pictures. On we went, through forests of beautiful pines, over mountains and out over great plains."

Smith, T. Jefferson (Mrs.)

- 1054 1915 The Grand Canyon. In: Among our Poets [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(1) (December): 75.
- God, Thy majesty we confess is untold;
Thy grandeur to us fearful to behold;
No canvas has e'er this wonder caught;
No tongue nor pen has voiced its thought.
- Here are walled cities no mortal could build,
Castles and thrones which kings would have willed,
Fortresses no cannon on earth could shake,
Palaces more splendid than sultans could make.
- Here are heights unspeakable, depths unknown.
In color the rainbow its tints doth loan;
Crimson and brown and soft blending in gold,
Purple and violet like pageants of old.
- Sunrise and sunset are married to each.
The setting a rainbow just out of reach,
Before this great wonder, O heart, be still;
Our soul cannot grasp it and yet how it thrills.
- Again and again in our expression we fail
To find words and phrases that will fully unveil;
So, softly and tenderly and with reverent nod,
We fold our hands and gently whisper, "Our God!"

Steiner, Edward A.

- 1055 1915 Introducing the American spirit. New York, Chicago, Toronto, London, and Edinburgh: Fleming H. Revell Co., 274 pp.

The author serves as narrator for a tour across America conducted for the otherwise unidentified "Herr Director" and "Frau Directorin". The Director had been across America three times before but had not seen it through American eyes. A refreshed version of a Grand Canyon visit (pp. 232-236)—although, the American fills in the usual things that cannot be done with the canyon (not for the Director but, really unnecessarily, for the reader).

"Because I had lost my 'brag and bluster' and wished to recover them, I took my guests, who were now homeward bound, to the one place which might fitly crown their experiences—the Grand Canyon, where one is apt to forget humanity and its fretting problems.

"I must confess that by this time I was quite worn out; for introducing your country to a stranger is wearing business, especially when you are dealing with blasé globe-trotters, who have done all the big things, from the Alps to the Dead Sea, and have had to crowd into a brief month the best which lies between New York and California. To do this with a lover's adulation, endeavoring more or less skillfully to hide defects and make the bright spots brighter still, may well tax one's nerves.

"I acted as a sort of shock absorber, for I determined that the journey should be a joltless one for my guests; but in that I partially failed; for not only did I receive the shocks myself, I could not keep them from receiving some.

"One of the worst of these jolts I suffered at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. I was very sure of the Canyon itself; I knew it would put a thrill into the Herr Director, and force an expression of it out of him. I never worried about the Frau Directorin. We reached the Canyon in that happy mood gendered by a combination of Harvey meals and Pullman berths, and the sight of the friendly inn at the brink of the big surprise, and the cheer

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

of the big log fire in the rafted room drew an involuntary exclamation of pleasure from the Herr Director. He registered, then asked the clerk for a room fronting the Canyon.

"'Yes siree!,' said the obliging young man as he attached a number to the Herr Director's long and illegible signature; 'I'll give you a room so near that you can spit right into it.'

"Naturally I received the first shock; a minute later it communicated itself to the Herr Director. It did not reach the Frau Directorin, for her English fortunately was still limited; she kept on looking at the bright Navajo rugs, while the clerk smiled at his own smartness. The Herr Director commanded to have his bags taken to his room, and turning from the desk said: 'Young man, I am a German, and I want you to understand that we do not spit in God's face.'

"The next morning the great Canyon was full of mist, and only faint outlines of its titanic architecture were visible. As we stood at the edge of the wondrous chasm, watching the last cloud being driven from the depths as the moisture was absorbed by the dry, desert air, the Frau Directorin was shaken by emotion as she gasped at intervals: 'Um Gottes Himmels Willen!' ['For heaven's sake!'] The Herr Director, his feelings better controlled, said nothing; but after a long silence, muttered under his breath: 'I should like to throw that clerk down this abyss as a penalty for his desecrating thought.' Every few minutes I heard him saying, as he shook his head: 'Just think of it! Just think of it!'

"I did not disturb him or ask him what he thought of it for I knew he could not tell, nor can any one. I think he felt as I felt, that all the cities he had seen were as nothing compared with this wonder of nature; that all the pillared post-offices and libraries which our cunning hands have scattered over this broad land are trifling toys compared with this templed miracle; that all our dreams of what we might paint or fashion or carve, or build, are child's play compared with this, and that we ourselves are mere nothings in the presence of what God hath wrought here in stone and clay, in color and form.

"Never before had I so wished that I could rearrange the geography of the United States as when we turned eastward from the Grand Canyon. If I had the power of Him who shaped this earth I would have put it within a mile of the Atlantic Ocean and within a stone's throw of the Hoboken dock, and having shown my guests the Canyon, I would have put them on board their homebound steamer, and as they sailed away I would have cried out with ancient Simeon: 'Now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace!'" [Luke 2:29].

Townsend, James B.

- 1056 1915 The Spring Academy. American Art News, 13(24) (March 20): 2. [Includes note of "a dramatic splendidly colored canyon picture 'Zoroaster Peak' from De Witt Parshall" (ENTIRE NOTE).]

Walsh, Thomas

- 1057 1915 The Pilgrim Kings. Greco and Goya and other poems of Spain. New York: The Macmillan Co., 130 pp.

See p. 79, "The Forges of the Sun. The Grand Cañon of Colorado [sic]." Reprints Walsh (1915).

Warner, Lucien Calvin

- 1058 1915 Personal memoirs of Lucien Calvin Warner, A.M., M.D., LL.D. during seventy-three eventful years, 1841-1914. New York and London: Association Press, 190 pp.

Warner made a visit to the Grand Canyon in 1899 (whether to Hance's or Grandview is not clear); see p. 136:

"In April, 1899, we went to Los Angeles, California, to attend the wedding of our son Franklin. On our return journey to New York, we stopped at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in Arizona. It was before the branch railway had been built to the canyon, and we went by stage some eighty miles from Flagstaff. The canyon stands out in my mind as second only to the Himalayan Mountains among the grandest objects in nature that I have ever seen. Standing on the brink of the canyon, you look across a vast chasm many miles in extent and one mile deep. In many places the rocky walls descend almost perpendicularly for more than half a mile, and in one

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

place a mountain rises up from the bottom of the yawning chasm which is higher than Mount Washington. Add to all this great bands of brilliant red, white, and yellow, several hundred feet wide and extending entirely around the immense amphitheater, and you have one of the grandest and most awe-inspiring views that the world affords." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Watkins, Dwight E.

- 1059 1915 The relation of the speaker to his literature. In: Babbitt, J. Woodman (ed.), Official report of the proceedings of the Twenty-fourth Annual Convention of the National Speech Arts Association : held at San Francisco, California, June 28, 29, 30, and July 1, 2, 1915. [No imprint], pp. 25-28. [Also reprinted in Quarterly Journal of Public Speaking, 2(1) (January, 1916): 46-51.]

See p. 26: "To interpret the sight of the grand canyon one must feel his own deep breathing and hear the subdued tones of those who contemplate its depth." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Whyte, R. H. (Mrs.)

- 1060 1915 Reminiscences [sic] of a trip to California with the Western Fruit Jobbers. Western Fruit Jobber, 2(1) (May): 26-41, 49-57.

See pp. 28-29; and illustrations on pp. 27, 31.

"Next morning we had arrived at the Grand Canyon. We had breakfast at 'El Tovar,' none being prepared on our diners. As soon as the meal was over, a short walk brought us to the Canyon. How can I describe it? I simply cannot! Abler pens than mine have tried and failed."

She quotes brief passages from Agnes Laut, Dudley Warner, Nat Brigham, Harriet Monroe, William Curtis, and Theodore Roosevelt. "If such writers as those quoted cannot describe it, how can I hope to give you the very slightest impression of its wonders? As Walter H. Page in 'World's Work' says: 'Describe it! A man who has never seen it can do that better than one who has been under its charm.' [. . . and then Page continues,] "The best I can do it . . . [filling in unimaginatively, "imagine looking down a mile" and observing the trail parties as "little ants"]. [Page and the "World's Work" credit are actually quoted from the 1906 edition of the Santa Fe Railway's The Grand Canyon of Arizona.]

"We remained all day at the Canyon thus affording opportunity of seeing it during the morning—at noon—being an ideal day when it seemed practically shadowless—and again at evening when the shadows began to fall. Each and every time it appeared more and more wonderful—more and more the work of God. A road of some nine miles has been built along the 'rim.' It is as smooth as a table and affords means of a delightful drive. Here and there we run through a forest, the Canyon not being a stone's throw away, tho' we cannot see it; then, suddenly the road winds so we are once more looking down into it. We were told to take the trail down into the Canyon, then to look up, its wonders are infinitely greater; it is more stupendous than viewed from above. I felt I had so much already to be grateful for—to have been privileged to see it at all that I was well satisfied. There is much more to tell; so, regretfully, still thankfully, I must go on to our train again, having passed one of the wonder days of my life—the realization of a dream of years. I had seen the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in Arizona."

1916

Anonymous

- 1061 1916 The Third Exhibition by the Society of Men Who Paint the Far West. In: Exhibitions in the Galleries [SECTION]. Arts and Decoration, 6(3) (January): 136-137.

"A great number of these pictures were painted in and about the Grand Canyon, a great number or enough to render a proper picture of the grandeur of the West." (ENTIRE NOTE) No illustrations.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1062 1916 The Washington Society of Engineers. In: Engineering Affairs [SECTION]. Power, 43(1) (January 4): 32.

Annual meeting at the Cosmos Club, Washington, D.C., December 15, 1915. "During the evening W. H. Cowling, official photographer for the United States Reclamation Service, gave an exhibition of moving pictures of the Grand Cañon and the Yosemite Valley taken by him last summer, this being the first public exhibition of the pictures." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1063 1916 Aunt Malinda [pseudonym] [COLUMN]. The American Thresherman and Farm Power (Madison, Wisconsin), 19(1) (May): 62.

"When I reached the summit of Grossmont . . . I wrote to Silas [refers to another pseudonymous column] that I felt like Lee Hardin felt when he first stood upon the brink of the Grand Canyon of Arizona. As he placed one foot upon the railing that separates one from a mile straight down, he said, 'The Heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth forth His handiwork.' Silas 'lowed he hoped it hadn't required as much Virginia Dare to produce these emotions as it did Tippo Shanti to get Lee Hardin in a talkin' mood at the Grand Canyon in 1910."

Truly obfuscating for readers a century later. Follows with further, brief remarks.

- 1064 1916 Dodge negotiates Grand Canyon. Motor Age, 29(23) (June 8): 39.

O. K. Parker drives into Grand Canyon at Peach Springs, though (as also with the notices in 1915, above) the locale is not noted by name.

"'Death Valley Dodge' driven by O. K. Parker, of Los Angeles, has made a trip to the bottom of Grand Canyon of the Colorado and back to the rim. This is the first time in history of motoring that the feat has ever been performed. It was impossible to use the burro trails and Mr. Parker made a new route to the bottom of the gorge, being compelled in many places to blast enormous rocks out of the way. The canyon was more than a mile deep at the point where the descent was made."

- 1065 1916 "Death Valley Dodge" climbs down Grand Canyon and back. Automobile Topics, 42(5) (June 10): 470.

O. K. Parker at Diamond Creek.

"'Death Valley Dodge,' the car that some time ago made a record-breaking trip through the famous Death Valley, has added a new triumph to its list of stunts by getting down to the bottom of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and crawling back to the rim. O. K. Parker, of Los Angeles, drove the car. The Canyon was one of the few places in the country that had not been reached by automobile heretofore, the only way to the bottom being on burros down steep and narrow trails.

"It was impossible for the car to use the trails, and Parker had to make a special road, with liberal use of blasting powder. The Canyon was more than a mile deep at the point where the descent was made, and Dodge Brothers, Detroit, are properly proud of the feat. The trip was an exceedingly difficult and hazardous one."

- 1066 1916 Conquering the Grand Canyon of the Colorado by motor; "Death Valley Dodge" with O. K. Parker at the wheel makes trip to bottom of Arizona's great cavern. Motor Age (Chicago), 29(25) (June 22): 20-22.

The Contents page of this issue gives title as "Tour to the Bottom of the Grand Canon". The article includes numerous photographs.

"Perhaps the most startling accomplishment of the year occurred recently when a motor car crept down the precipitous and torturous path to the bottom of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, a trail that only sure-footed burros and less sure-footed humans had trod before. For some the rim of this vast two-hundred-and-fifteen-mile paint pot has been far enough; for others the shorter trails leading part way down to the rushing turbulent Colorado has brought a homesickness for the top and level ground that knew no compromise. Some have trusted

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

to their own Shank's mare to carry them to the lowermost part of the canyon, while many have entrusted the nerveless and homely burro with the keeping of their lives as he bore them along a hewn-out trail that has a perpendicular wall for thousands of feet upward on one side and a yawning abyss thousands of feet below on the other—a trail that seems more like a tight wire over a bottomless pit than it does like a road.

"Stunt cars seem to abound in the West and their drivers seem like the man who puts his head in the none too attractive mouth of the lion for the amusement of circus-goers. News despatches a few days ago told of a trip made by O. K. Parker, Los Angeles, Cal., to the bottom of the Grand Canyon in his stunt car, 'Death Valley Dodge,' which got its name for negotiating this much-feared trackless waste.

"Getting to the bottom of this first wonder of America and then safely out again was no mean task, but it was attempted and accomplished by Parker, who is an engineer, for the purpose of ascertaining the feasibility of constructing a motor road into the depths of Arizona's wonderland, this road to be a detour by which transcontinental tourists, driving over the National Old Trails route, can enjoy the wonderful scenic effects of the most stupendous gorge on the earth's surface and do it without leaving the seats of their motor cars.

"Parker drove to the depths of this mile-deep gorge and back to the surface of the plateau, thence out on to Navahoe Point, the highest elevation on the south rim of the Grand Canyon, where it was filmed in motion pictures. The car was driven to the very tip of the point, where no motor car had ever been before. Navahoe Point is a precipitous wall rising 6,000 feet above the bottom of the gorge where the Colorado thunders its way through the Marble and Grand Canyons. The motion pictures of both of these notable achievements will write a new history in the annals of western motoring. These accomplishments are so strenuous that they will undoubtedly stand as records until proper roadways are built, if they ever are, and it is the belief of Engineer Parker that some day these roadways will be constructed.

"The trip down into the very bowels of the earth had as a prelude, hundreds of miles of desert travel, in which the car fought its way through the great sand wastes on the route and a dozen mountain ranges with their rough roads and steep grades. These had to be negotiated before it was possible to start the final dash to the high plateaus of northern Arizona and into the depths that form the Grand Canyon.

"One can get only a vague conception of what the car and its crew went through in some sections where it seemed as if Nature had combined all the elements to produce obstacles so stupendous that no combination of man or machinery could overcome them, but Nature did not reckon with the vast experience of man in motor car construction, nor did she know that the modern motor car is constructed for such rough work and twisting strains, as the moving pictures of this expedition will show when you see them, as you probably will at your favorite movie theater. However, this is not a case of 'They do it in the movies,' for this was not a movie stunt, but one of investigation to learn if within a few years we who make transcontinental trips can take in this natural wonder from the seat of our motor car.

"Parker is of the opinion that it is entirely feasible to cut a road down Peach Springs Canyon from the town of Peach Springs, about 50 miles east of Kingman, Ariz., to the bottom of the Grand Canyon, and he predicts that the National Old Trails Association soon will see the advisability of constructing such a road. 'It would make the most scenic route in America,' he said, 'and where it is now an undertaking of tremendous difficulty for the car and considerable danger to the crew, this side trip to the bottom of the canyon can be made wonderfully attractive to motorists. I shall report the practicability of such a road to the National Old Trails' Association, and hope it will see the advisability of proceeding with the construction of the roadway at an early date.'

"Since its successful penetration and circuit of the alkali wastes of southern California Parker's car has come to be known as 'Death Valley Dodge,' and now that it has added new laurels to its crown it may be like the much-married members of the feminine population and add the hyphen and 'Grand Canyon Conqueror,' T. R.'s comments on hyphenated Americana, notwithstanding."

1067 1916 ["Death Valley Dodge" driven to bottom of Grand Canyon.] In: Along the Trail [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(8) (July): 93.

"With O. K. Parker of Los Angeles at the wheel, 'Death Valley Dodge,' the famous motor car that has performed more stunts than any other car in existence, a few days ago descended to the bottom of the Grand Cañon and returned to the rim under its own power. This is the first time this feat has ever been undertaken. The river

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

was reached through Peach Springs Cañon, one of the side gorges leading into the main cañon, and at this point the car was 5,000 feet below the rim and had traveled more than twenty-one miles to reach the bottom. After the return to the surface the car was driven to Navajo Point, which is 6,000 feet above the river and the highest point on the rim." (ENTIRE ITEM)

- 1068 1916 Dodge Brothers' car makes descent into Grand Canyon. The American Chauffeur (Cincinnati, Ohio), 4(8) (August): 377.

Although the article intimates that a "trail" was followed into the canyon, the drive actually was down Peach Springs Canyon to Diamond Creek and the Colorado River.

"With O. K. Parker, of Los Angeles, at the wheel, 'Death Valley Dodge' descended to the bottom of the Grand Canyon of Colorado and returned to the rim under its own power.

"This is the first time in the history of motoring that this feat has ever been performed. Various daring drivers have looked over the ground with longing eyes but were never able to convince themselves that the trip was a possibility.

"Mr. Parker, who is one of the most famous drivers on the Pacific Coast, determined to make the trial. Some months ago he visited the Grand Canyon and made a careful survey of the several routes to the bottom. These are simply trails on which tourists descend on the back of the burros. The journey to the bottom is such a nerve-shaking one that many tourists are afraid to make the trip even when conveyed by experienced guides.

"Mr. Parker spent several weeks in thoroughly investigating the various routes to the bottom of the great gorge and finally decided that it would be possible to reach the bottom with the motor car by means of Peach Spring Canyon, one of the side gorges leading into the main canyon.

"Accordingly he returned to Los Angeles and drove 'Death Valley Dodge' to the canyon rim. Careful preparations were made for the descent. The trail was gone over and several boulders that made the passage of a motor car impossible were blasted out of the way. Others in the party with Mr. Parker asserted even then that the trip could not be made.

"The trail, originally footed by animals seeking water, twisted and turned down the rugged sides of the canyon. At places it literally hung over the depth and at all times it was so rough that only the most skillful driving made the trip possible. Where the bottom of the canyon was reached it was 5,000 feet, nearly one mile deep, and to reach the bottom more than 21 miles had been covered. Despite the tremendous strain of the trip the return journey to the rim was made at once."

- 1069 1916 Arizona meeting of the A. I. M. E. Mining and Oil Bulletin (Chamber of Mines and Oil, Los Angeles), 2(10) (September): 245-246.

American Institute of Mining Engineers. From Phoenix ". . . the excursion train moved north on its way to the Grand Canyon, which was reached on Sunday, September 24th, at 2 P. M. Here most of the party sought the comforts of El Tovar Hotel and rested or explored the margin of the Canyon, some leaving the same evening, while others tarried till the following day, when the excursion train moved east on its way back to Chicago and New York." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1070 1916 Three million miles; covered by Ellison-White Chautauquan attractions during last summer. The Lyceum Magazine, 26(7) (December): 48.

Includes note, "Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, of Los Angeles, lectured in October, his subject being 'Through the Grand Canyon on a Mule.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Baker, Clarence M.

- 1071 1916 Record-breaking Farmers' Week. Ohio State University Monthly, 7(7) (March): 33-34.

News review. See p. 33: "Julius F. Stone, trustee of the University, concluded the evening features with an illustrated lecture on the Grand Canyon on Thursday night [i.e. February 3]." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Barbour, P. E., AND Hall, R. D.

1072 1916 Institute meeting in Arizona. Engineering and Mining Journal, 102(16) (October 14): 695-702.

American Institute of Mining Engineers. See "The End of the Trip", p. 702; visit to Grand Canyon.

"Sunday morning the train, several hours late, arrived in Grand Cañon. Thanks to the delay it was decided to defer departure to the next day so that the stop here was longer than scheduled.

"It was a happy thought to end the trip there. The Arizona committee had provided a most strenuous program. No opportunity was given for waits, and there were no dull spots. The party was whisked from one thing to another in the ubiquitous automobile until the limit was nearly reached. And the serene calm grandeur of the Cañon furnished a welcome rest to both mind and body."

Branting, L. Frank

1073 1916 From Kanab to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Young Woman's Journal (Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Association, Salt Lake City), 27(9) (September): 544-547.

Concludes with a visit to Bright Angel Point on the North Rim:

"It is true that as a rule, fantasy needs to be repressed, but here we have an instance where it must be stimulated, must be drawn upon if the human mind is going to be able to slightly appreciate the awful grandeur of the Grand Canyon itself."

In addition to the usual sights of a "Greek temple, Gothic cathedral, and Mohammedan mosque" is the insertion of the "Mormon tabernacle" (obligatory in this, a Mormon serial); and the author repeats the litany with spying "the minarets and the domes of the orient, there the pyramids of the Nile, now the Colosseum and the Acropolis of Athens, and then the outlines of our own Salt Lake temple".

Brinton, Christian

1074 1916 Impressions of the art at the Panama-Pacific Exposition : with a chapter on the San Diego Exposition and an introductory essay on the modern spirit in contemporary painting. New York: John Lane Co., 203 pp.

See in "The Panama-California Exposition", p. 31; remarks begin with personal caution for "the congenital penchant for hyperbole which obtains west of the Mississippi . . . not alone of the Grand Cañon . . ." And, "Like the thumb-print of God pressed into the surface of the earth so that may may forever identify His handiwork, the Cañon transcends the possibilities of verbal or pictorial expression."

No note of Grand Canyon artwork in this volume.

Davis, Carlyle Channing

1075 1916 Olden times in Colorado. Los Angeles: Phillips Publishing Co., 448 pp.

See p. 93, as part of advantages of the "Arkansas Canon route [in Colorado] to Oro, when extended to Utah, or the Pacific": "The southwestern extension would pass not far from the Grand Canon of the Colorado, doubtless the greatest scenic wonder of this continent."

See also p. 368, regarding sailing in an impenetrable fog at sea: "I am loathe to close this chapter without reference to a spectacle witnessed at sea, the sublimity and grandeur of which impressed me as nothing in nature had before or since, not excepting the most expansive view of the Grand Canon of the Colorado." (ENTIRE NOTES)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dean, William Harper

- 1076 1916 Our national parks—a seven reel feature. (Photographs by Herford T. Cowling, official photographer of the Reclamation Service.) Sunset, 36(6) (June): 19-23, 69-70. [Illustrated review.]
- Grand Canyon, pp. 21, 23.

Detroit Museum of Art

- 1077 1916 Exhibition of paintings by Men Who Paint the Far West : twelve American artists and Sandor Landeau. [Detroit]: Detroit Museum of Art, [6] pp.
- Exhibition list includes six paintings of Grand Canyon: By Thomas Moran, "Mist in the Cañon"; by DeWitt Parshall, "Sunset", "From the Rim", and "Hermit Creek Cañon"; and by Frederick Ballard Williams, "The Prospector, Grand Cañon" and "Afternoon, Grand Cañon". Not illustrated. "Society of Men Who Paint the Far West", a methodological school of art.

Doe, John

- 1078 1916 Boston. American Art News, 14(25) (March 25): 7.
- "At a local gallery, New England's own product, Dodge MacKnight, now has his annual showing. Brilliant work this—dashingly, gallantly done—from the hard and dazzling coldness of his New England snow scenes to the splendid, rioting color and strange, almost startling shapes and forms of his Grand Cañon series. But is nature really as freakish as this?" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Ehrenfeld, Frederick

- 1079 1916 The return to nature. Old Penn (University of Pennsylvania, Weekly Review), 14(23) (March 4): 741-753.
- "A lecture delivered in the course of free public lectures by members of the faculty, on Saturday afternoons, at 3 o'clock in Houston Hall." Author is Assistant Professor of Geology and Mineralogy.
- See p. 752, reference to "a professor in one of our great State universities [who referred] to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado as 'Devil's work'; that wonder of the world! ••• Perhaps the lay mind does not understand a vast natural creation such as the Grand Canyon, but why consign it to the devil or to dark powers of evil?"

Fay, Thornton O. M.

- 1080 1916 Boston. In: Institute Chaptergrams [SECTION]. American Bankers Association, Journal, 8(8) (February): 737-738.
- See p. 737: "C. D. Williamson, of the Bureau of Commercial Economics at Washington, delivered an instructive and interesting lecture on 'The Grand Canyon of Arizona and the Indians of the Painted Desert' on Wednesday, December 29th, at Lorimer Hall. Mr. Williamson spent fifteen years in the desert and his pictures of the Hopi Indians and the Grand Canyon made us forget banks and balances." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Garrett, Erwin Clarkson

- 1081 1916 Army ballads and other verses. Philadelphia: John C. Winston Co., 282 pp.
- See "The Grand Canyon", p. 120:
- The level lowlands open—
Dim lined the chasms yawn—
And a sunken mountain range rears up
To greet the growing dawn.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

A wonderful, chiseled Spiritland
Carved by the hand of Time:
A riot of gold and crimson—
Ultimate—vast—sublime.
Terraces, peaks and pyramids—
Amber and red and dun;
Wrapped in the woof of a violet haze—
And washed by the setting sun.
Hindu temple and Buddhist shrine
In the moonbeam's mystic light—
Stretching away in dim array
To the stars of the desert night—
And your soul is a child-like wonder—
And your heart is a great content—
As you gaze o'er th' sculptured message
A Master-craftsman sent.
Sent for a far-flung people—
For a wondering World to see—
A fairy land, a land o' dreams,
In rainbow pageantry.

Gordon, Samuel G.

1082 1916 The Philadelphia Mineralogical Society. American Mineralogist, 1(1) (July): 12-13.

Includes notice of meeting at the Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia, June 8, 1916: "Mr. John G. Rothermel gave a short illustrated talk on 'The Geology of the Grand Canyon District.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Gordon, Will (Mrs.) [Gordon, Winifred]

1083 1916 A woman in the Balkans. New York: Dodd, Mead and Co., 298 pp.

See p. 200: "In Colorado [sic], by that titanic underworld of mystery and shadow, the Grand Cañon, I have listened to the Indians—to whom a paternal United States Government are endeavouring to give all the advantages of a modern education—burst forth into a majestically moving chant to the Sun God, an invocation like unto the mighty prayer the ancient Egyptians may have voiced centuries ago to Amon Ra, Lord of the Light and Day." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Holmes, Burton

1084 1916 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Pictures (distributed by Paramount Pictures, Inc.), 1 reel.

Silent film produced with well known lecturer Holmes. Released February 14.

Huckfield, Leyland

1085 1916 Death-song of the mad god who made the Grand Canyon. The Trimmed Lamp (Chicago), 5(10) (March): 160.

Compare also minor variations in Huckfield (1922).

Oh! I am the god who so mightily trod—
Trampled chaos and tore it assunder,
Rose from the mire and the mists and the fire
Reeking with heat and throbbing with thunder:

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Who drank the blood of the league-long Things
That came to bathe in the boiling springs;
To whom as a thorn was the dinosaur's horn—
I who was born in the scalding gloom
And flung from the terrible flaming womb
Of the Mother of Doom—down under.

I ravaged the world and the rocks I hurled
Broke gold from the sun in showers,
And I hated the moon so I murdered it soon—
The moon with its damnable flowers.
The flesh of Earth's herds made gargantuan feasts
And ever I harried the mightier beasts—
Roaring and raving, wandering I
Swore that their bones in the rocks and rivers
Of Earth forever should lie.

Where the valleys were lit with flames of the Pit
I trampled the carcasses gory,
I lurched and I swung till the madness I sung
Broke my heart with its passion and glory;
But I screamed till the night was a'quiver with fright,
And I vowed I would die—as I'd lived—in my might,
And I broke from the mountains their pinnacled walls
And tossed them to hell with wild, bellowing bawls;
And the devils came up through the fire and the smother
Dancing in flame and chasing each other—
Oh! all the devils in Hell were by
To see the Mad God mightily die
Who was born of the old Mad Mother.

From the fiery bog, through the blood-red fog,
From my bottomless caves of plunder
The gold I hauled and the flesh I mauled
And piled them in horrible wonder:
I mixed them together, I piled them on high
From the floor of Hell to the roof of the sky
Roaring and howling, happily I
Made out of Chaos a thing that never
Never, never, can die.

McDonald, W. T.

1086      1916      Grand Canyon of Arizona. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(3) (February): 56.

See the world's great crowning wonder—that vast chronicler of time;
Colorado's glorious cañon, the supreme and the sublime;
What long ages it could tell of, since its mighty task began.
Cutting through the solid granite, long before the days of man—
Aye, before the birth of Moses, ere the pyramids were planned,
Ere the Babylonian gardens, by the winds of Asia fanned,
Rose above the ancient city with their lilies all abloom;
Ere the might of Alexander struck the Persians' hour of doom.
Measuring the countless ages, leaving us a record clear,
Deep and deeper still descending, toward the center of the sphere,
Till it vanished from the sunlight, now in darkness and in gloom
Far below it roars and thunders, buried in its mighty tomb.
Scenes surpassing all description, past the artist's power to draw;
Where the soul of man is humbled and his voice is hushed in awe.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Was it when the waves of ocean that once covered all the land,
And the central fires outpouring, met in conflict fierce and grand?
Or some giant, fearful forces which, from the hands of nature hurled
When the earth was soft and plastic, strove to tear apart the world?
Man is great and man is mighty, but before this holy shrine
He must bow in adoration of the Power that is divine.

Michelet, Maren

- 1087 1916 Glimt fra Agnes Mathilde Wergelands liv. Mindeutgave. [No imprint] (Folkeslaget Publishing Company Trykkeri, Minneapolis, Minnesota), 280 pp. [In Norwegian.]

See in "Til det Fjerne Vesten", pp. 101-120, an extended recollection by June E. Downey quoted (pp. 117-120), who notes Wergeland in a rare moment of free expression (pp. 118-119), "Jeg husker hvordan hun endog efterlignet indianerne som hun hadde set danse ved Grand Canyon i Colorado. Med sin følelse for det historiske hadde hun moret sig over dette glimt av en forbigangen tidsalder og et primi tivt folkeslag. Men selve Grand Canyon—den store flænge i jordens skjød—forekom hende forfærdelig, overvældende med sin groteskhet, med sin vilde pragt. Alt dette stod for hende som aarhundreders gravplads—altfor rædselsfuldt til at bli beundret." (ENTIRE NOTE) (See below for the separately published English translation.)

See also photo (between pp. 256/257), "Dr. Wergeland skriver digtet 'Rosen' ved Grand Canyon, sommeren 1913." (Refer to Wergeland, 1914.) Both the English- and Norwegian-language editions were written by Michelet.

- 1088 1916 Glimpses from Agnes Mathilde Wergelands life. Memorial edition. [No imprint]: "Privately Published" (Folkebladet Publishing Company Press, Minneapolis, Minnesota), 236 pp.

See in "The Lure of the West", pp. 87-112, extended recollection by June E. Downey quoted (pp. 104-107), who notes Wergeland in a rare moment of free expression (p. 105), "I recall how she even imitated for us the curious steps of the Indians whom she had seen dance at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. With her instinct for the historic, she had deeply enjoyed this glimpse of primitive times and of a primitive people. But the Grand Canyon itself—that immense gash in the earth—had appalled her, overwhelmed her with its grotesqueness, with its savage magnificence. It was to her as a graveyard of the centuries—too awesome to be loved." (ENTIRE NOTE) (See above for the separately published text in Norwegian.)

See also photo (p. 202), "Dr. Wergeland at Grand Canyon writing 'The Desert Rose'. Summer 1913." (Refer to Wergeland, 1914). Both the English- and Norwegian-language editions were written by Michelet.

Murdock, Charles A.

- 1089 1916 Liberal evangelism on the Pacific coast. The Christian Register (Boston), 95(41) (October 12): 980. Notes the westward travels of Rev. and Mrs. William L. Sullivan; ". . . at the Grand Canyon in Arizona they were touched by the awe and sublimity of nature." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Murphy, J. A.

- 1090 1916 [Photographing an echo.] In: Breathless Announcements From the Press-Agent's Corner: Picked, Pasteurized and Parcelled [SECTION]. Photoplay Magazine, 10(5) (October): 42.

"Gearin Cogs, camera man, has succeeded in photographing an echo. The echo was started through a megaphone at the upper end of Grand Canyon. Mr. Cogs panoramed [sic] with the camera catching the echo three times. Then the echo struck the sharp pointed Van Dyke beard of a tourist and split in half, one half slid over a smooth rock and was killed, while the other half blew up an alley. Mr. Cogs will repeat the experiment and use two cameras." (ENTIRE ITEM)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Satire, but also one example of numerous items wherein the Grand Canyon is assumed by writers to act as an echo chamber. (However, take note, too, of the musical recording by David Dunn, 1996, which embraces acoustic reverberation in Hermit Canyon.)

Ottolengui, Rodrigues

1091 1916 Around the Table [COLUMN]. Dental Items of Interest (New York), 38 (November/December): 868-872.

See anecdote on p. 872:

"Los Angeles had no quips or jests aimed at her sister cities on the Coast, but when I mentioned stopping at the Grand Canyon one man said to me, 'I suppose you know the peculiarities of that State? No? Well, Arizona has more rivers and less water, more cows and less milk, and you can see farther and see less than in any other State in the Union.'

"Even so! Arizona has the Grand Canyon!"

Parks, Charles E.

1092 1916 Down Bright Angel Trail afoot—personally conducted. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(5) (April): cover, 22-29.

A refreshingly different rendition of the trip down (and mostly up) Bright Angel Trail.

"This is not a tale of adventure and daring; it is not even a story of an original undertaking; it is merely a simple chronicle of youthful folly.

"My friend, the Hon. Ruben T. McMillan ('Ribs' for short) has a hankering for adventure. It is evinced in his oft-repeated attempts at matrimony and in a lesser degree by a craving for hazardous undertakings. So when he calmly stated he expected my personal cooperation and material presence in his proposed tour of the world's greatest wonder, the Grand Cañon of Arizona, I was not unduly surprised. I was even somewhat elated over the trip. • • •

"From Flagstaff northward to the Grand Cañon there runs a road much used by the Indians in going to and from the reservations. It traverses one of the wildest and most unsettled sections of the United States, with the exception of the Kaibab Plateau north of the cañon. When Ribs suggested we take this route to the cañon, I accepted with alacrity, for it offered a safe outlet for my surplus of contemplative thoughts, which might be expelled on the journey without danger to anyone. Ribs was also guided by his primitive instincts and his inherent search for the unknown. • • •

"Ribs took it all in, and more. Naturally of a romantic temperament, he is easily susceptible to romantic settings, and his eyes would often wander through the woods, searching, no doubt, for the fantastic sprites of his own imagination. However, I was not free from the influence myself and the journey was made largely in silence.

"In due time we arrived at the cañon. Being curious to note the effects of the first view of the cañon upon a product of rural America, I watched Ribs closely. My expectations were fully realized. He stood in awed wonder gazing silently at the greatest mystery of creation. Never did I see a man feast his eyes with greater delight than did my friend Ribs. But regardless of how many times one sees the cañon, he involuntarily pays it the tribute of a contemplative gaze. • • •

"He was up before daybreak and, while dressing, casually suggested that we walk down the trail before breakfast, eat our lunch on the river's bank and be back before noon. He said he needed exercise in order to limber up his muscles before undertaking any very strenuous trips. I timidly suggested that the trail was over seven miles long and over a mile deep and that we had better make an all-day trip of it, but he overruled my objections. So we started immediately.

"Bright Angel Trail is easy to descend—too easy. Aside from an awesome feeling of being about to explore the secrets of creation, we were too intent on making time to admire the varied beauty of the cañon. • • •

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"The Indian Gardens are a nice place in which to loaf. The large trees, the benches, the grass and the neat little tents which have been erected as rest houses invite you. But Ribs was in a hurry, although at the time I did not suspect the cause of it. After resting a short time we started onward across the plateau and made for the steep descent to the river. • • •

"The trail ends on a large sandy beach surrounded on all sides by perpendicular walls many hundreds of feet high broken only by the embrasure through which we entered. At the base of these rocks the Colorado churns its yellow torrent and slides swiftly past. At this point it was almost a rapid, but, owing to the steep granite sides and the curves of the stream, only a small portion of it is visible. • • • "

The evening before at El Tovar, Ribs had "appreciated a certain winsome dark-eyed lass who was at that time a guest of the hotel", and there at the river she soon arrived with a mule party, along with her bulldog, "Bull" (who seemed to care little for the canyon and had a dislike for Ribs), and in the meantime Ribs had suggested a swim in the river. Finding a quieter eddy, he disrobed but was caught offguard by the arrival of the other guests and hid on the opposite side from his clothes. Bull managed to scent him; the rest can be imagined, probably correctly, while our author tries unsuccessfully to distract first Bull, then the lass.

"Never shall I forget the facial contortions with which my friend greeted me as his sylph-like form emerged from the river, after the party had disappeared up the trail, nor the vivid carmine of his sun-kissed body. • • •

"We began our upward journey in silence. Ribs, as befitted his superior physical qualities, ploughed ahead and I made what haste I could under the circumstances. However, the Devil's Corkscrew is no joke. It is the steepest part of the trail and can only be compared to a stairway with the steps flattened out. When I finally had surmounted it I was exhausted. I was not only exhausted. I was sick, and gave material evidence of it. Still I had learned a lesson—the lesson of how to climb a trail. So, when able to start again, I walked in relays, walking two minutes and resting five. By this method I was able to reach the Indian Gardens.

"About two o'clock in the afternoon I resumed my journey, on an empty stomach and with but a small canteen of water. I had seen nothing of Ribs but was told he had passed through the Gardens without stopping. The rest had done wonders and I started comparatively fresh.

"Before the real climb began it was necessary to walk across the fertile part of the plateau, and it was here I discovered my friend. He was waiting for me, which surprised me greatly. And he was possessed of an original idea, which was the cause of his tardiness. Seeing several mules grazing, he suggested we capture one or two and ride up the trail. My assistance was needed in the venture.

"Riding an unbridled and perhaps an untrained mule up Bright Angel Trail would be no joke I well knew, but visions of the first half of the climb returned to me and I was willing to try anything once. But first of all we had to capture the mules, and they proved to be very elusive animals. After numerous efforts we discovered they were too elusive; so we began the climb afoot.

"Ribs went on ahead, and I soon reached the stage of walking one minute and resting five. The walls of the cañon appeared to loom miles above me and the distance I had come seemed miserably small.

"Just as I was about to give up . . . the regular mule party passed on its upward journey. It was a merry party but a tired one. One gentleman dismounted and approached me. He said he was tired riding and told me to get on his mule. Somewhat taken by surprise, I could only gasp my delight. Never have I known of human kindness bestowed in so worthy a cause, and his compassion brought tears to my eyes. But as I was about to mount the animal the guide interposed, saying it was against the rules.

"Now I could not imagine why it could be against the rules—why there should be any rules at all on the matter. However, I said nothing, merely awaiting developments. After a lengthy harangue, my benefactor said he was a personal friend of President Ripley [of the Santa Fe Railway], was a boyhood chum of the late Fred Harvey, lunched with the directors of the Santa Fe every time he was in New York and in fact owned most of the preferred stock of the company. These facts finally impressed the guide and he reluctantly said we could have our own way and he would wash his hands of the whole matter.

"I rode that mule over a mile. When my champion grew tired he made one of his friends dismount while he rode his mule, and this process was kept up until nearly all the male members of the party had stretched their

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

legs. We passed Ribs on the way and left him far behind. I thought he looked fatigued as he glanced at me with a rather bored and vengeful expression.

"But all good things come to an end, and I soon felt obliged to dismount. Though refreshed it was too hot for further exertion so I chose a cool spot under a large pine and went to sleep.

"It was dusk when I wakened. Ribs was slowly coming up the trail, more like a drunken man than the buoyant adventurer I had known some hours previous. He was completely done up. I left him what water was left in the canteen and started onward again.

"This was the philosophical stage of the journey. I rested when I felt like it; I even stopped frequently to admire the varied beauties of the cañon sunset—but I refrained from glancing upward. Distances are deceptive, and I had often been disappointed that day. My further progress depended upon what the French call morale. Still, to make a long story short, about ten o'clock I staggered over the rim, and feebly made my way to the hotel. Ribs came in some time during the night. This ended our adventure of the cañon, for Ribs left in great haste the next day."

Parshall, DeWitt

- 1093 1916 Society of Men Who Paint for Far West [sic]. In: Exhibition of paintings by Men Who Paint the Far West : twelve American artists and Sandor Landeau. [Detroit]: Detroit Museum of Art, p. [1].

Begins with note, "Thomas Moran, Elliott Daingerfield, Edward Potthast, F. Ballard Williams, and DeWitt Parshall were invited by the Santa Fe R. R., with their wives, in Nov., 1910, to visit the Grand Canyon." Exhibition list includes six paintings of Grand Canyon by Thomas Moran, DeWitt Parshall, and Frederick Ballard Williams.

Peirce, Emma

- 1094 1916 At the Grand Canyon. The Guide to Nature, 9(5) (October): 162.
Down swept the mist, and hid our glowing vision,
But only for a fleeting moment's space;
And then in graceful spirals, it upward wound to Heaven,
Like incense rising in a holy place.

Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts

- 1095 1916 The Philadelphia Water Color Club, the Pennsylvania Society of Miniature Painters : catalogue of the Fourteenth Annual Philadelphia Water Color Exhibition, and the Fifteenth Annual Exhibition of Miniatures, November 5 to December 10, 1916. Philadelphia: Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, [2], 98, xv pp.

See "Plan of the Academy Galleries", p. 7; and under "South Corridor", notices of illustrations by Dodge MacKnight ("Ruins: Grand Canyon (Water Color)." and "A Side Canyon: Grand Canyon (Water Color).") (p. 26), and by Birger Sandzen ("In the Grand Canyon: Arizona (Lithograph).") (p. 26). (Not illustrated.)

Poe, John W. (Mrs.) [Poe, Sophie A.]

- 1096 1916 Ten months on the wing. Roswell, New Mexico: [no imprint], 179 pp. (Printed by Old Santa Fe Press, New Mexican Printing Company.)

A journey around the world, mostly in 1913, written in the form of a journal but which apparently had been sent as occasional letters to her sisters. At the tail end of her travels, on January 4, 1914, en route home to Roswell from California, Poe writes, succinctly (p. 179), "Stopped at Grand Canyon. Of all the wonders we have seen, this is the most wonderful of them all; it is not one of the seven wonders, but 'the wonder of the world.'" She did make mention, though, while in Darjeeling, India, on September 25 previous (pp. 135-136), "Woodland Hotel is a quaint place, not unlike the Bright Angel at the Grand Canyon." (probably from an earlier trip there).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Post, Emily

- 1097 1916 By motor to the Golden Gate. New York and London: D. Appleton and Co., 312 pp. [An edition edited and annotated by Jane Lancaster was published by McFarland and Co., Inc. (Jefferson, North Carolina, and London, 2004); information here is from the original ed.]

A cross-country trip by automobile in 1915, from New York to San Francisco, with her cousin, Alice, and her oldest son, Edwin Jr. See pp. 184-186. Although having had to put their automobile onto a freight car bound for Los Angeles, due to ongoing mechanical problems, "we ourselves took the train to the Grand Canyon", where there is astonishingly little of personal substance about her visit. She begins her self-centered, brief narrative, with a page's worth over a misunderstanding about a photograph she took of a Navajo, without mentioning the name "Hopi House" where the incident occurred, then casually notes, scandalously with no introduction, ". . . comfortably lounging on the terrace overlooking this greatest of all great canyons, an old-timer is talking of 'the good old days of Hance's camp before this high-falutin' hotel was built.' And at this mere suggestion I become vividly aware that, after all, the way I like best to see anything is comfortably. Perhaps there might be an added awe if one stood alone at the brink of this yawning abyss, perhaps some of the gnarled roads and small clefts that seemed wonderful when we were crawling among them might have seemed dull little places from the terrace of a luxurious hotel, but being at heart—no matter how much I might pretend to be above the necessity of comfort—an effete Easterner, I very gratefully appreciate the genius of the man who built this hotel for such as I." And no further remark about the canyon, a stay which set her back some $25. On pages 273-274 she carefully itemizes her expenses between Williams and through her stay at Grand Canyon, which included two rooms at El Tovar (bath between, $10) and another room at $5 (for Edwin), including meals, a mule trip down Bright Angel Trail ($4) (with no mention of that trip in her narrative, nor who it was that went down), and "Moving pictures exhibited at studios of trip through Colorado river" (sic) ($3) (obviously the Kolb Studio presentation for several people), "Tips, per day, about $1.25", and "Sundries, etc." ($1.80). (The freight charge to send the car ahead to Los Angeles was $151.20, "no crating and no delay"). A photo between pp. 184/185 is captioned, "Our chauffeur takes a day off at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado" (in the text he is referred to as the "chauffeur", in quotation marks, in as much as this is Edwin). All very proper for the woman who would become the authority on American etiquette.

Powell, E. W.

- 1098 1916 New York art notes. Fine Arts Journal, 34(10) (November): 566-570.

Includes notice of exhibition of photographs by Alvin I. Langdon Coburn, in the possession of Clarence H. White, "two of which are views of the Grand Canyon and, it is said, no other photographs taken in this region approach Mr. Coburn's in the impression of immensity." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Proctor, Edna Dean

- 1099 1916 The Glory of Toil and other poems. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), 68 pp.

See "The Tryst By the Grand Canyon" (page ellipsis near the end, thus), pp. 15-20; with note (p. 65), "The country about the Grand Canyon and its tributary gorges abounds in relics of the prehistoric people who once dwelt there."

A realm of dreams is that sublimest chasm
Cleft by the gods in Arizona's plain,
Where peak on peak, shrine, fortress, weird phantasm,
Crowd the abyss and make our grandeur vain!
Where, with the dawn, full many a dome and palace
Fair as Aladdin's, fronts the terraced wall,
And towering altar-pile and carven chalice
Shine with the hues of heaven at evening's fall.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Where, south, loom Karnaks on the wide horizon—
Sphinx, temple, obelisk, to hail the sun;
North, slow cloud-shadows pass like herds of bison
Trailing across the gorges, bold and dun;
Where, in its awful bed, the Colorado,
Curbless, triumphant, to the hot Gulf goes,
And dreams, in quiet pools, of mountain meadow,
And the far splendor of Wyoming snows.

There when the sun sets and the glows are paling,
And sorrowing winds make moan by fane and tree—
Such sorrow as through Hades went bewailing
The glory vanished with Persephone—
When mid their crags the mountain sheep are folded,
And the cliff eagles to their eyries flown,
While all the mighty forms the gods have moulded,
Wrap them in purple dusk and grieve alone;

When the fond moon has climbed the eastern mountains
And silvered all her waiting peaks and pines
Past Rio Grande's, Colorado's fountains,—
The Ancient People throng their wonted shrines.
Silent as mists they steal by cliff and hollow;
With soundless feet they thread the woodland ways;
Only the wind, low-breathing, dares to follow
Their flitting bands through pass and darkling maze.

Hark! you may almost hear the incantations,
The rhythmic dance, the chant, the murmured prayer,
And, from afar, the faint reverberations
Of cry and drum-beat thrilling through the air—
The herald's call, perchance, when danger hovers,
And chiefs and clans for council he must rouse,
The laugh of children, speech of happy lovers
Soft as the sighing in the cedar boughs.

But ere day brightens Coconino's dimness,
Or proud Francisco's peaks have caught its rose,
Or with its flush the gray walls lose their grimness,
Ah, whither?—and the night wind only knows—
The night wind and the stars that watch forever
Above the shrines where their brown children throng,
And, swift beneath, the lone, triumphant river
That bears their secret seaward with its song!

A realm of dreams is that sublimest chasm
Cleft by the gods in Arizona's plain,
Where peak on peak, shrine, fortress, weird phantasm,
Crowd the abyss and make our grandeur vain!
Where festal sounds are heard if we but harken,
And shy forms flit and meet till moonlight wanes,
And the wind dies, and eerie shadows darken,
For over peak and plain enchantment reigns.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Raymond, Rossiter Worthington

- 1100 1916 The Grand Cañon. American Institute of Mining Engineers, Bulletin, (117) (September): xiii [also facing illustration, p. xii].
- Reprints Raymond (1913).
- 1101 1916 Christus Consolator and other poems. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 81 pp.
- See "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado", p. 68. Reprints Raymond (1906/1913 with variant title and punctuation).

Rice, Cale Young

- 1102 1916 Mountains in the Grand Canyon. The Bellman (Minneapolis, Minnesota), 21(535) (October 14): 517.
- Each is a primeval vastness, shaped by hands
Whose cosmic strength carved idly then forgot,
In half-created awfulness here stands,
For sun and wind and cloud and rain to rot.
No chaos do they seem, but as the work
Of a lone God, or one to purpose blind—
Who could not his creative urgency shirk,
Yet without love or hope has wrought his mind.
And man was not, when first their mythic shapes
Emerged phantasmal in the Great Gulf's terror;
Nor shall man be when the last silence drapes
Their desolation's drear and deathless error.
For supra-human, supra-mundane, sunk
In dread indifference, they heedless sit—
Abortive rock from whence all soul has shrunk,
Abandoned quarry of The Infinite.
- 1103 1916 Mountains in the Grand Canyon. In: Voices of Living Poets [SECTION]. Current Opinion, 61(6) (December): 419.
- Reprints Rice (1916 in The Bellman [above]).

Rieseberg, Harry E.

- 1104 1916 Grand Canyon of Arizona. In: Among Our Poets [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(5) (April): 65.
- The midday sun in this deep gorge
Resigns his old-time splendor,
His palace walls of dreamy gold
The rose-hues warm and tender.
The cleft is dark below
Where foaming flows the Colorado river,
The desert winds sigh and yuccas shiver,
And violet mists ascending
Obscure the orient glow.
Oh! rushing river emerald-hued,
How mad you are and fearless,
No frowning gates, tho' stone-barred,
Can curb your waters fearless!
The silent gods of stone
Revoke their ancient laws of might,
When thru the gorge with wing-swift flight

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Your wind-tossed waves are speeding,
Each moment wilder grown.

The faint stars shine in broad midday
Thru twilight mists, gold-rifted,
Where opal streams make dizzy leaps
O'er jasper-colored walls blue-rifted.
Below no naiads dream
'Neath dim arcades; thru sunless deeps
The nomad river lonely creeps,
Where castled crags rise skyward
Like watch-towers o'er the stream.

On massive cliff-walls Nature's hand
Has turned Time's sun-worn pages;
In faces carved with figures hewn
We trace the work of ages.
The gold-tipped spires sublime,
That pierce the sky like shafts of light,
But mark the measureless heavenward height
Of Nature's own cathedral,
Whose stern high priest is Time.

In this grand temple eons old
Her organ notes are pealing,
In gold-flecked arch and war-worn aisles
The flower-nuns are kneeling;
Her altars echo prayer,
And when at dusk the cold moon shines,
Oh! awful are the far white shrines,
From earth to God up-reaching
Thru spirit-flooded air.

Rohn, A.

- 1105 1916 Reise-Eindrücke aus Nord-Amerika. Schweizerische Bauzeitung (Zürich), 68(12) (September 16): 127-131. [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. "Travel impressions from North America")

One of a series of articles focusing on engineering projects, particularly bridges. This installment notes a visit to Grand Canyon (pp. 130-131), though only very generally, omitting personal impressions, illustrated with two stock photos from the Santa Fe Railway (not credited).

Tolerton, Hill

- 1106 1916 Etching and etchers. In: Edition De Luxe : California's Magazine. Volume II. San Francisco: California's Magazine Co., pp. 121-126.

Includes: "In [Joseph Pennell's] dramatic plates depicting the awe-inspiring cliffs of the Grand Canyon, and the shorter series revealing his interpretation of the softer beauty of the Yosemite Valley, we see a remarkable example of the wonderful effects which may be produced by a master, when inspired by the landscapes and mountains of California and the great West."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Trask, John E. D.

- 1107 1916 The Department of Fine Arts at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. In: Edition De Luxe : California's Magazine. Volume II. San Francisco: California's Magazine Co., pp. 81-91.

Includes: "Piazzoni and Fernand Lungren are other names which remain in memory after one has passed through the galleries, although the single example by the last-named painter exhibits somewhat the impossibility of grasping the Grand Canyon in its entirety as a paintable subject, while in water color Lucia K. Mathews has, with a single example, made real impression upon the exhibition." (ENTIRE NOTE)]

Turner, George Chittenden

- 1108 1916 Brooklyn Institute provides rich musical fare. Musical America (New York), 24(24) (October 14): 39, 43.

See photo (p. 39), "Carl Fiqué, Director of the United Singers of Brooklyn, at the Grand Canyon", shown prone on a rock. No text mention of Grand Canyon.

Van Loan, Charles E.

- 1109 1916 John Jones—goat. Saturday Evening Post, 188(49) (June 3): 5, 80-82, 84-85.

A different sort of Grand Canyon encounter—an invented situation but not fiction per se—wherein a tourist at Grand Canyon discusses mining claims vs. tourist access.

- 1110 1916 John Jones—goat. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(11) (October): 41-47.

Reprinted from Saturday Evening Post (above).

Williams, Cole

- 1111 1916 Rolling around on the Santa Fe [COLUMN]. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(2) (January): 74-76.

A light-hearted account of going down (and up) Bright Angel Trail on foot. Complemented by a column on going down Hermit Trail (below); with cartoon illustrations.

"There is a very small percentage of the reading public of this country that has not heard of the Grand Cañon, and perhaps millions of people have heard of the Bright Angel Trail, which for many years was the only way for tourists to descend to the bottom of this indescribable chasm. One would think that such a famous roadway would have great pylons with electric lights and flashing signs to mark its entrance.

"The facts in the case are that it is as effectually concealed with verdure as is any country cowpath. I had walked along the rim of the cañon and had accidentally 'discovered' this trail. With the spirit of adventure strong upon me, I meandered down the ever-steepening road, charmed at every step by the brightly colored lichens clinging to the rocks, and the alpine flowers and plants that fill every nook and cranny; and the curious animal and shell remains imbedded in the limestone, proclaiming loudly that this was once the bottom of a sea; also constant views of the cañon, unlike those seen from the rim, appeared framed in foliage.

"The pure tingling air made me half drunk with exhilaration, and the spicy, sweet odor of the cedar, juniper and pine would have made a hardened dyspeptic shout with the very joy of being alive.

"How long I walked down this fairyland trail before I made the discovery that I was reaching the first floor of the cañon I do not know. It seemed quite near, and the little ranch at the bottom [Indian Garden] was so distinct that I could see figures picking fruit from trees near the house. Here the trail dipped more steeply, and I descended as if shod with the mythical seven-league boots. Another hour found me walking by the ranch house and some photographer's abandoned shacks and turning down the trail into the last gorge. This is where I met the M— family. First came Snooter Pup, the spotty dog; next came the daughter of the family, aged thirteen, and Doctor and Mrs. M. brought up the rear. It seems the missus had stepped on a rolling stone and broken a spring or a gear or something for she was coming up the trail on low, aided by the doctor and a stout stick.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"After passing the time of day they advised me not to go down into the gorge, saying that night would overtake me before I could get out and that I had better return with them. Arriving at the ranch yard we sat down in the long cool grass near the creek and ate the remains of their lunch, drank from the ice cold stream, face down in the good old fashioned way, and then talked. They told of the ranch in California where they lived, of the acres they had put into apricots and oranges and lemons, and what they were going to do next year.

"They told of the mother's flower garden and vegetable patch, and then they arrived at the subject on which all Californians seem to be authorities, and that is roses. The way they talked of them made my poor eastern mouth water, and they didn't let up tantalizing me until we were well started on our journey again.

"As we struck the steeper grades, the party strung out according to their strength or weariness, which was as follows: Snooter Pup the spotty dog, myself, the thirteen-year-old daughter, and, last, the doctor and his wife. Everybody was in high spirits, having had a rest and a lunch to our credit. Then Mrs. M. made another misstep and strained a muscle so that she could barely walk.

"From that time on there was no laughing or joking, only the labored breathing of the climbers and a little signal every ten minutes or so from Mrs. M. so that she could lean against the rock wall of the trail and rest. It wasn't long before this failed to give her sufficient relief so that she could proceed. The suggestion was then made by the doctor to lie down on the trail and give the injured tendon a complete rest. This was better, and from time to time the entire party would plump down in the dirt, gravel and sand, until after a time we all had assumed the same tone of ashy grayness. During these periods of rest the dog would dash up and down the trail, taking particular pains to run over our faces coming and going.

"It now began to darken with astonishing rapidity, and in the course of thirty minutes we found ourselves struggling upward in inky blackness, with our left hands brushing along the wall of the trail as a guide, and the right, if stretched out, I know would be hanging over a bottomless pit. It was soon after this that the doctor turned his ankle and I had to act as steering committee and, on the very steep grades, as motive power as well. Mrs. M. being a very large heavy woman made me look forward to the rest periods with longing. As we rounded one of the turns the full moon peeped over the edge of the cañon, and, as we watched, it seemed to leap off and sail out over us, transforming everything with an indescribably mysterious grandeur.

"The massive rock formations became Egyptian temples and one could see the hordes of people ascending and descending the broad stairways. The lost palaces and cities of the Toltecs, the environs of Babylon, Ninevah and all the great cities of the ancients appeared peopled in this veil of moonlight. Then, softly as they had come, they faded from view behind a filmy curtain of mist.

"Time seemed now a negligible thing. It was divided off in climbs and rests. How eagerly we noted the layers of colored rock on the walls of the cañon opposite, to note our progress. Everyone building up a hollow optimism, knowing in his heart that he was lying to the other and to himself, we counted anything that looked like a gain.

"The climbs grew shorter and the rests longer. Long since had our normal strength given out and only our nervous force kept us going. Mrs. M.'s hand began to take on a peculiar clammy feeling, and I knew that her heart was going back on her, but on the next turn, joy of joys! we were within twenty feet of the top!

"'What time did you say it was, Doctor?' said Mrs. M. as we lay prone on the ground.

"'A little after ten,' said Doc.

"But the face of his watch said two in the morning."

1112

1916 Rolling around on the Santa Fe [COLUMN]. Santa Fe Magazine, 10(4) (March): 75-76.

A light-hearted account of going down Hermit Trail with a pack train. Complementing a column on going down Bright Angel Trail (above); with cartoon illustrations.

"One would think that, after my experience on the Bright Angel Trail, I would have had enough of trails, past, present and future, and so I did as far as 'hoofing it' was concerned, but, hearing that a pack train was going down the Hermit Trail the following day, I fell for it.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Hermit Trail lies to the south and west of Bright Angel Trail. It is at the end of a drive which for scenic majesty surpasses anything that I have ever seen in my roving around the world. One is driven up to the various vantage points, allowed to disembark and absorb the overawing grandeur at his leisure.

"I shall always remember the first view I had from Hopi Point. It was about four o'clock in the afternoon. The sun was on its downward glide to the west. The many long narrow peninsulas jutting out into the cañon were tipped with sunlight in such a way as to give them the appearance of pasteboard thinness or reminding one of the theatrical scenery of some robber stronghold.

"My companion was a husky young mining engineer. He had been raised in this country of big things and was used to awful depths. He walked to the edge and looked out over the cañon; then, obeying some instinct, we got down on our hands and knees and crawled to the ledge of the sheer precipice and looked over. A mile below us in the purple twilight, winding through its black gorge like a silver thread, ran the Colorado River. It was flashed here and there into brilliancy by shafts of sunlight.

"I gazed fascinated, fearing almost to take my eyes from it, and, when by force of will I did, I saw my companion staring down into the depths, rigid, his hands gripping the rock edge with such force that all the blood had been driven from them and his brow was beady with perspiration; and he was repeating a fine laudatory cuss vocabulary over and over to himself. Your humble correspondent was worse off if anything. He had ditto everything, plus the shivers that made trips up and down his spine. He had goose flesh and, moreover, was trying to sink himself bodily into the rock on which he lay.

"There isn't a drunk alive who could look into this 'Paradise Lost' without sobering up in a hurry. If Arizona hadn't gone dry, I believe I should have tried to finance a booze cure to be located at Hopi Point. No doctors or expensive medicines needed. All that would be required would be to suspend the patient's head down over the cañon. One treatment would cure him completely.

"But I started out to tell you about the Hermit Trail. This trail has only recently been opened to tourists, and it was built entirely for them. It winds, corkscrews and loops the loop on its way down the cañon side, showing off the scenic wonders from every angle. When one starts off down the steep beginning of the trail he feels sure that he is going to arrive at the bottom much sooner than the mule, but after a while this conviction wears away, so absorbed becomes the rider in the things about him. I was 'brought to' every now and then by a big bag of leeks piling up on my back. These leeks, which are a sort of double onion when it comes to smell, were intended for the mountain canaries down in the cañon.

"One of the most interesting features of the trip are the zones of vegetation through which one descends. The start is made through the various evergreens and flora peculiar to mountain summits. Next in order comes an arid temperate zone; next, desert vegetation holds sway; and, finally, along the little Hermit Creek which flows to the Colorado along the bottom of a gorge, one notes many growths of semi-tropical nature.

"We stopped about half way down for water, which bubbles up from a spring in the parched flank of the cañon. A few hours more and the tiny camp of white tents came into sight, so far below us that they appeared like little white pebbles on a sandy beach.

"The guide said there was a corral back of the camp, with mules in it, but they were not visible to the ordinary eye, although their evening song could be heard gathering greater volume from the well-like walls.

"The supper we had that evening was made extra good by the sauce of appetite; and, after supper, the grade workers, the guide and myself took a plunge in a great rock bathtub formed by the swirling waters of the creek. We dressed in the Egyptian blackness pierced only by a nearly extinct barn lantern.

"If Ponce de Leon never found the fountain of youth, it was because he never investigated the properties of the Hermit Creek swimming pool. At the end of my journey I was so sore and tired that I could barely stand, but, after that bath 'Come on, you Jess Willard' [referring to a heavyweight boxing champion of the day].

"If you never have taken a journey through a seashell your chance awaits you. From the camp the trail to Colorado River lies through this wonder formation. Yes, it's all there, the twistings and windings, to the last convolution, and of gigantic proportions and shell-like whiteness and smoothness.

"A walk through the rank vegetation of the creek bottom, with its giant reeds and ferns, brings one to the boiling peasoup flood of the Colorado.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"But whatever goes down must come up. I have but one more thing to add—my protest against the existence of mules, particularly skinny red ones. On our return no amount of persuasion would induce my animal to keep up with the bunch, but, at the top of a particularly sharp grade with a sudden turn and steep drop at the end, he started to run, and at the turn—well, I'll let the picture tell my story." [The cartoon shows the mule leaning out into space, and rider holding on for dear life.]

1917

Anonymous

- 1113 1917 January meeting of Baltimore Consolidated Section. N.E.L.A. Bulletin (National Electric Light Association, Bulletin), New Series, 4(1) (January): 141.

Illustrated lecture on color photography by H. O. Reik, including views of "four consecutive phases of one of the notable points in the Grand Canyon, taken from the same point of observation, and at different hours, from noon to sunset." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1114 1917 A human flying machine. Santa Fe Magazine, 11(2) (January): 52.

Fred Harvey Indian Department employee Robert B. Frankel leaping over crack in Grand Canyon rim; includes photo. See also corresponding article, with photo reprinted, 13(4) (March, 1919): 25-26.

- 1115 1917 The Santa Fe-Taos Art Colony. Sheldon Parsons. El Palacio (Santa Fe, New Mexico), 4(1) (January): 84-98. ("The second of a series of biographical sketches dealing with the members of the Santa Fe-Taos Art Colony.") See p. 97: "The Grand Canyon. From Painting by Sheldon Parsons Exhibited in the Palace of the Governors." Illustration only.

- 1116 1917 Birger Sandzén: Painter and lithographer. American Magazine of Art, 8(4) (February): 148-153.
See p. 150, full-page reproduction of lithograph, "In the Grand Canyon". No text mention of Grand Canyon.

- 1117 1917 On the Grand Canyon's rim; thirty miles of desert riding with the sun sizzling at 100 degrees and a fifty-mile run through the Kaibab National Forest, where bears and mountain lions often enliven things for the tourist, were features of this motorcycle trip. Pack animals carried gasoline. Fruitless attempt to take motorcycle down precipitous Bright Angel Trail by hand afforded additional excitement. Motor Cycle Illustrated, 13(6) (February 8): 10-11.

Item signed "By the Explorer", with editor's note, "The writer of this article is a minister who uses a motorcycle in connection with his duties in a small Arizona town." His account is regarding a trip from Salt Lake City to the North Rim, meeting up with guide D. D. Rust in the Buckskin Mountains (Kaibab Plateau). Includes a photo, p. 10, showing the author and his machine at Bright Angel Point, and another, p. 11, "On the Way to Bright Angel Point, the Beginning of the Famous Bright Angel Trail."

"At about 6 P.M. I arrived in Bright Angel Camp. It was raining hard and I was wet to the skin and so cold that my teeth were chattering. One of the campers was kind enough to lend me his coat, and it surely was appreciated.

"On the next day the sun shone brightly and about 10 A. M. we started out, riding tandem, despite the steep grades, with Bright Angel Point as our destination. It was my ambition for this particular trip to make my motorcycle the first to stand on Bright Angel Point, and if possible the first to cross the canyon. The latter was impossible, but the former was accomplished, and I am very proud of the pictures taken in the neighborhood of the Point.

"I am particularly pleased over the photograph I obtained at Hoyt's Point, which is a short distance down the trail, as mine was the first motorcycle to tackle the trail. A short distance gave me and the guide, and two assistants, all we wanted of getting a motorcycle down that awful trail, and I realized that my plan to cross the canyon could not be carried through. Going down, even the short distance, was terribly hard, but getting back was still worse.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"It was not that my machine would not run up the trail, almost perpendicularly if need be, when thrown into low, but who wants to ride a motorcycle straight up, even on low, when the trail is only a foot wide with a solid wall of rock on one side and a sheer abyss on the other. Even a minister is not prepared for that kind of a stunt. Kindly excuse me, brethren! • • • "

The good man reflects back on his trip across the Kaibab Plateau toward the North Rim, and then concludes—

"Suddenly, without any appreciable break in the forest, I came out at the North Rim of the Grand Canyon.

"The Sight of a Lifetime

"The sensation that comes over the traveler who stands on the North Rim for the first time is beyond description. For my part, I felt as though I had reached the end of the world, the 'jumping off place,' as it were. Truly, nothing is more impossible than to take one step farther. Here the traveler must stop and wonder, and wonder, and wonder—as he gazes spellbound down into that mighty chasm.

"At great pains I wheeled my motorcycle out on the very edge of the Rim for a picture. One slip and—well, it makes a man shiver to think of what might have happened. But there was no slip, and I obtained the much coveted photograph without the slightest trouble.

"I cannot say that I recommend a trip by motorcycle to the North Rim to the rider whose nerves are not pretty steady, and who is not willing to put up with some hardships in order to attain his goal; but I am safe in saying that anyone who does make the journey will be richly repaid."

1118 1917 Paintings by De Witt Parshall. Detroit Museum of Art, Bulletin, 11(6) (March): 56.

Exhibition, in which "[m]ost of the subjects are of the Grand Canyon".

1119 1917 Ganz descends canyon on mule-back; pianist makes difficult ride in Arizona a part of his western tour. Musical America (New York), 25(21) (March 24): 47.

Rudolph Ganz, accompanied only by Benjamin Keith (who tends to Ganz's Steinway piano) and a guide, ride down Bright Angel Trail after a blizzard. Includes a Kolb photo of the party (although not credited). "The trip down the canyon was made under the greatest difficulty, owing to the slippery condition of the trail and the riders encountered snow, wind and sand storms during the day." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1120 1917 Sports. Santa Fe Magazine, 11(5) (April): 67-69.

Item regarding the Chicago Cubs baseball team trip to the west coast. Includes a write-up of Al Demaree's trip into the canyon by mule; with a Demaree cartoon.

"The members of the Cubs' baseball party are talking still about their wonderful trip from Chicago to Pasadena. Of course their experiences at the Grand Cañon of Arizona is the most popular topic of conversation. To jot down all their witticisms, stories and fairy tales would make a book in itself, so it can't be done.

"But the story Howard Mann tells of Al Demaree's trip on muleback must be given wide publicity. • • • "

First there is quite a lot about the mannerisms and education of the Grand Canyon mules, and Demaree's experience with his mule.

"• • • A lot of people have asked me how I liked the scenery down in the cañon, and I've got to admit that what I saw was fine. You see, after I took one look down to the bottom I quit looking down. But I kept my eyes on the wall and I got a fine view of that all the way down and back. Sometimes I'd shut my eyes and imagine I was crossing the Sahara Desert on a camel. This kept getting easier to do as we got to the bottom, because it got quite warm down there and it was hot enough to be on the Sahara."

1121 1917 [Note from Chicago.] In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 11(5) (April): 75.

"W. E. Koppler of the advertising office is meeting with great success in his illustrated lectures on the Grand Cañon, Indians of the Southwest, and other topics." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1122 1917 Gift of Denman Waldo Ross. Museum of Fine Arts, Bulletin (Boston), 15(88) (April): 11-20.
See under "Department of Paintings", p. 20, "The Museum previously owned three examples of the work of Mr. [Dodge] Macknight, but even now it has none of his pictures of the Grand Cañon." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1123 1917 [Sheldon Parsons.] In: Art and Artists [SECTION]. El Palacio (Santa Fe, New Mexico), 4(2) (April): 107.
"Cassidy in New York.—Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cassidy have spent the fall and winter in New York. Mr. Cassidy received a special award for his murals of the Cliff Cities in the Indian Crafts Building at the Panama-California International Exposition. His Santa Fe studio is occupied by Sheldon Parsons, whose painting of the Grand Canyon won unstinted praise at the National Parks Art Exhibit in the National Museum at Washington, D. C." (ENTIRE ITEM)
- 1124 1917 Dreams of the Grand Canyon. In: Miscellany [SECTION]. The Art World, 2(2) (May): 169.
About the painter Elliott Daingerfield.
- 1125 1917 Frederick Gunster quoted on menu. Musical Courier (New York), 74(22) (May 31): 34.
Grand Canyon, "The setting for an opera the music for which never will be written." Quoted on the menu at El Tovar. (See also item next below.)
- 1126 1917 Successes mark resumption of Gunster's concert career. Musical America (New York), 26(6) (June 9): 15.
Frederick Gunster.
"During a trip through the Grand Canyon, Arizona, three years ago, Mr. Gunster, when stopping at the Hotel El Tovar, wrote his 'impression' of the wonders of the canyon in the guest book provided for that purpose. His words, characteristic of a musical and artistic nature, were: 'The setting of an opera, the music for which will never be written.'
"The other day the tenor received a letter with a copy of the menu of the Hotel El Tovar enclosed. Quoted at the bottom was the Gunster 'impression' above his signature. The letter accompanying it explained how an acquaintance returning from the Biennial Convention at Birmingham had stopped en route at the Grand Canyon and had made the discovery that Frederick Gunster figured not only on programs, but on menus also." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1127 1917 [John Bentley, '07.] In: Alumni Notes [SECTION]. Yale Forest School News, 7(3) (July 1): 43.
"John Bentley is touring the West in the interests of the Cornell School of Forestry and to acquire first hand information as to western conditions. He made brief stops at Albuquerque and Flagstaff, took in the Grand Canyon, where he upheld forestry traditions by hoofing it to the river and back, and after a visit to the beach at San Diego, resumed his trip through the California forests." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1128 1917 Worcester [NEWS]. American Art News, 15(35) (July 14): 6.
Art museum purchases include "'Hermit Creek Canyon' by De Witt Parshall". (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1129 1917 A vagrant motor tour through Arizona. Motor West, 27 (July 15): 8-11.
Installment includes Grand Canyon.
- 1130 1917 [Promotional item.] From: Railway Paint Shop Gossip [SUBSECTION]. In: [Advertising section]. The Painters Magazine and Paint and Wallpaper Dealer (New York), 44(3) (August): [advertising

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

section] 19. [The advertising section is appended to each issue and is paginated consecutively through all numbers of each volume.]

"In the railway paint shop color is reputed to be king. But take it from none other than Joaquin Miller, the poet-philosopher of the big slopes, that there is another place where color is a bigger king[.] That place, according to Joaquin, is El Canon Grande del Colorado. He says:—'Here color is king. Take the grandest, sublimest thing the world has ever seen, fashion it as if the master minds from the beginning and wrought here, paint it as only the master of old could paint, and you have the above masterpiece of nature.' And listen! Master Painter Theo. Himburg, of the Denver and Rio Grande, can get his color schemes here without money and without price." (ENTIRE ITEM) (The Miller quotation, without source credit, is from "A new wonder of the world" [Miller, 1901].)

- 1131 1917 Swinging around that circuit. Part IV:—Some Western Electric atmosphere on the Pacific Coast. Western Electric News (Western Electric Co., New York), 6(6) (August): 13-15.

See p. 15: "I found Sunbeam lamps again in the Pullman on the Santa Fé when I started back from Los Angeles on the long trip home, and met them again at the Grand Canyon the day I stopped over there. It was in a most unexpected place—the Hopi Indian house on the reservation [sic, Hopi House at Grand Canyon]. There was a curious mingling of the old and the new civilization—Indians laboriously weaving rugs on a hand loom by the light of Western Electric Maza lamps." Also includes photo of exterior of "Hopi Indian House at the Grand Canyon Lighted by Western Electric Sunbeam Mazda Lamps". Followed by brief remarks about the canyon. The series is written in the first person but not signed.

- 1132 1917 The Spectator [COLUMN]. The Outlook (New York), 116 (August 15): 581-583. [Column by "Spectator".]

Includes a recommendation from a traveler, "If It comes to a choice between seeing the Grand Canyon and seeing San Diego, my friends, I advise you to pass up the Grand Canyon!"; comments about John Hance and Grand Canyon. Regarding the "pass up" item, compare Anonymous (1923).

- 1133 1917 Some ditch. In: Homely Happenings in the Hudson Family [SECTION]. The Hudson Triangle (Hudson Motor Car Co., Detroit), 7(26) (December 22): [2].

"Those were the words used, we have it on good authority, by two well known members of the Hudson family as they clambered out of a dusty, mud begrimed Super-Six and gazed with awe and solemnity into the impressive depths of the Grand Canyon of Arizona one day last week. It was one of the points of interest on the itinerary [sic] of Frank Busby, of the Louis Geyler Co., Chicago, and G. W. Jones, Hudson distributor at Des Moines, who with their families are making a Super-Six trip to California." (ENTIRE ITEM)

American Institute of Mining Engineers

- 1134 1917 Proceedings of the One-Hundred and Thirteenth Meeting, Arizona, Sept. 17 to 25 inclusive, 1916. American Institute of Mining Engineers, Transactions, 55: vii-xxiv.

Institute Special rail trip, including visit to Grand Canyon; see p. xviii. "The special train had been brought around by rail [to Phoenix] and late in the evening the party started for the Grand Canyon, where all arrived several hours late, but still very happy, early Sunday afternoon. The remainder of Sunday and Monday were spent visiting different points on the rim or on the trip down the Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Artcraft Pictures

- 1135 1917 A modern Musketeer. Starring Douglas Fairbanks. Allan Dwan, director; Douglas Fairbanks, producer. Artcraft Pictures, 5 reels.

Black-and-white silent film with English intertitles. Filmed in part at Grand Canyon. Fairbanks gave a 35mm print to the Museum of Modern Art in 1939, which otherwise was presumed to have been preserved only as fragments. Another print from the Danish Film Museum allowed for a new restoration and for re-releases as part of DVD sets by Flicker Alley (2008). (Fairbanks also performed stunts for photographers while at the canyon; see Fairbanks under 1918, 1919.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Avirett, Lizzie

- 1136 1917 A memory review of prophetic interpretation by P. S. G. Watson : The Antichrist : etc. El Paso, Texas: El Paso Printing Co., 165 pp.

Table of contents lists "A Memory review of 'Prophetic Interpretation' by P. S. G. Watson" (sic), and other essays, including, "The Antichrist". See in "Transfiguration" (pp. 24-29), a presentation to the El Paso Woman's [sic] Club, November 8, 1910: "It is said that visitors to the tomb of Napoleon are permitted to speak only in whispers; while travelers tell us that when for the first time in the presence of the towering Matterhorn, or our own Grand Canon, and other scenes of like nature, they are so overcome with admiration and awe that they are simply appalled and speechless . . ." (p. 25). (ENTIRE NOTE)

Bellesort, André

- 1137 1917 Voyage au Grand Canyon de l'Arizona. La Revue Hebdomadaire (Paris), 26(1): 167-186. [In French.]
(transl. 'Trip to the Grand Canyon of Arizona.')

See Bellesort (1923) for remarks.

Bernheim, Beatrice B.

- 1138 1917 Impressions. New York: The Vail-Ballou Co., 62 pp.

See in the section, "Impressions of America's Great Southwest 1915", the poem "Grand Canyon" (p. 43). Names are as printed.

Surpassing description! in coloring sublime!
Ever changing in hue, perfection its clime.
Its proportions immense, two hundred and eighty miles long!
Below runs the river, and sings its sweet song.
On Hermit-Rim drive, the views are a pleasure,
Hopi Point, Majiore, and old Alligator.
On the temples of old, we gaze with much awe:
Budda, Cheops, Isis, Zoroaster, and Shiva.
In the distance we see feudal castles and halls,
Soldiers' camps, coliseums, and great citadels.
Nature the greatest of artists has sketched with her brush
A picture so great, others seem quite unjust.
The sunset sends its glow o'er rocks, crags and clay,
The mist-curtain arises—tends to color it grey.
The purple of evening falls slowly o'er all.
Day's fast disappearing, we all stand enthralled!
The moon-light falls slowly o'er this vast abyss,
While the dew-drops dance lithely—giving many a kiss.

Brunaugh, Georgie Noble

- 1139 1917 By motor from Los Angeles to Kansas City. Overland Monthly, New Series, 70(6) (December): 563-572.

Somewhat rushed.

"We reached the Canyon about 4:30 p. m., giving us ample time to view the sunset and the marvelous afterglow. The beauty and sublimity of this wondrous place have often been described. This chaotic gorge is

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

217 miles long, 9 to 13 miles wide, and midway more than 6,000 feet below the level of the plateau. It is one of the few advertised places where descriptions are inadequate. Some one has said, 'An inferno swathed in soft, celestial fires.' At first one is not impressed with detail; he is overpowered by the ensemble of a stupendous picture, a thousand square miles in extent. The ride on horseback down the trail to the Colorado river is a bit strenuous, but rich in experience.

"Our stay was all too short, but we made many resolutions to go again and stay indefinitely. The beauty and comfort of El Tovar Hotel is well known to the tourist." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The "inferno" quotation is from C. A. Higgins, The Grand Cañon of the Colorado River, Arizona (Santa Fe Railway, various dates).

Bryan, William Jennings

- 1140 1917 Heart to heart appeals. New York, Chicago, Toronto, London, and Edinburgh: Fleming H. Revell Co., 189 [190], 2 pp.

See "Grand Canyon", pp. 184-185. "From 'The Wonders of the West,' an article published in The Commoner, Oct. 7, 1904."

Corcoran Gallery of Art

- 1141 1917 Catalogue of paintings in the Corcoran Gallery of Art. Washington, D.C.: W. F. Roberts Co., 68th ed., new revised ed., 114 [115] pp.

See p. 79, listing for "The Afterglow, Grand Canyon, Arizona (Water Color)" by Lucien Whiting Powell.

Curran, Edwin

- 1142 1917 First poems. Zanesville, Ohio: Edwin Curran, [33] pp. [including title-page].

See "Grand Canyon", p. [31]:

God's moonlight plays upon its painted cave,
Sifting out silver in a glorious hill,
Down thru that mighty workshop and world grave,
Now with its cosmic pulse there lying still.
Its heart is dead, its anvil cold and bent,
The mighty quarry with its side walls curled,
Where God first modeled out the firmament
And chiseled out the marble for the world.

Abysses keep their silver silences,
Sprinkled with starlight and the crying wind,
Down thru those colossal halls where revelry
Once spoke the Mason's busy happiness;
Where worlds sprang from, now ashes blind,
The shriveled womb of old eternity.

Fess, Simeon D.

- 1143 1917 Colossus of canyons. From: Saturday, January 6, Morning Session. Subject, "The Grand Canyon."
In: Proceedings of the National Parks Conference : held in the auditorium of the new National

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Museum, Washington, D.C., January 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, 1917. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, pp. 315-316. [Address also seen as an offprint, 6 pp.]

Introduced by the presiding officer, Stephen T. Mather, who notes, "Probably there is no one scenic wonder in this country in which more people are interested than in the Grand Canyon." Fair warning: The congressional Representative from Ohio takes a politician's winded, wobbling whack at the meaning of the canyon:

"Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, it is an honor conferred upon me to be invited to join this group of scholars and research men and women, but I am simply overwhelmed with the topic that has been suggested upon the program, but somewhat relieved by what the chairman has just now suggested when he asked me to say something about the possibility of the Government becoming sufficiently interested in this greatest of the world's wonders, in making it more accessible to the people. When I was thinking in my very busy hour, because of certain legislation that is soon to come in which I am greatly interested, and that is to come to-day, about what I could say to any people interested in this great question, I was, as I suggested, simply overwhelmed with the thought of an attempt to describe the canyon. Everybody refers to and approaches it with a different interest. If I should attempt to describe its impression upon anyone when he first beholds it, or even after he attempts to descend it, I would have to have the power of language of a Charles Dudley Warner; I should not attempt to do that; I could not do it; it would take some one who has a greater facility of expression than the average man that you would find in the House of Representatives.

"On the other hand, if I would undertake to detail the history of it, I would have to find it written in the rocks, and the chasms, and the wonderful temples; I would have to call upon the geologists; I would have to appeal to the famous Powell or Dickens or our distinguished George Otis Smith, who is here. I am interested in it from the standpoint of geological study, it is true, but I, a layman, could not discuss it from that standpoint. I could not begin to suggest what it would mean to one who has never seen it. I would have to have the skilled hand of the painter, as you saw a moment ago on the canvas, even then to fall short of its reality. To ask me to describe it, even though I saw it before my eyes! That's an impossibility. If I were interested, talking to a group of people who were trying to get the early history of the life in the canyon, there is plenty of resource, but I am not capable of even doing that. This must be left for the real traveler and explorer. All I can say to you, ladies and gentlemen, is that I have taken the time to come down here to make it very emphatic that it's impossible to do what most people have expected me to do. You are asking me to do the impossible when you ask me to talk about this colossus wonder of nature. I can say this, however, before I leave you, that our people must be educated to support more generously the tablets of our history, whether it be the history of our people or the history of our continent.

"I have been greatly outraged to realize how slow we are in maintaining permanently those tablets that are of greatest importance to us in the genesis of our own people, to say nothing about the wonders of our continent. I remember not long ago that there was an attempt to tear down in a great city a famous place of interest that had been the meeting place of the famous men of other days, and the birthplace of some of the great movements that make for most in our present-day history; and the people of that city were so outraged to think that the commercialism of the times was apt to be sufficiently influential as to overcome the meaning of the place that they organized a volunteer association and purchased the place in order to make it permanent as a tablet in our history, and not to be destroyed. That undertaking was not national; the meaning is national, but the effort to preserve the tablet was purely local.

"I read in yesterday's paper an extract about an attempt to widen the streets over here in Philadelphia. I think it's Arch Street and Seventh, which it is proposed to widen in order to make it a more convenient thoroughfare; but to do so is going to obliterate the famous site upon which stood the little house in the second story of which was written the Declaration of Independence, penned by Thomas Jefferson while he occupied the house. [Jefferson's rented lodgings in the boarding house of Jacob Graf, Jr. were at southwestern corner of 7th and Market Sts. (High St. in his day), which were duly razed; but the house was reconstructed for the U.S. Bicentennial in 1976 and is managed by the National Park Service, though today it is not often open to visitors, a staffing issue.] Our modern time is so commercial that we are apt to easily obliterate these tablets of history, totally oblivious to their importance in our history, and I protest against it; and as I want to maintain these places that are the original markings of the movements of our civilization, I would like by national authority to preserve and make accessible for the value of the entire public in all time to come these famous wonders that are ours by nature, such as the Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"I hesitate in a matter of legislation just now before us in utilizing the waters of Niagara, a matter that is purely commercial, and probably from that standpoint wholly justified. I hesitate to be a supporter of any measure that may seem to be for the moment necessary that would have the effect of ultimately destroying the scenic beauty of that great natural wonder. And yet I have been told, and told by one of the Congressmen, for whom I have the greatest respect, that the good Lord has put that power there to be used for man, and that we ought to utilize it, and he continued, 'Mr. Fess, you will come to the place yet where you will see that the people's value in it is not to look at it, but to use it for the purposes of mankind.' This commercial item is always present and quite frequently all powerful. It rules to-day.

"Now, that is in the minds of many people. My fellow citizens, I do not know whether we are eliminating altogether the element of ideality, and are superseding it by the element of utility, but I fear we are. There is strength in the ideal, and there is power in the beautiful, and I doubt very much the wisdom of saying that we are justified in destroying the beauty because it is not useful as long as it remains beauty. The ideal and beautiful are eternal, beyond mere utility, and for that reason, I shall vote and urge with my voice the authority as well as duty of the Government to make the Grand Canyon more accessible to the public, to lend the influence of the Government to the needs of these famous wonders, not only to preserve their beauty, which of course will be preserved, since it can not be destroyed, but to make that beauty within the reach and enjoyment and pleasure of the great population of the country. The Congress invariably hesitates to take any step along such a line because it is to be perpetual. Members always inquire when a project is proposed: 'Well, what is to be the end of this thing?' If we undertake to develop it by the National Government, it means appropriations, and the little money this year, will mean more next year. It will be cumulative, and Congress is always hesitant on undertaking anything that is to be perpetual. If it is temporary, they are apt to do it quickly, but if it is to be perpetual, they say, 'What is to be the end of it?'

"Now, my friends, while that is true, the Grand Canyon is one of the famous wonders of the world that the Government can afford to expend money upon, to make its reality common property to the people who might seek its wonders if the Government would but take it in hand and make it more accessible. Our Secretary, under whose power it is, will tell you that the economic idea of it ought not to be in the way, for in all probability it can be made self-supporting. But let me ask the question, even though it can not be made self-supporting, or conceding that it can not, is it a useless expenditure of money or a waste of money for the Government to make accessible to the population of the country as well as of all countries the greatest wonder of the world. I do not think it is a waste of money, and all that I can do for you as a Member of Congress is to voice my approval and simply say in these few minutes that I am thoroughly convinced that this ought to be made a national park. I am convinced that the Government ought to go beyond making it a national park, but should proceed to build roads, to make camps, and to secure water at convenient places, so that it can be utilized as a living possibility as well as simply remain a thing of beauty. I shall do what I can to reach that conclusion, so far as Congress is concerned. Good-by."

(Good bye, and please, read instead Roosevelt, 1903.)

Finley, John

1144 1917 Traveling afoot. The Outlook (New York), 115 (April 25): 733-734.

"Sometimes the long walk is the only medicine. Once when suffering from one of the few colds of my life (incurred in California) I walked from the rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado down to the river and back (a distance of fourteen miles, with a descent of five thousand feet and a like ascent), and found myself entirely cured of the malady which had clung to me for days." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gerster, Arpad G.

1145 1917 Recollections of a New York surgeon. New York: Paul B. Hoeber, 347 pp.

See pp. 308-309:

"The meeting of the American Surgical Association at Denver in June, 1911, made it convenient to visit the Grand Cañon, the sight of which is one of life's few great events.

"Kant's apostrophe to the stupendous sublimity of the starred sky, which better than anything else conveys to thinking man the significance of endless space and time, was instantly recalled when one began to appreciate the ages of ceaseless energy spent by nature in the ruthless excavation of this enormous chasm. Though the processes of erosion are identical, yet there is a marked difference in visual value between the degradation of a mountain to the level of sea mud, and the sawlike incisive effect of a river upon the table of a plateau. The mountain vanishes, but the cañon's awful depth grows more and more impressive. To comprehend the import of such a contemplation it is necessary to gauge one's stature with the walls of rock passed in descending to the roaring river far below.

"The Kolb brothers live on the brink at the head of Bright Angel Trail. They are noted as the first men to repeat Powell's memorable exploit in running the entire length of the cañon-enclosed course of the Colorado."
(ENTIRE NOTE)

Gilkey, Charles W.

1146 1917 The spiritual uplift of scenery as exemplified by the Grand Canyon. In: Proceedings of the National Parks Conference : held in the auditorium of the new National Museum, Washington, D.C., January 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, 1917. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, pp. 134-143. [Seen also as an offprint, separately paginated, 11 pp.]

Guest, Antony

1147 1917 A. L. Coburn's vortographs. Photo-Era, 28(5) (May): 227-228.

"From The American Photographer". Includes note in passing of "'Rim Edge,' one of the Grand Canyon group, is perhaps the most pleasing specimen of a decorative effect." (p. 228)

Harder, Erwin E.

1148 1917 "Jokes", "Episodes" and "Poems". [Chicago]: Erwin E. Harder, [ii], 28, [ii] pp.

Grand Canyon, see under "Harder's Jokes", p. 3; "Reminiscences of the 'Enchanted City'" (pp. 15-20; specifically, p. 16); and "The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Grand Operatic Phantasmagoria No. 3 (Prologue to The Sun God.)", p. 27, dated "Grand Canyon, October, 1915."

Jones, Rufus M.

1149 1917 A constructive Quaker policy in the present national crises. The Friend (Philadelphia), 90 ("Fifth-day, Sixth Month 21) [Thursday, June 21]) (52): 615-616.

"Many of you have stood, as I have done, on the edge of the Great Canyon of the Colorado, in Arizona, . . . and you have felt steal over you a sense of awe and sublimity and majesty, such as perhaps you have never felt in any other spot in the world, that made your whole being tremble with an emotion as seldom happens to anyone gazing on any other scene."

The author's comments comprise a metaphorical introduction for the theme of this article.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mabie, Hamilton W.

1150 1917 Provincialism in American life. Harper's Magazine, 134 (March): 579-584.

Regarding prose and verse. "The Grand Cañon is beyond the brush of the most powerful [painter's] hand, but it is within the reach of the imagination: by selection, restraint, and suggestion, the impressing vastness of it may be transposed into a mystery of depth and darkness, a mystery of light and color, which make it companionable." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Machen, Arthur W., Jr.

1151 1917 (COMPILER) Letters of Arthur W. Machen : with biographical sketch. Baltimore, Maryland: "Privately Printed", 380 pp.

Regarding the compiler's father, a Maryland lawyer. See p. 353:

"One distinctive form which this humour took was a quaint, semi-humorous use of long or unusual words to express everyday thoughts—always without the slightest touch of pedantry. • • •

"Foreigners were sometimes puzzled by this use of language. For example, at the Grand Cañon of Arizona, he asked a Frenchman who had just returned from the bottom of the cañon whether he had been 'remunerated.' The bewildered traveller thought the inquiry was whether he had been paid for making the descent!"

Nelson, W. H. de B.

1152 1917 The allied artists. The International Studio (New York), 61 (June) (244): cxxx-cxxxii.

See pp. cxxx-cxxxii:

"In the present exhibition, thanks to the skill and labour of messrs. Lockman, Mora, Powell and Newell, one is at once struck by the felicitous hanging which pervades each of the three galleries in use and offers an object-lesson to the Independents, who staked upon alphabetical hanging and lost. • • •

"Without any illusions about great art, there are plenty of canvases that fully reward a visit and only a few that, in the free and easy language of the profession, rank as 'lemons.' The place of honour fell to Powell with a portrayal of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, which may well be styled monumental. Good composition and good colour values mark it out as a fine rendering of a very difficult subject." (This painting is not illustrated.)

Rice, Cale Young

1153 1917 Trails sunward. New York: Century Co., 144 pp.

See "Mountains in the Grand Canyon" (reprints Rice, 1916), and "The Chant of the Colorado. (At the Grand Canyon.)" (transcribed below).

My brother, man, shapes him a plan
And builds him a house in a day,
But I have toiled through a million years
For a home to last alway.
I have flooded the sands and washed them down,
I have cut through gneiss and granite.
No toiler of earth was wrought as I,
Since God's first breath began it.
High mountain-buttes I have chiselled, to shade
My wanderings to the sea.
With the winid's aid, and the cloud's aid,
Unweary and mighty and unafraid,
I have bodied eternity

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

My brother, man, builds for a span:
His life is a moment's breath.
But I have hewn for a million years,
Nor a moment dreamt of death.
By moons and stars I have measured my task—
And some from the skies have perished:
But ever I cut and flashed and foamed,
As ever my aim I cherished:
My aim to quarry the heart of earth,
Till, in the rock's red rise,
Its age and birth, through an awful girth
Of strata, should show the wonder-worth
Of patience to all eyes.

My brother, man, builds as he can,
And beauty he adds for his joy,
But all the hues of sublimity
My pinnacled walls employ.
Slow shadows iris them all day long,
And silvery veils, soul-stilling,
The moon drops down their precipices,
Soft with a spectral thrilling.
For all immutable dreams that sway
With beauty the earth and air,
Are ever a play, by night and day,
My house of eternity to array
In visions ever fair.

1154 1917 The chant of the Colorado. (At the Grand Canyon.) In: Voices of Living Poets [SECTION]. Current Opinion, 62(5) (May): 354.

Reprinted from Rice (1917, Trails sunward).

Robinson, William J.

1155 1917 Two months in Hawaii and some other places, and how I came back. The Medical Critic and Guide, 20(9) (September): 321-358. [Signed, "By the Editor."]

Trip to Grand Canyon, see pp. 354-357. Strictly a tourist's-eye view.

"We arrived at the Grand Canyon at 9 a.m. (1½ hour late )—and the Grand Canyon is positively the most wonderful, most magnificent, most grandiose thing in the whole little world of ours. It is one of the few things in Nature that you never have to apologize for. For instance Kilauea. It is certainly a magnificent thing, and also the only thing of its kind in the world. But if a visitor should come, when the Volcano is quiet, when there are no spurting fire fountains, when there is hardly any fire, and when the lava flows lazily along, he would go away disappointed. For the Yosemite Valley you often have to apologize: 'this is a poor season of the year for the Yosemite, the waterfalls can be seen to good advantage only in the spring,' etc. The Grand Canyon needs no apologies, needs no exaggerations. It is like Niagara, always there in its full grandeur. But what is the use—if I went thru the dictionary, and picked out all the superlative adjectives, they would not give you an idea of the wonderful grandeur of this marvel of nature. • • • "

He ranks the Grand Canyon as no. 2 of various places of the world; for starters, Switzerland is no. 1, and recapitulates: ". . . Switzerland offers more than all the other four combined. For the others are just one thing each. The Canyon is all granite, Niagara is all water, Kilauea is all fire and the Yosemite is just mountains with a few not very impressive waterfalls." He goes on at length about Switzerland, then apologizes for the "digression".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"At the Hopi House, opposite the El Towar [sic] Hotel, where I stopped, there is a dance every night by some Navaho and Hopi Indians. Didn't care a bit for them, for they were for exhibition purposes, for the benefit of the visitors. Anything of such a nature that is not spontaneous is forced, artificial, and therefore distasteful—to me, of course. I don't know about you. There was one dance by a little girl about six years of age and a boy of four. That was nice, because the children did it with earnestness and sincerity, and seemed to be proud of their work. There was no false note in their dance. Bless the kiddies—everywhere!

"When you are at the Canyon, don't fail to visit the studio of Kolb Brothers, where one of the Kolbs delivers daily a lecture on the Grand Canyon with moving pictures and stereopticon views, illustrating their perilous descent of the Colorado river and numerous wonderful scenes, which cannot be seen elsewhere. The daring of those two brothers who, hundreds and hundreds of times, took their lives into their own hands in order to obtain some peculiarly striking picture cannot fail to excite wonder and admiration mixed now and then with a shudder. The pictures are very well worth seeing.

"It is now 7:10 p.m., Sunday. In half an hour I take the train from the Grand Canyon for home—and in half an hour my vacation ends. For while I shall arrive in New York only on Thursday, you cannot count continuous travelling for four days and four nights in a stuffy Pullman as a part of the vacation. It is simply one of the unavoidable evils of it."

Roof, Katharine Metcalf

- 1156 1917 The life and art of William Merritt Chase. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 352 pp. [Also reprinted in facsimile by Hacker Art Books (New York, 1975), though with the author's given name misspelled "Katherine".]

Visit to Grand Canyon in 1914, pp. 250-251:

"The route home from California led through the Grand Cañon. When Chase heard that two of his friends intended to stop off there he was scornful. Why did they wish to see that freak of nature? To Chase that which was not paintable never seemed worth looking at. The cañon he conceived of as panoramic. Being, however, a gregarious soul, he stopped off with his friends, pooh-poohing a little, but when he saw the impressive sight of the great gorge he was moved as one would be sure he would be.

"But the stop-over was shadowed by an unfortunate occurrence, for Chase, having met with some unfair treatment in business matters in California, discovered that his finances were at a low ebb. He was, therefore, unable to make any purchases, and finding, of course, in the variegated stock of the large shop there some things he wanted to buy, he could only hover over them like a wretched little boy with no pocket-money." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Steele, David M.

- 1157 1917 Going abroad overland : studies of places and people in the Far West. New York and London: G. P. Putnam's Sons (The Knickerbocker Press), 197 pp., map.

Train travel. See Chapter 4, "Grand Canyon, Titan of Chasms", pp. 34-44, and plate.

"I forgot to say the day is Sunday. That fact is of importance. These eight hundred persons all told here, from all points, are a larger congregation than in any of eight hundred churches at this moment in the places whence they came. And well may this be so. For this Titan of Chasms is, in its power to compel one's moods, in its sublimity and majesty, in its awe-inspiring size and in its utter weird unearthliness, eight thousand times more marvelous than any domed cathedral ever yet constructed. In the power it has to sober men in presence of infinitude, in the effect it has on flippancy and in the way it melts small human pride to modesty and calms the turmoil of life's stress by its size, by its silence, and most of all by its age, it is efficient beyond any man-made sanctuary. It is such a place as has no parallel elsewhere on earth. It is a service in color, a sermon in stone, a prayer in its depth, a petition in its far flung reaches of the unexplored; while, in the echoes from its all but fathomless abyss, there sounds the deep-toned chant of Judgment Day.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"I will not attempt description. Every one who comes here disavows ability—and then goes home to do the very thing they had foresworn. They try but to fail utterly. The reason is there are no adjectives of size commensurate. All passing on of observation second hand depends upon similitude; and to this there is nothing similar. No wonder that the aborigines on this part of the continent who, like the Sadducees knew neither angel nor spirit, yet believed that this place was Heaven and Hell. It might be either, for it looks like both. Here their God made his dwelling place and here ours has disclosed his handiwork. He did this once, in this one place, and ever since and elsewhere He has rested from such work of revelation. And shall man depict it? • • •" Recalling his arrival: "The train takes the upgrade slowly with a growling, grinding protest and comes to a sudden stop. You are at the gate of Heaven: you look to the depths of Hell."

"I had been to Grand Canyon before, but only as a tourist for a day. That was the thing to do ten years ago. Then, people stopped between two trains, stopped, looked and listened, marveled at the scene or complained of the cost, according to their depth of soul and past experience of travel. Some looked on speechless until they fainted or prayed; the rest ran away to buy post-card pictures of it and inscribe them with chant phrases of approval. To-day all this is changed, both the place and the people: the latter are the best, the most appreciative, this because most cultured and intelligent, of really leisure-loving, nature-worshiping, long-distance travelers, and the environs have been so transfigured and accommodations multiplied that these can stay on now in comfort and explore the place as it deserves. A week or two weeks' stay now is more normal. Even this is scant time enough to 'do' the whole region."

The author ". . . explored old scenes anew, at changes that the hand of man has wrought here where the works of nature gave him courage and begat in him conviction that this would become a 'resort' rather than merely a stopping place. It is a tribute to the despised tourist class who are accused of haste and levity, of sacrilege and shallowness, this fact that things are planned here of such spacious size and with such permanence of substance."

He spends several pages running through the usual gamut of world architecture as seen from the rim, and rounds up the various things the modern tourist may do along the rim—yet not a mention of going into the canyon, where of course the greater secrets lie.

"Geologists agree that the rocks of each period represent an uplift and subsidence of the upper crust, extending over incalculable time, each subsidence being followed by sedimentary deposits on the sea bottom, ultimately forming a new series of rocks. Imagine this huge mass, say three and a half miles thick, gradually lifted and forming a plateau. The top two-thirds, except an isolated butte here and there, was next eliminated by erosion. Then, but not until then, the Colorado River began to cut the Grand Canyon through the lower third. If that was the end of the work of Creation, when must the beginning have been?"

Sterling, George

1158

1917 Thirty-five sonnets by George Sterling published by the Book Club of California [ornamental title-page thus]. San Francisco: Taylor and Taylor, for The Book Club of California, 54 [56] pp.

See p. 10, "At the Grand Cañon". Reprints Sterling (1912) but with completely reset typography:

Thou settest splendors in my sight, O Lord!
It seems as tho a deep hued sunset falls
Forever on these Cyclopean walls,—
These battlements where Titan hosts have warred,
And hewn the world with devastating sword,
And shook with trumpets the eternal halls
Where seraphim lay hid by bloody palls
And only Hell and Silence were adored.

Lo! the abyss wherein great Satan's wings
Might gender tempests, and his dragons' breath
Fume up in pestilence. Beneath the sun
Or starry outposts on terrestrial things,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Is no such testimony unto Death
Nor altars builded to Oblivion.

Stuart, Evelyn Marie

- 1159 1917 Exhibitions at the Chicago galleries. Fine Arts Journal, 35(4) (April): 302-311.
- See pp. 305-306, remarks on an exhibition by Bertha Menzler Peyton at the Art Institute, including Grand Canyon studies, "Thor's Hammer", "A Glimpse from Bright Angel Trail", and "On the Canyon's Rim".

1918

Anonymous

- 1160 1918 Philadelphia Association. In: Association News [SECTION]. The Purchasing Agent (National Association of Purchasing Agents, New York), 5(3) (March): 92.
- Includes passing note of lecture presented by C. D. Williamson on Grand Canyon.
- 1161 1918 Los Angeles [NEWS]. American Art News, 16(21) (March 2): 5.
- "Louis Hovey Sharp of Pasadena is exhibiting his recent work at the Kanst Galleries. The exhibition consists largely of Cala. landscapes and scenes around the Grand Canyon of Arizona." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1162 1918 Douglas Fairbanks the movie star performing marvelous athletic stunts in the Grand Canon. / Halsbrecherische Kunststücke des Filmstars Douglas Fairbanks im Grand Canon. Deutsch-Amerika (New York), 4(11) (March 16): 16-17. [In English and German.]
- Photo spread.
- 1163 1918 [Lecture announcement.] In: May Bulletin [SECTION]. The Winged Foot (New York Athletic Club), 29(4/5) (April/May): 3.
- ". . . Lecture, 'The Grand Canyon of the Colorado,' by Robert Frothingham. Admission $1.00. For the benefit of Army and Navy Athletic Equipment Fund." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1164 1918 Rudolph Ganz and his personal tuner, W. Benjamin Keith, at the Grand Canon. Music News (Chicago), 10(22) (May 31): 11.
- Photograph of pianist Ganz and Keith at the foot of Bright Angel Trail. No accompanying text.
- 1165 1918 National Gallery of Art. In: Report on the progress and condition of the United States National Museum for the year ending June 30, 1917. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, pp. 73-81.
- See pp. 78-80, special loan exhibition under the auspices of the National Park Service during January and February, 1917. The exhibition included the following works (lent by the artists except where indicated otherwise): Howard Russell Butler: "Sunshine and Shadow in The Grand Canyon, Arizona"; Elliott Daingerfield: "Trees on the Rim of The Grand Canyon, Arizona", "From Rim to Rim of The Grand Canyon, Arizona"; William R. Leigh: "Grand Canyon", lent by Snedecor and Co.; Thomas Moran: "In the Grand Canyon of the Colorado", lent by the National Gallery of Art, "Grand Canyon of Arizona on the Santa Fe", lent by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway; De Witt Parshall [DeWitt Parshall]: "The Hermit Creek Canyon, The Grand Canyon", lent by the Worcester Art Museum, "Isis Peak, The Grand Canyon", lent by the Syracuse Museum of Fine Arts, "Granite Gorge, The Grand Canyon", lent by the Toledo Museum of Art; Sheldon Parsons: "Morning in the Canyon"; F. C. Peyraud: "Afternoon in The Grand Canyon"; Edward H. Potthast: "The Chasm", "Bright Angel Canyon of Arizona on the Santa Fe", lent by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway; William Ritschel: "Awakening of The Grand

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Canyon of Arizona"; Birger Sandzen: "Sunset in the Grand Canyon"; Walter Ufer: "Indian Gardens"; F. Ballard Williams: "Grand View, The Grand Canyon of Arizona on the Santa Fe", lent by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway.

- 1166 1918 Artista notable. El Panorama (Lecturas fáciles para estudiantes de Español) (Chicago), [No. 1]: 12-13. [In Spanish.]

Douglas Fairbanks at Grand Canyon.

Andrews, Roy Chapman

- 1167 1918 The frontier of the forbidden land. Harper's Monthly Magazine, 136 (May): 894-905. ("This is the second of Mr. Andrews's articles describing his hunting adventures on the borders of Tibet.")

See p. 898, regarding the view on the rim of the Yangtse gorge: "Some one has said that when a tourist sees the Grand Cañon for the first time he gasps, "Indescribable!" and then immediately begins to describe it." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Briggs, Charles G.

- 1168 1918 Letters from the war. Albany Medical Annals (Albany Medical College, Alumni Association, Albany, New York), 39(1) (January): 27-35.

See letter of "August 2nd" [1917], pp. 29-31; specifically, p. 30, writing of a war-ravaged town in France, its name eliminated by a censor:

"Most wonders of the world as they unfold themselves to us upon first view are a disappointment. The only exceptions in my experience are Niagara, seen when a school boy, the Grand Canyon of Colorado [sic] and ———, seen at night."

Castello, Eugene

- 1169 1918 The Philadelphia water color exhibition. American Magazine of Art, 9(3) (January): 112-115.

15th Annual Exhibition of Water Colors, Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. See p. 114: "It would be difficult to say what message Mr. Dodge McKnight wished to convey to his audience in his wash drawings of the Grand Cañon, Arizona . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE) Not illustrated.

Corson, George Edgar

- 1170 1918 Address of the General Grand High Priest. In: Proceedings of the Thirty-seventh Triennial Convocation of the General Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the United States of America : Baltimore, Maryland, A.I. 2448, A.D. 1918. Buffalo, New York: Baker, Jones, Hausauer, Inc., pp. 23-99.

See p. 80: "I visited that great rift in our continent, the Grand Canyon of Arizona and rode down to the Columbia River [sic] by the Bright Angel Trail." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Fairbanks, Douglas

- 1171 1918 Douglas Fairbanks' own page [COLUMN]. Photoplay Magazine, 13(3) (February): 40.

- 1172 1918 Making life worth while. New York: Britton Publishing Co., 157 [159] pp.

See photos: "Companions", facing p. 53, Fairbanks and dog on rim of Grand Canyon; "A one-minute reverie", facing p. 100, Fairbanks seated in archway on El Tovar porch; "Alone with the Grand Canyon", facing p. 129, Fairbanks on the rim of Grand Canyon. No pertinent texts in volume.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Fairbanks, Douglas, AND Warrington, Charles

- 1173 1918 Why I was disappointed in the Grand Canyon. (By Douglas Fairbanks, himself. Photographs by Charles Warrington.) Ladies' Home Journal, (February): 18-19.

Photo collage including numerous stunt photos at Grand Canyon; with brief text.

"I can define my disappointment in a sentence: I couldn't jump it. I had blandly believed, encouraged, I may add, in my belief by various moving-picture directors, that I could jump anything. Here, on the rim of the world, I met defeat. And I went down gladly. Impressions? Unconveyable. A very famous man [Irvin S. Cobb, 1913] has explained that. 'When the Creator made the Grand Canyon,' he said, 'He failed to make a word to cover it.' I am comforted by the thought that mine is not the least deficient vocabulary. As for my companion, Jones, it was quite different. When I asked him what he thought of it he replied: 'The Canyon? Oh, the Canyon's all right, only my camera ain't big enough.' • • • Arriving at the rim of the abyss, Jones realized what he was up against with his four-by-five camera. The pictures he took for the folks back home had about the same relation to the Canyon that a photograph of the gravel bank in Gas City [Jones' home in Indiana] would have. So these are not Jones' pictures, but Mr. Warrington's, taken for Jones' sake, for without such evidence he could not prove that he was out there at all."

Felter, Harvey Wickes

- 1174 1918 Field work in materia medica. Eclectic Medical Journal (Cincinnati, Ohio), 78(3) (March): 151-153. [Editorial.]

"One may read of the Grand Canyon of Arizona all his lifetime, and look at all the pictures of it he can obtain, and he never can realize but a faint conception of that gigantic natural wonder till his eyes behold it, or he travels along it and peers down into its mighty depths, or descends and ascends its serried trails. So it is in all geographic studies." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania, Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania

- 1175 1918 [Lecture listing.] From: Quarterly Communication, December 5, 1917 [SECTION]. In: Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania. Abstract of the proceedings of the Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of the Most Ancient and Honorable Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania and Masonic jurisdiction thereunto belonging : being extracts from the minutes of its Quarterly and Annual Grand Communications. Philadelphia: [Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania].

See p. 150, "[1917] Mar. 9 Illustrated lecture, 'The Grand Canyon,' by Rev. Brother Dallas M. De Huze." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Galsworthy, John

- 1176 1918 Speculations. Harper's Monthly Magazine, 136(1815) (April): 646-655.

See p. 652: "I remember sitting on a bench overlooking the Grand Cañon of Arizona, into which the sun was shining and snowstorms whirling all at once. All that most marvelous natural work of art was flooded to the brim with tawny gold, and white, and wine-dark shadows, so that the colossal carvings, as of huge rock-gods and beasts, along its sides wre made living by the very mystery of the light and darkness. I remember sitting there, and an old gentleman passing close behind, leaning a little toward me, and saying in a sly, gentle voice, 'How are you going to tell it to the folks at home?'"

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Glasier, Jessie C.

1177 1918 Cleveland. American Art News, 16(14) (January 12): 6.

"A display of colorful canvases by the 'Society of Men Who Paint the Far West' is now on at the museum. There are three interpretations of the Grand Canyon: F. Ballard Williams's 'Afternoon'; E. H. Polltrast's 'Rising Mists', and De Witt Parshall's [DeWitt Parshall] 'Great Abyss.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Guthrie, William Norman

1178 1918 The religion of Old Glory. New York: George H. Doran Co., 415 pp.

Wearily, the author waves the American flag from cover to cover. See pp. 93-94:

"But there is one especial sacred place, which to visit means for our patriotism as students of Old Glory more than Alaska, than a Bayou, than a Rocky peak, than lake and sea, than Big Tree forest, than the Father of Waters, when you watch it from the bluff of Memphis, say, flooding fifty miles of Arkansas, and flowing golden and awful to the gulf. Yes, more amazing than red and green Sierras wading through purple valley in golden light; more thrilling, because more particular than all these natural wonders from Niagara to the Badlands—is the Grand Canyon of the Colorado!

"The marvellous gulch, one hundred and more miles long and, as the crow flies, fifteen across, and six thousand feet deep,—all Mount Washington thrown in, not quite equal to touching the level of the rim! But it is not vastness we are called on to consider and admire—not a chasm into the mystery letting us openly read the secret of geologic time. It is the unimaginable grandeur of stratum lying level over stratum rose and grey-green alternately. It is a fugue in stone on the very theme of Old Glory. Pyramid and pagoda repeat with variations—and always the recurring colour motif! A rainstorm sweeps down below, and brings out brilliantly in passing the scheme of the flag on a scale so enormous, with such vibrant loveliness—the bloom of the atmosphere softly suffusing it—that the most irreverent spectator is struck utterly speechless, or passes some wholly irrelevant remark in hopeless slang—or helpless profanity!

"There we have now our symbol expanded. The sunrise and afterglow revelations of alternate valley and plains over which in imagination we stride with magic seven-league boots—on and on and up and up to the very sky on fire; the strata of mother earth, and still the ribs of her divine structure offering us the same suggestion; age on age, civilisation beyond civilisation, on and on, up and, up, Excelsior, per aspera ad astra—nay beyond to the ultimate Glory of God!"

Hogg, John Edwin

1179 1918 Sidecarring thrills to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River. Motorcycling and Bicycling, 16(23) (December 7): 13-16; (24) (December 14): 13-17.

This item still has not been located for annotation.

Hopkins, William H.

1180 1918 Log and story of monumental highway through America's Wonderland. Good Roads Automoblist, 8(1): 4.

Spring 1917 trip with Dolph Andrus (Randolph Andrus, Jr.) in a 1916 Maxwell. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Howe, Ed

- 1181 1918 Why is Io-Way! Don't grumble because Switzerland is closed; beautiful Iowa is open for travel. The Country Gentleman (Philadelphia), 83(46) (November 16): 11-12.

Begins: "I once visited the Grand Cañon of the Colorado, and when I noted the hundred miles of gorgeous scenery in sight, this occurred to me: 'What an insignificant thing a two-column description of this will be!'" No further note of Grand Canyon.

Johnson, May

- 1182 1918 At the motion picture theaters. Musical Courier, 83(7)(2158) (August 18): 40.

At the Capitol in Chicago, "Erik Bye gave Clayton Thomas' 'Invocation to the Sun God,' garbed as an Indian and amid the picturesque reproductions of a scene from the Grand Canyon, pictures of which immediately followed, replete with all the beauty which characterizes the Prizma production." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Kolb Bros. [Kolb Brothers]

- 1183 1918 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Kolb Brothers, 13 hand-tinted prints, string-tied. [Wraps with photo laid on.]

McCauley, Lena M.

- 1184 1918 Art and landscape conservation. American Magazine of Art, 9(5) (March): 197-199.

Grand Canyon art uneducational. See p. 198, regarding a possible exhibition, notes that the "Friends" in Chicago "should begin with native resources in painters . . . from local studios. As its purpose is to be educative, the spectacular features of the Grand Canyon paintings by the Painters of the Far West . . . need not be given the major space."

Muir, John

- 1185 1918 Steep trails : California, Utah, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, the Grand Cañon. (William Frederick Badé, ed.) Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co., 391 pp. (The Writings of John Muir, Sierra Edition, Volume 8.) [Also a large-paper ed.; 380 copies (350 for sale). Also a Manuscript ed., apparently a special edition including original manuscript pages and illustrations, thus many variants.]

See "The Grand Cañon of the Colorado", pp. 347-382. Reprinted from Muir (1902).

Phelps, William Lyon

- 1186 1918 The advance of English poetry in the twentieth century. Part VII. The Bookman, 17(2) (April): 125-138.

See pp. 131-132: "I have often wondered who would write a poem worthy of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Vachel Lindsay is the only living American who could do it, and I hope he will accept this challenge. Its awful majesty can be revealed only in verse; for it is one of the very few wonders of the world which no photograph and no painting can ever reproduce. Who ever saw a picture that gave him any conception of this incomparable spectacle?" (Lindsay seems not to have accepted the challenge.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Pollard, Agnes L.

- 1187 1918 Appendix. In: Annual Reports [SECTION]. Staten Island Association of Arts and Sciences, Proceedings, 7: 72-86.

Includes notice of a children's lecture given on November 2, 1917, on "The Grand Canyon of the Arizona [sic] and the Giant Trees of California", by Dr. [Arthur] Hollick.

Rieseberg, Harry E.

- 1188 1918 Sunset at El Tovar. In: Among Our Poets [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 12(5) (April): 57.

The West is wide with lurid flame that plays
Across the desert and lights the watching East;
It seems to shadow all earth's tranquil ways
With ill forebodings—woe to man and beast.
The sun is still unset but lost in depth
Of lowering clouds, of deepest, darkest red.
That take weird form, dread furies fraught with fire,
Holding the secrets of the live and dead.
All earth waits silent, wrapt in strange affright—
When lo! creeps down the quiet, starlit night.

Simpson, William Haskell

- 1189 1918 The Grand Cañon of Arizona. St. Nicholas, 45(6) (April): 482-490.

Sinclair, Upton

- 1190 1918 The lion's den. Upton Sinclair's (Pasadena, California), 1(8) (December): 2.

"Last week there came a Swedish traveler, something about six feet six, I should estimate, with the head of an ancient prophet. His last stop had been the Grand Canyon, where he had sat out on the peaks and had the mystic inwards of the universe revealed to him." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Steele, David M.

- 1191 1918 Vacation journeys East and West : descriptive and discursive stories of American summer resorts. New York and London: G. P. Putnam's Sons (The Knickerbocker Press), 244 pp.

See Chapter 11, "A Sunday at the Grand Canyon. A Study of Hell; a Similitude and a Conjecture", pp. 217-228, and plate. A very different, darkly thoughtful perspective on the subject of a Grand Canyon Sunday previously addressed by Steel (1917).

"Last Sunday, with the Yellowstone Park for a place of worship and with Nature, spelled with a capital letter, for preacher, I went to church where there is no church. I heard a sermon where there is no sanctuary save the whole of God's great out-of-doors, and where there is no eloquence save only that of wind and water, sky and mountain, sound and silence. The beauty of the scene there taught me somewhat, I believe, of Heaven. So the somber, awe-inspiring aspect of another spectacle I stand to-day and look upon, the Grand Canyon in Arizona, speaks upon a theme the opposite. To-day—for again it is Sunday—I am visiting a place in all respects the complement of that of last week, and, prompted by the same incentive, I fall here by force of what I gaze upon to make a like study of Hell.

"I have been led into a mood conducive to the doing of this also recently by something else. I have been reading—or rereading, rather—Dante's superb masterpiece. I have been impressed this time, even as never before, with the way in which, nowadays, one can read The Inferno, with all its horrible realism, and yet remain unmoved by it. We do not take it seriously. Nobody does. But to-day I am having this even more novel experience; I am standing looking on the horrible aspect of a gruesome, weird, uncanny scene in nature, and of

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

realizing how every one is struck by realism here. It is a sign of the times; it is a subject of comment. I wish I could describe the scene. But no one can or ever will. The thing is so monstrously large that one can get no single point of view from which to treat it comprehensively. Even when one does see it in part, there seems nothing to say. No one speaks descriptively; they only utter exclamation. Human paucity of conception and human limitation of expression are such that it can only be looked upon shudderingly; it cannot be spoken about adequately.

"There it is, a canyon in name, but an earth-rent in reality . . . ."

The author spends a few pages in the obligatory "can't describe" descriptions of the chasm; and then, takes a step over the edge, to point out the giddy feelings of a trip down the trail. "After I had traveled this route seven miles yesterday, by a zigzag, switchback, catch-as-catch-can, slanting, tilting, broken, shoot-the-chutes sort of a trail, I made the descent only to the edge of the Inner Granite Gorge, thirteen hundred feet from the water. That is to say, I was still four times as far from the river as the brink is from the water at Niagara Falls. As I stood on this brink and looked into that deep, black, yawning chasm, hideous and distorted masses of dark colored rocks hung over the gloomy cavern and a subdued sullen roar seemed to issue from between its menacing jaws. For through this last gorge flows the Rio Colorado—literally Spanish, 'River Color Red.'" There he sees and invokes Titans, Monadnock, the Sphinx and Styx, Scylla, Charybdis, Charon, Apollyon, Cronos, Rhea, Crebus, Tantus, Ixion, Sisyphus, Danaides, Tartarus, the Plutonian Shore, and recalls Milton. "I think, in terms of all the imaginary that I have ever known employed of Hell.

"Now, the question I am prompted to ask is: Why does this scene suggest to me hell? Just what is the popular idea of a place of punishment? Why is the idea one of place at all? Where did we get it? How nearly is it accurate? Rather, how grievously is it inaccurate? What better way is there of thinking of my sins—if I think rightly of myself? • • • " He goes on for a while about the place and punishments of sin, of self-reflection and self-contempt; and so on, leading toward his canyon revelation. "There is such a thing as the hell of loneliness; there is also, I trow, the loneliness of hell. • • • I look across that chasm and I am struck by one thing: by its loneliness. The Hell of Loneliness is the Loneliness of Hell." He runs through the thoughts of a few philosophers and ends with Milton, who "with a perspicuity beyond the average of his poem, makes Satan say, 'Whither shall I fly? Which way I turn is Hell. Myself am Hell.'"

Stuver, E.

- 1192 1918 Dr. T. D. Crothers—An appreciation and a reminiscence. Western Medical Times (Reno, Nevada), 37(11) (May): 446-447.

Includes the passing reminiscence of a discussion with Crothers while sitting for two or three hours at the edge of Grand Canyon, on "philosophy, science, medicine and the 'Great Beyond' that lies before us in the hereafter."

Tombs, John

- 1193 1918 Grand Cañon of Arizona—plus! Santa Fe Magazine, 12(2) (January): 37-39.

A laudatory piece regarding Fred Harvey amenities at Grand Canyon, "Written on the way home from the Southwestern Conference on tuberculosis, held at the Grand Cañon of Arizona", with a peculiar fixation on Hermit's Rest. (See also correction in the February issue, pp. 69-70, which emends the legend for the prominent photo of the Hermit's Rest fireplace that appeared in Tombs' article. The photo legend had indicated that Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Haig were hosts at Hermit's Rest but were in fact in charge of "Hermit's Camp" [Hermit Camp]. The Hermit's Rest hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Cooper.)

" 'I heartily approve of the Grand Cañon.'—Fred C. Kelly. So do I. Just who Mr. Kelly is I don't know, but I feel that he is a person of discernment—a person who knows a good thing when he sees it and is willing to admit it—and so we have his immortal line, 'I heartily approve of the Grand Cañon'; and so also we have mine, 'So do I.'"

"As one of our party said, 'There is something about the Grand Cañon that gets you.' Sure. It's Fred Harvey! But why not? You, at least, get one grand run for your money.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Take the trip to Hermit's Rest, for instance, 'Seven miles each way,' someone said, and you get a dandy lunch as well. All for three bucks. Why, say, one look at the big fireplace is worth the money; and the view from the front porch—well, as Mr. Kelly sagely remarks, 'I heartily approve' of it.

"On the way out we stopped at the lookouts on Maricopa, Mojave and Pima points, and possibly others; things happen with such startling suddenness around the cañon that it's hard to be certain about anything.

"As I understand it we had a sort of business session there, but my recollection of it runs to the view of the sun setting across the mighty chasm, the perfectly wonderful interior of Hermit's Rest, the very interesting account of the formation of the cañon, by T. E. Wylder, who is stationed there in charge of the work of the United States Forest Service, and Philip P. Jacobs, Ph. D., saying something about Red Cross seals.

"It is no more possible to describe Hermit's Rest than to describe the cañon, though there are people who try it every day—usually on that portion of a souvenir postcard immediately below the legend, 'This space reserved for correspondence.'"

Tombs does acknowledge that there is more than Hermit's Rest—the Bright Angel Trail ride, with the usual commentary about the mules and the trail, with the interesting explanation for what perhaps few have wondered—"plus" (as he promised in the title).

"Not far down we encountered a tunnel. At this point the trail formerly ran around a point of rock that jutted out over the edge of the chasm, and each mule would invariably walk right to the edge of the trail, sway out four or five feet and gaze pensively at the opposite walls of the cañon thirteen miles away. If this did not have the desired effect he would lean out another foot or so, or wiggle a forefoot in space, and this rarely failed to cause his rider to faint right in the saddle or at least to slide off on the shoreward side. This used to bust up the sessions—so we now have a tunnel. • • •

"The stop at the river's edge was thoroughly enjoyed, for, though no one would admit it, we were all fairly tired and very hungry. Finding a place to recline on the soft sand we each received a goodly box of El Tovar 'vittles' and forgot the adobe colored Colorado River roaring by a few feet away, and, spreading our lunches on the smooth sand-blown rocks, ate and rested for the afternoon's task. • • •

"Quite a number of abandoned mining shafts were noticed as we passed along, and at one point an old-timer approached the trail to receive the remnant of the party's lunch, which is kept for him daily by the guide. Evidently he was one of those who never 'arrived' but who stuck to the old diggin's.

"There are big trees at the higher levels, and at some seasons of the year the trail is strewn with wild flowers. In October, save for an occasional empty Fred Harvey lunch box, the decorations are furnished chiefly by sage and mesquite brush. It is wonderful how free from rubbish the whole place is, though, and the cañon authorities deserve great credit for it.

"I had intended to tell you how the Spaniards first reported the discovery of the cañon in 1540, and about the geologic formation and all that, but I am writing this on the train on my way home and we shall soon be in Albuquerque—and anyhow the Santa Fe pays people to tell you that sort of stuff in the guidebooks, and no one is paying me, so—adios."

Van Dyke, Henry

- 1194 1918 [Selections from The Grand Canyon and other poems, as lyrics.] In: Rockwell, Julia Ludlow, Peace hymn of the republic. New York: Permanent Blind Relief War Fund. [Score for voice and piano.]

Whiting, Lilian

- 1195 1918 The golden road. Boston: Little, Brown, and Company, 316 pp.
See pp. 249-251, a brief excerpt from Whiting (1906) regarding her visit to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Whitney, Orson Ferguson

1196 1918 Love and the light : an idyl of the westland. [No imprint], 128 pp. ("Copyright 1918 Joseph F. Smith, Trustee-in-Trust, Salt Lake City, Utah.")

Whitney elaborates (pp. [iii], [v]) that this idyl is "A love story, into which the religious experience of both hero and heroine is interwoven"; the heroine is a Western girl, the hero a Harvard man from New England, who meet during his trip to the West. See first Whitney's interpretive remark, p. 124, note 30: "A Great Gulf Opened (p. 38). At this point begins a description of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, in Arizona; a natural object woven, like the Petrified Forest, into the symbolism of the poem." Following is that part of this book-length poem (pp. 38-41; the end of the canyon interlude is identified by verses where the hero thinks as the train heads westward.

Chief among the sights compelling
Mingled awe and admiration,
Far along a great gulf opened,
Monster-jawed, as though devouring
In its wide voracious vastness,
In its Saturn-mouth, unsated
As the hungry deeps of Sheol,
Storm-struck, down-hurled cities, temples,
In its fell maw crushed and crumbling.

Cleft and sundered Earth there yawning
O'er abysmal dark Perdition!
Fancied so the spelled beholder,
Halting on the marge precarious
Of that ghoul-like gulf appalling.

Savage scar on face of Nature,
Weird and terrible as Hades;
Gaping wound in God's creation,
Awful, dread, beyond description,
Beggaring imagination.

Nature, stript and scourged and bleeding,
Thorn-crowned and to Calvary driven,
And her gorgeous robe imperial
Shredded as by tempest furies,
Torn to streaming flags and tatters;
Tragic coat of many colors,
Trampled, bloodstained, riven and writhing,
Twisting into forms fantastic,
As by witchery infernal,
Riding on the steeds of darkness,
Lightning-goaded, throbbing, thundering.

Was it earthquake, valley-cleaving?
Was it whirlwind, mountain-shouldering?—
Fierce upheaval and convulsion,
Or swift deluge and erosion,
Shaped these frightened crags and caverns,
Carved these shuddering precipices?

Gulf of gulfs and gorge of gorges,
Length on length of leagues extending,
Breadth of miles on miles expanding,
Down from dizzy brink to torrent,
Eight mad furlongs wildly plunging.

Mind-amazing, world-alluring,
Crowning wonder of the Westland!

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Glorious and grotesque presentment,
Good and ill, a motley vision,
Half-alluring, half repelling;
Rainbow-hued, yet shorn of radiance,
Like to Lucifer the Fallen;
Beautiful, though sadly brilliant,
Blazing with satanic splendor
In the sunset's dying glory;
All the hues of hell and heaven
In one glare of lurid blazoning,
In one master stroke commingled.

Night—then morn-burst! Angel Sunrise,
Archer from the gates of Orient,
Crimson-golden arrows speeding
Through the gloom and 'thwart the grayness,
Crowning every crest with splendor,
Flooding every glen with glory.
Angel of the Sovereign Presence,
Messenger of Light's deliverance,
Rolling back the rock sepulchral
For the glad Day's resurrection!
Prophecy of blight and blooming,
Crucifixion and ascension.

Seemed it so to him there gazing,
Brave heart, though he shook and trembled
Ere the dark had come to dawning,
From that fearful brink recoiling;
Shrinking back from more beholding
Of the symbolized immolation.

Trembled less with fear than boding
Of some occult mystic meaning,
Esoteric sad foretelling,
In the sacrificial showing.

Young, Helen Minshall

- 1197 1918 Wherever the flag goes. II. In: Womankind [COLUMN]. The Christian Advoate (New York), 93(37) (September 12): 1160.

Includes an inspirational story of a flag seen atop "Battleship Rock" (The Battleship) in Grand Canyon, planted there by a Hopi boy.

1919

Anonymous

- 1198 1919 Blown from his tree nest. Santa Fe Magazine, 13(4) (March): 25-26.

Fred Harvey employee Robert B. Frankel, injured in service in France. Includes photo of Frankel leaping over crack in Grand Canyon rim, reprinted from an earlier edition—11(2) (January, 1917): 52.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1199 1919 [Lecture given.] In: Acknowledgements [SECTION]. El Palacio (Santa Fe, New Mexico), 6(6) (March 1): 87.
"February 23.—Illustrated lecture on the Grand Canon by Supt. J. DeHuff of the U. S. Indian School." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1200 1919 Army aviators fly over Grand Canyon 1,400 feet up. In: The News of the Week [SECTION]. Aerial Age Weekly, 8(26) (March 10): 1344.
Lts. R. O. Searles and E. D. Jones.
- 1201 1919 Flight over Grand Canyon. Flying, 8(3) (April): 283.
Lts. R. O. Searles and E. D. Jones fly over Grand Canyon.
- 1202 1919 [Lt. Chase V. Rugh flight.] In: Along the Trail [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 13(5) (April): 78.
"Lieut. Chase V. Rugh of the gulf-to-the-Pacific aero squadron on February 25 performed the hazardous feat of flying inside the walls of the Grand Cañon of Arizona. The day was calm and no dangerous air currents were encountered. He did not observe any emergency landing places in the cañon, he reported." (ENTIRE ITEM)
- 1203 1919 Plane in Grand Canyon. The Golden West (Los Angeles), 1(1) (April 1): 19.
"Kingman, Feb. 25.—The first airplane flight into Grand Canyon was made this afternoon when Lieut. Chas. Rugh and Louis Lewyn, piloting a De Haviland Liberty motor army plane, explored air currents within the walls two thousand feet from the rim along a stretch north of the Hualapai Indian reservation.
"Wonderful moving pictures were secured by Lewyn. Uncharted places in the canyon were recorded by the camera." (ENTIRE ITEM)
- 1204 1919 Aviation. In: General News Department. Railway Age, 66(22) (May 30): 1336.
Includes note: "On May 27, four airplanes of the War Department completed a cross country flight of 3,300 miles from Texas to the Pacific Coast and return. These fliers, for considerable distances, made speeds of 140 miles an hour and higher. Two of the airplanes flew over the Grand Canyon. One of these flew at an altitude of 13,000 ft., while the other flew down into the Canyon, about 600 ft. below the edge." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 1205 1919 End 3,300-mile flight from Texas to Pacific. In: The News of the Week [SECTION]. Aerial Age Weekly, 9(13) (June 9): 627-628.
Includes notes of Lts. R. O. Searle and E. D. Jones flight over Grand Canyon at Diamond Creek; and Lt. Charles Rugh and Mr. Louis Lewyn, motion picture photographer, flight into canyon.
- 1206 1919 An echo of the Greeters' excursion. The Hotel Monthly (Chicago), 27 (August): 74-75.
American Greeters organization. See p. 74, "It was a pretty hot ride thru Needles, but more comfortable as the high plateau of Grand Canyon was reached. The party spent a day at El Tovar. Some took the Bright Angel trail to the river; others made excursions on the rim. Manager Chas. A. Brandt [sic, Brant] of El Tovar, whose religion is the canyon, explained the wonders of this very wonderful place."
- 1207 1919 Third window in Ohio toy series; toy animals shown in Grand Canyon scene. Dry Goods Economist (New York), 73(3918) (August 9): 81.
Photo shows window display with a backdrop painting of an unrealistic view, "The Bright Angel Creek Joins the Colorado", with two side panel texts (content not legible in photo) titled, "Bright Angel Trail" and "Across the Continent". Part of a series of the "transcontinental trip" window displays by the Rike-Kumler Co., Dayton, Ohio. The accompanying text of this item is likewise not wholly accurate to the canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1208 1919 [Gift acknowledgment.] In: Acknowledgments [SECTION]. El Palacio (Santa Fe, New Mexico), 7(3) (August 15): 53.

"By Albert L. Groll. Three color drawings of Laguna and Grand Cañon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1209 1919 College news and departmental notes. Teachers College Record (Columbia University, Teachers College), 20(5) (November): 466-.

See under "Fine Arts" (pp. 470-471), note (p. 470), "Professor Dow [on half-year sabbatical] painted in the Grand Canyon of Arizona, in the Colorado desert . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE) Arthur Wesley Dow.

- 1210 1919 King Albert's special. Santa Fe Magazine, 14(1) (December): 55-56.

Special train conducted the Belgian king and queen of on cross-country tour. See p. 56:

"W. C. Burgess, head electrician at Los Angeles, who accompanied the special to Albuquerque, states that the king and queen enjoyed the trip immensely over the Santa Fe Coast Lines, especially the Indian dances given for them at the Grand Cañon and Isleta, N. M. At the Grand Cañon brakeman L. H. Cochran, who was accidentally injured, was presented with a medal by the king, who held quite a conversation with him. At the Cañon the king also was presented by the governor of Arizona with a fine medal from the Jerome Copper Company. Indian blankets were given the king at Isleta and the Grand Cañon by the Indians and cowboys." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The medal given to brakeman Cochran was one of the many variants of the Order of Leopold II, awarded by the monarch to military and civilians to acknowledge service to Belgium.

Also see photo, p. 55, "Hopi Indians performing for Belgian rulers at the Grand Canyon"; different in that the crowd is seated at the steps of El Tovar rather than in front of Hopi House.

Cabot, Elsie Pumpelly

- 1211 1919 Arizona and other poems. New York: E. P. Dutton and Co., 110 pp.

See "Arizona Part II: Grand Canyon", free verse items enumerated XX-XXVI, pp. 23-31.

Christiansen, A. W.

- 1212 1919 "A Dragon of the Grand Canyon. Pittsburgh Salon, 1919." American Photography, 13(10) (October): 555, 615.

Description of and technical notes about the photo are under "Our Illustrations", p. 615.

David, Evan J.

- 1213 1919 Aerial Transportation [SECTION]. Flying, 8(3) (April): 262-.

See "Flight over Grand Canyon", p. 283; Lieutenants R. O. Searles and E. D. Jones. (The section title is indicated as being the inaugural appearance of a "permanent department of Flying".)

Fairbanks, Douglas

- 1214 1919 If I were bringing up your children; a straight talk about health and courage and a lot of other good things for the coming generation. Woman's Home Companion, 46(7) (July): 24, 52, 88.

See p. 24, "My Most Dangerous Stunt"; at Grand Canyon. See p. 52, photo page, "The One and Only 'Doug' Himself", including cropped photo of Fairbanks in mid-leap at Grand Canyon, with legend, "The most dangerous stunt he ever did—jumping the Grand Canyon. He says of this feat: 'Never again!'"

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Forbes, Rosita

- 1215 1919 Unconducted wanderers. London: John Lane, and New York: John Lane Co., 198 pp.

See pp. 8-9. “. . . the Grand Canyon of Arizona, which is one of the seven wonders of the modern world. It is not even situated in mountainous country—that is the most amazing part of it—in the midst of a flat plain, one suddenly comes upon this vast chasm, twenty-five miles across, and a mile deep. The forest creeps up to the edge of the gorge, but there is no trace of vegetation amidst the red granite rocks of the Canyon itself. It is as if two sportive giants had played tug-of-war with the earth, and broken it in two. In the sunset, when the mighty crags are dyed blood red, one imagines it a battlefield of the ancient gods, split in twain by Jove’s thunderbolts hurled from heaven. Then violet mists come down, the towering pinnacles are lost in strange shadows, and it is a desolate, haunted world of gorgons and dragons, issuing from enchanted caves!” (ENTIRE NOTE)

Galsworthy, John

- 1216 1919 Addresses in America : 1919. New York: Charles Scribner’s Sons, 109 pp.

See in “Address at Columbia University”, p. 60. Restates the anecdote noted under Galsworthy (1918).

- 1217 1919 Another sheaf. New York: Charles Scribner’s Sons, 336 pp.

A volume of collected writings. See “Speculations” (pp. 140-168), in which is repeated the anecdote noted under Galsworthy (1918).

Hotchkin, William R.

- 1218 1919 What is the matter with retail advertising? Advertising men and not salesmen should write the copy, says Hotchin. Printers’ Ink, 106(9) (February 27): 61-62, 64, 67-68.

See p. 68, remarking on the good qualities of the advertising by John Wanamaker: “There ought to be trained writers to take care of the detail of [writing advertising copy], and John Wanamaker sends those trained writers to factories, to warehouses, to Paris, to get the romance of the goods, and out to the Grand Canyon, to get new vitality and health, so that they can come back with new vim and vitality, so that he can get out that kind of advertising.”

Jeffers, Le Roy [Jeffers, Leroy]

- 1219 1919 Our newest national park; nature’s wonders await the tourist at the Grand Canyon. Motor Life, 14 (September): 40-41, 92, 94.

- 1220 1919 Our new national park—the Grand Canyon. Along the northern rim, the greatest and least known of America’s scenic wonders. Travel, 33(3) (July): 10-15, 41, 45.

Lorimer, George Horace

- 1221 1919 Let’s go! Let’s go! In: Van Loan, Charles E., Buck Parvin and the movies : stories of the moving picture game. New York: George H. Doran Co., pp. vii-xiii. (The Books of Charles E. Van Loan. Memorial Edition.)

This is the introduction to the volume, in which the writer reminisces about Van Loan, particularly his playful and reflective fondness for the Grand Canyon.

“Alas! even as he talked to [the tourists] Van was sizing up some rock that was balanced temptingly over the abyss, for he had a vice. He liked to roll rocks and, unless he was watched, he rolled them. Once out beyond Desert View, forty miles up the Canyon, where there was no danger of ‘beaning’ an inoffensive tourist below, he triumphantly disclosed a crowbar that he had hidden under the carriage robe, and spent a pleasant afternoon working with my two boys to dislodge a rock that was as big as a piano. They were an hour putting it over, but

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

what a noble smash it made, and how it did roll down that five thousand feet, and what a long wolf howl of triumph Van let out as it toppled over the rim! • • •

"Half the time Van was an overgrown boy playing around like a shaggy, lumbering, barking, pawing puppy. But when he was in a grown-up mood he was a man all over. This side of him came out on the long walks, when he talked in his vivid, forceful way about men and books and affairs; or on the hard all-day rides down in the Canyon, when there was so much to see that we talked little; or in the evenings on the rim and in the camp below, when night spread through the Canyon and finally covered the glowing sky above. • • •

"Van loved it; and it was his oft-expressed hope that the further development of the Canyon would never fall into the hands of anyone who did not love it, too—that it would always be safeguarded from those who would jazz it and exploit it and Coney Islandize any corner of it in the name of improvement. That would be like slapping God on the wrist."

Lummis, Charles F.

- 1222 1919 A cosmic intaglio; an appreciation of Grand Canyon National Park. In: Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. [No place]: United States Railroad Administration, pp. 3-4. (National Parks Series.) (Printed by Henry O. Shepard Co., Chicago, "Season 1919-20", "9-1-19".)

If anything can be overappreciated:

"As it was I who first raised (a third of a century ago) the slogan, 'See America First!' it now falls my privilege to extend this official invitation to the opening of the Grand Canyon, at last a National Park, guarded by Government; a heritage unto our children's children forever. I doubt not it has the very humility of its transcendent greatness, and patiently enjoys our little 'Recognition' and 'Honor.'

"The Grand Canyon Bids You! Come, all ye Peoples of the Earth, to witness God's boldest and most flaming Signature across Earth's face! Come—and penitent—ye of the United States, to marvel upon this chiefest Miracle of our own land!

"Ten thousand pens have 'described at' this Indescribable, in vain. It is alone in the world. The only Mountain Range in Captivity—a hundred miles of unearthly peaks, taller from their gnawing river than Mt. Washington above the distant sea; all countersunk in a prodigious serpentine gulf of living rock; a Cosmic Intaglio carved in the bosom of the great Arizona Plateau. Nowhere else can you look up hundreds of 7,000-foot cliffs whose tops are but three miles from a plummet to your feet. And from their Rim, look down upon such leagues of inverted and captive skies—of rainbows in solution, and snow and thunder tempests far below you; and brimming fogs that flow with the moon, and with dawn ebb and ebb—till one by one the white, voiceless tide reveals the glorified 'islands' of its countless archipelago of glowing peaks.

"It is a matchless cross-section of Earth's anatomy, to the geologist. To all, it is a Poem; History; an imperishable Inspiration. Words cannot over-tell it—nor half tell. See it, and you will know why!

"It has waited long to give you welcome and benediction and a deathless Memory. Come!"

Malm, G. N. [Malm, Gustav Nathaniel]

- 1223 1919 Härute : verklighetsbild ur svensk-amerikanarnes hvardagslif i fyra akter. Lindsborg, Kansas: Bethany Printing Co., 125 pp. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Here: a picture of reality from the everyday life of Swedish-Americans in four acts')

A Kansas-based dramatic play in prose and verse. See in Första akten, Tredje Scenen ('Act 1, Scene 3'), a tribute to America by the character Elsa Borg, (sung?) in verse (pp. 44-46), which includes the stanza (p. 45), Hela vår jord visar Skaparens allmakt.

Visa dock underverld större än vår.
Kan något under väl mätas i storprakt
Med vår Grand Canyon? Försök om det går!

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(translation)

Our whole earth shows the omnipotence of the Creator.
But expose the underworld bigger than ours.
Can anything below be measured in great splendor
With our Grand Canyon? Try if you can!

Neill, Ada P.

1224

1919 Bright Angeling on a mule; two hundred pounds and not ashamed, but she went down and came back. Outing, 75(2) (November): 75-79, 114.

"[I had] to confess to the hotel clerk that I had not been on a horse in twenty years. So out came my age, gray-headed and with two chins, yelling for help. . . . the hotel clerk's advice—not to take the Bright Angel Trail to the River" was ignored. "I was going down that Bright Angel Trail clean to the Colorado River, though I weighed a thousand pounds and had to go on all fours.

"So I rented a divided skirt, which reached round me with the aid of a string and two safety pins; also a pair of leggings, which laced together within three inches. These, with my white shirt waist [sic] and my Panama hat worn well over my eyes, should have given me a real sylphlike appearance. •••

"On one side of the corral stood a dozen big fat sleek, sleepy-looking mules all saddled and bridled. Within the corral were six men-tourists, two women-tourists, two roustabouts, and one guide. Each eyes me amusingly as I entered the corral, and I knew what each was thinking. But I did not care. I was going down that Trail and with me every ounce of my two hundred pounds!

"The guide—a snappish, face-scarred ex-cowboy—looked me over sharply and asked me my weight. I answered him truthfully, lacking twenty pounds; and I knew my lie would not go to Heaven, because of my being thus placed.

"'Bring out the biggest mule!' he shouted to one of the routsabouts. No one on earth so tactless as guides."

The following few pages detail lots of readying, weighty comments, and, the procession underway, some obligatory remarks on canyon colors and forms; then to the all-knowing ways of mules, with the embellishment, "Farther down the trail, however, my mule, being extra long, had to use two twists of his back to every turn." A trail rest results in an ungraceful dismount. "In vain I pleaded to be allowed to walk the rest of the way . . . . A second later I wondered how I ever dared mention such a thing as walking. My enemies should have seen me obediently mounting."

[At the half-way house, Indian Garden] "A long time I stood, with clasped hands, to view this much bragged-of canyon, and I straightway realized that the bragging had been only half done. I was in a little world full of cliffs thousands of feet high. You, who enjoy cliff-verging, here is the place. You could go verging on a different cliff every day in the year; to say nothing of the vast unknown verging you might do."

Nearing the river, "our guide surprised us by dismounting on an apparently good and safe path. ••• Pompously he motioned to us to walk round a bend. There was the River—dirty and yellow and crazy to boot. For it I had mule-clung head first seven miles and sunk six thousand feet low.

"Nevertheless it was worth the trip, if for nothing else than to see its waters come pellmell out of a mountain upstream and shoot pellmell into another downstream. Every foot of its surface is having a little fight of its own, whirling and pitching and racing. Well it ought to show some pep, after my wonderful display of nerve in getting down to see it.

"Like Indians in a row, waiting the pipe of peace, we seated ourselves. The guide handed each a lunch box. There, on a sandy rift, we ate, confronted with nearly perpendicular walls many hundred feet high.

"Frankly, there was no pleasure in eating my lunch, though bountiful and put up in wax paper, and dear knows when I again shall eat six thousand feet deep on the shores of the Colorado. But I felt the shadow of getting back hanging over me; my seat was a boulder without a back, and then there was no telling when might close this earthly gap with me in it.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

“••• I had had the novelty of traveling a path that would never know but the pad of mules and humans. No commonplace automobile will ever hum and honk round these curves. New roads may come and go, but this native footpath will remain the same forever. Besides, I had had all the quivers of adventure a crooked road could possible [sic] give a tourist. And, as from the smallest acts sometimes comes the keenest joy, so from throwing my lunch box into the River came the greatest pleasure of all: Lucky box! It could get out of here without riding a mule . . . .”

Raymond, Rossiter Worthington

- 1225 1919 The Grand Canon (1889). In: Boalich, E. S., An appreciation of Rossiter W. Raymond. Engineering and Mining Journal, 107(8) (February 22): 362.

Raymond's poem reprints Raymond (1906/1913) with variation of punctuation. (Boalich, pp. 362-363.) The 1889 date is not explained.

Ross, H. D., Jr.

- 1226 1919 A city park on shop roofs; the result of the efforts of the residents of Warren District in the Mule Mountains of Arizona. The House Beautiful, 45(3) (March): 131, 170.

See remark on p. 131, which is not directly a reflection of a personal visit to Grand Canyon, but cited here for its astonishing perception of an encounter: "Where she [Nature] throws open the breast of the earth to gouge the Grand Canyon she denies man the spacious lawn and the tastily arranged yard." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Willsie, Honoré

- 1227 1919 Desire. In: With the Editor [SECTION]. The Delineator, 95(6) (December): [1].

Regarding silence, and a Wall Street man's desire to visit Grand Canyon again; recounted while riding the New York subway.

"It was a day or so before Christmas. We were in the subway crush in New York City, fighting to get home to supper with the rest of the four million. A well-groomed, tired-looking man who got on with a friend at Wall Street clung to the strap next to ours.

"'Once,' he said across us to the friend, jammed on the other side, 'I spent Christmas at the Grand Cañon. For days the memory of it's been haunting me. With all the unrest and worry of these after-war days, I tell myself nothing would seem so near heaven as to lock my office door and go out there for Christmas. I know exactly how it would look. The big gash, with the snow sifting into it, white drifting down on blue depths. The sun would slip clear just before setting. For a moment you'd see the black ribbon of river a mile below and the cañon walls, every color of the rainbow and the snow drifting and shimmering like wavering mist. Nothing can give you the idea of eternity that the Grand Cañon does. And the peace and the silence! Lord, Lord, the silence! I wish I could spend Christmas there. I believe I'd get back some of the religion I've lost here. Lord, the quiet of it!'

"Then he stopped speaking with a sigh as though the hideous uproar of the subway discouraged him." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Willy, John

- 1228 1919 A journey to North Rim of Grand Canyon. The editor rides for a thousand miles in George Relf's car thru desert, oases and forest and sees many strange sights. Travel adventures away from railroad, telegraph and modern conveniences. A wayfaring that brings few disappointments and many delightful surprises. Opening a book of new pictures to delight those who travel with the glad eye. Pioneering the coming scenic resort of the world—a combination of mountain, valley, desert, forest and canyon; of the cultivated and the wild; of the new and the old—the climax capped with a penetration of the greatest and most beautiful of natural forests, and the greatest and most

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

wonderful of chasms. The Hotel Monthly (Chicago), 27(319) (October): 45-64. [Author credit given only as "the Editor".]

Retells in detail the events of a trip in an 8-cylinder Hollier automobile, leaving Salt Lake City on September 3 [1919], to the Grand Canyon and return. Sections of the Grand Canyon portion are transcribed here; those that relate to descriptions and perspectives.

"Sunset from Bright Angel Point, North Rim

"We arrived at the Wiley Bright Angel Camp on the North Rim of Grand Canyon at 6 P. M., and before registering started on the half mile trail to Bright Angel Point to see the sunset under fairly favorable conditions. It is a marvelous view from Bright Angel Point, well worth the long journey to see, and our eyes drank in the vastness, the grandeur, the colors indescribable.

"See lights of El Tovar

"We, the three men of our party, were the only guests at the Wiley Camp. After a hearty supper Mr. McKee took us for a moonlight walk along the rim around the end of a formation called the Transcept [sic] to see a cliff dwelling which he had recently discovered. On the way thru the forest we stampeded a herd of twelve deer. Across the chasm, twelve miles distant, we could see the lights of El Tovar Hotel; but there was a great gulf between us and this hotel, and no bridge over the river for 500 miles.

"The next day when we looked across the chasm toward El Tovar we saw the Indian garden, a bright patch of green about halfway down from the hotel, and which we recalled as an oasis when, some years ago, we tramped down the South Rim's Bright Angel Trail to the river.

"Grand Canyon view contrasted as between south and north rims

"From Bright Angel Point we could trace the line of the Bright Angel Trail from the north rim [Old Bright Angel Trail in upper Bright Angel Canyon] nearly to the river [along the route of today's North Kaibab Trail along Bright Angel Creek]; along its east side a stretch of imaginary giant houses with green slanting roofs and red copings; and back of them a castle wall; and back of it the great Pan-Pagan court. Across the chasm from Bright Angel Point we could see the south rim wall extending for scores of miles, the wall likened unto a ribbon a mile wide, many miles long, and of fantastic weave that carried its colors lengthwise; the different strata showing long lines of color extending from end to end of the wall. It is this perpendicular wall that makes the greatest change in the view as between the south and north rims.

"The Wiley Camp at Bright Angel Point

"Wiley Camp at Bright Angel Point is managed by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. McKee. Mr. McKee, a lawyer of Los Angeles, and his wife, a daughter of Wm. W. Wiley of Yellowstone Park and Little Zion fame. The camp is a central tent for dining room and kitchen, and other tents grouped around it; the accommodations for twenty people. The rate is $4.50 a day; lodging $1.50 [sic], meals $1.00. The tents are curtained, floored, have wood wall to a height of three feet, canvas upper wall, have bowl and pitcher, table, chairs, metal beds, and plenty of warm bed clothes. Each tent is curtain partitioned for two bed rooms and a sitting room. Meals are served family style by waitress, the food good and plenty. The largest number of people in camp at any one time this season was 18. There were no guests when we arrived and no expectancy of many more, altho Mr. and Mrs. McKee would be there to entertain any who might come until October 1. • • •

"The Pan-Pagan Court

"We sat for an hour one afternoon on the rock that holds the bench mark (8,153 feet), on Bright Angel Point, looking toward the east, and saw the outline of the rim of the great amphitheatre, fifty miles in circumference, that encircles the many rock formation temples that have been named for pagan gods; the amphitheatre broken to the west by the gateway sentineled with Shoshone Point on the south rim, and Cape Royal on the north rim; the gateway centered with the most conspicuous and beautiful of all the formations, its graceful outline having won for it the name Angels Gate. This Pan-Pagan court, its colorful walls a mile high, fences within its inclosure at least a dozen temples, each temple a mountain rising from three-quarters of a mile to a mile in height, and giving expression to the most marvelous architecture this world can show; houses not made with hands, but whose building and fashioning have been in progress for many millions of years; whose colorings are superb; and when the setting sun brings out the full glory of the colors, and the shadows leap from

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

peak to peak, and the mists rise and soften the hues, and the colors mix and mingle and change, it is a veritable revelry of color, an intoxication of it, that stirs the human soul even more than sweetest music, for the warm air in the Granite Gorge, imprisoned during the day, rushes upward at eventide, and as it sways the trees, plays around the jagged rocks, and meets counter currents of air, there is heard Nature's orchestra. The wind sounds are supplemented with the calls of birds, and the combination is a celestial harmony of color and music. To experience this harmony in the exquisite fulness [sic] of it, one must see this canyon at its best, as the writer has seen it.

"The Pan-Pagan Court is sentineled with a dozen or more points from which superb views can be obtained; the most prominent, Shoshone Point on the south rim, and other points around the circle in this order: Grand View, Moran, Zuni, Tapago [sic], Pinal, Lipan, Navajo, Comanche, Cape Solitude, Cape Final and Cape Royal." [In the printed text, this last paragraph has been misplaced to follow the brief section on "Mr. Brant's religion".]

"Mr. Brant's religion

"Some years ago we saw the canyon at sunset from Hopi Point on the south rim, and ever since that time this Grand Canyon of the Colorado River has been a magnet. It has drawn us to the rim with its magic for the third time; and it will continue to draw as long as we shall live. Mr. [Charles] Brant, who manages the El Tovar on the south rim, said to the writer, some years ago, that the Grand Canyon is his religion, and that he expects to end his days in this sublime wonderland." [He did in fact; he, his wife, Olga, and their faithful dog, "Razzle Dazzle" were in their due times buried in a secluded spot overlooking—more probably continuing to oversee—El Tovar.] • • •

"The Bright Angel Trail excursion

"The first day's journey of [sic] the [Old] Bright Angel Trail is to Ribbon Falls, about half way down, and the steepest part of the journey. Here camp is made and the excursionists sleep on the sand. The next day the journey is down to the river, lunch on the river bank, and back to Ribbon Falls. The third day is taken up with the climb from Ribbon Falls to the rim. During the 45-mile journey, down and up, the Bright Angel Creek has to be forded about 75 times, and sometimes the horses are knee deep in the water for a hundred yards at a stretch. Down near the river the canyon walls are close together and almost perpendicular for about 2,000 feet. The Wiley Camp bill is suspended, upon arrangement, during the period of the excursion.

"Point Sublime and Cape Royal

"Point Sublime is 24 miles west of Bright Angel Point, and Cape Royal (Greenland), 27 miles southeast, while Harris Point is only eleven miles." • • •

"Vacation notes

"The wire cable that is stretched across the Colorado River at the foot of the Bright Angel Trail is not safe to cross, we were told. We met a young fellow in Kanab, however, who had just come across on it. He said that he had sat in a swing under the cable, tied his satchel under the swing, and pulled himself across; that the satchel swayed and made it awkward. However, he came up over safely and brought his bag up Bright Angel Trail to 'Uncle Jim' Owen's [sic, Owens'] ranch, crossing Bright Angel Creek over fifty times, often over knee deep in water."

York, George W.

1229 1919 [Communication.] In: Bees, Men and Things (You may find it here) [SECTION]. Gleanings in Bee Culture, (September): 606.

Notes having called on "Dr. Miller", now 88 years of age, and reminiscing about a convention in Los Angeles (in 1903): "You will remember that was the time when 'A. I.' and four others of our party walked down and up the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, and nearly collapsed in the effort. But Dr. Miller was wise as usual, and staid [sic] at the hotel 'with the rest of the women!'" (ENTIRE NOTE) Regarding that visit to Grand Canyon, see Root (1903).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1920

Anonymous

- 1230 1920 Arizona, Salt River project. In: Current Comments [SECTION]. Reclamation Record, 11(4) (April): 156.

Members of Cleveland Chamber of Commerce visit to Chandler, Arizona. "One of the Buckeye folks, holding aloft a fat sandwich in one hand a big slice of pie in another, remarked: 'We came from the Grand Canyon, and left there with the opinion that we had witnessed the most wonderful sight of our trip. We have just left the Roosevelt Dam and must say that we are compelled to change our minds, as the big reservoir is the most wonderful thing we have seen.'"

- 1231 1920 A vacation in southern Arizona. (By a traveler.) Hide and Leather (Chicago), 59(16) (April 17): 31, 33.

En route to Phoenix by train, "we reached the Grand Canyon and had breakfast at 'El Tovar,' the comfortable hotel on the rim of the canyon. I have not space to even attempt a description of this most magnificent spectacle. Better read up on it, before you go there. People spend days, or weeks, at the Canyon. They go on mules or burros to the bottom of it. They take horses or autos to points that give different views of the majestic scenes. We had to leave in the evening . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1232 1920 Tribute to Sandzen. El Palacio (Santa Fe, New Mexico), 8(7/8) (July): 225-226.

Scandinavian artist Birger Sandzen. Notes, in passing, of past work having included ". . . the solemn mystery of the Grand Cañon . . ." (p. 225).

- 1233 1920 Adolf Tandler in the Grand Canyon. Musical Courier, 81(5) (2103) (July 29): 33.

Photograph of Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra conductor, with legend. Locale uncertain; no canyon view.

- 1234 1920 Georgette La Motte. Musical Courier, 81(12) (2110) (September 16): 21.

Photographs with legend. One photograph depicts "young Chicago pianist" La Motte at Grand Canyon.

- 1235 1920 [Massachusetts and Rhode Island delegates' trip to the recent national convention.] In: New England Notes [SECTION]. National Laundry Journal (Chicago), 84(11) (December 1): 72.

"One of the most successful and interesting days was the one spent at the Grand Canyon, when the greater share took the beautiful rim drive around the top of the picturesque canyon. Messrs. George W. Hooper, Lucien Pierce and a couple of attractive but fearless New York girls secured four good, sturdy donkeys and wended their way down the Angel Trail [sic]." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Albright Art Gallery

- 1236 1920 First national exhibition of pictorial photography under direction of the Buffalo Camera Club. February 24 to March 30. Buffalo, New York: Albright Art Gallery, [unpaginated + advertisements].

See nos. 24, "Cedars Sedate", and 25 "A Dragoon of the Grand Canyon", by C. W. Christiansen [C. W. Christiansen]; and no. 41, "Storm, Grand Canyon", by Forman Hanna. Listings by title only; not illustrated.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Alden, John Carver

- 1237 1920 Chuckles : this idiocy by John Carver Alden : illustrations by B. C. Hilliam. Boston: Marshall Jones Co., 85 [87] pp.

See p. 62, "In the Grand Canyon; an alleged rondeau" (no accompanying illustration).

Standing near that awful chasm,
Little Ellen had a spasm.
Little Ellen often has 'em.

When Little Ellen had this spasm,
She stood a bit too near the chasm.
Now Little Ellen never has 'em.

Allison, Frances

- 1238 NO DATE Adventures in the arid zone. [No imprint], 131 pp. [Preface dated October 1920; page 131 dated September 1920.]

The entire preface (p. [iii]) reads, "The [written] sketches by Frances Allison contained in this book and the verses by Katharine Allison MacLean, contained in a companion volume, have been collected by their father, William O. Allison, in order to preserve work of his daughters which has given him much pleasure. October, 1920".

See "Cowboy Lore" (pp. 25-40), which begins:

"I met by chance an acquaintance of mine at the El Tovar, Fred Harvey's famous hostelry on the rim of the Grand Canyon. She was a woman of the world, who looked upon my migration to the West as an amusing whim.

"I took her to the Hopi House to see the Indians dance to the music of their own wild singing, and beating of drums. Of course she knows her operas and other good standard music, but has no appreciation whatever of the music of brooks, and trees, and rain, or of the midget orchestras of the fields; therefore she found the Indians merely 'very amusing,' and having handed them some money in much the same way that we 'cross the poor old Gypsy's hand with silver,' walked out."

The next several pages recount amusing encounters with cowboys at Grand Canyon, who played up to the proper woman from the East after she said to her friend (the author), "O! what a pity the cowboy is a thing of the past!"

Anderson, Anna Morgan

- 1239 1920 To the Grand Cañon. Santa Fe Magazine, 14(9) (August): 29.

This such grandeur, such perfect desolation!
A home where spirits so wild and free
May find for each such depth of consolation,
For with marks of time he writes the signs of eternity.
'Twas a master who knows the colors and their combination
Arranged this scheme of beauteous decoration,
The crags and boulders, the deep recess
Were ne'er placed like these by careless guess.

And thy shadows, thy vales, so dark, and pathless
Shall hold their secrets while ages roll,
Till he shall give the word to free from darkness
And shall bring to light from death-like night every human soul,
So they echoes shall praise in tones of arden admiration
The One who gave this glorious grand creation,
Thy lights, the shadows, each change of scene,
Were planned by the God who reigns supreme.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bass, William Wallace

- 1240 1920 Adventures in the canyons of the Colorado by two of its earliest explorers, James White and W. W. Hawkins, with introduction and notes by William Wallace Bass, the Grand Canyon guide. (Foreword by George Wharton James.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: The authors, 38 pp. [Cover title: Adventures in the Canyons of the Colorado. William Wallace Bass.]

Bass, pp. 8-14, 30-31, 34-38; Hawkins, pp. 15-29 (including facsimiles of original journal pages); White, pp. 32-34 (including facsimile of original letter); James, pp. 5-7.

- 1241 NO DATE Poems. [No imprint], 8 pp. [Ca. 1920.]

Five poems on the Grand Canyon and Colorado River, in whole or in part. 4 × 7½ inches. Five Quail Books—West Catalogue Eleven (p. 5) states, "This edition is very similar to the circa 1916 edition."

Bellinger, Elizabeth D. R.

- 1242 1920 Biographical sketch. In: Rickard, T. A. (ed.), Rossiter Worthington Raymond : a memorial : published by The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. New York: Office of the Secretary, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, pp. 18-30.

"In the summer of 1899, in connection with a Colorado meeting of the Institute [American Institute of Mining Engineers], Dr. Raymond, with a party of some twenty friends and guests, made an extended trip through the West in a private [rail] car. It was on that trip that he had his first glimpse of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado; it was to him an overwhelming spiritual experience. He had seen many splendors in both old countries and new, but I think none enriched his treasury as did this unearthly vision; and that is why I cannot pass it by, even in this slender narrative." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Bispham, David

- 1243 1920 A Quaker singer's recollections. New York: The Macmillan Co., 401 pp.

See p. 356: "While on the way to the Pacific Coast I stopped to wonder at the Grand Cañon of the Colorado River. Consumed with curiosity to adventure to the bottom of this mile-deep gash upon the fair face of the world, I started on horseback down the narrow trail with a companion and three guides. I am no horseman, for my legs are not long enough to go around the belly of any well-proportioned nag so as to enable me to stick on his back. As we proceeded my mount evinced a desire to gather tufts of grass which grew where flies would scarcely dare to crawl under the edge of a precipice 2000 feet in height. My heart sank into my boots and, as I shouted to my guides the order to return, my horse in putting about upon the narrow path kicked a hundred weight of stone into the abyss. I dismounted, thankful not to be following it to the premature end of my tour." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Bridge, Norman

- 1244 1920 The marching years. New York: Duffield and Co., 292 pp.

See pp. 155-156, a reminiscence of 1892:

"In August, '92, Dr. Walter Haines was coming from Chicago to see us and to have a little vacation himself. It was arranged that I, with General Henry C. Corbin, the Adjutant General of the Western Department of the Army, stationed at Los Angeles, should meet him at Flagstaff, Arizona, and all go to the Grand Cañon of the Colorado. We met there on August 20, and the next day rode in a wagon seventy miles to the rim, arriving in the evening. We slept in a tent, and next day made such an inspection of the wonders as we could by 11 o'clock, when we were obliged to start back. We walked down a trail for half a mile, and made no attempt to go farther. Corbin characterized the sight as terribly—not beautifully—awful; and we agreed with him." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bridgman, Helen Bartlett

1245 1920 Within my horizon. Boston: Small, Maynard and Co., 262 pp.

See pp. 205-207 for an enthusiastic description of a stay at Grand Canyon, which includes an even more overly floral quote from Flora Field of the New Orleans Times Picayune:

"The Grand Canyon of the Colorado proved so extraordinary, as indeed did the whole experience, that when I came home I sent my friend, Flora Field, then of the New Orleans Times Picayune, now a story writer of growing repute, whose piercing wails for a snatch of this beauty could be heard country-wide, over much the same ground, catching the Fair the week before it died, and here is her fine picture of the Canyon, that eighth wonder of the world:

'It is the beauty of life and the soul of death. It is the silence of aeons into which you look—it is Silence's self, delicate as a flower, vast as death. Out of a thousand square miles under your gaze, from the soft splash of sapphire chasms rises a world of crumpled rose and gold and violet in which no thought dreams; an inferno it has been called yet spectral as a vision. Like a lost bird your imagination flutters over the immensity—attempts to soar along such wonder for 200 miles, then sinks beaten into the changeless change. Miles away the thread of the Colorado shows amber with its churn of rocks and earth. So the work of erosion goes on. An infinite solitude is upon you—always back you are drawn to look over that edge into the shifting beauty of life that lives yet does not breathe. ... [ellipsis thus] Evening comes, the sapphire shadows slip into deeper clefts; the rose dies, becomes ashes of rose; light fades first on this age, then on that—and it is the dusk of the gods.'

"Two full days of this, from sunrise to sunset, leaves one not quite the same. It is a novel, a profound experience, this intimacy with a world in the making. Simply to gaze from El Tovar to the opposite rim, so few and yet so many miles away, evokes dream; for there lies Asia, and a bit of Africa, in lofty mosques, temples and pyramids, with multitudes at prayer—no less true because eyes cannot see the swaying, praying sea of heads within structures which even Thomas could not doubt: the work, century upon century, of wind and water, the slow siege of water, the furious onslaught of wind, until the very rocks gave way, the continent was rent and the passionate flood at last found calm in union with the sea." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Bryant, William

1246 1920 From Los Angeles. Herald and Presbyter (Cincinnati), 91(2) (January 14): 9.

[News from Los Angeles.] Bryant includes remarks on a visit to Grand Canyon.

"We stopped for a few days at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Perhaps some able writers have tried to describe this world wonder, but most certainly they must all have failed. Our first glimpse was at sunset, on a perfect afternoon. • • •

"Strange to say, too, the vastness grows upon you day after day. • • •

"We kept repeating silently the Forty-sixth Psalm, as we wondered how 'the earth was removed and the mountains swept down to the depths of the sea.' • • •

"All we could think of was: 'He uttered his voice, the earth melted.' [Psalm 46:6]. Then we sat down for a while and thought: 'The God of Hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge.' [Psalm 46:7].

"We have not tried to describe the Grand Canyon. It would be too daring an experiment; but we do wish that all of your readers could visit there."

Burroughs, John

1247 1920 Accepting the universe : essays in naturalism. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), 328 pp.

See p. 208: "Darwinians profess to see in natural selection—which is simply a name for an eliminating or sifting process—the explanation of even man himself. But the elimination of the weaker forms, which has gone on for

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

whole geologic ages—for example, in the Grand Cañon of the Colorado—has not resulted in so much as one perfect, four-square foundation, or one perfect flying arch.”

[Cooper, E. F.]

1248 1920 Front cover. The Diston Crucible, 9(9) (October): cover, 134.

Cover in color; a view upstream of the Colorado River at Bright Angel Creek delta. The man in the view is “our own” E. F. Cooper (who apparently submitted the photo). (The Diston Crucible is “A Magazine For the Millman”.)

Doyle, William L.

1249 1920 San Francisco. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 14(12) (November): 76, 78, 80, 82.

See p. 82: “Misses Nellie Rowan and Anna Creeley, telephone operators, have just returned from their vacation. They toured the South and also the Grand Cañon. Anna, with that lovable and most congenial disposition that she is the proud owner of, was one big scream riding down the Bright Angel Trail. Poor little mule wanted to rest and hid himself to the edge of the cliff, not only to admire the scenery, but to also lean over and chew some shrubbery that grew just over the precipice. Poor Ann sounded her Angel Gabriel horn of a shriek at his daring move, and so surprised the poor little mule that he sat down, and Ann then slid off backwards. The result was that Ann ate the balance of her meals at the Harvey House standing up.”

Du Bois, W. E. Burghardt [Du Bois, William Edward Burghardt]

1250 1920 Darkwater : voices from within the veil. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Howe, 276 pp.

Volume is by an eminent African-American scholar. See pp. 237-240, describing his impressions of a visit to Grand Canyon, which repeats—and elaborates upon—Du Bois (1913):

“Once upon a time I took a great journey in this land to three of the ends of our world and over seven thousand mighty miles. • • •

“ . . . in all this journey I saw but one thing that lived and will live eternal in my soul,—the Grand Cañon. It is a sudden void in the bosom of earth, down to its entrails—a wound where the dull titanic knife has turned and twisted in the hole, leaving its edges livid, scarred, jagged, and pulsing over the white, and red, and purple of its mighty flesh, while down below—down, down below, in black and severed vein, boils the dull and sullen flood of the Colorado.

“It is awful. There can be nothing like it. It is the earth and sky gone stark and raving mad. The mountains up-twirled, disbodied and inverted, stand on their peaks and throw their bowels to the sky. Their earth is air; their ether blood-red rock engreened. You stand upon their roots and fall into their pinnacles, a mighty mile.

“Behold this mauve and purple mocking of time and space! See yonder peak! No human foot has trod it. Into that blue shadow only the eye of God has looked. Listen to the accents of that gorge which mutters: ‘Before Abraham was, I am.’ [John 8:58] Is yonder wall a hedge of black or is it the rampart between heaven and hell? I see greens,—is it moss or giant pines? I see specks that may be boulders. Ever the winds sigh and drop into those sun-swept silences. Ever the gorge lies motionless, unmoved, until I fear. It is a grim thing, unholy, terrible! It is human— some mighty drama unseen, unheard, is playing there its tragedies or mocking comedy, and the laugh of endless years is shrieking onward from peak to peak, unheard, unechoed, and unknown.

“One throws a rock into the abyss. It gives back no sound. It falls on silence—the voice of its thunders cannot reach so far. It is not—it cannot be a mere, inert, unfeeling, brute fact—its grandeur is too serene—its beauty too divine! It is not red, and blue, and green, but, ah! the shadows and the shades of all the world, glad colorings touched with a hesitant spiritual delicacy. What does it mean—what does it mean? Tell me, black and boiling water!

“It is not real. It is but shadows. The shading of eternity. Last night yonder tessellated palace was gloom—dark, brooding thought and sin, while hither rose the mountains of the sun, golden, blazing, en sanguined. It

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

was a dream. This blue and brilliant morning shows all those burning peaks alight, while here, shapeless, mistful, brood the shadowed towers.

"I have been down into the entrails of earth—down, down by straight and staring cliffs—down by sounding waters and sun-strewn meadows; down by green pastures and still waters, by great, steep chasms down by the gnarled and twisted fists of God to the deep, sad moan of the yellow river that did this thing of wonder,—a little winding river with death in its depth and a crown of glory in its flying hair.

"I have seen what eye of man was never meant to see. I have profaned the sanctuary. I have looked upon the dread disrobing of the Night, and yet I live. Ere I hid my head she was standing in her cavern halls, glowing coldly westward—her feet were blackness: her robes, empurpled, flowed mistily from shoulder down in formless folds of folds; her head, pine-crowned, was set with jeweled stars. I turned away and dreamed—the cañon,—the awful, its depths called; its heights shuddered. Then suddenly I arose and looked. Her robes were falling. At dim-dawn they hung purplish-green and black. Slowly she stripped them from her gaunt and shapely limbs—her cold, gray garments shot with shadows stood revealed. Down dropped the black-blue robes, gray pearly, and slipped, leaving a filmy, silken, misty thing, and underneath I glimpsed her limbs of utter light."

Faris, John T.

1251 1920 Seeing the Far West. Philadelphia and London: J. B. Lippincott Co., 304 pp., 2 maps.

See "God's Autograph in Stone", pp. 105-110.

"Many times the writer has thought he would try to tell what he saw when first he stood on the brink of the great chasm cut in the Arizona Plateau by the waters of the Colorado, but at each attempt his hand has been stayed."

The author runs the gamut of "imagine this" and "it matters little" about viewpoints, impressions, and everything, without once inserting his own (except implied) impressions. He asked his guide, unnamed, who had been born and raised at the canyon, "'What does the canyon say to you?' He hesitated. Then, in a subdued tone he replied, 'It tells me of God.'"

G., C. R.

1252 1920 C. R. G. writes: In: The Experience Exchange [SECTION]. The Editor (Highland Falls, New York), 53(3) (First August Number) (433): xi.

". . . I have a job . . . that permits me to sit and read eight hours a day—Sunday too. I am official lookout in a fire control tower for the National Park Service, Grand Canyon National Park." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Goemaere, Pierre

1253 1920 A travers l'Amérique avec le Roi des Belges. Bruxelles: J. Goemaere, Imprimeur du Roi, Éditeur, 167 pp. [In French.] [Also with the imprint Goemaere, Éditeur, Imprimeur du Roi (Bruxelles) and Plon-Nourrit et C<sup>ie</sup>, Libraires-Éditeurs (Paris) (1920). Also with imprint Librairie Plon, Plon-Nourrit et C<sup>ie</sup>, Imprimeurs-Éditeurs (Paris, 1920) with title-page stamped beneath imprint, "Imprimé en Belgique".]

(transl. 'Across America with the King of the Belgians')

Includes the king's visit to Grand Canyon. See also English translation (Goemaere, 1921).

Graves, John Temple

1254 1920 The world's sublimest spectacle. In: Johnson, Gertrude E., Modern literature for oral interpretation : practice book for vocal expression. New York: The Century Co., pp. 128-129.

Reprint of Graves (1915).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grunsky, Carl E.

- 1255 1920 Report of the President of the Academy for the year 1919. California Academy of Sciences, Proceedings, Series 4, 9(14/15) (August 4): 357-388.

See listing of Sunday afternoon lectures; specifically, p. 360: "February 9. Trees and Shrubs of the Grand Cañon. Miss Alice Eastwood, Curator, Department of Botany, California Academy of Sciences." (ENTIRE NOTE)

H., T. v.

- 1256 1920 Im Gran Cañon del Rio Colorado. D.A.V. Mitteilungen (Organ des Deutschen Ausflug-Vereins zu Valparaiso, Zeitschrift für Naturfreunde und Wanderer) (Deutscher Ausflug-Verein, Valparaiso, Chile), 1(6) (May/June): 13-18. [Item title given on cover as "Im Gran Cañon del Rio Colorado (Arizona U.S.A.)".] [In German.]
(transl. 'In the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River')

A travelogue written for the German Touring Club of Valparaiso, Chile. Hailing from that country, von H.'s various comparisons are to places there, rather than to the Eurocentric geographies of most other writers. [In proofing this item, the copy was no longer available to me, thus there are a few errors in transcription and some attendant problems in translation. —E.E.S.]

We join the narrator en route across Arizona.

"Weiter geht es nun auf der rund 2000 Meter über dem Meere liegenden Hochfläche nach Norden, dem vorläufigen Ziel unserer Fahrt entgegen. Immer noch sind fast alle Namen spanisch, vornehmlich die von Bergen, Flüssen und Seen, ist doch alles Land hier herum von Spaniern zuerst erforscht und besiedelt. Aber die spanische Sprache selbst ist fast völlig verschwunden, nur selten hört man auf der Fahrt ein spanisches Wort. Dre Stunden geht es fort auf der Nebenbahn, immer in gleicher Höhe, immer über Fläche und durch lichten Hochwald.

"Nun mit einem Male verändert sich das Bild. Mit dem Eintreffen auf der Endstation treten wir aus dem Walde heraus und es liegt ein Panorama vor unseren Augen, wie es auf Erden nirgend wiederkehrt. Hier ist die Rinde der Erde zerrissen, aufgebrochen, bis in Tiefen, die sonst kein Bergwerk keine Tiefbohrung erreicht. Der Riss, welcher den Namen Gran Cañon del Rio Colorado führt, ist 400 Kilometer lang, und seine Breite schwankt zwischen 20 und 40 Kilometern, seine Tiefe je nach der Höhe der Ränder zwischen 1500 und 2000 Metern. Um einen ungefähren Vergleich mit Höhen und Entfernungen zu ermöglichen, die in Valparaiso allgemein bekannt sein dürften, nehmen wir an, der Südrand dieser ins Ungeheure vergrößerte Quebrada liege etwa am Alto del Puerto, dann liegt der Nordrand etwa in der Entfernung der Dünen Concon beide Ränder aber in dreifacher Höhe des Alto del Puerto, die Talsohle auf dem Meeresspiegel. Nach rechts und links verliert sich der Blick in weinlicher Ferne. Es wird wohl kaum einen Menschen geben, der nicht überwältigt stünde vor diesen riesenhaften Ausmessungen und vor dem Gesamteindruck des gewaltigen Bildes.

"Hart an den Rand treten wir heran und versuchen, unter uns zu sehen, tief es wohl hinabgehen mag. Umsonst. Ein Verweilen über der schauerlichen Tiefe für länger als einen Augenblick wird auch für den Schwindelfreiesten zur Unmöglichkeit: 400 bis 600 Meter geht es senkrecht in erster Stufe hinab. Ein Blick nach den Seiten und nach dem Nordrande gegenüber zeigt, dass fast überall, wie unter uns, eine riesige Mauer von weissem Sandstein über dem tieferen Gestein steht. Dann beginnt von beiden Seiten nach der Mitte der Schlucht zu, ein Gewirre von abenteuerlich geformten Felsen und Bergen, Flächen und Türmen, in sich wieder zerrissen zerspalten, zerbröckelt. Man sehe von diesen Ueberbleibseln älterer, tieferer Gesteinsschichten tragen noch sein Bett. Er ist wohl nirgend mehr als ungefähr 100 Meter breit und der Riss, in dem er seine roten Wasser in Sprüngen und Stromschnellen, die nur hin und wieder von einer ruhigeren Stelle unterbrochen werden, dem Meere zuführt, ist vielfach so eng, dass die Sonne, selbst bei höchstem Stande, den Strom nicht erreicht. Bis zu 500 Metern Höhe recken sich die steilen, vielfach überhängenden Wände der Mittelschlucht, die hin und wieder von seitlichen Quebraden von nicht geringerer lichterem Grün unterbrochen oder wie mit zarten Schleiern überdeckt, Rot überdeckt, Rot in allen Tönen, karmin und violett wechseln in den Tiefen, Dunkelblau, Braun und Schwarz, Grün

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

und Gelb sind überall eingesprengt und der nahezu immer gleiche durchsichtig blaue Himmel mit weissen Wolken wölbt sich über dieser Stätte des Schweigens.

„Tausendfach sind die Empfindungen, wenn der Mensch dieses Weltwunder auf sich wirken lässt. Es greift an Auge und Ohr zugleich. Und wenn das Auge erzittert vor der ungeheuren Grösse und sich doch nicht satt sehen kann an der Pracht der Farben, die rundum leuchten und doch nirgendwo schreiend wirken, so findet sich das Ohr hier zum ersten Male vor einer neuen, ganz unbekanntem Erscheinung, vor dem absoluten Nichts. Kein Laut dringt aus der grauenhaften Tiefe herauf, kein Laut ist auf der Hochfläche zu vernehmen. Es ist das Gefühl der absoluten Taubheit, und die Empfindung lastet auf uns fast mit der Kraft eines wilden Wunsches, es müsse jetzt ein die Nerven zerreisender Donner aus der Tiefe hervorbrechen.

„Bei Sonnen-Aufgang und Untergang zeigt der Cañon die prächtigsten Bilder, besonders reizvoll ist der Abend, wenn langsam, ganz langsam, die durchsichtigen blauen Schatten aus der Tiefe aufsteigen um sich leicht und weich die starren Felsen, über Thäler und Schluchten, über Nah und Fern zu legen. Und im Mondlicht vollends wird dann der Cañon nochmals lebendig. Das Licht reicht nicht in die Tiefen hinab, aus denen leichte, durchsichtige Schleier sich heben, und die vielgestaltigen Felsentürme, Schlösser und Märchenburgen scheinen dann aus der Unendlichkeit heraufzuschweben. Die auf und nieder streifenden Luftströmungen, die man nur fühlen, nicht hören kann, lassen das ganze Bild leise erzittern. Dann scheinen die Massen sich zu bewegen, sich leicht hin und her zu wiegen, und dies scheinbare Leben in den kalten starren Felsen, die selbst im schrägen Mondlicht einen Teil ihrer Farben noch zeigen, vermag seltsame Empfindungen in der Seele zu lösen. Es ist eine Erscheinung wie aus einer anderen Welt.

„Der Abstieg von der Hochfläche zum Flusse kann ziemlich gefahrlos in 3 bis 4 Stunden zu Fuss oder auf dem Rücken des Maultiers gemacht werden. allerdings erst in neuerer Zeit, nach dem Pfade durch die Wände gesprengt und gebrochen wurden und die überall auftretenden Spalten und Risse einigermaßen überbrückt worden sind. In erster Morgenfrühe stehen die Maultiere bereit und es beginnt sehr bald die Kletterei auf den anfänglich bequemen, bald steiler und steiler werden den Wegen, die im Zickzack an der Sandsteinwand zunächst in einen der oberen Seiten Cañons hinabführen. Schon hat die Sonne angefangen, die Hochfläche oben zu erleuchten und zu erwärmen, aber zwischen den ragenden Wänden herrscht bis weit in den Vormittag hinein die Kälte und Feuchtigkeit der Nacht. Wenig Vegetation hängt zwischen den Felsen, arme Kiefern und trockenes Buschwerk. Erst im Grunde des ersten Cañons sieht es etwas freundlicher aus. Eine Quelle, lässt ein kleines Rinnsal durch die sich stark verbreiternde und dann wieder schliessende Schlucht laufen und flugs ist ein kleiner Garten herangewachsen, einige Bäume und Hütten dazu. Man nennt dies friedliche eingeschlossene Stückchen den Indianergarten und einige Abkömmlinge des alten Hopi-Stammes tun dort die Feldarbeit. Weiter geht es in tausend Windungen um Türme und Berge von allen Formen herum, von einer Schlucht zur anderen, hin und wieder an steilen Wänden im Zickzack hinab oder durch eingesprengte seitliche Aushöhlungen durch sie hindurch, die steile Jacobsleiter hinunter. In den Wänden über uns sehen wir an schwer zugänglichen Stellen. Reste von alten Höhlenwohnungen von deren früheren Bewohnern heute niemand mehr etwas weiss, und schliesslich gelangen wir in die weniger angenehme Gegend von des «Teufels Korkzieher». Hier springt der Weg auf einer Felsenrippe gleichsam aus der Felswand heraus, um in scharfen Zickzackwendungen die Sohle des letzten Cañons zu erreichen. Hier wird es selbst den klettergewohnten Maultieren zu viel. Sie versagen fast alle den Dienst und man tut gut, abzusteigen, wo sich auf der scharfen Rippe ein Platz dazu findet, um dann das Tier in die Tiefe zu führen.

„Seit dem Verlassen des Indianergartens hat der Blick die Hauptränder des Gran Cañon nicht mehr erreichen können. Seitdem sieht man nur noch Felsen, Felsen und immer nur Felsen. Aber die Gestalten sind so mannigfach, die Farben so leuchtend und doch wieder so zart, die Lichter so hell und die Schatten so stark, dass die Empfindung des Einförmigen auch für keinen Augenblick aufkommen kann. Endlich wird der Strom erreicht. Trübe rote Wasser treibt er in ziemlich flachem Bette zu Thal, und es wird schwer zu glauben, dass er mit seinen kleinen Zuflüssen, wie er sich im Herbst zeigt, der Schöpfer und Gestalter der riesenhaften Felsenwelt sein soll, die uns rings umgibt. Und doch mögen die Verfechter der Hypothese Recht haben, die dem Wasser den Hauptanteil an der Zerreissung und Zertrümmerung der Hochfläche zuweisen will.“

The author closes with some geological information and comments about early explorations of the canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(translation)

'Now we continue north on the plateau around 2000 meters above sea level, towards the provisional destination of our journey. Almost all names are still Spanish, especially those of mountains, rivers and lakes, since all the land around here was first explored and settled by Spaniards. But the Spanish language itself has almost entirely disappeared, with one rarely hearing a word of Spanish while driving. It goes on for three hours on the branch line, always at the same height, always over flat terrain and through sparse high forest.

'All of a sudden the picture changes. When we arrive at the end of the line, we step out of the forest and there is a panorama before our eyes that cannot be found anywhere else on earth. Here the crust of the earth is torn, broken open, to depths that no mine nor deep drilling reaches. The rise that bears the name of Grand Canyon of the Colorado River is 400 kilometers long and its width varies between 20 and 40 kilometers, its depth between 1500 and 2000 meters depending on the height of the edges. In order to enable an approximate comparison with heights and distances, which should be common knowledge in Valparaiso, let us suppose that the southern edge of this immensely enlarged barranca lies at about Alto del Puerto, then the northern edge lies about the distance [from there] of the dunes of Concón but at three times the height of the Alto del Puerto, the bottom of the valley at sea level. To the right and left, the view is lost in the unreal distance. There will probably be hardly anyone who would not be overwhelmed by these gigantic dimensions and the overall impression of the powerful picture.

'We step up hard on the edge and try to see below us how deep it may go. In vain, staying above the dreadful depths for longer than a moment becomes impossible even for those with a head for heights: 400 to 600 meters it goes down vertically in the first step. A glance to the sides and to the north edge opposite shows that almost everywhere, as below us, a huge wall of white sandstone stands above the deeper rock. Then, from both sides towards the middle of the gorge, a tangle of adventurously formed rocks and mountains, surfaces and towers begin, torn apart again, and crumbles. Some of these remains of older, deeper layers of rock still support its [the river's] bed. It is nowhere more than about 100 meters wide and the crack in which it leads its red water to the sea in leaps and rapids, which are only occasionally interrupted by a calmer point, is often so narrow that the sun, even at the highest level, does not reach the current. The steep, often overhanging walls of the middle gorge stretch up to 500 meters high, which are occasionally interrupted by lateral quebrades of no less light green or covered with a delicate veil, covered with red, red in all tones, carmine and violet change into the Shadows, dark blues, browns and blacks, greens and yellows are sprinkled everywhere, and the almost always same transparent blue sky with white clouds arches over this place of silence.

'The sensations are a thousand times more when a person lets this wonder of the world work its magic on them. It grabs the eye and the ear at the same time. And when the eye trembles before the immense size and yet cannot get enough of the splendor of the colors that shine all around, and yet never seem to scream anywhere, the ear finds itself here for the first time before a new, completely unknown phenomenon, an absolute nothing. Not a sound comes up from the horrible depths, not a sound can be heard on the plateau. It is the feeling of absolute numbness, and the sensation weighs on us almost with the force of a wild wish that nerve-racking thunder must break out of the depths.

'At sunrise and sunset the canyon shows the most magnificent pictures, the evening is particularly attractive when slowly, very slowly, the transparent blue shadows rise from the depths around them, light and soft, the rigid rocks, over valleys and gorges, and put away. And in the moonlight the canyon comes alive again. The light does not reach down into the depths from which light, transparent veils rise, and then the multifaceted rock towers, castles and fairy-tale castles seem to float up out of infinity. The air currents sweep up and down, which one can only feel but not hear, causing the whole picture to tremble gently. Then the masses seem to move, to sway slightly, and this apparent life in the cold, rigid rocks, which still show part of their colors even in the slanting moonlight, is able to release strange sensations in the soul. It is an apparition from another world.

'The descent from the plateau to the river can be made fairly safely in 3 to 4 hours on foot or on muleback. however only in more recent times, after the paths through the walls had been blasted and broken and the crevices and fissures that appeared everywhere were bridged to some extent. The mules are ready early in the morning and very soon the climbing begins easily at first, paths soon becoming steeper and steeper, which zigzag along the sandstone wall, first leading down into one of the upper sides of the canyon. The sun has already begun to illuminate and warm the plateau above, but between the towering walls the cold and damp of the night prevails well into the morning. Little vegetation hangs between the rocks, poor pines and dry bushes. Only at the bottom of the first canyon does it look a bit friendlier. A spring lets a small trickle run through the gorge, which widens and then closes again, and a small garden has quickly grown, along with a few trees and huts. This peaceful enclosed patch is called the Indian Garden and some descendants of the ancient Hopi tribe do the field work there. It continues in a thousand turns around towers and mountains of all shapes, from one gorge to the next, sometimes zigzagging down steep walls or through blasted side cavities, down the steep Jacob's ladder. In the walls above us we see in hard-to-reach places. Remains of ancient cave dwellings whose former inhabitants are unknown today, and finally we come to the less pleasant area of the "devil's corkscrew". Here the path jumps out of the rock face on a rock ridge to reach the bottom of the last canyon in sharp zigzag turns. Here it is too much even for the mules used to climbing. Almost all of them fail and it is good to dismount where there is space on the sharp rib and then lead the animal down.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

'Since leaving the Indian Garden, the view has not been able to reach the main rims of the Gran Canyon. Since then you only see rocks, rocks and always only rocks. But the figures are so varied, the colors so bright and yet so delicate, the lights so bright and the shadows so strong that the feeling of monotony cannot arise for a moment. Finally the stream is reached. It drives cloudy red water down the valley in a rather flat bed, and it is hard to believe that it, with its small tributaries, as it shows itself in autumn, is supposed to be the creator and shaper of the gigantic rocky world that surrounds us. And yet the proponents of the hypothesis that wants to assign the main part to the tearing and shattering of the plateau to the water may be right.'

The author closes with some geological information and comments about early explorations of the canyon.

Hope, Carmeta Aitkin

- 1257 1920 The Pacific ahoy! Part I—Across the continent. Motor Travel (Automobile Club of America), 11(12) (March): 22-25.

Despite the serial title, this is a trip by rail. Includes remarks on a stop at Grand Canyon, with rudimentary, though otherwise expected, observations of riots of color and shades, of temples, and encouraging followers to take the trail trips and rim drives.

Horton, Charles M.

- 1258 1920 Opportunities in engineering. New York and London: Harper and Brothers, 90 pp.

See pp. 87-88, an engineer's perspective of Grand Canyon, though perhaps not what one might expect.

"I would make so bold as to say that the man of engineering training will see more at a glance when first viewing the Grand Cañon, say, than will any other professionally trained man. Should the Cañon collapse, he would know instantly why it collapsed. He could give an opinion on the wonderful color effects that would interest the artist, and he would know without hesitation how best to descend to the bottom and wherein to seek the easiest trail. All this, without his being a civil or a mining engineer, understand; merely a man trained in constructive mechanics."

Inness, George, Jr.

- 1259 1920 Random thoughts. [No place]: "Privately Printed", 139 pp.

Page [5] notes: "This little book is dedicated to my friends[.] (Note: Don't show it to the public, if you love me. It's for you and me, to remind us of some things we used to talk about)[.] [facsimile signature] 'Geo. Inness Jr'". See chapter, "The Grand Cañon", pp. 40-44.

"We left the train at Williams and took a four-horse wagon that brought us through the Arizona plains and woods of pine. Just before we came out into the open, we descended from the stage and walked. My wife and I went hand in hand and pushed our way through underbrush until we came right on the rim. There we stood and uttered not a sound. With a great lump rising in my throat, I stifled down a sob and turned, to see my wife was crying. Still without a sound we stood and gripped each other's hands and gazed out over a great sea of rocks

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

and buttes that seemed to float upon the purple atmosphere below, as rays of light, shot out from the lowered sun, danced upon their crests, and made them shine like all the jewels in the gates of paradise. • • •

"Through this vast, wild, rampant world of beauty you seem to see, as it were, an ancient city with fair ladies and brave men, and right in front, in silhouette, you seem to see the grim, black, forbidding agencies of war, whose gigantic arms spread out a menace to all that would molest the wondrous city that they guard.

"On that night a fearful storm hung over the Bright-Angel Trail and lashed the twisted pine-trees to the ground. Thunder, peal on peal, rolled through the mighty gorge and clashed against the buttes, rolling from peak to peak with deafening roar that seemed to split and rend all the earth. A dozen fires thrust out their forked tongues and licked with sickening flame the domes and towers of that mighty city in the clouds; then rushed on, mad with fury, as they dashed along with screeching gale that hurled tons of sand at minaret and battlement and was swallowed up in one great thunder crash that rent the very heavens, gathered up the storm, and with a rumbling growl of triumph hurled it far out upon the plain.

"As the moon peeked out we saw the grim sentinels still guarding the enchanted city that looked as though it did not know the fearful thing had been, so still it floated in the sky, bathed in the silver light."

This comprises most of the author's remarks about the canyon. Concludes with "Berry's Story", a brief item about the party's trip to Grandview where Pete Berry recalled for them an event in Williams, the "toughest town in Arizona," where four murderers all died one night in jail.

James William

1260 1920 The letters of William James. Volume II. (Henry James, ed.) Boston: The Atlantic Monthly Press, 382 pp.

See pp. 238-239, letter from James to Miss Pauline Goldmark, written at El Tovar, Grand Canyon, January 3, 1906.

"It certainly is equal to the brag; and, like so many of the more stupendous freaks of nature, seems at first-sight smaller and more manageable than one had supposed. • • •

"The conditions have been unfavorable for intimate communion. Three degrees above zero, and a spring overcoat, prevent that forgetting of 'self' which is said to be indispensable to absorption in Beauty. • • •

"But it is vain to waste descriptive words on the wondrous apparition, with its symphonies of architecture and of color. I have just been watching its peaks blush in the setting sun, and slowly lose their fire. Night nestling in the depths. Solemn, solemn! And a unity of design that makes it seem like an individual, an animated being. Good-night, old chasm!"

Note also James, 2000, for another letter, on January 4.

Lanning, J. Frank

1261 1920 Around South America with a sample case. Richmond, Virginia: Williams Printing Co., 252 pp.

See pp. 89, 107-108, 112-113, 186; comparisons to, and reminiscences of, Grand Canyon; most directly, p. 89: "There were many places that approached the sublime, especially when we could lift our eyes from the black gorge below to the white crown of Misti. My recent visit to the Grand Canon has spoilt me for anything in the way of canons . . . ."

Lasies, J. [Lasies, Joseph]

1262 1920 La tragédie Sibérienne : le drame d'Ékaterinenbourg, la fin de l'Amiral Koltchak. Paris: L'Édition Française Illustrée, 256 pp. [In French.]
(transl. 'The Siberian tragedy: the drama of Ekaterinenburg, the end of Admiral Kolchak')

Lasies was a French politician. See p. 28, a single remark of news obtained during a stop at the Grand Canyon while en route to San Francisco: "Au grand Canyon, un radio affiché dans l'hôtel m'a appris que M. Deschanel

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

était élu président de la République.” (transl. ‘At the Grand Canyon, a radio placed in the hotel told me that Mr. Deschanel had been elected President of the Republic’) No other remark about having been at the Grand Canyon.

Lewis, Sylvia

- 1263 1920 A dangerous venture. (A true story.) In: St. Nicholas League [SECTION]. St. Nicholas, 47(3) (January): 279-280.

The by-line indicates that Lewis is 13 years of age. This is an essay as part of “Prize Competition No. 239”, for which the writer was awarded a Silver Badge, and noted that she was from Arizona (see p. 278). It relates to the crossing of the Colorado River on a cable at the foot of the trail. [Based on the notations of age and Arizona residency, a check of U.S. census records for 1910 finds a Sylvia M. Lewis, then aged 4, in Globe, Arizona; daughter of Earnest W. Lewis, a circuit judge, and Esther. —E.E.S.] [For another contest essay see Robert Wylie McKee (1921).] Lewis’s essay is, in its entirety:

“Slowly we wound down ‘Jacob’s Ladder’ at sunset. The Grand Cañon was a spot of unequaled beauty as the sun faded away in the west. But beautiful as its purples and gold were, they failed to thrill us, for on the morrow we were to undertake a trip known to all for its danger. When we reached the foot of the cañon, the roar of the angry Colorado made us realize what a perilous journey we were about to begin, for we were to cross the cañon in a ‘skip,’ or basket, which runs on a cable and is large enough to carry an animal and two or three people.

“Morning saw us ready for the crossing, and two men, myself, and the burro (which the guide refused to leave behind) climbed into the basket. It fell to me to sit on the donkey’s back, as there was standing room for only two in the skip. All went well until we reached the center, when ‘Bright Angel’ (for such was the burro’s name) began to kick and jump, as the roar of the river was so loud it frightened him. And I was nearly paralyzed with fright when I looked into the depths below me. I began to appreciate the outside world more than I had the night before. Slowly the skip approached land, and after a few terrible moments the burro began to recover from its terror. Finally we reached solid ground; and long after, as I gazed at the river from the rim of the cañon, I heard some bystander remark, ‘I thought it was a big river!’ as the Colorado looks small from the brink.

“I wish they could cross it as I did; they would think it quite big enough.”

MacFarlane, Ernest J. H.

- 1264 1920 Australian sends greetings and pleasant American recollections. The Optical Journal and Review of Optometry (New York), 46(26) (December 23): 1819.

Letter to the editor, from Melbourne, Australia, after five months’ travel in Canada and the U.S. Includes some food for thought:

“Yet, as for the cakes and maple syrup, and even the blueberry cobbler, of the North, and the strawberry shortcake of the South, the iced cantaloupe of the West? Well, O, Boy! These things, like Niagara, the Grand Canyon, with its Bright Angel Trail (and the feeling afterwards) cannot be adequately described.”

McKnight, William Q.

- 1265 1920 After a much-postponed journey. The Herald of Gospel Liberty, 112(27) (July 1): 636.

Trip from Chicago to Japan. Already aboard the train to the west coast, they were notified by telegram that their ship would be delayed by ten days.

“Had we missed the train we might have returned and spent ten days with our friends in Indiana.

“With ten whole days to be used as we might see fit, it was our pleasure to see one of the great natural wonders of America, the Grand Canyon of Arizona. It gave us a nice stopover for a day.” (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rice, Cale Young

- 1266 1920 The chant of the Colorado (at the Grand Canyon). In: Rittenhouse, Jessie B. (ed.), The second book of modern verse : a selection from the work of contemporaneous American poets. Boston, New York, Chicago, and San Francisco: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), pp. 96-97. (Volume: Riverside College Classics.)

Reprints Rice (1917).

Simpson, William Haskell

- 1267 1920 In Hopi-Land and other lands. Poetry, 15(4) (January): 197-203.

See "Grand Canyon", p. 200:

Words, such a dreamers utter;
Songs, played on dulcet strings;
Pictures, that hold beauty deathless—

Here, on the verge,
They fade away to dull colors,
Faint songs,
Echoes of words,

Let the sunsets paint it,
And the rainbows.
Let the pueblos whisper of it—
Voices of long ago.
Let the red river sing of it—
A wild thing, caged, escaping.

Soulsby, L. H. M. [Soulsby, Lucy Helen Muriel]

- 1268 1920 The America I saw in 1916-1918. London, New York, Bombay, Calcutta, and Madras: Longmans, Green, and Co., 205 pp.

See in "Arizona", two diary entries while at the Grand Canyon (pp. 140-144, ellipses are the author's), with her nose a bit in the air:

"El Tovar Hotel, Grand Canyon, Arizona,
"April 28, 1917.

"I am sitting alone on a rock looking down into the canyon, where the Judgment Day seems to be past already, leaving the old world lying in ruins in the gulf at my feet.

"Babylon the Great, with terraces of all colours, mostly rose, stretches out before me; her topmost pinnacles are two hundred feet below, and the walls and terraces go down and down for another three or four hundred. (This is as I guessed, but the guidebook says thousands, not hundreds.) The straight line of the other side of the gulf has snow-clouds resting on it, while fitful gleams of sunshine rush up the cleft from the left and set it all on fire.

"I have so often imagined Dante's Inferno that the whole place seems familiar, and curiously like one of Albert Moore's pictures.

"I fancy it must be used for honeymoons, since when I left the hotel I saw two couples; and when a young man puts his arm round a very unbecoming waterproof cloak—I was going to say, Romance is still alive; but I will rather say, he must be a truly domestic character.

"A great black storm-cloud is drifting up the canyon and sending long fingers of rain-cloud into it. I am so glad I saw it first like this; it feels as if the original work of destruction was still going on and the city's wounds still bleeding.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

“. . . The cloud is half passed, and to the far left the sun is shining through its ragged edges and making the peak and pinnacles out yonder seem gates of pearl, like those in the old ballad of the Demon Lover:

‘O yon are the hills of Heaven,’ he said,
‘Which I may never gain.’

“But it is all much more like the Halls of Eblis. What do that boy and girl mean by coming there? I could imagine Paolo and Francesca hovering fearfully over it, but no other lovers.

“I walked on round the edge—there are no rails, but a narrow path along the top—a cutting cold wind blew me towards the precipice, and the loose roads hurt one’s feet. I realised how Dante clung to Virgil when he went up those loose stones, and how cold that blast from Cocytus was.

“Farther along I walked right into the Wood of Harpies, twisted, gnarled old firs as old as Dante, or perhaps the Æneid. When I held on to one I did it cautiously, lest I should break a twig and sighs mingled with blood

Should issue into the air.

“I had planned to push to the farthest point I could see, but a hail-storm came on, and I was sorely tempted to let my tail go between my legs and rush home. But I have never yet failed to get to a spot I planned for, and I am always fearing that my luck may turn if I once begin giving way, so I pushed on and got there!

“The sun burst the black clouds asunder, and wrote a great ‘scribble of red’ across the Temple of Semiramis with its terraces. . . . I suppose it wrote ‘MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN’; anyway, the last syllable must have been SIN, for it all looked angry and wicked. [Refers to the mysterious words that appeared on a wall in the palace of Belshazzar, in Daniel 5, which Daniel interpreted for the king.]

“Then came the black cloud again, and a great roll of thunder echoed up the gorge, and I turned! It took me a hard seventy minutes to get back, as the hotel had shifted itself three and a half miles farther away than when I left it; and all the firs had changed their places and congregated, the better to devour me if darkness came on.

“I remembered that there is no twilight here, that dinner must be on the table, that I had eaten nothing since breakfast; so it was not all fear that made my knees tremble. There was not a soul stirring except myself and the Powers of the Air. I pressed on hard and hopelessly till I suddenly saw, high in the air, ‘SOUVENIR STORE’ in iron letters. This heartened me up to the point of reaching the hotel and getting through soup, fish, pork chops, three vegetables, Salad (which is an important part of the American constitution and needs a big S), an ice, cheese, and coffee, before my next neighbour finished her fish, so I soon revived.

“After dinner I went over to the Indian adobe house across the way [Hopi House], full of baskets and Navarrjo [sic] blankets, where Indians danced to us. They tiptoed very rapidly so as to shake their hips, and walked up and down in that manner, while howling like angry wild cats, which made me think of Lady A. going to Nathan for a fancy dress of Henry of Navarre, and hearing him shout upstairs, ‘Bring down the Angry Cat’ (‘Henri Quatre’).

“A ‘buffalo dance for the crops’ was a boy howling with a big drum, and a little girl gravely going up and down the room, waving bunches of grass. They all had good, kind, noble faces—not beautiful, but splendid faces for expressing virtues with. I did not like seeing them do what used to express their tribal Souls, for the amusement of us twenty or thirty whites, who all looked such an inferior breed compared with the dancers.

“The Grand Canyon,
“Sunday, April 29, 1917.

“The Bishop of Arizona arrived here last night to hold the service and to carry me off on Monday to attend his annual convention at Prescott, a mining town in the mountains.

“We had a delightful walk this afternoon. He took me to see an old pioneer, Captain Haire [Hance, surely], who urged me to push on to the Hassayampa River. ‘If you drink of it, you will never tell the truth, never have a cent in your pocket—and never leave Arizona.’

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"I wished I could, but consoled myself by a walk on the canyon edge with the Bishop, during which we composed a joint letter to Mrs. Bell (the Queen of Boston, who was so good to me last winter)—on the ground that no one else would so realise that the right word for the canyon was

A rose-red city, half as old as Time, since Dean Burgon was of a date worthy to be included in her book friends." [The poem by John William Burgon, Petra, 1845.]

. . . and so on for a bit more, hobnobbing with High Society Catholics who chat of the authors of Great Literature, and Venice, dropping notes of Immortality and Chastity; the Canyon now all forgotten.

Van Dyke, John C.

1269 1920 The Grand Canyon of the Colorado : recurrent studies in impressions and appearances. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 218 pp.

The beginning sets the mood in this classic:

"The unexpected happens at the Canyon. Surprise, wonder, amazement are looked for, but one hardly counts upon fear. In common with the average visitor, upon arrival you hurry up the steps from the station, pass along the front of the hotel, and go out at once to the Rim for a first view. You are impatient of delay in seeing this marvel of the world. Almost before you know it you are at the edge. The great abyss, without hint or warning, opens before your feet. For the moment the earth seems cleft in twain and you are left standing at the brink. As you pause there momentarily the rock platforms down below seem to heave, the buttes sway; even the opposite Rim of the Canyon undulates slightly. The depth yawns to engulf you. Instinctively you shrink back. If it were not for the presence of companions you might cry out.

"Ah! the terror of it!

"And, worse than that, the mad attraction of it, the dread temptation that lies within it! The chasm repels and yet draws."

And there is particularly his memorable chapter, "From Dawn To Dusk", which he sets up with, "Days and weeks can be given to Desert View without exhausting the scene or the interest", and concludes, "It is not the eighth wonder of the world but the first."

Verkamp, John G.

1270 NO DATE Views of Grand Canyon, Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: John G. Verkamp, 12 hand-colored photographs, string-bound. [Ca. 1920.]

Wagner Free Institute of Science

1271 1920 Wagner Free Institute of Science of Philadelphia : annual announcement : seventy-third year. Philadelphia: Wagner Free Institute of Science.

See syllabus for "Geology 2. Professor Mayville W. Twitchell." (pp. 21-24); specifically, p. 24, "Tuesday April 19. Our Greatest Scenery: Grand Canyons. How the elevating and wearing-down forces combine in the case of plateaus and produce wonderful scenic effects. The Grand Canyon of the Colorado." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Wegener, Georg

1272 1920 Der Zaubermantel : erinnerungen eines Weltreisenden. Leipzig: F. A. Brockhaus, 2nd ed., 364 pp. [1st ed. 1919; not seen. Also later eds.] [In German.] (transl. 'The magic cloak : memoirs of a world traveller')

See "Der große Cañon des Colorado" ('The Grand Canyon of the Colorado'), dated 1900 (pp. 105-118). He visits the canyon from Flagstaff, arriving at Bright Angel with the only preamble being a disjointed review of the

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Colorado River and its canyons, not the usual recitation of the drive to the canyon. He seems to arrive at the canyon—literally and literarily—all of a sudden, in mid-paragraph:

“••• Auch bei ihm meldete, an der Stelle, wo ich ihn sah . . . kein Zeichen seine Nähe vorher an; im hochstämmigen Fichtenwald gelangten wir bis hart an seinen Rand, ohne ihn zu gewahren. Dann lag mit einem Schlage das ungeheure Bild in seiner ganzen Größe vor uns aufgerollt.

“Was ich an jenem ersten Abend von ihm sah, war so gewaltig und so fremd zugleich, daß ich zunächst darauf verzichtete, zu einem deutlichen Bewußtsein davon zu kommen.

“In der frostklaren Frühe des nächsten Tages, der mich mit hellem Sonnenschein im Zelt weckte, war ich von neuem am Rand des Abgrundes, der, wenige Schritte entfernt, zu einer Tiefe abstürzte, als müsse selbst der Adler zögern, sie zu überfliegen. Wohl stand heute das Gemälde in Morgenklarheit vor meinen Augen, und doch, es war auch jetzt noch so außerordentlich, daß der Verstand erst langsam, allmählich, forschend und vergleichend, es zu erfassen und das Gefühl sich der ganzen Größe des Eindrucks bewußt zu erden vermochte.

“Dein Blick schweift zum jenseitigen Talrand hinüber. Daß dieser sehr weit liegt, sagt er dir wohl, aber er warnt dich auch davor, eine Schätzung zu wagen; denn gar zu fremdartig ist die wundersame Lufttönung, gar zu unbekannt das Größenmaß der fernen Felsengebilde dort. Endlich meinst du zögernd und staunend, fünf bis sechs Kilometer möge die Breite wohl betragen; lächelnd aber zeigt dir der Blockhaushalter auf der Karte, daß es deren achtzehn bis zwanzig sind. •••”

[He gazes across, and deeply into, the canyon, taking in its astonishing dimensions and features—and innumerable individual things—] “Säulen, Zacken, Türme, stufenförmige Pyramiden, Höhlen, überhängende Felsenplatten, Felsblöcke, die, mit unmittelbarem Absturz drohend, half über dem Abgrund hängen, Ströme von solchen, die schon abgestürzt sind, u. a. m.”

“Und nun das große, prachtvolle Wunder in dieser anscheinend aller Regel spottenden Wildnis! •••”

[He describes the strata and the landforms at some length.]

“Ganz aber wird auch das ihrem Eindruck nicht gerecht. Es kommt noch etwas hinzu, was über das nur Titanische übermächtiger Gestalten und Rhythmen noch höher adelnd hinausgeht. Das ist der unsagbare Zauber der Gesamtfärbung . . . Rosa, Lichtgelb, Mattblau, Blaugrün, über dem als verbindender Hauch ein rosiges Violett von wahrhaft ätherischer Delikatesse schwebt.

“Doch für den Leser bleiben diese Sätze alles vielleicht immer noch nur Worte, Worte. Ich will versuchen, sie zu verlebendigen durch die Schilderung meiner eigenen Wanderung, aus der sich mir selbst das Gesamtbild des Cañons erst lebendig aufgebaut hat.

“Im allgemeinen sind die Steilwände des Cañons völlig ungangbar. Es gibt jedoch an mehreren Stellen, wo Schluchten oder Schutthalden die senkrechten Gesteinstufen abschrägen, schwindelkühne Pfade, meist alte Indianerwege, die in zahllosen Schlangenwindungen zum Talgrund hinabführen. Ab- und Wiederanstieg erfordern einen vollen Tag.

“Ein solcher Pfad, the old Indian gardens' trail, d. h. „der Weg zu den alten Indianergärten“, leitet unmittelbar neben der Stelle, wo das Bright-Angel-Blockhaus liegt, zur Tiefe hinab; sein Vorhandensein ist auch der Grund, weshalb das Gasthaus hierher gebaut werden soll.”

[He describes the descent, the trail, and the rocky scenery, taking notice of the rising temperature. Reaching the plateau,] “Beflügelten Schrittes eilten wir auf ihr weiter und sahen nach kurzer Wanderung, um einen Hügel biegend, das Zelt, das wir vom Blockhaus aus als einen kleinen weißen Punkt erblickt hatten. Es war in Wirklichkeit recht stattlich, besaß einen für ein Dutzend Personen ausreichenden Schlafraum und eine davon gesonderte Küche. Bewohner waren nicht darin, aber Tiegel und Pfannen konnten erst vor kurzem gebraucht sein. •••

“Nachdem wir im Schatten der Weiden einen wohlverdienten Imbiß verzehrt und uns durch einen Trunk aus dem klaren Bach wieder gestärkt hatten, begannen wir die Wanderung aus dem Felsentheater hinaus auf die Fläche des Haupttals, um den eigentlichen Colorado-schlund aufzusuchen. •••

“Endlich aber näherten wir uns der Hauptschlucht, dem großen, düsteren Spalt, der sich durch die Mitte des Talbodens dahinwand. Eine für uns liegende schmale, in den geheimnisvollen Riß vorspringende Felsennase

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

erscheien als ein Punkt, von dem aus der Fluß selbst gut sichtbar werden müßte. Jäh, mit wetterzerrissenen Wänden, auf ihrer Oberfläche nur noch ein wildes Haufwerk aus losen, absturzbereiten Platten, stürzte sie in eine, zunächst noch unabsehbare Tiese hinunter. Prüsenden Schrittes trat ich ganz auf sie hinaus; ein dumpfes, fernes Rauschen drang an mein Ohr—der erste Laut des Flusses—, und mit einem unwillkürlichen Gefühl des Schauderns stand ich still. Meiiin Blick fiel gerade hinab in den furchtbaren Schlund. 500 Meter etwa noch unter mir, also fast in der doppelten Tiefe des Eiffelturmes, rann der Strom, ein schmales, trübgelbes Wasserband, schäumend und wirbelnd zwischen finsternen, tiefbraunen, anscheinend lotrechten Felsenwänden dahin. So tief und eng ist die letzte Schlucht des Colorado, daß selbst zur Mittagszeit die Sonnenstrahlen nur an wenigen Punkten zu seinem Wasser hinabgelangen! • • •

„Wohl eine Stunde weilten wir hier vor dem beispiellosen Bilde. Dan kehrten wir zurück zu den alten Indianergartenpfad, um durch weitere Klüfte und Gründe zum Fluß selbst hinabzuklettern.

„Bis in die Region des Granits waren wir dabei bereits gelangt, als plötzlich ein anderer Anblick uns festhielt und alles andere vergessen ließ. An einer senkrecht aufsteigenden Talwand über uns erschauten wir ein paar merkwürdige Gebilde: Steinmassen, die nicht von der Hand der Natur geformt sein konnten. Ein Blick durch das Glas gab die Gewißheit, daß es, „cliff-dwellings“ sein mußten, einige jener merkwürdigen rätselhaften Felsenwohnungen eines untergegangenen Volkes, das in unbekannter Zeit in diesen Einöden gehaust hat. • • •

[They spend some time exploring these shelters—at a price.]

„Es war inzwischen 3 Uhr nachmittags geworden; wir mußten heimwärts eilen, wenn wir den langen und beschwerlichen Anstieg zu dem Bright-Angel-Blockhaus noch vor Einbruch der Nacht vollenden wollten. Es blieb infolge jener Abschweifung leider unmöglich, noch bis zum Flusse selbst hinabzusteigen.

„Inzwischen hatte sich auch das Wetter geändert. Oben mußte ein scharfer Wind wehen, pfeilschnell kamen die Wolken von Süden über den jetzt so himmelhoch über uns hängenden Plateaurand herübergeflogen, zuweilen in dichten düsteren Massen. Dann rauschte prasselnder Regen oder Hagelschlag hernieder, so daß wir wiederholt unterwegs, unter irgendwelche Felsenplatten geduckt, den alten Cliffdwellern ähnlich, den ärgsten Schauer abwarten mußten, und dumpfer Donner rollte zwischen den Wänden in langtönendem Echo. Aber der Landschaft des Cañons gab das noch einen neuen Reiz. War das Wetter für uns vorüber, so blitzten die Felsen rings in der klaren Atmosphäre in noch reineren Farben als zuvor. Über den Riesenklüften der jenseitigen User hingen nun die Gewitterwolken, düsterblau und mächtig, und einmal spannte sogar ein schimmernder Regenbogen eine zauberische Brücke gerade über den Höllenschlund des Haupttrisses hinweg.

„Über alle Beschreibungen schön wurde das Schauspiel, je mehr die Sonne, während wir aufwärts stiegen, sich dem Untergange neigte. Langsam rückten die Schatten der westlichen Felsenwände an den gegenüberliegenden östlichen empor und hüllten sie höher und höher hinauf in dunkelblaue, mystische Schleier. Um so wundervoller schimmerten dafür die rotgoldenen Abendstrahlen auf den oberen Gehängen. Goldene Mauern umschlossen nun, unabsehbar hinziehend, den dunklen Talgrund; goldene Inseln, die Spitzen der einzelnstehenden, aus Dämmertiesen noch in das Licht emporragenden Felsgebilde, schwammen wundersam über dem langsam steigenden Schattensee; als leuchtende Bänder standen die helleren Gesteinsschichten an den näheren Felswänden, und ein wahrhaft märchenhaftes Rosenrot überhauchte die große Ferne.

„Doch die Inseln versanken, das Feuer der Bänder erlosch, und schließlich verdämmerte auch das letzte Rosa; in feierlichen, nächtigen Schatten lag der Cañon unter uns.

„Es war fast Nacht geworden, als wir uns endlich, todmüde durch den vom Regen in schlüpfrigen Brei aufgelösten Pfad, dem Plateaurand und dem Bright-Angel-Blockhaus wieder näherten. Alles Geschaute hatten wir rückwärts noch einmal durchmessen. Aus dem großen Haupttal waren wir wieder in unser gigantisches Felsenamphitheater getreten, hatten die Bänder des grünlichen Kalkes, des roten Sandsteins mit seiner gewaltigen formenwelt, des weißen Sandsteins mit seinen jähren Steilwänden und zuletzt unsere erste, umgrünte Engschlucht wieder durchschritten. Kurz ehe wir ihr ersehntes Ende erreichten, stand urplötzlich über den Baumwipfeln der Schlucht von neuem jener merkwürdige Felsen vor uns, der uns beim Abstieg zuerst so ins Auge gefallen war und den wir nachher über größeren Wundern vergessen hatten. Nun erneute und verstärkte sich im Dämmerlicht sein Eindruck. Bei der veränderten Richtung der Lichter und Schatten erkannten wir mit einemmal deutlich, daß er ein seltsames, riesenhaftes Gesicht trug, ein durch wunderbares Naturspiel geformtes Antlitz von dämonischen Zügen, den Göttermasken ähnlich, die die Indianer des kanadischen Nordwestens

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

schnitzen. Die tiefen Schattenaugen sahen schweigend in die ungeheure, totenstille Welt hinaus, mit einem Ausbruck, wie ihn der große Sphinx von Giseh besitzt; jenem starren Rätselflick, in dem die Mysterien von Jahrtausenden zu schlummern scheinen.“

(translation)

[At the place where I saw it there was] . . . no sign of its nearness beforehand; in the tall spruce forest we got right up to its edge without noticing it. Then, in one fell swoop, the immense picture lay rolled up in front of us in its entirety.

‘What I saw of it that first evening was so powerful and at the same time so strange that at first I refrained from gaining a clear understanding of it.

‘In the frosty early morning of the next day, which woke me in the tent with bright sunshine, I was again at the edge of the precipice, which, a few paces away, fell to such a depth that even the eagle must hesitate to fly over it. To be sure, the painting stood before my eyes today in the clearness of morning, and yet it was still so extraordinary that the mind was only able to grasp it slowly, gradually, by investigating and comparing, and the feeling was able to become aware of the full magnitude of the impression.

‘Your gaze wanders to the other side of the valley. [The man] tells you that this is very far away, but he also warns you not to risk an estimate; for the wondrous tint of the air is far too strange, the size of the distant rock formations far too unknown. Finally you think, hesitating and amazed, that the width might be five or six kilometers; but with a smile the log cabin’s steward shows you on the map that there are eighteen to twenty of them. • • • ’

He gazes across, and deeply into, the canyon, taking in its astonishing dimensions and features—and innumerable individual things— ‘columns, spikes, towers, stepped pyramids, caves, overhanging slabs of rock, boulders hanging over the abyss in danger of imminent collapse, streams of those that have already collapsed, etc.’

‘And now the great, magnificent miracle in this wilderness, which apparently defies all rules! • • • ’

He describes the strata and the landforms at some length.

‘But even that doesn’t quite do justice to her impression. There is something else that goes beyond the merely titanic of overpowering shapes and rhythms, ennobling even higher. That is the unspeakable magic of the overall coloring . . . pink, light yellow, matt blue, pale green, over which a rosy violet of truly ethereal delicacy hovers as a connecting touch.

‘But for the reader, these sentences may all remain just words, words. I want to try to bring it to life by describing my own hike, from which the overall picture of the canyon first came alive for me.

‘In general, the steep walls of the canyon are completely impassable. In several places, however, where gorges or scree slopes slope down the vertical rock steps, there are daring paths, mostly old Indian paths, which lead down to the valley floor in countless serpentine turns. Descent and ascent require a full day.

‘One such path, “the old Indian gardens’ trail”, leads down to the Deep just off the spot where the Bright Angel log cabin lies; its presence is also the reason why the inn is built here.’

He describes the descent, the trail, and the rocky scenery, taking notice of the rising temperature. Reaching the plateau, ‘We hurried on along with winged steps and after a short hike, turning around a hill, saw the tent that we had seen from the log cabin as a small white dot. In fact it was quite stately, with a bedroom large enough for a dozen people and a separate kitchen. Residents were not in it, but pots and pans had been used recently. • • •

‘After a well-deserved snack in the shade of the willows and a drink from the clear creek, we began the hike out of the amphitheater onto the plain of the main valley to seek out the actual Colorado gorge. • • •

‘At last, however, we neared the main gorge, the great, gloomy chasm that winds its way through the center of the valley floor. A narrow outcrop of rock lying ahead of us, protruding into the mysterious fissure, appears as a point from which the river itself should be clearly visible. Suddenly, with weather-torn walls and only a wild heap of loose, ready-to-fall slabs on its surface, it falls into an initially unpredictable depth. I stepped out on it with a tentative step; a dull, distant murmur reached my ears—the first sound of the river—and with an

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

involuntary shudder I stood still. My eyes fell straight down into the terrible gorge. About 500 meters below me, that is almost twice as deep as the Eiffel Tower, the stream ran, a narrow, dull yellow band of water, foaming and whirling between dark, deep brown, apparently vertical rock walls. The last gorge of the Colorado is so deep and narrow that even at midday the sun's rays only reach its waters at a few points! • • •

'We stayed here for about an hour in front of this unprecedented picture. Then we returned to the old Indian garden trail to climb down through more chasms and gullies to the river itself.

'We had already reached the granite when suddenly another sight caught us and made us forget everything else. On a vertically rising valley wall above us we beheld a few strange formations: masses of stone that could not have been formed by the hand of nature. A look through the glass gave certainty that these must be "cliff-dwellings," some of those strange, enigmatic rock dwellings of a lost people who dwelt in these wastelands in unknown times. • • •'

They spend some time exploring these shelters—at a price.

'It was now three o'clock in the afternoon; we must hurry home if we were to complete the long and arduous climb to the Bright Angel log cabin before nightfall. As a result of that digression, it was unfortunately impossible to descend to the river itself.

'In the meantime the weather had changed, too. A sharp wind must have been blowing at the top, the clouds came flying like arrows from the south over the edge of the plateau, which now hang so high above us, sometimes in dense gloomy masses. Then pounding rain or hail swept down, so that we repeatedly had to wait out the worst of the showers on our way, ducking under some slabs of rock, like the old Cliffdwellers, and dull thunder rolled between the walls in a long-sounding echo. But it gave the canyon landscape a new appeal. When the weather was over, the rocks all around flashed in the clear atmosphere in even purer colors than before. The storm clouds now hung over the gigantic crusts of the otherworldly places, dark blue and mighty, and once a shimmering rainbow even spanned an enchanting bridge straight across the main rift's chasm of hell.

'The spectacle became beautiful beyond all description, the more the sun, while we were rising, was about to set. Slowly the shadows of the western cliffs rose up against the opposite eastern ones and enveloped them higher and higher in dark blue, mystical veils. The red-gold evening rays shimmered all the more wonderfully on the upper slopes. Golden walls now encircled the dark valley floor, stretching indefinitely; golden islands, the tips of the solitary rock formations still rising from the depths of twilight into the light, swam wondrously above the slowly rising shadow lake; the lighter layers of rock stood as luminous ribbons on the nearer rock walls, and a truly fairytale rose-red breathed over the great distance.

'But the islands sank, the fire of the ribbons died down, and finally the last pink faded; the canyon lay below us in solemn nocturnal shadows.

'It was almost night when we finally, dead tired through the path that had been turned to a slippery mush by the rain, approached the edge of the plateau and the Bright Angel log cabin. We measured everything we saw backwards. From the big main valley we had stepped back into our gigantic rocky amphitheater, had walked through the bands of greenish limestone, red sandstone with its mighty world of forms, white sandstone with its sheer walls and finally our first green gorge. Shortly before we reached its longed-for end, all of a sudden, above the treetops of the gorge, there stood before us a remarkable rock which had first caught our eye on the descent and which we had later forgotten because of greater wonders. Now the impression was renewed and strengthened in the twilight. As the direction of the lights and shadows changed, we suddenly saw clearly that he wore a strange, gigantic face, a countenance of demonic features formed by the wondrous play of nature, resembling the masks of gods carved by the Indians of the Canadian Northwest. The deep, shadowy eyes gazed silently out into the immense, deathly still world, with an expression like that of the great Sphinx of Giza; that rigid, enigmatic gaze in which the mysteries of millennia seem to slumber.'

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wister, Jones

- 1273 1920 Jones Wister's reminiscences. (Mrs. Wister Jones, ed.; foreword by J. Bertram Lippincott.) Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Co., for private circulation, 459 pp.

See p. 414: "Everybody was asking us why we did not go on [directly] to the Pacific Exposition. At Denver we found the round trip railroad fare only $45, including a stop at Grand Canyon. We concluded to take it all in. As the altitude at Denver did not affect us, we knew that we ran no risk at Grand Canyon.

"Every description I have read of the Canyon has fallen so far short of its stupendous grandeur that I will not attempt one. I am thankful I have seen the greatest wonder on earth." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1921

Anonymous

- 1274 1921 [Lecture notice.] In: Faculty Notes [SECTION]. Washington University Record (St. Louis), Series 1, 16(3) (February): 6.

"McCourt, Walter Edward[.] 'The Geologic Interpretation of the Grand Cañon' (Lecture before the Lead Belt Foremen's Club, Flat River, Mo., March 4)". (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1275 1921 Editor lectures on "The Sprit of the West". The Fourth Estate (New York), (1406) (February 5): 21.

H. V. Kaltenborn, assistant managing editor of the Brooklyn Eagle; lecture delivered under the auspices of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, "illustrated by special moving pictures and lantern slides taken of the Eagle party while the members were inaugurating the new park-to-park highway in 1919 and dedicating the Grand Canyon National Park in 1920."

- 1276 1921 Two artists at Kingore Galleries. American Art News, 19(19) (February 19): 5.

De Witt Parshall exhibition at Kingore Galleries, New York. Grand Canyon works include "Sunshine and Snow", "Grand Canyon", "Late Afternoon, Grand Canyon", and "Hermit Creek Canyon".

- 1277 1921 Aviator explores the Grand Canyon. In: The News of the Week [SECTION]. Aerial Age Weekly, 13(16) (June 27): 340.

Lt. Alexander Pearson.

- 1278 1921 [Lt. Alexander Pearson flight into Grand Canyon.] In: Along the Trail [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 15(8) (July): 71.

- 1279 1921 [Lt. Alexander Pearson flight into Grand Canyon.] Rock Island Magazine (Rock Island Lines, Chicago), 16(7) (July): 31.

"Lieutenant Alexander Pearson, army flier, on June 12, flew into the Grand Canyon, landed and took out again during an exploration of the canyon, to study its air currents for the Department of the Interior and to locate possible landing fields." (ENTIRE ITEM)

- 1280 1921 Aviator explores the Grand Canyon. Flying, 10(6) (July): 216.

Lt. Alexander Pearson.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1281 1921 [Musical piece, "Down the Grand Canyon Trail".] In: Along the Trail [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 15(8) (July): 71.

"We wish to call our readers' attention to the advertisement on page 93 of the Orpheum Music Company of the song entitled 'Down the Grand Canyon Trail.' This was written by R. C. Landers, traveling freight and passenger agent for the Santa Fe in Boston, Mass. It is an effective piece of music and all Santa Fe music lovers should have it." (ENTIRE ITEM) See also advertisement (p. 93), which notes: "The Country's Biggest Song Hit[;] 'Down the Grand Canyon Trail'[;] Fox Trot—Ballad[;] Lyrics by R. C. Landers—Melody by Joe Solman". (Refers to Landers, Solman and Harris [1921].)

- 1282 1921 The Lumbermen's Club of Arizona holds at Flagstaff its sixth annual meeting. American Lumberman (Chicago), (2407) (July 2): 63-64.

The meeting ends with a trip to Grand Canyon.

"At 1.30, the Pullman car was again hooked to the regular train for the Grand Canyon, and at 4 p. m. the party arrived at that wonder of wonders. After a brief preliminary view, the party assembled in the big dining room of the El Tovar Hotel and enjoyed a sumptuous banquet given by the Arizona Lumber & Timber Co., the Flagstaff Lumber Co., and the Saginaw & Manistee Lumber Co. •••

"The final day, Saturday, was spent in sightseeing, especially viewing the wonderful Grand Canyon from the top and from the bottom; at sunrise, at midday, at sunset and by moonlight. Pen can not describe its wondrous beauty. Probably not more than 20 percent of those who visit the Grand Canon see it in all its various aspects. One must stay several days to catch all the wonderful changes."

- 1283 1921 Aviator explores the Grand Canyon. Scientific American, 125(1) (July 2): 3.

Lt. Alexander Pearson.

- 1284 1921 Lieut. Pearson's flight to the Grand Canyon in Arizona. Air Service News Letter (U.S. Army Air Service, Information Group, Washington, D.C.), 5(26) (July 13): 3-4.

- 1285 1921 [Item.] In: Chicago Section [SECTION]. The National Provisioner (Chicago and New York), 65(3) (July 16): 48.

"Secretary C. B. Heinemann of the Institute of American Meat Packers returned this week from a trip to Arizona and the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. He even descended Bright Angel Trail in search of Institute recruits, but the only packers he found were those that carry you down and up the trail." (ENTIRE ITEM)

- 1286 1921 Flight through the Grand Canyon. Aviation and Aircraft Journal, 11(9) (August 29): 255.

Separate flights by Lt. Alexander Pearson and H. H. Bullen.

- 1287 1921 Riding the Grand Canon by airplane. Popular Mechanics Magazine, 36(3) (September): 370-371. [Contents page (p. 3) gives title as "Grand Cañon Visited via Airplane".]

Flights by Lt. Alexander Pearson. Includes landing on Kaibab Plateau.

- 1288 1921 Sulla via di Badoglio. Il Carroccio (The Italian Review) (New York), 14(4) (October): 450-455. [In Italian.]

See p. 452, photograph of Italian General Pietro Badoglio at Hopi House, Grand Canyon, during an American tour.

- 1289 1921 [Carl Birchfield filming trip to Grand Canyon.] From: Chicago [SUBSECTION]. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 15(11) (October): 63.

"Carl Birchfield, assistant general advertising agent, has just returned from a rather exciting trip to various sections of the West. Accompanied by a movie man and photographers and fifteen pack mules he made the trip

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

to the north rim of the Grand Cañon up Bright Angel Cañon. He obtained some wonderful pictures and tells some wonderful tales of this trip across the cañon. However, the only casualty was one mule and its contents falling over a cliff. Afterwards Mr. Birchfield went to Santa Fe and filmed the fiesta." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1290 1921 Head of the Italian army and party at the Grand Cañon. Santa Fe Magazine, 15(12) (November): 33.

Photograph of Italian General Pietro Badoglio at Grand Canyon. Identifications of people provided. Photograph credited to Fred Harvey.

- 1291 1921 [Item.] In: New York News [SECTION]. The Pottery, Glass and Brass Salesman (New York), 24(19) (December 8): 23.

Hugh C. Edminston returned from transcontinental trip with George Hassalls. Includes note: "A trip was planned down the Bright Angel Trail into the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, but when the little burro, standing about three feet in height, looked at Mr. Hassalls, who weighs over 300 pounds, he went on strike and the trip was off." (ENTIRE NOTE) The description remarkably describes the cartoon in John T. McCutcheon's Doing the Grand Canyon (see citations under McCutcheon, 1909, 1914).

Ayscough, John [born Francis Bickerstaffe-Drew]

- 1292 1921 First impressions in America. London: John Long, Ltd., 318 pp.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 123-132.

"The terminus of the railway at Grand Cañon represents no town or village, but an hotel with its dependent buildings. • • •

"To describe the Grand Cañon is hopelessly impossible: nor will I try. But the best way to give an idea of it, to those who have none, is, I believe, this:—Imagine a chasm . . . • • •

"It is pre-eminently awful: the awe of it strikes more overpoweringly than the terrible beauty. It is a stupendous Inferno, of a beauty unparalleled elsewhere. But the sense of its beauty is incomparably less than the oppression of its wonder. It is an advertisement of ruthless force, operating in every second of perhaps millions of years. Nowhere else is the enormous sense of Age so crushingly realized. • • •

"Some [pictures of the canyon] are wonderful achievements: but the artist of the best would be the first to admit that as a presentation it is a failure: he attempts only an impression, local, without context, a colour-study, or a study in unique forms. No picture can ever present the Grand Cañon.

"It is beyond possibility to form an exaggerated idea of the Grand Cañon: a wrong one may easily be formed, is sure to be formed, from any attempt to visualize verbal description: but it will be inadequate, not exaggerated. • • •

"Stand at the wall, and the terrific hidden thing claps your mind and daunts your spirit at one incurable stroke: its immense confusion, its turmoil of colour, turmoil inhumanly silent, its soundless battle of colour, and mad orgy of shape. No one who has read Dante can help instantly thinking of him. If he had stood here his Inferno would have been incalculably more august and great. Into this pit would he have hurled its stupendous action, and it would have gathered immeasurable force from the terrible congruity of emplacement. The beauty of the Grand Cañon is supremely pitiless, disdainful of mankind, and proud.

"Such shapes are nowhere else, nor such colours • • • shell-pink, salmon-pink, flesh-coloured; ocean-blue, forget-me-not blue, hyacinth, purple, lilac, lavender; Nile-green, forest green, emerald; orange, primrose, saffron, lemon, sage, citron; scarlet, gold, azure. • • •

"After all I am not attempting to describe [!] . . . • • •

"Sometimes [we drove] as if away from it, through Tusayan forest (as big, they say, as Wales), only to get back to it at Grand View. That name I hate: every view of the Cañon is belittled by calling it grand: but the place is glorious."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Belknap, Helen Runyon

- 1293 1921 The Grand Canyon. The Lyric West (Los Angeles), 1(3) (June): 10.
- It seems some vast transition place
For passing soul;
The breeding space,
The silences that roll.
Depth below depth the shadows lie,
Soft purple birds.
Height above height dim bends the sky
Like music with no words.
They wait—these rocks of giant form;
Like lights of rose,
Shadows of storm,
Or spirits of repose.
Here springs a strength that does not cease;
Indwelling grace,
Triumphant peace,
Flows form this mighty place.
I feel as though it had been made
For souls just free.
Through light and shade
They sweep—eternally.

Boston Art Club

- 1294 1921 Copley Society catalogue of paintings in water color by Winslow Homer, John S. Sargent, Dodge MacKnight : exhibited at the Boston Art Club, March 5th to March 22d, 1921. [Boston: Boston Art Club], 17 pp.

Dodge MacKnight paintings include: "Grand View, Grand Canyon" (p. 15), "Grand Canyon" (p. 15), "The Grand Canyon" (p. 16), "Grand Canyon" (p. 17), "The Great Abyss, Grand Canyon" (p. 17), "Nature's Monument, Grand Canyon" (p. 17). (Catalogue lists only titles of artwork and their loaners.)

Broun, Heywood

- 1295 1921 Seeing things at night. New York: Harcourt, Brace and Co., 268 pp.

See pp. 140-141, in conversation with "an old man from down the road"; the old man's brief remarks on Grand Canyon.

Bryan, Alfred

- 1296 1921 Grand Canyon. Los Angeles Evening Herald, (September 26).

This is the source of the picked-out and widely quoted "I am ten thousand cathedrals rolled into one", but which is in its whole as richly imaginative as are the thousands of thoughts of those who write of the canyon in prose, or splash in paint, or dodge in a darkroom—and the ten thousand cathedrals are seen here in their proper context, amidst all the mimicry.

I am the Grand Canyon.
My other names are Beethoven and Wagner.
Immortal as Sorrow, deathless as Love.
My solitudes are limned in muted symphonies,
My Silences are organ-toned,
And the Stars above my head are jeweled fingers of the Night
That touch octaves of the winds that sing my threnodies.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

I am a dissonance of aeons crashing their epochs
In countless Iliads of eternity.
I am the wild music of the Valkyries,
Halted in the Heavens and hushed into stone.
I am the symphony Egmont played on flutes of granite.
I am an untold tragedy of the ages:
I am a deep wound in the heart of the Rockies
Like the wound in the breast of Lincoln, seen through the mist of years.
My twilight is the morning of the Gods:
I was Before and shall be After.
I am the sequestered haunts of Zarathustra,
And the flaming words of his high priest Nietzsche
Chilled to stone in the frozen horror of his pitiless benedictions.
I spanned the arc of the fallen angels,
And the outstretched wings of Lucifer in their flight from Paradise.
I hold no ending of life and no beginning of death,
My joys are sorrows are immutable and eternal:
Within my marble halls
Belshazzar still revels in his fleshy feasts,
While through my moonlit passes
The battered hosts of Ghengis Khan are forever retreating.
I am a voice that keeps repeating "There is a God."
I am the cradle of all superstitions;
Atheism never reared her unbelieving head
Amidst my whisper-haunted sanctuaries.
I am ten thousand cathedrals rolled into one
Awaiting the coming of some dim Pagan Zeus
To summon humanity to its last eternal Valhalla.
My winding balustrades ascend far away into the Past;
My cyclopean pillars are holding up the towers of the Present;
My Golgothian cornices frown upon the Future.
I am the Apollo of all earthly dominions;
The Sun is my looking glass, and the far off Niagaras are my laughter.
I am a greater world fashioned by some greater God:
The phantasmagor of some mad Angelo eclipsing Dante in stone.
I am a lost continent, cathedral-gaunted, ruin-enchanted, untenanted.
I am the wonder world of the people who live in the Stars,
My invisible inhabitants once lived in the Moon.
I am the Grand Canyon.

Büchler, Eduard

- 1297 1921 Rund um die Erde : erlebtes aus Amerika, Japan, Korea, China, Indien und Arabien. Bern: Verlag von A. Francke A.-G., 259 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Around the world: experiences from America, Japan, Korea, China, India and Arabia.')

See "IV. Das Westliche Amerika" (pp. 60-83) (transl. 'Western America'); Grand Canyon, pp. 68-72, plate between pp. 64/65. The account includes a trip down Hermit Trail to Hermit Camp and the Colorado River, returning by way of Bright Angel Trail.

"Es erfasste mich ein unheimliches Schaudern, als ich über den tiefen Abgrund hinweg in dieses unendlich grosse Chaos von rötlich-violetten Felstürmen sah. Die Abgründe wurden von der herankommenden Dämmerung bereits verschleiert. • • •

"Erst bei Einbruch der Dunkelheit kehrten wir wieder ins Hotel zurück. • • •

"Am folgenden Morgen unternahmen wir auf Maul tieren, die ab und zu einen fröhlichen Galopp nicht verachteten, eine zweitägige Tour in den Grand Canyon. Ein schmaler, steiler Pfad, der Hermit Trail, führte uns

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

in vielen Zickzacken ungefähr 1500 Meter tief hinunter zu einer Ansiedelung von wenigen Häusern, dem Hermit Camp. Hier unten befanden wir uns plötzlich im schönsten Sommerwetter, alle Pflanzen, die der trockene, steinige Boden hervorbringen konnte, waren in voller Blüte. Die steilen Wände des Canyon kamen uns wie mächtige Gebirgsketten vor, deren Gestein je nach der Beleuchtung in Braun, Rot oder Violett leuchtete.

„Ein kurzer Ritt von einer Stunde durch eine Felsen schlucht, die in eine liebliche Oase ausmündete, brachte uns an den Strand des gelbgrauen Coloradoflusses. • • •

„Auf dem Rückritte nach dem Hermit Camp konnten wir in Musse das schönste Alpenglühn, an den Felswänden über uns bewundern. Am Ziel angekommen, trug uns ein kräftig gebauter Cowboy ein einfaches Nachtessen auf. Bald entspann sich zwischen ihm und einem seiner Gäste, einem Australier, ein heftiges Wortgefecht über die Tüchtigkeit der australischen und westamerikanischen Reiter. Es war eine Freude, dem markig gebauten Yankee zuzusehen, mit welchem Feuer er seine Kameraden verteidigte. Obschon er hier der Dienende und der andere Gast war, sagte er aufrichtig und gerade seine Meinung und liess sich auch von dem spitzen Knebelschnurrbart des Australiers nicht imponieren. Am liebsten hätte er seinen Gegner gleich zu einem Reiterduell herausgefordert. • • •

„Am nächsten Morgen waren wir wiederum früh im Sattel. Ein tropischer Sonnenschein verbrannte uns Gesicht und Hände. Mit Ausnahme einer Oase, an der wir Mittagsrast machten, führte uns unsere Wanderung durch ausgetrocknetes wildes Gelände. Ab und zu begegneten wir wilden Eseln, die uns anglotzten und dann plötzlich die Flucht ergriffen. Eine schöne Insel in dieser Wildnis ist der Indianische Garten (Garden of Indians), der mit seinem blühenden Buschwerk dem Auge eine willkommene Abwechslung bot. Hier lag auch eine verlassene Goldgräber-Einsiedelei. Ein steiler Pfad, der «Bright Angel Trail», führte uns an oft senkrechten Felswänden entlang und in zwei Stunden wieder nach dem El Tovar-Hotel hinauf. Am liebsten wäre ich gleich auf meinem Maultiere zum Nachtessen geritten, denn der zweitägige Ritt machte uns das Gehen sauer und schmerzhaft.“

(translation)

‘An eerie shudder seized me as I looked across the deep abyss into this endless chaos of reddish-violet rock towers. The chasms were already obscured by the oncoming twilight. • • •

‘Only when it got dark did we return to the hotel. • • •

‘The following morning we went on a two-day tour of the Grand Canyon on mules, who occasionally did not despise a happy gallop. A narrow, steep path, the Hermit Trail, led us in many zigzags down about 1500 meters down to a settlement of a few houses, the Hermit Camp. Down here we suddenly found ourselves in the most beautiful summer weather, all the plants that the dry, stony ground could produce were in full bloom. The sheer walls of the canyon seemed like mighty mountain ranges, the rock glowing brown, red, or purple depending on the lighting.

‘A short ride of an hour through a rocky gorge, which opens into a lovely oasis, brought us to the shore of the yellow-grey Colorado River. • • •

‘On the ride back to the Hermit Camp we were able to admire the most beautiful glow of the alps on the rock faces above us in Musse. When we arrived at our destination, a stocky cowboy gave us a simple dinner. A heated argument soon broke out between him and one of the guests, an Australian, about the proficiency of Australian and West American riders. It was a pleasure to watch the powerfully built Yankee vigorously defend his comrades. Although he was the servant here and the other a guest, he spoke his mind honestly and squarely and was not impressed by the Australian’s pointed full moustache. He would have preferred to challenge his opponent to a cavalry duel. • • •

‘The next morning we were again early in the saddle. A tropical sunshine burned our faces and hands. With the exception of an oasis where we stopped for lunch, our journey took us through dry, wild terrain. From time to time we encountered wild donkeys that would stare at us and then suddenly flee. A beautiful island in this wilderness is the Garden of Indians [Indian Gardens], which offered a welcome change of pace to the eye with its flowering shrubs. There was also an abandoned gold digger’s hermitage here. A steep path, the “Bright Angel Trail”, led us along often vertical cliffs and back up to the El Tovar Hotel in two hours. I would have preferred to have ridden on my mule to supper right away, for the two-day ride made us sore and walking painful.’

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Baker, Horace Edward

- 1298 1921 —And a big can of water; life along the Santa Fe Trail moves faster than in the old days, but there are still some perils. Outing, 78(2) (May): 66-68, 85, 87-88. [See pp. 67-68.] [Title begins with a dash, thus.]

Automobile trip.

"For several days we lingered in the United States Forest Reserve Camp at the Grand Canyon . . . .

"I am not trying to write a guide book, but warn you that two of the greatest things in the world are mentioned in the preceding paragraph—the petrified forest and the Grand Canyon. These are the paramount attractions of the Old Trails route, and reams have been written about each." (ENTIRE NOTES)

Burroughs, John

- 1299 1921 New gleanings in field and wood. Harper's Magazine, 143 (August): 351-358.

See p. 353, remarks on strata seen in the Grand Canyon, and ancient life.

- 1300 1921 Under the maples. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), 223 pp.

See pp. 182-183, 194-195.

Carter, Charles Frederick

- 1301 1921 How Doheny got there; an intimate study of one of the most brilliant figures in the American oil industry. The Magazine of Wall Street, 29(1) (November 12): 40-42.

Edward Laurence Doheny. See p. 40:

"One [little diversion] occurred in 1875, when Doheny was 19 years old. He had joined a party of prospectors on a trip to the Grand Canyon. This was seven years after Major Powell had made his historic trip down the Colorado River. One day while a member of the party was being lowered over a cliff to look for indications of mineral the rope broke and the man fell to his death. There was no way to recover the body because all the ropes in the party had been combined to make up the one that broke. So the survivors [sic] went their several ways and forgot the tragedy; that is, all but Doheny. He could do nothing at the time; but he could, and did, return a year later with a companion, and had himself lowered over the cliff and gave the skeleton a decent burial." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The man killed was James Mooney, for whom Mooney Falls on Havasu Creek takes its name.

Crapsey, Adelaide

- 1302 1921 The Grand Canyon. From: [Dedication] To the memory of Adelaide Crapsey, scholar and poet, who, being dead, yet speaketh. In: Crapsey, Algernon Sidney, The ways of the gods. New York: International Press, p. [v].

Reprints Crapsey (1915).

Cross, Roselle Theodore

- 1303 1921 My mountains. Boston: The Stratford Co., 261 [265] pp.

See "The Grand Canon" (pp. 107-111). This is the far more complete telling of his 1884 trip down Peach Springs Canyon, compared to that of Cross (1896).

"In the summer of 1884 the friend (Rev. W. D. Westervelt) with whom I took many mountain trips, and myself, found ourselves at Albuquerque in New Mexico helping to organize an association of churches for New

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mexico and Arizona. To him that hath shall be given, and as we had passes from Denver more were given us, so that the way suddenly opened for us to go five hundred miles further west and visit the Grand Canon of the Colorado, the Grand Canon of America and of the world. • • •

"At one o'clock Tuesday morning we were at Peach Springs, Arizona, the nearest point to the Grand Canon then reached by the railroad. We had sent word ahead for a team to be ready to start at once for the canon, twenty-three miles north. Ten dollars each for the round trip seemed a high price after riding free 1000 miles on the cars, but we gladly paid it. A hasty cup of coffee and we were on the buckboard behind two good horses. We must be back in seventeen hours to catch the east-bound train.

"Give me my revolver," we heard the driver say, "There are some hard characters in town tonight, and they may hold us up if they know that I am taking out tourists at this time of night."

"So for the first two or three miles I nervously watched the bushes along the road, wondering what I would do if I should hear the call: 'Hands up,' and the driver should answer by opening fire.

"Our road lay down Peach Springs Canon, dry then but showing evidence of fearful torrents at times. When day broke the rocky walls were rising thousands of feet above us.

"Do you see that cave in the cliff?" said the driver. "How far do you suppose it is from the top." "Fifty feet," I answered.

"It is 250 feet," said he, "I know for I let myself down to it once with a rope."

"I did not dispute his statement, but I said to myself, 'perhaps.'"

"Calling our attention to a conical hill ahead of us he asked how far we thought it was. I was accustomed to the deceptive distances of the mountains, and not wishing to be voted a tenderfoot, I said: 'Three-quarters of a mile,' though in the gray dawn it appeared much less than that. 'It is five miles,' said he. I did not believe him then, but an hour later I did. That hill was at the end of our journey, Haystack Peak [Diamond Peak], 3900 feet high, he said. There was a standing offer of twenty dollars to any one who would replace the flag that had once been on its summit. I did not compete for that prize.

"We reached the canon at six and had four hours to stay. Would that it had been four days! Time was too precious to waste in eating breakfast. Snatching a biscuit and eating as we went, we climbed a hill a thousand feet high or more, reaching the top in twenty-five minutes. We chose that as giving us a better view and wider outlook, instead of following Diamond Creek down to where it enters the Colorado, where the view, though fine, is too contracted.

"When we reached the summit of the hill we turned and looked, and looked, and looked. For awhile I could say nothing but Oh! Oh! Oh! And then in those profound canon depths I repeated what I said on the profound mountain heights of Gray's Peak: 'Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God.' [Psalm 90:2.] Such emotions of grandeur I think I had never before experienced. I had stood on Pike's Peak at sunrise and looked down on 10,000 square miles of white billowy clouds, with here and there an opening to show the green earth beneath. I had looked from the summit of Mount Lincoln out upon a ragged, storm-tossed sea of snow-capped peaks and ranges, stretching far as the eye could reach. I had stood in the Royal Gorge, and had looked from one of the Elk Mountain peaks down into wondrous valleys. I had stood by Niagara and listened to its thunderous roar, but that first glimpse of the world's great canon eclipsed them all. We looked down on the turbid Colorado River, seemingly a narrow sluggish stream, but really a swiftly rushing torrent, the drainage of 300,000 square miles, and of many great mountain ranges, whose deep winter snows were then fast disappearing under the summer sun. At that point the river was about 250 feet wide, but it was some 200 feet deep, and was then some fifty feet above low water mark. The Haystack was behind us, 3900 feet high. One might call it 4000, but who wants to tell a lie for a hundred feet? Back of it was Sunset Peak, 6000 feet high, they said. Across the river Solomon's Temple, stupendous and grand, rose some 6000 feet above the river. Mount Emma, Tower of Babel, and other cliffs were about as high. Remember, their summits are on the level of the surrounding country, and the river has slowly cut the canon out of the rock as the whole region was slowly rising. The cliffs are made up of many perpendicular precipices connected by steep slopes of debris. We could look up and down the river for miles,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

and could see, counting both sides, about twenty miles of those marble walls, stupendous in size and height, yet wondrously colored and carved and wondrously beautiful and sublime.

"And then we remembered that the canon was about 300 miles long and that in places it was 6000 feet or more in depth, and we thought of the wonderful exploit of one-armed Major Powell, who in 1869, and again in 1871, descended the whole length of the canon in a boat, an exploit that has been repeated but few times in the half century since then.

"Descending the hill we went a mile or two up Diamond Creek Canon. It is a side-show, yet in some respects it excels any canon in Colorado. At one point the black igneous walls were only twelve feet apart at the bottom and rose 2700 feet, they said. Many years ago an adventurer 'salted' that canon with thousands of dollars worth of diamonds and started the great Arizona diamond excitement. Hence the name of the canon.

"Ten o'clock came too soon. We started back in the intense heat of an Arizona midsummer day. Most mercilessly did the sun beat down into the canon. The road out was sandy, rocky, dusty and very steep. It was nine miles to water, a stagnant spring open to the sun and full of insects, then ten miles to more water. At the railroad at six p. m. the thermometer stood at 102°. When within a half mile of the depot we saw our train moving away from the station. It was running wild and ahead of time. They ran into the mountains and were side-tracked where it was not too hot for the trainmen to get some sleep. We took a freight train three hours later and overtook them the next morning . . ."

Crowell, Chester T.

1304

1921 "Straight down to China"; a tale of mules and thrills in the Grand Canyon of Arizona. The Independent (New York), 105 (June 4): 579-580, 600-603.

"Have you ever laughed at one of those comic strips in the newspapers showing a man falling over backward, from astonishment, his eyes represented by two crosses like the plus signs in arithmetic? Well, that was me when I took my first look at the Grand Canyon. • • •

"If I had seen a Chinaman peeking at me thru the bottom it would not have surprized me. And then they told me that I could see only half way down from the top; I adjourned to a near-by bench to contemplate that fact and see if I could digest it. • • •

"I sat there, a safe distance from the rim of that Canyon—a very safe distance—and I breathed very deeply and I felt my heart pounding against my ribs and then I uttered this eloquent tribute to Nature: 'Damn.'"

Most of the remainder of the essay comprises the author's hair-raising mule trip down Bright Angel Trail to "Turtle Back Plateau" (Tonto Plateau); lots of observations about his mule.

"I suppose by this time hundreds of thousands of people must have seen the Grand Canyon and yet I can promise you that when you see it, even tho you have purchased a prosaic ticket for your mule and your lunch, you will feel that you are the first person who has ever seen it. • • •

"I pictured the predicament of the first man who ever saw that Canyon • • •

"I'll bet he said 'Damn.'"

De Cou, Branson

1305

1921 These are Dream Pictures! They can aid in music store sales. The Music Trades (New York), 62(25) (December 17): 13, 15.

Item not signed, and written in the third person; dated "Newark, N. J., Dec. 12." Advertises, "By a novel employment of these magnificent views, Branson De Cou of L. Bamberger & Co. in Newark, N. J., has built up an amazingly successful plan for increasing the sale of high-class music. The complete story of his remarkable idea is disclosed in the accompanying text." See also correspondence from De Cou, (27) (December 31): 36, which provides correction and notes. This pertains to commercialized programs of coordinated projected scenic views and recorded music, for use in public venues (for example, see Winslow, 1922). This item includes a "typical program" (p. 15), which concludes, "Record No. 74387—Kreisl[er]. Nature's Supreme Spectacle—The

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grand Canyon of the Colorado—Prelude, C sharp Minor, Rachmaninoff[, ] Recorded by the Composer, the Ampico in the Chickering Reproducing Piano[.]” This is also described a bit more fully in the text on p. 15.

Dixon, Winifred H.

1306

1921 Westward hoboos : ups and downs of frontier motoring. (Photographs by Katherine Thaxter and Rollin Lester Dixon.) New York: Scribner’s Sons, 377 pp. [Also later printings, 1924, 1928, 1930.]

From Boston to the West in a Cadillac Eight. See Chapter 16, “The Grand Canyon and the Havasupai Canyon”, pp. 220-233.

“Driving a few rods along the open road, we had our first sight of the Canyon at Grand View Point, with the sun setting over its amethyst chasm.

“Years before, stepping directly from an eastern train, like most tourists I had seen the Canyon as my first stunned inkling of the extraordinary scale on which an extravagant Creator planned the West. This time, Toby and I had the disadvantage of coming newly to it after being sated with the heaped magnificence of the Rockies. Would its vastness shrink? Would it still take our breath away? I don’t know why people want their breath taken away. In the end, they usually put up a valiant fight to keep it, but at other times, they constantly seek new ways to have it snatched from them. But we need not have worried about the Grand Canyon. It is big enough and old enough to take care of itself. • • •

“The best description of the Grand Canyon is in one sentence, and was uttered by an author who had never bought a post-card in El Tovar. ‘What is man, that Thou art mindful of him!’ [Psalm 8:4] • • •

“It is so great a pity that most of those who ‘see’ the Canyon do not see it at all. They arrive one morning, and depart the next. They walk a few rods along its edge at El Tovar, visit the Hopi house, and hear the Kolb Brothers lecture. If adventurous, they don overalls or divided skirts, mount a velvet-faced burro who seems afflicted with a melancholy desire to end his tourist-harassed existence by a side-step over Bright Angel. They speak afterward with bated breath—the tourists, not the burros—of the terrors of a trail which is a boulevard compared to some in the Canyon. • • •

“There are so many ways to ‘do’ the Canyon, that vast labyrinth that could not be ‘done’ in a thousand years!”

A trip to Supai:

“Sometimes our horses balked, and had to be pulled forward by the bridle, the more nervous becoming panicky, and trying to turn back. It takes a bad trail to make a Western broncho do that. Frequently we had to dismount, and avoiding their hoofs, urge them to leap obstructing boulders. Except for the usual mesquite and sage, the trail was barren of vegetation, and the sun found us out and scourged us. Old travelers will speak of Havasupai Canyon as the hottest resort in this world, with even odds on the next. • • •

“The [Indian] agent hospitably put his house at our disposal, though he was preparing to leave soon for another post. He was a homesick man. Life in Paradise is bad for the civilized. • • •

“Visitors are so rare that we were the centre of an admiring group on the agent’s lawn. Havasupai from nine months to ninety years freely commented on our every move. • • •

“As we continued up and down through the thicket, a veritable flight of stone steps too steep for descending on horseback dismounted us, and again quite casually we looked to our right, and saw falls twice the height of Niagara. But Niagara cannot display the same back ground of vivid cliffs, long canyon vistas, tangled and matted with tropical trees and vines, nor its perfect pool of aquamarine. But to name a waterfall Bridal Veil is like naming a Smith offspring John. • • •

[At Mooney Falls] “Here was our bath de luxe. I am sure no king or courtesan ever found one more nearly perfect. While the guides explored another canyon, we swam to our hearts’ content, cool for the first time in days. • • •

“Spray-drenched, we swam as near as we dared to the great cascade, which set the pool dancing in eternal waves. When we finished our swim we were invigorated as if a dozen masseuses had spent the day over us.”

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Drake, Joseph K.

- 1307 1921 Narrative of the convention; letters to friendly competitor from member of Presidential Special Party. The Credit Monthly (New York), 23(8) (August)16-23.

Convention of the National Association of Credit Men, San Francisco. See p. 16, in answer to the question, "Are we going to miss the Grand Canyon?": "A little late in arriving at the Grand Canyon, but exactly in time to enjoy a hail storm and then a sunset. You know there is nothing like a Grand Canyon sunset on this earth." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Fletcher, John Gould

- 1308 1921 Breakers and granite. New York: Macmillan Co., 163 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado", pp. 95-99. Dated August 1915.

I

I have seen that which is mysterious,
Aloof, divided, silent;
Something not of this earth.

Suddenly the endless dark green piney uplands Stopped.
Yellow, red, grey-green, purple-black chasms fell swiftly below each other.

On the other side
Strong-built, arose
Towers whose durable terraces were hammered from red sandstone,
Purple granite, and gold.

Beyond
A golden wall.
Aloof, inscrutable.
It was hidden
Behind layers of white silence.
No voice might reach it;
It was not of this earth.

II

When the free thunder-spirit
Had built and carved these terraced walls,
Completing his task of ages;
He wrote upon them
In dark invisible words,
"It is finished."

Silent and windless,
The forever completed
Is never broken but by clouds.
Sometimes dark eagles slow-sailing
Rise out of it, like spirits,
Wheeling away.

Now in the steady glare,
Some will moves darkly,
Driving the clouds, piling them,
Shaping masses of shadow
That move slowly forward
Over the array of towers.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Yet still behind them,
Unscarred, unaltered,
The work stands finish.
Without a cry of protest, for protest is uncompletion,
Moulded and fashioned forever in durable ageless stone,
And on every surface is written
In strong invisible words,
"It is finished."

III

Should I by chance deserve some last reward from earth,—
The rewards of earth are usually unwholesome;—
One single thing I would ask for,
Burn my body here.

Kindle the pyre
Upon this jutting point
Dry aromatic juniper,
Lean flame, blue smoke,
Ashes and dust.

The winds would drift the ash
Outwards across the canyon;
To the rose-purple rim of the desert
Beyond the red-barred towers.

The rabbits in the morning
Would come and snuff at the embers,
While the chasm rekindling,
Would build up its silent poem of colour to the sun.

IV

Shadows of clouds
March across the canyon,
Shadows of blue hands passing
Over a curtain of flame.

Clutching, staggering, upstriking,
Darting in blue-black fury,
To where the pinnacles, green and orange,
Await.

The winds are battling and striving to break them;
Thin lightnings spit and flicker,
The peaks seem a dance of scarlet demons
Flitting amid the shadows.

Grey grain-curtains wave afar off
Wisps of vapour curl and vanish:
The sun throws soft shafts of golden light
Over rose-buttressed palisades.

Now the clouds are a lazy procession:
Blue balloons bobbing solemnly
Over black-dappled walls:

Where rise sharp-fretted, golden-roofed cathedrals
Exultantly, and split the sky with light.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ford, James Tooker

- 1309 1921 From the rim of the Grand Canyon; an impression. The Continent, 52(25) (June 23): 744.

"Let one speak it reverently! The vision before you is so ethereal, so surpassingly full of splendor that it is as if an angel of the Lord, with body leaning over the horizon, his height reaching to the very zenith, were stretching out his arms from east to west and holding draped on them in perfect silence the weaves of the looms of paradise.

"Tints most delicate, of exquisitely soft pinks and blues and lavenders and browns and purples, lie displayed miles beyond miles. No mortal eye ever feasted on such a vision in any other place on earth. No imagination would ever dream that colors could be so softly and harmoniously blended. But there they actually lie smiling in that awful unbroken silence. The appearance is not of soil and rocks but of leagues of delicate parti-colored silks.

• • •

"The old settler tells you that no bird can fly across that thirteen miles; some invisible force weights its wings, and invariably it returns panting to the edge it left. No aeroplane can sail over it, it is said, except at the highest altitudes, the suction is so great the pilot attempting the flight would court certain death. Men have tried to raise a balloon to get a bird's-eye view of this wonder of wonders, but always, we were told, the balloon has been drawn downward. The wild cyclone that laughs at forests and brick walls, when it comes to the home of this uncanny power sinks frightened and powerless in its invisible wrasp. No storm was ever known to cross the Grand Canyon. Its thunder and lightning are swallowed up in the mouth of the eternal silence."

Ford, John Anson

- 1310 1921 Harley-Davidson Sport Model first to bottom of the Grand Canyon. The Harley-Davidson Enthusiast (Milwaukee, Wisconsin), (34) (March): cover, 6-8, 15, 21.

Biker John Edwin Hogg rides a Harley from Los Angeles to Peach Springs and down to the Colorado River. Well illustrated (Blaine Walker, a Fox Film Company motion picture cameraman met him at Peach Springs), and pack animals accompanied them. The cover illustration scenically shows Hogg and the motorcycle at the Colorado River—the mouth of Diamond Creek. [Imagine what Lts. Ives or Wheeler would have thought of this.]

"Once he crashed headon into a big boulder to avoid taking a nose-dive into a clump of ocotillo cactus. • • •

"Over the top [of a dune] he came, and shot into the air. Down went the front wheel, and over the handlebars went the rider—end over tinkettle about a dozen times with the machine tumbling like a ten pin down the dune after him. Meanwhile the motion picture camera clicked. It was all over in the fraction of a second. Hogg picked himself up, looked sort of bewildered for a second or two, then shook the sand out of his ears, hopped on the little machine and rode triumphantly down the last hundred feet of Diamond Creek wash to the bank of the roaring swirling Colorado."

Fred Harvey [firm]

- 1311 1921 American delegates to the Press Congress of the World at the Grand Canyon, Arizona, en route to Honolulu. Editor and Publisher (New York), 54(20) (October 15): 9.

Photo only, credited to Fred Harvey. See also Elder (1922).

Goemaere, Pierre

- 1312 1921 Across America with the King of the Belgians. (Authorized translation from the French by Beatrice Sorchan.) New York: E. P. Dutton and Co., 149 pp.

Translation of Goemaere (1920), about the Belgian king and queen's tour of America. See "The Grand Canyon. The Red-Skins" (pp. 111-112). Disappointingly, the chronicler missed the great opportunity to record the sovereigns' impressions of the canyon. His entire record is as follows:

"And now our Sovereigns, having at last left the wonders of California, started east again. Crossing Arizona, they stopped for a few hours at the Grand Canyon, which is undoubtedly one of the most extraordinary curiosities

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

of the picturesque world. In spite of the fact that by its depth and the steepness of its perpendicular slopes this valley reminded us of the Yosemite, it cannot be compared with it. Its red cliffs on which no vegetation grows and its rocky depths through which runs a muddy stream give it an entirely different aspect. It is like an immense caldron of brick-colored copper, fourteen miles in width. It is an extraordinary phenomenon, this enormous hole which is not the result of eruption and upheaval, but of a slow depression of the earth worn away by subterranean streams.

"Three Indian tribes live on the edges of the Grand Canyon. They organized dances in honor of the King. A great yellow monster whose face was streaked with many colors and whose body was covered with feathers, gesticulated for several minutes, uttering guttural cries and waving a spear and shield over his head.

"The most interesting dance, however, was with out doubt the 'Dance of Tears.' A handful of men just like the first in their grotesque make up ran around in a circle single file, singing vague sort of dirge. After a quarter of an hour this race became frenzied and painful. The dancers were completely out of breath. Nevertheless, they went on stamping and wailing. Then their chant began to resemble groans, cries and sobs as a result of their exhaustion. It was the 'Dance of Tears' in all its glory.

"After it was over the King summoned the chief of the dance to him and pinned a medal on his breast which was beating like a bird's wing. Sekakuku—that was his name—opened his mouth (it is true that he was so out of breath that he could hardly close it) at the sight of this beautiful red ribbon and this medal which was shining so brightly. Then he went off to carry his new fetich to the men of his tribe who congratulated him, lifting up their arms to the sky.

"How proud he was, that chief of the dance!"

Note elsewhere in this bibliography, where a couple of other accounts of the monarch's visit to Grand Canyon include the dispensation of medals.

Hadwen, Walter R.

1313

NO DATE First impressions of America. London: Hutchinson and Co., 320 pp. [Ca. 1921.]

See Chapter 14, "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado", pp. 221-236.

"Before I went to America I had never heard of 'The Grand Canyon'; when I reached the United States and spoke of going on to California, I heard of very little else. • • •

"I wanted to know what it was like, but the only intelligible answer I could get in reply was: 'It is a huge Canyon!' • • •

"If I asked for a description, I was told: 'It is indescribable, you must see it for yourself; we never knew anyone yet who could describe it. It must be seen to be understood, and even then you won't understand.'"— and the like for a couple of more pages. At last:

"It was quite early morning. We hastily washed and dressed, and leaving the [rail] cars, sauntered up several flights of terraced steps to the El Tovar Hotel, where we ordered breakfast and a very good breakfast it was. Through the windows and corridors of this rather extensive building we caught sight again and again of what appeared to be some very curious structures, but decided to satisfy our appetites first and to leave curiosity to be satisfied subsequently.

"Breakfast over, we walked out on to the macadamised terrace which surrounded the hotel, and to our amazement we came, quite suddenly and unexpectedly, face to face with the Grand Canyon! The hotel had been built upon its very rim!

"The suddenness of the view, the staggering sight which presented itself, the bewildering scene of indescribable and mysterious grandeur which stretched in front, the ever-changing vista of colour that disported itself in the light of the morning sun, the almost horrifying spectacle of a sheer cliff of rock descending to the depth of a mile below our feet, and the great range of mysterious, stupendous, multi-coloured mountains, painted as it were by a scenic artist in all the colours of the rainbow, that lifted their gigantic heads from the floor of this titanic gorge, constituted something that, without question, stood alone in the universe—something that, for the moment, held everyone who saw it for the first time, spell-bound! I then understood as I could

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

have understood in no other way, what was meant when on every hand was rung in my ears, 'You must see the Grand Canyon!'"

Openly defying almost every other writer who said it can't be described, "Well, let me try to describe it from the spot where I first saw it on the terrace of the El Tovar Hotel."—and without omitting "monster castles", "turreted battlements", "jagged pinnacles", "terraced perpendicular walls", "ruined fortifications left by Titans", and "every colour of the rainbow", and "light and shadow", and back to "Egyptian pyramids" and "some mighty pre-historic race", lands upon "Serene and dignified, Nature, in the Grand Canyon, looks down from her throne with a face that presents many a scar received in deadly combat with her foes."

The trip down Bright Angel Trail: "I had no idea what it would be like when I started, or I should not have gone, and I certainly shall never go again. It was the most nerve-racking experience I ever remember."—with all the same recollections of hundreds (thousands) of others: the mystery of mules and riders alive in this "funeral procession".

". . . nobody wanted a second edition—once was sufficient for a lifetime; we each decided if we came again, neither the Bright Angel Trail nor the Hermit Trail would allure us, but we would take a comfortable automobile drive round the rim at the top."

Back on the rim, refreshments and a "hearty meal" at El Tovar, and a sundown stroll. "There was only one expression on every lip as the gold, red, blue, green, orange, purple, brown, grey, white of the scarred mountains in the titanic canyon were lit up afresh with the glory of the departing day, 'Isn't it wonderful?'"

Holmes, Burton

- 1314 1921 Across the Grand Canyon. Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Pictures (distributed by Paramount Pictures, Inc.), 1 reel.

Silent film produced with well known lecturer Holmes; regading Kaibab Bridge.

Huntoon, M.

- 1315 1921 Angel City Division [SECTION]. The Sleeping Car Conductor (Order of Sleeping Car Conductors, Kansas City, Missouri), 4(9) (September): 15-16.

"Brother and Mrs. A. E. Doty were recent guests at the El Tovar, Grand Canyon. Brother Doty is now an expert in all matters relating to the scenic wonders in and about the Grand Canyon, since we are informed that he took in everything there was in great detail." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Innes, Laurence Edward

- 1316 1921 Several California, western and other verses from the writings of L. E. Innes. [Los Angeles: L. E. Innes], 14 pp. [Cover title: California and western verses.]

See "A Moment at the Grand Canyon", p. 8:

I knew that others followed for the train had been well filled
With tourists really anxious to be overawed and thrilled,
But somehow when I wandered to that jagged awful rim
I forgot the ones about me; far away, and faint, and dim,
Were the cities I had seen, were the people I had known
And suddenly deserted I stood there quite alone.
Here ended earthly questing:—from the broken jagged sod
Marched the great vast naked mountains through the soundless halls of God.
In the arched blue of the heavens where the sun rode on his way,
There was still the solemn splendor of the planetary day.
But here was God above me, and a new God down below,
And the same God all about me, and I seemed to strangely know
That never in the future, in the crowded city street

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Would the vision be quite absent, that when I went to meet
The hard exacting labor of the cold prosaic day
I would see God's marching mountains in unapparelled array—
See and know and feel forever where my weary feet might plod,
That I'd looked for one brief moment down the soundless halls of God.

Johnson, Herbert

1317 1921 The trippers. Saturday Evening Post, 194(15) (October 8): 21.

Cartoon, depicting people speeding through the air as grasshoppers, representing rushing tourists. One comments, "I saw all of the Grand Canyon—was there over night!"

Keyserling, Hermann [Hermann, Graf von Keyserling]

1318 1921 Das Reisetagebuch eines Philosophen. Zweiter Band. Darmstadt: Otto Reichl Verlag, 5th ed., pp. 411-886 + advertisements. ("Gedruckt in der Spammerschen Buchdruckerei zu Leipzig".) [In German.] [Numerous eds. and printings, 1919-2002, and in translation, Harcourt, Brace and Co. (New York, 1925), also widely reprinted.]
(transl. 'A philosopher's travel diary. Second volume.')

See "Am Gran Cañon des Colorado" ('At the Grand Canyon of the Colorado'), pp. 759-764. Begins with the philosophical incantation,

"Vor dem ungeheueren Bilde des Gran Canon muß ich an Kants definition des Erhabenen denken: erhaben sei ein Gegenstand, dessen Betrachtung das, Gemüt dazu bewegt, sich die Unerreichbarkeit der Natur als Darstellung von Ideen zu deuten." (transl. 'Before the monstrous image of the Grand Canyon I have to think of Kant's definition of the sublime: sublime is an object, the contemplation of which moves the mind to interpret the unattainability of nature as a representation of ideas.')

"Der Gran Canon des Colorado ist nicht allein in diesem Sinne schön: die strengen, von kosmischer Vernunft gezogenen Linien erglänzen in einer Farbenpracht, wie kein Venezianer sie hätte reicher, kein Turner phantastischer erdichten können. Diese tote Welt scheint des ewigen Lebens teilhaftig. Jeden Augenblick drückt sie neue Stimmungen aus, jede Stunde wechselt ihr Charakter." ('The Grand Canyon of the Colorado is not only beautiful in this sense [Nature is rational]: the strict lines, drawn by cosmic reason, shine in a blaze of color that no Venetian could have imagined more richly, no Turner could have imagined more fantastically. This dead world seems to partake of eternal life. Every moment it expresses new moods, every hour its character changes.')

Moving on, we meet Kant again, and Archimedes (printed in Greek, of course), and improbably, Plato on hydropower; going on to scold mankind, reminding us that "[d]ie Mahatmas, die stillen Übermenschen des Himavat" ('the Mahatmas, the silent supermen of the Himavat') know the secret ways beyond mortal efforts.

Keyserling finishes with observations of human naïveté on the world stage of war and expansion; and despite the section title, he never does return to his thoughts of the Grand Canyon.

Landers, Richard C.; Solman, Joe; AND Harris, Harry

1319 1921 Down the Grand Canyon Trail. (Lyrics by Richard C. Landers, music by Joe Solomon and Harry Harris.) Boston: Orpheum Music Co. [Score.]

Levy, S. Rutherford

1320 1921 Trip correspondence. National Association of Chiropodists, Journal, 11(6) (June): 17-19.

Letter relates almost entirely to the conventioners' planned visit to Grand Canyon, but Levy draws on his own previous experiences there in the form of tips of where to go and what to see, with occasional personal remarks. A day at the canyon but he does not venture terribly far from El Tovar. With typographical errors, and a bit tortured.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Fairly consumed with anxiety and anticipation, you get off the train and approach a building that happens to be the El Tovar Hotel, you leisurely walk a few paces to a parapet, and to your amazement and pleasure, there appears before you in all its majesty and grandeur, the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Looking into this gigantic basin, you become so awe inspired by the immensity of it all, that you gasp in wonderment.

"The Grand Canyon of Arizona represents an immense depression, nestling within its confines, seven distinct systems of mountains, variegated in their colorings.

"The richness of the color effects is due the mineral makeup of the mountains themselves; they contain the following minerals: Black Kneiss; Variegated Quartzites; Cliff Sandstone; Alcove Sandstone; Redwall Limestone and Aubrey Limestone.

"As you feast your eyes upon this veritable wonderland, the sun's rays playing upon the colorful group of mountains will produce an effect that defies the power of brush or pen to describe.

"The Grand Canyon of Arizona appears to the onlooker as a marvelous panorama, with its massive and towering mountains and its deep canyons.

"At times you will make out in the distance something moving along the trail, as it approaches, you will discern a person afoot or on a burro coming from the floor of the canyon. It may be an interest and thrilling experience to go down to the bottom of the canyon, but to see the Grand Canyon at its fullest advantage, I would advise the Rim Edge Trail, then the beauty and glory of the whole is unfolded to you; this seems to be the consensus of opinion of most tourists who have visited this canyon.

"You commence the Rim Edge Trail route from the El Tovar Hotel, either walking or riding; turning to the right you walk a little distance and then look into the Canyon; words seem inadequate to express the wonderful sight that fairly bewilders your senses, the colorings of the mountains, the shades and effects, the massiveness of it all; then take your eyes from this picturesque group of mountains and canyons, proceed a short distance farther, then gaze again upon this magnificent spectacle you will now see it from a different angle and added charms will hold you almost spellbound.

"Proceed on your way, but from time to time view the Canyon for as you advance on the Rim Edge Trail you will notice the continual changing of the color scheme of this wonderful canyon.

"Finally reaching Yavapai Point, a distance of two miles from the hotel, you are rewarded for the distance traveled, for here you will enjoy a double view of the conyon; to the right thousands of feet below you will see the Colorado River wending its way through the Canyon; straight ahead of you, will imagine seeing pyramids and again you will imagine seeing the sky line of a city of wondrous architectural beauty; to the left you will see the towering mountains and precipices as they rise from the floor of the canyon; the strange part of it all that notwithstanding the great heights of the mountains, you look down upon them because the rim of the canyon is perhaps higher than the mountain tops. As you again look at the mountains you will imagine seeing ancient castles and fortresses carved in the sides of these eminences.

"The Grand Canyon is more than 5000 feet deep, from 8 to 15 miles wide and about 280 miles long. As you look upon this marvelous evidence of the forces of nature, the stillness, the quietness seem to grasp you; here you will find noisy outbursts out of tune and almost a sacrilege; you will feel tempted to cry aloud for joy, but somehow will feel restrained and content yourself with subdued words of acknowledgment and appreciation of the privilege accorded you to witness all this grandeur. An inexplicable something holds you in that state of absorption in which you will feel yourself in a new world far removed from the elements of life and activity.

"Some of the mountains appear barren, others are partially covered with trees and brush. In this vastness at times you will find no signs of life, and again you will perceive a bird flit from rock to rock; and then a person on the trail will come into your vision; an Indian camp [Hopi House] is situated near the hotel, and you are afforded the opportunity of observing the primitive methods of Indian life.

"Would now advise you to return to the hotel for luncheon, after which take the Rim Edge Trail to the left to the Look-Out-Tower [Lookout Studio] where you will find a telescope for your convenience to view many points far distant not detected by the unaided eye. Looking about 50 feet below, you will observe a projecting ledge fenced in by a piped fencing to protect people from falling into the abyss; attracted by this ledge you will likely do as we did, go down and stand on it and look down into the depths 2000 feet below; as I did this a

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

feeling came over me, and I was glad that I was holding on to the fence. After spending several hours just looking and enjoying the great wonders of this canyon, you will likely go to the parapet sit on the benches and watch the dying sun's rays play various pranks on this canyon producing various effects in shades and shadows. Darkness will gradually creep over the canyon thus concluding your visit to the world-famed Grand Canyon of Arizona. You will dine at the hotel, after which you will be entertained by the Indians in an Indian dance."

McKee, Robert Wylie

- 1321 1921 A happy incident of finding water. In: St. Nicholas League [SECTION]. St. Nicholas, 48(9) (July): 856.

The by-line indicates McKee is 11 years of age. This was an essay as part of "Prize Competition No. 256", for which the writer was awarded a Silver Badge in the St. Nicholas League. It relates to the commercial Wylie Way Camp at Bright Angel Point on the North Rim, which his parents managed. [For another contest essay see Sylvia Lewis (1920).] McKee's item is recounted in its entirety:

"At our camp at the Grand Cañon of the Colorado, we had not had nearly enough water; and as our spring was drying up quite fast, we knew we must either give up the camp or find more water. Our spring was down the cañon a way, so that we had to pack the water upon a burro and this made it very hard to get.

"One day, as my father and I were walking along a side cañon, I said, 'Stop a minute—I think I hear water flowing.' My father thought that it was only the wind, but I finally convinced him that it was water. The next day we tried to get down to where I heard the noise, but failed. The day after that we had better luck, but got into such a jungle of thorny plants and trees that we could hardly get through. At last we came upon a beautiful clear stream issuing from a hole in the rock.

"We went up out of the cañon a different way, and ran into a cliff-dwelling, in which we found many relics, including a skull, a stone hatchet, and lots of pottery. We found pottery at the spring, which showed that the cliff-dwellers had used that spring many hundreds of years ago.

"On the way up, we found a very easy way to the top of the cañon, which the cliff dwellers probably used.

"The cliff-dwelling was hidden, so that people could not find it, and they paid me money to guide them to it.

"This incident brought three happy things, namely, a dependable supply of water, an interesting cliff-dwelling, and a way of earning money."

Morse, Harry C.

- 1322 1921 To lovers and others. East Aurora, New York: The Roycrofters, 98 [99] pp.

See pp. 89-90, a philosopher's gaze:

". . . what is imperative to [some men] is not whether God conforms to this or that conception of Him, but that the extent of man's consciousness of, and co-operation with, the God within is the thing vital to him.

"The awe-compelling Grand Canyon of Arizona, perchance bathed in the splendor of a Western sunset, thus completing a spectacle beyond words to describe, is the same to me, whatever may have been the nature of the God that brought it into being. Not its origin, is my concern, but to what extent do I comprehend the sublime result of this work of some invisible hand, so big with wonder that beholding it my tightened throat will not let me speak, and my only language is tears—a silent language than which no other could pay so high a tribute to the silent grandeur that had inspired them. What matters it whether the God who brought about this miracle is a personal God, or otherwise; it has moved me to tears; is not that enough?

"☞ To appreciate the marble masterpiece, it is not essential that I have seen the hand that plied the mallet and chisel."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Nevada Supreme Court

- 1323 1921 Allen v. Allen. (No. 2304.) (Supreme Court of Nevada. Dec. 1, 1920.) In: The Pacific Reporter. Volume 193. Permanent edition. Comprising all the decisions of the Supreme Courts of California, Kansas, Oregon, Washington, Colorado, Montana, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico, Oklahoma : and of the Courts of Appeal of California and Criminal Court of Appeals of Oklahoma. December 13, 1920-January 24, 1921. St. Paul, Minnesota: West Publishing Co., pp. 539-543.

Case of marital intrigue and infidelity in a pseudonymous relationship. See p. 540, a 1906 visit to Grand Canyon by the parties involved.

Paine, Albert Bigelow

- 1324 1921 In one man's life. II.—The return to power. Harper's Magazine, 143 (October): 632-641.

Regarding Theodore N. Vail and the history of the telephone. See p. 641: "President Vail, at Grand Cañon, Arizona, on his way home from California, where he had been attending the Panama-Pacific Exposition, was apprised of this great triumph [a single telephonic and wireless transmission between New York and Paris and between New York and Honolulu]." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1325 1921 In one man's life : being chapters from the personal and business career of Theodore N. Vail. New York and London: Harper and Brothers, 359 pp.

See p. 281: "President Vail, at Grand Cañon, Arizona, on his way home from California, where he had been attending the Panama-Pacific Exposition, was apprised of this great triumph [a single telephonic and wireless transmission between New York and Paris and between New York and Honolulu]." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1326 1921 The car that went abroad : motoring through the Golden Age. New York and London: Harper and Brothers, 341 pp.

See in the chapter, "The Road to Pont du Gard", p. 179. The Grand Canyon does not always win.

"I had been disappointed in natural wonders, and I expected no great things of the Natural Bridge [in Virginia]. • • • Then all at once I turned a corner and stood speechless and stupefied. Far up against the blue a majestic span of stone stretched between two mighty cliffs. I have seen the Grand Cañon since, and Niagara Falls, but nothing ever quite overwhelmed me as did that stupendous Virginia stone arch—nothing until we rounded a bend in the road and stopped facing the Pont du Gard." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Powell, Edith Williams

- 1327 1921 George Elmer Burr; an etcher of the desert. The Print Connoisseur, (June): 311-321.

Includes note of "a vigorous view in the Grand Canyon" from "a Desert Set" by Burr (not illustrated).

Rinehart, Mary Roberts

- 1328 1921 Adventuring de luxe—with Mary Roberts Rinehart and her joyous Desert Caravaners. The Cosmopolitan, 70(6) (June): 71-73, 124-128.

Part of an ongoing series about the Desert Caravaners' trip through the Southwest, mostly with an eye toward visits to Native American sites. They home in, finally, on the Grand Canyon.

"Now, for sometime, the nervous women of the party had been looking forward at night to terrible depths and unguarded precipices, for we were to finish at the Grand Cañon. More than that, we were to camp overnight in the gorge. And whatever the plans for the future, there is no elevator there as yet.

"Now the trails of the Grand Cañon have a peculiar characteristic. They shrink. Between the time some people have come up and left their mules and sat in hot water to take out the soreness and their next meeting

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

with those who have not gone down, the trails frequently diminish from their normal three feet or more to six inches. At no time, also, is the gorge less than a mile, or the wall below anything but completely vertical. This peculiarity also extends to the mules; they cease in retrospect to be willing creatures, only induced by kicking to break into a walk, and become rearing and stampeding beasts, determined on suicide. • • •

"Nevertheless, the round trip down the Hermit Trail and up the Bright Angel is an achievement. It requires endurance of no low order, but, fortunately, the muscles used holding back in the saddle are not the ones used in leaning forward on the ascent. It is more than thirty miles, that round from rim to rim, seven down the Hermit, twenty along the bottom of the gorge, which is still fourteen hundred feet above the river itself, and three up the Bright Angel.

"There is a good permanent camp at the foot of the Hermit Trail. There, having been assigned a tent-cottage, I parted from my mule without regret, for he had begun to pall on me, and lay down to wonder whether I could stand twenty-three miles the next day. But, as I have said before, we had with us that sightseeing element which had a mania for collecting sights, and it now came outside and bellowed that we were only a mile or so from the Colorado, and the mules were ready.

"I did not, just then, care about the Colorado. I wanted to lie on my bed and reflect about the next day, and the wonders of the great gorge, and supper and various things. But I went. After all, what was the use of reflecting about the gorge? It was too big and deep for one mind. It was as beyond thought as it was beyond words.

"With groans, from mule and rider, I mounted again and sought the stream which has done this mighty bit of hydraulic engineering. Or hasn't, depending on one's theory about the cañon. Shall I ever forget the dispute between a junior member of the family and the driver of the car we had taken on the rim, when the driver sat with one hand on the wheel and, facing back, argued at thirty miles an hour, on the unfenced brink of eternity?

"If the Colorado dug the cañon, then it is a strong and virile stream, and its ugliness is as the ugliness of a strong man. If it did not, then it is a hideous, muddy, and quarrelsome little river, without a trout in it so far as we could discover. I had seen it at its terminal, where it makes an inglorious end in mud flats at the head of the Gulf of California, where blue and white heron stood in it, and mud geysers spouted on its banks, and I had said: 'This is its age. It has spent its youthful beauty above.' But it has no beauty. It has mystery and violence and mud, but no loveliness.

"We were well fed and housed at the Hermit Camp. Before we started, we wrote our names in the visitors' book, and there found a curious thing. It had seemed to be the custom of those who had preceded us to burst into poetry. Here, rising all about them, were the vast walls and giant peaks of the cañon.

"Poor little human dots, utterly invisible in their smallness from the rim of the cañon, living for a space in the most wonderful of all the world's wonders—did they write poetry about it? They did not.

"They burst into song about their mules. • • • "

That afternoon, at Indian Garden (though not mentioned by name), "we reached the foot of the Bright Angel Trail, and cast our wistful eyes on and up, to where through a field glass we could see above, tiny specks against the sky, the heads of those craven souls who believe, or profess to believe, that the only way to see the cañon is from the rim. • • •

". . . and it began to rain. It thundered and lightened and rained. . . . and there was no other way out. We started to climb. • • •

"But when the rain ceased and the sun came out, through the new-washed air came such a panorama of loveliness as held us silent—purple peaks and golden peaks, rose and blue, they rose above the cañon mists like fairy isles of some enchanted land.

"For twenty-four hours I remained in bed, resting from my mule. Not for me the tom-toms calling to the Indian dance, the post-card writing, and the tourists down below. For me, the hot, relaxing tub, the tray with delicious food, the sunburn lotion, and a book. But at last I rose, dressed and proceeded to the edge of the cañon. Standing there, I looked down. My glance was kindly, affectionate, even patronizing.

"I sat down, slowly. I was moving slowly that day. And a woman beside me said,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"I am crazy to go down, but I am terrified to try it."

"I smiled tolerantly.

"I've just come up," I said. "It is wonderful. And easy. Perfectly easy."

Rowland, W. E.

1329

1921 Conquering the canyon; to the depths of the Grand Canyon and up again by motor. Motor (New York), 36(2) (July): 31, 104, 106.

A drive down Peach Springs Canyon in a Velie.

". . . I simply could not get out of my head the idea of putting a motor car down to the Colorado River at the bottom of the Grand Canyon. When I spoke to some other motor fans about it they were equally enthusiastic. Before we knew what we were about a car had been fitted up with a load of 1200 pounds of outing equipment, movie cameras and other paraphernalia, and the trip to the bottom of the Grand Canyon was on. 'To the Colorado River or bust.' • • •

"Some day perhaps Peach Springs will be a place for the well-to-do motorist. • • • Today it is a picturesque western settlement of a single general store, including post-office, three or four houses, several small shacks and adobes and the usual number of dogs that turn out and bark at every motorist who comes to town. A few Indians—Hualapis [sic—sit in front of the store and smoke. I do not yet know where the 'springs' are.

"We spent the night in Peach Springs at the hosue of the Superintendent of Cattle for the Hualapi Indian Reservation, and got up early next morning. We were warned before, both by whites and Indians, that we ought not to attemp a trip to the bottom of the Canyon. But the urge to stick the nose of our car into the waters of the 'Silvery' Colorado had completed vamped us. We did not give a hang whether we had to be pulled out by mules or not—but we did take precaution of arranging to have some pack animals, food and water sent down to us if we were not back in four days.

"As a dainty appetizer for what was to follow we had four miles of deep sand on a 20 per cent. up grade at the start. There were nineteen miles of hard sledding with no sign of a road anywhere before we reached the river at the bottom. We had a good car, and for those nineteen miles we put it through such punishment as I had never seen a car go through before. We would drop into a wash over boulders, then climb up a bank, then feel our way around a narrow rock ledge, hit a sharp down grade over more big boulders so we could jump over. Time and again, when two opposite wheels of the car were resting on boulders, the other two were in midair. We saw several rattlers and imagined there were ten thousand more. One of the party came very near being stung by a scorpion.

"Literally foot by foot we had to climb up and down for nineteen miles to drop down one mile from the edge of the Canyon rim. We praised our Velie car and cursed the Grand Canyon. This great and awe-inspiring chasm seemed to be mocking us and defying us to take a man-made car down into its granite-walled depths. But we had accepted its fiat, so we pressed on and finally reached the raging, muddy torrent, 240 feet wide, fifty or more feet deep—the 'Silvery' Colorado.

"We were tired and cross, and I think the very grandeur of the Canyon was beginning to get on our nerves a little. Somehow down at the very bottom, with the roaring river there and the big dark canyon walls on each side, one begins to think of the little wife at home by the fireside, and of religion. Thinking of religion when one is so close to the supposed location of the infernal regions never did hold any charms for me. We took some photographs of spots which have probably never been photographed before, and immediately began our stiff climb upward.

"Just multiply by some large number all I have said about the hard going on the descent and you will have an idea of what the trip upward is like. • • • We climbed up part way, left the car and hiked back to our camp by the river, where we spent what will be my last night in the bottom of the Grand Canyon. One feels so utterly helpless and insignificant down there that I think it subconsciously rebukes one's egotism, and I have observed that the average sinning mortal doesn't like that one bit.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Thanks to the sturdiness of our car and the fact that we probably know fairly well how to handle a car, we did get out of the Canyon without the help of mules. But every foot of the way out made stronger my resolution never to go down into the Grand Canyon again. When we finally reached the four-mile stretch of sand it looked as inviting as a paved boulevard, and we snorted the little bus through it as if we were madmen. We reached Peach Springs again, left our guide and his bed roll there and hit the highway for Kingman—then home to Los Angeles."

S., C. J.

1330 1921 Kansas City, Mo. American Art News, 19(35) (June 11): 8.

"The women's clubs of Mulvane, Kan., have recently purchased one of Berger Sandzen's paintings of the Grand Canon for the schools of that city, from a recent exhibition of his work held there." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Shirley, J. E.

1331 1921 Aeroplaning in Grand Canyon. Santa Fe Magazine, 15(9) (August): 36.

Lt. Alexander Pearson.

1332 1921 Aeroplaning in Grand Canyon. The Hotel Monthly (Chicago), 29 (September): 65.

Lt. Alexander Pearson. From Santa Fe Magazine (see above).

Strauss, Joseph B.

1333 1921 By-products of idle hours. [No imprint], 42 [44] pp. (Printed by Severinghaus, Chicago.)

"These By-Products of Idle Hours during an otherwise busy life are not intended as a contribution to literature but are merely gathered together for those of the author's friends who might consider them a personal souvenir." (p. [1]) See p. 40, "Grand Canyon", dated "Grand Canyon, Arizona March, 1919":

As I stand at thy brink, Grand Canyon,
And all thy beauty feel,
As I gaze in thy age-old caverns
And sense what they reveal;
As I rest 'neath thy mighty ramparts,
That seem like temple walls,
And seek where, in thy terraced gorges,
The Colorado crawls;
Then I still seem to see the Titans,
That in the long ago
Playful fashioned thy heights and chasms
And bid thy glory grow;
And I still seem to hear the tumult
That marked thy years of birth,
When they graved on thy rocks forever
The history of the Earth.
Oh, majestic in truth Niagara
And masterful her roar;
And as splendid the ocean's battling
Along the crouching shore;
And the beautiful coral islet,
Surf-circled, palmed and green,
And the white-mantled peak that towers
O'er verdant vales between.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Nor forget I the Mississippi
Nor wondrous Yellowstone,
Nor the fjords of the mystical Northland,
With grandeur all their own;
But the marvels of all together
Are commonplace to me,
When I stand at thy brink, Grand Canyon,
And dream thy dreams with thee.

For thine is the Kingdom of Silence,
Thy splendor is divine,
And thy glory and thrill are sacred,
God's majesty is thine;
In the shaft of the sunlight dancing,
Upon thy sculptured walls,
Is the spirit of the Almighty;
He dwells within thy halls.

Van Dyke, Henry

- 1334 1921 Poems. Volume One. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 183 pp. (The Works of Henry Van Dyke, Avalon Edition, Volume IX, Poems, I.)
- See "The Grand Canyon; Daybreak", pp. 61-66; reprints Van Dyke (1913).

Velie Motors Corporation

- 1335 1921 Velie conquers the Grand Canyon! Descends 5000 feet into precipitous abyss. Motor Age, 39(22) (June 2): 4. [Also the same seen in Saturday Evening Post, 193(50) (June 11): 70.]
- Full-page advertisement for Velie automobile. Photograph portrays vehicle on the South Rim of Grand Canyon. The road journey, though not precisely stated, was down Diamond Creek Road.

Willsie, Honoré

- 1336 1921 Desire. In: Neal, Robert Wilson, Editorials and editorial-writing. Springfield, Massachusetts: The Home Correspondence School, Inc., pp. 317-318.
- Credited only to The Delineator. This is reprinted from Willsie (1919).

1922

Anonymous

- 1337 1922 Water colors and the Brooklyn Museum. In: Notes [SECTION]. American Magazine of Art, 13(2) (February): 63-64.
- Exhibition includes "Morning, Grand Canyon" by Herbert B. Tschudy (p. 64); noted only in passing.
- 1338 1922 [Note.] In: In the Lifetime of K. U. Folks [SECTION]. University of Kansas, Graduate Magazine, 20(5) (February): 25.
- "The Chicago Daily Tribune, for January 26, has a picture of James Albion Stolbert, '11, making a leap across the chasm at 'Bright Angel Point' at the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Beneath is the brief story: 'HE CALLS THIS FUN! James Albion Stolbert, 117 Broadway, Wilmette, Ill., made this wild leap from Bright Angel Point at the

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grand Canyon to amuse a few friends. If he had missed—. We dare say, if he had, the 'few friends' would not have been so highly amused." (ENTIRE ITEM)

1339 1922 The light that lies on the Grand Canyon. Arizona (Phoenix), 12(5) (February): 19.

1340 1922 Werrenrath begins tour. The Musical Leader (Chicago), 43(6) (February 9): 135.

American baritone Reinald Werrenrath. After performing in Denver, "he will remain several days in the Grand Canyon. • • • 'I'm almost afraid of taking the trip through the Canyon,' said Mr. Werrenrath to a reporter in Omaha. 'I'm afraid of a shower of razor blades and Victor needles.'"

His jest was in reference to the old wag that the Grand Canyon was seen by one visitor as a remarkable place in which to dispose of old razor blades, a tale attributed to columnist Bugs Baer. For the benefit of future generations who know nothing of disposable razor blades, this refers to medicine chests in many a bathroom wall of the day that had a small slot into which used razor blades could be slipped, where they would fall behind the wall between joists. And his reference to "Victor needles" was to worn out Victrola or record player needles.

1341 1922 Santa Feans among California exhibitors. In: Museums and Galleries [SECTION]. El Palacio (Santa Fe, New Mexico), 12(10) (May 15): 138.

Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art. ". . . Carl Oscar Borg with one of his Grand Canon pictures . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1342 1922 Knabe with the Ampico scores with Dream Pictures. San Francisco delighted with showing of Branson De Cou's remarkable pictures accompanied by the Ampico—Conn radio concert a great success—Morley Somers passes away. Music Trade Review, 74(22) (June 3): 24b.

Run of programs at the California Theater, displaying slide photos accompanied by pieces for "musical visualization". "Slides of 'The Grand Canyon of Arizona' are used to portray the magnificence of Rachmaninoff's 'Prelude in C Sharp Minor,' recorded by the composer." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1343 1922 Realtor nomads reach end of trail. Fifteenth Annual Convention at San Francisco attracts delegates from all over the country—long journey West featured by good will and royal entertainment accorded travelers by local boards along the route. National Real Estate Journal (Chicago), 23(123) (June 5): 15-19.

Includes a photo of Grand Canyon and brief remarks about a one-day stop at the canyon:

"The following morning found almost everyone up early in anticipation of the greatest thrill of the trip—the Grand Canyon. To say the least they were hardly prepared for the awe-inspiring spectacle before them—a mighty chasm in the breast of mother earth • • • and for once the Realtors for once could not find words to express their wonder and astonishment."

1344 1922 [Note.] In: Personal—Highly Personal [SECTION]. Hettinger's Dental News (Kansas City, Missouri), 5(8) (August): 48.

"Dr. C. L. White of Oklahoma City is attending the National Dental Meeting at Los Angeles. The Doctor spent a day at the Grand Canyon in route and made the rather hazardous trip to the bottom of the Canyon. He states that he would not take anything for his experience, but would not care to go over the same ground again." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1345 1922 [Notes.] In: Personal—Highly Personal [SECTION]. Hettinger's Dental News (Kansas City, Missouri), 5(9) (September): 30, 36.

"Coming back from the National meeting, a number of the men took advantage of the opportunity to visit the Grand Canyon. Dr. E. B. Owen of St. Louis was debating the advisability of making the trip to the bottom, when he ran into Dr. C. O. Simpson, also of St. Louis who had just finished making the trip and who discouraged the contemplated trip and advised the cost was very exorbitant, namely—$166.00. The distance appeared to be but

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

a stone's throw, in spite of the advice of the guides that the bottom was several miles below. Dr. Simpson explained that while he was required to put but $6.00 in circulation he had to put 160 in perspiration. We understand Dr. Owen 'saw the raise.'"

Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, Inc.

- 1346 1922 Aircraft year book : 1922. New York: Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, Inc., 251 pp.
Under "Chronology of Aeronautics", see (p. 234): "June 10; Lt. Alex. Pearson, U. S. A. S. makes aerial survey of Grand Canyon of Arizona." (ENTIRE NOTE) (U.S. Army Air Service.)

Anderson, Antony

- 1347 1922 Los Angeles. American Art News, 21(8) (December 2): 9.
"Water colors by Gunnar Widforss, a young Swede who has been in this country for some years, are on display at the Stendahl. His subjects are from Copenhagen, Tunis, the Grand Canyon, and Catalina Island. He is master of a meticulous style and his drawing is impeccable." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Armstrong, Breckenridge

- 1348 1922 Extracts from journal of trip to Zion National Park, southern Utah, Kaibab forest in northern Arizona, North Rim of Grand Cañon, and across the Cañon to the South Rim. Sierra Club Bulletin, 11: 317-319.

The entire entry for the Grand Canyon visit:

"Sept. 20th [1921].—On my first visit to the south rim of the Grand Cañon I attempted, and quit in despair, a word-picture of this overwhelming marvel of all of Nature's wonders, and I haven't the heedlessness now to make another futile effort. All day I've wandered and wondered and pondered here on the north rim. Tonight I'm at the camp (preparatory to tramping across the cañon) of Uncle Jim Owens, the famous cougar-hunter who guided Roosevelt through here a few years ago.

"Sept. 21st.—Left camp at 7:15 A.M. Three miles exhilarating walk—air frosty—to head of Bright Angel Cañon (largest of the side cañons of the Colorado), whence is a superb view. The north rim is approximately thirteen hundred feet higher than the south. Then began the unique sixteen-mile descent. Encountered first necessary fording of the creek about 10:00 A.M. Principal growth is manzanita and scrub cedar. Shortly after noon overtook a young fellow tramping to El Tovar to seek work. As the cañon narrowed, the creek (five to twenty-five feet wide and not much over knee deep) became the trail in many places. Soon we reached the igneous rock walls, dark, rugged, and forbidding in their aspect. Then suddenly the narrow gorge widened, and at 4:45 P.M. we emerged at Roosevelt Camp, where two tents and some equipment are maintained by the Park Service. After preparing camp for the night we walked one-fourth mile to confluence of Bright Angel Creek and Colorado River, whence we were in sight of the new suspension-bridge one-half mile eastward. We had come from 8250 feet altitude to 2450, and had forded the creek eighty times. In the warm temperature (probably 75 degrees at 7:00 P.M.) we preferred the open to the tents, and as I lay there awake for an hour or more and thought of the nights I had experienced in so many different parts of the world, I could recollect none more nearly perfect. The great arch of the Milky Way was immediately over us, and the stars, seen from out of the cañon depths, seemed unusually brilliant and near, the environment grand and unique. Altogether it was a tranquil and soothing night to one accustomed to the turmoil of city life. Instead of gloomy and forbidding, as people looking down from the rim think the cañon must be, it did not seem so at all, as I had really come to know it now, but friendly and protective rather than awesome.

"Sept. 22nd.—Shortly after 2:00 A.M., with the bright moon shining down upon us, we both awoke, soon had a light breakfast, and were on our way at 3:00 A.M. The immediate ascent, after leaving the suspension-bridge, is for fifteen hundred feet over a well-made but very arduous trail. We were well along the Tonto plateau by dawn. The transition from the moonlight, so bright had it been, was hardly noticeable until we faced about on a turn of the trail just in time to see the first rays of the sun illumine some delicate, fleecy clouds, turning

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

them to ribbons of gold. Another beautiful day was upon us. Quite literally, we had 'stolen a march' on it, and had already extracted from it three incomparable hours of interest, joy, and fascination. About 11:00 A.M. we reached the rim at El Tovar, twelve miles from Camp Roosevelt and forty five hundred feet above the Colorado River. It had been a marvelously unique morning's tramp, one which I shall ever remember, and which I can compare, from the viewpoint of rare interest, even though the similarity of setting does not exist, only with a tramp I took a few years ago in India, leaving Darjeeling at 3:00 A.M. to go to the famous Tiger Hill to see the sunrise on Mount Everest, in the world's loftiest range of mountains. And doesn't one almost have to think of Everest, Kinchinjunga, and those other Himalaya peaks to make a colossally adequate comparison with the mightiness of this Grand Cañon?"

Armstrong, Edward Ambler

1349 1922 The Sinaites : a chronicle of happy days. Princeton, New Jersey: "Printed for private circulation", 188 [190] pp.

At the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone, Armstrong writes (p. 64):

"One, of course, is always called upon to compare this Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone with the Grand Canyon, that of the Colorado, in Arizona, the arid zone of the Spaniards. When Grand Canyon without the suffix is spoken of, government literature tells us that is meant. There are numerous Grand Canyons, but they all have a suffix. Speaking for myself, I feel inclined to say that the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone is the more beautiful and the more interesting. Its colors are very little, if any, more vivid than those of the Grand Canyon, but its beauties are more capable of comprehension. The Grand Canyon of the Colorado is nearly fourteen miles in width, and stretching more than one hundred miles in length, containing within its confines mountains a mile high. Standing on the eastern rim you look down over six thousand feet, and from the western rim seven thousand five hundred feet. Its very immensity is overpowering. The fantastic shapes of the mountains and rocks in this great stretch, and the silver thread of the Colorado River winding in and out twelve hundred feet below the great plateau, to which the trails lead you, all go to make up a scene of grandeur incomparable and overpowering. But as for me, I return to the Yellowstone, with admiration and joy, and a sense of satisfaction that I did not get from the grander sight."

In a visit to Los Angeles, Armstrong reminisces and opines (pp. 127-128):

". . . but am inclined to wish I might have been with [my friends] when they stopped at El Trovar [sic], on the rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, and looked upon its marvels.

"You stand at that place, with a sweep up and down of more than a hundred miles, with mountain peaks in the distance yet further away, looking across the stretch of thirteen and a half miles of chasm, a mile and a quarter deep, wherein innumerable mountain peaks a mile high are below you. The narrow silver thread of the Colorado is at the bottom, looking like a ribbon. Then in kaleidoscopic confusion appear all sorts and combinations of color, with all sorts of fanciful shapes to the rocks; so that you can see gigantic fortresses, great castles, tremendous cathedrals and diminutive other fanciful structures; and then to think it possible, as geologists tell us, that the relentless tooth of flowing water has wrought it all, which in its grandeur dwarfs other phenomenal sights, adds to the wonder. It does not, I think, rob the others either of their beauty or their grandeur, but this is so inexpressibly big. Of course, our friends had to take the Bright Angel trail to the plateau below by way of mule back; and went on home, doubtless feeling that the last was the greatest."

Black, Alexander

1350 1922 The latest thing and other things. New York and London: Harper and Brothers, 303 pp.

See p. 291: "We now take the Grand Cañon for granted. Only a multiplied and highly supplemented Grand Cañon in Mars or somewhere else could astonish us." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The gigantic, Grand Canyon-dwarfing Valles Marineris was discovered on Mars in 1971 during the Mariner 9 mission. Also note a comparable remark by S. L. McKee of West Salem, Wisconsin, published in The Grand Canyon of Arizona : being a book of words from many pens, about the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Arizona (Santa Fe, Passenger Department, 1906), p. 117: "Other planets, indeed, may have one such among them, or it seems they should have; but two is enough for an infinite scheme—one for angels, somewhere—and one for men, in Arizona."

Bryce (Viscount) [Bryce, James]

- 1351 1922 The scenery of North America. National Geographic Magazine, 41(4) (April): 339-389.
Includes "Two Unforgettable Desert Views" (pp. 370 [continued on] 387), "The Grand Canyon, Unique Wonder of the World" (p. 377); also photos of Grand Canyon, pp. 350, 376. See Bryce (1923) for fuller notes.

Carter, Vivian

- 1352 1922 World Rotary at "Inspiration Point"; the Los Angeles convention as seen through British spectacles. The Rotarian, 21(2) (August): 62-64.
"A Rotary Convention is 'Inspiration Point.' • • • We had stood on the rim of the Grand Canyon and rubbed our eyes lest we be dreaming. Here was a 'hole in the earth' dug by Nature, large enough to conceal the biggest city above ground." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Condon, J. G.

- 1353 1922 Eastern railroad finds something to advertise; Baltimore & Ohio Railroad exhibits the refreshing aggressiveness of western roads of pre-war days. Printers' Ink, 118(12) (March 23): 49-50, 52.
Article begins, "The Grand Canyon has been thoroughly sold to the people of the United States. It is something the Western tourist must see, and so large and important has that 'must' become that other lines without a little old Grand Canyon nestling near their right-of-way have been hard put to find something just as good for the purchaser of Pacific Coast transportation. True, many of them have developed excellent attractions of their own, notably national parks of one sort and another, but no railroad traffic official will deny that one of the hardest things he has to buck in persuading a prospective passenger away from the Santa Fé and on to his own road is the popularity of the Canyon."
Also reprinted in facsimile in Baltimore and Ohio Magazine (Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Maryland), 9(12) (April): 10-11.

Crapsey, Adelaide

- 1354 1922 Verse. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., 107 pp. [Also later eds. under this imprint.]
Reprinting of Crapsey (1915).

Edwards, Raymond A.

- 1355 1922 Hitting the trail! The Rotarian, 20(3) (March): 107-109, 140.
The Rotarian editor's note: "The Convention City Executive Committee for the Rotary Convention at Los Angeles, California, June 5-9, 1922, was just recently appointed. The first official action of the new committee was the appointment of a Committee on Publicity with Rotarian Ray Edwards as chairman. This is Ray's first convention story." At one point Edwards relates,
"Of course, I didn't want to stop at the Grand Canyon on the way home because I thought I'd seen all the scenery in the world, and because I was so darned anxious to get back to the plant to fire Bill and start things moving; but the Mrs. wouldn't pass up the Grand Canyon so we stopped over for two days, and I am mighty glad now we didn't miss it. I never saw so many colors in all my life and those brilliant paintings that you see of the Grand Canyon are weak when it comes to the real thing. I guess it particularly appealed to me because

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

I didn't have any letter waiting there for me from Bill, but the two longest days in my life were the last two days on the train waiting to get home." (ENTIRE NOTE)

He instead sent Bill for a month's vacation in southern California, and things really turned around. See also the next item, below.

- 1356 1922 Selling the big boss; the story of a vacation trip which developed a new market. The Rotarian, 20(4) (April): 164-165, 200.

"If I had any cares left when I got my first view of the Grand Canyon, where I stopped for a couple of days, they all fell away. I suddenly realized how insignificant I was and how trivial my worries, when looking down into that great chasm—so magnificent and so replendent in color." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Elder, Orville

- 1357 1922 A trip to the Hawaiian Islands with the Press Congress of the World. Washington, Iowa: The Evening Journal, 274 pp.

Letter 6, "At the Grand Canyon", pp. 31-34, written en route, October 3, 1921:

"We spent yesterday at the Grand Canyon. We arrived there some time during the preceding night. I awoke early and got up. Only the gentleman from Greece preceded me. He, too, is trying to see all he can see. We asked the porter about the location of the canyon and he told us to step up over the hill and look. That we did. What we saw there is no use of trying to describe. The Grand Canyon is one of those indescribable things. It was never intended to be described. Attempted descriptions are hollow things at best, even when the subjects are small, but when the subject is such a thing as the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, then words lose their usefulness. The gentleman from Greece remarked after looking a little while: 'It's a miracle.' ••• In the presence of this huge, unspeakably beautiful spectacle one can do little more than breathe quickly and think strange thoughts."

Letter 7, "Down Bright Angel Trail", pp. 35-43, written en route, October 3, 1921:

"The evening before we reached the Grand Canyon I had a conversation with the brakeman on the train and asked him about the canyon. He had been to see it often. 'I go just as often as I can,' he said. 'It grows on a fellow. It is never the same as it was before. Whenever I meet one of these near infidels I want to take him over to the canyon and say, "look at that." If there's anything in the world that will make a fellow believe in a Creator, that's it.'

"Since I appeared interested the brakeman talked volubly and very interestingly. His parting injunction was: 'Don't you fail to go down into the canyon. You don't know what it is unless you do and even then you don't know it all.' •••

"How I wish I had words with which to make our readers feel the mysterious grandeur of the scenes in this canyon. Rocks, rocks, rocks! Millions and billions and trillions of tons of rocks, thrown here and there and everywhere as if the gods had gone mad and hurled mountains at each other. And those canyons: the great big canyon and its little canyons, the smaller models being in themselves so great as to bring a great spell of quiet over us as we invaded their depths. •••

"I remembered what the brakeman said: 'Look at that and say there ain't no God, will y!' •••

"It was Mr. Brown who offended our group mightily. Often, just when we were enwrapped in the most transcendently inspiring emotions as we viewed the stupendous wonders of the canyon the quiet of our ruminations would be disturbed by the harsh reverberations of a man's voice calling 'Pickles, oh Pi-i-i-ickles!' It was James Wright Brown calling his wife."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Fairbanks, Douglas

- 1358 1922 Let me say this for the films. Ladies' Home Journal, (September): 13-14, 118, 120.

". . . the night that I saw The Birth of a Nation I knew that I wanted to be in the pictures. I had much the same sort of vibration or thrill that I had when I saw the Grand Cañon for the first time. I do not seriously mean that this picture seemed to me so great as the Grand Cañon, nor that it impressed me so mightily, but both left me wordless." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Folger, R. C.

- 1359 1922 Airplane lands in Grand Cañon; treacherous air currents spectacularly negotiated by former Army airman and motion-picture operator—Indians gather to witness feat. Popular Mechanics Magazine, 38(6) (December): cover, 838-840.

Royal D. Thomas and Anthony Ungren. Legend on cover illustration: "First Landing in Grand Cañon".

Fox Film Corporation

- 1360 _____ Grand Canyon. New York: Fox Film Corporation. [Aerial views.] [1922?]

Silent film.

Furnas, I. L.

- 1361 1922 Itinerary of the "Cleveland Special" to the National Dental Association meeting and return, Los Angeles, California. The Dental Summary, 42(3) (March): 258-262.

Although this item is written as a promotional piece and advance plan for the California meeting, it is cited here for the writer's own effusive description, which he says is directed to those who have and may not have before "been 'West'".

"About one P. M. our train again leaves the main line at Williams, Arizona, and we travel sixty miles northward, and at four o'clock in the afternoon, we arrive at the greatest, most massive, and magnificent wonder of the entire world, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado [R]iver. The English language utterly fails us when we attempt to describe this great geologic gash in the earth's surface, 218 miles long, 12 miles wide and one and one-half miles deep. Its glories are beyond the wildest imagination, and here the wildest myth need not feel ill at ease.

"Here we have the opportunity to see the sun set on this great scene, sunrise on the following morning, all day for a trip along the rim or into the canyon, and a second sunset, leaving about ten P. M." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Furness, Horace Howard

- 1362 1922 The letters of Horace Howard Furness : Volume II (H. H. F. J., ed. [Horace Howard Furness Jayne]). Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), 296 pp.

See p. 234, passing reference to seeing Grand Canyon, in a letter to W. Aldis Wright, dated Wallingford, October 9, 1910.

"Does it or does it not weaken music to have words to it? When I was gazing at the Grand Canon in Arizona, the most awe-inspiring scene, I suppose, on this rondure, I used to question whether or not historical associations would add or detract. A hard knot, too intrinse for me, here and now, to unloose. . . ." (ellipsis is part of the quote) (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gaylord, A.

- 1363 1922 Into the Grand Canyon, and out again, by airplane. The Literary Digest, 75(1) (October 7): 63-64, 66.

Royal V. Thomas flight. Reprinted from Kansas City Star, here with the editor's introductory paragraph and interjection (to abridge the original?).

Geddes, Auckland

- 1364 1922 What Sir Auckland Geddes sees ahead. The Advocate of Peace (American Peace Society), 84(5) (May): 192-193.

With an introductory paragraph added editorially; address to the Pilgrims Society by the British ambassador. Begins with his impressions of the Grand Canyon (actually as a parable for the subject of his speech on mankind's toil and world peace).

"The other day it was my good fortune to stand on the brink of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. At first I felt my mind oscillating between the impressions that the bishop and the cowboy must have respectively received when, according to popular tradition, they were moved to characteristic utterance: 'Mysterious and wonderful are Thy works, O Lord!' said the bishop [paraphrasing Revelation 15:3]; but the cowboy, 'What a hell of a hole!' As I continued to gaze into that mighty chasm, I felt that I was face to face with Nature's parable of our post-war world. It was morning. There to the south, behind me, stretched, mile on mile, the desert and the plains and the little tree-clad hills, through which we had just come. There, to the north, before me, was the other edge of the level earth, more than a thousand feet higher than that on which we stood, tree-clad, green, and smiling in the sun, while from its sharp-cut edge streams of water sparkled, as they plunged into the gloomy depths."

Greenough, Grafton

- 1365 1922 Log of the "Manhattan" : with Mr. Samuel M. Vauclain and party to the Pacific coast and the Northwest, July 5-August 6, 1922. Philadelphia: [no imprint], 91 pp.

The "Manhattan" is a private rail car. The party visited Grand Canyon but despite details written of other places the canyon is noted only in passing, p. 19; but see also the frontispiece, "Mr. Vauclain at the Grand Canyon".

Griggs, Edward Howard

- 1366 1922 Blossomed hours : book of the mind and heart. Croton-on-Hudson, New York: Orchard Hill Press, 251 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 45-47; dated "Grand Canyon of the Colorado, 6 A. M., June 22, 1915".

"To the East the abyss is misty darkness, with shadowy cathedrals dimly hinted in the mysterious gloom. To the West stretches away the irregular chasm, lighted by the early sun: tier on tier of heterogeneous and receding palisades—red, yellow, brown and gray; piled upon these, ten thousand Aztec and Egyptian temples, doorless and windowless, deserted for æons, crumbling in barbaric desolation; while over all is the radiant and cloudless blue, with the intense light deepening the colors and shadows.

"How small Man seems beside the tortured splendor of this gigantic abyss. What sudden convulsions of Nature to lift these strata, what ages upon ages to cut them down and carve them into tortuous temples of the pagan Gods!

"It is as if Nature had combined here all the towering and colossal forms she carves in the mountains of this Western wilderness, and then had painted them with all the colors, the lights and shadows, she creates from stone and soil, from sun and air.

"Titanic temples, eternal, but crumbling in colossal ruin, with the wild cry of the pine trees behind; primeval desolation under transfiguring light; abysmal chaos moulded to mysterious and haunting forms; an infernal urge

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

of creation caught and crystallized in an eternal moment just before the cosmos is born: how the human imagination staggers under the overpowering weight of demonic majesty!

"Now, in the late afternoon, it is the East chasm and towering walls that stand revealed in bare splendor; while the Western gulf, with far-thrown battlements stretching into it, is withdrawing into the mystery of ever-deepening shadows. It reaches away and away: the sense of space multiplied; the grandeur growing, as the embattled temples recede and shroud themselves in purple haze. One more point rounded, and now the Eastern basin rises through dull red battlements to lavender walls, topped with gray. The silence—broken only by the rising and falling moan of the pines! The dominant impression, that of primeval desolation—even as chaos when God first said, 'Let there be light'!

"O wilderness of weird forms, tortured into veiled symbols of all that Man has dreamed and done: what eternity ye combine with what everchanging beauty of color, shape and shadow! How transient, Man's temples, beside the rock-firm permanence of your brooding domes! The falling rain-drops and the soft-moving waters leave no trace; but the æonian flood here sculpts what no gigantic engine could build, no swift-passing human hand achieve. Mysterious Nature, silent-moving, mighty Mother of life: all the Titan tortures of your God-kissed breast stand here revealed in rebuking majesty and wordless speaking grandeur to the fall of Time!"

Griggs, Robert F.

1367 1922 The valley of ten thousand smokes. Washington, D.C.: National Geographic Society, 341 pp.

See pp. 80, 122, 123, 249. Includes comparisons to, and some comments about, Grand Canyon by Emery C. Kolb, Grand Canyon photographer and resident who was on the 1919 expedition to Katmai Canyon, Alaska.

H., M. M.

1368 1922 Memorial sketches : Mary Bell Lewis, Ellen Emerson Davenport. [No place]: Privately printed, 47 pp. (Printed by W. F. Humphrey, Geneva, New York.)

Biographical notes about two Smith College alumnae. Grand Canyon, see in the memorial to Mary Bell Lewis, pp. 7-24; specifically pp. 17-18:

"On her first visit to the Grand Cañon, she was tremendously impressed by its immensity which she said paralyzed her mind, but that did not prevent her seeing the humor in a great geologist who went round exclaiming, 'Great God, what a hole!' or being interested in a party of explorers who were making the third historic attempt to go through the cañon. On a later trip, she visited Cataract Cañon [Havasu Canyon], travelling on horseback and camping in the desert where wood and water were scarce, and her great concern was for the thirst of the horses. She wrote: 'We led the horses down a trail that made riding down the pyramids look easy . . . . We had to walk half a mile and I felt a little shaky when we mounted, but the horses were wonderful. We spent two nights in the cañon, playing with the Indian children, exploring some abandoned silver mines, and riding down to the waterfalls where we went in swimming three times a day. We made the sixty-five miles back in one day—a pretty hard pull for us all, but as we couldn't get water for the horses after we left the gorge, it seemed easier.'" (ellipsis is part of the quotation) (ENTIRE NOTE)

H. R. Mallinson and Company, Inc.

1369 1922 Wonders of the world. The Smart Set, 67(4) (April): back cover.

Full-page advertisement, printed in blue ink with white lettering. Features photo of silent motion picture actress and producer Hope Hampton, with background of Grand Canyon scene (with a person and dog on the edge in the distance), apparently a stock image. Photo legend: "Hope Hampton of Hope Hampton Productions sees the 'wonders' in this dress and coat of Roshanara Crepe for traveling." Advertising blurb begins, "The Grand Canyon—a most striking example of Nature's handiwork always alluring to the tourists from all over the globe. Mallinson's Silks de Luxe 'The National Silks of International Fame' likewise arouse the keenest interest and admiration of all who appreciate the highest development in silk originality and style creation."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Helms [Helms, N. C.]

1370 1922 Ex-Editor Helms arrives in West. The Seed World (Chicago), 11(12) (June 16): 22.

Communications, including: "Grand Canyon, Colo. [sic], June 3.—At Grand Canyon last two days. It is fully up to advertisements. Last night saw twelve Navajos dance around a camp fire—a strange sight, indeed." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Huckfield, Leyland

1371 1922 Rough trails and silver meadows. Glennie, Michigan: Midland Press, 77 pp.

See "Death-Song of the Mad God Who Made the Grand Canyon", pp. 2-3. A reprinting of Huckfield (1916) with minor variations.

Oh! I am the god who so mightily trod—
Trampled Chaos and tore it assunder,
Rose from the mire and the mists and the fire
Reeking with heat and throbbing with thunder;
Who drank the blood of the league-long things
That came to bathe in the boiling springs;
To whom as a thorn was the dinosaur's horn;
I, who was born in the scalding gloom
And flung from the terrible flaming womb
Of the Mother of Doom—down under.

I ravaged the world and the rocks I hurled
Broke gold from the sun in showers,
And I hated the moon so I murdered it soon—
The moon with its damnable flowers.
The flesh of Earth's herds made gargantuan feasts,
For ever I harried the mightier beasts;
Roaring and raving, wandering, I
Swore that their bones in the rocks and rivers
Of Earth forever should lie.

Where the valleys were lit with flames of the pit
I trampled the carcasses gory,
I lurched and I swung till the madness I sung
Broke my heart with its passion and glory;
But I roared till the night was a-quiver with fright
And I vowed I would die, as I'd lived, in my might;
So I broke from the mountains their pinnacled walls
And tossed them to Hell with wild, bellowing bawls;
And the devils came up through the fire and the smother,
Dancing in flame and chasing each other;
Oh! all the devils in Hell were by
To see the Mad God mightily die
Who was born of the Old Mad Mother.

From each blazing bog, through the blood-red fog,
From my bottomless caves of plunder,
The gold I hauled and the flesh I mauled
And piled them in horrible wonder;
I mixed them together, I piled them on high
From the floor of Hell to the roof of the Sky;
Roaring and howling, happily I
Made out of Chaos a thing that never—
Never—never can die.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hurd, B. F.

- 1372 1922 Over the southern route in 'sixteen; notes taken from log kept by B. F. Hurd on his first Transcontinental Trip. Motor Travel, 13(12) (March): 5-12.

Automobile trip from New Jersey to California in a 6-cylinder 1917 Chandler. Approaching Grand Canyon, "Roads about 50 per cent fine, some poor near Grand View." "Grand Canyon is beyond description and the whole country is most weird and fearsome. We passed two autos and one wagon and saw two men in two days' driving to Grand Canyon and back." (ENTIRE NOTES)

Jacoby, H. Murray

- 1373 1922 Among the cliff dwellers of northern Africa. Illustrated World, 38 (December): 522-524, 638.

Regarding "staying directly at the foot of a high, mountainous range": "Those who have ever camped out in the Hermit Camp at the foot of the Grand Canyon along the Colorado River will have experienced a similar thrill." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Jeffers, Le Roy [Jeffers, Leroy]

- 1374 1922 The call of the mountains : rambles among the mountains and canyons of the United States and Canada. New York: Dodd, Mead and Co., 282 pp.

See Chapter 16, "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado", pp. 193-225. Includes a unique set of recollections, that of trips down Bass Trail to Shinumo Camp on the north side, and on the Grandview Trail, including the Horseshoe Mesa cave. The Bass and Grandview trips are repeated in their entirety here; others from informative selections. Jeffers reports having been at Hance's years before (but provides no details), and records an unusual hike with a sleeping bag eastward along the rim from Grandview (quoted here). He offers a recollection of an automobile trip to the North Rim, although his reflections on the canyon are strictly descriptive, not particularly emotional, although in the passages below is quoted a hike to Powell Plateau and Dutton Point, to which he adds a descriptive narrative of a visit to the now-famous eastern viewpoints. He spends a night at Atoko Point, near the then-unnamed Point Imperial. Notable, here, are his long paragraphs.

"In the Grand Canyon of the Colorado there are immense spaces filled with colossal architecture and adorned with splendid coloring. If one wanders alone amid its vast silences, sleeps by its surging river, or rejoices at sunset and morning hours on its commanding viewpoints, he will be lifted by its very presence out of his narrowness of life into a fuller realization of the majesty and sublimity of the Eternal. • • • To realize the grandeur of this masterpiece of nature, one must view it with his own eyes, for no adequate conception as a whole may be conveyed by brush or pen. Few have succeeded in picturing its size, its architecture and sculpturing, or its marvelous coloring. • • • The spirit of the canyon is never revealed to the tourist who jokes upon its brink and who rides a mule to the river, for true impressions come only with sympathy and with silence."

On Bass Trail. "Starting down Bass trail one fiercely hot July afternoon with a companion and an Indian pony, we made good time across the inner plateau and on the steep descent into Bass canyon. Roaming over the Tonto Platform and up many of the side canyons are little herds of wild mules, descendants of animals turned loose many years ago. One is often closely accompanied for miles by these mules, who fearlessly travel in the most impossible places to satisfy their curiosity, but who are exceedingly wary of capture. As we covered the dry and weary miles along the bed of the creek, our attention was attracted by the faulting of the rocks and by the remarkable Wheeler Fold, where within a few feet, the strata are bent from horizontal to vertical. Finally the dark-brown gorge becomes deep and wild, and impossible to follow to the river, so we turned to the left along the Tonto Trail to where the cable crosses. It was almost dark within the heated depths of the canyon and we were much in need of water. Cautiously descending the black, volcanic rock, which rises sheer from the river, we secured a bucket of the thick muddy flood that was rushing past us; but our pony refused to recognize it as water, preferring to chew cactus all night. After an exciting but ineffectual attempt to cross the river we lay down

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

to await the morning. All night the heat was terrific, forbidding any clothing, but the darkness was dispelled by a great moon which created a new world of light and shade among the temples of the canyon.

"At daybreak we fed and watered the pony and my companion hitched him to a twisted tree at a safe distance from the cliffs of the river. We then worked the primitive cage across the cable for several hundred feet, finding all the exercise we desired in climbing the sag to the opposite bank. After following the river toward Shinumo Creek, we ascended its canyon to the side of an ancient Indian garden, where more recently fruit and vegetables were raised for parties who visited the northern rim. Here we found a note left by a solitary traveler, who hoped his life would be spared to reach one of the Mormon settlements beyond the desert to the north of the canyon. Considerable prospecting has been done in the side canyons on both banks of the river, where copper and asbestos have been found. At every cloudburst boulders are swept down these canyons into the river, causing its many rapids which imperil the life of the explorer. We found the tree-fringed pools of Shinumo Creek cool and refreshing, although they were red with sediment. Returning to the cable, we hastened across to find that our pony had stepped backward over a ledge only a few inches in height; but, instead of stepping up again, he had pulled on the rope until choked to death. Shouldering our packs we started to climb out of the canyon, but the heat was so intense that our progress was slow and our water was soon exhausted. Coming to a deep basin in the rock we found water which it was easy to slide into, but which we could not have climbed out of on account of the steep, smooth slopes which surrounded it. Struggling on with difficulty my companion finally found a little stagnant rain water, filled with insects, which he believed saved his life."

At Grandview and eastward. "One July morning I started down the Grand View trail, finding its outlooks fine and free in comparison with trails which are boxed in. Crossing the mesa which is strewn with blue and green from an abandoned copper mine, I entered a limestone cave on the brink of Cottonwood Canyon. By candlelight I continued for a quarter of a mile, finding some high passageways but few stalactites. Descending the cliffs in front of the cave for a thousand feet, I reached the creek and finally the granite gorge of the river, which I followed for some distance to the west. Returning to Grand View at sunset, I beheld a great rainbow arching over the canyon from rim to rim. • • •

"Shouldering my sleeping bag at Grand View, I strolled for twenty miles through the yellow pines of the Coconino Plateau, reaching Navajo Point by evening. Nearing my destination I came to the old Tanner Trail, where one may descend to the river and work his way north to the mouth of the Little Colorado. From the height of the nearby point I enjoyed a distant view of the San Francisco Peaks rising over a wide expanse of forest; and from its southern rim, I had a thrilling view into the depths of the great adjoining amphitheater. At last I reached the extremity of Navajo Point, 7,450 feet, one of the highest on the southern rim, from which there is a wonderful panorama about three-quarters of a circle in extent. To the north east it overlooks a plateau of piñon and cedar and the volcanic cone [sic] of Cedar Mountain. Just beyond is the Painted Desert, with its lines of colored cliffs and its atmosphere of mirage and mystery. Cleaving its surface as with a knife is the Canyon of the Little Colorado, 3,000 feet in depth. This is the Navajo country, stretching for a hundred miles to the San Juan, the Rainbow Bridge and Navajo Mountain, 10,146 feet, which weirdly looms in the northern sky. To the northwest are miles of beautifully sculptured and vividly colored buttes and temples, which cluster at the head of the Grand Canyon and have rarely been seen by human eye. Across the river to the west are Vishnu Temple, Wotans Throne, and the great headlands of the Walhalla Plateau ending in Capes Royal and Final. In the distance the river is hidden by many long ridges. Looking down into the very heart of the canyon I followed the river along the Palisades of the Desert to the mouth of the Marble Canyon. When I moved, a startled bird darted into the abyss, cutting the air with a whir like that of a falling rock. Then a toad hopped fearlessly near to the brink, but instinctively refused to take the one more fatal hop, preferring to rely on my appreciation of his common right to life.

"It was the sunset hour and the silence of the evening filled me with its peace, while the sublime glory of the changing sky uplifted my spirit. The sun lingered over the canyon livening its purple haze with visible golden rays; then it dropped behind a cloud, painting the edges with richest gold, and illumining the great capes fifty miles to the west. In the east the Painted Desert grew dim and purple, while its Echo Cliffs, 400 to 1,800 feet in height, turned ghostly white. Then came the miracle of the alpenglow, when the desert bloomed again in color and its cliffs flushed with rosy pink. In the north the castles of the clouds were white and gold, with crown of rose; and over Wotans Throne in the west, the deepest cherry, carmine and pink lingered in such richness and

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

power as to suggest a Wagnerian opera. Slowly and softly one color after another withdrew from the heart of the canyon, leaving it veiled in purple and gray; but the winding silvery thread of the river was visible long into the night. As I lay watching the stars appear, the desert was weirdly awakened by distant lightning, and I was lulled to sleep by the voice of the wind in the pines."

Powell Plateau. "In the morning we made the steep descent of 1,200 feet to Muav Saddle, and then climbed to the plateau, which is about five and a half miles in length by two in width. Most of its points remain practically unvisited, some of them being protected by brushy tangles, but there are fine groves of yellow pine and magnificent viewpoints to compensate one for the effort. At least two of these should be visited: the high northwest out look and Dutton Point. From the former we see the river, flowing from the south, turn to the west; while the granite disappears, leaving the Tapeats sandstone next the river. In the foreground is Tapeats Amphitheater, a dozen miles in diameter. From the gorge of Kanab Creek, which enters the Colorado on the north, to Mt. Trumbull and the cinder cones of the Uinkaret, is the wild and desolate Kanab Plateau. On the north it is bordered by the Vermilion and the Pink Cliffs; on the west is Vulcan's Throne at the junction of the Torroweap [sic]; and a hundred miles away on the north western horizon is the great West Temple of the Virgin. Across the canyon from the Kanab the plateau is severed by the sheer walls of Cataract Canyon. Radically different from other views and of surpassing interest in its geological revelation, this great outlook will eventually become famous.

"Crossing Powell Plateau to the southeast we reached Dutton Point, 7,555 feet, from which there is one of the most comprehensive and satisfying panoramas of the canyon. To enjoy the view in its entirety one should visit a point half a mile to the southwest, from which the river is visible for the unusual distance of about ten miles. The eastern view suggests a tremendous amphitheater. In the foreground are the red and tree-green slopes of Muav Canyon; beyond are Holy Grail Temple, King Arthur and Guinevere Castles, and finally the great wall of Point Sublime. Havasupai Point stretches toward one from the south, and Wheeler Point at the extremity of Powell Plateau is seen on the southwest. Vertical limestone cliffs of great height are directly beneath one, and the inner gorge of the river is lined with black, contorted volcanic strata. The vast scene shimmered and burned in such terrific heat that we were forced to hide with the birds in the scant shade of junipers which overhung the brink. Sublimely beautiful was the transformation of the late afternoon, when the whole canyon glowed with rosy pinks and purples, and the sky turned to gold and crimson."

At Atoko Point. "As I lingered alone above this tremendous abyss, while earth and sky were transfigured by an unseen Artist, I could long for nothing more perfect in nature. We spent the night on the brink of the canyon, now and then awakening to gaze into its mysterious depths, and to watch the distant lightning lift for an instant the ghostly veil of purple that lay upon the desert."

Saddle Mountain, Nankoweap Trail, and Marble Platform. "The last great point to the north is the wooded height of Saddle Mountain, which is joined to the Walhalla Plateau by Powell's Saddle. Here the all-but-vanished Powell Trail wanders downward over the Algonkian to meet the Tanner trail, which starts from the opposite rim near Navajo Point. • • •

"One July morning we started down the precipitous slope of the Walhalla, forcing our horses through the thick growth of yellow pine, scrub oak and manzanita. Everywhere we encountered the thorny wild locust with its clusters of pink and white flowers. Leaving Powell's Saddle by slopes on which it often seemed impossible for our horses to follow us, we fought our way downward for several thousand feet. Conquering the cliffs and emerging from the tangle, we traversed steep ridges where herds of fifty to a hundred deer come in winter to pasture among the buckbrush, cedar and sagebrush. Down over Saddle Mountain the cattle of the Bar Z ranch wander, and so great is the region that the cowboys await the snow to track them for the round-up. Doubtless many must perish in the storms. Hawks and eagles were soaring above us while we studied the Great East Kaibab Monocline extending northward to the Paria Plateau, which is 3,500 feet below the Walhalla. For many miles we speeded our horses downward over the burning sands of the Marble Platform, dodging the piñon, greasewood and cactus, until we reached the brink of the Marble Canyon. Threading our way northward through mescal and yucca, we finally crossed an area of utter desolation and of withering heat that all but killed our horses. Pausing on a point, we looked down 3,000 feet upon the muddy Colorado, rushing through a narrow gorge with nearly vertical walls. Here and there a slender fringe of green borders the river, but often the rock

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

rises directly from the water. Above it is a short slope of clay and shale, followed by a smooth red wall of over a thousand feet. Then there are red slopes topped by the limestone cliff on which we stood. The heat was far over 100 degrees, so we crawled with the lizards under a scrawny bush on the edge of the cliff and listened to the distant roar of the rapids. We longed for a straw which would reach to the river, thinking of the weary hours before we might find water on the slope of the Walhalla. It was a long, hard climb back to our camp and we thought it unlikely that many would soon follow our trail. On reaching the rim a great wind and rain threatened to sweep us back into the canyon and it grew very cold. Low down beneath thick purple clouds, the sky flamed with the deepest orange-vermilion, changing to intense rose-red. We returned to our cabin by starlight, letting our horses feel their way through the night."

Concluding, "Most stupendous of all our natural wonders, this grandest canyon of canyons is yet practically unknown in some of its finest sections. Without intimate acquaintance, who can comprehend its age-long mysteries? The longer we carry its presence in our thoughts, the greater is its appeal and its recompense. Its wonderful architecture, its marvelous coloring, and its sublime beauty call to us insistently to visit the canyon for the first time, or to return again and again as to the companionship of a great personality."

Johnson, Annette Thackwell

1375 1922 Silence. The Independent (New York), 109 (September 2) (3824): 96-98.

". . . we shared our breakfast table with a young couple.

"'No, we don't care much for it,' declared the bride. 'And I'm awfully disappointed in the colors. I thought we'd have blue and violet instead of all that henna! I'm so fond of blue . . . . We think we'd rather spend what extra time we have at the Los Angeles beaches—Venice, for instance. So we are going to catch the ten o'clock train.' • • •

"But, after all, the time of worship at the Canyon is the afternoon. It is then that it blooms.

"It was with infinite relief that, on my last afternoon, I slipped away from the hotel and the crowded Rimside benches, for my last stroll through the Tusayan Forest to Yavapai Point.

"To settle one's self in the shade of the firs and gaze out into the Canyon was bliss indeed. Adjectives failed. The only way to salute the silence of the Canyon was by—silence."

Jordan, David Starr

1376 1922 The days of a man : being memories of a naturalist, teacher and minor prophet of democracy. Volume One, 1851-1899. Yonkers-on-Hudson, New York: World Book Co., 710 pp.

Regarding his 1898 trip to Grand Canyon, see pp. 620-625.

"The old stage drive of seventy miles from Flagstaff to Grand View, a fine point several miles above the present large hotel at Bright Angel, we found extremely interesting, even if rather fatiguing because of the heat. • • •

"It is quite impossible (and fortunately quite unnecessary) for me to describe the stupendous chasm of the Colorado River. Its grandeur and beauty, its weird magnificence, and its sublime supremacy the world knows."

The author fills out the remainder of his narrative with a repetition of his "lazy Grand Canyon" study (see Jordan, 1898) and retells three John Hance tales.

Llewellyn, C. L.

1377 1922 Grand Canyon of the Colorado; incomparable in magnitude, in individualism and sublime aspect. Western Magazine (St. Paul, Minnesota), 20(4) (October), frontispiece, 96-101.

The usual, about vastness and inexpression; although the author ends with an unusual acknowledgment:

"And the untutored Indian [sic] to whom this vastness was known eras before white man ever saw it truly gives it i[t]s true meaning when he says: Grand Canyon IS the road to heaven for did not not [sic] the great god Tov—woats smite the earth to hide the road to the happy land?"

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

McCutcheon, John T.

- 1378 1922 Doing the Grand Canyon. [No place]: Fred Harvey, 19 pp.
Reprinted from McCutcheon (1909, Appleton's Magazine).

Monroe, Harriet

- 1379 1922 Notes of travel. Poetry, 20(4) (July): 188-193.

See "At O'Neill's Point; Grand Canyon of Arizona", pp. 189-190:

Cardeñas, I salute you!
You, marauding buccaneering Spaniard!
You, ragged and sworded lordling, slashing through to the Seven Cities of Cibola;
You, athirst in the desert, seeking to drink from the great river—
The mother of western seas, dear to your Hopi guides!
You, Cardenas the Spaniard, three centuries before the next first white man,
You with your handful of starvelings stood on this Rim of the Canyon,
And looked down at flecks of water in the deeps,
Like yellow petals fallen.
You scrambled a few hundred feet down the sheer rock wall,
And knew you would never drink of that tawny torrent.
You gave it up, and thirsted, and cursed your guides.

And your leader, Coronado the adventurer,
Thought you mad when you told your story—
Mad of thirst in the desert,
Dreaming of loud deep rivers
In demon-haunted caverns.

But I believe you.
Here where I stand you stood—
On the rim of the world.
You saw these sky-wrapt towers,
These terraced purple temples august and terrible.
And over them—over—
You gazed at the Celestial City,
And counted the steps of gods on its ramparts,
And saw the Great White Throne, all pearl and moonstone,
Beyond, through the turquoise gates.

Pearce, Liston Houston

- 1380 1922 Hilltop views. New York and Cincinnati, Ohio: The Methodist Book Concern, 110 pp.

See "The Grand Cañon of Arizona" (pp. 85-91) visited while en route to a quadrennial meeting of Methodists in California (year not indicated).

"At Williams, Arizona, our trains were shifted from the main line of the Santa Fe to the branch called 'The Bright Angel Trail' [sic] and headed directly north for the Grand Canon, sixty-five miles away through a wild plateau of mountainous formations and gorges of turbulent waters.

"At the terminal of this trail we reach the high altitude of seven thousand feet above the level of the sea, and we now stand on the rim of the gigantic breach in the crust of the earth that we have come so far to see.

• • •

"Within these limits one has the most astounding, unearthly, and awe-inspiring sight that nature ever displayed in the rocks of the earth to the eyes of men; and yet it is also the most ineffably beautiful revelation of mundane objects upon which men ever gazed. • • •

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Here the author revels in an interesting, but peculiar, mish-mash of features: "Here is not simply one resplendent canon, but systems of them, labyrinths of wonders, some of which are as huge as gigantic towers of granite and some as delicate as are the colors with which nature tints untold miles of these marvelous stones, spacious caverns miles in extent, yawning abysses, mountains, volcanoes, tall snow-crowned peaks, immense cataracts, hanging gardens of stalactites and forests of petrified trees; besides objects in semblance most beautiful and wonderful to behold and in countless number—temples, palaces, cathedrals, castles, altars, tombs, domes, and fortifications. • • •

"And one overwhelming wonder of this picturesque scene is the blending of the colors and the harmony of the whole painting. One might think that the pihng up of such an aggregation of such diverse and stupendous objects in such apparent confusion would do violence to all harmony of design and destroy all artistic beauty. But not so. No old master ever put colors of more delicate tone or of finer blending of tints than one finds here in this most masterful of all nature's paintings. O, the overpowering splendor, the indescribable loveliness, the compelling charm of it all!

"Intent upon making my last hours at the Grand Canon the most impressive and memorable of my stay, I arose very early that morning, took my breakfast in my pocket with me and walked three miles to a point on the rim of the chasm where I was assured I would have a most satisfactory view. Partaking of my basket in a covert of rocks on the rim where all around and below me were cliffs, gorges and rocky chambers, I drew a little nearer still to the edge when there broke upon my gaze one of the most resplendent sights I had ever seen—a phantom city, extending thousands of feet down the precipitous opposite sides of the gorge—the semblance of a magnificent city built of marbles of variegated colors and of countless structural forms—towers, monuments, steeples, churches, palatial residences, splendid business streets, and, as if to complete the phantasm of it all, the mists and vapors that rose from the canon below and spread among the buildings made it seem that the people were building their early morning fires whose smoke went curling up as from thousands of chimneys. I stood there wrapped in overwhelming wonder, awe, and praise. The strange stillness of those profound depths brooded everywhere. Not a sound from the rushing river, six thousand feet below the rim, reached the ear. No human voice, or song of bird, or tread of beast, resounded through those corridors of silence. Whatever happens, nothing can spoil the sublime symphony that sings in my heart when I think of the days that I spent amid the unparalleled wonders and astounding splendors of the Grand Canon of Arizona."

Professor Dock [pseudonym]

1381 1922 Salt and Pepper [HUMOR COLUMN]. Dry Goods Economist (New York), 76(4045) (January 14): 57.

Includes: "The store paper of Faris-Walker of Los Angeles, Cal., tells us that Max Widdowson, while on his trip to the Grand Canyon, commenced Thanksgiving Day with a bath and ended with a cowpuncher's dance. There is one man who certainly had a lot to be thankful for. It's a great thing to be able to take a bath and have it recorded in a magazine, Mr. Widdowson." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Scott, James E.

1382 1922 Grand Teton to Grand Canyon. American Forestry, 28: 269-270.

Stunningly, hardly a word of the Grand Canyon.

"The Kaibab Plateau, with its wonderful body of yellow pine timber, its vast herds of protected deer, and the kaibab squirrel, found nowhere else, constitutes an outdoor attraction which is certainly a fitting approach to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, which bounds it on the south.

"And here we are—all the way from the Tetons to the Canyon where we must stop because the editor says so . . . ."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Shepherd, C. K. [Shepherd, Charles Kenilworth]

1383

1922 Across America by motor-cycle. New York: Longmans, Green and Co.; and London: Edward Arnold and Co., 248 pp.

An Englishman crosses America to California in 1919 on a four-cylinder air-cooled Henderson motorcycle. See Chapter 18, "The Grand Canyon" (pp. 178-191).

"Next morning I had concluded all preparations for the fulfilment of another life-long desire. My next ambition was to see the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, of which I had read much in school-books in my childhood. • • •" Shepherd uses several pages to describe his marshalling "Lizzie" from Flagstaff to Grandview, finally reaching the Coconino forest.

"On once again we rode, through avenues of pine and cedar; the further we went, the thicker the forest grew and the greater the stately trees became. It was possible only to see a few yards ahead in some places. . . . [ellipsis thus] 'But say, we must be getting near the Canyon soon! How can all this be?' I asked myself.

"Swerving now to the right, now to the left, to avoid some obstacle, now leaving the trail altogether to ride on the soft green grass at the side, when a boulder or a fallen branch blocked the way, it was like exploring one of those magic forests where fairies . . . [ellipsis thus]

"The thought was never finished.

"It seemed as if the whole earth had suddenly stopped dead. There, in front, the great tree trunks stood silhouetted against space itself. It was as though something dreadful had happened. Beyond was tremendous, awful nothingness that made the observer catch his breath and sent a shiver throughout his frame. But see, there, on the distant horizon, like a dimly-coloured shadow, lies the opposite side of the gigantic rift, ten, twenty—aye, in places thirty miles away. It is a sight to enjoy in silence, with reverence and with fear. Once seen, it is never to be forgotten, that first glimpse of the greatest of all natural wonders—the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

"The trail made a sudden swerve to the left and followed close to its brink. There were some wooden railings; beyond, a varying strip of broken, rocky moorland; and then, space. Leaving Lizzie, I clambered down a narrow pathway carved in the rocks that led to a jutting prominence known as 'Grand View Point.' Seated on a huge lump of limestone that reared like a lofty pinnacle thousands of feet above the chasm below, I surveyed in mute bewilderment the overpowering, awe-inspiring sight.

"The Grand Canyon has never been described. It is too immense, too sublime, too unearthly for mere words to convey one iota of its might and majesty. One struggles with the futility of mere expression by words where such a spectacle is concerned and finds that all the known phrases and well-used artifices of speech are useless to convey to another the sense of infinite grandeur that only sight can appreciate—and that so feebly! • • •

"The actual settlement that goes by the name of the Grand Canyon is twenty miles further on. The trail follows closely the rim of the Canyon, cutting through the fringe of the 'Coconino National Forest,' with its stately pine trees that crowd up to the very edge of the plateau.

"When the end of the trail is reached, it is as though the traveller had arrived at the edge of the world. On the right is a luxurious, low-built hotel all but toppling over the edge; on the left is a railway station; and that is all. The road almost doubles back on itself, swerving due south towards the Continental Trail eighty miles away. I do not mean to imply that at the end of this world there will be either a luxurious hotel or a railway station at the service of the weary traveller, but the appearance of finality of all things is complete when one is faced with that terrible chasm ahead.

"For three days and three nights I sojourned at the Canyon, content to gaze upon its ever-changing colours, and to marvel at the wealth of beauty and variation of spectacle that lay in its mighty bosom, always changing, always fresh, always more wonderful than before. One day after breakfast I began strolling down the narrow 'Bright Angel Trail' that leads from the summit to the river. Between two and three feet wide in most places, it is wonderfully built and kept in excellent repair for the mule-back parties of tourists that daily descend its seven tortuous miles in the morning and ascend them again in the evening. In places it is like a spiral pathway down

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

an almost perpendicular wall. One looks over and sees it doubling and folding and twisting on itself like a thin white line until it is lost behind some prominence thousands of feet below.

"I did not mean to walk down. Walking is not my forte; I only set out to take a few photographs. I have the best of reasons for believing that people never walk down the Canyon. Instead they bulge upon diminutive mules in strings of twenty or thirty or more and make the descent slowly, nervously, solemnly, and more or less in comfort. True, there are places where the trail is so precipitous that they have to dismount for safety's sake, but to walk the whole way would be absurd.

"Perhaps that was the reason I found myself tramping down the long, steep trail. The more photographs I took, the further down I went to take another. One view followed another with endless change. At every turn there was some new sensation, some fresh vista that just cried out for remembrance. In this way I gradually found myself descending into the depths of the Canyon. Truly it is the most wonderful walk I have ever had.

• • •

"It was well after midday when I reached the bottom and watched the roaring, rushing Colorado, like a great yellow flood, lashing its angry way between the steep walls of the granite gorge. Above, it had been invisible, unknown, and whisperless.

"The walk back developed into a tiring, eternal struggle up an interminable staircase that had no stairs. Sometimes I half decided to rest until next day. At intervals I grasped my knees in my hands and helped to lift the heavy, tired feet one above the other. I abused myself heartily for not having furnished myself with reserve refreshments before starting, and then remembered that I had only set out to take a few pictures; I had quenched my thirst at a little creek six hours before, but felt that a meal of some kind would be acceptable.

"I arrived at the top about 5.30. The mule-party had overtaken me a quarter of an hour before. They had only stopped half an hour at the bottom for lunch.

"'Waal, I've done some walkin' in my time, boss, but I guess you've gotten the best pair o' legs that ever MY optics did see,' was the remark of one heavily-spectacled American who beamed from his mule upon me as he passed.

"'Aye, that's so,' echoed others in the long file with undisguised approbation.

"So the reader will observe that I am already becoming Americanized, even in true modesty! • • •

"I left the Grand Canyon with regret. Everything was so wonderful and I just seemed to have begun to make friends with it. At first it all seemed so great, so awful, so grotesque as to give one the impression of anything but friendliness. I had begun to overcome that feeling, as everyone does in time. The truth is that it takes a long acquaintanceship with the giant wonders of the world to form anything approaching a true idea of them.

Shulenburg, F. A.

1384

1922 Angel City Division [SECTION]. The Sleeping Car Conductor (Order of Sleeping Car Conductors, Kansas City, Missouri), 5(6) (June): 30-32.

See p. 31: "This one is funny. Lady passenger without any clothes. Why? She had space in car 410 which is the rear car. Had friends in one of the forward cars which was a straight room car. She undressed there and went back to car 410 and to bed. On arrival of train No. 4 at Williams, car 410 was put on train No. 12 which leaves Williams ahead of No. 4. When arising in the morning, found she was without apparel and was very much excited. Found it necessary to remain in bed until train was switched together again at the Grand Canyon and her apparel recovered. The practice of handling cars in this manner was immediately discontinued. Why? Santa Fe service." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Sitterly, Charles Fremont

- 1385 1922 (ED.) Henry Anson Buttz : his book : lectures, essays, sermons, exegetical notes. Volume I. Parts I and II. New York and Cincinnati: The Methodist Book Concern, 250 pp.

See p. 25: "One other supreme experience came to him when he turned with his life mate into the canyon of the Colorado. The wonderful Alps and the awful desert were here at last outdone and in silence and deep humility he discovered God as never before." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Skinny [pseudonym] [Harbin, A. E.]

- 1386 1922 Wild dudes I have met at Grand Cañon. Santa Fe Magazine, 17(1) (December): 50-51. [Item signed "Skinny the Ticket Clerk".]

"Skinny" has the skinny on the Grand Canyon and the Santa Fe. Although I was tempted to omit the parts that would be understood only by those who traveled on the Santa Fe's Pullman sleepers a century ago, and even though some of Skinny's recollections go farther afield than the Grand Canyon (where he worked), what better way to illustrate the troubles of a world long gone, perhaps with a touch of longing. Anyway, by 1922, some of the mainstay questions Skinny passes along were the same as those then being fielded in the new national park by green Grand Canyon rangers. — Some things don't change.

"Yes, we have a lot of peculiar questions put to us during the course of a day's work. But it's a great life at that, and one becomes accustomed to it, and learns to take it all with a smile. Here's a few that were handed me just the other day:

'Will you tell me, please, how to get to the petrified springs?

'How much does a telegram cost?

'Well, I don't understand why I can't have a lower [berth]; I made application for one early this morning.

'Say, kid, put me in the same car with that girl you just sold the upper to, willya?

'Listen, if I leave a two-dollar bill on the counter here, will I get a drawing-room?

'How deep is the canon? Is it really thirteen miles across? Did anybody ever fall over the rim? Is that burro trip as dangerous as my sister told me it was when I left Kalamazoo? Do the mules really have to jump any place? Could I walk the trail all right and get back? How long has the canon been here?

'Gimme one of them baggage relievers!

'Who discovered the Grand Canon? What does El Tovar mean? And where did they ever get that name of Bright Angel for a hotel? How do you get to the Grand Canon?

"This last question is the brightest of them all, especially in view of the fact that a Fred Harvey man stands just without the door calling, 'Free bus to the hotels,' and the hotels are widely advertised as being on the rim.

"Another foolish one, a very common variety is, 'I suppose you have to answer a lot of foolish questions!'

The traveling public should be educated to ask the ticketman anything they want to know, and to call on the ticketman for information about trains instead of asking the hotel porter or the newstand clerk. Their questions are never foolish, although they sometimes sound odd. For instance:

'What time does the sun rise?

'Is the sunrise here worth seeing?

'And how about the sunsets?

'Is that Desert View trip worth taking?

'Has anybody ever been hurt on the trails?

'Does the altitude affect many people?

'Just how high is it here? Nearly seven thousand? I don't see how you can stand it here all the time. It makes my heart beat something terrific just to walk up to the hotel.

'I'd love to live here—it is so beautiful.

'I'd die here—it is so monotonous.

'What do you people do for amusement? You say you haven't seen a street-car for over a year? I simply could not bear it.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"And then—rarely, thank heaven—we get this one, said in a loud and excited voice: 'Mr. Ticketman, someone else has a ticket for my berth. What are you going to do about it? I bought this ticket in Boston four months ago just to be sure of having a berth all the way through.' An examination of the back of the ticket usually discloses the fact that it had been sold about two weeks before. But regardless of that, you must find a place for him to sleep.

"Sometimes the dear dudes and dudelets get into the wrong car, and how excited they become when they discover someone else in the lower seven! It seems to be trait of the traveling public never to look at their tickets until at least five hundred miles from where they purchased them. It is hard to correct mistakes then.

"And as for duplicate sales, so called, where two or more persons have tickets for the same accommodation, we'd much rather handle an Englishman or other foreigner than an American. An American, especially a lawyer, will not attempt to understand that you are doing the best possible for him. He wants blood, buckets of it. This sounds bad for the lawyer folk, but we think most ticket sellers will agree that a lawyer is hard to get along with unless everything is going along smoothly. But then we have even heard a preacher cuss. On the other hand, doctors all seem to be even tempered and agreeable.

"There is the little old lady who is pleasant and jolly, and who understands everything you tell her about train schedules and connections. She is so agreeable you decide to postpone for another day or two the inevitable jump in front of a train.

"And again the sweet young thing who tells you confidentially that she is traveling alone and the man in lower five, car 31, has been trying to flirt with her all the way from Chicago, and won't you please put her in some other car?

Then there is the hard-boiled goil, who blows Herbert Tareyton smoke in your face, tells you that if she does not get a lower somebody higher up will hear about it. It seems to us that Messrs. Black, Duffy and Connell [Santa Fe passenger department managers] have more close personal friends among the traveling public than they ever dreamed of. This applies also to passengers traveling on passes. They all are acquainted higher up and if they get a nice comfortable lower, Mr. Black, Mr. Connell or Mr. Duffy will be sure to hear what a good ticket clerk you are!

"The majority of those who travel on free transportation are easy to deal with, but quite frequently you find one who demands a lower instead of requesting it. This type usually gets what is left and nothing more.

"Our motto is: Let's try and get along. Be as courteous to the old couple who carry their lunch across the continent as to the more fortunate ones who travel in drawing-rooms. We maintain a permanent smile on our face, and when some dear traveler succeeds in getting our well-known goat, we take it out on the baggageman or bite a chunk out of the ticketcase, but never do we exhibit temper at the ticket window. It's an awful life sometimes, but, like Arizona itself, it gets you and holds you.

"Well, it's time to go to work, so adios."

Sperry, Willard L.

1387

1922 A religion for to-day. Part II. The interpretation of life, and the holy church universal. The Christian Register (Boston), 101(7) (February 16): 152-153.

Part of an address before the Unitarian Club of Boston. Includes a peculiar reminiscence of Grand Canyon; remarks concerning burros around the Grandview Mine below Grandview Point. Not only partly awry, it smacks of eugenics, when at about this time the American Eugenics Society was encouraging the promotion of its tenets through church sermons and organized social meetings.

"Those of you who have been at the Grand Canyon will remember that halfway down that mile-deep gulf there is a very perceptible shelf which breaks the drop from the plateau to the river. Twenty miles up the Canyon from the railhead this shelf is perhaps a quarter of a mile wide. Standing on the rim of the Canyon at this point, the guide or the government ranger will point out to you some little shacks down on this mid-level, twenty-five hundred feet below. At that distance they look like toy houses. He will ask you to look still closer until you actually discern little gray specks moving about on the shelf through the sagebrush and scrub growth. The buildings are all that is left of a mining venture abandoned twenty-five years ago. When the mining company gave up working the canyon it brought up all its machinery, but it left on this mid-level a dozen-odd burros which had been taken down there for pack-service. These burros were prisoners there for life. One one side was the cliff rising a half-mile above them and on the other side a precipice dropping a half-mile below them. And either way the shelf is intersected by cross canyons so that they could not escape the length of the Canyon. There they stayed and there they have inbred until now they are stunted weak little creatures, hardly bigger than a Newfoundland dog, and entirely unable to carry any load. And withal so wild that rather than be captured they will leap off the ledge of the shelf into the river below. They are a pathetic example of the degeneracy which follows upon inbreeding." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Stevens, Eva

1388 1922 [Letter.] In: The Letter-Box [SECTION]. St. Nicholas, 49(10) (August): 1118.

Letter from an 11-year-old writer who notes having spent time at the Grand Canyon in May: "We went over to Hermit's Rest. I wanted my picture taken there, overlooking the Cañon. I had my St. Nicholas in my hand, and I turned it around, so every one could see the title. Then I had my picture taken that way." (ENTIRE NOTE; photo not reproduced)

Van Dyke, Henry

1389 1922 Songs out of doors. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 139 pp. [Also later printings.]

See "The Grand Canyon—Daybreak", pp. 99-105; reprints Van Dyke (1913).

Webster, E. S.

1390 1922 Grand Canyon pictures. Stone and Webster Journal, 31(3) (September): frontispiece, 232-238.

Nine photographs by Webster, returning from China and Japan, visited the canyon for two days, including a trail ride to the river when the temperature was 110° F. A text, pp. 232, 238, which is about Grand Canyon and visits to it, is generic, written in the third person.

Winslow, Helen M.

1391 1922 (ED.) Official register and directory of women's clubs in America : containing also a irectory of club lecturers, entertainers and musicians and a section devoted to "Books of Special Interest to Women" : 1922 : Vol. XXIV. Boston: N. A. Lindsey and Co., Inc., Printers, pp. 1a-12a, 1-148, I-LXVI.

See p. III: "Something new for women's clubs; Dream Pictures personally presented by Branson De Cou", which describes in part: "A remarkable synchronization of fine music as interpreted by the leading pianists of the world by means of the wonderful Ampico reproducing piano with exquisite views of America's Wonderlands projected on the screen in natural colors, and blending with the mood and rhythm of the music. [¶] For instance the colorful grandeur of the Grand Canyon of Arizona interprets the noble majesty of Rachmaninoff's C Sharp Minor Prelude—the composer's own playing being perfectly reproduced on the Ampico. The turbulent climax of the music is portrayed by views of the Canyon in storm, the breaking into local showers, the coming of the rainbow—then follows the glorious sunset, and the moonlight enchantment of Nature's supreme spectacle as the last chord of music does away." One of twelve numbers in the Dream Pictures presentation series, which pertains to commercialized programs of coordinated projected scenic views and recorded music, for use in public venues. For a bit more on Dream Pictures by De Cou, see "These are Dream Pictures! They can aid in music store sales", The Music Trades (New York), 62(25) (December 17, 1921): 13, 15.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1923

Anonymous

1392 1923 [Anecdote.] In: By the Way [SECTION]. The Outlook (New York), 133(2) (January 10): 108.

Regarding a traveler who was told, "if it comes to a question of cutting out either the Grand Canyon or the city of San Diego from your trip, I advise you to 'pass up' the Grand Canyon." Compare Anonymous (1917).

1393 1923 Tremendous scenes in Fairbanks movie; so big they appalled director, who had to work up to them gradually. Utah Payroll Builder, 10(2) (February): 22.

Regarding the Douglas Fairbanks film on Robin Hood, but with the following quotation of director Allen Dwan, ". . . we felt much as we did when we went to the Grand Canyon several years ago to make scenes for 'The Modern Musketeer.' We didn't undertake to photograph the canyon at once—its magnitude appalled us. It was so vast, so big. So we played around the corrals for the first few days, photographing scenes featuring the horses and mules. Finally we got up courage enough to take a crack at the canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1394 1923 [Inspirational message.] The Upper Room Bulletin (Ann Arbor, Michigan), 9(26) (May 12): 409.

Written in the first person but not signed.

"The truly great so attaches itself to every receptive soul as to make itself a part of that soul forever. The really great portrayal on canvas, in stone, in literature, needs no interpreter to the open mind and heart. When I looked upon the Grand Canyon of the Colorado I felt no need of a translator to point out the secret of its majestic grandeur or to explain the spell it threw over me."

1395 1923 Constance Talmadge's latest comedy produced on the Santa Fe; interesting incidents attended the filming of "Dulcy," soon to be released by producer Schenck. Santa Fe Magazine, 17(9) (August): 30-32.

Quoting Talmadge, "I want to make a picture soon down in the Grand Cañon. On my trips east and west aboard the Santa Fe I never miss the side trip to the cañon. I have traveled about this old globe somewaht, but there is no spectacle in either hemisphere which can compare with the Grand Cañon. I just love to sit on its brim and dream, and dream, and dream." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1396 1923 [Rushed Grand Canyon visitors.] In: Along the Trail [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 17(9) (August): 49-50.

The Santa Fe Railway says, don't rush it (that is, spend more money for your time of rewarding contemplation) . . .

"Experienced travelers familiar with the world's wonders and natural beauties never would think of stopping at the Grand Cañon without taking sufficient time to view it in its varied moods, yet each year we see thousands of people going to or returning from California who drop off at the Cañon in the morning and hop onto the train again the same evening. It is not be cause of its depth that people should stop to see it, but rather because of its millions of hues which take form with the varying shades of sunrise and sunset or as affected by climatic conditions. Every minute, as the sun rises or sets, the colorful effects take on different aspects, melting from one color scheme into an other. The same is true as the storm clouds sweep along, or as other climatic conditions affect the atmosphere. To view it only in the full glare of the sun is to miss entirely these scintillating color combinations. And with each step along its brim, owing to the constant change in view of crevice, hillock and stream, entirely new color effects are noted. The trip down Bright Angel or Hermit Trail is thrilling and entrancing in itself, but there is much more to the Grand Cañon than the thrills of the winding trails. Its gorgeous beauties are unparalleled, but nature unfolds them at her own convenient moments and in her own way, and the sojourner

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

must educate himself to an appreciation of them and give them the opportunity to grow upon him and encompass his very soul. The longer one can stay in the vicinity of the cañon, the better, but no one should plan on staying less than three or four days. And he should go not in the mood of one who gazes at a skyscraper and marvels at his height, but with his finer feelings open to an appreciation of what nature here has evolved for lifting him out of the humdrum and practical sphere of life into a realm of infinite beauty appealing to the cultured, refined and artistic senses. One cannot go through a gallery of masterpieces with the same speed he would use in viewing a highway and expect to realize or appreciate the works of the masters; neither can he rush up to the Grand Cañon and away from it and feel he has done either it or himself justice. Every Santa Fe man in talking with his friends about their contemplated trips to or from the Pacific coast should emphasize the desirability of spending at least a few days at the Grand Cañon, with the assured feeling that the longer he can get a friend to stay there the more that friend will appreciate his judgment in the future. Pullman arrangements always can be made at the time tickets are bought to permit of such stopovers."

. . . and see also the follow-up note, (10) (September): 67, which is more to the point:

"Last month you were told that the Grand Cañon cannot be adequately seen in a day. That statement holds good this month, too, and all the months to come. When you go there, plan in advance for at least a three-day stay. Spend the first day on the rim, autoing through Coconino pine forest to Desert View and to the end of Hermit Rim road. For the second and third days there is the choice of two trail-trips—one down Bright Angel Trail, across suspension bridge, to Phantom Ranch and back; the other down Hermit Trail, along the Tonto Trail and up Bright Angel Trail. Both these inner-cañon jaunts provide a night's rest in the abyss, either at Hermit Cabins or Phantom Ranch. If you can spare more time, take the five-day mule-back trip to the north rim and return. You will not be sorry. You will thank us for the recommendation."

Aronsfield, G. H.

- 1397 1923 Glimpses of the Far West. The Optical Journal and Review of Optometry (New York), 52(12) (September 20): 36.

Includes, "At the Grand Canyon of Arizona our stock of adjectives is soon exhausted. Here, too, the student of optics may find much of interest. The various colors seen on the rocks, the greater rapidity with which our camera lenses work, the difficulty with which we gauge distances—all good food for thought. If Prof. Einstein wished to demonstrate his 'theory of relativity' in some of its easier or more understandable phases, he could choose no better natural laboratory or classroom." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Bellessort, André

- 1398 1923 Reflets de la vieille Amérique. Paris: Librairie Académique Perrin et C<sup>ie</sup>., Libraires-Éditeurs, 313 [314] pp. [In French.]
(transl. 'Reflections of old America')

Reprinted from Bellessort (1917). See "Voyage au Grand Canyon de l'Arizona" ('Trip to the Grand Canyon of Arizona. '), pp. 87-112. A rambling depiction of the canyon, but first with a pages-long recounting of the train trip through El Paso and Albuquerque, and later interrupting the canyon with a long narration of the Coronado entrada into what now is the Southwest.

"C'est un long et fastidieux voyage que celui de la Nouvelle-Orléans au Grand Canyon de l'Arizona: trois jours et quatre nuits de chemin de fer coupés par deux changements de train et trois arrêts de plus d'une heure. On touche la frontière du Mexique à El Paso; on remonte jusqu'à Albuquerque, et de là on prend la ligne de Santa Fé à Los Angeles. Le Pullman-car, réservé aux voyageurs du Grand Canyon, est accroché, pendant la nuit, au train d'embranchement qui part de la station de Williams et qui les dépose, à leur réveil, au pied de l'hôtel El Tovar, devant le monstre."

(transl. 'It is a long and tedious journey from New Orleans to the Grand Canyon of Arizona: three days and four nights on the railroad interrupted by two train changes and three stops of more than one hour. We touch the Mexican border at El Paso; we go up to Albuquerque, and from there we take the line from Santa Fé to Los

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Angeles. The Pullman-car, reserved for travelers to the Grand Canyon, is attached during the night to the branch train which leaves from Williams station and which drops them off, when they wake up, at the foot of the El Tovar hotel, in front of the monster.)

Arriving at the canyon and El Tovar, Bellesort first distracts the reader with long, less than enthused impressions of Hopi House and the evening Indian dance. Then on to the canyon:

“Et il est temps d’y arriver, au Grand Canyon. C’est l’affaire de deux pas, et nous avons le nez dessus... [ellipsis thus] Eh bien, oui, c’est déconcertant: on était prévenu qu’on serait émerveillé, et on l’est. Wharton James nous dit qu’il a vu des hommes, à l’aspect du Grand Canyon, tomber à genoux. Mes compagnons se sont approchés, ont regardé, puis sont allés déjeuner. J’en ai fait autant. Mais je suis retourné à l’hôtel avec la joie du chasseur qui s’est assuré que la bête était dans sa bauge, qu’elle n’en bougerait pas et qu’il l’aurait quand il voudrait, ou, si vous préférez, avec le tranquille plaisir de l’homme qui vient enfin de mettre la main sur l’exemplaire rare, unique, le magnifique exemplaire où des secrets tant convoités sont peut-être enfermés. Il n’a pas été trompé. Il le tient. Un grand calme succède à son impatience. Il a le temps pour lui. Il va chercher son meilleur fauteuil; il rallume lentement son feu. Quelle placidité après les orages de l’attente et la crainte des déceptions!

“Ce qui fait la singularité du Grand Canyon, ce n’est ni sa profondeur dont on ne se rend pas bien compte, ni son étendue que nous déroberent ses sinuosités. La première impression est une impression de splendeur. Ses parois de rocs ce teignent de toutes les colorations du feu, depuis le rose de braise jusqu’au rouge sombre. On a devant soi une vision de Dante à ciel découvert, un prodigieux incendie pétrifié. Le contraste entre l’idée de mobilité qu’éveille en nous celle de la flamme et l’immobilité de cette explosion ardente nous jette, pour ainsi dire, en dehors du monde. Ces grands rocs sont l’image effrayante de quelque chose qui brûle sans se consumer.”

(transl. ‘And it’s time to get there, to the Grand Canyon. It’s a matter of two steps, and we have our noses on it... [ellipsis thus] Well, yes, it’s disconcerting: we were warned that we would be amazed, and we are. [George] Wharton James tells us that he saw men, looking at the Grand Canyon, fall to their knees. My companions approached, looked, then went to lunch. I did the same. But I returned to the hotel with the joy of the hunter who made sure that the animal was in its lair, that it would not move from it and that he would have it when he wanted, or, if you prefer, with the quiet pleasure of the man who has just finally got his hands on the rare, unique copy, the magnificent copy in which the coveted secrets are perhaps locked up. He was not deceived. He holds it. A great calm follows his impatience. He has time for himself. He goes to get his best armchair; he slowly rekindles his fire. What placidity after the storms of expectation and the fear of disappointment!

‘What makes the Grand Canyon unique is neither its depth, which we do not realize, nor its extent, which its sinuosities hide from us. The first impression is one of splendour. Its walls of rock are tinged with all the colors of fire, from ember pink to dark red. We have before us a vision of Dante in the open, a prodigious petrified fire. The contrast between the idea of mobility that the flame awakens in us and the immobility of this fiery explosion [that] throws us, so to speak, outside the world. These great rocks are the frightening image of something that burns without being consumed.’)

In the end, he finishes with muted enthusiasm:

“Du reste il n’importait pas beaucoup à l’humanité que le Grand Canyon fût découvert. Il est trop extraordinaire, trop exceptionnel; et nous n’en retirons pas plus de profit que de la contemplation d’un mouton à cinq pattes ou d’un veau à deux têtes. J’ai vu ce qu’un chirurgien appelait «la plus belle opération chirurgicale qu’ait subie notre mère la terre». Sauf l’impression d’une féerie éblouissante à l’orée d’un sous-bois, il ne m’en est rien resté dans l’âme. Plus je vais et moins je me sens d’humeur à goûter l’excessif et le monstrueux, qu’ils viennent de la nature ou de la main des hommes. Je donnerais le Grand Canyon et tous les petits Canyons pour une lande bretonne avec son granit rose, car il est rose aussi le granit de la Bretagne, mais on ne fait pas des canyons de huit mille lieues. On le ménage comme la vérité dont Marck Twain disait qu’elle était trop précieuse pour être prodiguée. Elles sont vraies, les pierres du Canyon: pas une en carton, pas une en simili marbre. Ce sont toutes des roches authentiques. Mais il y en a tant que ce n’est plus vrai du tout, et que je mets au défi un peintre de nous les peindre sans faire crier au mensonge. Dieu sait si je me suis défendu de toute hyperbole! Je suis pourtant convaincu que mon lecteur me taxera d’exagération californienne. Heureusement la nature est d’ordinaire plus sage et s’interdit ces énormes débauches. Ce serait à nous dégoûter de la prendre pour modèle.”

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(transl.) 'Besides, it did not matter much to humanity that the Grand Canyon was discovered. It is too extraordinary, too exceptional; and we derive no more benefit from it than from the contemplation of a five-legged sheep or a two-headed calf. I saw what one surgeon called "the most beautiful operation mother earth has ever had". Except for the impression of a dazzling fairyland on the edge of some undergrowth, nothing has remained in my soul. The further I go, the less I feel in the mood to taste the excessive and the monstrous, whether they come from nature or from the hand of men. I would give the Grand Canyon and all the small Canyons for a Breton moor with its pink granite, because the granite of Brittany is also pink, but we don't make canyons of eight thousand leagues [a reference to earlier in his article where he summed all of the side canyons along the Colorado River]. It is treated like the truth that Mark Twain said was too precious to be given away. They are real, the stones of the Canyon: not one in cardboard, not one in imitation marble. These are all genuine rocks. But there are so many that it is no longer true at all, and that I defy a painter to paint them for us without crying out lies. God knows that I defended myself from all hyperbole! I am however convinced that my reader will tax me with [accuse me of] Californian exaggeration. Fortunately nature is usually wiser and refrains from these enormous excesses. It would be disgusting to take her as a model.'

Bryce (Viscount) [Bryce, James]

1399

1923 Memories of travel. (Lady Bryce, ed.) London: Macmillan and Co., 300 pp. [Also printed Macmillan Co., New York, 1923. Also reprinted W. W. Norton and Co., New York, 1977.]

See chapter, "The Scenery of North America (1921)"; Grand Canyon, pp. 246-249.

"Two desert views rise to my memory as splendid in their amplitude. One is that from the hill behind Salt Lake City . . . .

"The other prospect is that over the Painted Desert in Arizona, looking north and north-east from a point above the Grand Canyon, some twelve miles east of the railway station at the Bright Angel Trail. Here one gazes over a far-stretching plain, dotted here and there with rocky eminences and with mysterious snow-tipped mountains in the dim distance. Dark spots of vegetation, coniferous trees that can live even in this arid land, alternate with rock faces of red and yellow, and the sense of vast space is heightened by the innumerable varieties of colour. One longs to wander among the deep canyons that seam this wilderness, each with its own labyrinth of crags and tumbled rocks.

"Having now reached the edge of the Grand Canyon, I must devote a few sentences to that unique wonder of the world." [Several paragraphs follow, with the usual recitation of numbers and colors.]

"Such a display of rock colours laid out like bands of blue and yellow and red on a ribbon and stretching for hundreds of miles is seen nowhere else in the world, the nearest approach to it being, I have heard, in the cliffs that stand along the middle course of the Amur River, in north-eastern Asia.

"Why this deep hole in the ground should inspire more wonder and awe than the loftiest snow mountain or the grandest waterfall I will not attempt to explain, but it does.

"One cannot leave off gazing and wondering. Beauty and grandeur enhance one another. Morning, noon, and evening the same unchanging precipices show their unchanging colours, cliffs looking across at cliffs as they have done for millions of years and will do for millions more.

"One descends by a very steep and winding footpath to the river at the bottom, and ascends again, seeing all there is to see, but the spell is the same when one emerges. The vastness and the changelessness create a sense of solemn silence. This intense silence is the most awesome thing. Why does this strange panorama produce so profound an effect? Is it because colour impressions are usually the most changeful of all the impressions we receive since colour varies with atmospheric conditions, exciting rather than stilling perception and mental reactions—that the eternal steadfastness and mathematical rigidity of these colours grasp and fix and seem to hypnotise the beholder? I do not know. Anyhow, the effect is what I have tried to describe. I am giving the experience of others as well as my own."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Caddell, Alfred M.

- 1400 1923 Woman who makes receiving sets; how Mrs. Florence Bethman became interested in radio, makes sets for herself and others, and finds benefit and joy in her work. Radio Broadcast (New York), 4(1) (November): 29-33.

Regarding listening to travel programming on the radio, Mrs. Bethman relates, "When the guide led me (and other radio fans) through the Grand Canyon of the Colorado I experienced a thrill that I shall never forget, for he described a scene so perfectly that I think he must have overheard me describing it to a friend!" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Enright, W. J.

- 1401 1923 Bright Angel Trail as drawn by W. J. Enright for the Saturday Evening Post. Santa Fe Magazine, 17(4) (March): 20.

Cartoon.

Gable, Gilbert E.

- 1402 1923 I am not a member of the Lodge. Santa Fe Magazine, 17(11) (October): 53-54.

Truth be told: "There seems to be an unwritten something about going down Bright Angel Trail by which everyone who makes the trip is thereby initiated, and must ever after encourage and support the illusion that they have gone through great danger. I cannot be a member of the Lodge! I consider its tenets erroneous. The trail gave me a sense of deep emotion, but no fear. At very few places is it less than six feet wide, the grades are no steeper than those of scores of country roads in any hilly state. If you dismounted, shot your mule and pushed him over, there are mighty few places where he would roll more than twenty feet—to the next reverse course of the trail just below. Even if you blindfolded yourself and rolled over after him, you probably would be no more than bruised a bit when you found yourself safe on the next step of the path."

Graham, Stephen

- 1403 1923 In quest of El Dorado. New York: D. Appleton and Co., 334 pp.

A book about world travels. See Chapter 20, "Descent Into the Grand Cañon", pp. 250-259. A different sort of trip, apparently down Bright Angel Trail and then across the Tonto Trail to Hermit Camp. (The writer's reference to his friend, Ewart, is to Wilfred Ewart, to whom the book is dedicated, following Ewart's accidental death in Mexico City.)

Chapter begins, "Its discovery was part of the fruitless quest of El Dorado by Coronado—the greatest hole in the world and nothing in it."

Continuing, "After going to Cibola Ewart and I decided to leave this part of the country, but before departing we went to the Grand Cañon together. So with knapsacks on our shoulders we left New Mexico for the wilderness of Northern Arizona. And we determined to walk down into the depths of the Cañon, from the snow and ice of the dreadful plateau down to flowers blooming and gentle airs.

"Early one morning in December, therefore, we stood on the verge, and in its sublimity its first awful grandeur was disclosed; its gigantic abysses and gray-green pyramids, its rosy, castellated heights gleaming with sunshine. 'Some hole in the wall, I'll say,' cried a Mr. Babbitt, consuming a 'stack of hot cakes' at the Harvey lunch counter. 'Me to hike it down there—not . . . on . . . your . . . life!'

"The trail is heavily frosted, steep and narrow. It is even difficult to stop oneself in the first slides that are strides. Both of us sat down suddenly and unpremeditatedly once or twice. We held on to scrub and jagged rock, footing the snow gingerly.

"But something of magic had taken us. The rock walls in long slabs looked at us, came up to us, stared at us. . . .

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"No one is at home in any fortress, castle, tower, or temple—no more than in the rooms of the stone and mud-closed caves of the cliff dwellers. Not even a tourist—no, not a mule. Only certainly wild asses in great numbers wherever there is any pasture, uncatchable donkeys who sneeze at you at the most unexpected moments.

"Ewart and I sat by a spring at noon and rested and talked whilst the tumbling water spoke to us also, and we boiled a pot over dry weeds and bits of cactus later on and had our lunch. It was a happy moment—there was a sense of escape, as if we had gone to Southern California or Mexico and got away from the rigorous winter of the exalted deserts of the South. • • •

"Again we lifted our knapsacks and footed it across the stones—to rose-red mountains and cream and green pavilions of stone. Next time we sat to rest and to share an orange together we faced as it were an encampment of all the mountains. There were giant steps from the Northern heights down, down to the black river, and there was the sound of rivers running in the rocks like many rats. We walked to the great slides which overtopped the waters, to the hundred ledges of the serried gray rock which makes the river's bed. Then we passed into vast mountain chambers where, despite company, you felt you were alone whilst judges and distributors of dooms considered you.

"Afternoon grew to dusk of evening, and the trail was harder to keep. Monument Creek rushed from underground its short course to the receiving Colorado. We were baffled with the way. Sunset rays far above made roseate the peaks and the ridges but rapidly faded down below, as if light would not carry to us. And night closed sharply in, with starlight and a swelling magnificence of all that was material in the womb of the earth.

"Our quest had then become the Hermit Cabin or Camp, as it is called, a place wherein to spend the night. Darkness almost hid the vague Tonto trail, and the way as we traced it grew much wilder. There were many slippery rocks and queer drops which it seemed to us not even a mule could have taken.

"We began to think not unhappily of a night in a cave or under some overhanging ledge of the cliff, when far away we espied a lost light that flickered uncertainly in the darkness. That indubitably must be the little rest house on the fast running Hermit River, and we took heart from the light and made for it.

"We came to the door and no dog barked. All was utterly silent. We opened the door and faced a man and his wife who were working at a kitchen table on which was spread the most unlikely things to find at the bottom of the Grand Cañon—sugar plums, yes, bright red, green, and yellow squares of candy dusted with white sugar. In their spare time in the long winter evenings the keeper and his spouse made these sugarplums from the pith of the cactus and sold them later for a fair reward. For cactus candy is a good sweet, one made by the Indians before the white man came.

"So we dined with the keeper and were given candy for dessert. And we listened to many curious tales of the Cañon and admired the skins of the wild cats the keeper had shot. Then we walked out into the balmy night air, and looked up to the flame points of the stars and the golden lines of their rays. The moon came up slowly from behind some vast black prison wall of stone, and she dimmed the stars. Then the grandeur of moonlight filled the Cañon as it were a precious basin. We slept down below moon and stars and crags upon a happy earth, and all night long the temples of Shiva and Isis and Buddha and the blood-red castle and the white cliff palaces stared into the Arizona sky. And we heard no coyote cry nor felt one chill breath of the snowland above us.

"Next day the naked light of dawn lighted up stark cliffs and jagged sky pointers and the green cabins of Hermit Camp under their yellow umbrellas of wilted aspens. And we climbed up from the depth into the cold heights once more. The mountains on all hands grew up with us as we climbed, and towered above and were measured by us, and sank at last beneath us and remained down in the gap with the rushing river and the silences that are below. We looked down at sunset four thousand feet from the rim to the river, and we reflected that in a way the Cañon had possessed us wholly and we in our hearts possessed only part of it. It voided us out at the top, it plumbed our hearts, it took away our breaths, it turned the last page of the word books of our minds."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Haanstad, A.

- 1404 1923 Denver Program Committee. Trail and Timberline (Colorado Mountain Club, Denver), (52) (January): 8.

Includes note of lecture given December 12, 1921, "The Painted Desert,' by F. P. Clatworthy, illustrated by his wonderful autochromes of the desert and Grand Canon."

Hall, Richard G.

- 1405 1923 To the Ga--lor--ious West, and return. The Seventh Regiment Gazette (Seventh Regiment Gazette Association [107th Infantry, New York, National Guard; and 7th Regiment Veteran Association], New York), 38(2) (November): 17-18.

Regarding representatives' trip to the 5th Annual National Convention of the American Legion in San Francisco, October 1922; with condensed measurements and a notable focus on meals.

"We arose at 5 A. M., tumbled out of our berths, off the train, climbed a flight of steps, walked a hundred yards and there, spread at our feet, was, the view of views, the Grand Canyon of Arizona just before sunrise. We are in the class with Harry Lauder's. 'It's nice to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to lie in bed' but we wouldn't have missed that sight for anything. No matter how vivid an imagination you have you can't imagine anything so wonderful, and no matter how great your powers of description, you could not describe it accurately, especially as it appeared in the dim morning light—so vast the space, so wonderful the coloring, so awe-inspiring the spectacle of an abyss four miles wide and a mile deep, that you stand spell-bound, speechless—until some New Yorker who has never before been out of sight of Manhattan remarks, 'I wonder if they've got a United Cigar Store down there?' Our attempt to push the aforementioned Manhattanite off the Rim failed, but the exercise gave us sufficient appetite to partake of an appetizing breakfast at the Hotel El Tovar, a stone's throw from the Rim. Sgt. Faye spent the morning motoring about the Rim and the afternoon in an auto trip to the Painted Desert, while, immediately after breakfast ye Scribe girded up his llins and bestrode a mule (pity the animal) in order to make the trip to the waters of the Colorado. We don't know why they named it Bright Angel Trail unless it was because those who make the trip have led exemplary lives, have visions of speedily becoming bright angels as they descend some steep bit of trail or round some sharp bend affording a view of a thousand yards directly beneath their stirrup. A trip of 4½ miles brought us to the rapidly flowing Colorado River where we were glad to partake of a hearty box-lunch and scramble along the bank for a while before retracing our steps in order to reach the hotel in time for the evening meal. After dinner we listened to an interesting illustrated lecture on the Grand Canyon by an overseas veteran, now acting as a ranger in the National Parks, after which we ambled down to the train and tumbled into our berths dead tired after a day long to be remembered." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Leslie, Arthur

- 1406 1923 Dare-devils of the magic box; every day the news cameraman takes his life in one hand and his camera in the other and sees what fate has up her sleeve. Illustrated World, 39(1) (March): 74-77, 148.

See p. 76: "The same element of danger [unpredictable air currents] existed when a cameraman flew over the Grand Canon grinding away. The currents between the narrow walls created atmospheric whirlpools which threatened to dash the pilot and cameraman to instant death." (ENTIRE NOTE) No illustration pertinent to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mattoon, Laura I., AND Bragdon, Helen D.

1407 1923 Services for the open. New York: The Century Co., 211 pp. [Reprinted by Association Press (New York, 1947).]

" 'Services for the Open' are designed primarily for camps, for use in schools during the out-door seasons of the year, or for any group of people who wish, in the spirit of sunshine and great spaces, to worship 'the God of the open air.' " (p. vii). See pp. 126-127:

"'Johnny' in the Grand Canyon." (credited to John Burroughs, 'Time and Change' [credit on p. xx])

"It is quite worth-while to go down into the canyon on mule-back, if only to fall in love with a mule, and to learn what a sure-footed, careful, and docile creature, when he is on his good-behavior, a mule can be. My mule was named 'Johnny,' and there was soon a good understanding between us. I quickly learned to turn the whole problem of that perilous descent over to him. He knew how to take the sharp turns and narrow shelves of that steep zigzag much better than I did. I do not fancy that the thought of my safety was 'Johnny's' guiding star; his solicitude struck nearer home than that. There was much ice and snow on the upper part of the trail, and only those slender little legs of 'Johnny's' stood between me and a tumble of two or three thousand feet. How cautiously he felt his way with his little feet, as, with lowered head, he seemed to be scanning the trail critically. Only when he swung around the sharp elbows of the trail did his forefeet come near the edge of the brink. Only once or twice at such times, as we hung for a breath above the terrible incline, did I feel a slight shudder. One of my companions, who had never before been upon an animal's back, so fell in love with her 'Sandy' that she longed for a trunk big enough in which to take him home with her." (ENTIRE ITEM)

McCarthy, John Russell

1408 1923 At the Grand Canyon. The Personalist (University of Southern California, Los Angeles), 4(1) (January): 28-30.

APPROACH

Almighty God! with bared, bowed heads we come,
With trembling hands that may but supplicate
And eyes that dare but wonder and adore,
To this Thy temple, building beyond time.
Not the fair soul of man, nor yet the sea
(The ancient mother of Life) nor even the storm
That shouts of glory on the naked winds
Can dream so holy and terrible a dream.

DELAY

The gay green fields are bright with little moods
Of the Great Spirit's playtime, and the hills,
That wear the sunrise as a jeweled crown,
Are His for splendour when the day is young.
The yellow desert beats his muffled drum
Against the eternal stars—"There is no Time!"
The forest like an organ breathes the hymn
Of love that would go sheltered to his bed
And lie the long night there beside his mate.
The splendid motors of the midnight sky
That trail black smoke of terror and send forth
Great piercing headlights to the cowering earth
—Electric heralds of strength that knows no end;
The little rains that light the earth's old face
With smiling blooms of youth, and murmur low,
Like a soft lullaby, God's gentleness. . . . .
How strange and multitudinous the moods
Of God Almighty breathing through the land!

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Now you who worship where the fields are green
And where the winds make tumult with the sea,
Come with bared head unto this perfect shrine.

THE PRESENCE

Stillness! Immensity that needs no voice!
Depth more solemn than the depth of stars
The hues of golden heaven and red hell.
How more than silence in the awful calm!
How more than distance in the miles that reach
Until the sight grows dim with very wonder,
Deep on deep withholding secret dreams
Of sanctuaries none may dare to know
A mighty temple building like a world
In stillness as the stillness of the stars
Unto the glory of Almighty God!

THE LITTLE GODS

And here, maybe, when dawn brings laughter down
Out of the heavens, or when noonday runs
His round of cares, or here mayhap at night
When sleep lies dreaming in her ebon robe,
The little gods come winging one by one
And bring their mite of homage to His throne.

CONVOCAATION

Comes wheeling on silver wings the bright slim queen
Of Venus, maiden planet of the host,
Comes dancing on silver wings and wheels so low
The mists that are her raiment kiss the rocks.
Now fairer for new blessing, she lies still,
Like a young wind at rest, and makes her prayer.
Down that long devious aisle with dreadful step,
With wild red eye and eerie locks unloosed,
Treads the weird king of comets with his gifts.
Red out of hell the pedestal of Mars
Greets him descending in flames of ruined worlds.
Here Jupiter comes sailing like a ship,
A slow white ship upon a lazy sea,
While Neptune rises shaggy from the stream
And trails his beard upon the granite pave.
The fair triumphant deity that guides
Superb Orion through the spoorless skies
Comes with his gleaming sword and bows his head.
And when the eye has no more strength to see,
Upon their seven thrones, of turquoise made
And ivory and garnet, sit the queens,
Inviolable sisters of the Pleiades.
The clumsy monster of the Great Bear stalks
Like Satan from his den, but none more humble,
None with stranger, wilder gifts than his.
Like a chill wind that plays a soundless tune
Through the huge caverns sweeps the great white god
Who rules with bitter hand the cold north star.
Now once unto the brim with sneaking steps,
Then out among the pines that guard the fane,
Whimpering as he runs before the winds,
The god of gold goes hiding his sallow face.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

But they, the chosen, pay their homage due
And stay their solemn hour before the throne,
Breathing the spell and splendour none but gods
And the great dead may know and understand,
And kissing with pale lips the holy hem
Of the great Maker's garment that is spun
Of stillness and of awe. But none shall stay
Beyond his hour of worship. Each shall go
With powerful wing upon the skyey ways
To his own sphere, with rapture in his heart.

PRAYER

Give ear, O Dreamer and Builder, Spirit of Life!
If that in me which urges and impels
Toward Thy beauty, if the soul in me
Is given from you and part of the deathless song
That You go chanting out of space and time,
Then have I not profaned Thy temple here.
And when the soul-stuff that has quickened me
And given me life and measurement of years,
Is weary of flesh and glides back to its own,
Then grant that I, in humbleness apart,
May stand below the host of deities
And the great dead, to worship silently
In this Thy temple building beyond time.
Then shall I know the stillness for Thy cloak
And all the grandeur and the glory be Breath of my prayer to Thee, Almighty God!

Peters, Peter

- 1409      1923      Twilight at Hopi Point; Grand Canyon, Arizona. Santa Fe Magazine, 17(11) (October): 17.
- Where pine trees are guardians,
    Who faithful, strong and true,
Stand with graceful arms outstretched,
    To point the wonderous view.
- Those rugged rocks of granite,
    Whose veil of misty blue
Has, thru deepening twilight,
    Changed to violet hue.
- The solemn deathlike stillness,
    Silence that almost speaks,
E'en Nature's voice is hushed
    To watch the purple peaks.
- And even more enchanting,
    A sound comes from below.
Can it be the distant river,
    With placid, yellow flow?
- This quiet flow at mid-day,
    Visioned in the sun,
Was but a muddy streamlet,
    And now doth torrent run!

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Below the trail so winding,
    'Tis wonderful to think;
The river's roar at twilight,
    Is heard on canyon's brink.

The afterglow whose grandeur,
    In softened, mellow light,
Streaming o'er crag and chasm—
    How beauteous the sight!

Rinehart, Mary Roberts

- 1410 1923 The out trail. New York: George H. Doran Co., 246 pp. [Various reprintings by Garden City Publishing Co., Inc. (Garden City, New York, 1923), and Robert M. McBride and Co. (New York, 1927, 1932).

See pp. 155-161; reprints the Grand Canyon encounter from Rinehart (1921).

Runyan, A. L.

- 1411 1923 The rim rock of eternity. As a part of: Housholder, E. Ross, [Remarks pertaining to the ratification of the Colorado River Compact]. From: February Fifteenth. In: Journal of the House of Representatives of the Sixth State Legislature of the State of Arizona : 1923 : Regular Session. Arizona Legislature, House of Representatives, pp. 302-303.

Housholder: "In order to explain my vote on House Concurrent Resolution No. 1, as amended, I can best do so by reading the following poem, written by my friend Mr. A. L. Runyan of Kingman, written by him after he had first seen the Grand Canyon . . . ."

I stood today on the rim rock of eternity,
And looking down thousands of feet below,
Into that mighty sepulchre of the ages,
'Where the Silv'ry Colorado Wends Its Way,'
I read the records back to where I stood
Of a million ages past;
And I wondered how many times those Same waters had raced through there—
Only to be carried back in clouds of rain
Or snow to melt and rush again toward the sea.
For surely all the waters of the globe passing
Through there but once could not produce a
Grand Canyon

The date in history when Moses led the Children from the wilderness,
When the Asiatic hordes swept Europe,
The completion of the Pyramids,
The crucifixion of our Savior,
Are recorded but a few feet from the Water's edge;
And the ages yet to come will be interned in you;
And like the ages of the past will leave
Their records in those beautiful colors
That will not fade,
Mountains will wear away, but you will
Ever grow wider, deeper and grander.

Grand Canyon, you belong to the world
For you are truly the sepulchre and

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

The Historian of time;
And on the rim rock of your open book
I would stamp the word ETERNITY.

Seward, Franklin D.

- 1412 1923 Optometrist's impressions after 75,000 miles of traveling in North America. The Optical Journal and Review of Optometry (New York), 52(8) (August 23): 42.

Quoting Seward; with editor's introductory paragraph. Includes, "For awe-inspiring, weird wonder of wonders, the Grand Canyon of Arizona stands out alone, a challenge to the world—that riot of beautiful colors, those angles and rock formations, heights, breadths, depths and distances in the peculiar rock strata. I cannot describe it, save to exclaim wonderful—wonderful!" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Smith, Dama Margaret

- 1413 1923 Going down "Bright Angel". Good Housekeeping, 76(6) (June): 30-31, 181-185.

Not only is this not a tourist's report of affairs, but Mrs. Smith's "privileged" position allows her to pen a pleasant diversion from the usual sort of trip report made by legions of tourists who were bent on "really seeing" the canyon; and it includes a few historical notes that surely would not have shown up if a guided tourist had written it. Interestingly, her route is not "just" down Bright Angel Trail, but it crosses the Tonto Plateau to drop down to the original Kaibab Bridge, then on up to the North Rim—a rare review of ascending the Old Bright Angel Trail that also is not a usual tourist's jaunt. Smith begins her journey:

"Few women have followed the narrow trail winding for thirty-two miles from rim to rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River. Yet that trail holds more rugged beauty and diversified scenery, and can be traversed with a greater degree of comfort, than the tortuous paths among the Alps and the Andes, over which the average American woman feels she must ride a burro in order to have 'traveled.'

"Having convinced the Chief Ranger of Grand Canyon National Park—among whose minor duties is that of being my husband—that life would turn to wormwood and ashes unless I was permitted to cross the Canyon with him, he consented to take me, provided I would not 'whimper' en route, or stop to powder my nose more than once an hour. The remarks I longed to make! But diplomacy conquered, and I maintained a dignified silence. Since I was to go, what else mattered?

"In the still, gray dawn of a July morning our little caravan left El Tovar and wound slowly down the Bright Angel Trail. How many a tourist has blithely 'set sail' amidship a Harvey mule down that world-known trail, with a care-free song on his lips and a 'God's-in-His-Heaven, All's-right-with-the-world' feeling in his heart! And the return? Not so jaunty now—just able to cling feebly to the saddle horn with both hands and wonder if Fred Harvey meals are ever served a la buffet.

"The Chief insisted on traveling light, taking only bare necessities. Bedding, a little bacon, coffee, crackers, salmon, matches, a few cans of tomatoes, which serve as both food and drink on a long, hot trip, together with cooking utensils, were put on Chollo, our tiny Spanish pack-mule. This little beast wore the expression of an angel and bore the cunning of a fox. Indispensable toilet articles, a flannel skirt and light sweater for wear when out of the saddle, were carried in a roll tied behind my saddle. Breeches, woolen shirt, laced boots, and a wide felt hat comprised the outfit I wore. This is without question the most sensible costume for trail wear.

"At the head of the trail I involuntarily pulled up short. 'Leave hope behind all ye who enter here,' flashed through my brain. Dante could have written a much more realistic 'Inferno' had he spent a few days in the Grand Canyon absorbing local color. Far below, the trail wound and crawled, losing itself in purple shadows that melted before the sun as we descended. The world still slept, with the exception of a few saucy jays who flew about us loudly claiming the heavens, the earth, and the waters beneath—should there be any.

"Two hours of steady riding brought us to the base of the red-wall limestone. In those two hours we had passed from the belt of pine and shrub to the sage-brush and cactus. Half an hour more over a sloping plateau, and we reached Indian Gardens, a clump of willows and cottonwoods shading a stream of cold, sparkling water

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

bubbling from a never-failing spring. This little stream is full of delicious watercress. Last Christmas Day one of the rangers went down and brought back a supply to garnish the roast turkey with. At one time this spot was cultivated by the Havasupai Indians, hence the name. Every 'dude' that has followed a Fred Harvey guide down the trail remembers this God-given oasis with gratitude. Water and shade, and a perfectly good excuse for falling out of the saddle. No flopping mule ears; no toothache in both knees; no yawning void reaching up for one. Ten whole minutes in Paradise, and there's always a sporting chance that Gabriel may blow his horn, or an apoplectic stroke rescue one, before the heartless guide yells, 'All aboard.'

"We filled our canteen from the spring, for this is really the last good water until the bridge is crossed, and rode across the Tonto Plateau for five miles through sage-brush, cactus, and yucca. Here and there a chuckawalla would dart across the trail or a rock squirrel sit on his haunches and scold as we passed. At one point the trail hangs over the edge of Pipe Creek, a mere, little chasm two thousand feet deep. Anywhere else this crevice between sheer walls of blackened, distorted, jagged rocks would be considered one of the original Seven Wonders. Placed as it is, one tosses it a patronizing glance, stifles a yawn, and rides on. A mile or so along the way we crossed a trickle of water coming from Wild Burro Spring, so named because the wild burros common to that region come there to drink. Just as we drew up there to allow our horses to drink, the sultry silence was shattered beyond repair. A rasping, jarring, choking sound rolled and echoed back and forth from crag to crag!

" 'What's that?' I gasped, after I had swallowed my heart two or three times.

"The Chief silently pointed to a rock lying a few feet away. Over the top of this protruded an enormous pair of ears, and two solemn eyes were glued on us unblinkingly. Only a wee wild burro, but what a huge voice he possessed! The thousand or more of these little gray and black burros running wild in the Canyon are a heritage from the day of the prospector. They are not at all shy, and one, 'Bright Angel' as he was called, was often utilized by travelers to carry water, wood, or part of their packs back and forth on the trail.

"Passing on across the plateau and rounding O'Neill Butte, we suddenly came to the edge of the Granite Gorge, which is the 'sure 'nuff' jumping-off place. One should have at least a week's warning before this scene is visioned. Straight down, fifteen hundred feet beneath one's feet, flows the Colorado. There are no words to describe this. Every one must see for himself. Down, down, back and forth, zigzagged our trail, jumping from crag to crag and mesa to mesa, finally running on to the thread suspended from wall to wall high above the sullen, brown torrent. When started down this last lap of the journey riverward, one finds that the trail is not so steep and is a great deal smoother than that already traveled. And the bridge! Picture to yourself a four-foot wooden road four hundred and twenty feet long, fenced with wire and slung on steel cables fifty feet above a rushing, muddy river, and you will see what I was supposed to cross on. My horse stopped suddenly, planted himself securely—and looked. I did likewise.

" 'Those cables look light,' I said, seeking some excuse to stay right where I was.

"But the Chief calmly informed me that they were 'heavy enough.' I presumed he should know, having helped to carry them down that twelve-mile trail. Only pride prevented me from climbing back up the homeward trail like a fly up a wall. The Chief rode serenely across, never doubting my close attendance at his horse's heels. Telling myself that this was the only bridge for a distance of three hundred miles, I spoke firmly to 'Supai Bob.' No results. I coaxed. I pulled. I pushed. I spanked with a board. Bob had made up our minds to remain there. Right there and then I formed a high regard for that horse's sound judgment and will power.

"At last the Chief looked back and saw my predicament. He turned his horse loose to continue across and came back to me. 'What's the matter?' Just as if he couldn't well see! 'Speak to him in Supai, and he will understand.' (This was a horse borrowed from our Supai Indian friend, for the occasion.) 'Speak to him yourself,' I said, and stalked on to that swaying horror. I haven't learned the details of the conversation, but a clatter of hoofs sounded behind me, and Bob securely anchored his nose on my shoulder, to remain there until terra firma was regained. On the return trip he seemed to have no fear and walked on to the bridge without hesitation.

"At the north end of the bridge where the cables are anchored is a labyrinth of trails crossing and recrossing. The Chief explained that the wild burro, 'Bright Angel,' made these one time when high water marooned him on that small area. The little fellow hung about constantly while the bridge crew worked, and when the structure was completed, he was the first animal allowed to cross on it. I wonder what he thought of the 'Promised Land' he had gazed at so longingly for years? Poor Brighty fell a victim to a tramp who refused to listen to advice and

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

crossed to the North Rim after the snows had come, taking the burro from his winter home in the Canyon depths to carry his pack for him. After being snowed in for weeks, several miles back from the North Rim, it was Brighty's fate to die of starvation and be eaten by the man. Everybody who had ever crossed the Canyon knew Brighty, and if Mr. Tramp has sound judgment, he will shun this part of the West.

"By the trail, just across the bridge, is a prehistoric ruin. When Major Powell landed there on his first trip down the Colorado River in 1869, he found broken pottery, an old mealing stone, and many chipped flints, indicating that this had been the ad of an old arrow maker. The mealing stone can be seen at Phantom Ranch, half a mile along the trail. As we passed on up Bright Angel Creek a bronze tablet set in the face of a cliff told its own story: Rees B. Griffith, a pioneer Mormon trail builder, sleeps there by the sullen river he did so much to conquer. Last winter, while he and his men worked to make that part of the route safer for the myriads who will pass that way, a rock slide crushed out his life, and he took the last long trail alone.

"We reached Phantom Ranch at noon. This consists of a group of five buildings constructed of native stone by Fred Harvey. One's wildest dreams seldom compass a modern hotel in a mile-deep crevice, but there it is. Although we had run the gamut from the North Temperate to the Torrid Zone in our descent, we rested there only a short time, as we wanted to reach Ribbon Falls in time for the sunset. What a different trail led on! Where had been a hot, dusty trail we now had a hurrying, crystal stream bordered by willow and reed. Bright Angel Creek is crossed at least a hundred times in five miles. Sometimes the trail runs along in the creek bed for yards and yards. This makes it impassable during the spring freshets. Arizona horses are trained to drink at every chance they get, and our mounts had learned the lesson well. They tried to drink at every crossing, and long after they were loaded to the gunwales they dipped greedy noses into the current. On each side rose steep, precipitous walls. This part of the trail lies in Box Canyon, where the sun reaches only at midday.

"Six miles from the river we turned aside from the main trail and followed a path a few rods to Ribbon Falls. There may be many more magnificent waterfalls in the world, but none could be more chastely beautiful than Ribbon Falls. Straight from the red cliff it breaks forth and falls in a white mist for seventy feet, striking a stone upholstered with greenest moss, then drifts down to settle into a sapphire pool at the base of the wall. Here camp was made for the night. The horses were fed and turned into the grassy cove while supper was being prepared. Sherry never served anything half so delicious as that coffee and bacon.

"After a swim in Nature's bathtub under the falls, we sat watching the moon wallow lazily up from behind the rim. Strange forms crept into view with the moonrise; ruined Irish castles, fortresses, and weird structures reared themselves. By and by a few stars blossomed—great, soft, golden splashes scattered about in the turquoise bowl. The heavens never seem so near as when viewed from some deep, southern gorge. • • •

"From there the trail followed along the stream, gradually rising. We crossed Beaver Creek, where large cottonwoods have been neatly felled by the beaver living there. Still on and up climbed the trail, growing more steep and narrow each mile. At the foot of the blue wall a mighty roaring was heard. Far above, a torrent of water from some subterranean cavern bursts from the ledge with such force that the sound carries for miles. This is called Roaring Spring. Getting through the blue-wall limestone was an arduous struggle. This formation is always the hardest to conquer wherever it is found. Almost straight up, clinging to the horse's mane, we climbed with frequent rests. Now we could look down and trace Bright Angel Canyon to its junction with the Great Canyon, for we had left Bright Angel Creek far below. From above sounded a faint call, then nearer, and was answered by us. It was the signal that told us another party with stock was coming down the trail and that we must find a safe place and wait for them to pass. Safe places were not plentiful there, but we scrambled out of the trail, and presently Ambrose Mea[r]ns, noted hunter and lifelong friend of Theodore Roosevelt, hove in sight. He was on his way to meet a party of would-be hunters from the East and conduct them to the North Rim, there to slaughter the cougar abounding wherever deer are found. On our return we met that party of Nimrods. If they were as scared as they looked to be, No cougar was in the least danger.

"Now and then along the trail a wild-rose blossomed, and as we climbed higher, we threaded a maze of flowering locust, fern, and bracken. The air was heavy with the scent of flowers. It was a fairyland, and then—the trail topped out at an elevation of eight thousand feet into the forest primeval. Towering, yellow pines planted their feet in a carpet of wild flowers and reached for heaven. Scattered among the brown old pines thousands of slender aspen trees swayed and quivered, their silvery trunks giving an artificial effect to the scene as if the gods had set the stage for some divine drama. Ruffed grouse strutted about, challenging the world at large. Our horses' feet scattered a brood and sent them scampering to cover under leaves and vines. Roused from his noonday siesta a startled deer bounded away. One doe had her fawn secreted near the trail, and she followed us for some distance to make sure her baby was safe.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Swinging around a curve into an open valley, we came to a decrepit signpost. And what do you suppose it said? Merely: 'Santa Fé R. R. and El Tovar,' while a hand pointed nonchalantly in the general direction of nowhere. I wondered how many travelers had rushed madly around the corner in order to catch that train. Then my mind slid down twenty miles of nightmare, bridged the river like a spider, and scrambled up the perpendicular trail to where the Santa Fé and El Tovar are really found in their native haunt. All I could find to say was, 'Well, I never did believe in signs, anyhow!'

"But this North Rim soil just naturally seems to sprout signs, for soon we overtook this one, at what is now the North Rim Ranger Station:

THE JIM OWENS CAMP
COUGARS CAUGHT TO ORDER
RATES REASONABLE
GUIDING TOURISTS AND HUNTING
PARTIES A SPECIALTY

"He must have received several orders, since the cabin walls were covered with pelts and murderous-looking claws frescoed the ceiling. 'Uncle Jim' told the Chief that he had caught more than eleven hundred cougars in the past twenty years. He has retired from active life now and passes his time raising buffalo in House Rock Valley. Between chores he puts rocks over the holes in his cabin floor so the rattlesnakes won't crawl up and share his bunk with him. 'Blondy' Jensen has taken over the guiding business and keeps a supply of horses adequate to the needs of North Rim visitors. A summer camp is operated on Bright Angel Point, four miles from the head of the trail, by the Wylie Way Camping Company. Good beds and meals can be obtained here by travelers.

"One night was spent on Greenland Plateau. I had been told that this plateau derived its name from a fancied resemblance in shape to the island of Greenland, but I know now that it was so called on account of its velvety meadows, grassy parks, and and dancing, green leaves of the aspen trees. In one glade called Grassy Hollow the grass reached to our horses' knees.

"Now and then we made a short detour, bringing us to the Canyon's rim and to new glimpses of Navajo Mountain, the Little Colorado, and the Painted Desert. It seemed that each view was more marvelous than the last, culminating in the superb panorama visible from Cape Final. Scenery is furnished to order here. Do you favor mountains? 'I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help.' [Psalm 121:1] Far across the Canyon rise the snow-capped heights of San Francisco Peaks. Truly from whence cometh help. Reservoirs of water formed from melting snow nestle at their base. From this supply, water is sent out to towns within a radius of one hundred miles. Look to the south and see the Navajo Reservation and the glorious, glowing Painted Desert. If peaceful scenes cloy and you prefer a thrill, glance at the Colorado River foaming and racing a mile or so below you. Sunset from this point will linger in my memory while I live. A weird effect was added by a sudden storm breaking in the Canyon. The depth was blotted out, and instead, clouds billowed and beat against the jutting walls like waves breaking on some rock-bound coast.

"The next morning we explored near-by points, prehistoric dwellings and corn storage caverns used by a vanished race. It seemed that we could not leave this enchanted mesa, but camp was twenty miles away, and at last a reluctant start was made. Greenland is now the most popular point on the North Rim, and no doubt will be visited by thousands of vacationists in the very near future.

"Point Sublime, twenty miles to the west of Bright Angel Point was visited the next day. This point seems to have inspired poets and painters alike. It was here that Dutton wrote many of his descriptive poems of the Grand Canyon, weaving a word picture of the scene so awe-inspiring and wonderful. How many of you have seen the incomparable painting of the Grand Canyon hanging in the Capitol at Washington? The artist, Thomas Moran, visited Point Sublime in 1873 with Major Powell and later transferred to canvas the scene spread before him. Deer and grouse were about us constantly, but the crowning joy was mine when a magnificent Kaibab white-

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

tailed squirrel flashed across the trail and around a tree. I'll never say again, 'There ain't no sich animal,' for I have seen him. This squirrel is found nowhere else in the world.

"When I told 'Blondy' about the deer we had seen, he listened until breath and words failed me—temporarily—then remarked, 'You haven't seen any deer yet.' That evening at sundown he drove us to V. T. Park through the heart of the area called by Emerson Hough 'The President's Forest.' First we saw two or three deer grazing near the road, then a dozen or so, and then—literally hundreds of young bucks feeding with the cattle. The does were still back in the woods with their young, Blondy said. We drove for miles through these herds and reached V. T. Ranch just at dusk. We were invited by the cowboys living there to have supper with them. Two 'Dutch ovens' were piled with live coals before the open fireplace. The cook removed the covers, and in one freshly-dressed beef was roasting. The other was full of delicious biscuits just beginning to brown. I was sorry I had dined before we started.

"The big machine ate up the road back to the camp. Suddenly a full-grown deer loomed directly in front of the head-lights. There he stood, head thrown back, nostrils distended, absolute monarch of all he surveyed. 'Blondy' jammed on the brakes, and we slid to a standstill a bare ten feet from where he stood. A moment more he posed, then leaped into the darkness, leaving us wondering if we had really seen him.

"Two days later we reached home. My nose was sunburned, but I hadn't whimpered."

— All this, and we never learned why the Chief had gone across to the North Rim in the first place!

Stevens, A. W., AND Macready, John A.

- 1414 1923 Viewing America's scenic wonders from aloft. Air Service News Letter (U.S. Army Air Service, Information Division, Washington, D.C.), 7(22) (November 22): 1-5.

Lts. Stevens and Macready, U.S. Army Air Service pilots, filmed potential dam sites in the Grand Canyon area. At the conclusion of those activities, "The next day, September 21st, we left Las Vegas and headed indirectly over the Grand Canyon for Holbrook, Arizona. • • • We intended to get all possible pictures of the Colorado Canyon and vicinity on this leg of the flight, and during this trip we flew down into the Canyon, flew to the north of it over the high plateaus and forests of northern Arizona, and also flew at extreme altitude high above it. Although the day was slightly cloudy and we were following in the wake of cloudbursts on the desert, the pictures, considering this haze, came out remarkably well. Views of this great sight, by no other means obtainable, were photographed."

Strauss, Joseph B.

- 1415 1923 Grand Canon. Santa Fe Magazine, 17(8) (July): 36.
Reprints Strauss (1921).

Taft, William H.

- 1416 1923 Address by Honorable William H. Taft. Minnesota Law Review (Minnesota State Bar Association), 8 (Supplement, Proceedings of the Minnesota State Bar Association, 1923), pp. 61-64.

"I remember meeting a national convention of undertakers on my travels as president out in the Grand Canon of Colorado [sic], and I was interested to hear the speeches made there in which that profession was exalted as one of the grandest under the sun. Now, I think, at least, we lawyers ought to have the same pride in our profession. (Laughter.)" (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1924

Anonymous

1417 1924 Canyon Club. Forest and Stream, 94(6) (June): 384.

"Announcement of the formation of the Canyon Club in New York City . . . . Membership in this unique club is limited to men and women who have visited Zion Canyon in Zion National Park, Bryce Canyon National Monument and Cedar Breaks Canyon in southwestern Utah, and have viewed the Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona, from the north rim."

1418 1924 Methods of one Australian firm. F. A. Wilks, of big Sydney music house bearing his name, gives details of system to which he attributes a considerable share of his success. Stand on tuning. "Keep pianos in tune" is advice impressed on customers and service department sends reminders. Presto (The American Music Trade Weekly) (Chicago), (2000) (November 22): 6.

Article notes the Wilks party's travel to the Vancouver area, then notes in a new paragraph: "The picture shows Mr. Wilks . . . at the bottom of the Grand Canyon, near the Colorado River. His companions are Mrs. Vyden, and her son, Rex, both of whom accompanied Mr. Wilks on his interesting journey." (ENTIRE NOTE) Photograph accompanies article, showing the three people seated on mules.

Buek, Gustave H.

1419 1924 Thomas Moran—N.A.; the grand old man of American art. The Mentor, 12(7) (August): 29-37.

Cochran, Clara Harwood

1420 1924 The Grand Canyon. Santa Fe Magazine, 18(2) (January): 28.

Credited to the Cleveland News. Simply a verse portrayal admittedly of much of the prose already written.

No pen has ever yet portrayed,
Nor master hand
With brush and palette ever made
The picture his imagination planned.
Too far beyond the realm of man—
'Tis nature's art—
So vast and so sublime one can
With finite power grasp but a tiny part.
A mass of cañons, blended there
In one great whole.
A wilderness of chasms, where
A world of mammoth rock-forms has control.
Crevices, gorges, mountain walls—
So deep, so wide.
A trout stream would Niagara falls
Appear, if whirling there, from side to side.
The Pyramids of Egypt would,
If placed therein,
Appear like molehills, if they could
Be seen at all, so vast the space within.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

The Yellowstone complete set down
In the abyss
(The park of such great world renown)
Would be a tiny spark compared to this.
Yosemite might unperceived
Lie on its breast;
Ten, twenty of them, 'tis believed
By explorers who have made the test.
And yet, oh mighty cañon, I
Have dared to add
To all that has been written by
The poets of great fame a word of glad Exultant praise, illumined by
A world of light
Engraven on my memory, why
The splendor of those temples ne'er lost to sight.

Coolidge, John Gardner

1421 1924 Random letters from many countries. Boston: Marshall Jones Co., 408 pp.

See author's introduction to chapter 21 ("1907—the Embassy in Mexico"), pp. 311-312, which notes (p. 312), "We came East by the Santa Fe route and stopped en passant to see the Grand Cañon in Arizona but unfortunately had not the time to go down into it. It is magnificent beyond description." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Ervin, R. G.

1422 1924 The photographic expedition to the Arizona Grand Canyon. Photo-Era, 53(3) (September): 144-146.

Editor's introductory paragraph indicates that Ervin "headed a photographic expedition to the Grand Canyon of Arizona, for the purpose of making [aerial] pictures of one of America's greatest scenic wonders". Reprinted from "Air Service News Letter"; but the issue not there indicated nor located for this bibliography. Not illustrated. International News-Film Company expedition in two DeHaviland 4B airplanes, April 1924; Capt. R. G. Ervin and Lt. Frank W. Seifert, pilots. Leaving Kingman at 8.12 on Friday morning, April 18, both planes flew into the Grand Canyon, entering at Diamond Creek and flying north and east to a place known as Supai Falls . . . ." Ervin's report includes comments that a ground party went to the mouth of Diamond Creek to lay out a location marker in the form of a "T" made of cheese-cloth. ". . . at 8.45 A.M. on Saturday, April 19, both planes took off and again flew to the entrance at Diamond Creek, where they located the 'T' displayed by Mr. Bockhurst, and descended to an altitude of 3100 feet, approximately 1200 feet above the river. At this point there is a pinnacle that was evidently formed by the entrance of Diamond Creek and Peach Springs Stream [sic] entering the Colorado River, and an effort was made by both planes touse this as a vantage point for Mr. Bockhurst to make pictures of the planes coming around this peak, flying into [sic] the Colorado River. Approximately 25 minutes were spent at this work. On the return of Mr. Bockhurst it was discovered that . . . he was only able to obtain pictures of the planes with the sky as a background as he had to "shoot" at such a high angle of elevation, but excellent pictures were obtained of the canyon itself, so this trip may be consideed partially successful."

Graham, Stephen

1423 1924 In quest of El Dorado. London: Macmillan and Co., Ltd., 346 pp.

Reprinting of Graham (1923) under new imprint and different pagination.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gregg, W. W.

- 1424 1924 The mighty majesty and magic mystery of the Grand Canon. Santa Fe Magazine, 18(2) (January): 27-28.

Begins, lengthily (and predictably?), "If you have seen it, the Grand Cañon of the Colorado River in Arizona, I am certain my attempt to describe it will be more interesting than if you have not, as, if you have not, it will be quite impossible to picture it so that your imagination can paint it as it is—even if my power to convey real beauty, truthfully, artistically and mightily, in words, should rank along with the greatest word-picture painters in history. It simply cannot be done—to which conclusion I am sure you will agree if you have seen it; otherwise, to which you will fully agree when you have seen it."

Grey, Zane

- 1425 1924 What the desert means to me. American Magazine (New York), 98 (November): 5-8, 72, 74, 76, 78.

"The Grand Canyon appalled and depressed, yet exalted me. Never yet have I attempted to write of it as I hope to." (ENTIRE NOTE) (But see Grey, 1925.)

Halmbacher, Otto

- 1426 1924 Letter from Otto. Mueller Record (Hieronymus Mueller Museum, Decatur, Illinois), 12 (July): 15.

Letter from Halmbacher's western trip. Includes note: "Our next point of interest [after Petrified Forest] was the Grand Canyon of Arizona which was a magnificent sight. It was so grand that it is impossible for me to describe it, the immensity of it is so great." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Hendley, Charles M.

- 1427 1924 Trifles of travel. Washington, D.C.: [no imprint], 299 pp.

Letters, "principally from the Orient", from the author to his son, Charles W. Hendley, of Baltimore, Maryland. See p. 243, at the beginning of a letter from Agra, India, January 6, 1923, writing of the Taj Mahal: "There are a few things that have such a subtle influence upon one that they can not be described, as for instance the Grand Canyon of the Colorado." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Hogaboom, Winfield C.

- 1428 1924 A prehistoric motor tour. Touring Topics (Automobile Club of Southern California, Los Angeles), 16(1): 16-18, 30-31.

First automobile to Grand Canyon. See Hagaboom (1902).

Hurd, W. A.

- 1429 1924 Second thoughts of a listener-in; the variety and significance of broadcast programs. The Wireless Age (New York), 11(12) (September): 47-49. [Item signed "W. A. H." Author's name identified from contents page; he is Associate Editor of this serial.]

See p. 48, photo, "'Little Ahaspa,' a Navajo maiden listening-in on the brink of the Grand Canyon, Ariz." (with man and radio set). Also, p. 49, "C. H. Ingels, a construction engineer, reported reception of KGO, the Pacific Coast station, at Hermit Camp, in the Grand Canyon, 3,300 feet below the rim." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

McKee, Thomas Heron

- 1430 1924 When cowboys heard bedtime stories; an adventure in receiving at a Grand Canyon "dead spot". Radio Broadcast (New York), 4(4) (February): 338-340.

Bright Angel Point, Grand Canyon North Rim.

Monroe, Harriet

- 1431 1924 The Difference, and other poems, including the Columbian Ode. Chicago: Covici-McGee Co., 123 pp.

See "At O'Neill's Point". Reprints Monroe (1922).

Robinson, William J.

- 1432 1924 The Editor's 1924 trip. 30,000 miles by land, water and air. The Medical Critic and Guide, 25B(11) (November): 405-435.

See section 4, "The Grand Canyon of Arizona", pp. 408-411. His second visit to the canyon—cynical and grim.

"On the morning of the fifth day—May 5th—we arrived at the Grand Canyon. I shall not spend much time on this nature's greatest wonder, for I have written about it seven years ago in describing my Hawaiian trip [see Robinson (1917)]. And what I wrote then holds good now, for the Canyon has not changed in seven years, and will probably be unchanged in seven hundred times seven years. I wrote: 'The Grand Canyon is positively the most wonderful, most magnificent, most grandiose thing in the whole little world of ours. It is one of the few things in nature that you never have to apologize for—and while eternally the same, it is never the same. It changes from hour to hour. All you have to do to see a different canyon is to look at it from a different place, at a different hour of the day. The continuous changes in colors which its gigantic granite walls and precipices undergo is beyond the power of any pen or brush to describe or depict. Its shadows and lights are as changeable and as unpredictable as are the moods of a complex human soul.' Yes, among the earth's natural wonders The Grand Canyon of Arizona undoubtedly occupies the first place. And that is all I want to say about it. But I want to say a few words about the various trips round and about it which are advertised to the good-natured public.

"I describe my trips for my own satisfaction—when I am an old man it will interest me to read the adventures of my youth—and for the pleasure and instruction of my readers. But there is a third, strictly utilitarian purpose. I know that many of my readers use my trip descriptions as a sort of guide book; and if I can point out to them some specially beautiful journey or spot or can warn them against a useless, worthless trip or place, my trips receive a greater justification, a more valid raison d'être.

"Many are the trips which the tourist is urged to take in order to fully appreciate the Canyon; but the three most popular ones are The Brim [sic] trip (price, $3.00), The Painted Desert (price, $8.00) and The Bright Angel trail (price, $6.00). The first two you make in an autobus, the third one on horseback, or muleback. I took all the three, and the only one I advise the average tourist to take is the Brim trip. This will give you, unless you are a professional geologist or a travelogist, all the idea of the Canyon that you want to have.

"The other two trips are not made for the sake of the tourist, but for the sake of the tourist's money. The Painted Desert trip takes four hours (two hours each way) in an autobus, and you get three minutes of view. But why should not the hotel urge the people to take the trip? We went in two cars, ten people in each, twenty times eight—one hundred and sixty dollars; the cost to the company certainly not more than twenty dollars. So you see it pays. And many of the world's most wonderful trips are only wonderful in the amount of graft they yield to their promoters.

"But it is about the Bright Angel trail down the Canyon to the Colorado River that I wish to say a few words. The Painted Desert trip is merely a waste of time and money, but the Bright Angel trail (whose name I changed to the Black Devil trail) is a damnable outrage. It is an outrage that people should, for the sake of money, urge such a trip on all sorts of people, without explaining its difficulties, its disagreeable features, its dangers. Yes, its dangers; for it is a dangerous trip, and because no fatal accidents have been reported—whether any have occurred or not, I don't know—it does not mean that accidents are not likely to happen. You ride a great part of the time on a narrow path on the edge of a precipice, and if your mule should make a misstep, you would not live to tell the tale. I am as venturesome as the next man, I have taken some pretty risky trips on horseback, and I am not particularly fearful of breaking my neck or of being precipitated into an abyss, but first, I like to undertake whatever I do undertake with my eyes open, and second, it must be worth while. It must offer you something during the journey or at the end of it. But this trip offers you absolutely nothing—less than nothing. You go down a mile—6,000 feet or so. It is hot enough at the top of the Canyon, but it is infernally hot in the canyon, and the deeper you go, the hotter it gets; and all the time you swallow dust, and dust penetrates every pore of your skin, and saturates your clothing from shirt to coat. And suddenly at the very edge of a precipice—one more inch and down goes the mule with you on top of him, so it seems to you—your mule will stop to pick a twig of nettle or a blade of grass, and of course you can't make a mule move if he doesn't want to. And when at last after four hours laborious traveling, hot, dirty, and blanketed in dust you do reach the bottom of the canyon—what do you see? Nothing. Just a muddy, sluggish stream which is the Colorado River.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"It was so infernally hot when I got down, that I removed my shoes and stockings (no, I am sorry I could not remove my khaki blouse and knickers) and paddled in the muddy Colorado River, until I cooled off. And then I felt more comfortable, for a while. And then four hours up hill. When I finally got to the El Tovar I was thoroly [sic] sore—literally and figuratively—and shaken up. It was the only unpleasant incident in the five months' trip.

"Yes, I confess, I was thoroly angry, because the thing seemed to me unfair. And, as you know, nothing raises the temperature of my blood so high as unfairness.

"I asked some of the people who made the trip with me: 'How did you like it?' 'Oh, it was terrible.' 'But,' added some, 'I would not have missed it for anything!' 'Why would you not have missed it for anything?' Silence or, 'Oh, just so'; or, 'it was thrilling.' As for me, not only would I have missed it for nothing, but I would have missed it gladly for one hundred dollars. In other words, if I knew exactly what the trip was like, but if I were compelled to make it, unless I paid 100 dollars, I would have paid the money rather than take the trip. Now you know what I think of the Bright Angel trail, and you can take it or leave it.

"And this reminds me again, what cowards people are. They are told that such and such a trip is great, that such and such scenery is wonderful, and if it does not appeal to them at all, they are afraid to say so. They think that there must be something wrong with them, and if they give voice to their opinion they will be considered ignorant or uncultured. So they swell the chorus of approval by the majority, instead of joining the chorus of condemnation by the minority.

"Two more points about the Grand Canyon. 1. They tell you that you must stay two or three days or a week to get a good view of the Canyon. For the ordinary tourist one day is quite sufficient. You get in very early in the morning and you leave late in the evening. The trains are arranged so for that special purpose. And one day is all you want. 2. Don't go to see the Canyon twice. When you see the Canyon the first time, it makes such a wonderful impression on your brain, that the second time you feel rather flat. I know that I was not impressed by the Canyon this time anywhere as near as I was the first time, seven years ago."

Shelsé, Ronne C.

1433

1924 The Pageant Highway; a 6,000-mile ride from park to park. The Mentor, 12(6) (July): 29-45.

As one might guess from the title, the text is a bit rushed, since also a considerable number of photographs accompany it, including a full-page one of "[a] very unusual view" of Grand Canyon—unusual, it says, because it is a North Rim view. Regarding the visit to the South Rim:

"Where else in the world is there a sight to compare in solemn and majestic beauty as this? The Grand Canyon offers none of the restfull loveliness of the Yosemite; it simply overwhelms the senses. This vast chasm, often called 'The Divine Abyss,' is ten to eighteen miles wide from rim to rim, more than two hundred miles long, and more than a mile deep. It is the work of the Colorado River, which cut the gorge and left standing on either side tier upon tier of huge architectural forms—veritable mountains, as we see them—exposed in great layers to the desert sun and tinted every color of the rainbow. The giant forms seem to move out from the side walls of the

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

canyon and to float in a purple sea. We feast for hours upon its soul-stirring grandeur, then we set out for the Mesa Verde . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Smithsonian Institution, National Gallery of Art

- 1434 1924 Catalogue of a collection of water-color paintings of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, Yellowstone National Park, Yosemite Valley, Zion National Park, Utah National Park, and the Monterey coast of California. Of special interest to the Interior and Agriculture Departments. By Mr. Gunnar Widforss. On view in the central room of the National Gallery, Natural History Building, U.S. National Museum, December 10 to January 10. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, 4 pp.

List is headed, "Water Colors By Gunnar Widforss"; 72 paintings, listed by title only.]

Termier, Pierre

- 1435 1924 Une visite au Grand Cañon du Colorado. La Revue Universelle, 19: 553-569. [In French.]
(transl. 'A visit to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado')

Also seen as a separately paginated offprint, 19 [20] pp.

A geology lesson based on a journey into the canyon; a reflective one, in a style that might please Clarence Dutton, but with an urgent call to experience the canyon sooner than later!

"La beauté de la Géologie, cette beauté d'abîme que j'essaie depuis quarante ans de faire goûter à mes élèves et que Maurice Lugeon a si justement qualifiée d'accablante, je ne l'ai jamais si bien vue ni si bien comprise, je n'ai jamais été aussi dominé et subjugué par elle, que durant trois journées du dernier mois de septembre, passées, en compagnie d'un ami, sur le bord méridional, sur les multiples gradins et dans l'extrême profondeur du Cañon du Colorado. Le temps était magnifique. Au-dessus de nos têtes, le ciel s'arrondissait, libre de tout nuage, ciel d'airain comparable à celui qui sert de coupole aux solitudes africaines. Chaque matin, le soleil y montait, joyeux, léger, rapide; et ses rayons, fouillant la vallée, chassaient l'ombre devant eux, la délogeaient des recoins les plus cachés, des anfractuosités les plus secrètes, rallumaient les roches éteintes et leur donnaient des couleurs vives: en haut le blanc gris des calcaires, plus bas le blanc pur des quartzites, plus bas encore le rouge brique des grès, le vert sombre des assises glauconieuses, le rouge vermillon des argiles précambriennes, enfin le violet foncé, à taches pourpres, du granite et des gneiss. A midi, tout flambait, et l'astre victorieux voyait le fond même des gouffres. Mais bientôt l'ombre revenait, timide d'abord, très vite enhardie, regagnant sur la lumière tout le terrain perdu; et c'était, dans l'immense région rume et désolée, la dégradation progressive des couleurs, la crue sinistre des ténèbres; jusqu'au moment où, soleil disparu et tous reflets éclipsés, plateau et vallée s'endormaient sous l'œil des constellations impassibles. Alors, plus déliées et plus agiles que pendant le jour, débarrassées du souci des heures qui passent et du poids de la vie qui coule, nos pensées prenaient l'essor; elles planaient sur la durée et sur l'espace; elles remontaient avec effort le cours des âges ou le descendaient paresseusement; elles dénombraient, sur les parois de l'effrayante gorge, les strates successives, œuvre de la sédimentation marine poursuivie pendant des millions d'années; puis, peu à peu devenues confuses, ne distinguant plus bien la réalité et le songe, ne sachant plus bien les limites du présent, de l'avenir et du passé, elles s'engourdisaient à leur tour, pareilles, dans la nuit sereine, à l'énorme oiseau de la Cordillère

Qui dort, dans l'air glacé, les ailes toutes grandes.

[quoting Alexandre Dumas  fils, Discours de réception de M. Leconte De Lisle : réponse de M. Alexandre Dumas fils (Perrin et Cie, Paris, 1887, p. 33).]

"Vous qui me lisez et qui sentez vivre en vous une âme d'artiste ou de poète, hâtez-vous d'aller voir le Cañon du Colorado. C'est dans l'Etat d'Arizona, à peu de distance au nord de la voie ferrée qui relie Chicago, la métropole du Centre, à Los Angeles, la métropole du Sud-Ouest. Un train rapide vous portera, en soixante heures et sans que vous ayez à changer de voiture, des rives du lac Michigan à la station dite « Grand Canyon ».

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

De là, vous n'aurez que quelques pas à faire pour atteindre le seuil d'El Tovar, l'hôtel où vous trouverez logement et nourriture. Quelques pas encore au delà de ce seuil hospitalier, et vous serez au bord même de l'abîme.

"Hâtez-vous! Plus tard, il serait trop tard. De tous les points des Etats-Unis, et même de la lointaine Europe, les touristes accourent, chaque année plus nombreux. Les facilités offertes par la Compagnie du chemin de fer pour le voyage jusqu'à Grand Canyon et pour la visite des gorges sont encore discrètes et supportables; mais bientôt, par la force des choses, elles deviendront telles qu'elles rendront banales et vulgaires, partant déplaisantes, la promenade sur la margelle du gouffre et la descente dans ses profondeurs. Actuellement, tout est à souhait: même au voisinage de l'hôtel, même sur la terrasse de l'hôtel qui se prolonge jusqu'à un balcon dominant le précipice, l'isolement est encore possible, et, avec l'isolement, la méditation et le rêve. Le spectacle est si grandiose, si émouvant, il varie si vite avec l'heure, que, devant lui, les bruyantes gaietés se taisent, les vaines conversations s'arrêtent, comme à l'entrée d'un temple qu'a consacré la piété des hommes et où l'on devine la présence de Dieu. Mais on doit craindre que, bientôt, le nombre des visiteurs s'accroissant sans cesse, le temple ne soit un peu profané. Hâtez-vous! • • •

"Ce qu'on visite aujourd'hui près d'El Tovar, c'est la partie centrale du Grand Cañon, la plus étroite, la plus profonde, la plus belle. Le gouvernement américain, justement soucieux de conserver intacte une telle merveille, en a fait un Parc National. Ainsi la forêt de pins qui couvre le plateau, le long du bord sud du cañon, sera respectée; les routes et les chemins ne seront pas multipliés outre mesure; le camping demeurera soumis à une sévère réglementation; la chasse restera interdite; on peut espérer que les constructions seront toujours, comme elles sont maintenant, peu nombreuses et d'allure discrète. Jamais la forte discipline américaine ne m'est apparue plus bienfaisante, plus vraiment maternelle, qu'en ce désert, où il s'agit de sauvegarder quelque chose de la beauté du monde, le reflet d'infini dont les hommes ont absolument besoin pour ne pas oublier les cieux.

"Dans le vestibule d'El Tovar, de grandes cartes sollicitent l'attention du visiteur: tout d'abord la carte topographique, admirable, de F.-E. Matthes et R. T. Evans, à l'échelle de 1/4800<sup>e</sup>; puis une carte géologique détaillée, dressée sur ce canevas topographique par N. H. Darton, du Geological Survey des États-Unis, d'après les travaux de ses devanciers, J. W. Powell, Cl. E. Dutton, C. D. Walcott, Fr. Frech, et d'après ses propres observations. Tout récemment, un autre géologue américain, L. F. Noble, a rectifié sur quelques points et précisé les descriptions et les coupes de N. H. Darton. Peu de régions de la terre sont aujourd'hui aussi bien connues, géologiquement, et aussi fidèlement représentées par la cartographie, que le plateau dit du Colorado et les profondes gorges que le fleuve et ses affluents y ont creusées. • • •

"Phantom-Ranch, le chalet-fantôme: tel est le nom du refuge où nous allons passer la nuit. Par quel poète, inconscient sans doute de son sens de poète, ce nom de mystère a-t-il été donné à un endroit si mystérieux?

"Deux ou trois cabanes en planches, entourées de quelques arbres et d'une étroite prairie, tout au fond des gorges, tout au fond du Bright Angel Creek, dont le torrent, à moins d'un mille d'ici, se jette dans le Colorado. L'altitude du lieu, au-dessus de la mer, est seulement de 800 mètres. Nous sommes descendus de plus de 1 300 mètres. Nous avons franchi le fleuve sur une passerelle de fils d'acier, lancée, d'une paroi granitique presque verticale, à la paroi toute semblable qui domine la rive opposée. Pendant que nous passions sur ce pont tremblant et fragile, à trente mètres sous nos pieds les eaux profondes et bourbeuses, jaunes plutôt que rouges, semblaient dormir.

"Avant d'arriver au fleuve, nous avons traversé, de haut en bas, toute la série paléozoïque: Permien, Carbonifère, Dévonien, Cambrien. Sous ce dernier, nous avons vu le Précambrien rouge et, dans le Précambrien rouge, que les innombrables lacets du chemin permettent d'observer et d'étudier sur près de 200 mètres de hauteur, nous nous étions longuement attardés. Puis, nous avons atteint les pegmatites roses et les masses épaisses de micaschistes vert sombre et d'amphibolites noires au travers desquelles montent les pegmatites. Que de phénomènes! et combien divers! Nous sommes heureux, certes, mais un peu fatigués d'avoir vu tant de choses. Maurice Lugeon a bien dit: pour les hommes, dont la vie est si brève, la beauté de la géologie a quelque chose d'accablant.

"Le soir tombe; le soir, au fond d'un tel abîme, c'est tout de suite la nuit. Nous avons l'impression d'être au creux d'une vallée, dans un pays de hautes montagnes. En nous déplaçant un peu sur les pentes de la gorge, nous pouvons voir, à plus de mille mètres ou à plusieurs centaines de mètres de hauteur au-dessus de nous, des pans de falaises permienues ou carbonifères, tout blancs ou tout rouges, violemment éclairés par le soleil,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

tandis que nous sommes dans l'ombre. Une brise tiède, presque chaude, arrive, par bouffées, de la grande vallée très proche; peut-être vient-elle de bien plus loin; peut-être vient-elle du golfe de Californie, où, sur les rives couvertes par la forêt tropicale, l'air ne cesse pas d'être brûlant. Nos yeux sont encore éblouis des splendeurs contemplées; dans nos oreilles sonnent encore, musique barbare, les noms indiens que les géologues américains ont donnés aux divers étages et que nous avons répétés tout le jour: Kaïbab, Coconino, Supai, Tonto, Muav, Tapeats, Unkar... [ellipsis thus]. Il fait bon s'asseoir ici, se reposer, se recueillir, réfléchir, rêver, devant la porte du chalet-fantôme, tandis que la nuit, comme « une fumée obscure et colossale » [quoting Victor Hugo] qui monterait du fleuve, remplit rapidement le cañon immense et menace de déborder, là haut, sur le monde extérieur.

“Deux heures passent, indiciblement reposantes. La nuit est tout à fait venue. De mon lit, à travers la toile métallique qui, pour nous garantir des insectes rôdeurs, est tendue dans les vastes baies de la cabane, je vois le ciel comme un chemin constellé, presque clair tant il fourmille d'étoiles, entre les murailles noires, d'un noir opaque, que font, jusqu'au firmament, les deux flancs du vallon. Les eaux du petit torrent qui roule au fond du Bright Angel Creek murmurent tout près de moi. Aucun autre bruit. Le Colorado est trop loin pour qu'on l'entende; et la brise est maintenant tombée, la brise tiède qui nous parlait de la mer Vermeille. Mais qu'il est difficile de dormir dans cette maison peuplée de fantômes: fantômes des siècles enfuis, fantômes des siècles à naître! Ce murmure berceur, comme d'une eau courante, n'est-ce pas le bruit léger du temps qui coule, des années qui s'en vont, là-bas, dans un Pacifique insondable? Comme elles vont vite! Et comme elles sont nombreuses! C'est leur poids, sans doute, qui fait défiler devant mes yeux une série de visions changeantes et indéfinies, visions pour la plupart désertes d'humanité, paysages de rêve incessamment déformés, bientôt effacés et faisant place à d'autres paysages.

“ • • • Maintenant la vallée est devenue profonde; c'est un cañon sublime sur les parois duquel est inscrite l'histoire des périodes passées; et, tout justement, voici des hommes, des hommes qui pensent; ils s'appliquent à déchiffrer cette histoire, et, l'ayant déchiffrée, ils goûtent une joie surhumaine qui les met tout près de Dieu.

“Le torrent au murmure berceur, le torrent des années qui fuient, ne s'arrête pas de couler; et, comme si elle était mise en mouvement par ce flot intarissable, la vision continue de se dérouler sous mes yeux, toujours rapidement changeante. Le fleuve qui a creusé le cañon sublime, le même fleuve, est encore devant moi; mais, comme s'il était las de creuser son lit, il s'endort entre les hautes parois rocheuses; sa vitesse devient presque insensible; les graviers, les sables et la vase, qui faisaient ses eaux bourbeuses, se déposent en couches épaisses; le fond du lit s'exhausse de toute l'épaisseur des alluvions qui le couvrent; il s'exhausse sans cesse, et le fleuve monte; le cañon, d'année en année, se comble; les falaises où se lisait le récit des vieilles périodes disparaissent l'une après l'autre; encore quelques années, et sur la plaine reconstituée où de nouveau le fleuve s'étale, et divague, et déplace ses bords, rien ne marque plus la place de l'immense vallée enfouie. Mais, dans ces dernières visions, je ne vois pas d'hommes. Où sont-ils? Que sont-ils devenus? Y a-t-il encore des hommes? Et, s'il en existe encore, sont-ils capables de lire la suite de la merveilleuse histoire? Oh! quelle question! Et avec quelle angoisse j'attends qu'il y soit répondu!... Aucune réponse ne vient. Le tableau s'efface, le tableau imprécis et changeant du rêve... [ellipses thus].

“Le ciel déjà blanchit, au-dessus des escarpements sombres. La lumière a chassé les fantômes. Le torrent du Bright Angel Creek a repris sa chanson joyeuse. Debout! Il faut partir!

“Nous partons; non sans tristesse. Mais nous ne t'oublierons pas, ô Colorado, ô rouge rivière, qui sais tant de secrets et qui sais si bien les dire! Nous parlerons de toi, là-bas, chez nous, et les jeunes hommes de notre pays frémiront de curiosité et d'enthousiasme à la seule pensée de te voir un jour. Nous nous souviendrons de toi dans nos heures grises; nous évoquerons devant nos yeux ta vallée pleine de lumière, quand le soleil chauffe falaises blanches et escarpements rouges, quand les pegmatites roses de Granite-Gorge ressemblent à des flammes et que les gneiss verts et noirs ont l'air de brûler. Nous nous souviendrons de toi dans nos heures d'incertitude, combien nombreuses hélas! et ta longue patience à creuser les hypogées des anciens âges, à dévoiler des mystères dont nous n'aurions jamais, sans toi, soupçonné l'existence, nous donnera le cœur de tracer notre sillon jusqu'au bout. Nous nous souviendrons de toi aux heures de fatigue; nous songerons à tes eaux qui ont tant travaillé, tant couru, tant lutté, poussé de telles clameurs, et qui, sortant enfin de la ténébreuse gorge, coulent désormais dans le calme, la majesté, le silence, vers l'immense repos du Pacifique; et notre fatigue nous paraîtra légère à côté des récompenses promises. Oh! sans doute tu ne sais pas tout, et tu n'enseignes pas tout. Tu ne sais même pas ton âge, ni le nombre d'années qu'il te faut pour couper cent mètres de roche dure, ni celui qu'il te faudrait pour remblayer ta vallée. Mais nous t'aimons pour ton ignorance même, pour les énigmes sans nombre que tu dresses devant nous, tout autant que pour celles que tu nous as permis d'expliquer. Nous t'aimons surtout, fleuve étrange, parce que, dans notre monde qui passe, aucune créature, ni la Mer, ni la Montagne, ni même l'Homme, ne parle, aussi éloquemment que toi, du Temps, cet autre fleuve, ce grand fleuve inconnu."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(translation)

'The beauty of Geology, this beauty of the abyss that I have been trying for forty years to give my students a taste and that Maurice Lugeon so rightly described as overwhelming, I have never seen it so well nor understood it so well. I have never been so dominated and subjugated by it, as during three days of the last month of September, spent, in the company of a friend, on the southern edge, on the multiple steps and in the extreme depth of the Cañon of the Colorado. The weather was magnificent. Above our heads was rounding up, free of all clouds, a bronze sky comparable to that which serves as a cupola for African solitudes. Every morning the sun rose there, joyful, light, swift; and its rays, searching the valley, chased the shadow in front of them, dislodged it from the most hidden corners, from the most secret crevices, rekindled the extinct rocks and gave them vivid colors: above the gray white of the limestones, lower the pure white of the quartzites, lower still the brick red of the sandstones, the dark green of the glauconious strata, the vermilion red of the Precambrian clays, finally the dark violet, with purple spots, of the granite and the gneiss. At noon, everything was on fire, and the victorious star saw the very bottom of the abyss. But soon the shadow returned, timid at first, very quickly emboldened, regaining all the lost ground in the light; and there was, in the immense brooding and desolate region, the progressive degradation of colors, the sinister rise of darkness; until the moment when, sun disappeared and all reflections eclipsed, plateau and valley fell asleep under the eye of the impassive constellations. Then, more slender and more agile than during the day, freed from the care of the passing hours and the weight of the flowing life, our thoughts took flight; they hovered over time and space; they ascended the course of the ages with effort or descended it lazily; they counted, on the walls of the frightening gorge, the successive strata, the work of marine sedimentation continued for millions of years; then, gradually becoming confused, no longer clearly distinguishing between reality and dream, no longer knowing clearly the limits of the present, the future and the past, they grew numb in their turn, alike, in the serene night, to the huge bird of the Cordillera

Sleeping in the icy air, its wings wide open.

[quoting, in translation here, Alexandre Dumas fils, Discours de réception de M. Leconte De Lisle : réponse de M. Alexandre Dumas fils (Perrin et Cie, Paris, 1887, p. 33)]

'You who read me and who feel the soul of an artist or poet live within you, hasten to go and see the Canyon of the Colorado. It is in the state of Arizona, a short distance north of the railroad that connects Chicago, the metropolis of the Center, to Los Angeles, the metropolis of the Southwest. A fast train will take you, in sixty hours and without you having to change cars, from the shores of Lake Michigan to the station named 'Grand Canyon'. From here you will only have to take a few steps to reach the threshold of El Tovar, the hotel where you will find accommodation and food. A few more steps beyond this hospitable threshold, and you will be on the very edge of the abyss.

'Hurry! Later, it would be too late. From all parts of the United States, and even from distant Europe, tourists flock, more and more each year. The facilities offered by the Railroad Company for the trip to the Grand Canyon and for the visit to the gorges are still discreet and bearable; but soon, by the force of things, they will become such that they will be banal and vulgar, making the walk on the rim of the abyss and the descent into its depths unbearable. Currently, everything is as desired: even in the vicinity of the hotel, even on the hotel terrace which extends to a balcony overlooking the precipice, isolation is still possible, and, with isolation, meditation and dreaming. The spectacle is so grandiose, so moving, varying so quickly with the hour, that before it noisy gaiety ceases, vain conversations stop, as at the entrance to a temple consecrated by the pious men and where one divines the presence of God. But we must fear that, soon, with the number of visitors constantly increasing, the temple will be a little desecrated. Hurry! • • • [The long geological review is omitted here.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

What we are visiting today near El Tovar is the central part of the Grand Canyon, the narrowest, the deepest, the most beautiful part. The American government, very anxious to preserve such a marvel intact, has made it a national park. Thus the pine forest that covers the plateau, along the southern edge of the canyon, will be respected; roads and paths will not be multiplied beyond measure; the campsite will remain subject to strict regulations; hunting will remain prohibited; it is to be hoped that the constructions will always be, as they are now, few in number and discreet in appearance. Never has strong American discipline seemed to me more beneficent, more truly maternal, than in this desert, where it is a question of safeguarding something of the beauty of the world, the reflection of infinity which men absolutely need to not forget the heavens.

In the vestibule of El Tovar, large maps attract the attention of the visitor: first of all the admirable topographic map by F.-E. Matthes and R.T. Evans, 1/4800th scale; then a detailed geological map, drawn on this topographic canvas by N. H. Darton, of the United States Geological Survey, according to the work of his predecessors, J. W. Powell, Cl. E. Dutton, C. D. Walcott, Fr. Frech, and after his own observations. Quite recently, another American geologist, L. F. Noble, corrected a few points and clarified the descriptions and sections of N. H. Darton. Few regions of the earth are today as well known, geologically, and as faithfully represented by cartography, as the Colorado Plateau and the deep gorges that the river and its tributaries have dug there. • • •

For seven pages Termier very methodically progresses through the staircase of strata, unconformities, and erosional relics—and indeed, the whole geological history of the canyon's formation—and steps back to admire it: "En vérité, toute la géologie est sous nos yeux, et, pour la comprendre, la détailler, l'admirer, il n'existe pas d'observatoire comparable au nôtre." ('In truth, all geology is before our eyes, and to understand it, detail it, admire it, there is no observatory comparable to ours.'). And, once into the Inner Gorge:

Phantom-Ranch, the ghost chalet: this is the name of the refuge where we will spend the night. By what poet, unconscious no doubt of his poetic meaning, was this name of mystery given to such a mysterious place?

Two or three plank cabins, surrounded by a few trees and a narrow meadow, deep in the gorge, deep in Bright Angel Creek, the torrent of which, less than a mile from here, flows into the Colorado. The altitude of the place, above the sea, is only 800 meters. We descended more than 1,300 meters. We crossed the river on a footbridge of steel wires, launched from an almost vertical granite wall, to the very similar wall which dominates the opposite bank. As we passed over this trembling and fragile bridge, thirty meters below our feet the deep and muddy waters, yellow rather than red, seemed to sleep.

Before arriving at the river, we had crossed, from top to bottom, the entire Paleozoic series: Permian, Carboniferous, Devonian, Cambrian. Under the latter, we had seen the red Precambrian and, in the red Precambrian, which the innumerable bends of the path allow us to observe and study over nearly 200 meters in height, we had lingered for a long time. Then we reached the pink pegmatites and the thick masses of dark green micaschists and black amphibolites through which the pegmatites rise. What phenomena! and how diverse! We are happy, of course, but a little tired of having seen so much. Maurice Lugeon said it well: for men, whose lives are so short, there is something overwhelming about the beauty of geology.

Evening falls; in the evening, at the bottom of such an abyss, it is immediately night. We have the impression of being in the hollow of a valley, in a country of high mountains. Moving a little on the slopes of the gorge, we can see, more than a thousand meters or several hundred meters above us, sections of Permian or Carboniferous cliffs, all white or all red, violently lit by the sun, while we are in the shade. A warm, almost warm breeze comes in puffs from the great valley very near; perhaps it comes from much further away; perhaps it comes from the Gulf of California, where on the shores covered by the tropical forest, the air does not cease to be hot. Our eyes are still dazzled by the splendors contemplated; in our ears still rings barbaric music, the Indian names that American geologists have given to the various strata and that we have repeated all day: Kaibab, Coconino, Supai, Tonto, Muav, Tapeats, Unkar... [ellipsis thus]. Sit here, rest, meditate, reflect, dream, in front of the door of the ghost chalet, while the night, like 'a dark and colossal smoke' [quoting Victor Hugo] rising from the river, quickly fills the immense canyon and threatens to overflow, up there, the outside world.

Two hours pass, unspeakably restful. The night has quite come. From my bed, through the screen which, to protect us from prowling insects, is stretched across the windows of the cabin, I see the sky like a starry path, almost clear as it swarms with stars between the opaque black walls that the two flanks of the valley form up to the firmament. The waters of the small torrent that runs at the bottom of Bright Angel Creek murmur close to

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

me. No other noise. The Colorado is too far to be heard; and the breeze has now fallen, the warm breeze that spoke to us of the Vermilion Sea. But how difficult it is to sleep in this house peopled with ghosts: ghosts of centuries gone, ghosts of centuries yet to be born! This lulling murmur, like running water, is it not the light sound of time flowing, of the years passing away, over there, in an unfathomable Pacific? How fast they go! And how many there are! It is their weight, no doubt, that makes a series of changing and indecisive visions scroll before my eyes, visions for the most part devoid of humanity, incessantly distorted dreamscapes, soon erased and giving way to other landscapes.'

A brief recap of the geological story of the canyon's formation is omitted here.

'••• Now the valley has become deep; it is a sublime canyon on the walls of which is inscribed the history of past periods; and, quite precisely, here are men, men who think; they apply themselves to deciphering this story, and, having deciphered it, they taste a superhuman joy which brings them close to God.

'The lulling torrent, the torrent of fleeing years, does not stop flowing; and, as if set in motion by this inexhaustible flow, the vision continues to unfold before my eyes, ever rapidly changing. The river that dug the sublime canyon, the same river, is still before me; but, as if he were tired of digging his bed, he falls asleep between the high rock walls; its speed becomes almost insensible; the gravels, sands and mud, which made its muddy waters, are deposited in thick layers; the bottom of the bed rises with the full thickness of the alluvium that covers it; it rises unceasingly, and the river rises; the canyon, from year to year, fills up; the cliffs where the story of the old periods was read disappear one after the other; a few more years, and on the reconstituted plain where again the river spreads out, and wanders, and shifts its banks, nothing more marks the place of the immense buried valley. But in these last visions, I see no men. Where are they? What have they become? Are there still men? And, if there are still any, are they able to read the rest of the wonderful story? Oh! What question! And with what anguish do I wait for it to be answered!... No answer comes. The picture fades, the imprecise and changing picture of the dream... [ellipses thus].

'The sky is already whitening above the dark escarpments. The light chased away the ghosts. The Bright Angel Creek torrent resumed its joyous song. Up! We must go!

'We leave; not without sadness. But we will not forget you, oh Colorado, oh red river, who knows so many secrets and knows how to tell them so well! We will talk about you there, at home, and the young men of our country will shudder with curiosity and enthusiasm at the mere thought of seeing you one day. We will remember you in our gray hours; we will evoke before our eyes your valley full of light, when the sun warms the white cliffs and red escarpments, when the pink pegmatites of the Granite Gorge look like flames and the green and black gneisses seem to burn. We will remember you in our hours of uncertainty, how many, alas! and your long patience in digging the Hypogeums of ancient ages, in unveiling mysteries whose existence we would never have suspected without you, will give us the heart to trace our furrow to the end. We will remember you in hours of fatigue; we will think of your waters which have worked so hard, run so long, fought so hard, drove such cries, and which, finally emerging from the dark gorge, now flow in calm, majestic silence towards the immense peace of the Pacific; and our fatigue will seem light compared to the promised rewards. Oh! no doubt you do not know everything, and you do not teach everything. You don't even know your age, nor how many years it will take you to cut a hundred meters of hard rock, nor how many years it will take you to fill in your valley. But we love you for your very ignorance, for the countless riddles you set up before us, just as much as for those you have allowed us to explain. We love you above all, strange river, because, in our passing world, no creature, neither the Sea, nor the Mountain, nor even Man, speaks, as eloquently as you, of Time, that other river, this great unknown river.'

Winters, S. R.

1436

1924 Radio reception in the Grand Canyon. Radio News, 5(8) (February): 1074-1075, 1169. Birdseye Expedition.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1925

Anonymous

- 1437 1925 Brooklyn "good will" trip a success. In: With the Manufacturers [SECTION]. Radio Age (Chicago), 4(8) (August): 90.

"Good-will and industry" automobile trip of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce. Mentions Eric H. Palmer of Freed-Eisemann Radio Corporation and his radio reception reports. Article notes that Palmer "took his set into the Grand Canyon [and other locales], never failing to receive music from the ether." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1438 1925 The bank welcomes its friends. Locomotive Engineers Journal, 59(8) (August): 574-577.

Written in the first person but not credited. Regarding the opening of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Cooperative National Bank of Cleveland, Ohio. Includes remark, "I once stood on the brink of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River while a would-be poet nearby attempted to describe in verse the majestic grandeur of that stupendous scene. As well might one attempt to do justice in mere words to the spacious splendor of the immense banking lobby in which centers the activities of the parent B. of L. E. Cooperative National Bank." (ENTIRE NOTE) This item is flanked by others also commemorating the new bank.

- 1439 1925 Impressions of the Eastern Homeopathic Medical Association in Fourth Annual Convention—meeting at Springfield, Mass., October 11th to 14th inclusive. The Hahnemannian Monthly News and Advertiser [accompanying The Hahnemannian Monthly (Philadelphia), volume 60], (November): 107-112 [News and Advertiser separately paginated].

Includes note of a lecture by DeWitt Wilcox, "Me and Another Mule". "Only the Doctor could have woven such an entertaining story about so unique a title. He described in charming manner his vacation experiences, especially his mule ride down the steeps of the Grand Canyon, and he held his audience spellbound throughout." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Barrett, S. A.

- 1440 1925 Photographing in the Grand Canyon. Public Museum of the City of Milwaukee, Yearbook 1923, 3: 157-164.

Describes the photographic projects of a cross-canyon trip—about which see Edwards (1925). Descends Hermit Trail, crosses on the Tonto Trail to Bright Angel Trail, across the bridge over the Colorado and up the [Old] Kaibab Trail to the North Rim. At Bright Angel Point:

"This vantage point commands one of the most wonderful views of the Grand Canyon and upon this occasion it was exceptionally beautiful, for we had arrived just at the gathering of a heavy storm[.] The canyon, miles and miles of it, rapidly filled with billowy clouds, ever changing in form and ever growing blacker and blacker. Then suddenly, like the crash of heavy artillery at close range, came from far below the first roar of the on-coming thunderstorm. To me one of the most fascinating sights of nature is an ordinary thunderstorm, with its picturesque flashes of lightning and its deep rumble and roar. How much more alluring then must be such a storm when you are above the clouds. And here we were on the 'edge of the world.' All below was heavy clouds of most fantastic forms and the lightning in great bolts and zigzags was playing back and forth from cloud to cloud and from cloud to canyon wall. This was a real movie opportunity and the cranking of the machine was a real joy under such enlivening conditions.

"However, a Universal camera has about it much metal and various angular points. It was but natural, therefore, that the instrument should collect its full share of electricity. Presently the camera began to sing much as a telephone wire does in an electrical storm and by the time four-hundred feet of negative had been cranked off, the metal edges of the box were literally ablaze with electrical sparks and every part of the camera gave the operator a severe shock. Further, it was obvious that any negative made under these conditions would be ruined

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

with static. It was plainly evident that the 'show was over' so far as filming was concerned, and also that there were other places much safer for an operator than this high pinnacle.

"Had there been any doubt of the wisdom of this conclusion, it would have been quickly dispelled. A bolt of lightning struck farther out on the point and only a relatively short distance from Mr. Edwards and Mr. Jeske, who were working with the still cameras on the level immediately below. We all decided that we had urgent business farther back from the point and proceeded to pack up and prepare for a hasty retreat.

"Our heavy photographic equipment had been brought down onto the point by our trusty [mule] friend, Skedoo, and as soon as the guides had loaded the cameras on to his back, he was started back up the trail. Owing to the recent heavy rains, a small portion of this trail had been undermined and the heavily laden pack animal happened to step on this spot and a hind foot went through. In attempting to right himself, he lost his balance and went rolling down the sharp incline to the edge of the precipice a hundred feet below. Just here he struck a large pine tree and righted himself, apparently safe; but, a moment later, he again lost his balance and plunged over the precipice to the shelf four-hundred feet below."

Retrieving the next day what equipment that could be salvaged: "Strangely enough, while the machines were total wrecks, the several lenses were unharmed."

Bass, William Wallace

- 1441      1925      The Grand Canyon in poem and picture. (Arranged and illustrated by W[illiam]. G. Bass.) [No imprint], [16] pp.

Benignus, Wilhelm

- 1442      1925      Am Rand des Grand Canyon von Arizona. In: Jockers, Ernst (ed.), Deutsch-Amerikanischer Musenalmanach. New York: Heiss Corporation, Inc., pp. 16-17. [In German.]
(transl. 'On the rim of the Grand Canyon of Arizona' in 'German-American Museum Almanac')

Es gibt Augenblicke im Leben, da der Mensch an Abgründen steht,
das Herz dumpf aufschreit
und alle Pfade versunken scheinen, da seine Seele an Abgründen steht,
ganz am äußersten Rand,
wo die Ewigkeit lockt
mit ihren unfaßbaren Schönheiten, mit ihren urgewaltigen Schrecken,
mit ihrem Sirenengesang vom Nichtmehrsein. —

Und seine Seele ist versucht, aufzugeben das Ringen
und möchte sich schwingen in das weiche Nichts und auf Lethewellen schwimmen purpurner Unendlichkeiten.

Doch das „Ewige Auge“ schaut den Menschen immer, jetzt, behütend.
Horch! Eines Vogels wundersüßer Sang, von der Weißeiche Wipfel hinter ihm, weckt ihn aus kraftlosem Sinnen,
verscheucht die lauernde Lockung,
den drückenden Alp,
bringt goldene Botschaft
und gießt in die Seele

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lebensfreudigkeit und Hoffnung,
Mut und Selbstvertrauen.

Frei nun atmet die Brust
und mit klaren Augen
wieder die Pfade,
die sicheren Brücken
zieht der Gestärkte, der zurückschreitet in die Welt
zur Pflicht, zum Leben, ein Neuerstandener,
ein Freudiger,
ein Schaffender.

Bryan, William Jennings, AND Bryan, Mary Baird

- 1443 1925 The memoirs of William Jennings Bryan. Philadelphia, Chicago, and Toronto: John C. Winston Co., 560 pp. [Also reprinted 1971 by Kennikat Press, New York, and by Haskell House, New York.]

Grand Canyon, see pp. 507-509. Reprintings.

Carter, Ray Cecil

- 1444 1925 Says Ray Cecil Carter, Colby '11. In: Here's What They Thought of the 1910 Convention [SECTION]. Delta Upsilon Quarterly (Delta Upsilon Fraternity, New York and Burlington, Vermont), 43(2) (April): 170-172.

The section provides reminiscences from 1910 to complement the notes about highlights in the forthcoming railway circle tour in the U.S. and Canada as part of the fraternity's convention, which will include a stop at the Grand Canyon. Carter mistakes the Santa Fe Railway's provider, Fred Harvey, as "George Harvey". Carter remarks on his earlier visit to Grand Canyon, a place "which I understand neither paint nor words have done justice to, so I shall refrain. I shall never forget (I wonder if the rest of the party admits it) the horrible sweat in my palms as my burro felt his way down to the bottom of that huge maw. And who were the dare-devils that swam the river at the bottom." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Edwards, Ira

- 1445 1925 A second season at the Grand Canyon, Arizona. Public Museum of the City of Milwaukee, yearbook 1923, 3: 47-62.

A geological cross-canyon trip (corresponding to the photographic expedition described by Barrett, 1925)—descends Hermit Trail, crosses on the Tonto Trail to Bright Angel Trail, across the bridge over the Colorado and up the [Old] Bright Angel Trail to the North Rim; all of it described in some detail. After the disaster noted by Barrett (1925), Edwards interjects and continues with a description of departing on the [Old] Bright Angel Trail:

"With the cameras gone, there was nothing to do but retrace our steps as quickly as possible to the south rim and await the arrival of the new outfit.

"Late in the morning we began the descent of the canyon, and found that the trail which was rough and rugged enough at the time of our ascent, had not been improved by the heavy rain which had fallen in the past three or four days, and was in many places practically destroyed. This fact, together with the memory of the lost mule, did not make the climb down these precipitous walls very enjoyable, and all breathed much easier when once again along the banks of Bright Angel creek and over the more dangerous portion of the ride. After a night at Ribbon falls and another at Phantom ranch, we arrived at the hotel just two weeks after leaving it."

The field season continued after new cameras were shipped to them, concluding with an exploration of the mines on Grandview Trail, but they failed to locate the cave below Horseshoe Mesa, which, later from the rim, was spotted with binoculars. "We had underestimated its distance, never having been within half a mile of it."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ferguson, Melville F.

- 1446 1925 Motor camping on western trails. New York and London: Century Co., 300 pp.
Grand Canyon, see pp. 270-273.

Flagg, James Montgomery

- 1447 1925 Boulevards all the way—maybe : being an artist's truthful impression of the U.S. from New York to California and return, by motor. New York: George H. Doran Co., 225 pp.
Includes Grand Canyon.

Grey, Zane

- 1448 1925 An appreciation of Grand Canyon. In: Kane, John Francis (ed.), Picturesque America : its parks and playgrounds. An illustrated volume with special articles contributed for park and playground sections and numerous selections from the works of well known authors expressing the varied appeal of out-doors in America. New York: Resorts and Playgrounds of America, p. 125.

"To see the Grand Canyon full of purple smoke at dawn or sublimely fired at sunset, is to be elevated in soul."
Drifts away from the canyon from there.

Hedin, Sven

- 1449 1925 Grand Canyon. Stockholm: Albert Bonniers Förlag, 295 [297] pp., fold-out map ("Karta över Grand Canyon i Arizona") affixed to leaf corresponding to p. [299] in advance of the rear free flyleaf. [In Swedish.]

Reproduces original artwork throughout, drawn while at the Grand Canyon. This title pertains to Hedin's three-week visit to the Grand Canyon in the summer of 1923. Although it had been translated into German in 1926 and Russian in 1928, an English translation was not made until 2022 (for which see the Raven's Perch Media website, <https://ravensperch.org>). Only a couple of brief selections follow here:

"Då jag för första gången trädde fram till randen av Grand Canyon, gick jag med hatten i hand—omedvetet och oöverlagt, som vid inträdet i ett av människohänder uppfört tempel." (transl. 'When I first stepped to the rim of the Grand Canyon, I walked hat in hand—unconsciously and thoughtlessly, as if entering a temple built by human hands.')

"De första dagarna åtgå blott i stum häpnad och andfådd beundran. Man sitter bara och gapar och märker icke huru tiden flyr. Man känner sig som en liten fattig mygga, som ett stoftkom, vilket blåses bort av vinden." (transl. 'The first days were spent in dumb amazement and breathless admiration. You just sit and gape and don't notice how time flies. You feel like a poor little mosquito, like a dust mite, which is blown away by the wind.')

Henry, T.

- 1450 1925 Learning from the silence. The Theosophical Path, 28(1) (January): 34-36.

"An echo from somebody's outline of history must have found its way into the Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Kerr, Alfred

- 1451 1925 Yankee-Land : eine Reise. Berlin: Rudolf Mosse, Buchverlag, 206 [208] pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Yankee Land: a journey')

See "Der Grand Canyon", pp. 61-68, which comprises 16 brief entries apparently from a journal, with the usual effervescence and European geographical comparisons.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kerr observed an Indian dance at Hopi House, about which he notes that the lead dancer begins with an explanation of the structure, and who afterwards concludes (first phrase written in English, ellipsis thus):

„Ladies and gentlemen, I hope you enjoyed our dancing...“ Der Häupt ling spricht so. Und er sammelt auf der Trommel. Stinkgemeine Welt.“

(translation)

‘Ladies and gentlemen, I hope you enjoyed our dancing... The chief speaks like this. And he collects [money] on the drum. Filthy world.’

Entry XIV, though carrying with it the baggage of contemporary cultural biases, is particularly different from the usual sort of canyonside observations (ellipses thus):

“Eine Rothaut steht vor dem Hotelpult. Er kauft Marken.

“Aeltlich. Riesengross. Machtvoll. Die Gesichtshaut mit so viel tiefen Furchen—dass ein Blatt Papier gewiss drinbleibt, klemmt man es hinein.

“Er steht und zahlt. Das Rabenhaar hinten lang, wie bei Frauen; mit Bast geknüpft. Der absonderliche Mensch; im einfachen Rohlederanzug ... Ohne Federn; ohne Hopi-hopi. Ein übriggelassener Gigant. Unbewusst mächtig (und bauern fest).

“Er klebt nun die Marken auf seine Postkarte ... (Besser denn Skalpieren).“

(translation)

‘A redskin is standing in front of the hotel desk. He buys stamps.

‘Elderly. Huge. Powerful. The skin of the face with so many deep furrows—that a piece of paper is sure to stay in there if you pinch it in.

‘He stands and pays. The raven hair long behind, as in women; tied with bast. The odd man; in a simple rawhide suit ... without feathers; without Hopi-hopi [sic]. A leftover giant. Unconsciously powerful (and a peasant fest).

‘He now sticks the stamps on his postcard. (Better than scalping).’

Murphy, Thomas D.

- 1452 1925 Seven wonderlands of the American West : being the notes of a traveler concerning various pilgrimages to the Yellowstone National Park, the Yosemite National Park, the Grand Canyon National Park, Zion National Park, Glacier National Park, Crater Lake National Park and the petrified forests of Arizona. Boston: L. C. Page and Co., 352 pp. (The “See America First” Series.)

An upgrade to the author’s Three Wonderlands of the American West (see Murphy, 1912).

Noyes, Alfred

- 1453 1925 The torch-bearers. Vol. II. The book of Earth. Edinburgh and London: W. Blackwood and Sons, 375 pp.

See “The Grand Canyon”, pp. 1-12; and “Epilogue”, pp. 371-375. This is perhaps the epic verse about the Grand Canyon, of which only “I. The Grand Canyon” and “Epilogue” are transcribed here. By poetic inference, the canyon may also be found in other parts (“II. Night and the Abyss”, pp. 13-25, and “III. The Wings”, pp. 26-31), although not as directly as in § I. Although “The Grand Canyon” implies it is about that place, the verse embraces the Colorado River’s other canyons, too, as part of the narrative. The transcriptions here are typographically as in the original.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

I.

THE GRAND CANYON.

Let the stars fade. Open the Book of Earth.

Out of the Painted Desert, in broad noon,
Walking through pine-clad bluffs, in an air like wine,
I came to the dreadful brink.

I saw, with a swimming brain, the solid earth
Splitting apart, into two hemispheres,
Cleft, as though by the axe of an angry god.
On the brink of the Grand Canyon,
Over that reeling gulf of amethyst shadows,
From the edge of one sundered hemisphere I looked down,
Down from abyss to abyss,
Into the dreadful heart of the old earth dreaming
Like a slaked furnace of her far beginnings,
The inhuman ages, alien as the moon,
Æons unborn, and the unimagined end.
There, on the terrible brink, against the sky,
I saw a black speck on a boulder jutting
Over a hundred forests that dropped and dropped
Down to a tangle of red precipitous gorges
That dropped again and dropped, endlessly down.

A mile away, or ten, on its jutting rock,
The black speck moved. In that dry diamond light
It seemed so near me that my hand could touch it.
It stirred like a midge, cleaning its wings in the sun.
All measure was lost. It broke—into five black dots.
I looked, through the glass, and saw that these were men.

Beyond them, round them, under them, swam the abyss
Endlessly on.

Far down, as a cloud sailed over,
A sun-shaft struck, between forests and sandstone cliffs,
Down, endlessly down, to the naked and dusky granite,
Crystalline granite that still seemed to glow
With smouldering colours of those buried fires
Which formed it, long ago, in earth's deep womb.
And there, so far below that not a sound,
Even in that desert air, rose from its bed,
I saw the thin green thread of the Colorado,
The dragon of rivers, dwarfed to a vein of jade,
The Colorado that, out of the Rocky Mountains,
For fifteen hundred miles of glory and thunder,
Rolls to the broad Pacific.

From Flaming Gorge,
Through the Grand Canyon with its monstrous chain
Of subject canyons, the green river flows,
Linking them all together in one vast gulch,
But christening it, at each earth-cleaving turn,
With names like pictures, for six hundred miles:
Black Canyon, where it rushes in opal foam;
Red Canyon, where it sleeks to jade again
And slides through quartz, three thousand feet below;
Split-Mountain Canyon, with its cottonwood trees;
And, opening out of this, Whirlpool Ravine,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Where the wild rapids wash the gleaming walls
With rainbows, for nine miles of mist and fire;
Kingfisher Canyon, gorgeous as the plumes
Of its winged denizens, glistening with all hues;
Glen Canyon, where the Cave of Music rang
Long since, with the discoverers' desert-song;
Vermilion Cliffs, like sunset clouds congealed
To solid crags; the Valley of Surprise,
Where blind walls open, into a Titan pass;
Labyrinth Canyon, and the Valley of Echoes;
Cataract Canyon, rolling boulders down
In floods of emerald thunder; Gunnison's Valley
Crossed, once, by the forgotten Spanish Trail;
Then, for a hundred miles, Desolation Canyon,
Savagely pinnacled, strange as the lost road
Of Death, cleaving a long-deserted world;
Gray Canyon next; then Marble Canyon, stained
With iron-rust above, but brightly veined
As Parian, where the wave had sculptured it;
Then deep Still-water.

And all these conjunct

In one huge chasm, were but the towering gates
And dim approaches to the august abyss
That opened here,—one sempiternal page
Baring those awful hieroglyphs of stone,
Seven systems, and seven ages, darkly scrolled
In the deep Book of Earth.

Across the gulf

I looked to that vast coast opposed, whose crests
Of raw rough amethyst, over the Canyon, flamed,
A league away, or ten. No eye could tell.
All measure was lost. The tallest pine was a feather
Under my feet, in that ocean of violet gloom.
Then, with a dizzying brain, I saw below me,
A little way out, a tiny shape, like a gnat
Flying and spinning,—now like a gilded grain
Of dust in a shaft of light, now sharp and black
Over a blood-red sandstone precipice.

"Look!"

The Indian guide thrust out a lean dark hand
That hid a hundred forests, and pointed to it,
Muttering low, "Big Eagle!"

All that day,

Riding along the brink, we found no end.
Still, on the right, the pageant of the Abyss
Unfolded. There gigantic walls of rock,
Sheer as the world's end, seemed to float in air
Over the hollow of space, and change their forms
Like soft blue wood-smoke, with each change of light.
Here massed red boulders, over the Angel Trail
Darkened to thunder, or like a sunset burned.
Here, while the mind reeled from the imagined plunge,
Tall amethystine towers, dark Matterhorns,
Rose out of shadowy nothingness to crown
Their mighty heads with morning.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Here, wild crags

Black and abrupt, over the swimming dimness
Of coloured mist, and under the moving clouds,
Themselves appeared to move, stately and slow
As the moon moves, with an invisible pace,
Or darkling planets quietly onward steal
Through their immense dominion.

There, far down,

A phantom sword, a search-beam of the sun,
Glanced upon purple pyramids, and set
One facet aflame in each, the rest in gloom;
While from their own deep chasms of shadow, that seemed Small inch-wide rings of darkness round them, rose
Tabular foothills, mesas, hard and bright,
Bevelled and flat, like gems; or, softly bloomed
Like alabaster, stained with lucid wine;
Then slowly changed, under the changing clouds,
Where the light sharpened, into monstrous tombs
Of trap-rock, hornblende, greenstone and basalt.

There,—under isles of pine, washed round with mist,
Dark isles that seemed to sail through heaven, and cliffs
That towered like Teneriffe,—far, far below,
Striving to link those huge dissolving steeps,
Gigantic causeways drowned or swam in vain,
Column on column, arch on broken arch,
Groping and winding, like the foundered spans
Of lost Atlantis, under the weltering deep.
For, over them, the abysmal tides of air,
Inconstant as the colours of the sea,
From amethyst into wreathing opal flowed,
Ebbed into rose through grey, then melted all
In universal amethyst again.

There, wild cathedrals, with light-splintering spires,
Shone like a dream in the Eternal mind
And changed as earth and sea and heaven must change.

Over them soared a promontory, black
As night, but in the deepening gull beyond,
Far down in that vast hollow of violet air,
Winding between the huge Plutonian walls,
The semblance of a ruined city lay.
Dungeons flung wide, and palaces brought low,
Altars and temples, wrecked and overthrown,
Gigantic stairs that climbed into the light
And found no hope, and ended in the void:
It burned and darkened, a city of porphyry,
Paved with obsidian, walled with serpentine,
Beautiful, desolate, stricken as by strange gods
Who, long ago, from cloudy summits, flung
Boulder on mountainous boulder of blood-red marl
Into a gulf so deep that, when they fell,
The soft wine-tinted mists closed over them
Like ocean, and the Indian heard no sound.

EPILOGUE.

Up the Grand Canyon the full morning flowed.
I heard the voices moving through the abyss

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

With the deep sound of pine-woods, league on league
Of singing boughs, each separate, each a voice,
Yet all one music;

The Eternal Mind

Enfolds all changes, and can never change.

*Man is not exiled from this Majesty,
The inscrutable Reality, which he shares
In his immortal essence. Man that doubts
All but the sensuous veils of colour and sound,
The appearances that he can measure and weigh,
Trusts, as the very fashioner of his doubt,
The imponderable thought that weighs the worlds,
The invisible thought that sees; thought that reveals
The miracle of the eternal paradox—
The pure unsearchable Being that cannot be
Yet Is, and still creates and governs all;
A Power that, being Unknowable, is best known;
For His transcendent Being can reply
To every agony, "I am that which waits
Beyond the last horizon of your pain,
Beyond your wildest hope, your last despair,
Above your heaven, and deeper than your hell.
There is not room on earth for what ye seek.
Is there not room in Me?"*

Time is a shadow

*Of man's own thought. Things past and things to come
Are closed in that full circle. He lives and reigns;
Dies with the dying bird; and, in its death
Receives it to His heart. No leaf can fall
Without Him; who, for ever pouring out
His passion into worlds that shall attain
Love in the highest at last, returns for ever
Along these roads of suffering and of death,
With all their lives upgathered to His heart
Into the heaven of heavens. How else could life
Lay hold on its infinitude, or win
The strength to walk with Love in complete light?
For, as a child that learns to walk on earth,
Life learns these little rhythms of earthly law,
Listens to simple seas that ebb and flow,
And spells the large bright order of the stars
Wherein the moving Reason is revealed
To man's up-struggling mind, or breathed like song
Into the quiet heart, as love to love.
So, step by step, the spirit of man ascends
Through joy and grief, and is withdrawn by death
From the sweet dust that might content it here,
Into His kingdom, the one central goal
Of the universal agony. He lives.
He lives and reigns, throned above space and time;
And, in that realm, freedom and law are one;
Fore-knowledge and all-knowledge and free-will,
Make everlasting music.*

Far away

*Along the unfathomable abyss it flowed,
A harmony so consummate that it shared*

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

The silence of the sky; a song so deep
That only the still soul could hear it now:
*New every morning the creative Word
Moves upon chaos. Yea, our God grows young.
Here, now, the eternal miracle is renewed.
Now, and for ever, God makes heaven and earth.*

1454 1925 The book of Earth. New York: Frederick A. Stokes Co., 328 pp. (The Torch-Bearers—II.)

See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 1-10; "Epilogue", pp. 325-328. Note the different pagination for the Stokes ed. For transcribed verses, see the Blackwood ed. (above). The typography also varies from the Blackwood ed.

Pennell, Joseph

1455 1925 The adventures of an illustrator mostly in following his authors in America and Europe. Boston: Little, Brown, and Co., 372 pp. [Author's name given on typographically ornate title-page as Ioseph Pennell.]

Take particular note in Chapter 7, "In and Out of the Philadelphia Studio", specifically pp. 82-83, Pennell's visit to Washington, D.C., in 1881, including a second-hand quoting of William Henry Holmes with John Wesley Powell at Grand Canyon (which would have been on the North Rim, and is in any case probably a confused or an apocryphal incident as rendered by Pennell):

"Professor Holmes was then in Major Powell's department of the Ethnological Bureau, and so was Thomas Moran, who ought to have been a great artist—he is bigger than the present-day duffers, anyway—and Holmes had assisted at the discovery not only of the Yellowstone Geysers but of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. He gave wonderful descriptions of the way Powell's party traveled across the desert, knowing nothing of the Canyon; and how for some days they crossed the level plain, at last sighting trees on the far-away horizon with nothing but clouds beyond, strange in that country, astonishing these scientists as they slowly approached; of their keeping on until the mules refused to go further; of their own terror as they came to the trees and that awful screen of clouds; and how, when they did reach the edge, there was nothing, and Major Powell, in his ghastly fright, whispered, 'My God, boys, it[']s true, we[']ve struck the end of the world!' (ENTIRE NOTE)

See also in Chapter 35, "Work in the Years 1912 and 1913", Grand Canyon noted in passing, and illustration, "Storm in the Grand Canyon Arizona. Lithograph made on my return East 1912".

Reynolds, G. E.

1456 1925 The park superintendents' [sic] tour. Yosemite Nature Notes, 4(20) (November 30): 105-107, 111-112.

National Park Service, Park Superintendents' tour, including both rims of Grand Canyon.

"From the standpoint of vastness of spectacle, of course, there is nothing thus far known that can rank with the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The canyon is overwhelming—breath taking. It inspires awe and reverence and stirs religious emotion. That mighty canyon, with its tremendous array of temples and its mystery of light and color, has been described as the earth's sublimest spectacle. He who could conceive a more heavenly picture must be possessed of more than an artist's imagination."

Rice, Cale Young

1457 1925 The chant of the Colorado (at the Grand Canyon). In: Kane, John Francis (ed.), Picturesque America : its parks and playgrounds. An illustrated volume with special articles contributed for park and playground sections and numerous selections from the works of well known authors expressing the varied appeal of out-doors in America. New York: Resorts and Playgrounds of America, p. 126.)

Reprints Rice (1917).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1458 1925 The chant of the Colorado (at the Grand Canyon). In: Shurter, Edwin DuBois, and Watkins, Dwight Everett (compilers, eds.), School poetry for oral expression. New York: Noble and Noble, pp. 11-12.)

Reprints Rice (1917).

Russell, Francis R.

- 1459 1925 An undergraduate goes conventioning. Delta Upsilon Quarterly (Delta Upsilon Fraternity, New York and Burlington, Vermont), 43(4) (October): 412-415.

See "At the Canyon" (p. 414): "After a day's ride across the desert we spent a day at the Grand Canyon. There, after a rainy morning, the sun broke forth in the afternoon and we beheld one of the greatest spectacles on the face of the earth. I'll have to let it go at that. It's beyond description." (ENTIRE NOTE) See also photo (p. 413, "They Got Up At 5 A. M. to See This").

Schaick, John van, Jr.

- 1460 1925 Cruising cross country. XXII. At the Grand Canyon of Arizona. The Universalist Leader (Boston and Chicago), New Series, 28(24) (June 13): 6-7.

Item dated "The Grand Canyon, May 7, 1925." A pleasantly refreshed mix of personal and acquired opinions and observations of two days at the canyon.

"To my first assistant on the Universalist Leader I wrote a line on the bottom of a letter as we reached the Grand Canyon: 'Just arrived. Tired, pessimistic, atheistic, agnostic, cynical, suspicious. Disposed not to go over and look at their ditch.' Perhaps there had been too much railroading, perhaps I had written too many editorials on the train the day before, perhaps I had eaten too heartily of Fred Harvey's Dining Car dinner. Perhaps I had failed to notify my subconsciousness of high intentions for the morrow, or failed to say my prayers as I went to sleep in my berth, perhaps—but what's the use! A man unconsciously reveals himself enough in writing, without setting out to do so. At any rate, I viewed the 'El Tovar Hotel, Grand Canyon National Park, on the rim of the world's greatest scenic wonder,' with an evil eye. All I took of their $1.25 American plan breakfast was two cups of coffee, to the great concern of the competent Austrian waitress, who showed me a menu on which I counted forty-three articles of food. But the hotel was built for such as I. It was finished in rustic style. A cheery fire of logs burned in the fireplace. There were plenty of easy chairs. One was glad to sit down and relax. After an hour or so my good wife got me to a bench, twenty feet from the side door, and, lo and behold, I was looking down into the great marvel. We are here on a day of matchless beauty, and to-night the full moon sails high.

"We have taken it easy to-day-sat much in the warm sun and watched the cloud shadows move over the Canyon and the colors change from hour to hour. Yes, and we took one of their patented three-dollar-ahead trips this afternoon—the 'Hermit's Rim Trip' to various points where we got out to study the Canyon.

"It was delicious under the pines this morning. The warm sun brought out the scent. Lizards darted over the reeks catching flies. Little reek pinks lifted their beautiful delicate petals against a background of pine needles. A western jay which the Madame speedily identified as the stellar jay flew around very near, many rough-winged swallows darted back and forth above the Canyon and swooped down into the pines so near that we could hear the whirl of their wings, a red tailed hawk sailed so low that even I could tell his distinctive markings, and a pair of black throated gray warblers worked in the pines.

"It was well that we had these smaller things to study, for we soon discovered that the Grand Canyon itself was almost overwhelming."

The devoted author quotes from Psalms 104 and from the geological instruction of "Professor Darton" (which may be read in Fred Harvey's long-reprinted booklet by the U.S. Geological Survey's Nelson Horatio Darton, that expounds on Grand Canyon geology for everyman). He takes note of the National Research Council's A. C. Lane, who established the age of the earth as "at least 1,250,000,000 years" (more than three billion years shy, but authoritative for the day).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"None of us can grasp the meaning of that, but as we stand on the rim of this great chasm or travel along it we do comprehend that vast periods of time have been involved. And as to the Maker—'a thousand years in thy sight,' we repeat, 'are but as yesterday when past and as a watch in the night.' [Psalm 90:4]

Schaick falls into the well-used trap that has seized innumerable writers, invoking world architecture in the scene before him, although to his credit he cites a couple of novel locations: "There is a wonderful pull upon the imagination in many ways at the Grand Canyon. We sat quietly and watched the changes as the sun went down. It seemed quite dark in the lower gorges while some of the upper cliffs and pinnacles were all aflame with red light. A huge mass would stand out, then sink into the shadows and the light would fall somewhere else. Before we read some of the historic and poetic names given to the various cliffs we began to name them ourselves. 'The abandoned city of Fatepur Sikri, over yonder,' we said, or 'the ruined cathedral at Ypres,' or 'the Step Pyramid in Egypt.'

"Out in the moonlight the word to describe it we heard most frequently on the lips of the more thoughtful people was 'mysterious.' Everything was softened of course, the Canyon seemed sleeping, the shapes of bolder points became indistinct, and one was impressed with the vast number of things which nobody has ever seen or told which lie there in the shadows. • • •

"To-day, our second and last day at the Grand Canyon, has been peaceful. A quiet walk just as the moon, a great red ball, sank in the west and as the sun was lighting up the eastern horizon, put me in tune with things.

"We have read, written, loafed, looked for birds, and studied the Canyon. I walked some distance down the Bright Angel Trail this afternoon to see how it was built and to study the gorge from lower down. It gave me more respect for the gorge, more respect for the mules who go up and down every day, more respect for the old lady who went down mule back, and a good appetite for my dinner.

"At the start of the trail is the studio of Kolb Brothers, who went through the canyon alone twice in recent years in their boat, and piloted engineers another time. [It was Emery Kolb who had gone twice; Ellsworth but once.]

"This of course is a tourist place. Seldom have I been anywhere in the United States where I seemed more on the direct tourist route. There is no community here—just the hotel at the end of the branch railway and the tourists' camp. One can not hire a motor and drive where he chooses, he can only pay three, four, five, or six dollars for a ticket to go in a car or bus. The Sante Fe [sic] Railroad maintains a fine service by detaching a car from the California Limited both east bound and West bound, running it up in the night from Williams Junction, holding it here all day and attaching it to the same train just twenty-four hours later. People can leave their baggage in the car, and have from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. at the Canyon. We put in an extra day, however.

"The big feat here of course is to pay six dollars for a mule and go down the Bright Angel trail to the bottom of the gorge—a trip taking from 8.30 a. m. until 4.30 p. m. Children and old ladies in bizarre knickerbockers take it as well as younger folks. Not wanting to be herded in the long line all those weary hours, I tried to hire a special guide and a horse for 5 a. m., but 'the guide could not get his breakfast so early,' 'the mules or horses could not be fed.' Finally we compromised on 7 a. m., but when this was shoved ahead later to 8 a. m. I canceled it, because I saw that it meant the regular party. We are quite willing to admit before we are told that we 'have not seen the Canyon at all,' 'that this is the only thing to do,' that 'all else is as nothing.'

"There are other trails, other trips down into the Canyon and along the edge. To get a congenial party of half a dozen together and go into it up the side gorges, and across it to the great wooded plateau on the other side, would be a real vacation. The temperature, the air, the sun, the sky, at least in early May, seem ideal. The altitude of the plateau on each side is seven thousand feet.

"The artists who have painted the Grand Canyon and Clatworthy who has photographed it in natural colors for the Geographic Magazine have made us familiar with the aspect of its indescribable beauty. There are reds and grays and greens and purples and yellows, and all kinds of half-way effects and tints for which I have no name.

"For many people the place is fearful rather than sublime. The signs put up here and there, 'Do not climb over the rim,' seem superfluous. They want to get away from it. It is more or less hades. 'Dante's Inferno,' I heard it called.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"To me it did not seem fearful. It seemed like the most ambitious attempt earth has made to visualize eternity. There is nothing gay or lighthearted about it. If it is sad to think about the shortness of life in comparison with the time that has been, then it is sad. If it is depressing to reflect that no man could build what the Colorado River has built, then it is depressing. But the mind of man has searched out its secrets and the brave heart of man has faced its dangers, and it may be that one human soul outweighs in significance not only the Canyon but all the rest of the material universe."

Scott, John D.

- 1461 1925 Delta U's greatest convention. Delta Upsilon Quarterly (Delta Upsilon Fraternity, New York and Burlington, Vermont), 43(4) (October): frontispiece, 379-394.

See "The Grand Canyon" (p. 393), the heading for which is misplaced a paragraph too far. A superficial account, with one photo (p. 386) depicting several people "On the Floor of the Canyon" at the foot of Bright Angel Trail.

". . . by 5.00 a. m. we reach the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Dewey's new watch has functioned perfectly and we pile out in time to see the sun rise over the Canyon. Clouds bank Old Sol but we have an hour of clear weather below us for reverent contemplation of the scene in the Canon [sic]. Then the mists arise, blotting out everything for several hours. The clouds roll up and the whole afternoon is one of delights. Many descend the Bright Angel Trail, others hike or motor along the rim of the Canyon for new angles of vision.

"The Canyon is so majestic that an indefinite time can be spent at each point in contemplation of the color and structure. No pen can describe the Canyon, neither can any brush paint its glories. It can be compared to an inverted mountain range, with the muddy, turbulent Colorado racing through the gorge." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Stephenson, Bertha

- 1462 1925 The Special. Woman's Home Missions (Cincinnati, Ohio), 42(12) (December): 18-20.

Regarding the train trip to the annual meeting in Pasadena, California. Included a stop at Grand Canyon.

"As one stands for the first time in silence before the beauty and majesty of the Grand Canyon there is a slight feeling of surprise that it looks familiar. The pictures of this marvelous place have prepared one for its physical appearance. But the overwhelming thing is the soul of it, the immensity, the serenity of its tinted towers and minerets [sic], the amazement of its purple depths. Those who for years have lived on its rim never tire of it; those who see it for an hour never forget it.

"The Grand Canyon must have put a period to the journey, or at least a semi-colon. One lingers over the rim ride, where new marvels of beauty each moment come into view; over the Hopi dance in the late afternoon, where the leaders of a once proud race exert themselves in tribal ceremonials for a careless public, which tosses coins that must be gathered from the dust if the dancers are to be rewarded; over the evening return of those super-weary ones who so blithely started down Bright Angel Trail afoot or adonkey, only a few short hours before." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1926

Anonymous

- 1463 1926 Romance of the Santa Fe Trail. Santa Fe Magazine, 20(2) (January): 56.

Regarding the radio broadcast, "Romance of the Santa Fe Trail", by Gladys De Witt over KHJ, the Los Angeles Times radio station. The program was developed by Santa Fe Railway and first broadcast January 16, 1925. De Witt is the assistant to C. W. Jones, assistant secretary-treasurer of the Coast Lines.

"Some of the subjects Miss DeWitt has talked on over the broadcasting station during the year were:

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

“The Grand Canyon and the Indian Dancers,’ ‘The Hopi House at the Grand Canyon.’ • • • ‘Beautiful Havasu, and the People of the Blue Water.’”

Benignus, Wilhelm

1464

1926 Epik und Lyrik der grossen amerikanischen Nationalparke und Aus der Seele der See : Dichtungen. [No imprint, 64 pp.; additional promotional material on wrapper.] (“Druck von The Co-operative Press, 47 Walker Street, New York City (nahe Broadway und Canal Str.)”) [A full-page advertisement in the rear of another one of Benignus’s volumes of poetry indicates that for the volume here: “Zu beziehen durch [available from]: Wilhelm Benignus, 330 East 69th St., New York City.”] [In German.]

(transl. ‘Epics and poetry of the great American national parks and from the soul of the sea: Verses’)

See the first part of this booklet, “Der Colorado und der Grand Canyon” (transl. ‘The Colorado and the Grand Canyon’) (pp. 3-19), with 14 poems accompanied by some prose and illustrations. Two poems (“Zorn des Meers” and “Surmgesang” in the midst of the Grand Canyon cycle pertain to the other theme of the booklet, “Aus der Seele der See”. Of the Grand Canyon-related verses, three are reprintings.

The prose contributions are “Der Colorado und der Grand Canyon” (p. 3) and “Der Cataract Canyon; Die Heimal der Havasuapai-Indianer [sic]” (transl. ‘The Cataract Canyon; the Homeland of the Havasuapi Indians’) (p. 6).

On p. 10 is a reproduction of the engraving of Vishnu Temple from Clarence Dutton’s (1882) work, with legend, “Vishnus Tempel. Erosions-Detail im GRAND CANYON. Nach Monographie d. ‘United States Geological Survey’”.

The first poem is: “Der Grand Canyon des Colorado; Rhapsodische Dichtun” (‘The Grand Canyon of the Colorado; Rhapsodic Poetry’); reprinted from Benignus, 1908, with modified title.

The remainder of the “Grand Canyon” section is devoted to a cycle of poems, (transl.) “The Heart of the Grand Canyon: Hymns and Rhapsodies”, two of which are reprinted from earlier works, as indicated below, and for which see Benignus under those years herein.

Das Herz des “Grand Canyon”
Hymnen und Rhapsodien. Ein Zyklus

I. Durch die Weiten des Raums

Vorgesang

Mit Geschwister – Gestirnen
majestätischen, feurigen Flugs rauscht die vom L i c h t e gekommene, Strahlenkönigin S o n n e
durch die unendlichen Weiten des R a u m s , taucht in die Kühle des Aethergewalls, schöpft sich elektrische Kraft,
zieht in feurigem Flug
mit sich die Wanderer, ihre P l a n e t e n ,
herrliche Kinder,
unter denen die E r d e
eines der herrlichsten ist.

Sichrer Bahn rollt die Erde treu um die g ö t t l i c h e Mutter, atmet in regelmässigen, tiefen, kräftigen,
Winde gebärenden, Wolken erzeugenden Zügen täglich und nächtlich Licht ein und aus, selbst wieder treulich begleitet
von ihrem Silberkind M o n d ,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

dem ihr pochendes Herz wogend entgegenschlägt, — ebbendes, flutendes Erdblut,
der O z e a n.

Im aber rinnen
durch steinerne Adern hoher G e b i r g e , Rippen der Erde, Felsengerüste, stürmisch zu
des Erdbluts eilend pulsierend S t r ö m e zur Lösung, zu Läuterung, ihr Schicksal zu erfüllen
im ewigen Kreislauf.

II.

Der Grand Canyon von Arizona

Als hätten dich Millionen Donnerblitze in ungeheurem Zickzackspalten
aus heisser, grauer, brütender Wüste hervorgerissen, herausgeschmettert,
so liegst du da,
ein Riesenriss der Kruste,
ein Doppelkettengebirge,
d e r E r d e g r ö s s t e s , u r a l t e s W u n d e r , o u n v e r g l e i c h l i c h e s R i e s e n w e s e n .

Ueberwältigt steht vor dir der M e n s c h , erbebend vor deiner schrecklichen G r ö s s e , hingerissen von deiner furchtbaren S c h ö n h e i t , stauend schauend
deines tausendfarbigen Herzens wallende Regungen,
unerschöpfliche Wechsel,
unendliche Betätigungen,
Mystereien und offenbarungen,
deine Höhen, deine Tiefen,
deine Lichter, deine Schatten,
Leben, Tod und Auferstehen, —
Geistesgebilde, Gottesgedanken.

Und wenn ihm die Wahrheit verhüllt war,
wenn ihn raunende Zweifel fassten:
"B i s t D u , o G o t t ?
O d e r i s t d e i n N a m e n u r S c h a l l ?", hier fallen die Schleier, hier schaut er, erschüttert,
hier wird ihm Erkenntnis,
hier wird ihm Gewissheit,
hier beugt er sich mit den Engeln des Glaubens
und seine Seele stimmt ein in den Lobgesang:
"D u b i s t , o E w i g e r , U n e r g r ü n d l i c h e r ,
U n e r m e s s l i c h e r , U n f a s s b a r e r .
D u b i s t , A l l g e i s t !
Wunderbar sind Deine Werke
und das erkennt meine Seele wohl.
Deine Jahre währen für und für.
Du hast vorhin die Erde gegründet,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

und die Himmel sind Deiner Hände Werk.
Sie werden vergehen, aber Du bleibest;
sie werden alle vergehen, wie ein Gewand;
sie werden verwandelt, wie ein Kleid,
wenn Du sie verwandeln wirst.
Du aber bleibest, wie Du bist, und Deine Jahre nehmen kein Ende."

III.

Vishnus Tempel

Für Götter und Geister hingestellt
ragt unnachahmlich
V i s h n u s w u n d e r f a r b i g e r T e m p e l .
Im Grundbau breit und weitausholend, im Aufbau massig, kühn und trotzig,
geschmackvoll und zierlich im Ausbau unzähliger
Bastionen, Portale, Fenster und Wandelgänge, reicht er mit stolzen Kuppeln und Türmen wolkenwärts,
e i n G ö t t e r b a u i m H e r z e n d e s r o t e n R e i c h s .

IV.

Winter am Grand Canyon von Arizona
(reprinted from Benignus, 1911, with modified title)

V.

Sonnenuntergang am Grand Canyon

Blutrote Banner des Abends
wehen über den Tiefen, —
Siegeszeichen der Nacht.
Noch einmal flammen die Wände des Canyon,
massig, rot und gelb wie glühende Kohlen.
Niedrig steht die Sonne, vergoldend im Sinken die roten Sandsteinmassen.
Ozeane fürstlicher Rosenflammen streichen empor an den Wänden, wallen über die Ränder in Feuerwellen,
Hyazinth, Rubin und Granat;
am nelkenroten Himmel fangen glänzende Wolken
in goldenen Lichtarmen
diese noch glänzendere Herrlichkeit auf.
Noch einmal in weichem Purpur schimmern die Zinnen der Schlösser, kie Kuppeln, die Dome,
und sanft verschwimmt in dem Meere der Nacht das Farbengeflute.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

VI.

Die Seele der Nacht

Mitternacht.
Aus der Tiefe des Schlundes wild und drohend wie ein verwundeter Drache
brüllt der C o l o r a d o.
Fahle Lichter zucken am Horizont.
Vor dem Sturmwinde taumeln Wolken, schwarze Vampire,
und löschen mit flatternden Flügeln
der Sterne Geglomm.
Aufstöhnen vom rüttelnden Griffrfe des Sturmes die Riesenbäume der Ränder.
Geisterhaft fluten fliehende Schatten.
Schwarz gähnt der C a n y o n.
Aus seinem dunkelsten Abgrund, aus seinem äussersten Nachtreich
wallt herauf
d i e S e e l e d e r N a c h t,
purpurschwarz,
und überflutet alles
mit undurchdringlicher Finsternis.

VII.

Sonnenaufgang

Vom Rande des Marmorabgrundes, 4000 Fuss hoch über dem Colorado

Noch ist es Nacht,
noch schlummert d e r G e i s t d e s C a n y o n.
Ein leichter Schauer nur,
ein Seufzer der Riesenbrust, gemahnt an quälende Träume.
Da, weit im Osten,
bei "Shivahs Tempel",
bricht über Zinnen und Zacken
des kommenden Tages Morgenglanz, und die Sonne, plötzlich ersteigend, schleudert durch Pforten der Schlünde und über Bergbastionen ihren ersten goldenen Lichtspeer, der blitzend mitten durch Herz
des Tales der Nacht dringt, und die Mauern der Finsternis
wanken, stürzen, und der Abgrund verschlikngt sie.
Die Canyonseite glüht.
Blutroter Sandstein, dunkelroter Marmor strahlen des Lichtes Flammen zurück in rosengluten,
die über die Landschaft,
vom klarblauen Himmel überwölbt,
einen Glorienschimmer werfen.
Aus einer Opalsee
wallender Wasserdünste und Morgennebel
dämmern hervor

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

hohe Häupter von Felskolossen.
Ein frischer Morgenwind verjagt die Nebelgeister, enthüllt den C a n y o n,
Wunder an Wunder.
Reihe an Reihe
und Grupe an Gruppe
titanischer Bauten,
Tempel, Schlösser, Amphitheater,
ganze Städte, ein neues Jerusalem,
Labyrinth von Abgründen und Tafelbergen
treten hervor aus den flichenden Dünsten in pompejanischem Gelb und Rot, in tyrischem Purpur, in Prachtviolett, in Schwarz und Weiss, in Orange und Ambergrün, in den zartesten Blumenfarben,
in den reichsten Fruchttönen,
und wie Musik hoher Geister, die Erde ehrend,
umtönt es dich,
wie Düfte herrlichster Blüten aus Feengärten
umweht es dich.
Enthüllt vor dir stehen die Wunder.
Weithin vor den staunenden Blicken,
hundert Meilen,
estreckt sich in Grösse und Herrlichkeit die Zickzackfurche
des "G r a n d C a n y o n v o n A r i z o n a".

VIII.

Stille Mondnacht am Grand Canyon

Weisse Nacht hüllt den Canyon, weiss, weich strahlt der Mond.
Schweigend die Sterne, schweigend der Abgrund, keine Stimme ist zu hören.
Tiefer nur, wo der Fluss pfeilschnell dahinsaust,
grollt es, kaum hörbar,
löwenhaft, dumpf.
Murmelnd streicht der Wind durch die Mesquitebäume, seufzend durch das Genadel der Zedern und Fichten.
Die Schluchtenwände und Terrassen wäscht, lautlos, gespenstisch dahrinrollend,
ein silberner Dunstee,
aus dessen glänzenden Wellen
mystisch schimmernd hervortauchen
Dome von Göttertempeln,
Zinnen von Märchenschlössern,
Kuppeln von Kathedralen.
-----
Der grosse Canyon schläft
und träumt.

IX.

Am Rand des Grand Canyon
(reprinted from Benignus, 1925)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

X.

Nebelwallen

Glänzende Morgenwolken, orangengoldig gerändert,
bergen mit ihrem dichten Geschiebe die sich erhebende S o n n e.

Ueber dem C a n y o n
weben und wogen
veilchenviolett behauchte
wandernde Nebelheere,
in uferloser Ferne Dämmerfluten
perlweiss und lichtblau zerfliessend.

Hie und da,
traumhaft, verschleiert,
taucht aus dem Nebelmeer
ein Berghaupt,
schwimmt wieder in Nebelgewoge,
das massig,
ein silbewrt gefuchtes Meer,
des C a n y o n s gewaltigen Bussen füllt.

. . . . .

So halten in G r ü n d e n d e s L e b e n s die S e e l e gefangen unruhvolle Nebelgeister des L e b e n s z w e i f e l s, schwermutsvolle Schattengeister der E n t s a g u n g, verschliessend die sonnige Aussicht.

Doch ist der Gefangen
in Stunden des Leides
die Laute geblieben, die silbern besaitete Laute der H o f f n u n g.

Horch! aus den Tiefen
"Versunken! Verloren! Dahin!"
klingen gedämpft herauf
durch der dichten Dünste Massen die Lautenklänge und Sonnengesänge des umkerkerten L i c h t k i n d e s.
das der Befreierin ruft.

Und die S o n n e hört.
Ueber die Wolkenwälle
flammt ihr strahlendes Haupt.
Unwiderstehlich schlägt seine Breschen, bricht sich streitumwirbelten Schacht
in der Nebel und Schatten Heere der bezwingende Lichtstrom.

Sieh! Aus dem Lichtschacht
steigt mit der Macht des Sturmaars auf goldschauernden Fittichen
rauschend empor
die S e e l e, die befreite, und singt in Frühlingsahnung

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

das Jubellied des Lebensglaubens, das Freiheitslied der Lebensbejahung, das Phönixlied des Auferstehens, und durchdringt sieghaften Fluges die Himmel
und kostet die Süßigkeiten unsterblicher Blüten.

Davison, Edward

- 1465 1926 The poetry of Alfred Noyes. The English Journal, 15(4) (April): 247-255.
Grand Canyon, see pp. 250-251.

Hedin, Sven

- 1466 1926 Gran Cañon : Mein Besuch im amerikanischen Wunderland. Leipzig: F. A. Brockhaus, 245 pp., folded map ("Sonderkarte des Gran Cañon in Arizona") laid in with cloth strap inside rear cover. [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon: my visit to the American wonderland')
- Translation of Hedin (1925), Grand Canyon.

Hoge, Robert H.

- 1467 1926 Vacationing in a flivver. The Rattle of Theta Chi (Theta Chi Fraternity), 14(3) (March): 181-184.
Ford automobile trip to California in a used "$50 flivver".
"At the Grand Canyon we spent but one day and could have profited by spending two more, we know now, but at that time we were still working under the illusion that our real treat was in store for us further west. Pardon me again, please, while I say that the Grand Canyon is the greatest attraction, beyond a doubt, that the West has to offer. Its grandeur is indescribable; only a visit there can truthfully impart to you its magnificence."
(ENTIRE NOTE)

Kühnemann, Eugen

- 1468 1926 Aus dem Weltreich deutschen Geistes : Reden und Aufsätze. München: C. H. Beck'sche Verlagsbuchhandlung, 2nd revised and enlarged ed., 540 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'From the world empire of the German spirit: speeches and essays')
- See in chapter, "Von der Tätigkeit des ersten Karl-Schurz Professors an der Staatsuniversität von Wisconsin" (transl. 'Of the activities of the first Karl Schurz Professor at the State University of Wisconsin') (pp. 237-274), which includes remarks on a trip to the West Coast, including (p. 266):
"Der Grand Canyon verlangt einen Tag und wirkt wie eine Götterburg und ein Riesenbau säkularer Gewalten." (transl. 'The Grand Canyon takes a day and looks like a castle of the gods and a gigantic building of secular powers.')
- (ENTIRE NOTE)

Mather, Steven T.

- 1469 1926 Annual report of the Director of the National Park Service. In: Report of the Director of the National Park Service to the Secretary of the Interior for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926 and the travel season, 1926. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, pp. 1-57.
- See: "Swedish Royalty Visited Several National Parks", p. 12, and Plate 1. Refers to Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf and Crown Princess Louise, who crossed Grand Canyon from North to South by mule. See photograph, "Crown Prince and party on new Yaki Point section of Kaibab Trail".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Metcalfe-Shaw, Gertrude E.

1470

1926 English caravanners in the Wild West : the old pioneers' trail. (With sketches by Una Shaw Lang and other illustrations.) (Foreword by A. Wharton Metcalfe.) Edinburgh and London: William Blackwood and Sons, Ltd., 400 pp., fold-out map.

Eastbound travel by horse and wagon, the wagon fitted as a living space, from the west coast, picking up the Old Trails Road in Pasadena, headed for New York but ended by winter in Missouri, whence they returned West on a freight train. The fold-out map is "Map of the Old Trails Road : The Grand Canyon Route : showing every city, town, village and hamlet throughout its entire length proposed by the National Old Trails Road Association . . . and also advocated by the national Highways Association, Washington, D. C." Map includes the Caravanners' "camps, halts, etc." and "divergences". See Chapter 9, "The Grand Canyon", pp. 94-113; a detailed account of the trip from Williams to Grand Canyon and return, including a trip into the canyon.

"We would allow nothing to take our minds for long off the enjoyment of the beautiful glades of the Tusayan Forest through which the trail winds, leading us finally to a gate which separates the domain of the Canyon National Monument [sic] from the immense reaches of the forest, and landing us in the portion of the part announced as set aside for the use of campers. Here we saw several cars parked among the trees, but owing to the weather and the nature of the ground it was necessary for us to seek more suitable quarters, and we drew up while the irrepressible Skipper rode forward on 'Gray' to make inquiries. Rapid and gratifying result! In fifteen minutes or so she returned with the news that we should be allowed to stable our horses in the fine large stable attached to the El Tovar Hotel, provided we attended to their wants ourselves, to facilitate which we might draw up our van alongside the barn, placing us right on the spot, and making everything easy. Both barn and yard occupying a space cleared in the virgin forest, and still studded with lofty firs, this turned out a proposition both pleasant and convenient, especially as Bright Angel Cottages lay not five minutes' walk from us across the railway track. We were requested to chain our dogs, of which we now had three, a half-starved but very handsome hound whom we named 'Waif' having attached herself to us in Williams, refusing to leave us, while we, in a weak moment, had given way so far as to take her with us until a home could be found. Arrangements for horses and dogs completed, left us free for our first view of the canyon.

"You come upon it suddenly, unexpectedly almost, in one overpowering moment, struck dumb in spite of your mind prepared. It is a sight for which no mind could be prepared, for it is inconceivable. There are Bright Angel Cottages on a little rise in front of you, and a well-encircled path, such as we have all seen a hundred times. Step on to it, and lo! the earth falls abruptly away into void at your feet." Then there are the usual praise-raisings—"beauty", "majesty", "tinted peaks", "ruddy glowing bulwarks", "fretted minsters", "gorgeous engraven palaces"—all in a "translucent mist"—"hard to be grasped and realised, but which enlarges for ever the spiritual possessions of the beholder." Two or three days of rimside excursions evoke the capitalized "Sculptor", "Artist", and "Psalmist". The Caravanners appreciated El Tovar, but enjoyed "the 'Look-out' [Lookout Studio], an observatory and rest-house on the edge of the rim, whence the distant reaches of the canyon may be viewed by telescope and in whose hospitable reception-room, with its spacious window-seats and fireplace and convenient writing-tables, we spent many a comfortable hour during the days when winter paid us a final flying visit." Hopi House required fully three pages of appreciation, but in the end, "Our only home at present was the waggon, which could accommodate little more than strictly business-like pots and pans. We contented ourselves, therefore, with one or two small samples, easily stored . . ."

Wishing to see the canyon also "from below, and not by day only, but also by night . . . we did not join one of the organised trips, which tied us to time in a way apt to be irksome to our gipsy souls, was an enigma not easy of solution. We finally cut the Gordian knot by an effectual compromise, which, while giving scope to the capabilities of the Artist and the Sculptor, experienced mountaineers in their own beloved Balvarian Alps, relieved the Skpper and myself of the seven miles of precipitous climb up Bright Angel Trail from the brink of the river. We would walk down together, the mountaineering couple cheerfully volunteering to load themselves with the necessaries for the night on the sandy shore of the Colorado. • • •

En route into the canyon, tales were told, ". . . such as the one humorously retailed by one of the cowboy guides, who had on one occasion numbered among his party an enthusiastic entomologist, whom he

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

picturesquely called a 'bug-hunter.' This gentleman refused to be separated from his treasured butterfly-net, which he insisted on carrying across his saddle on the descent, promising to be careful and give no cause of offence to his mount. But, alas for human nature! promises and resolves flew to the winds with the appearance of a gorgeous butterfly which chose an appropriate moment for fluttering across the path pursued by the mule, to arouse the ambition of the naturalist. Instinctively out flew the butterfly-net above the unsuspecting head of the mettlesome animal, which promptly found itself enmeshed in something altogether unexpected and intolerable. Luckily the event took place at Indian Gardens, where there was space for the kicking, plunging, and wild gallop which ensued, and where the rider, instead of being pitched down a precipice, came off with the novel experience of landing violently in a cactus plant. • • •

"Not being hurried by mule guides, we could loiter at will as we went, allowing the wonders of the new to mingle with the dear old associations of mountaineering. • • •

". . . and so, issuing from a little side canyon with the brook that empties itself into the Colorado, we reached the rocks and the sand by the river.

"We built our camp-fire and gathered round its cheerful blaze on the very brink of the mysterious Colorado, in the shadow of those stupendous crags. We watched the gradual fading of the sunset lights gathered in hues of unimaginable softness and splendour about those stately soaring pinnacles, and giddy parapets and dazzling sculptured terraces, enshrouding with a tender opaline veil the yawning fissures and deep unfathomable rifts, and gliding downwards to our very feet, to lie reflected in the waves that lingered on the sands of shallow pools and inlets ere they joined the bulk of the stormy waters rushing so furiously past. And when darkness was falling we laid our pillow on the sand within a few feet of the flood, our faces turned to such stars as were visible within the limits of those mighty walls, and dropped to sleep surfeited with beauty. And from time to time we awoke to gaze afresh, and caught the waning moon at its rising, all the wonder and mystery of it multiplied a thousandfold by the indescribable marvel of the abyss from which they were beheld. Are we not to be envied and envied again? Was not such an experience worth every moment of our months of arduous travel? This is to have lived!

"Morning, with a sunrise never to be forgotten, brought plenty of time to sketch and to explore, and even to enjoy a dip in one of the safe shallows of these romanic waters, until, punctual to time, the riders appeared from above."

The Caravanners stayed for a week, but "A week is nowhere for this canyon. We talked to an artist who was sensibly camping in the depths, keeping himself supplied with necessaries by means of a burro and a cowboy. He had travelled with donkeys from Los Angeles, and had been two months in the gorge, and was only now beginning to venture a painting. It took him all that time only to get into the atmosphere of the place."

They stayed even a few days more. "We had been obliged to tear ourselves away though we wanted to stay for months. We had seen the merest corner of it—a few glimpses from above, a few from below,—and then farewell to the sublimest spectacle ever offered for the contemplation of man!"

Pence, F. C. (Mrs.)

1471 1926 Topeka. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 20(10) (September): 82, 84, 86, 88.

See p. 86: ". . . the Crown Prince of Sweden, Gustavus Adolphus, and Princess Louise, together with their party, have been making an American tour, and while visiting the Grand Cañon and other interesting places on our line were tendered the use of Mr. Engel's car and the services of his two faithful lieutenants."

The Print Club of Philadelphia

1472 1926 Memorial exhibition of the works of the late Joseph Pennell held under the auspices of the Philadelphia Print Club and the Pennsylvania Museum, in Memorial Hall, Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, from October 1st to October 31st, 1926. Philadelphia: The Print Club of Philadelphia, 59, [36] pp. (Printed and copyright by J. B. Lippincott Company.) [Cover title: Catalogue of the

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Pennell Memorial Exhibition 1926. Half-title: Catalogue of Etchings, Lithographs, Water Colors, Drawings and Books.

See p. 36, "Grand Canyon 1912", which lists: "The Black Gulf", "Bright Angel Trail", "The Walled City", "The Façade of the Cathedral", "The Temple", "The Cathedral Door", "Sunset in the Canyon", and "Mist in the Canyon". Although selected items are illustrated in the unenumerated pages of the volume, none of them show the Grand Canyon items.

Rieseberg, Harry E.

1473 1926 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Progressive Arizona, 2(6) (June): 5.

Reprints Rieseberg (1916). The facing page (p. 4) displays a canyon photo credited to the Kolb Brothers.

---

As of the time this volume was compiled, publications after 1926 may not yet be in the public domain
Consult <https://guides.library.cornell.edu/copyright/publicdomain> (last accessed September 21, 2022)

---

1927

Corwin, J. J.

1474 1927 [Testimonial.] In: Central States Manufacturing Co., Test this amazing money making invention FREE. $7 to $10 in an hour just showing this $1,000,000 can opening machine. Popular Mechanics, 47(5) (May) (Advertising Section): 67.

Testimonial about the writer's activity at the canyon: "I now realize the Speedo articles are the best ever—sold 14 orders in 2 hours at Grand Canyon. J. J. Corwin, Ariz." (ENTIRE ITEM)

Faris, John T.

1475 1927 The romance of the rivers. New York and London: Harper and Brothers, 298 pp.

See Chapter 12, "On the amazing Colorado River", pp. 235-254.

Fordyce, Claude P.

1476 1927 Afoot through Grand Canyon. Sunset, 58 (May): 23.

Garesché, E. F.

1477 1927 Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Catholic World, 125: 586-587.

Gibberd, Mabel

1478 1927 Travels with a mule. Ariston (College of St. Catherine, St. Paul, Minnesota), 21(3) (Spring): 5-6.

Reflections on a mule ride into Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grey, Zane

- 1479 1927 Grand Canyon. American Motorist, (December):.

Hedin, Sven

- 1480 1927 Gran Cañon : Mein Besuch im amerikanischen Wunderland. Leipzig: F. A. Brockhaus, 2nd ed., 245 pp., folded map ("Sonderkarte des Gran Cañon in Arizona") laid in with cloth strap inside rear cover. [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon: my visit to the American wonderland')

Translation of Hedin (1925), Grand Canyon. (1st ed. of German translation in 1926.)

Hornby, Frank

- 1481 1927 My tour round the world. Meccano Magazine (Liverpool), 12(8) (August): 670-672, 677.

This part of a serialized story includes Grand Canyon. Brief remarks, but notes, "I never imagined that such a stupendous gash in the earth could possibly exist!"

Jawurek, Karl

- 1482 1927 Am Grand-Canyon in Arizona. (Illustrations by Alexander Wiederseder.) Der Naturfreund (Mitteilungen des Touristen-Vereins "Die Naturfreunde") (Wien), 31(1/2): 13-18. [In German.]
(transl. 'At the Grand Canyon in Arizona')

Lee, Ivy L., Jr.

- 1483 1927 Seeing America : the personal diary of Ivy L. Lee, Jr. written on a tour of western United States and the Canadian Rockies during the summer of 1926. [Privately printed], 75 pp.

See pp. 21-23, plate opposite p. 24.

Matthes, François E.

- 1484 1927 Breaking a trail through Bright Angel Canyon. Grand Canyon Nature Notes, 2(6) (November 21): cover, 1-4 [entire issue].

"This autumn—in the month of November, to be precise—it will be just twenty five years since the first pack train made its way through Bright Angel Canyon. It was a rough-and-tumble journey the hazards of which may be difficult to imagine by those who now travel safely and comfortably across the Grand Canyon via the excellent Kaibab Trail. The perils that were faced by these hardy explorers who passed through the Grand Canyon in boats, and battled with the rapids of the Colorado River, are now known to many, but the adventures of the first party to cross from one side of the Grand Canyon to the other with a pack train have never been told. Here follows a brief statement of the circumstances.

"In the spring of 1902 it was my privilege to be assigned to the task of beginning the topographic mapping of the Grand Canyon for the U. S. Geological Survey. Naturally our party started work on the south side, the Grand Canyon Railroad affording the most convenient route of approach. For several months the surveying operations—triangulation, leveling and plane table mapping—were carried on over the Coconino Plateau and from its rim down into the chasm. Then we began to seek a route across to the north side. But at that time there was no trail across from rim to rim, nor was there a bridge over the Colorado. We found ourselves face to face with a barrier more formidable than the Rocky Mountains,—an abyss 280 miles long containing an unbridgable [sic], unfordable, dangerous river.

"Not unnaturally we cast longing glances up Bright Angel Canyon—it seemed to us such a convenient, straight avenue. But Bright Angel Canyon, we were told, afforded no practical route for pack animals, and might

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

be impassible even to the foot of man. Lee's Ferry, at the head of Marble Gorge, of course, was suggested, but to cross the river there would require a detour of some 180 miles, mostly through parched deserts, where food and water would have be carried for the animals. There was bu[t] one other choice, to go west 35 miles and descend by the Bass Trail, cross the river in some way, and climb out on the north side through Shinumo and Muav canyons. The crossing was known to be dangerous; the Bass Trail was merely a burro trail, still unfinished at the lower end, and the Shinumo Trail was little more than a faint track seldom used. yet this was the route we finally selected.

"About the middle of August, when the river had subsided to a moderate level, we set out with a pack train of ten animals. W. W. Bass kindly consented to our using his home-made boat, and this, of course, facilitated matters considerably. Unfortunately, however, we found that the boat was on the north side of the river, and two of us, consequently, were obliged to match our strength against the current and swim across to get it.

"The camp equipment was quickly ferried over, but the transferring of the horses and mules proved a difficult task. The animals, worn out by the heat, and unnerved their descent over the great rock slide at the foot of the trail, could not be induced to enter the water. A strategem [sic] had to be resorted to. They were led down to a rock platform, ostensibly so they might quench their thirst, then suddenly they were pushed over into the swirling flood. Quickly behind the boat they were then towed across, one by one, but in their frenzy many of them tried to swim back, or down stream, or even to climb into the boat, so that the rowers were more than once in danger of being dragged down over the turbulent rapids below the crossing. Eventually, however, all the animals were landed safely on the north side.

"The next day we began the ascent to the rim of the Kaibab Plateau. It took us a day and a half of arduous, exhausting work to gain the top, and the entire trip to Point Sublime, where the mapping operations were resumed, consumed six days.

"There was no thought, during the ten weeks while we were on the Kaibab Plateau, of sending back to the south side of the canyon for supplies. The Bass crossing could not be negotiated by one man, nor even by two, and the whole party numbered only four. Instead we sent to Kanab, Utah, although that place was 75 miles distant by trail and the packer had to make a full week's journey to do his shopping there and return to the camp on the rim.

"As autumn set in, and the prospect of a snow storm grew more and more imminent (heavy snows began to fall on the Kaibab Plateau usually early in November[]), we were forced to consider a retreat to the south side. the survey by that time had progressed as far east as the head of Bright Angel Canyon and we found ourselves directly opposite Grand Canyon station, and only 13 miles distant from it in an air line. Again Bright Angel Canyon beckoned to us as a possible avenue, and eagerly we scanned its sides for a practicable way down.

"Now Bright Angel Canyon is carved along a great fracture in the earth's crust—a 'fault', as it is termed by geologists, on which the strata are offset vertically by more than a hundred feet, and the lines of cliffs are consequently broken. The same fault extends southwestward into the embayment on the south side of the chasm and has made possible the building of the old Bright Angel Trail, now familiar to thousands of tourists. It did not take us long, therefore, to discover a route along this fault where the Red Wall, the Cliff of the Coconino sandstone, and the lesser cliffs are interrupted by slopes of debris.

"On the very day when we started to examine this route, by a remarkable coincidence, there emerged from the head of Bright Angel Canyon two haggard men and a weary burro. These men, Sidney Ferrall and Jim Murray, had explored up through the Canyon and finally had fought their way up along the fault zone. At once the prospects of the return of the survey party by this new route became brighter. However, it did not follow that where a small burro was boosted up, a pack train of heavily loaded horses and mules can come down in safety. Two of the party, therefore, set themselves the task of cutting out brush and rolling out logs and boulders, so as to make a reasonably clear way for the pack train. And this work they carried all the way down to the mouth of the Canyon.

"On the 7th of November, when heavy clouds presaged a change in the weather, we hastily broke camp and proceeded down our new trial. So steep was it in certain places that the animals fairly slid down on their haunches. So narrow between the rocks was it at one point, that the larger packs could not pass through had to be unloaded. Of accidents there were more than can here be chronicled, but none of them, fortunately, was of a serious nature. The mule carrying the most precious burden—the instruments and the newly made maps—was led with particular care, but she lived up to her reputation and made the trip without a stumble.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

“By noon the bottom of Bright Angel Canyon was reached, and then the party threaded its way down along the bouldery creek, crossing and recrossing it to knee-depth, no less than 94 times. Camp was made a short distance above the boxed-in lower part of the canyon, and a large bonfire was lit so that the people on the south rim might see that we had successfully reach that point. (Ferrall and Murray ad preceded us and had made known our intention of returning via Bright Angel Canyon). That night it rained and the following morning we beheld the rim of the Kaibab Plateau white with snow. Evidently we had left none too soon.

“After a sojourn of several days in Bright Angel Canyon, during which the course of the stream was duly mapped, we proceeded to the river and once more faced the problem of crossing it. With the aid of a boat lent by a friendly prospector, however, this was accomplished with little difficulty, the animals, now homeward bound, having apparently lost their fear of the river. Soon, therefore, we were scrambling up the prospector’s steep burro trail and without serious mishap reached our goal on the south rim.

“The next year, when the survey was extended eastward, Bright Angel Canyon became our regular route of travel across the Grand Canyon, both northward and southward, although the trail remained as rough as ever. A steel row boat, in two sections, was packed on mules to the river crossing, to replace the wooden boat which had been swept away by the flood. Some years later enterprising citizens of Kanab, in order to promote tourist travel to the north rim, improved the trail up Bright Angel Canyon, and spanned the river with a steel cable along which a traveling carriage large enough to hold a pack animal could be hauled across. When the National Park Service took over the Grand Canyon, in 1919, finally, it set to work in earnest to make Bright Angel Canyon the main avenue for travel across the chasm. It built a good modern trail—the Kaibab Trail, as it is called, from Bright Angel Point to Yaki Point and replaced the steel cable by a fine suspension bridge. Needless to say, it has afforded the writer no little satisfaction in 1925 again and again in 1927 to travel over this new and to him almost luxurious route.”

Reichard, Louis E.

1485 1927 Reexploring the Colorado Canon. St. Nicholas, 55 (December): 148.

Regarding the U.S. Geological Survey expedition on the Colorado River (i.e., the Birdseye expedition). Printed in a young-reader serial.

1928

Austin, Mary

1486 1928 The children sing in the far West. (Drawings by Gerald Cassidy.) Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co., 187 pp.

See “The Grand Cañon”.

B., C. H.

1487 1928 American paintings. Detroit Institute of Arts, Bulletin, 9(8) (May): 94-96.

Includes remarks on the acquisition of a painting of Grand Canyon by DeWitt Parshall, a gift of David Gray. (p. 94, illustrated p. 96).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

C., S. N.

- 1488 1928 '03. In: Among the Alumni [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 28(27) (April 20): 810.

Includes quotation of message from Harold Greene, which notes: "I flew with three visitors over the Grand Canyon of Arizona and if you have ever visited the Canyon, you can appreciate what a marvellous sight that was. The Canyon at this point is thirteen miles wide and five thousand feet deep, and a colorful array of jagged peaks and deep gorges. I can recommend this trip for any of our Class who think that life has lost its thrills."

Grant, Heber J.

- 1489 1928 President Heber J. Grant. In: Ninety-Ninth Semi-Annual Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints : held in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Utah, October 5, 6, and 7, 1928 : with a full report of all the discourses. Salt Lake City: Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, pp. 2-12.

See "An Interesting and Profitable Trip", pp. 5-6, pertaining to an official trip of some 200 people to visit the natural wonders of southern Utah and the Grand Canyon North Rim, as guests of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Hedin, Sven

- 1490 1928 Восьмое чудо света : Большой Каньон [Vos'moe chudo sveta : Bol'shoi Kan'on]. [The eighth wonder of the world : Grand Canyon.] (С. П. Кублицкой-Пиоттукh [S. P. Kublitskoï-Piottukh], translator.) Москва и Ленинград [Moscow and Leningrad]: Государственное Издательство [Gosudarstvennoye Izdatel'stvo] [State Publishing House], 161 pp. [In Russian.]

Translation of Hedin's Grand Canyon, although it is not determined here whether the translation was made from the 1925 Swedish ed. or the 1926 German translation. Not seen, thus uncertain whether this ed. includes the map. Author's name in Cyrillic orthography is Свен Хедин. (The publisher is most often cited in abbreviated format, "Гос. изд-во" [Gos. izd-vo].)

Ivins, Anthony W.

- 1491 1928 Address of Mr. Anthony W. Ivins at the dedication of the Union Pacific's Grand Canyon Lodge at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in Arizona, September 15, 1928. [No place]: [Union Pacific System], 16 pp.

See also Ivins (1935).

Matthes, François E.

- 1492 1928 Breaking a trail through Bright Angel Canyon. Arizona Highways, (January):.

In 1903, while mapping the eastern Grand Canyon.

Shelby, Ward

- 1493 1928 Straight from the shoulder. Progressive Arizona and the Great Southwest, 7(2) (August): 7.

Grand Canyon from the air.

Sterling, George

- 1494 1928 Sonnets to Craig. New York: A. & C. Boni, 120 pp.

See "At the Grand Canyon". Reprints Sterling (1912).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Sturdevant, Glen E.

- 1495 1928 A visit to an un-frequented part of the Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Nature Notes, 2(9) (February 28): cover, 1-7.
South side of Colorado River, Bass Trail area. Includes natural history and archaeological notes (both Native American and 20th century resources).
- 1496 1928 A reconnaissance of the northeastern part of Grand Canyon National Park. Grand Canyon Nature Notes, 3(5 [sic, 6]) (December 1): 1-6 [entire issue].
Tanner Trail and Chuar Creek into Nankoweap area. Includes natural history and archaeological notes.

1929

Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, Inc.

- 1497 1929 Aircraft year book : 1929. New York: Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, Inc., 484 pp.
See in Chapter 5 ("Private Flying"): "Lindbergh Travels Only in the Air", which includes note (p. 54) that ". . . he explored the Grand Canyon from the air, dropping down into the gorge, 4,000 feet below the top of the walls." (ENTIRE NOTE) Charles Lindbergh.

Armstrong, Edward M.

- 1498 1929 '04. In: The Alumni [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 30(10) (November 29): 282-283.
Descriptions of travel from Herbert Wilcox. "Then they moved over to the Grand Canyon where they saw the sun rise at some unearthly hour. They did not have the nerve, however, to take the muleback ride down the Canyon to the River." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Bristol, Jack A.

- 1499 1929 Opening up the North Rim. Adventures in building the Grand Canyon Lodge at Bright Angel Point. American Forests and Forest Life, 35: 342-344.

Gandhi, Mahatma

- 1500 1929 From and about Sarojini Devi. Young India, (May 30):.
Includes Grand Canyon.

Hamilton, Franklin Robert

- 1501 1929 Pictorial poems of the scenic West. Denver: Miles and Dryer, 123 pp.
"Illustrated with photographic studies from the best artists." Numerous illustrations tipped in. See "The Colorado River", p. 17; "Grand Canyon (Arizona)", pp. 30-31.

Simpson, William Haskell

- 1502 1929 Along old trails : poems of New Mexico and Arizona. Boston and New York: Houghton Mifflin Co. (The Riverside Press, Cambridge), 89 pp.
See "Primal" and "Grand Canyon Again".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1930

Archer, Lou Ella

- 1503 1930 Sonnets to the Southwest. (Illustrated by George Egbert Burr and Lillian Wilhelm Smith.) Los Angeles Times Mirror Press, 33 pp. [Also a 2nd ed., 1931.]

See "The Grand Canyon".

Cowen, Edward David

- 1504 1930 The newspaper career of E. D. Cowen, with biographical sketches by Charles A. Murray, Slason Thompson, R. E. M. Strickland, C. E. Arney, Hugh Hume, Frank M. Dallam, Jr. Seattle, Washington: Western Co., 151 pp.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 47-56.

Daly, Henry W.

- 1505 1930 The capture of Geronimo. The American Legion Monthly, 8(6) (June): 30, 42-45.

Article begins with reminiscence of being with "General George Crook and a small party" in "the Grand Cataract, a tributary of the Grand Cañon of the Colorado, to settle a little Indian trouble between the Ava-Supai and the Moqui tribes." (Cataract Canyon; Havasupai and Hopi.)

Faris, John T.

- 1506 1930 Roaming the Rockies : through national parks and national forests of the Rocky Mountain wonderland. (Introduction by Horace M. Albright.) New York: Farrar and Rinehart, Inc., 333 pp.

See "Making Friends with the Grand Canyon", pp. 138-153.

Kimball, William

- 1507 1930 (ED.) The desert : 1930. Tucson: [University of Arizona], Junior Class, for University of Arizona, 325 [326] pp. (Acme Printing Co., Tucson.)

University of Arizona yearbook. See "The College of Music", p. 31. "This summer the Male Quartet are guests of the El Tovar hotel at the Grand Canyon, as they have contracted with the hotel management for the entire summer season." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Pack, Arthur N.

- 1508 1930 From rim to rim; camera hunting in the land of the Grand Canyon. (Photographs by William L. Finley and Arthur N. Pack.) Nature Magazine, 15(6) (June): 363-366, 397.

Pinchot, Gifford

- 1509 1930 To the South Seas : the cruise of the schooner Mary Pinchot to the Galapagos, the Marquesas, and the Tuamotu Islands, and Tahiti. Philadelphia, Chicago, and Toronto: John C. Winston Co., 500 pp.

See p. 479: "The first time I saw our own West, back in the dark ages of human history, I had a piece of luck. I went first to the Yosemite, and with a fresh mind let all its glorious marvels sink deep in. Then I went to the Grand Canyon of Arizona—and saw there the glory of the Lord revealed in stone as I never saw it elsewhere before or since. But if I had gone to the Canyon first, Yosemite would have lost three-quarters of its thrill."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Smith, Dama Margaret (Mrs. White Mountain)

- 1510 1930 I married a ranger. Stanford, California: Stanford University Press; and London: Humphrey Milford, Oxford University Press, 179 pp. [Title-page verso adds to imprint: New York: Baker and Taylor Co.; The Hague: Martinus Nijhoff; and Tokyo, Osaka, Kyoto, and Sendai: The Maruzen Co.] [Reprinted 1931.]

Principal focus is the author's years spent at Grand Canyon, from the early 1920s.

Vernon, Paul E.

- 1511 1930 From coast to coast by motor. New York: W. E. Rudge. [Also printed by A. and C. Black, Ltd., London, 1930.]

See pp. 85-87.

Wagner, Clarence

- 1512 1930 Grand Canyon rim to rim hike. In: The Readers' Page [SECTION]. Boys' Life, 20(2) (February): 45.

1931

Anonymous

- 1513 1931 The birth of the Early Birds; old-timer's club started in 1928. Popular Aviation, 8(3) (March): 13.
Grand Canyon, in passing. The "Early Birds" club of early aviation pioneers (prior to 1916) originated during an early-morning flight over Grand Canyon: "The man ahead looked over the side—down, down, down, into the awful gash in the earth's bosom—the Grand Canyon."

- 1514 1931 Grofe's canyon. Time, (November 30):.
Ferde Grofé's "Five Pictures of the Grand Canyon" (i.e. "Grand Canyon Suite") performed under Paul Whiteman last week in Chicago.

Archer, Lou Ella

- 1515 1931 Canyon shadows. (Illustrated by Lillian Wilhelm Smith.) Phoenix: [no imprint], 32 pp.
Poetry and watercolors. Includes Grand Canyon.

Childs, Mary Louise

- 1516 1931 Finds Grand Canyon Lodge homelike and friendly. In: What Railroad Patrons Think About [LETTERS COLUMN]. The Union Pacific Magazine (Union Pacific System, Omaha, Nebraska), 10(1) (January): 38.

Evans, Wilmot, AND Jordan, Franklin I.

- 1517 1931 Southwest. Boston: [privately printed], 74 pp.
Includes Grand Canyon visit.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Finger, Charles J.

- 1518 1931 Adventure under sapphire skies (with sketches made en route by Helen Finger). New York: William Morrow and Co., 293 pp.

See pp. 111, 139-144.

Graff, Reginald

- 1519 1931 "It's beyond me to describe the canyon" says Reginald Graff, son of Union Pacific agent, Havensville, Kansas. The Union Pacific Magazine (Union Pacific System, Omaha, Nebraska), 10(1) (January): 14.

More than a tourist's reminiscence of the North Rim.

Reading up on the canyon before his arrival, "on every hand I found evidence that someone had been there before me." On the bus en route, "I tapped lightly on an old gentleman's shoulder and asked him to describe it. He said, 'Boy, it is the darndest biggest hole in the ground you will ever see,' and he went on reading his paper."

Acknowledging "John Powell", he went on, "but so far as I am concerned the outfit that really put the canyon on the map is the Union Pacific." (Good boy, for an article in the Union Pacific Magazine, and never you mind the Santa Fe Railway. He compliments the "advertising genius [at] the Union Pacific", too.)

The only way to get there "on our side the canyon . . . is by motor bus, piloted by a uniformed 'gear jammer.'"

He pointed out, "No, I wasn't a guest at the lodge. I was a 'pack rat,' which is a nickname for a bell boy. The feature of the job is packing luggage for the guests. Then you have to pack wood, pack blankets, pack out ashes, and pack othr things here and there. In addition ou wash windows, oil floors, dust and sweep and see that everything is in order. • • •"

"Towards the end of the season when business slacked up and forces were reduced, I ended up in the kitchen washing pots and pans."

May, Klara

- 1520 1931 Mit Karl May durch Amerika. Radebeul bei Dresden: Karl-May-Verlag, 189 pp. [In German.] (transl. 'With Karl May through America')

See "Zum Grand Canyon des Colorado" ('To the Grand Canyon'), pp. 82-90; and "Ruhepause am Colorado" ('Rest Break at the Colorado'), pp. 90-97.

1932

Anonymous

- 1521 1932 Friday on his own. Time, (February 15):.

Ferde Grofé conducts his own pieces in New York, including "Five Pictures of the Grand Canyon" (i.e., "Grand Canyon Suite"). Title alludes to Grofé as originally a "Man Friday" to conductor Paul Whiteman.

- 1522 1932 Formation of bombers flies in Arizona Grand Canyon. U.S. Air Corps News Letter (Office of the Chief of the Air Corps, U.S. War Department, Washington, D.C.), 16(9) (August 12): 307.

Flight of the 9th Bombardment Squadron, stationed at March Field, Riverside, California, commanded by Capt. H. D. Smith; with "guests Major McNarney, Commanding officer of the 7th Bombardment Group, and five news

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

reel and feature service cameramen". Descriptions of air currents. Mission landed at Canyon Airport; i.e., Red Butte.

Beard, Dan

- 1523 1932 Boy heroes of today : Boy Scout Gold Honor Medal awards. New York: Brewer Warren and Putnam, 160 pp.

See photo facing p. 109, "A group of Boy Scout hikers in the Grand Canyon." which actually depicts a group of scouts on the canyon rim. No text mention of Grand Canyon.

Finger, Charles J.

- 1524 1932 Foot-loose in the West : being the account of a journey to Colorado and California and other western states (with sketches made en route by Helen Finger). New York: William Morrow and Co., 302 pp.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 108, 121-142.

Grofé, Ferde

- 1525 1932 Grand Canyon Suite. Piano arrangement by D. Savino. New York: Robbins Music Corp., 44 pp. [Score.]

- 1526 1932 On the trail : a modern composition for piano, from the Grand Canyon Suite. Piano arrangement by D. Savino. New York: Robbins Music Corp., 13 pp. [Score.]

Hall, Donald J.

- 1527 1932 Enchanted sand : a New Mexican pilgrimage. London: Methuen and Co., Ltd., 242 pp.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Lynch, Ciwa

- 1528 1932 Canyon-storm. Grand Canyon Nature Notes, 7(5) (August): 49.

Osborn, Juliet

- 1529 1938 On the trail to Havasupai. Desert Magazine, 1(12) (October): 14-17.

Arizona State Teachers' College Hiking Club trip into Havasu Canyon. (The school is now Northern Arizona University.)

Woods, C. L.

- 1530 1932 C. L. Woods, former W. M. C. professor, greets students, relates trip to China. The Sligonian (Washington Missionary College, Students' Association, Takoma Park, D.C. [Maryland]), 17(12) (January 7): 2. [First of a series; the remaining installments are not pertinent to this bibliography.]

Regarding his stop at the Grand Canyon:

"Words are inadequate to paint the scenes in and around the Grand Canyon. I once read of an ignorant tourist, who gazed into the depths of the Canyon, and said, 'My, that must be the Bottom o' Spit that the preacher is always talking about.'

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"Stupendous in magnitude, the Canyon awes one who stands on its brink. At the same time it delights the eye with its ever-changing colors, momentarily different with the changes of lighting from the racing sun and shifting clouds. One must see it to appreciate it." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1933

Brisbane, Arthur

- 1531 1933 A great editor visits Grand Cañon; and for the fourth time is awed by the stupendous splendor of nature's chasml wonder. Santa Fe Magazine, 27(5) (April): 13-14. ("Reprinted through courtesy of the Hearst Chain of Morning newspapers.")

Several dozens ways by which the Grand Canyon is always "new"—much in the same old ways. With a tip of the hat to the new guy, Edwin D. McKee, who shows "shells and other traces of marine life, proving that this high plain was once at the bottom of the ocean."

Civilian Conservation Corps

- 1532 1933 C.C.C. Year Book : Company 819 : Grand Canyon, Arizona. [No imprint], [unpaginated]. [Mimeographed; year handwritten on cover leaf between "Year" and "Book". 1933 and 1934 yearbooks are identical other than the year written on cover leaf.]

Hall, Donald J.

- 1533 1933 Enchanted sand : a New Mexican pilgrimage. New York: W. Morrow and Co., 275 pp.
See Grand Canyon, pp. 246-249.

Hernandez, Peter B.

- 1534 NO DATE Thus is not education. Call of the Canyon (Civilian Conservation Corps Company 819, Camp NP-2A, Grand Canyon National Park), no. [1], p. [4]. [Ca. 1933-1934.]

Jacks, L. P.

- 1535 1933 My American friends. New York: Macmillan Co., 263 pp.
See Chapter 7, "The Grand Canyon of Arizona", pp. 126-131, "From my wife's diary."

McKee, Edwin D.

- 1536 1933 On Canyon trails. Grand Canyon Nature Notes, 8(5) (August): 173-177, (6) (September): 191-194.

First part pertains to eastern Grand Canyon National Park; second part to the western part of the park. See also a postscript in McKee (1934).

Sullivan, R. B.

- 1537 1933 Grand Canyon. In: Among Ourselves [SECTION]. Santa Fe Magazine, 27(12) (November): 63.
Local news. Includes: "Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless, was a park visitor for one day, accompanied by H. C. Chase, superintendent of telegraph for the Santa Fe, who entertained the distinguished guest. Private car movement."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1934

Anonymous

1538 1934 People [SECTION]. Time, (January 29):.

Includes item relating to "newshawks" shadowing actress Greta Garbo and director Rouben Mamoulian through Arizona (who used assumed names), including a stay at Grand Canyon; suggesting clandestine matrimony.

Calvin, Ross

1539 1934 Sky determines : an interpretation of the Southwest. New York: The Macmillan Co., 354 pp.

See pp. 21, 39, 40, 78, 90, 159, 163, 175, 315.

Campbell, Ian

1540 1934 Hermit Camp today. Grand Canyon Nature Notes, 9(2) (May): 277-280.

Geologists are Fred Harvey guests for a field season at the abandoned Hermit Camp, with the luxury of a "solid roof". An interesting reminiscence in that it mentions the aerial tram that once delivered goods to Hermit Camp; not mentioned in the tourist literature.

"We hiked down the Hermit Trail and arrived in time to see the cables move and the wheels start turning at the lower terminus. Presently the tram car with its load of food, instruments and other impedimenta, made a perfect landing. We had just begun to unload when a sudden screaming along the cable announced the arrival of a belated package. Suspended on a wire hook over the cable, it had completed in a little over 30 seconds the perilous journey for which the tram car had taken 30 minutes. • • •

"All of the cabins are standing and still in quite good state of repair, both as regards externals and furnishings. These buildings have been the almost undisturbed haunt of mice for some three years. Consequently our first day was spent in the arduous task of packing water from Hermit Creek, some 1500 feet along and some 150 feet up a none too good trail, and then trying to make this water go as far as possible in the cleansing process. Of course, we explored the old water intake pipe for the camp reservoir, but found too many sections cracked or disjointed by freezing to offer hope of amateur repairs. • • •

"It would have seemed a dead world indeed, around the Hermit Cabins, had it not been for the mice which were, of course, our ubiquitous companions in camp."

Faris, John T.

1541 1934 Roaming America's playgrounds. New York: Farrar and Rinehart.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 206-223.

Hutchison, Ann

1542 1934 Adventuring on desert roads. San Francisco: Harr Wagner Publishing Co., 153 pp.

See Chapter 9, "The Grand Canyon in Arizona", pp. 105-121.

Johnson, Arthur Warren

1543 1934 Arthur Wesley Dow; historian—artist—teacher. Ipswich Historical Society, Publications (Ipswich, Massachusetts), (28), 111 pp.

Dow at Grand Canyon in 1911, see pp. 92-95.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Low, Benjamin R. C.

- 1544 1934 Poems in shorthand. New York: Columbia University Press, 73 pp.
See "Moonrise in the Grand Canyon" (p. 51). Not actually written in shorthand.

Mais, S. P. B.

- 1545 1934 A modern Columbus. London: Rich and Cowan Ltd., 401 pp. (Reprinted J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia and London, 1934.)

Grand Canyon, see pp. 170-174.

"I left Santa Fé at noon on Monday, and at 7.30 the next morning I was standing on the rim of the Grand Canyon trying with great difficulty to get my eyes used to one of the world's greatest wonders.

"At first I felt as if I were looking down on a vast relief map, all done in red . . . • • •

"You can cross it by mule or on foot by clearly defined trails in thirteen miles, or you can fly over it. But probably the best way of seeing it is to do what I did, drive along the south rim and get out of the car at fifty different scenic points to stand on the ledge and look down."

He sees an interesting mix of physiographic features— "a butterfly . . . temples, ducks, lizards and battleships, while one, the strangest of all, is a headless Titan with grey arms outstretched as if groping in the dark."

Very curiously: "But, to me, almost as thrilling as this geological and climatic wonder is the story of the nine pioneers who, under the one-armed Civil War veteran Major John Wesley Powell and the artist Moran, first explored the Grand Canyon in four canoes in 1869. It took them three months, an epic of endurance that is all too little known."

In sum: "The most interesting part of the Canyon is the Hopi Watch Tower, from which I looked down on the grand ravines and also over the endless Painted Desert with its smooth colours of green and grey and yellow and blue and red, looking like a sunset turned upside down in solid rock."

McKee, Edwin D.

- 1546 1934 Regarding the Nankoweap Trail. Grand Canyon Nature Notes, 8(11) (February): 246.
Postscript and correction to McKee (1933).

Miller, Arthur P.

- 1547 1934 Pasadena Special. American Journal of Public Health, 24 (November): 1190-1194. [Item signed "A.P.M."]

Recounts an American Public Health Association special train tour from New York to a meeting in Pasadena, California, and return. Includes visit to Grand Canyon:

"Grand Canyon all day Saturday! This was another of the high spots of the trip. Adequate description is impossible—one must see it. A westward drive to Hermit's Rest occupied the morning. In the afternoon some took the trip to Indian Watch Tower which is to the east along the south rim. This is a beautiful drive and the Watch Tower one of the loveliest pieces of design and construction typifying the Pueblo Indian to be found anywhere. Five members of the party were hardy enough to descend the canyon to the river on muleback. Their tales of 'heroism' after returning indicated an enjoyable trip." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Schreiber, Émile

- 1548 1934 A travers l'Amérique de 1934 (voir les numéros des 18 et 25 août, 1<sup>er</sup> et 8 septembre). L'Illustration (Paris), 189(4776) (September 15): 84-85. [In French.]
(transl. 'Across America in 1934 (see issues of August 18 and 25, September 1 and 8)')

A continuation of a serialized account of a trip to America. An aerial photograph of "Un village indien . . . en bordure de l'immense crevasse du Grand Cañon du Colorado" ('An Indian village. . . on the edge of the immense crevasse of the Grand Cañon of the Colorado') (pp. 84-85) actually depicts one of the Hopi mesas; another photograph, "Porteurs indiens à l'arrivée à l'hôtel du Grand Cañon" ('Indian porters arriving at the hotel of the Grand Canyon') (p. 85) is at the Watchtower at Desert View.

1935

Anonymous

- 1549 1935 The journey to Melbourne. News from the American party. British Medical Journal, Supplement, (September 14): 141-142.

Includes brief notice of visit of British Medical Association members to Grand Canyon.

Carre, Jean-Marie

- 1550 1935 Promenades dans trois continents. Paris: Éditions Courrier Politique, Littéraire et Social, 190 pp. (Collection du Temps Présent.) [In French.]
(transl. 'Walks in three continents')

Grand Canyon, see in 1. Partie, "Amérique. De New-York à San Francisco." (transl. Part 1, America. From New York to San Francisco)

Grofé, Ferde

- 1551 1935 On the Trail from "Grand Canyon Suite" : a modern composition for the piano. (Lyric by Gus Kahn.) New York: Robbins Music Corp., 13 pp. (SH 2444-13). [Score.]

Music arrangements "Also published for piano duet, modified piano arrangement, two pianos (4 hands), piano accordion, tenor banjo solo, concert band (full band, symphony band), and E-flat alto saxophone).

Harbraugh, M. D.

- 1552 1935 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Frisco Employes' Magazine (Frisco Lines, St. Louis), 13(9) (September): 19.

Ivins, Anthony W.

- 1553 1935 An address delivered by President Anthony W. Ivins upon completion of the Union Pacific Lodge at Grand Canyon, Utah [sic]. Salt Lake City: Union Pacific System, 16 pp. (Printed by The Seagull Press.)

Original address September 15, 1928, no imprint; see Ivins (1928). Note variant title here.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kolb, Emery C.

- 1554 1935 Cheyava Falls. In: History and exploration of the Grand Canyon region. Grand Canyon Natural History Association, Natural History Bulletin 2, pp. 10-17.

Relates two explorations of Cheyava Falls; the first is a brief exploration from the Colorado River (see in Part III of this bibliography), the latter one is a very detailed narrative based on a descent from the North Rim.

Magnante, Charles

- 1555 1935 On the Trail by Ferde Grofé : accordion transcriptions of modern and standard classics by Charles Magnante. New York: Robbins Music Corp., 7 pp. [Score.]

Masters, Edgar Lee

- 1556 1935 Invisible landscapes. New York: The Macmillan Co., 163 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon".

Matthes, François E.

- 1557 1935 Breaking a trail through Bright Angel Canyon. In: History and exploration of the Grand Canyon region. Grand Canyon Natural History Association, Natural History Bulletin 2, pp. 18-22.

In 1903, while mapping the eastern Grand Canyon.

Priestley, J. B. [Priestley, John Boynton]

- 1558 1935 Grand Canyon; notes on an American journey. Harper's Monthly Magazine, 170 (February): 269-276, (March): 399-406.

1936

Cross, Austin F.

- 1559 1936 Cross roads. Montreal: [no imprint], 301 pp. (Printed by Southam Press.)

See "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado", pp. 240-249.

Hollenbeck, Florine S.

- 1560 1936 Sketches from the Southwest. Montezuma's Well. The Youth's Instructor, 84(30) (July 28): 8, 13.

Second half of article relates to a visit to the South Rim of Grand Canyon.

И'ф, И'я, AND Petrov, Evgenii [Ильф, Илья; Петров, Евгений] [pseudonyms] [Илья Арнольдович Файнзильберг (И'ya Arnol'dovich Faynzil'berg), AND Евгений Петрович Катаев (Yevgeniy Petrovich Katayev)]

- 1561 1936 Одноэтажная Америка [Oдноetazhnaia Amerika] [One-sided America]. Знамя [Znamya] [The Banner] (Moskva), 1936(10): 3-187, (11): 3-116. [In Russian.]

Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

- 1562 1936 Американский фотографии [Amerikanski fotografii] [American photos]. Огонёк [Ogonëk; Ogonek; Ogoniok; Ogonyok] [The Twinkle] (Moskva), 1936(11): 2-6, (12): 5-9, (13): 10-14, (14):

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

10-13, (15): 13-17; (16): 9-13, (17): 11-15, (19/20): 18-22, (21): 13-17, (22): 14-17, (23): 5-9.
[In Russian.]

Not seen; not all parts will be within the scope of this bibliography. See also various reprintings and translations, 1937, 1944, 1946, 1974, 2003, 2007, 2012. Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

Price, Morgan Philips

- 1563 1936 Part 3. Impressions of American under the New Deal. In: Price, Morgan Philips, America after sixty years : the travel diaries of two generations of Englishmen. London: George Allen and Unwin, 236+ pp. [Also reprinted by Arno Press, Inc. (New York, 1974).]

Volume pertains to the American travels of W. E. Price and M. Phillips Price, father and son. The latter, with his wife, visited America in 1934-1935 and followed "as closely as possible the routes taken by my parents in 1869 and 1878" (p. 9). See in Chapter 8, "National Parks, Los Angeles and the Grand Cañon" (pp. 165-175); Grand Canyon, pp. 172-175.

"We walked from the station to a hotel close by. It was built of logs in the middle of a forest of scrub pine. We went into the coffee-room for breakfast, and when we looked out from the window we stood and gasped. We realized that the hotel was built on the edge of the Grand Cañon, of which nothing can be seen until you arrive at the very edge." Due to the press of time, "we contented ourselves with a motor tour along the rim of the Grand Cañon." He mentions "trained geologists", ready telescopes, and museums "here and there". "The American genius for efficient organization was here seen at its best." At Desert View (though not indicated by name) he notes climbing "an old Indian watch-tower, which has been recently restored", from where he succumbs finally to the inevitable—describing "Mexican Aztec temples, Chinese pagodas and Indian shrines."

Stafford, "Check"

- 1564 1936 The Latch String [COLUMN]. Stand By (Prairie Farmer Publishing Co., Chicago), 1(47) (January 4): 10-11.

See "Don't Slip!"; photo with legend, "Tumble Weed demonstrates his confidence in his rope-swinging ability as he executes a trick on the rim of the Grand Canyon where he once was a guide." Stanley Leland Weed.

1937

Anonymous

- 1565 1937 National Park broadcasts from the air; from the Little Colorado to Boulder Dam. Standard Oil Bulletin, (June): cover, inside front cover, 3-10, 16, inside back cover.

NBC and United Airlines.

- 1566 1937 Thursday, July 22, 1937. Radio Mirror (New York), 8(4) (August): 48.

Radio programming for this date. Composer Ferde Grofé flew (his first time) to Los Angeles for a single concert at the Hollywood Bowl, flying over Grand Canyon. Notes "his famous Grand Canyon Suite" but item erroneously states that of the Grand Canyon, "He'd never seen it before."

- 1567 1937 Travel lectures—Friday evenings at 8:00 repeated Sundays at 3:45 P.M. Art Institute of Chicago, Bulletin, 31(7) (December): 106.

Notice of lecture by Dudley Crafts Watson, "From Manhattan to the Grand Canyon", January 14 and 16, 1938.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Andrews, George B.

- 1568 1937      Scaling Wotan's Throne—An exciting feat in which Shiva's sister "sky island" yields to the skillful rock climbers of the Patterson Grand Canyon Expedition. Natural History, 40: 722-724, 776.
- A first-hand account of the descent from the North Rim and the Wotan climb during the American Museum of Natural History's Shiva's Temple expedition.

Curie, Ève

- 1569 1937      Madame Curie. Paris: Gallimard NRF, 311 pp. [Very numerous later printings.] [In French.]
- 1570 1937      Madame Curie : a biography by Eve Curie. (Vincent Sheean, translator.) Garden City, New York: Doubleday, Doran and Co., Inc., 412 pp.
- Ève Curie's biography of her mother, Marie Curie, has been very widely reprinted and translated into numerous languages. See pp. 333-334, brief remarks regarding Mme. Curie's 1921 visit to Grand Canyon with her daughters, Irène (aged 23) and Ève (16), and of the daughters' horseback ride on the rim and mule ride to the Colorado River. See THE GRAND CANON Volume 1 for complete bibliographical listings.

Eden, J.

- 1571 1937      Sightseeing from the air. Christian Science Monitor Magazine, (July 21): 6.

Franse, H. G.

- 1572 1937      Shiva. Arizona Highways, 13 (November): 1, 3, 5, 18, 33.
- Climbing Shiva Temple.

Grey, Zane

- 1573 1937      An appreciation of Grand Canyon. In: Kane, John Francis (ed.), Picturesque America : an illustrated volume designed to perpetuate the beauty of the American landscape and preserve appropriate selections from well known authors expressing the varied appeal of out-door life in America, with particular emphasis on government parks and playgrounds. Garden City, New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., revised reprint, p. 87. [Volume is a revised printing of the 1925 ed.]

Harbin, Adrian

- 1574 1937      Golly! What a gully : or—Four days at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in northern Arizona. (Drawings by E. M. Arnold.) Chicago: Adrian Harbin [privately printed] 21 pp.
- Cover stock light, smooth; trim size 19.0 × 14.2 cm; compare to the unstated 2nd ed. (1939). A guidebook of sorts, describing viewpoints and amenities, with suggestions for destinations and activities.
- "Some choice old jokes may be murdered, but puns will be used sparingly, if at all. The information on Grand Canyon will be authentic according to scientists, whose guesses are better, perhaps, than ours."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ilif, Iliia, AND Petrov, Eugene [Il'f, Il'ia, AND Petrov, Evgenii]

- 1575 1937 Little golden America : two famous Soviet humorists survey these United States. (Charles Malamuth, translator; illustrated by Georg Hartmann.) New York and Toronto: Farrar and Rinehart, Inc., 387 pp.

Translation of Одноэтажная Америка [Odnoetazhnaia Amerika] [One-sided America] (see Il'f and Petrov, 1936). Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

Jackson, Opal

- 1576 1937 Vacations; many interesting fall journeys made by members of this organization. Mueller Record (Hieronymus Mueller Museum, Decatur, Illinois), (49) (October): 2-3, 5-6.

Meals at Grand Canyon of were prime interest in "Clara Uih's Trip; Visited Many Points of Interest In a Two Weeks' Journey", in August:

"Wednesday morning the party had their first glimpse of the Grand Canyon. After breakfasting at the Bright Angel Lodge, they took a two and one-half hour trip along the rim and lunched at El Tovar Hotel." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Noyes, Alfred

- 1577 1937 The torch-bearers. London: Sheed and Ward, 422 pp.

See in "Part II. The Book of Earth" (p. 132 ff): "The Grand Canyon" (pp. 132-136). Reprinted from Noyes (1925).

Priestley, J. B. [Priestley, John Boynton]

- 1578 1937 Midnight on the desert : a chapter of autobiography. London and Toronto: William Heinemann, Ltd., 312 pp. [Also printed by Harper and Brothers (New York and London, 1937).]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Pyle, Ernie

- 1579 1937 Home country. New York: William Sloane Associates, Inc., 472 pp. [Various reprintings and arrangements.]

Grand Canyon, see pp. 412-413. Brief commentary on the canyon, from a visit. He calls it "a whopper". He indicated that he had thought of taking the mule trip on an overnight trip into the canyon, but two things stopped him: "thirty dollars and fright". His contrast between the North Rim and South Rim boiled down to the fact that the North "wasn't so crowded", that there he could spend a vacation, but on the South one is encouraged "to look and move on."

Rice, Cale Young

- 1580 1937 The chant of the Colorado (at the Grand Canyon). In: Kane, John Francis (ed.), Picturesque America : an illustrated volume designed to perpetuate the beauty of the American landscape and preserve appropriate selections from well known authors expressing the varied appeal of out-door life in America, with particular emphasis on government parks and playgrounds. Garden City, New York: Garden City Publishing Co., Inc., revised reprint, p. 88.

Reprints Rice (1917).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Swanton, W. I.

- 1581 1937 A Reclamation engineer's vacation. Reclamation Era, 27(1) (January): 10-11.
Includes Hoover Dam and Grand Canyon.

1938

Ahrén, Oscar

- 1582 1938 Med "Empress of Britain" jorden runt, 1938 : dagoboksanteckningar. Stockholm: Svenska Tryckeriaktiebolaget, 303 pp. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'With the "Empress of Britain" around the world, 1938: diary entries.')
- See "Grand Canyon", pp. 271-274.

Fletcher, John Gould

- 1583 1938 Selected poems. New York: Farrar and Rinehart, Inc., 237 pp.
- See "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado". Reprinting of Fletcher (1921).

Grofé, Ferde

- 1584 1938 Story of the "Grand Canyon Suite". Arizona Highways, 14(12) (December): 6-9.

Humphrey, Zephine

- 1585 1938 Cactus forest. New York: E. P. Dutton and Co., Inc., 245 pp.
- See "Grand Canyon", pp. 215-222.

Troxell, Edward L.

- 1586 1938 The geologist in lighter mood (with still and moving pictures in color). In: The Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers, Inc., Annual Report for the Fifty-fourth Year of the Society, ending March 16, 1938, pp. 96-99. ("Address following the 54th Annual Banquet of The Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers, Inc., at Hartford, Conn., March 15, 1938.")
- Grand Canyon, see pp. 97, 99.

Wood, Walter A., Jr.

- 1587 1938 Shiva Temple and Wotan's Throne. American Alpine Journal (American Alpine Club, New York), 3(2): 137-141.
- The American Museum climbs.
- 1588 1938 Shiva Temple and Wotan's Throne, Grand Canyon, 1937. The Alpine Journal (Alpine Club, London), 50 (257) (November): 257-261.
- The American Museum climbs.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1939

Brahy, Gustave Lambert

- 1589 1939 En touriste aux Etats Unis: du Saint-Laurent à Hollywood par Québec, Montréal, New-York, le Niagara, Détroit, Chicago, le Grand Canyon, Hollywood, Los Angeles, la Californie, San Francisco, le parc Yosemite, Denver, Kansas-City, Saint-Louis, Washington, etc. Bruxelles: Editions de la revue Demain, 319 pp. [In French.]
(transl. 'As a tourist in the United States: from Saint-Laurent to Hollywood via Quebec . . . the Grand Canyon . . . etc.')

Comrie, John W.

- 1590 1939 A sonnet on the Grand Canyon at sunset. Nature Magazine, 32(6) (June/July): 346.

Franse, H. G.

- 1591 1939 Seven-down seventy-seven up. Arizona Highways, 15(11) (November): 12-13, 30-31.
Hiking into Grand Canyon.

Bliss, Paul Southworth

- 1592 1939 Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 15(7) (July): 31.

Bucknall, G. C.

- 1593 1939 Across North America by motorcar. Royal Military College of Canada, Review, and Log of H.M.S. Stone Frigate, 20 (June): 62-70.

Includes notes of a drive along the South Rim of Grand Canyon (p. 69). See also a photo of Grand Canyon in collage, p. 62.

- 1594 1939 Across North America by motor car; concluding instalment. The Die-Hards (The Journal of the Middlesex Regiment (Duke of Cambridge's Own)) (London), 6(9) (August): 687-690.

Item is written in the first person but is not signed; author attribution not shown in this issue nor with other installments, which begin with "First Instalment" in 6(8) (May). Author is identified, however, in the summary item by Bucknall, cited above.

Brill, A. A.

- 1595 1939 Jelliffe, the psychiatrist and psychoanalyst. Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease, 89(4): 529-541.

Compares Grand Canyon to "a cross section of the human mind, of which one gets a glimpse in studying the unconscious . . . ."

Duncan, Virginia

- 1596 1939 When Easter comes to Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 2(6) (April): 8-10.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Harbin, Adrian

- 1597 1939 Golly! What a gully : or—Four days at the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in northern Arizona. (Drawings by E. M. Arnold.) Los Angeles: Adrian Harbin [privately printed], 21 pp.

This is an unstated 2nd ed. with different illustrations and slightly different layout than the 1937 1st ed. Cover stock darker than in 1st, and slightly textured. Trim size smaller than 1st, 18.9 × 13.3 cm.

Lee, Evelyn Lewis

- 1598 1939 The call of the west. Boston: Bruce Humphries, Inc., 59 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 28-29.

Peck, Helen M.

- 1599 1939 Grand Canyon of Arizona. Desert Magazine, (August): 37.

1940

Bass, William Wallace

- 1600 1940 The Grand Canyon in poem and picture. (Arranged and illustrated by W[illiam]. G. Bass.) [No imprint], 2nd ed., [16] pp.

Burroughs, John

- 1601 1940 The divine abyss. In: Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. [U.S. National Park Service], [inside front wrap]. (Volume, "W. H. Kistler Stationery Company, Denver, Colorado. 2-10-40—40M.")

Reprinted from earlier Burroughs.

Clark, H. W.

- 1602 1940 After many days; colorful Arizona. The Youth's Instructor (Seventh-day Adventists, Washington, D.C.), 88(21) (May 21): 7-8, 13.

Continuation of a serialized article about a motor camping trip. This installment comprises the trip across the Kaibab Plateau and on to Grand Canyon South Rim via Marble Canyon and Navajo Bridge. An illustration (p. 7), "Navaho [sic] Bridge, Which Crosses the Colorado River, Is One of the Highest Bridges in the World", actually depicts the bridge over Little Colorado River at Cameron.

Colehour, Frank E.

- 1603 1940 My travelogue. (As told to Thelma Shull.) (Foreword by Charles R. Goff.) Rockford, Illinois: Bliss Printing Co., 91 pp.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Edwards, Charles H.

- 1604 1940 [Correspondence.] In: Letters [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 3(10) (August): 45.

Regarding John Hance:

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

"It was my privilege to visit Grand Canyon during November, 1909. I contacted Capt. Hance . . . a few minutes before entraining for Williams.

"He was talking with several men and laid a five-dollar bill on the table and said: 'Will anybody cover that to say that more than 20 people will arrive on this afternoon's train?'

"There was no response. Then he said: 'Well, I am game. Will anybody cover it that less than 20 people will come?'

"There were no takers either way."

Farr, Hilda Butler, AND Clark, Estelle Merrymon

- 1605 1940 Top o' the world, an operetta in two acts : book and lyrics by Estelle Merrymon Clark : music by Hilda Butler Farr. Vocal score and libretto complete. Chicago: R. A. Hoffman Co., 92 pp.

At Grand Canyon.

Grissom, Irene Welch

- 1606 1940 Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 3(9) (July): 21.

Kegley, Max

- 1607 1940 Point Sublime. Arizona Highways, 16(9) (September): 24-25.

Pictorial.

Phelps, William Lyon

- 1608 1940 Billy Phelps Speaking [COLUMN]. The Rotarian, 57(3) (September): 43-45.

"I asked the famous Julius Frederick Stone, who has been everywhere, if the Grand Canyon were not the most sublime of all spectacles. 'Yes,' said he, 'with only one exception: a total eclipse of the sun.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

U.S. Army, Air Corps

- 1609 1940 Wings of the Army. U.S. Army, Air Corps. 4 reels, 16-mm and 35-mm formats, sound.

History of the Air Corps. Includes formation flight in Grand Canyon.

Zigler, Zelia

- 1610 1940 You take the high road—she'll give you the low-down. The Key (Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity), 27(2) (April): 159-166.

Regarding trips to the convention in Sun Valley, California. See "Tour to Flaming Canyons, Zion—Bryce and Grand Canyons" (p. 166), which itinerary includes Grand Canyon North Rim.

1941

Anonymous

- 1611 1941 Grand Canyon. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 4(6) (April): 37.

"This story comes from the national park service: A Tennessee visitor to Grand Canyon found and gave to park officials a gold ring bearing the initials 'H. B. H.', a coat of arms and the inscription, '15 years of honorable

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

service.' A park official on a trip to Seattle, Washington, showed the ring to jewelers, who identified it as the product of a New England firm, whose records showed it had been made for the head of a Philadelphia business. Pursuing this lead, park officials found the ring's owner was dead, but had a son living. To this son the ring was restored. It had been lost when the son fed a lump of sugar to one of the mules on which tourists ride down the long trail from top to bottom of the canyon. The mule snatched the ring from its feeder's finger." (ENTIRE ITEM)

- 1612 1941 Inventor. In: The Technic Presents [SECTION]. The Michigan Technic (University of Michigan, College of Engineering), 59(8) (May): 24.

Regarding Jerry Mecklenburger (Jerome W. Mecklenburger, Class of 1941). Includes brief note of "the dumbest thing in his life", hiking to bottom of Grand Canyon and back in a day.

Bass, William Wallace

- 1613 1941 The Grand Canyon in poem and picture. (Arranged and illustrated by W[illiam]. G. Bass.) [No imprint], 3rd ed., [16] pp.

Also accompanied by mailing envelope on which is printed, "The Grand Canyon in Poem and Picture". Title-page indicates "Copyrighted 1909-1925".

Beard, Dan

- 1614 1941 Old February—the American month. In: A Page by Dan Beard [COLUMN]. Boys' Life, 31(2) (February): 21, 50.

See p. 21: "Two of my boys [Boy Scouts] made that terrible trip down the canyon of the Colorado, and they all came back ALIVE and in good condition." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Burroughs, John

- 1615 1941 The divine abyss. In: Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. U.S. National Park Service, [inside front wrap]. (Volume, "W. H. Kistler Stationery Company, Denver, Colorado. 4-25-41—60M.")

Reprinted from earlier Burroughs.

Hogner, Dorothy Childs

- 1616 1941 Grand Canyon. American Girl, 24(1) (January): 8-10, 45-46.

July visit in an "old roadster".

Hurd, Harry Elmore

- 1617 1941 Autos were made for walkers. The Rotarian, (May): 20-23.

See p. 20, an ironically familiar pre-war, pre-Interstate perspective. On Bright Angel Trail, Bill, the author's hired guide recalled,

"... the dudes who took the cake were the folks who dashed up to the south rim of the Canyon, looked into the hole for fifteen minutes, and then shouted, 'Let's get stickers for our baggage and go places. We've seen the Grand Canyon.'"

Hurd continues, "I recalled how, emerging from the Kaibab Forest, I had come suddenly to the Brink of Awe. After long contemplation, I returned to the Lodge and wired home: 'Here Silence and Awe link hands and bow before the god of Beauty.' The highways of America are crowded with tourists who boom along hour after hour, day after day, intent upon reaching some spot of scenic beauty, but, after they arrive, they keep within sight of their parked cars."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kay, Hubert

- 1618 1941 July 4; a record of life in the U.S. as Americans were living it 165 years after their declaration of independence. Life, 11(2) (July 14): 26, 29-30, 32.
- See photo, p. 26, "Old Glory at Grand Canyon"; three patriotic "majorettes" with American flag standing at rim of Grand Canyon.

Long, Haniel

- 1619 1941 Piñon country. New York: Duell, Sloane and Pearce, Inc., 2nd ed., 327 pp. (American Folkways, Erskine Caldwell, ed.) [Also later reprintings under different imprints.]
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Ryder-Smith, Roland

- 1620 1941 Grand Canyon. The New York Times, (May 10): 14.

Ziriax, Robert L.

- 1621 1941 Land of the Supai. Arizona Highways, 17(8) (August): 10-17.
- Pictorial.

1942

Bran, Elena [pseudonym]

- 1622 1942 Cu zeppelinul spre America. Bucuresti: [no imprint], 200 pp., 34 plates. [In Romanian.] (transl. 'By zeppelin to America.')
- Includes Grand Canyon. See also an excerpt in Bran (2013).

Burroughs, John

- 1623 1942 The divine abyss. In: Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. U.S. National Park Service, [16] pp. [including wraps]. (Volume, "Zabel Bros. Co., Inc., Phila., Pa. 3-42-100M.")
- Reprinted from earlier Burroughs.

Cornelius (Brother)

- 1624 1942 Keith : old master of California. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 631 pp.
- See Chapter 25, "Sierra, Grand Cañon, and Other Outings", pp. 375-388; specifically pp. 384-385; and p. 481.

Henderson, Randall

- 1625 1942 We camped by turquoise waters. Desert Magazine, 5(8) (June): 5-10.
- Havasu Creek. See also letter from G. Willett, (9) (July): 37, regarding white-throated swifts. See also letter from A. E. Vandercook, 5(10) (August): 4, regarding mining investigations in 1913. See also letter from Ed. F. Williams, 5(11) (September): 2, regarding the Havasupai.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Noyes, Alfred

- 1626 1942 Poems of the new world. Philadelphia and New York: J. B. Lippincott Co., 134 pp.
See The Grand Canyon, pp. 64-71. Reprinted from Noyes (1925).

Pinzon Zuluaga, Sofy de

- 1627 1942 El Gran Cañón del Colorado. Letras y Encajes (Revista Femenina al Servicio de la Cultura) (Medellín, Colombia), 16(187) (December): 5750, 5752, 5754. [In Spanish.]

Dated Manizales, October 1941, this is a rather pedestrian report of a visit to Grand Canyon, with the usual run-offs of world architecture and painters' palettes, and the impossibility of description. However, the author revives in her concluding paragraph:

"De mí, sé decir, que esta maravilla de la naturaleza, me dejó una impresión más profunda que todo cuanto he visto hasta hoy en los diferentes países de Europa y América que he visitado, contándose entre ellos varios sitios de renombre mundial, por sus bellezas naturales. Tuve dos sensaciones intensas y opuestas, cuando apareció ante mí ese majestuoso panorama, imponente por su inmensidad y su silencio. La primera fue de una admiración mezclada de estupor que me anonadó y me hizo sentir la pequeñez de los hombres ante el poder de Dios. Todos los inventos de los humanos son una irrisión, pensé, comparados con estas maravillas de la naturaleza. Luego me vino la idea de que si, según teólogos, sabios y santos, nuestra alma es más grande en belleza y valor a cuanto nuestros ojos mortales pueden ver, entonces, yo poseía algo superior a lo que estaba contemplando y me sentí grande, orgullosa, capaz de dominar el paisaje que tenía delante. Dí gracias a l Todopoderoso que crea para solaz de sus criaturas tanta maravilla y subí de nuevo al automóvil, llena de alegría y dispuesta a aprovechar la oportunidad que se me presentaba de recrearme en tan portentoso espectáculo."

(translation)

'I can say that this wonder of nature left a deeper impression on me than anything I have seen to date in the different countries of Europe and America that I have visited, including several world-renowned sites for their natural beauties. I had two intense and opposite sensations, when that majestic panorama appeared before me, imposing for its immensity and its silence. The first was of admiration mixed with stupor that overwhelmed me and made me feel the smallness of men before the power of God. All human inventions are ridiculous, I thought, compared to these wonders of nature. Then the idea came to me that if, according to theologians, sages and saints, our soul is greater in beauty and value than what our mortal eyes can see, then I possessed something superior to what I was contemplating and I felt great, proud, able to dominate the landscape in front of me. I gave thanks to the Almighty who creates so much wonder for the comfort of his creatures and got back in the car, full of joy and ready to take advantage of the opportunity that presented itself to recreate myself in such a portentous spectacle.'

1943

Dodd, P. M.

- 1628 1943 September 30th. Mr. Donald Grant on "America." In: Lectures [SECTION]. The Churcherian (Churcher's College, Hampshire, United Kingdom), 6(7) (April): 213. [Item signed "P.M.D."]

Summary of Grant's lecture; in part: "We were given a glimpse of the beautiful Smoky Mountains, but even these were dimmed into insignificance by the Grand Canyon. Mr. Grant had been offered the choice of seeing either the Boulder Dam or the Grand Canyon, and he chose the latter. He could not have regretted his choice, for the colouring and immensity of the Grand Canyon are unequalled, and Mr. Grant assured us that the slides, beautiful as they were, did not do it justice."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Eberling, Georgia Moore

- 1629 1943 To the Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 6(4) (February): 4.

Grofé, Ferde

- 1630 1943 Grand Canyon Suite. New York: Robbins Music Corp., 170 pp. [Miniature score.]

See also listing for Grofé under "Date Undetermined".

Hopkins, Frances

- 1631 1943 Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 7(1) (November): 19.

Nabokov, Vladimir

- 1632 1943 On discovering a butterfly. The New Yorker, 19(13) (May 15): 26.

A reflection in verse on a butterfly that he discovered at Grand Canyon.

[About this see Nabokov, "Some new or little known Nearctic Neonympha (Lepidoptera: Satyridae)", Psyche, 49(3/4) (September/December 1942): 61-80. Therein he described the new species as Neonympha dorothea (pp. 62-63), of which the nominate subspecies, N. d. dorothea (pp. 64-66) was collected at Grand Canyon: "Taken during a brief visit to Grand Cañon, Ariz., South Rim, on June 9th, 1941 (bright cold morning after snow and rain). They were weakly fluttering beside the trail together with a few Coen. tullia urcae—almost no other butterflies about. Named in honor of Miss Dorothy Leuthold who kindly kicked up the first specimen." The specimens are in the American Museum of Natural History, New York.]

Newman, Bernard

- 1633 1943 American journey. London: Robert Hale Limited, 296 pp. [Also reprinted by Travel Book Club (London, 1945).]

See Chapter 6, "Grand Canyon", pp. 116-127; the canyon itself, pp. 120-125. An unusual wartime visit, but with the usual recitation of canyon dimensions and impressions, though without the gushing and lists of world architecture. A trip down Bright Angel Trail, however, fails to discover a new way to describe a Grand Canyon rider on a mule. Of the Colorado River, "There never was a more unruly stream . . . It changes its course every few minutes . . . The water is not pretty . . ." But a breaking storm ends with a rainbow. Ends with a short dissertation on national parks and why there should be some in Britain, too; and opinions on American salesmanship, with a tip of the hat to Fred Harvey for charging $2 for a room in El Tovar rather than the usual $4, because the $2 hotel, Bright Angel, was closed due to the small number of wartime visitors.

1944

Grand Canyon State Teachers College Choir

- 1634 1944 Shrine of the Ages. Grand Canyon Easter Sunrise Service. [Flagstaff, Grand Canyon: Grand Canyon State Teachers College Choir], two 78-rpm disks. Eldon A. Ardrey, Musical Director; J. Howard Pyle, Producer, NBC-KTAR.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ilif, Iliia, AND Petrov, Eugene [Il'f, Il'ia, AND Petrov, Evgenii]

- 1635 1944 Little golden America : two famous Soviet humourists survey the United States. London: G. Routledge and Sons, Ltd., 296 pp.
- Translation of Одноэтажная Америка [Odnoetazhnaia Amerika] [One-sided America] (see Il'f and Petrov, 1936). See "Grand Canyon", pp. 162-167.

Keech, Roy A.

- 1636 1944 Moon over Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 7(10) (August): 16.

Mathias, Fred S.

- 1637 1944 The amazing Bob Davis : his last vagabond journey. New York and Toronto: Longmans, Green and Co., 326 pp.
- See particularly: "Off for the Grand Canyon", pp. 262-264; "Wangling a Story from Porter Timeche, Indian Chief", 264-267; "Bob Tells How to Tell a Story", 267-271; "Bert Lauzon Spins Some Yarns of Heroism", 271-276; "Hunting an Outlaw with Ex-Sheriff Curley Ennis", 276-280; see also 281.

Sargeant, Winthrop

- 1638 1944 Toscanini; an orchestral autocrat, he uses keen knowledge and deep intuition to create great music. Life, 16(3) (January 17): 76-77, 79, 81, 83-84, 87.
- See p. 84, photo of Mr. and Mrs. Arturo Toscanini at Grand Canyon, 1941.

1945

Anonymous

- 1639 1945 Climbers scale Vishnu Temple. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 8(12) (October): 27.
- "Flagstaff—M. D. Clubb, Oklahoma A. & M. college faculty member, and his son Roger scaled Vishnu Temple, one of the great mountain peaks within Grand Canyon, according to Dr. H. C. Bryant, park superintendent, in July. They found no evidence of a previous ascent; only forms of life found were a few lizards and lichens. They also scaled Wotan's Throne, which an American Museum party climbed in 1937." (ENTIRE ITEM)

Chamberlain, John

- 1640 1945 The Earl of Halifax; Britain's Ambassador to the U.S. is a high-minded peer who gets along well with plain Americans. Life, 18(12) (March 19): 84-86, 88, 90, 93-94, 96.
- See photo, p. 93, Lord and Lady Halifax at a Grand Canyon view point (no text mention of Grand Canyon). Photo credited (p. 23) to "Kolb Bros. Studio".

Friedrich, Gerhard

- 1641 1945 Grand Canyon, Arizona. Horn Book Magazine, 21 (July): 247.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gillmor, Frances

- 1642 1945 Old-timer yarns and sayings. University of Arizona, Bulletin, 16(1) (January): 5-9. (University of Arizona, General Bulletin 9.)
- Includes John Hance.

Kelly, Eric

- 1643 1945 The inexpressible. Horn Book Magazine, 21: 365.

Miller, Henry

- 1644 1945 The air-conditioned nightmare. New York: James Laughlin, 2 volumes. (A New Directions Book.) [Volume 2 is Remember to remember. Also reprintings and translations.]
- Volume 1 includes a visit to Grand Canyon.

1946

Broderick, Gertrude G.

- 1645 1946 Radio script catalog : a list of approximately 1,100 annotated radio scripts which are available on free loan from the Radio Script and Transcription Exchange, of the U.S. Office of Education. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, 109 pp.

Listings. The Script Exchange Service loaned single copies of radio program scripts for non-commercial use, "to assist groups studying radio writing, speaking, acting, sound effects, and program production over the facilities of radio stations or over sound systems, as well as other phases of radio work." (p. 1). Additional copies could be made by the recipient. Under "National Parks", see "Treasure Trails (15 minutes)" (p. 70), in which "Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ogden, accompanied by sister-in-law Betty, are hunting for the treasure, supposedly buried by their Uncle Dave under a blasted pine tree in one of the National Parks. Ranger Bill Morrison consents to act as guide for the hunting expedition." The single script comprises "13 dramatizations originally broadcast over the NBC Blue Network by the United States Department of the Interior, National Park Service, from February 15 through May 23, 1935"; program nos. 297-309, of which see "No. 300. Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona (Ann. 4m, 2f)", which is annotated for four male and two female speakers.

Butterfield, Roger

- 1646 1946 Cardinal-designate Spellman. [Part 2.] Life, 20(4) (January 28): 87-88, 90, 92, 95-96, 98.
- See p. 88, anecdote, in passing, about then-Bishop Francis J. Spellman flying to the west coast in 1936 with then-papal Secretary of State Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli (later Pope Pius XII), asking the pilot to detour to fly over Grand Canyon "so that Cardinal Pacelli may see it."

Carpenter, Everett M.

- 1647 1946 The Grand Canyon of Arizona. The New Age Magazine (Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry of the Southern Jurisdiction, U.S.A., Supreme Council, 33°), 54: 708.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Il'f, Il'ja, AND Petrov, Jevgenij [Il'f, Il'ia, AND Petrov, Evgenii]

- 1648 1946 Amerika bez poschodí : dva sovětští humoristé v zemi dolaru. (Obálku navrhl Josef Novák, mapku nakreslil Josef Bohuslav.) (Oto Jahůdka, translator.) Praha: Toužimský a Moravec, 363 pp. (Západ a východ, 7.) [\[In Czech.\]](#)
- Translation of Одноэтажная Америка [Odnoetazhnaia Amerika] [One-sided America] (see Il'f and Petrov, 1936). Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

Karpus, K. S.

- 1649 1946 Iš Californijos padangės; kelionė į Los Angeles. Dirva / The Field (Cleveland, Ohio), 31(52) (December 27): 2. [\[In Lithuanian.\]](#)
- (transl. 'From the skies of California; trip to Los Angeles')
- First installment of a serialized feature. Visit to Grand Canyon is included in this installment. No illustrations. (The next installment, 32(3) (January 17, 1947): 2, includes departure from Grand Canyon.)

1947

Hall, Thelma Bonney

- 1650 1947 Jewel of canyons. Appalachia, 26(4): 456-466.
- Havasu Canyon.

Porter, Charles Arthur

- 1651 1947 This Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 10(9) (July): 9.
- Illustrated with photograph of Grand Canyon by Ben D. Glaha.

Weinper, Z. [ז. וויינפער, ז.] [Weinper, Zishe] [pseudonym] [Weinperlech, Zise (Vaynperlekh, Zise)]

- 1652 1947 בייים גראַנד קאניאָן Beim Grand Canyon. New York: פאַרבאַנד יידישער קולטור פאַרבאַנד (YKUF), 143 pp. [\[In Yiddish.\]](#)
- (transl. 'At the Grand Canyon')

The transliterations of the author's name and the book's title and imprint are from English text on title-page verso. Other title variants transliterated from Yiddish are noted in library catalogues: Baym Grand Kenyon; Baym Grend Kenyon; Beim Grend Kenyon; Beym Grand Canyon. One Hebrew-language record also transliterates author as Vaynper and publisher as Iḳuf. Weinper's preface (p. 7, translated here) notes that "one should not look in these poems for descriptions of the Grand Canyon . . . [but] they are variations on emotions and reflections from my trip to that magical wonder."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1948

Ellis, Wheeler

- 1653 1948 Car House No. 4. In: Conacher, H. K., Car House Highlights [SECTION]. Two Bells (Los Angeles Transit Lines, Public Relations Department), 29(7) (December): 18-19.

“‘Tex’ Parker and wife went to the Grand Canyon to see one of the Wonders of the World. ‘Tex’ said they had a swell time. They hiked to the very bottom of the canyon, let out three loud yodels, stroked the back of a stray burro, and then struggled back to the top.

“Bob White went fishing in the Colorado River, he said that the water was so rough that he had to use both of his hands to keep in the boat, if he had another he would have done some fishing.” (ENTIRE NOTE)

Ferry, Philip

- 1654 1948 Marble falls of Havasu. Pacific Discovery, 1 (March/June): 11-14.

Herbert, L. M.

- 1655 1948 A day at the Grand Canyon. In: Winslow Literary Society (compiler), Shifting sands : an initial collection of grains. Winslow, Arizona: Winslow Literary Society.

Herzog, Len

- 1656 1948 The geologists and “gorgeous gorge” (or, 1000 miles of bridge, beer, and “bull”-sharp). The California Tech (California Institute of Technology), 49(21) (April 1): 1, 4.

Report on “the annual, required-for-graduation ‘Spring’ field trip” by “The Geology Division”, to Grand Canyon and northern Arizona. Written with cheerful exaggeration, if not outrightly a sample of April Foolery.

McGahee, Andy

- 1657 1948 Arizona from the saddle. Enthusiast, (September): cover, 2-5, 21-22.

Motorcycles. Includes visit to Grand Canyon.

McKee, Edwin D.

- 1658 1948 On foot and in the saddle. In: Peattie, Roderick (ed.), The inverted mountains : canyons of the West. New York: Vanguard Press, Inc., pp. 253-286.

- 1659 1948 The Canyon trails. In: Peattie, Roderick (ed.), The inverted mountains : canyons of the West. New York: Vanguard Press, Inc., pp. 287-322.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1949

Artrip, Louise, AND Artrip, Fullen

- 1660 1949 Memoirs of Daniel Fore (Jim) Chisholm and the Chisholm Trail. Booneville, Arkansas: Artrip Publications, 89 [92] pp.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 73-80.

Blackford, John L.

- 1661 1949 There's another kind o' treasure. Desert Magazine, 12(3) (January): 23-27.

Photo feature. See "Shadows, Grand Canyon, Arizona", p. 25.

Ferry, Philip

- 1662 1949 Thundering waters; a descent into the little-known northwestern section of the Grand Canyon to settle conflicting rumors about a spectacular waterfall. Natural History, 58(6): cover, 264-269, 284-285.

Thunder River.

Garrison, Lemuel A.

- 1663 1949 John Hance; guide, trail builder, miner and windjammer of the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 25(6) (June): 4-11.

Sandford, Grace

- 1664 1949 The Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 12(7) (May): 26.

Schellbach, Louis, III

- 1665 1949 Captured moods of Grand Canyon : a series of fifteen colored plates of unusual canyon views. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon National Park, 30 pp. ("Litho by Curt Teich & Company, Inc. Chicago, Illinois".) [Cover title: Captured moods of Grand Canyon : a series of color studies of Grand Canyon National Park.] [Grand Canyon: Verkamp and Schellbach.]

1950

Adams, Ansel

- 1666 1950 My camera in the national parks : 30 photographs with interpretive text and informative material on the parks and monuments and photographic data. Yosemite National Park: Virginia Adams, and Boston and San Francisco: Houghton Mifflin Co., 97 pp. (Printed by H. S. Crocker Co., Inc.) [In spiral-bound, stiff white paper boards, 12½ × 14½ inches.]

Exhibition catalog, Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute Library. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bakeless, John

- 1667 1950 The eyes of discovery. The pageant of North America as seen by the first explorers. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Co., 439 pp.

Includes Grand Canyon. See also an unabridged republication (Bakeless, 1961) with new and enlarged selection of illustrations.

Bryant, Harold C.

- 1668 1950 Shangri-La of Arizona; presidential party spends week end recording Grand Canyon splendor on film. Santa Fe Magazine, 44(7) (July): 23-24.

Havasupai.

- 1669 1950 The banquet at El Tovar Hotel. In: Clymer, Floyd, The 1950 Grand Canyon Economy Run : the story of the official A.A.A. championship economy contest sponsored by General Petroleum Corporation in which 31 American cars competed. Los Angeles: Floyd Clymer, p. 31.

Fairchild, Hurlstone

- 1670 1950 An artist's notebook : interpretations of the inspirations found in Grand Canyon. Hollywood, California: Homer H. Boelter, 32 pp.

Also includes verses by the artist.

Ferry, Philip

- 1671 1950 Return to Thunder River. Pacific Discovery, 3 (March/April): 5-13, (July/August): 32.

Long, Haniel

- 1672 1950 A letter to St. Augustine : after re-reading his confessions. New York: Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 245 pp.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Muench, Joyce Rockwood, AND Muench, Josef

- 1673 1950 Grand Canyon : a pictorial interpretation. New York: Hastings House, 101 pp.

1951

Clark, A. L.

- 1674 1951 Letter to the Editor. Popular Mechanics Magazine, 95(3) (March): 8.

Brief note, with photo of "E. B. 'Red' Carson and R. J. 'Bart' Barton in front of a helicopter owned by the Arizona Helicopter Service, deep in Grand Canyon. The Arizona firm has been taking tourists into the canyon since last May."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ferry, Philip

- 1675 1951 A trip to Toroweap. Buick Magazine, 13(4) (October): 6.

Fisher, Ralph A., Sr.

- 1676 1951 Grand Canyon trail. Desert Magazine, 14(5) (March): 26.

Muench, Josef

- 1677 1951 Christmas in the Grand Canyon. In: Christmas : an American annual of Christmas literature and art. Volume 21. Minneapolis, Minnesota: Augsburg Publishing House.

Muench, Joyce Rockwood

- 1678 1951 Thunder in Grand Canyon. Ford Times, 43(4): 34-37.
Thunder River.

Tallant, Mildred C.

- 1679 1951 Storm at Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 14(4) (February): 4.

Wolfe, Thomas

- 1680 1951 A western journal : a daily log of The Great Parks Trip, June 20-July 2, 1938. University of Pittsburgh Press, 72 pp.
Grand Canyon, see pp. 15-18.

1952

Collison, Robert

- 1681 1952 [Remarks from the American Library Association meeting.] In: Reports from Midwest [SECTION]. UCLA Librarian (University of California Library, Los Angeles), 5(10) (February 15): 49-50.
Begins with brief remarks on viewing Grand Canyon from the air en route to Chicago.

Fred Harvey [firm]

- 1682 1952 The Watchtower—guide. Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona: Fred Harvey, [16] pp.

Llewellyn, Bernard

- 1683 1952 Across America by "Greyhound" bus. II. From Grand Canyon to New York. Meccano Magazine (Liverpool), 37(6) (June): 258-259. [Part I is not pertinent to this bibliography.]

O'Ryan, J. Vincent

- 1684 1952 Where God worked overtime! Household, 52 (October): 22-23, 70-76, 92-93.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1953

Friedrich, Gerhard

1685 1953 Grand Canyon. Nature Magazine, 46: 456.

Kunkel, Isabell

1686 1953 Second concert heard at college. In: On the Campus [SECTION]. The Plain Truth (Radio Church of God, Pasadena, California), 18(1) (June): 14.

Ambassador College. Concludes with brief remarks on a performance of "The Cloudburst" from Ferde Grofé's "Grand Canyon Suite".

1954

1687 1954 The hard way. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 17(12) (December): 29.

Prof. Carlos Castillo Tejero and five students from the University of Mexico hike into Grand Canyon to study geology. Item credited to Casa Grande Dispatch.

Black, Donald M.

1688 1954 Painting in the national parks. National Parks Magazine, 28(117) (April/June): cover, 57-61.

Edward Eberstadt and Sons [firm]

1689 1954 Catalogue 134. Americana. A collection of original historical sources notably on California and the Far West and including material on the South, the Middle West, Alaska, Hawaii, Canada, Mexico, South America and the West Indies. Books, manuscripts and paintings offered for sale by Edward Eberstadt and Sons, 888 Madison Avenue, at 72nd Street, New York 21, N.Y. [New York: Edward Eberstadt and Sons]: 111+ pp.

See painting by Theodore Wores, "The Lands of Mystery: Grand Canyon of Arizona" (1915), pp. 33 (illustrated), 56.

Goode, Bud

1690 1954 Busy Bill Cullen. TV Radio Mirror (New York) (Keystone Edition), 42(8) (August): 36-37, 88.

Bill Cullen, TV and radio star. See p. 88, remarks on Grand Canyon.

Linden, Dolf van der

1691 1954 Grand Canyon. (With the "All Star" Brass Band, Harry Mortimer, conductor. "Recorded and made by Levy's Sound Studios Ltd., London".) London: W. Paxton and Co. Ltd. 78 rpm record. (PR.600. 0-3689.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

McFarland, Elizabeth

1692 1954 This is the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 30(3) (March): 12-31.

Strachan, Elsie McKinnon

1693 1954 Canyon artist. Desert Magazine, 17(6) (June): 26. [Verse.]

1955

Anonymous

1694 1955 Press gets a plane ride. Broadcasting, Telecasting, (May 9): 105.

Three-hour ride in DC-7 over Grand Canyon by American Airlines, commemorating the airline's continuous sponsorship over two years of the "Music 'til Dawn" program on KNX Hollywood.

Bergman, Sam

1695 1955 The Grand Canyon. The New York Times, (February 23): 26.

1696 1955 The Grand Canyon. Свобода (Український щоденник) / Svoboda (Ukrainian Daily) (The Ukrainian Weekly Section, Jersey City, New Jersey), 62(38) (February 26) (Section 2): 2. [In English.]

Editors of Horseless Carriage Gazette

1697 1955 Arizona Grand Canyon tour. Horseless Carriage Gazette (Horseless Carriage Club of America), 17(3) (May/June): 28-32.

Fletcher, John Gould

1698 1955 The Grand Canyon. Du (Schweizerische Monatsschrift) (Zürich), 15 (May): 54. [In English; serial in German.]

Helman, Cora W.

1699 1955 A heap of living. [Onekama, Michigan]: [no imprint], 136 pp.

Regarding J. Edson Ullery and Church of the New Brethren, Onekama, Michigan. See p. 53, anecdote pertaining to Ullery's visit to Hopi House at Grand Canyon.

Noyes, Alfred

1700 1955 The Grand Canyon. Du (Schweizerische Monatsschrift) (Zürich), 15 (May): 54. [In English; serial in German.]

Reprinted from Noyes (1925).

Oleson, Helmer O.

1701 1955 The Grand Canyon. The New York Times, (July 7): 26.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1956

Carnegie, Dale

- 1702 1956 How to develop self-confidence and influence people by public speaking. New York: Pocket Books, 244 pp. [Numerous reprintings under this and other imprints, as well as translations into Arabic, Chinese, Greek, Japanese Korean, Russian, Thai, and Turkish; surely others.]

See section, "Rewriting One Sentence a Hundred and Four Times"; specifically, p. 214, note of having "spent a few unforgettable days on the rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado" and hearing a woman use the adjective, "beautiful", to describe several different things other than the canyon; then applies a thesaurus of more appropriate words.

Chamberlain, Samuel E.

- 1703 1956 My confession. (Introduction and postscript by Roger Butterfield.) New York: Harper and Brothers, 301 pp., plates. [Also translated into Italian (Feltrinelli, Milano, 1957), and reprinted under imprints of University of Nebraska Press (1987) and Texas State Historical Association (1996).]

Includes casual remarks pertaining to Grand Canyon, pp. 283-284, 318; specifically, about listening to an impromptu lecture on Grand Canyon geology, upon which he later based a painting.

DeWald, R.

- 1704 1956 It's a long way down to the Phantom. Arizona Days and Ways, (May 13): 6-8.
Phantom Ranch.

Dooling, E. R.

- 1705 1956 Grand Canyon on a mule. The Cosmopolitan, 140 (March): 18.

Forrest, Earl R.

- 1706 1956 Louis Akin—Artist of Old Arizona. The Westerners brand book, Los Angeles Corral, Book 6. Los Angeles Westerners, pp. 30-47.

Fred Harvey [firm]

- 1707 1956 An introduction to the Watchtower at Desert View : a re-creation from the Southwest's remote past. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Fred Harvey, 1 folded sheet. [Other eds.]

Morris, Jan

- 1708 1956 Coast to coast. London: Faber and Faber, 271 pp.

Includes visit to Grand Canyon.

- 1709 1956 As I saw the U.S.A. [New York]: Pantheon, 245 pp.

Same as 1956 London ed. with different title.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Owen, A. Y.

- 1710 1956 The Grand Canyon's hidden wonders; long trek into the chasm finds scenes of grandeur that few men ever view. Life, 40(20) (May 14): 104-113.
- Photo feature. See also comments by Avis M. Elkins, and by Dale Slocum, 40(23) (June 4): 19.

Park, M. Irene, AND Towler, Patricia

- 1711 1956 Two went west. Lockerbie, Scotland: Herald Press, 132 pp.
- A round trip of the U.S. and Canada. Includes visit to Grand Canyon. Photographs by Towler.

Shigeji, Ōda [飯田茂次]

- 1712 1956 欧米素描 (一八) [Ōbei sobyō (Kazuya)]. [Western drawings (18).] 日本醸造協会誌 [Nihon jōzō kyōkai-shi] [Japan Brewery Association, Journal (Tokyo)], 51(1): 26-31. [In Japanese.]
- Travel record. See “二ニ グランキャニオン (Grand Canyon)” [22; gurankyanion (Grand Canyon)], pp. 26-29.

Taylor, Ralph C.

- 1713 1956 [Frank J. Meyer, animal-shoe collector.] In: Hobby Hitching Post [SECTION]. The Rotarian, 88(3) (March): 62-63.
- Collection began with a thrown shoe during a “burro” ride into Grand Canyon.

1957

Blair, Clay, Jr.

- 1714 1957 Passing of a great mind; John von Neumann, a brilliant, jovial mathematician, was a prodigious servant of science and his country. Life, 42(8) (February 25): 89-90, 93-94, 96, 101-102, 104.
- See p. 96, photo with legend, “A reluctant sportsman, Von Neumann scorned athletics by wearing a neat business suit on riding trip in Grand Canyon which he made in 1940.” No text mention.

Carlson, Raymond

- 1715 1957 A visit to the Grand Canyon . . . Arizona Highways, 33(5) (May): 1. [Item signed “R.C.”; ellipsis is part of title.]

DeWald, Bud

- 1716 1957 They go to work in a bucket. Men and machinery drop 1800 feet into the Grand Canyon to reach mine discovered in 1893 by “Pop” Hogan. Arizona Days and Ways (Arizona Republic), (June 9): 6-11.
- Orphan Mine.

Mir Amorós, Jesús

- 1717 1957 Visita al Gran Cañón del Colorado. Real Academia de Ciencias y Artes de Barcelona, Memorias, Series 3, 32(10) (September) (658): 323-341, 6 plates. [In Spanish.]
(transl. ‘Visit to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado’)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1958

Brockett, Miller

- 1718 1958 Youth activities. Pacific Union Recorder (Seventh-day Adventists, Pacific Union Conference, Angwin, California), 58(16) (November 10): 1-3.

See p. 1, note of the "Tri-Union Secretarial Council and Nature Camp, held at the South Rim of the Grand Canyon October 8 to 14".

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1719 1958 The Grandview Trail. Plateau, 31: 37-40.

Clark, Edward A.

- 1720 1958 Grand Canyon. In: The song of our national parks and flowers. [No imprint], pp. 16-17. (Volume printed by Augustana Book Concern, Rock Island, Illinois.)

Coker, Adelaide

- 1721 1958 Inner Gorge: Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 21(9) (September): 18.

DeWald, Bud

- 1722 1958 Canyon cable to riches. Two-mile tram hauls ancient guano from Grand Canyon cave. Arizona Days and Ways (Arizona Republic), (January 12):.

Bat Cave.

Downie, Ruth, AND Downie, Don

- 1723 1958 Lockheed's lensman. Flying, 62(6) (June): 40-42, 74, 76-77, 78.

Aerial photographer Erik Miller. See pp. 42, 74, regarding a flight in a Cinerama B-25 to photograph a TWA Constellation flying over Grand Canyon.

Sergeant, Helen Humphreys

- 1724 1960 House by the Buckeye Road. San Antonio, Texas: Naylor Co., 210 pp.

A memoir from Arizona of the early 1900s. See pp. 190-200, Havasu Canyon and Mooney Falls.

1959

Arro, Erik

- 1725 1959 Kahe nädalaga ümber Ameerika II. Great Canyoni võludes ja Los Angelesis. Päikesetõus kanjonis—maailma suurim atraktsioon.—Indiaanlased, kes elavad kivistunud metsa müümisest.—

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Maailma suurimas sulatuskatlas Los Angelesis. Vaba Eestlane (New Toronto, Ontario), 8(82)(790) (October 28): 4. [In Estonian.]

(transl. 'Two weeks around America II. The enchantments of the Grand Canyon and Los Angeles. Sunrise in the canyon — the world's biggest attraction. — Native Americans living near the fossilized forest. — The world's largest smelter in Los Angeles.')

Heald, Weldon F.

- 1726 1959 A winter visit to Grand Canyon; Grand Canyon in the "off season": the crowds have gone . . . the awesome view is sharp and clear . . . the winter air is like wine. Desert Magazine, 22(10) (October): 39-41, 43. [Ellipses are part of title.]

Hutchinson, Melvin

- 1727 1959 Backpack adventure in remote Asbestos Canyon; J. Harvey Butchart followed the old map into the ruggedness of Grand Canyon's Granite Gorge—and it paid off handsomely in the adventure and satisfaction that comes from exploring forbidding terrain. (Map by Norton Allen.) Desert Magazine, 22(1) (January): 19-21.

Karsch, Carl G.

- 1728 1959 Cowboy-style visit to Southwest missions. Presbyterian Life, 12(18) (September 15): cover, 3, 6-9. Recounting "last summer's 'bedroll' seminar, when forty United Presbyterians visited mission schools, hospitals and churches in New Mexico and Arizona". Includes service at the Shrine of the Ages, Grand Canyon.

Lassie Programs, Inc.

- 1729 1959 Lassie at the Grand Canyon [episode of the Lassie television series]. Jack B. Hively, director; Z. C. Cramer, writer; Robert Golden, producer. 25:45.
- Lassie is the collie star of the television series. Re-released 1994 in a two-episode video, Lassie to the Rescue, Broadway Video, Nickelodeon; manufactured by Sony Wonder, New York.

Leister, Mary McFarland

- 1730 1959 Afoot in the Grand Canyon. American Forests, 65(8) (August): 32-34, 44-45. South Kaibab Trail to Phantom Ranch, return via Bright Angel Trail.

Makoe, Fumiko [馬越富美代]

- 1731 1959 自満話アレコレ [Ji Mitsuru-banashi arekore]. 自庭 [Ji niwa] [Own Garden] (広島修道大学軟式庭球部OB会誌・部誌) [Hiroshima shūdōdaigaku nanshiki teikyū-bu, O B-kai-shi-bu-shi] [Hiroshima ShudCourt Ball Club, OB Association Departmental Magazine], (14): 16. [In Japanese.]
- Brief remarks on a trip to the western U.S., traveling alone, including Grand Canyon noted in passing.

Priestley, J. B. [Priestley, John Boynton]

- 1732 1959 Reflections at the canyon's rim. Reader's Digest, 74 (February): 197-198+. Abridged from Priestley (1937).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Seidenstein, Francoise

- 1733 1959 Diary. Ariston (College of St. Catherine, St. Paul, Minnesota), 53(2) (Spring): 17-27.
Travelogue. Grand Canyon, see p. 24.

White, Clementine

- 1734 1959 Supai Serenade. In: Collins, Marian L. (ed.), Poem sent in by Mrs. Burden. The Supai News, (March 16): 3.

1960

Anonymous

- 1735 1960 Descent into the Canyon. Escapade, 5(4) (June): 40-43, 70. [NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).]
Nankoweap Creek.

Barker, Robert S.

- 1736 1960 Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 36(6) (June): 36.

Berggren, Elizabeth

- 1737 1960 Seven miles down to summer. (Paintings by Leese Mather.) Ford Times (Ford Motor Co.), 52(1) (January): 22-25, inside back cover.

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1738 1960 Backpacking on the Colorado. Appalachia, New Series, 26: 176-182.

Carlson, Raymond

- 1739 1960 The Canyon revisited. Arizona Highways, 36(6) (June): 1. [Item signed "R.C."]

Fullerton, Dolly S.

- 1740 1960 First sight of the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 36(6) (June): 36.

Ganci, Dave

- 1741 1960 Successful summit attempt. Arizona Days and Ways (June 26): 36-39.
Zoroaster Temple.

Kimber, Benjamin J.

- 1742 1960 Grand Canyon deeps : words written by mortals and immortals. Modesto, California: Roadrunner Guidebooks and Research, 64 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Muench, Joyce Rockwood

- 1743 1960 We go hiking in Grand Canyon. (Photographs by Josef Muench.) Arizona Highways, 36(6) (June): 2-5, 35, 36, inside back cover.

Slocum, Bette

- 1744 1960 Pack trip to Thunder River. Arizona Highways, 36(6) (June): 6-11.
Hiking.

1961

Bakeless, John

- 1745 1961 America as seen by its first explorers : the eyes of discovery. New York: Dover Publications, Inc., 439 pp.
Unabridged republication of Bakeless (1950), with new and enlarged selection of illustrations.

Cesarini, Roland J.

- 1746 1961 Ben Wittick: Adventurer with a camera. Arizoniana (Arizona Pioneers' Historical Society), 2(2) (Summer): 21-22.

Churchill, John Spencer

- 1747 1961 Crowded canvas. London: Odhams Press, 224 pp.
- 1748 1961 A Churchill canvas. Boston and Toronto: Little, Brown and Co., 308 pp. [Dust jacket adds subtitle, "a candid autobiography". "First American edition" of Crowded Canvas (London, 1961).]
By the nephew of Winston Churchill. See pp. 93-94, brief note regarding the family's visit to Grand Canyon in 1929, including note that the author and cousin Randolph "stood on our heads on the canyon's edge".

Clayton, Edward T.

- 1749 1961 The tragedy of Amos 'N' Andy; famous comedy series made originators millionaires, threw shadow across the lives of top Negro actors. Ebony, 16(12) (October): 66-68, 70, 72-73.
See p. 66, quoting George Bernard Shaw after a visit to the U.S.: "There are three things that I shall never forget about my visit to the United States—the Grand Canyon, Niagara Falls and Amos 'N' Andy." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Grofé, Ferde; Kostelanetz, Andre; AND Cash, Johnny

- 1750 1961 The lure of the Grand Canyon, with Johnny Cash (André Kostelanetz and his Orchestra). Columbia Records. 33½ rpm record. CS-8422.
- Five movements of Ferde Grofé's Grand Canyon Suite plus "A Day in the Grand Canyon", a narration by Johnny Cash with sounds recorded from Grand Canyon (11:18). 42:42 total. [The reviewer Stanley Green (HiFi/Stereo Review, New York), 7(2) (August 1961): 81) critiques, "I haven't the slightest idea why Ferde Grofé's familiar war-mule, The Grand Canyon Suite, is now decked out with a new title . . ."; he further notes, "As the music does not cover the two sides of the LP, Columbia has filled up the remaining space with sound effects telling how a brave band of engineers were able to tape the local sonic embellishments right on the spot."]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lesure, Thomas R.

- 1751 1961 Grand Canyon in May. Desert Magazine, 24(5) (May): 31-32.

Tallon, James

- 1752 1961 "These are my favorites"; Arizona photographer James Tallon selects five photos as his best. Desert Magazine, 24(4) (April): 41-43.

See p. 43, photo of Ha-Da-Chaz-Zi, Navajo living near Cameron who once "watered his sheep at the foot of the Horse Thief Trail in the depths of the east-end of Grand Canyon"; and photo taken during a mule trip into Grand Canyon, when "a cloud came over the trail partly to increase the already brilliant sunlight colors, giving a sort of ethereal quality to this photo."

Walker, Robert H.

- 1753 1961 The poets interpret the western frontier. Mississippi Valley Historical Review, 47(4) (March): 619-635.

See p. 631: "As a sort of inverted mountain the Grand Canyon produced its share of rhapsodies . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1962

Anonymous

- 1754 1962 California—here we are! At the end of a scenic trail, warm and happy hospitality engulfs 23,742 attending Rotary's 53d Annual Convention. (Photos by Rick Bassett, Elliott McCleary, Herbert A. Pigman.) The Rotarian, 101(1) (July): 17-31, 52.

International Rotary convention report, including brief notes of visit to Grand Canyon (pp. 21, 52).

Boorstin, Daniel J.

- 1755 1962 The image : or what happened to the American dream. New York: Atheneum, 315 pp. [Numerous later printings and imprints, and in translation.]

See pp. 14-15, in notes on versimilitude when "vivid image [overshadows] pale reality" such as in motion picture films. "The Grand Canyon itself became a disappointing reproduction of the Kodachrome original." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1756 1962 Old trails in the Grand Canyon. Appalachia, 28(7): 45-64.

Clark, Leslie Savage

- 1757 1962 Grand Canyon in Winter. Arizona Highways, 38 (February/March): 58.

Francis, Devon

- 1758 1962 Testing the new four-banger: 10,000 miles in a Chevy II. Popular Science, 180(1) (January): 68-73, 212.

Includes visit to Grand Canyon; photo, p. 71.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jeanes, Charlotte, AND Muench, Joyce Rockwood

- 1759 1962 Grand Canyon hike. (Leo Fay, educational consultant.) Chicago: Follett Publishing Co., 32 pp. (Copyright David-Stewart Publishing Co.) ("A nature adventure book from Arizona Highways Magazine.")

Lesure, Thomas R.

- 1760 1962 Grand adventure at Grand Canyon. Points West, 4 (June): 56-60.

Marconi, Degna

- 1761 1962 My father, Marconi. New York, Toronto, and London: McGraw Hill Book Co., Inc., 320 [321] pp. The author is the first daughter of Guglielmo Marconi. See p. 295: "From the Grand Canyon, Father mailed me a snapshot of himself looking very jaunty and wrote that a gang of cowboys had whooped it up for them." (ENTIRE NOTE) Photo not illustrated (but see also Maria Cristina Marconi, 2001). (Marconi visited the canyon in 1933.)

Wallace, William Swilling

- 1762 1961 (ED.) Lieutenants Pershing and Stotsenberg visit the Grand Canyon: 1887. Arizona and the West, 3(3): 265-284. From John Miller Stotsenberg manuscript.

1963

Chemi, James M.

- 1763 1963 Carrying the mail to Supai. (Photographs by Debs Metzson, drawings by John W. Hampson.) Arizona Highways, 39(7) (July): 41-43.

From the perspective of mail carriers Foster and Guy Marshall, father and son.

Gerdts, William H.

- 1764 1963 Thomas Moran, 1837-1926. Riverside, California: University of California. Exhibition catalogue.

Griffith, Elizabeth

- 1765 1963 Adventure in Havasu. Arizona Highways, 39(7) (July): cover, inside front cover, 8-43, 48, inside back cover, back cover.

Lawrence, Jane

- 1766 1963 Vacating "West of the Mississippi". News Letter (Ravenna Ordnance Plant [Ravenna Arsenal, Inc.], Ravenna, Ohio), 17(7) (July): 7.

Notes having gone to Grand Canyon, "one of the most spectacular sights of all": "We had to see more, and a 6½-hour mule ride down into the Canyon gave us a closer view of the beautiful green Colorado River and was one of the highlights of our stay at Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lightbourne, J. H., Jr.

- 1767 1963 Across our country with the Lightbournes. The Christian Sun (United Church of Christ, Southern Convention of Congregational Christian Churches, Asheboro, North Carolina), 115(35) (September 3): 16.

Includes brief note of visit to Grand Canyon.

Smythe, Donald

- 1768 1963 "Never have I witnessed a sight so marvelous"; "Black Jack" Pershing's brilliant career almost ended in an attempt to view Arizona's awesome Grand Canyon in 1889. Montana (The Magazine of Western History) (Historical Society of Montana, Helena), 13(2): 11-23.

Werrenrath, Reinhold

- 1769 1963 A boy's trip into the Grand Canyon. Evanston, Illinois: Journal Films, Inc. 16-mm film, 1/2- or 3/4-inch video tape. 15:00.

1964

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1770 1964 Backpacking Grand Canyon trails. Summit, 10 (June): 12-15, 18.

Davis, Jan

- 1771 1964 Dutton Cave—Grand Canyon. The Netherworld News (National Speleological Society, Pittsburgh Grotto), 12(9) (September): cover, 118, 119-123; (10) (October): 135-138.

Dutton Spring, Deer Creek. Part II gives title as "Dutton Cave; Grand Canyon, Arizona".

Fletcher, Colin

- 1772 1964 Backpacking the Grand Canyon. Field and Stream, 68 (March): 33-37, 126, 147, 149, 151, 153, 155.

Hagman, Christina

- 1773 1964 Across America on holiday. American Swedish Historical Foundation, Yearbook 1964, pp. 86-91. Student from Sweden. Grand Canyon, see pp. 89-90.

Hastings, Charlotte

- 1774 1964 American Journey—9. The Grand Canyon and the "Queen of Valleys". Our Times (A family journal of Christian living) (Watford, Hertfordshire, England), 80 (September): 16-17, 25.

Grand Canyon and Yosemite. Inspirational messages only.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Käß, Werner [Käss, Werner]

- 1775 1964 Gewaltiger Grand Canyon; eine Wanderung durch die größte Schlucht der Welt. Die Natur, 72(5): 173-180. [In German.]
(transl. 'Mighty Grand Canyon; a hike through the largest gorge in the world')

Tallon, James

- 1776 1964 The BIG hike. Arizona Days and Ways, (August 16): 7-8, 10-11.

1965

Anderson, E. J.

- 1777 1965 Anybody for Havasupai? Pacific Union Recorder (Seventh-day Adventists, Pacific Union Conference, Angwin, California), 65(2) (July 26): 4.

Report on four-day hiking trip in "Havasupai Canyon" (Havasupai Canyon).

Beagle, Peter S.

- 1778 1965 I see by my outfit. New York: Viking Press, 249 pp. [Dust jacket adds subtitle, Cross-country by scooter: an adventure.]

Includes visit to Grand Canyon.

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1779 1965 The Lower Gorge of the Little Colorado. Arizona Highways, 41(9) (September): 34-42.

Explorations.

- 1780 1965 Wotan's Throne. Summit, 11 (September): 8-11.

Explorations.

Cushing, Frank Hamilton

- 1781 1965 The Nation of the Willows. (Foreword by Robert C. Euler.) Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 75 pp. [Also a special ed. of 200 numbered copies, signed by Euler; some slipcased, some in dust jacket.]

Reprinting in book form of the serialized article by Cushing (1882). Regarding the Havasupai, but includes descriptive accounts of Grand Canyon (for which see the annotations under 1882).

Fischler, Stan, AND the Huskies

- 1782 1965 Operation Husky; three Boy Scout troops bus-hopped North America on a tour no one will ever forget! Boys' Life, 55(8) (August): 20-21, 51.

Boy Scout Troops 363 (Lexington, Kentucky), 263 (Winchester, Kentucky), 363 (Raleigh, North Carolina) [troop numbers thus]. See p. 51, hiker-rescue experience at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gilruth, Robert R.

- 1783 1965 The making of an astronaut. National Geographic, 127(1) (January): 122-144.
Grand Canyon, see pp. 126-127, 144.

Haapasalo, Sinikka

- 1784 1965 Opintomatkalla Yhdysvalloissa. Kuurojen Lehti / Tidskrift för Döva (Suomen Kuurojen Litto/Finlands Dövas Förbund, Helsinki), 70(2): 10-11. [In Finnish, with serial title and publisher's information in Finnish and Swedish.]
(transl. 'On a study trip to the United States')

The author, a teacher at a school for the deaf, reports on his visits to schools in the United States. Included are remarks on his visit to the Grand Canyon, which, even though he does not mention the deaf in that context, this item is noted for its communication through the (translated) "Finnish Deaf Magazine", in Swedish the "Journal for the Deaf").

Heald, Weldon F.

- 1785 1965 Thomas Moran: Painter of grandeur. Montana (The Magazine of Western History) (Historical Society of Montana, Helena), 15(4) (October): 42-53.

Hochderffer, George

- 1786 1965 Flagstaff whoa! The autobiography of a western pioneer. Flagstaff, Arizona: Museum of Northern Arizona, 171 pp.
Grand Canyon trip in 1893 mentioned; see pp. 124-125.

Kleihauer, Aylsworth

- 1787 1965 Last man on a mule train. Westways, 57(10, Part 1): 22-24.

Schweden, Willy

- 1788 1965 Grand Canyon melodie+1. [Germany]: Misikart. Ariola. [Record.]

Scott, John M.

- 1789 1965 The grand adventure. Arizona Highways, 41(4) (April): 36-39.
A hike down Bright Angel Trail to the Colorado River.

1966

Gay, Ernest

- 1790 1966 The grand Grand Canyon; scouts take the path to the bottom of the past. Boys' Life, 66(12) (December): 30-31, 62-63.
Hike into Havasu Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hunting, Charles F.

- 1791 1966 On-the-spot broadcasts. The Good News (Radio Church of God, Pasadena, California), 15(9) (September): 11-13.

See p. 11: "The first World Tomorrow on-the-spot broadcast was pioneered by Mr. Herbert W. Armstrong many years ago when he made a broadcast at the rim of the Grand Canyon with the wind whistling into the microphone." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Ito, Yacco

- 1792 1966 Such a friendly country. Schwyz, Switzerland: Sumax Private Publications.
Diary of a Japanese girl visiting America. See pp. 19-21, 174.

Lancaster, Justine

- 1793 1966 Crossing Grand Canyon by foot. Desert Magazine, 29(8/9) (August/September): 50.

Murtin, L.

- 1794 1965 Le Grand Canyon. In: Pilotorama [SERIES]. Pilote (Paris), (286):. [\[In French.\]](#)

Smalley, George Herbert

- 1795 1966 My adventures in Arizona : leaves from a reporter's notebook. (Yndia Smalley Moore, ed.) Tucson: Arizona Pioneers' Historical Society, 147 pp.

Verkamp's [firm]

- 1796 1966 Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Verkamp's, [12] pp.; copyright Curt Teich and Co., Inc., Chicago.

1967

Bell, Louise Price

- 1797 1967 Jogging down into the Grand Canyon. Redbook, 130 (November): 42.

Leatham, Nyle

- 1798 1966 The flight down into Grand Canyon. Arizona Days and Ways, (May 1): 52-55.

Grand Canyon Airlines tourist flight in a single-engine Piper Cherokee. Notes flight a few hundred feet above the Colorado River.

Rees, Mal

- 1799 1967 [Correspondence.] From: McVay, Scott, 55. In: Class Notes [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 67(22) (April 18): 32.

In part, briefly recalls a 1966 mule trip in Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1968

Aims Media, Inc.

- 1800 1968 Music experiences : Grand Canyon Suite. Van Nuys, California: Aims Media, Inc. ¾-inch video. 15:00.

Excerpts from Ferde Grofé's "Grand Canyon Suite".

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1801 1968 Routes into Grand Canyon's remote upper corner. Summit, 14(2): 22-28. Explorations.

Casanova, Frank E.

- 1802 1968 (ED.) General Crook visits the Supais; as reported by John G. Bourke. Arizona and the West, 10(3) (Autumn): 253-276, plates.

Erwin, J. R.

- 1803 1968 My ordeal in the Grand Canyon. Arizona Sheriff, 22(2): 29-39. Climb out of canyon below Peach Springs.

Fallon, Berlie J.

- 1804 1968 Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 44(6) (June): 1.

Fletcher, Colin

- 1805 1968 The man who walked through time. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 239 [242] pp., map. [First printing; copyright 1967, dust jacket front leaf indicates "1/68".] [Fold-out map, "Grand Canyon National Park", following p. [242], depicts "Colin Fletcher's Route". "Map by Evelyn Bingham".] [Paperback reprinting Vintage Books (New York, 1972), numerous reprintings; translation in German from Diana Verlag (München und Zürich, 2000).]

The classic below-the-rim through hike.

Ganci, Dave

- 1806 1968 Cool Tanner and the Supai superhike. Arizona, (August 4): 44-47.

Widdison, Jerold G.

- 1807 1968 Premier artist of Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 44(6) (June): 4-9. William H. Holmes.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1969

Anonymous

- 1808 1969 Irvine Branch news. Off-The-Cuff (Prudential Overall Supply), 11(1) (December): 11, 15.
Includes a note on Perry Grant and a route salesmen hiking to the "Havasupai Indian Village" (Supai).

Belknap, Bill, AND Belknap, Frances Spencer

- 1809 1969 Gunnar Widforss : painter of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, for Museum of Northern Arizona, 86 pp. [Also a limited ed. of 100 copies in slipcase with sketch of Widforss by George L. Collins laid in.]

Bryan, Alfred

- 1810 1969 Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 45(3) (March): 1.
Reprinting Bryan (1921).

Fausett, Dean

- 1811 NO DATE Paintings of the great American Southwest : in commemoration of Major John Wesley Powell and the 100th anniversary of his exploration of the Green and Colorado Rivers. Salt Lake City: Terracor, folded pamphlet [6 pp.]. [1969.]
"Paintings commissioned by Terracor, a Utah corporation".

Ganci, Dave

- 1812 1969 The conquest of Mt. Sinyala. Arizona, (July 20): 30-35.
Rock climbing.

McNeice, Renwick

- 1813 1969 [Early travel to Grand Canyon.] From: Wuerth, Gustav C., '07. In: Class Notes [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 70(5) (October 21): 22.
Wuerth quotes reminiscences of McNeice, regarding a trip to the North Rim of Grand Canyon by wagon in 1912 (in passing) and in 1914 a one-month trip by horseback that culminated descending Bright Angel Trail to the Colorado River.

Peterson, Tom

- 1814 1969 The first conquest of the Grand Canyon by automobile. Horseless Carriage Gazette, 31(2) (March/April): 20-23.
Compiled from stories in Los Angeles Herald, February 2, 1902; Coconino Sun (Flagstaff), February 8, 1902; Motor Life, January, 1925; Progressive Arizona, October, 1925.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Stegner, Wallace

- 1815 1969 The sound of mountain water : the changing American West. New York: Doubleday and Co., Inc., 286 pp. [Also reprintings including Vintage Books (New York, 2017).]

See "Packhorse Paradise", about Havasu Canyon.

Wysong, Peggy

- 1816 1969 No mountain too big for his brush. Arizonian (Scottsdale), 17(23) (August 14): cover, 11, 26. Gunnar Widforss.

1970

Bass, William G.

- 1817 NO DATE The Grand Canyon in poem and picture. Wickenburg, Arizona: William G. Bass, [20] pp. [Ca. 1970.]

Poems by the author's father, William Wallace Bass.

Fain, J.

- 1818 1970 Moods of the North Rim: Grand Canyon National Park. National Parks and Conservation Magazine, 44 (May): 4-7.

Garrison, Peter

- 1819 1970 Used-plane pilot report: the Beech Debonair. Flying, 87(3) (September): 61-68. Grand Canyon, p. 68.

Griffiths, Mel

- 1820 1970 A geologist's view of the Grand Canyon. Ford Times (Ford Motor Co.), (June): 24-27. General description; not geological.

Jost, Jon

- 1821 1970 Canyon. [United States]: Jon Jost. 16mm film. 6:00

An experimental short silent film produced as a compressed-time view of a day at the Grand Canyon. See also Jost, 2013; and see an interview with Jost, regarding the 1970 and 2013 films (Oter and Jost, 2014).

McFarland, Elizabeth

- 1822 1970 This is Grand Canyon. Phoenix: W. A. Krueger Co., 32 pp.

Sender, Ramón J.

- 1823 1970 Relatos fronterizos. México: Editores Mexicanos Unidos, S. A., 351 [352] pp. [Half-title page verso indicates: "Primera Edición, 1970.", "Printed in México Impreso en México".] [Paperbound (no

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

hardbound state identified). Printed on watermarked paper, image of a gazelle with text "Gacela VOID" (sic).] [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Border stories')

Memoir. See "En el Grand Canyon" (pp. 51-64). See also Sender (1972).

Thomas, B.

1824 1970 Grand Canyon by helicopter. Travel, 133 (June): 46-50.

1971

Heiniger, Ernst A.

1825 1971 Grand Canyon : Natur und Tierwelt in 157 Farbaufnahmen. Bern, Switzerland: Kümmerly and Frey Geographischer Verlag; and München, Bern, and Wien: BLV Verlagsgesellschaft, 236, [17] pp. (pagination continues through interleaved unpaginated leaves containing 157 photos), map with anaglyphoscope. [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon: Nature and wildlife in 157 color photographs')

With separately authored chapters. Red/green plastic-lensed cardboard anaglyphoscope accompanying the volume has printed on it: "KÜMMERLY & FREY—GRAND CANYON", with image of a thumb printed on right-hand side of the card. Also a card laid in, "Grand Canyon Bildlegenden" [legend], 10 × 29.5 cm, which is keyed to "Anaglyphenkarte des Grand Canyon; Massstab 1:62 500" (the map between pp. [124]/[125] that is to be viewed with anaglyphoscope producing a three-dimensional topographic image).

Heiniger, Jean

1826 1971 Ein Jahr am Grand Canyon. In: Heiniger, Ernst A., Grand Canyon : Natur und Tierwelt in 157 Farbaufnahmen. Bern, Switzerland: Kümmerly and Frey Geographischer Verlag; and München, Bern, and Wien: BLV Verlagsgesellschaft, pp. 213-236. [In German.]
(transl. 'A year at the Grand Canyon')

Henderson, Emery

1827 1971 The Grand Canyon rim to rim on a Morgan horse. Morgan Horse Magazine, 31(6) (July): cover, 6, 19-21.

Knyvett, Bill

1828 1971 The Grand Canyon by helicopter. Desert Magazine, 34(5) (May): 32-33.

Lightman, Herb A.

1829 1971 Filming in "Shangri-La". American Cinematographer, 52(11): cover, 1085, 1110-1114.

McWhirter, William A.

1830 1971 An American family arrives in Paris. Life, 70(24) (June 25): 59-62, 64.
See p. 64, reference to "the solitude" at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Meares, Bill

- 1831 1971 Grand Canyon checkride. Western Gateways, 11 (Summer): 6-7.
Author flies with pilot Fred Maurer in a Hughes 500 helicopter to provide Maurer's "annual standardization checkride on the 'Havasupai' scenic flight route" over Grand Canyon.

Moore, L.

- 1832 1971 Concert in the Canyon. Phoenix Magazine, 6 (May): 29-31.
Concert for Havasupai children, Havasu Canyon.

Ogburn, Charlton

- 1833 1971 The continent in our hands. New York: William Morrow and Co., Inc., 314 pp.
Travelogue. Grand Canyon, see pp. 109-117.

Scott, Derek

- 1834 1971 "All the best camera angles were in five feet of water." American Cinematographer, 52(11): 1122-1125, 1150, 1166-1167, 1174.
Filming in Havasu Canyon.

Wibberley, Leonard

- 1835 1971 Voyage by bus : seeing America by land yacht. New York: William Morrow and Co., Inc., 186 pp.
Includes Grand Canyon.

1972

Atkinson, Brooks

- 1836 1972 This bright land : a personal view. Garden City, New York: Doubleday/Natural History Press, for American Museum of Natural History, 201 pp.
See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 142-163.

Barnes, Dolores

- 1837 1972 Vacation/rockhounding through a 5-year-old kid's eyes. Petrograph (Mineral and Gem Society of Castro Valley, Castro Valley, California), 16(11) (November): 25-26.
Includes notes of Grand Canyon and a flight over the canyon.

Bergen, Candice

- 1838 1972 "I thought they might hiss". Life, 72(15) (April 21): 90.
A postscript to "Love Feast for Charlie" by Richard Meryman, photographed by Candice Bergen, pp. 86-89. Regarding a Charlie Chaplin fete in New York. Bergen's item includes note of Chaplin, during flight to Los Angeles to the Academy Awards, crossing to the opposite side of the airplane to view the Grand Canyon: "His face lit up. 'Oh yes, this is the place where Doug Fairbanks did a handstand on the precipice. He told me about it.'" (ENTIRE NOTE) Refer also to items in this bibliography by Douglas Fairbanks and in remarks in other citations.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bullard, Jean

- 1839 1972 San Juan; our Spanish heritage. NPS Newsletter (U.S. National Park Service), 7(8) (May 1): 1-3.
San Juan National Historical Site, Puerto Rico. See p. 3: "'Grand Canyon is the most wonderful place in the world,—so quiet, so peaceful,' says Park Technician Armando Muñiz. 'You see I grew up on a very crowded island.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Dominis, John

- 1840 1972 Flip hits the road; on vacation, TV's most popular comedian roams the country in a Rolls Royce named Killer. Life, 73(5) (August 4): cover, 38-44. [Cover title: "On the Road with Flip Wilson".]
Includes Grand Canyon.

Hedeman, John

- 1841 1972 72. In: Class Notes [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 73(2) (October 3): 46.
Notice, with photograph, of chance meeting at Grand Canyon of Paul Sinsar, Owen Curtiss, Lowell Miller, and Harry Kolb.

Hughes, Ted

- 1842 1972 Crow : from the life and songs of the crow. London: Faber and Faber, 94 pp.
See "A Bedtime Story".

Wofford, Philip

- 1843 1972 Grand Canyon Search Ceremony. New York: Barlenmir House, [unpaginated].
Poems, including Grand Canyon.

Yevtushenko, Yevgeny

- 1844 1972 Who are you, Grand Canyon? The New York Times, (May 7): Section 10, p. 1.
Poem.

1973

Albran, Kehlog [pseudonym] [Cohen, Martin A., AND Shacket, Sheldon]

- 1845 1973 The Profit. Los Angeles: Price/Stern/Sloan Publishers, Inc., 93 [96] pp. [Cover adds: "Albran's Serial Illustrated by the author with twelve mystical, hard-to-understand drawings". Cover also includes a "Peel Off Sticker" (that is not peel-off) which reads, "Note: This is not 'The Prophet' by Kahlil Gibran . . . it is also not 'Portnoy's Complaint'" (ellipsis is part of quote).]
See p. 86: "Even the tallest man on earth cannot walk through the Grand Canyon without feeling conspicuous." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Babbitt, Bruce E.

- 1846 1973 Color and light: The Southwest canvases of Louis Akin. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 76 pp. [1,750 copies. Also a specially bound ed. of 50, signed.] [First paperbound printing, 1988.]

Berger, Bruce

- 1847 1973 Reaching Rider Canyon. Western Review, 10(1) (Spring): 60.

Burkhart, C. J.

- 1848 1973 Christmas in the Grand Canyon. Travel, 140 (December): 58-63.

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1849 1973 Grand Canyon's Enfilade Point route. Summit, 19(5): 18-21.

[Cole, Don]

- 1850 1973 Don Cole and his camera pay a visit to Supai Canyon. Mohave Magazine, 2 (April 5): 31+.

Dedera, Don

- 1851 1973 Man and mule at the Golly Gulch. Outdoor Arizona, 45 (April): 13.

Garrigue, Jean

- 1852 1973 Studies for an actress and other poems. New York: Macmillan, 85 pp.
See "The Grand Canyon".

Gast, David K.

- 1853 1973 Motoring to the bottom of the Grand Canyon in 1914. Horseless Carriage Gazette, 35(2) (March/April): 44-49.

Recounts the trip taken by a Metz Speedster automobile to South Rim and down Peach Springs Canyon to Diamond Creek and the Colorado River. Includes (pp. 45-47) the entire text of O. K. Parker's publication about the drive down Peach Spring Canyon (see Parker under "Date Undetermined" herein, and Parker under "1914" herein).

Gillette, Bill

- 1854 1973 Grand Canyon in winter. Ford Times (Ford Motor Co.), (December): 24-28.

Heiniger, Ernst A.

- 1855 1973 Grand Canyon du Colorado : suite pour nature et faune en 157 images. (Pierre Champendal, translator.) Paris: Elsevier Séquoia, 244 [285] pp. (pagination continues through interleaved unpaginated leaves containing 157 photos), map with anaglyphoscope. [In French, translated from German.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(transl. 'Grand Canyon of the Colorado: nature and wildlife suite in 157 images')

Translation of Heiniger (1971); includes separately authored chapters. Red/green plastic-lensed cardboard anaglyphoscope accompanying the volume has printed on it: "KÜMMERLY & FREY—GRAND CANYON", with image of a thumb printed on right-hand side of the card.

Heiniger, Jeanne [Heiniger, Jean]

- 1856 1973 Un an au Grand Canyon. In: Heiniger, Ernst A., Grand Canyon du Colorado : suite pour nature et faune en 157 images. (Pierre Champendal, translator.) Paris: Elsevier Séquoia, pp. 221-268. [In French, translated from German.]
(transl. 'A year at the Grand Canyon')

Honan, William H.

- 1857 1973 They don't sell flight insurance at the Grand Canyon Heliport. Saturday Review of the Society, (April): 24, 26.

Murphy, Terrence

- 1858 1973 [Introduction.] In: An 1883 expedition to the Grand Canyon; pioneer photographer Ben Wittick views the marvels of the Colorado; as told by Tom Wittick with an introduction by Terrence Murphy. American West, 10(2) (March): 38-39.

Price, Edna Calkins

- 1859 1973 Burro Bill and me : Death Valley to Grand Canyon by burro via Arizona Strip. Idyllwild, California: Strawberry Valley Press, 275 pp.

See also Price (1993, 2004).

Sender, Ramón J.

- 1860 1972 Relatos fronterizos. Barcelona: Ediciones Destino, 2nd ed., 334 [335] pp. (Colección Áncora y Delphín, Volumen 390.) [Title-page verso indicates: "Primera edición: Editores Mexicanos Unidos, S. A., México, 1970", "Segunda edición: Ediciones Destino, Setiembre, 1972", "Impreso en España—Printed in Spain".] [Reset. Hardbound with paper dust jacket.] [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Border stories')

Memoir. See "En el Grand Canyon" (pp. 49-62). (For 1st ed. see Sender, 1970.)

Wittick, Tom

- 1861 1973 An 1883 expedition to the Grand Canyon; pioneer photographer Ben Wittick views the marvels of the Colorado; as told by Tom Wittick with an introduction by Terrence Murphy. American West, 10(2) (March): 38-47.

1974

Anonymous

- 1862 1974 Hance's register. Grand Canyon Sama, 1(3) (May 12-26): 4.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Goodman, Paul

- 1863 1974 Collected poems. (Taylor Stoehr, ed.) New York: Random House, 465 pp. (Copyright 1973.)
See "At the rim of the Canyon."

Ilif, Ilia, AND Petrov, Eugene [Il'f, Il'ia, AND Petrov, Evgenii]

- 1864 1974 Little golden America : two famous Soviet humorists survey these United States. New York: Arno Press, 387 pp.
Reprint of the Farrar and Rinehart ed. (1937). Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

Mahood, Ruth I.

- 1865 1974 (ED.) Photographer of the Southwest : Adam Clark Vroman, 1856-1916. Los Angeles: Ward Ritchie Press, 127 pp.

Nelson, Carlyle LaMar

- 1866 1974 Flying the tunnel; "underground" in the Grand Canyon. Journal of Arizona History, 15(4) (Winter): 319-324.
The author piloted Western Air Express Flight 2 (Los Angeles to Albuquerque), January 12, 1930, in a Fokker F-10 aircraft, encountering blizzard conditions in northern Arizona. A white-knuckle series of events with notes of historical interest, with the flight eventually forced into and west through the Grand Canyon in order to return to Kingman.

Schwartz, Douglas W.

- 1867 1974 In search of Grand Canyon's past (Douglas W. Schwartz, director; National Geographic Society, producer). Color film. 35:00.
Archaeology. In 1974 available from Douglas W. Schwartz, School of American Research, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

1975

Grofé, Ferde

- 1868 1975 Grand Canyon Suite : piano solo. Washington, D.C.: National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, Ford Dodge, Iowa, transcribing agency), 79 pp. [Score.]
Braille. Bar over bar format. Reproduced from Robbins Music Corp., New York, no date.

Hall, Sharlot M.

- 1869 1975 Sharlot Hall on the Arizona Strip : a diary of a journey through northern Arizona in 1911. (C. Gregory Crampton, ed.) Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 97 [98] pp. [1st paperbound printing in 1988.]
Diary is a reprinting of Hall's (1911) serialized account. Includes Grand Canyon North Rim.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Heiniger, Ernst A.

- 1870 1975 Grand Canyon. (Ewald Osers, translator.) Washington, D.C., and New York: Robert C. Luce Co., Inc., 240 pp. (pagination continues through interleaved unpaginated leaves containing 157 photos), map with anaglyphoscope. [In English, translated from German.]

Translation of Heiniger (1971); includes separately authored chapters. Red/green plastic-lensed cardboard anaglyphoscope accompanying the volume has printed on it: "KÜMMERLY & FREY—GRAND CANYON", with image of a thumb printed on right-hand side of the card.

Heiniger, Jean

- 1871 1975 A year at the Grand Canyon. (Ewald Osers, translator.) In: Heiniger, Ernst A., Grand Canyon. Washington, D.C., and New York: Robert B. Luce Co., Inc., pp. 217-239. [In English, translated from German.]

Masato, Araki [荒木真寿男]

- 1872 1975 グランドキャニオン [Gurandokyanion] [Grand Canyon]. 長崎県地学会誌 第 [Nagasaki ken-chi gakkaiishi dai] [Nagasaki Prefectural Geographical Society, Journal], (24): 29-33. [In Japanese.]

A general article of an air tour to Grand Canyon South Rim from Las Vegas, with a focus on geology.

McLaughlin, Wayne, AND Sussman, Gerald

- 1873 1975 The Grand Canyon. National Lampoon, 1(67) (October): 49-51.

Parody. Includes illustrations appearing as like sepia-toned photographs that portray the building of Grand Canyon by Chinese "coolie" laborers during the Great Depression. See also Goetzmann and Goetzmann (2009).

Pattee, C. R.

- 1874 1975 Flagstaff and the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona Pioneers' Society, 11 pp. + advertisements.

Facsimile reprint of an advertising booklet, "Flagstaff.... the gateway to the..... Grand Cañon of the Colorado and other scenic and pre-historic attractions" [ellipses thus]; with the notation, "Facsimile of an article on Flagstaff, Arizona from the August 1897 edition of the Land of Sunshine Magazine", with explanation of photographs on last page. (See Pattee, 1897.)

Simpson, C.

- 1875 1975 Helicoptering in to Havasupai. Westward (Prescott Courier), 2: (October 10): 3-5+.

1976

Abeita, Jim; AND Tanner, Rick W.

- 1876 1976 The American Indians of Abeita : "his people" (book design and text by Rick W. Tanner; introduction by Joseph Stacey; special dedication and song by Johnny Cash). Scottsdale, Arizona: Rick Tanner Publications.

See paintings, "The Grand Canyon" and "Crisp, Cold Day at the Canyon".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Adams, Ansel

- 1877 1976 Photographs of the Southwest : selected photographs made from 1928 to 1968 in Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas and Utah, with a statement by the photographer, and An essay on the land, by L. C. Powell. Boston: New York Graphic Society, 128 pp. [1st printing.]

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 1878 1976 Summits below the rim; mountain climbing in the Grand Canyon. Journal of Arizona History, 17(1) (Spring): 21-38.

Fant, Glenn E.

- 1879 1976 Mon Dieu! Army (Association of the United States Army, Washington, D.C.), 26(2) (February): 44.
Briefly relates the visit of France's Marshal Ferdinand Foch to the Grand Canyon (in 1921), where he is reported to have remarked, "C'est magnifique, c'est beau, c'est formidable! What a lovely place in which to heave your mother-in-law!" (as supposedly quoted in Fant's article).

Fern, Thomas

- 1880 1976 (COMPILER) The drawings and watercolors of Thomas Moran (1837-1926). Notre Dame, Indiana: University of Notre Dame Press, 152 pp.

Gray, Robert

- 1881 1976 People of the Blue-Green Water; Arizona scouts and Havasupai Indian boys learned from each other on this Grand Canyon adventure. (Photographs by Gene Daniels.) Boys' Life, 66(11) (November): 4-5.

Four Boy Scouts from Arizona's Grand Canyon Council hike into Havasu Canyon.

Purcell, Roy E.

- 1882 1976 On the Banks of the Mother River. In: Paher, Stanley W., Colorado River ghost towns. Las Vegas: Nevada Publications (hardbound ed.), pp. [64]-[80]. [In the paperbound ed. this item appears as [16] pp. between pp. 24/25.

Art work and running verse, which includes Grand Canyon.

1977

Anonymous

- 1883 1977 A man who speaks his mind. National Park Service Newsletter, 12(2) (February): 6-7.

Don Hummel, long-time NPS-associated concession operator. "The Tucson native's first memory of a national park is a visit to Grand Canyon in his mid-teens. 'It took my breath away. I had to sit down.' He was hired as a seasonal park ranger at the Canyon in 1928 when he was not yet the mandatory 21. He'll now admit he wanted the job so badly that he added a few months to his age. [¶] He worked four seasons at the Canyon . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1884 1977 GSI-concessioner in D.C., California and Washington. National Park Service Newsletter, 12(4) (April): 4-5.

M. T. "Barney" Allen, president of not-for-profit Government Services, Inc. "One thing that never tires Birney is a visit to Grand Canyon National Park, which is his favorite in the System, an 'awesome sight that pictures and stories don't prepare one for.' Mr. Allen has viewed that magnificent pit more than 250 times." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 1885 1977 A history of the pilgrimage of the Chicago Commercial Club to centres of western commerce. Chicago: R. R. Donnelley and Sons Co., The Lakeside Press, 146 [148] pp. [Reprint of 1901 ed.]

See pp. 29-30, 47, 54-62, 75, 87.

Abbey, Edward

- 1886 1977 Desert solitaire : a season in the wilderness. New York: Ballantine Books, 303 pp.

Includes Grand Canyon and vicinity.

Butterfield, Bob

- 1887 1977 Grand Canyon stamps. Grand Canyon SAMA, 3(23) (January 30-February 13): 1.

Carr, Nick

- 1888 1977 Incident at the Grand Canyon. Xenophile, (30) (March): 131-132, 19 [page sequence thus].

Field investigation of the plausibility of an incident that took place in a fictional story. The incident in question appeared in "The Seige That Brought the Black Death", Operator #5 (March/April 1938), by Curtis Steele (pseudonym of Emile C. Tepperman). Note from Xenophile (p. 131): "Editor's Note: In order to better understand the following article, the reader is referred to 'The Purple Invasion' stories, a series of related novels unique in the pulps, which appeared in Operator #5 between 1936 and 1938, and to America's Secret Service Ace, a booklet by Mr. Carr, published by Pulp Press." (For citations of source material see in [THE GRAND CANON Volume 1, Part 7 \(Fiction\), under Steele 1938, 1999.)]

Crapsey, Adelaide

- 1889 1977 The complete poems and collected letters of Adelaide Crapsey. (Susan Sutton Smith, ed.) Albany, New York: State University of New York Press, 288 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon" (Crapsey, 1915).

Fred Harvey [firm]

- 1890 1977 Hotel El Tovar historical review : Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: Fred Harvey, Inc. [Reprinted from March 16, 1914 printing.]

Futehally, Rabia

- 1891 1977 India 99s visit USA. The 99 News (The Ninety-Nines, Inc., International Organization of Women Pilots, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma), 4(1) (January/February): 10-11.

Includes brief remarks on an air visit to Grand Canyon and "a wonderful Copter trip into the Canyon" (pp. 10-11).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hamilton, Margo

1892 1977 Canyon fever. American Home, 80 (April): 40-41.

Kasindorf, Martin

1893 1977 The Grand Canyon high. Newsweek, 90 (July 18) ("Life Outdoors" issue): 59-60.
South Rim hiking.

Kemsley, William, Jr.

1894 1977 Wildlife country : how to enjoy it. Washington, D.C.: National Wildlife Federation, 208 pp.
See "A Family Backpack in the Grand Canyon".

Littlejohn, Pat

1895 1977 Grand Canyon climb. Mountain, 56: _____. [Also reprinted; see Littlejohn (1978).]

Matsuda, Yoshiteru [松田義輝]

1896 1977 アメリカ旅行の思い出 [Amerika ryokō no omoide] [Memories of traveling to the United States]. 生産と技術 (生産技術振興協会, 大阪大学生産技術研究会 編) [Seisan to gijutsu (seisan gijutsu shinkō kyōka, Ōsakadaigaku seisan gijutsu kenkyūkai-heni)] [Manufacturing and Technology (Manufacturing Technology Promotion Association, Osaka University Production Technology Study Group)], 29(2) (April): 20-30. [In Japanese.]

Includes note of Grand Canyon.

Matthews, John

1897 1977 The Grand Canyon caper. Arizona Highways, 53(8) (August): 36-41.

First automobile to the Canyon.

1898 1977 The automobilist and the Canyon. Frontier Times, 51(6) (October/November) (New Series, 110): 7-9, 54-55.

Munson, Carl A.

1899 1977 Grand Canyon venture. Lynwood, Washington: CAM Projects, 16 pp.

Neal, Saralie E. Martin

1900 1977 Romance and realism—the Grand Canyon painters between 1874-1920: Thomas Moran, William Robinson Leigh, and Fernand H. Lungren. Master's thesis, University of Arizona, 280 pp.

Plotkin, Howard

1901 1978 Edward Charles Pickering's diary of a trip to Pasadena to attend meeting of Solar Union, August 1910. Southern California Quarterly, 60(1) (Spring): 29-44.

Includes a visit by the astronomer to Grand Canyon en route to meeting, pp. 33-34.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Stiles, E.

- 1902 1977 Eight days in the Grand Canyon: a diary. Olé (Tucson Daily Citizen), (June 4): 6-8.

Wahleen, Eric

- 1903 1977 Memoirs from the open road; 11,000 miles and 25 states in 1932. AMA News (American Motorcyclist Association), 31(8) (August): 14-16.

1978

Anonymous

- 1904 1978 Bowen reminisces. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 1(8) (June): 11.

William L. (Bill) Bowen reminisced of his new job as as ranger in Grand Canyon National Monument. Recalled Charlie McCormick, a permittee on the monument; and another incident where he was relieved of his horses near Butch Cassidy's Robbers' Roost.

Abbey, Edward

- 1905 1978 Havasu. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 231-239.

From Abbey (1968), Desert Solitaire.

Chanin, Abe, [AND Kolb, Emery C.]

- 1906 1978 The Grand Canyon—my religion. In: Special Grand Canyon Edition. Arizona Highways, 54(11) (November): 2-5.

The last interview given by Kolb, 1976.

Cobb, Irvin S.

- 1907 1978 A pilgrim canonized. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 93-100.

From Cobb (1914, Roughing it de luxe).

Dedera, Don

- 1908 1978 Mine eyes have seen the glory. In: Special Grand Canyon Edition. Arizona Highways, 54(11) (November): 14-37.

Dutton, Clarence Edward

- 1909 1978 The panorama from Point Sublime. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 61-75.

Excerpt from Dutton (1882, U.S. Geological Survey, Monograph 2) (cited in Part I of this bibliography).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Erickson, Margaret Mellor

1910 1978 Hiking the Grand Canyon. Redbook, 150 (February): 80.

Ganci, Dave

1911 1978 Zoroaster at midnight. In: Special Grand Canyon Edition. Arizona Highways, 54(11) (November): cover, 1, 6-13.

Rock climbing.

Harris, Al

1912 NO DATE Doin' the Canyon hustle. Bush League, [premiere issue]: 8-16. [1978.]

Jennes, Gail

1913 1978 Barbara and Bradford Washburn put the Grand Canyon on the map and fill a cartographic hole. People, 10(6) (August 7): 40-42.

Kemsley, William, Jr.

1914 1978 A family backpack in the Grand Canyon. Backpacker, 6(1) (February) (25): cover, 2, 37-42, 74-78.
From Kemsley (1977).

Littlejohn, Pat

1915 1978 Grand Canyon climb. In: Wilson, Ken (ed.), The games climbers play. London: Diadem Books, Ltd., pp. 568-577. [Volume also published by Sierra Club Books (San Francisco, 1980).

From Littlejohn (1977).

Long, Haniel

1916 1978 When we peer into the colored canyon. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 125-126.

From Long (1950).

1917 1978 The Canyon. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 127-130.

From Long (1941).

McFarland, Elizabeth

1918 1978 Grand Canyon viewpoints. Phoenix: W. A. Krueger Co., 64 pp.

Mizell, Mary

1919 1978 The view from the top was grand, but the climb out of the canyon nearly floored the Tempe tykes. (Photography by Jim McHugh/Sygma.) People, 9 (June 5): 72-74.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Moran, Thomas

- 1920 1978 Thomas Moran : the Grand Canyon sketches. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, portfolio of 11 loose leaves. (Designed by Christina Watkins. Lithographed by Tewell's Printing and Lithography, Denver, Colorado.)
- 10 sketches and text, 11¾ × 16 inches in embossed ornamental folder (12 × 16¼ inches). First leaf is an introduction by T. J. Priehs; remaining leaves are duotone reproductions of previously unpublished sketches by Moran, from the collection of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, St. Louis, Missouri. 5,000 sets produced.

Moran, Thomas, AND Dutton, Clarence Edward

- 1921 NO DATE Thomas Moran at Grand Canyon : words by Captain Clarence Dutton. A folio of engraving reproductions by artist Moran. Suitable for framing. Toquerville, Utah: Third Mesa Publishing, 13 leaves (loose), offset on single sheets (6 views of engravings, 6 texts, and introductory page); in illustrated paper envelope. [1978.]
- Cited title is from the envelope. Publisher's imprint is from an adhesive sticker at bottom of envelope verso. Leaf sets: "Thomas Moran" [introduction]; "De Motte Park"; "Marble Cañon"; "An Amphitheater Second Order Of Magnitude"; "Kanab Cañon"; "The Toroweap"; "Witches' Water Pocket". Illustration on paper envelope is the "De Motte Park" engraving. (The set that was seen was purchased new at Grand Canyon, 1995.)

Patrick, Darryl

- 1922 1978 The iconographic significance of selected western subjects painted by Thomas Moran. Doctoral dissertation, North Texas State University.

Priestley, J. B. [Priestley, John Boynton]

- 1923 1978 Midnight on the desert. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 101-111.
- Abridged from Priestley (1937).

Rhodes, Chuck

- 1924 1978 To become an eagle; flying into the Grand Canyon. Hang Gliding, (September): 42-46.

1979

Anonymous

- 1925 1979 A classical suite for a Grand Canyon. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 2(14) (December): 7.
- Concert pianist Marden Abadi performs an unpublicized recital on rim of Grand Canyon.

Abbey, Edward

- 1926 1979 Abbey's road. New York: E. P. Dutton, 198 pp.
- See Chapter 18, Fire lookout, pp. 176-180; Chapter 19, The sorrows of travel, pp. 181-190; Coda, Cape Solitude, pp. 191-198.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Chapin, Brenda

- 1927 1979 John Segeren: master woodcarver of U.S.A. In: Alumni News and Notes [SECTION]. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 2(13) (November): 18-19.

Includes note (p. 18): "Segeren has worked for the Park Service for 22 years. During that time he has helped develop many a park's personality through unique and impressive artwork. Whether it be massive doors carved for Grand Canyon . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE) Grand Canyon work not otherwise identified.

Mahaffey, Merrill

- 1928 1979 Monumental landscapes. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 58 pp.

Moloney, M. F.

- 1929 1979 Grand Canyon. In: Foster, Jack, The sound of silence. Arizona Highways, 55(6) (June): 15.

Nash, Roderick, AND Blaustein, John

- 1930 1979 The biggest drop. Mariah/Outside, 4(1): 99-101, 104, 106, 110.

Porter, Eliot

- 1931 1979 Intimate Landscapes : photographs by Eliot Porter. (Afterword by Weston J. Naef.) New York: The Metropolitan Museum of Art, and E. P. Dutton, 144 pp.

Exhibition catalog. See color photographs: "Plate 28; Edge of the Colorado River at mile 16. Above House Rock Canyon, Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. September 13, 1967", and "Plate 29; Edge of the Colorado River at mile 122. Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. June 22, 1967".

Simpson, Elizabeth J.

- 1932 NO DATE Recollections of Phantom Ranch. (Photographed by Huey, George.) Grand Canyon Natural History Association, [22] pp. [including wraps]. [1979.] [Reprinted, with format change, 1979, [24] pp.]

Stegner, Wallace

- 1933 1978 Packhorse paradise. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 113-123.

About Havasu Canyon. From Stegner (1969).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Thomson, Barry

- 1934 1979 The enchanted light : images of the Grand Canyon. (Introduction by Steven Carothers.) [No place]: Grand Canyon National Park Lodges/Fred Harvey, Inc., 74 pp. (Copyright Museum of Northern Arizona Press and Fred Harvey Corp.)

1980

Anonymous

- 1935 1980 Grand Canyon National Park. In: Park Briefs [SECTION]. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 3(5) (April): 9.

"Former President Richard M. Nixon paid his first visit to the Grand Canyon since he was 15 years old. • • • Nixon and long-time friend Bebe Rebozo spent about 3 hours at the canyon with an entourage of six secret servicemen." Acting Park Superintendent Bruce Shaw escorted the group on its tour of the canyon, and said Nixon seemed "to be enjoying himself and gave autographs to everyone who asked."

- 1936 1980 International award to Bill Moyes. Skysailor (Australian Hang Gliding Association, Sydney University, New South Wales), (September): 4.

Citation presented to Moyes by Federation Aeronautique Internationale. The citation is quoted (in English), including the note, "His famous Grand Canyon flight was in July 1970 when he launched from the South Rim and flew nearly 5 miles." (ENTIRE NOTE) (Moyes landed near Phantom Ranch. An illegal flight, though the first to hang-glide in the canyon.)

Abbey, Edward

- 1937 1980 In the canyon. Outside, 5(1) (March): 27-36.

Annerino, John

- 1938 1980 The run of my life; a 170 mile run below the South Rim of the Grand Canyon. (Photos by Chris Keith and Dick Yetman.) Runner, 3(3) (December): 38-43.

Boody, Peter

- 1939 1980 Getting a grip on the Grand; treating tourists instead of patients is one way several Air Rescue pilots spend their days off. Flying, 107(3) (September): 100-101. [Sidebar in Boody and Steele (1980), see below.]

Boody, Peter, AND Steele, Randy

- 1940 1980 Arizona beat; a two-man highway patrol crew runs a regular race with death in the rural outback. Flying, 107(3) (September): 94-101.

Arizona Department of Public Safety air rescue unit based in Flagstaff. Includes a night medevac from Supai, Arizona.

Branff, Phyllis

- 1941 1980 Thomas Moran, 1837-1926 : a search for the scenic. Guild Hall Museum, 64 pp
Exhibition catalogue; exhibition November 29, 1980-January 25, 1981.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Check, William A.

- 1942 1980 The cover. American Medical Association, Journal, 244(7) (August 15): cover, 662.
Cover portrays "The Grand Canyon", 1921 oil on canvas painting by Elliott Daingerfield, in the collections of the North Carolina Museum of Art, Raleigh.

Clark, Carol C.

- 1943 1980 Thomas Moran : watercolors of the American West. Austin, Texas: University of Texas Press, 180 pp.

- 1944 1980 Thomas Moran's watercolors of the American West. American West, 17(2): 40-47.

Euler, Robert C., AND Tikalsky, Frank

- 1945 1980 (EDS.) The Grand Canyon up close and personal. [Dillon, Montana]: Western Montana College Foundation, 88 pp.

Grattan, Virginia L.

- 1946 1980 Mary Colter : builder upon the red earth. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 131 pp.

Hall, Jeffrey

- 1947 1980 From the Supai formation : for string orchestra. Hillsdale, New York: Mobart Music Publications, 19 pp. [Score.]

Horvitz, Eleanor F.

- 1948 1980 Marion L. Misch—An extraordinary woman. Rhode Island Jewish Historical Notes (Rhode Island Jewish Historical Association, Providence), 8(2) (November): 7-65.

See p. 16: "She also traveled extensively in the United States. 'Just picture this 150 pound plus woman on a little donkey teetering down the rim of the Grand Canyon—but she did it. She would not think of not doing it!' exclaimed Dorothy [her granddaughter]." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Johansson, Göran

- 1949 1980 Är ni trötta på orientering? Luta er då bakåt och läs om det stora landet i väster. I vår besökt av ingen mindre än allas vår egen Göran Johansson. Qvist-Knäckaren (MAIF orienternas, Motala AIF [Allmänna Idrottsförening Fotbollsklubb], Motala, Sweden), 3(4) (15): 3-4. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Are you tired of orienteering? Then lean back and read about the great country in the West in a visit by none other than our very own Göran Johansson.')

Correspondence from Johansson. Includes Grand Canyon.

Jones, Tim

- 1950 1980 From rim to rim on the Kaibab Trail. (Illustrated by Vivian Day.) Cobblestone, 1(6): 20-23.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kemsley, William, Jr.

1951 1980 Grand Canyon in winter. National Parks and Conservation Magazine, 54 (October): 16-18.

1952 1980 Step by step through the Grand Canyon. Sierra, 65 (January/February): 55-57.

Moll, Nigel

1953 1980 In a 404: Seeing the sights. In: Collins, Richard L., and Moll, Nigel, Cessna Titan task force; the 404 may be low on romance, but it can take on just about any job. Flying, 106(6) (June): 38.

Cessna 404 fleet used by Scenic Airlines for Grand Canyon air tours.

Ryan, Mary P.

1954 1980 The "good old days". Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 3(6) (May): 17.

Reminiscences of a former National Park Service concessioner at Grand Canyon.

Sellars, Robert

1955 1980 Andanzas por el Gran Cañon. (Documentación y fotografías de Don Pickells, Ken Reece y Kenneth Storm.) Revista de Geografía Universal (Organo Oficial de la Fundación Cultural Amigos del Universo) (Edición Española), 8(4) (October): cover, 337, 338-363. [\[In Spanish.\]](#)
(transl. 'Wanderings by the Grand Canyon')

Tillich, Paul

1956 1980 Ein Lebensbild in Dokumenten : Briefe, Tagebuch-Auszüge, Berichte. (Renate Albrecht and Margot Hahl, eds.) Stuttgart and Frankfurt: Evangelisches Verlagswerk, 396 pp. (Ergänzungs- und Nachlassbände zu den Gesammelten Werken von Paul Tillich. Band V.) [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. 'An image of life in documents: letters, diary excerpts, reports.')

See "Sommer 1938" ('Summer 1938') (pp. 275-288), which includes notes of Grand Canyon.

Van Rheenen, Mary

1957 1980 The grand hole in the ground. Spectrum (Northwestern College, Orange City, Iowa), 3(1) (October): 4-6.

Reminiscence of a family trip to Grand Canyon.

Way, Thomas E.

1958 1980 A summary of travel to Grand Canyon. Prescott, Arizona: Prescott Graphics, 14 pp.

1981

Annerino, John

1959 1981 Climbs in the Grand Canyon: A historical introduction combined with a personal account of the climbing possibilities in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, Arizona. Mountain (Shieffield, England), (77) (January/February): 25-35.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 1960 1981 The 5th sleep; rimrocked on the Ancient Path; a bivouac on the rim of Moqui Trail Canyon during a 210 mile run along the Hopi-Havasupai trade route. (Photos by Chris Keith and Jay Dusard.) Diversions, 3(3) (Summer): 29-33.

Benoit, Alan

- 1961 1981 Jack Hillers, USGS; first photographer of the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 57(4) (April): 2-5.

Burroughs, John

- 1962 1981 1909: Temples of the Grand Canyon. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 121-134.
Originally "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado", from Century Illustrated Magazine, January 1911, pp. 425-438.

Cobb, Irvin S.

- 1963 1981 1913: Roughing it Deluxe. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 135-165.
From Cobb (1913).

DeVorkin, David H.

- 1964 1981 Community and spectral classification in astrophysics: The acceptance of E. C. Pickering's system in 1910. Isis, 72(1) (March): 29-49.
See p. 40; note that astronomer Edward Charles "Pickering prepared his draft report [on a uniform system of stellar magnitudes] of the committee while the group stopped at the Grand Canyon . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Garland, Hamlin

- 1965 1981 1902: The Grand Canyon at night. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 98-100.
From Garland (1902).

Gaylord, A.

- 1966 1981 1922: Into the Grand Canyon, and out again, by airplane. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 167-171.
From Gaylord (1922).

Giddings, Roger

- 1967 1981 There are far, far easier hikes at Grand Canyon. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 4(2) (February): 11.
Bob Marley and Robert Cree complete 55-day hike, Diamond Creek to Lees Ferry.

Grey, Zane

- 1968 1981 1922: An appreciation of Grand Canyon. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon : early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 105-106.
Reprinting Grey (1925).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grofé, Ferde

- 1969 1981 Special edition—Grand Canyon Suite. Flagstaff, Grand Canyon: Northland Press. Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra; Ferde Grofé, conductor. Record accompanied by five color photographs of Grand Canyon by Horizons West. (Symphonic Americana Series, by First Editions.)

Hogaboom, Winfield C.

- 1970 1981 1902: To the Grand Canyon on an automobile. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 57-69.
- From Hogaboom (1902).

Jordan, David Starr

- 1971 1981 1898: The land of patience. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 95-97.
- From Jordan (1898).

McClellan, Bill

- 1972 1981 Back to the basics; life at the bottom of the Canyon. Arizona Highways, 57(4) (April): 38-46.
- Bruce Aiken family at Roaring Springs.

McCutcheon, John T.

- 1973 1981 1909: Doing the Grand Canyon. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 111-120.
- Reprint of McCutcheon (1909).

McMorris, William B.

- 1974 1981 A hike to the depths of Havasu. Long ago the Havasupai Indians found a magic land. Today they share it with campers like the Scouts of Troop 129. Boys' Life, 71(4) (May): 32-35, 66, 69.

Moffett, Ben

- 1975 1981 Recalling a 50-year NPS romance. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 4(11) (November): 22.
- Preston and Pauline Patraw (or Pat and Polly Patraw), who met and first worked at Grand Canyon.

Monroe, Harriet

- 1976 1981 1899: The Grand Canyon of the Colorado. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 47-55.
- From Monroe (1899).

Moon, Hyo Jin

- 1977 1981 Excerpt from "After Touring the Grand Canyon". In: Moon, Sun Myung, Day of Hope in review : part 3. vol. 1 1976-1981. [Tarrytown, New York?]: International One World Crusade, Inc., p. 136.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Muir, John

- 1978 1981 1902: Our Grand Canyon. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 71-91.
From Muir (1902).

Priestley, J. B. [Priestley, John Boynton]

- 1979 1981 1934: Grand Canyon. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 107-110.
From Priestley (1935).

Roosevelt, Theodore

- 1980 1981 1903: Remarks to the people of Arizona. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 101-102.
Speech given at the Grand Canyon, May 6, 1903; from the New York Sun, May 7, 1903. See also Roosevelt (1903).

Schreiber, Norman

- 1981 1981 John Jonny and his canyon joy. In: Pop Photo Snapshots [SECTION]. Popular Photography, 88(12) (December): 66, 68.
360-degree, 150-foot-long 9-foot-high composite photograph taken in Grand Canyon (on the Tonto Plateau). Illustrated in part.

Schullery, Paul

- 1982 1981 (ED.) The Grand Canyon: Early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, 195 pp. [Reprinted 1989.]

Sloan, Bill

- 1983 1981 Through the oven to Thunder River. (Photographs by Brian Payne.) Boys' Life, (October): 12-15, 64.

Stacey, Joseph

- 1984 1981 Great painters of the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 57(4) (April): 28-37.

Sykes, Glenton Godfrey

- 1985 1981 After supper. Journal of Arizona History, 22(3): 369-374.
The new Phantom Ranch in 1923, when Sykes was working as the U.S. Geological Survey's gauge reader on the Colorado River.

Warner, Charles Dudley

- 1986 1981 1891: The heart of the desert. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon: early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 33-46.
From Warner (1891).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1982

Annerino, John

- 1987 1982 Race to the rim; grand adventure becomes survival saga. Survive, 2(1) (March): 34-37, 56, 58-63.
Ascent of Zoroaster Temple.

Bartlett, Linda

- 1988 1982 Morning canyon. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 33.

Bartschi, Darel P.

- 1989 1982 Grand Canyon. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 16.

Belanger, James

- 1990 1982 Colorado. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, pp. 46-47.

Berger, Bruce

- 1991 1982 Leafing through Eliot Porter. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 12. [First published in Stoney Lonesome.]
- 1992 1982 One cottonwood. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 28. [First published in The New Salt Creek Reader.]

Blue, Martha

- 1993 1982 Cynthia Bennett: A patch of sky through canyon walls to chasm floor. Southwest Art, 11(11): 72-77.

Boots and Blisters [pseudonym]

- 1994 1982 Sharing the load. In: Worth Retelling [SECTION]. Scouting (Boy Scouts of America), 70(2) (March/April): 4.
- Recounts an unidentified Boy Scout's hike to the bottom of the Grand Canyon, when all the scouts assisted one who was having trouble hiking back out.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bornefeld, Helmut

- 1995 1982 Der Anfang auf den Stabspielen : Spielmusiken für Xylophon, Glockenspiel und Vibraphon. (Hermann Gschwendtner, ed.). Regensburg: Bosse, 36 pp. (Bosse Musik Medien Erziehung.) [Score.] [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. 'The Beginning on Mallets: Music for xylophone, glockenspiel and vibraphone')

Includes "Im Grand Canyon" ('In the Grand Canyon').

Cantu, Rita

- 1996 1982 Canyon dance. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 19. ["©1981 Rita Cantu".]

Carr, Kate

- 1997 1982 Homecoming. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 37.

Gardner, Claudia

- 1998 1982 Grand Canyon. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 20.

Gray, Robert

- 1999 1982 A great troop in the Grand Canyon. (Photographs by Stephen Kelley.) Scouting (Boy Scouts of America), 70 (January/February): 40-43.

Boy Scout Troop 371 of Encino, California, hikes into Havasu Canyon.

Haines, Robert D., Jr.

- 2000 1982 Carl Moon : photographer and illustrator of the American Southwest. Catalogue 83—A selection of vintage photographs, original art and related material. San Francisco: Argonaut Book Shop, [48] pp.

Carl Moon had a studio at El Tovar Hotel, 1907-1914.

Hurt, W. C.

- 2001 1982 What do you say. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 8.

- 2002 1982 A hot summer sun blazes overhead. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 31.

- 2003 1982 In the distance. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 36.

Jacobsen, Steinbjørn B.

- 2004 1982 Brá úr USA. Tórshavn, Føroyar [Faroe Islands]: Forlagið Fannir, 127 pp. [\[In Faroese.\]](#)

Travelogue of a trip to the U.S. in summer 1978. Includes Grand Canyon. See also Wilson (2015).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jacobson, Donna

- 2005 1982 The one who listens. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 27.
- 2006 1982 Erudition from the canyon. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 32.

Jefferson, Mark

- 2007 1982 As I descend. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 29.
- 2008 1982 Voices in the wind. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 34.

Kazei, Kazuyasu [風井託恭]

- 2009 1982 アメリカ西部の一部を旅して [Amerika seibu no ichibu o tabi shite] [Traveling through parts of the western United States]. 佛教大学学報 [bukkyōdaigaku gakubō] [Bukkyo University Academic Bulletin], (32) (October 23): 26-31. [In Japanese.]
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Kula, Ann

- 2010 1982 A rim crowd gathers. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 17.

Lambert, Larry

- 2011 1982 Sediments. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 44.

Liang, Danfeng [Liang, Tan-feng] [Liang, Dan Fong]

- 2012 1982 大峡谷之旅 [Daxiagu zhi lü] : Grand experience Grand Canyon. Taipei Shi: Kuai le hua shi, min guo, 59 pp. [In Chinese and English.]

Lowes, Paul

- 2013 1982 Grey blue. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 30. ["©1979 Paul Lowes".]
- 2014 1982 North Tonto. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 35.

Lund, Folmer

- 2015 1982 Turen til USA-Canada. Sortbroget Kvæg (AVIsforeningen for Sortbroget Malkevæg i Danmark), (April): 16-19. [In Danish.]
(transl. 'A trip to USA and Canada')
- Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Martin, J. C.

- 2016 1982 A Grand Canyon trip. How one may reach the greatest wonder of the world—Notes and incidents by the way. In: Maurer, Stephen G. (ed.), Grand Canyon by stage. Albuquerque, New Mexico: Heritage Associates, pp. 5-6.
Originally published in 1894 in the Journal Miner, Prescott, Arizona, "By the Editor".
- 2017 1982 It is indescribable! Grand beyond description is what all visitors say of the Grand Canyon, so say I. Thoughts and impressions suggested by a look at its marvelous magnificence. In: Maurer, Stephen G. (ed.), Grand Canyon by stage. Albuquerque, New Mexico: Heritage Associates, pp. 7-9.
Originally published in 1894 in the Journal Miner, Prescott, Arizona, "By the Editor".
- 2018 1982 In the canyon's depths. A visit to the Grand Scenic Divide, from where a view of the river and the lower depths is obtained. In: Maurer, Stephen G. (ed.), Grand Canyon by stage. Albuquerque, New Mexico: Heritage Associates, pp. 9-11.
Originally published in 1894 in the Journal Miner, Prescott, Arizona, "By the Editor".
- 2019 1982 Grand Canyon closing sketch. A thunderstorm.—The ruins of paradise.—St. Peter's Cathedral.—A night in the canyon. In: Maurer, Stephen G. (ed.), Grand Canyon by stage. Albuquerque, New Mexico: Heritage Associates, pp. 12-14.
Originally published in 1894 in the Journal Miner, Prescott, Arizona, "By the Editor".
- 2020 1982 Down to Cataract Canyon. From the Grand Canyon to the Supai village.—A tortuous, tedious and steep trail. In: Maurer, Stephen G. (ed.), Grand Canyon by stage. Albuquerque, New Mexico: Heritage Associates, pp. 14-18.
Originally published in 1894 in the Journal Miner, Prescott, Arizona, "By the Editor".
- 2021 1982 Supai Indian village. An Indian tribe who live in the recesses of the earth, hemmed in by immense walls of rock. In: Maurer, Stephen G. (ed.), Grand Canyon by stage. Albuquerque, New Mexico: Heritage Associates, pp. 18-20.
Originally published in 1894 in the Journal Miner, Prescott, Arizona, "By the Editor".

Maurer, Stephen G.

- 2022 1982 (ED.) Grand Canyon by stage. Albuquerque: Heritage Associates, 21 pp.

McCloskey, Gordon

- 2023 1982 Heritage. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 9.
- 2024 1982 They can try. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 22.

Nash, Steven A.

- 2025 1982 Dallas Collects American Paintings: Colonial to Early Modern: An exhibition of paintings from private collections in Dallas. Dallas: Dallas Art Museum.
- See p. 80, "Canyon Mists: Zoroaster Peak, Grand Canyon, 1914", by Thomas Moran.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rishel, W. D. [Rishel, William D. "Bill"]

- 2026 1982 The view from the North Rim. Driving to the West's great natural wonders used to require both courage and resourcefulness! Beehive History (Utah State Historical Society), (8): 25-28.
- "This extract appears here by arrangement with Howe Brothers, publishers of Wheels to Adventure—Bill Rishel's Western Routes by Virginia Rishel." (Virginia Rishel's book was then in press; see Rishel, 1983.) First-person account, 1913, about the first automobile trip to the North Rim, sponsored by Utah touring agencies.

Sipple, Regina Spencer

- 2027 1982 Through the jagged rock walls. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 45.

Smith, Jo Johnson

- 2028 1982 Description. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 23.

Stuart, V. L.

- 2029 1982 The Grand. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 18.

Syndergaard, W. P.

- 2030 1982 First impressions. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 13.

Thorum, Reho R.

- 2031 1982 (ED.) Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. (Illustrated by Larry Powell; cover illustration by Mark Jefferson.) Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, 48 pp. [With poems by W. C. Hurt, Gordon McCloskey, Linda Ingram, Bruce Berger, W. P. Syndergaard, Randy Waltrip, Darel P. Bartschi, Ann Kula, V. L. Stuart, Rita Cantu, Claudia Gardner, Nye Thuesen, Jo Johnson Smith, Donna Jacobson, Mark Jefferson, Paul Lowes, Linda Bartlett, and Kate Carr.]

Thuesen, Nye

- 2032 1982 A view from the North Rim. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 21. ["©1982 Nye Thuesen".]

Waltrip, Randy

- 2033 1982 Inversion. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, pp. 14-15.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1983

Anonymous

- 2034 1983 Albuquerque scouts challenge Grand Canyon. In: Scouting Around [SECTION]. Boys' Life, 73(2) (March): 52.

Boy Scouts of America, Troop 284 rim-to-rim-to-rim hike in 23 hours, 10 minutes; South Kaibab, North Kaibab, Bright Angel Trails.

Ackerley, Julian Michael

- 2035 1983 Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus: A history. Doctoral dissertation, University of Arizona, 224 pp.

See pp. 27-28, 152, regarding the Chorus's performance at the 1945 Easter Sunrise Service at Grand Canyon, broadcast on the NBC radio network, and (without details) invitation to perform again in 1946.

Burky, Richard R.

- 2036 1983 One Grand Canyon; time takes on new meanings in this mile-deep chasm—one of the natural wonders of the world. Youth 83 (Worldwide Church of God, Pasadena, California), 3(6) (July): 14-15.

Callixto, Vasco

- 2037 1983 Viagem à costa ocidental da América : Califórnia, Nevada, Arizona, México : 6136 km. de automóvel, 19604 km. por via aérea, 37 dias. Lisboa: [no imprint], 135 pp. [In Portuguese.] (transl. 'Journey to the West Coast of America: California, Nevada, Arizona, Mexico: 6,136 km by car, 19,604 km by air, 37 days.')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Dodson, J.

- 2038 1983 Visit to grandeur. Mohave (Mohave County Miner), 11 (July): 8-11.

Garrison, Lemuel A.

- 2039 1983 The making of a ranger : forty years with the national parks. Salt Lake City: Howe Brothers; and Sun Valley, Idaho: Institute of the American West, 310 pp. (Institute of the American West Books, Volume 1.)

See "At the Grand Canyon", pp. 207-225.

Gibson, Arrell Morgan

- 2040 1983 A visual feast from the Santa Fe Railway Company Collection of Southwestern Art. In: Santa Fe Collection of Southwestern Art. An exhibition at Gilcrease Museum, Tulsa, Oklahoma, September 26, 1983-November 21, 1983. (Foreword by Fred A. Myers.) [Tulsa: Gilcrease Museum.] (Copyright 1983, Santa Fe Railway.)

Includes Grand Canyon art by Louis Akin, Oscar E. Berninghaus, Carl Oscar Borg, Elliott Daingerfield, William Robinson Leigh, Thomas Moran, and Gunnar Widforss.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lee, Young [易驚]

- 2041 1983 미국 국립공원 기행 ② [migug guglibgong-won gihaeng ②] [U.S. national park tour, [part] 2]. 한국자연공원협회 (서울) [hangugjayeongong-wonhyeobhoe (seoul)] [Korea National Parks Association (Seoul)], (25): 42-47. [In Korean.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Marshman, Kevin

- 2042 1983 Zoroaster highlife; opting for ascension where going down is chic. Summit, 29(5) (September/October):.

Rock climbing.

Maurer, Stephen G.

- 2043 1983 Solitude and sunshine : images of a Grand Canyon childhood. Boulder, Colorado: Pruett Publishing Co., 97 pp.

Based on conversations with William G. Bass.

Rishel, Virginia

- 2044 1983 Wheels to adventure : Bill Rishel's western routes : with chapters by W. D. "Bill" Rishel. Salt Lake City and Chicago: Howe Brothers, 133 pp., fold-out map laid in.

Includes Grand Canyon North Rim. See also W. D. Rishel (1982, 1983).

Rishel, W. D. [Rishel, William D. "Bill"]

- 2045 1983 The view from the North Rim. In: Rishel, Virginia, Wheels to adventure : Bill Rishel's western routes. Salt Lake City and Chicago: Howe Brothers, pp. 71-76. [See also photo, p. 70.]

First-person account, 1913, about the first automobile trip to the North Rim, sponsored by Utah touring agencies.

Scott, Sharon

- 2046 1983 Grand Canyon splendor. In: Scott, Donald C. (as told to Annette Nesbit Scott), Eighty years in Arizona. [No imprint], p. 79.

Sloan, Lester

- 2047 1984 The long hike; one couple's determined (and foot-blistering) trek through the Grand Canyon. Black Enterprise, 14(11) (June): 266, 268.

Inexperienced hikers, husband and wife, follow the South Kaibab-Bright Angel loop on a one-day hike.

1984

Anonymous

- 2048 1984 Grand Canyon in the winter. Go Greyhound, 19(3): cover, table of contents, 1-4.

See also "Corporate Ad", pp. 10-11, with illustration of Greyhound Corporation Chairman of the Board and CEO with a greyhound dog at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Abbey, Edward

- 2049 1984 My 40 years as a Grand Canyoneer. National Geographic Traveler, 1(1) (Spring): 19-21.
Also reprinted in Abbey (1988) as "40 Years as a Grand Canyoneer".

Annerino, John

- 2050 1984 Through the labyrinth; it began as a curious adventure—running an old Indian trade route through the Grand Canyon. It soon became a dance on the edge of survival. Ultrasport, 1(3) (May/June): 44-52.

Bowden, Charles

- 2051 1984 Grand Canyon trek; a personal journey through a vertical world. Arizona Highways, 60(9) (September): 16-31.

Brechner, Berl

- 2052 1984 There's no business like Scholl business; when the script calls for an airplane, the producers call for Art Scholl. Flying, 111(1) (January): 40-46.

See p. 46, recounting a wing-walking stunt filmed over Grand Canyon.

Collingwood, George Harris

- 2053 1984 A trip into the Grand Canyon. In: Morgan, Anne Hodges, and Strickland, Rennard (eds.), Arizona memories. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, pp. 179-182.

Dancis, Dale

- 2054 1984 City vagabond. In: Beus, Stanley S., and Carothers, Steven W. (eds.), Colorado River Investigations II : July/August 1983. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University, for U.S. National Park Service, Grand Canyon National Park, p. 176.

Destination Cinema, Inc.

- 2055 1984 Grand Canyon: The hidden secrets. Keith Merrill, director. Distributed by IMAX Corporation.

- 2056 1984 The making of... Grand Canyon, the hidden secrets. Salt Lake City: Destination Cinema. 24:00. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Dusing, Allen F.

- 2057 1984 The Grand Canyon. Trailer Life, 44(12): 50-54.

Garrison, Bob

- 2058 1984 Bob Garrison returns—and reports. David Dunlap Doings (David Dunlap Observatory, University of Toronto), 17(4; sic, 5) (November 5): 4.

Includes note of three-day hike in Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Herring, Charlanne F.

2059 1984 Christmas at the Canyon. Trailer Life, 44(12): 55-57.

Ignatzek, Klaus

2060 1984 Journey to Grand Canyon. (Voss-Ignatzek-Duo.) Frankfurt-am-Main: Trion Sound Productions; and BISS, Vertrieb. 33 $\frac{1}{3}$  rpm record.

Listen to Side A, "Journey to Grand Canyon" (20:48).

Keane, Bil

2061 1984 ["Family Circus" cartoons featuring Grand Canyon.] Arizona Highways, 60(9) (September): 36-37.
"Family Circus" syndicated comics by Bil Keane.

Leavengood, Betty

2062 1984 Why did the two women hike the Canyon? Tucson Lifestyle Magazine, (March/April): 6, 26-30.

Liang, Danfeng [Liang, Tan-feng] [Liang, Dan Fong]

2063 1984 穿越大峡谷 [Chuānyuè dà xiágǔ]. [Through the Grand Canyon.] Taipei Shi: Da di chu ban she, 174 pp., [12] pp. plates (some folded). (Wan juan wen ku, 140.) [Later printings, 1985, 1986.] [\[In Chinese.\]](#)

Line, Francis Raymond, AND Line, Helen E.

2064 1984 Grand Canyon love story : a true living adventure. West Allis, Wisconsin: Pine Mountain Press, Inc., 300 pp. [Also a "60th Anniversary Edition" under another imprint, 1988.]

Moseley, Keith

2065 1984 Conference report: Leicester 1984. Geology Teaching (Association of Teachers of Geology, Journal) (United Kingdom), 9(4) (December): 113-114.

See p. 114: "On Sunday morning the programme was prefaced by a lecture from Trevor Ford about the Geology of the Grand Canyon. He presented an excellent set of slides with expertise and wit, and this made for a most enjoyable show. Two things, at least, were apprent: first, that the Americans are more willing than we are to sponsor both education and research; and second, that they need to start by educating the signwriter who wrote, "You can degend by helicopter into the Grand Canyon!" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Sullivan, Bryan

2066 1984 IMAX in the Grand Canyon. American Cinematographer, 65 (December): 74-76+.

Weschler, Lawrence

2067 1984 True to life. The New Yorker, (July 9): 60-71.

Conversation with David Hockney. Includes remarks on Hockney's work painting at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1985

Anonymous

- 2068 1985 Grand Canyon NP, Ariz. In: Park Briefs [SECTION]. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 30(3) (March): 6.

Artist Thomas E. Priemon to donate to Grand Canyon National Park the profits from the sale of signed original lithographs, "Shadows of the Colorado".

- 2069 1985 The University of Michigan Museum of Art; accessions to the collection, January 1983-June 1985. University of Michigan, Museums of Art and Archaeology, Bulletin, 7:.

See p. 92, under "Photographs": "Adams, Ansel, American, 1902-1984. Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona, taken 1942, printed 1980; Gelatin silver print, 38.7 × 48.3 cm; Gift of Harry H. Lunn, Jr., in honor of Professor James Robertson, 1984/1.270". (ENTIRE NOTE)

Ackerman, Diane

- 2070 1985 Grand Canyon. Michigan Quarterly Review, 24: 289-291.

Adams, Ansel

- 2071 1985 Photographs of the Southwest : selected photographs made from 1928 to 1968 in Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas and Utah, with a statement by the photographer, and An essay on the land, by L. C. Powell. Boston: New York Graphic Society Books, and Little, Brown and Co., 128 pp.

Annerino, John

- 2072 1985 Angel's Gate; traverse of the gods. Arizona Highways, 61(6) (June): 32-37.
Rock climbing.

Burke, Doreen Bolger

- 2073 1985 American Paintings in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Volume III. A catalogue of works by artists born between 1846 and 1864. (Kathleen Luhrs, ed.) [New York]: Metropolitan Museum of Art, xxxix, 479 pp.

See "Elliott Daingerfield, 1859-1932", pp. 348-351; and "DeWitt Parshall, 1864-1956", pp. 468-469.

Busby, Hulali

- 2074 1985 Havasupai Falls. In: Students Travel to the Southwest [FEATURE]. The Molokai Dispatch (Kaunakakai, Hawaii), 30(28) (July 15): 2. [See also photo on p. 1.]

Davidson, Harold G.

- 2075 1985 Jimmy Swinnerton, the artist and his works. New York: Hearst Books, 160 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dodd, Norris

- 2076 1985 Diary of a yellowbelly. Arizona Wildlife (Arizona Game and Fish Department), 1985: 18-24, 26-27.
- An article about the ponderosa pine, not pertinent to this bibliography but cited here for the misnomer (p. 22), regarding the Dominguez-Escalante expedition of 1776, "Imagine their surprise at breaking out of the forests [in northern Arizona] to lay eyes upon the staggering vista of the Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE) The expedition did not see the canyon.

Evans, Edna

- 2077 1985 Tales from the Grand Canyon : some true, some tall. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 90 pp.

Graham, Vickie M.

- 2078 1985 Confined to a wheelchair, this former fighter pilot now draws his attention to . . . illustrating a point. Airman (U.S. Air Force, Air Force Service Information and News Center, Kelly Air Force Base, Texas), 29(4) (April): 21-27. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
- Captain Blake Morrison, now a painter of aircraft and western scenes. "Everything I really love is within a five-hour drive of here. The Grand Canyon, for instance—oh Lord, what a place it is! I go there at least twice a year to reclaim my soul. It's really gorgeous country and great for a western painter—or somebody who wants to be."

Grebstad, Sverre

- 2079 1985 Uforglemmelige inntrykk fra USA; døve nordmenn på rundtur med bil. Døves Tidsskrift (Norges Døveforbund, Bergen, Norway), 66(43) (October 25): 6-7. [In Norwegian.]
- (transl. 'Unforgettable impressions from the USA; deaf Norwegians on a round trip by car.')
- Includes Grand Canyon. Serial translates as "Deaf Journal" of the Norwegian Deaf Association.

Guthrie, Patricia

- 2080 1985 Aiken's reality; an artist paints his home—the Grand Canyon. Northern Arizona Life, 2(2) (March/April): 21-23.
- Bruce Aiken.

Henrie, Carol

- 2081 1985 A coyote runs across my path at midnight in the Pine Loop campground at Grand Canyon. The New Republic, 192 (June): 38.

Lush, Tom

- 2082 1985 Six weeks of American hospitality (continued from Jan/March Bulletin). The Bulletin (The Allard Register), (April/June): 2-3.
- The Allard Register is an organization of owners and enthusiasts of automobiles from the Allard Motor Company. Includes note of visit Grand Canyon, referring to "National Canyon Park". Earlier installment is not pertinent to this bibliography.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mast, Connie

- 2083 1985 A grand flight. Arizona Highways, 61(5) (May): 14-15.
Tourist flight over the canyon in a Grand Canyon Airlines DeHavilland Twin Otter. Text p. 14; illustrated with two Tom Bean photos of the canyon (p. 15).

McKiernan, Martha Lee

- 2084 1985 Western whirlwind; taking wing on a four-week flight of fancy to the best scenery in the West. American Motorcyclist, 39(2) (February): cover, 4, 14-18.

Moore, Kenny

- 2085 1985 Grandeur and torment; traversing the Grand Canyon in midwinter is no picnic, the author found, especially with a go-go governor as guide. Sports Illustrated, 62(14) (April 8): 96-100, 102, 104, 106-108, 110.
Arizona Governor Bruce Babbitt.

Richardson, Mozelle Groner

- 2086 1985 Six days from Sunday : a Grand Canyon odyssey. (Illustrated by Fred Olds.) Muskogee, Oklahoma: Western Heritage Books, 120 pp.

Skinner, John R.

- 2087 1985 The Grand Canyon . . . from the top down. Westways, 77(6): 56-59. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
Conjoined with article by Martin Litton (see in Part III of this bibliography).

Spassky, Natalie

- 2088 1985 (WITH Linda Bantel, Doreen, Bolger Burke, Meg Perlman, and Amy L. Walsh) American Paintings in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Volume II. A catalogue of works by artists born between 1816 and 1845. (Kathleen Luhrs, ed., with Jacolyn A. Mott.) [New York]: Metropolitan Museum of Art, in association with Princeton University Press, lv, 670 pp.
See "Thomas Moran, 1837-1926", pp. 519-524.

Stover, Dean

- 2089 1985 Grand Canyon poems. Tempe, Arizona: The Nomadic Press and Almond Tree Press, [19] pp.
(Distributed by Nomadic Press.) [225 numbered copies only—200 in Arabic numerals, 25 in Roman numerals.]

Thybony, Scott

- 2090 1985 Canyon suites; finding refuge from winter in the Grand's side canyons. In: Destinations [SECTION]. Outside, 10 (February): 69-70.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

1986

Anonymous

- 2091 1986 [Verse.] 岡崎の教育：月報 [Okazaki no kyōiku, Geppō] [Education in Okazaki, Monthly Report] (岡崎市教育委員会 [Okazaki-shi kyōiku iinkai] [Okazaki City Board of Education, Japan]), (162) (昭和61年11月 [Shōwa 61-nen 11 tsuki] [November 1986]), 1. [In Japanese.]

Four-stanza verse noting Grand Canyon, Colorado River, and Okazaki City. Credited as “〈笠かな表現〉” [Ryū Kana hyōgen].

Bennett, Cynthia

- 2092 1986 Lightfall and time : fifteen southwestern national parks. (Foreword by Ann Zwinger; text by Susan Lamb.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, and Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, [unpaginated].

Paintings.

Brubaker, Ann

- 2093 1986 Thomas Moran: The Grand Canyon. Art Education, 39(6) (November): 27-28.

Ciarcia, Steve

- 2094 1986 Ciarcia's Circuit Cellar. Volume V. New York, St. Louis, San Francisco, Auckland, Bogotá, Hamburg, Johannesburg, London, Madrid, Mexico, Montreal, New Delhi, Panama, Paris, São Paulo, Singapore, Sydney, Tokyo, and Toronto: McGraw-Hill Book Co.

See “Building a Scrolling Alphanumeric LED Display”, pp. 121-137; specifically, pp. 121, 122, brief thoughts during a helicopter excursion over Grand Canyon sponsored by a computer-show exhibitor. (LED: Light-emitting diode.)

Dunzweiler, Robert J.

- 2095 1986 Tribute to Allan A. MacRae. A biographical sketch and appreciation of Dr MacRae presented on April 9, 1977, on the occasion of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of his ordination. In: Harris, R. Laird, Quek, Swee-Hwa, and Vannory, J. Robert (eds.), Interpretation and history : essays in honour of Allan A. MacRae. Singapore: Christian Life Publishers, pp. 25-29.

See p. 27, notes pertaining to MacRae's honeymoon to Grand Canyon during which he volunteered to participate in the rescue of U.S. Army airmen who had to parachute from their stricken aircraft into Grand Canyon.

Ghirri, Luigi

- 2096 1986 Das Männchen am Rande des Grand Canyon. Camera Austria (Graz, Austria), (21): 9-12. [In German.]
(transl. 'The little figure on the rim of Grand Canyon')

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Holtzin, Richard Kerry

- 2097 1986 Ballads of the Grand Canyon. Georgetown, Colorado: Cas-sette Designs, 1 sound cassette. (Words, music, sound recording by Richard K. Holtzin.)

Line, Francis Raymond, AND Line, Winfield H.

- 2098 1986 Foot by foot through the U.S.A. : a high adventure odyssey to every state in the union. Irvine, California: Wide Horizons Press, 312 pp.

Morand, Anne, AND Friese, Nancy

- 2099 1986 The prints of Thomas Moran in the Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art. Tulsa, Oklahoma: Gilcrease Museum Association, 255 pp.

Nemes Nagy, Ágnes

- 2100 1986 A föld emlékei : összegyűjtött versek. Budapest: Magvető Könyvkiadó, 269 pp. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'Memories of the earth: collected poems')

See p. 229, "Amerikai állomás; A Grand Canyonban" (transl. 'American station; in the Grand Canyon'), which reflects upon the then-unused Grand Canyon Depot at Grand Canyon, written during or following the writer's 1979 visit (see Nemes Nagy, 1993). This poem begins, "Én nem tudom miért, mindig az állomások." ('I don't know why, it's always the stations.')

["Amerikai állomás" appears frequently in critical commentaries and Nemes Nagy anthologies; see for example listings and notes by Urbán Péter (2008), "Szakirodalmi bibliográfia és említési mutató Nemes Nagy Ágnes verseihez (1947-2007)" ('Bibliography and citation index for the poems of Ágnes Nagy Nemes (1947-2007)'), Bibliográfia Irodalomtörténeti Közlemények, 112(5/6): 700-740.]

1987

Anonymous

- 2101 1987 Sowing wild oats. In: E&AA Member Notes [SECTION]. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 32(8) (August): 45-46.

Series from the NPS Employees and Alumni Association. "Children are children, even if they are the son and daughter of Horace and Grace Albright. E&AA learned of a time when Marian Albright Schenck and her brother, Bob, both very young, visited Grand Canyon with their parents. While in Verkamp's Independent Store, the two children started turning the postcard stand faster and faster, until the cards flew off and literally covered the store. Our source did not go further!" (ENTIRE ITEM)

Annerino, John

- 2102 1987 Il paradiso non può attendere: La traversata degli dei sino allo porta degli angeli: sei giorni sulle rocce del Gran Canyon. Jonathan, Dimensione Avventura (Milan, Italy), 3(9): cover, 16-27. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'Heaven cannot wait: Traverse of the gods' gate: six days on the rocks of the Grand Canyon.')

Rock climbing Angel's Gate.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Branch, Beatrice

- 2103 1987 Sunrise at Grand Canyon. Ideals, 44(4) (June): [72]-[73].

Chartrand, Bud

- 2104 1987 The canyon of time. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 23(10) (December 1987/January 1988): 1.

Faier, Billy

- 2105 1987 Banjos, birdsong and Mother Earth. (Lead vocals and five-string banjo, Billy Faier; guitar and background vocals, Gilles Malkine; harmonica, 2nd guitar and background vocals, John Sebastian.) Lake Hill, New York: Billy Faier. Audio cassette. 14 songs. 1:08:30.

Information from container insert. Listen to: Side A, "Song of the Canyon Wren" (5:30), "Matkatamiba" (7:00), "Bright Angel Rag" (5:13). These selections copyright Byrdcliffe Music.

Hirschfeld, Aver [אבנר הירשפלד 4Z4NH]

- 2106 1987 הגל / Hagal (Israel Amateur Radio Club Newsletter) (Tel Aviv), (December): 3-5. [In Hebrew, with bilingual serial title.] (transl. Official trip to the USA.)

Includes remarks on Grand Canyon. (Author's call-sign is registered in Netanya, Israel; location information obtained online.)

Jeys, Gene

- 2107 1987 Twenty five years of hiking the Grand Canyon. (Illustrations by Louis Escobedo.) Scouting (Boy Scouts of America), 75(5) (October): 18-19, 72-73.

Personal reflections.

Lamb, Susan

- 2108 1987 Paintings inspired by Southwest parks on exhibit. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 32(5) (May): 31.

Artist Cynthia Bennett. Includes Grand Canyon.

Lomawywea [Kabotie, Michael]

- 2109 1987 Migration tears : poems about transitions. Los Angeles: American Indian Studies Center, University of California, Los Angeles, 54 pp. (Native American Series, 7.)

See "Grand Canyon National Park".

Mayfield, Geoff

- 2110 1987 Record Bar store on a roll; displays win 2 top prizes. Billboard (New York), 99(13) (March 28): 43.

Record Bar store No. 23, Mobile, Alabama, awarded top prize in two national display contests conducted by Living Music. One is display (illustrated) is that for the Paul Winter Consort documentary, "Canyon" (i.e., Winter's "Canyon Consort", 1985).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mead, Tray C.

- 2111 1987 (ED.) Capturing the Canyon: Artists in the Grand Canyon. [Mesa, Arizona]: Mesa Southwest Museum, 48 [53] pp. ("Created in conjunction with the exhibit 'Capturing the Canyon,' May 23-July 26, 1987".)

Miramar Productions

- 2112 1987 Canyon dreams. Seattle, Washington: Miramar Productions. 40:00.
Original music by Tangerine Dream.

Sakaki, Nanao

- 2113 1987 Break the mirror : the poems of Sakaki Nanao. (Foreword by Gary Snyder.) San Francisco: North Point Press, 126 pp.

See "Far Above the Grand Canyon", p. 115. See also Tähtinen (2011).

Sharrow, Barbara, AND Balsom, Janet

- 2114 1987 Women at Grand Canyon. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 32(4) (April): front cover, 3, 39-40, rear cover.

Spender, Stephen

- 2115 1987 David Hockney's magical quest. Art and Antiques, (December): 58-65+.

Van Peenen, John

- 2116 1987 Thunder River. Wildwater, (Summer): 21.

Yevtushenko, Yevgeny Aleksandrovich

- 2117 1987 Almost at the end. (Antonina W. Bouis, translator.) New York: Henry Holt and Co., 146 pp.
Poetry. Includes "Who Are You, Grand Canyon?"

Yoshida, Hiroshi [吉田博]

- 2118 1987 吉田博全木版画集 [Yoshida Hiroshi zen mokuhangashū]. The complete woodblock prints of Yoshida Hiroshi. (小倉忠夫 [Ogura Tadao], ed.) Tōkyō: 阿部出版 [Abe shuppan] [Abe Publishing], 203 pp. [In Japanese and English.] [Also 2nd ed., same imprint and pagination, 1996.]

Includes [no. 11] "グランドキャニオンGrand Canyon" (1925), from Yoshida's United States series. Original production of print about 50; identified and signed in Japanese and English.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Zarrow, Susan

- 2119 1987 Grand walking at the Grand Canyon. Prevention (Emmaus, Pennsylvania), 39 (May): 44-46+.

1988

Anonymous

- 2120 1988 Father of hang gliding, Bill Moyes. Skysailor (Hang Gliding Federation of Australia, Sydney, New South Wales), (January): 5-7.

Includes remarks on Moyes' (illegal) eight-minute flight from the South Rim of Grand Canyon to the Colorado River (pp. 6-7) and photo (p. 5), "Bill flying the Grand Canyon". (The flight was in July 1970.)

Abbey, Edward

- 2121 1988 One life at a time, please. New York: Henry Holt and Co., 225 pp.

See "40 Years as a Grand Canyoneer", pp. 123-126, which is reprinted from "My 40 Years as a Grand Canyoneer (Abbey, 1984).

Babbitt, Bruce E.

- 2122 1988 Color and light: The Southwest canvases of Louis Akin. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 1st paperbound printing, 76 pp.

Black, Nancy, AND McQuerrey, Teresa

- 2123 1988 Coconino Center for the Arts. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (December): 8-9.

Art exhibition; item includes illustration, "Rudi Reichardt's painting 'Bald Eagle/Grand Canyon South Rim'".

Harrison, Greg

- 2124 1988 Travelin'. American Motorcyclist, 42(12) (December): 6. [Editorial.]

Includes visit to Grand Canyon.

Keller, Rosanne

- 2125 1988 Pilgrimage to Havasupai. Arizona Highways, 64(4) (April): 4-9.

Havasu Canyon.

Line, Francis Raymond, AND Line, Helen E.

- 2126 1988 Grand Canyon love story : a true living adventure. 60th Anniversary Edition. Irvine, California: Wide Horizons Press, 300 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lundström, Wilma; Lundström, Pelle; Ekström, Britt-Marie; AND Ekström, Lasse

- 2127 1988 USA-resan sommaren 1988. Square-Info (Swedish Association of American Square Dance Clubs) [Sweden], 5(4): 4-5. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'USA trip, summer 1988')

Includes visit to Grand Canyon.

Murphy, Joy Waldron

- 2128 1988 Bob Barlow. Southwest Art, 17 (May): 42-47.

Stuckey, Scott

- 2129 1988 Cliff-walking the Grand Canyon; Arizona Scouts became human mountain goats to hike the most exciting trails in Arizona's "Big Ditch". Boys' Life, (November): 28-29, 30-31.

Thompson-Dalegowski, Sharon

- 2130 1988 Grand Canyon. Ideals, 45(4) (June): [14-15]. (Ideals Summertime issue.)

Tseng, Kwong-chi

- 2131 1988 Monuments and natural wonders. Aperture, (110) (Spring): 16.
Portfolio. Includes Grand Canyon.

Wilson, Maggie, AND Maack, Richard

- 2132 1988 Architectural treasures of the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 64(6) (June): 38-45, back cover.

1989

Anonymous

- 2133 1989 They said it couldn't be done.....but, corporate can! Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers), 5(5) (June/July): [1]. [Ellipsis is a part of the title, thus. Item signed "Nancy, Exec Secretary Sales & Marketing" (Fred Harvey).]

Brief trip report and photograph from Grand Canyon hike.

Adams, Ansel

- 2134 1989 The Mural Project. (Photographs by Ansel Adams; selected and with an introduction by Peter Wright and John Armor; Cynthia Anderson, ed.) Santa Barbara, California: Reverie Press, 112 pp.
National Park Service project on western national parks, 1941-1942.

Agins, Sam

- 2135 1989 Round Legs : a photographic essay. West Sedona, Arizona: Haywire Record and Publishing Co., 18 pp.

A wheelchair's observations; one picture at Grand Canyon (p. 5).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ali, Abdullah Yusuf

- 2136 1989 (TRANSLATOR) The Holy Qur-ān : English translation of the meaning and commentary. Revised and edited by The Presidency of Islamic Researches, IFTA, Call and Guidance. Kingdom of Saudi Arabia: King Fahd Holy Qur-ān Printing Complex, x, a-zl, 2082, 9 pp. [Hijri date given as 1410 H.; converts to 1989/1990.]

See under "Sūrat Al-Ankabūt", S.29, A.20 (p. 1155): "Say: 'Travel through the earth [note 3441] / And see how Allah did / Originate creation . . . .[']"; and see in note 3441 (pp. 1155-1156): "If we actually go through this wide earth, we shall see the wonderful things in His Creation—the Grand Canyon and the Niagaras in America . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Atkeson, Ray

- 2137 1989 Ray Atkeson : western images. Portland, Oregon: Graphic Arts Center Publishing Co., 150 pp.

Beach, J. Darrell

- 2138 1989 Richard Iams. Southwest Art, 18 (February): 78-82.

Berle, Milton

- 2139 1989 Milton Berle's private joke file : over 10,000 of his best gags, anecdotes, and one-liners. (Milt Rosen, ed.) New York: Three Rivers Press, 642 pp.

Grand Canyon, pp. 233, 238, 395.

Burroughs, John

- 2140 1989 Divine abyss. In: Harmon, David (ed.), Mirror of America : literary encounters with the national parks. Washington, D.C.: National Park Foundation, and Boulder, Colorado: Roberts Reinhart, Inc., pp. 70-78.

Page 70 is introduction by the editor; see also pp. 182, 185, 187 of volume. From Burroughs (1911, Visit to the Grand Cañon).

Cantu, Rita

- 2141 1989 Canyon lifesongs. Distributed by Grand Canyon Natural History Association. Audio cassette.

Fleischer Museum

- 2142 1989 American Impressionism California School. Phoenix: FFCA Publishing Co., 111 pp.

See John Bond Francisco, pp. 32-35; Hanson Duvall Puthuff, pp. 68-69; George Gardner Symons, pp. 88-91.

Foster, Tony

- 2143 1989 Exploring the Grand Canyon : watercolour diaries 1988-1989. Penzance, Cornwall, England: Newlyn Orion Galleries, in association with Montgomery Gallery, San Francisco, 32 pp.

Hiway Records

- 2144 1989 Grand Canyon Hopi Indian dancers. Hiway Records. Audio cassette. 8503-45-A/8503-45B.

"Grand Canyon commemorative, recorded at the Hopi House in 1958."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

King, June O'Neill

- 2145 1989 A most memorable mule trip. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living magazine, (February):.

Kleinhans, Lew

- 2146 1989 The grandest canyon experience. Mine (Colorado School of Mines), 79(3) (April): 14-15.

Ledon, Gilbert R.

- 2147 1989 Sennaciece tra nia mondo. [No place]: "Eldono de la Aŭtoro", 223 pp. ("Eldono de la aŭtoro, sen kopirajto [copyright-free], por la disvendantoj: Fonto . . . Chapecó-SC, Brazilio [sic], kaj Monato . . . Antwerpen, Belgio".) ("Kompostita de la eldonejo Fonto[.] Presita de IMPRIMAX (Xanxerê-SC, Brazilo)".) [In Esperanto.]
(transl. 'Around the world without nationality')

"Eldono de la aŭtoro, sen kopirajto" (transl. 'Author's edition, without copyright'). Travelogue of a world tour in 1954. See "15/5 [May 15]. Flagstaff-Las Vegas, kun vizito al la Ciranda Kanjono de Kolorado. 361 Mi (578 km). Statoj Arizono kaj Nevado", pp. 119-120 (transl. 'Flagstaff to Las Vegas, with a visit to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado'):

"Pri la spektaklo de la Granda Kanjono ni ne parolos, car gi estas mondfame konata kaj mirinda, kaj gi plene respondas al la postkartoj, kiujn ciuj jam konas. Ne malpli mirinda estas Ia fen- dego, tunda valo de rivero Kolorado, meze de Ia apikaj montoj el puraj, nudaj rokoj el ciuj koloroj... [ellipsis thus] Cetere tio estas tipa karakteri- zo de Kordileroj, cu en Ia Sudamerikaj Andoj, cu en la Nordame-rikaj Rokaj Montoj." (ENTIRE NOTE)

(transl. 'We won't talk about the Grand Canyon spectacle because it's world-famous and wonderful, and it fully corresponds to the postcards that everyone already knows. No less astonishing is the chasm, the rugged valley of the Colorado River, in the middle of the steep mountains of clean, bare rocks of all colors. Moreover, this is a typical feature of the Cordilleras, whether in the South American Andes or in the Rocky Mountains of North America.')

Lummis, Charles F.

- 2148 1989 Letters from the Southwest : September 20, 1884, to March 14, 1885. (James W. Byrkit, ed.) Tucson: University of Arizona Press, xlix [lii], 309 [311] pp.
See pp. 255-259.

Meyer, Betty Kent [Meyer, Elizabeth Kent]

- 2149 NO DATE Life in the Grand Canyon in the twenties and thirties. [Untitled newsletter] (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), ([ca.] November/December 1989): 3-7. [With by-line, "Elizabeth Meyer" but signed (p. 7), "Betty Meyer".]

Pfeifer, Netta

- 2150 1989 John Cogan; Cogan's landscapes will transport you . . . to the heart of Arizona in the Grand Canyon and to its soul in Sedona. Southwest Art, 19(5): 124-128. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Purvis, Louis Lester

- 2151 1989 The ace in the hole: A brief history of Company 818 of the Civilian Conservation Corps. Columbus, Georgia: Brentwood Christian Press, 142 pp.
Stationed in Grand Canyon. Personal account of trail construction and other activities.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Tallon, James

- 2152 1989 Rim-sitting at the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 65(5) (May): 16-21.

1990

Anonymous

- 2153 1990 [L. B. "Tex" Worley.] In: NPS People [SECTION]. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 35(2) (February): 33.

Worley "sent a photo taken in 1988 on the rim of the Grand Canyon at the Old Timers Reunion. He wrote that it showed "what a 78-year-old park ranger looks like. Why the uniform after all these years? For the same reason a wife of 50 years will wear her wedding dress—just to see if she can get into once more.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 2154 1990 Down at the mule barn. By Betty, a Fred Harvey mule. (Photos by B. L. Bartlett.) Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers), 6(1) (December 1990/January 1991): [5]-[6].

Photos with handwritten legends.

- 2155 1990 Looking back 1950s. Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers), 6(1) (December 1990/January 1991): [7].

Collage of items: Unidentified magazine article, "Famed Composer, Broadcaster Meet at Canyon" (Renzo Nissim and Ferde Grofé); photo, "The Bright Angel Lodge in winter attire (photo by B. L. Bartlett)"; "Seasons Greetings" card from Emery and Blanche Kolb with handwritten caption, "a sea of clouds fills the canyon"; photo, "Fred Harvey girls housemother Thelma E. Bartlett enjoys the snow at the B.A. corral. (photo by B. L. Bartlett)", 1952 newspaper clipping noting the visit to Grand Canyon by Prince Abdulla Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

Birmingham Museum of Art

- 2156 1990 Splendors of the American West: Thomas Moran's art of the Grand Canyon and Yellowstone. Paintings, watercolors, drawings, and photographs from the Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art. Birmingham, Alabama: Birmingham Museum of Art, in association with University of Washington Press, Seattle and London, 95 pp.

Brown, Chip

- 2157 1990 A sublime encounter. Condé Nast Traveler, (June): 8, 104-115, 167-169; and fold-out panoramic map with pagination 183-189.

Burak, Gale

- 2158 1990 [Working at Supai, 1943 (parts 1, 2, 3).] Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 1(1): 1-3; (2): 1-3; (3): 1-3.

Reprinted from The Guide (Grand Canyon National Park), 1982.

Campbell, Suzan

- 2159 1990 Louie Ewing. Southwest Art, 20 (August): 122-126+.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

CBS News

- 2160 1990 48 Hours—In the Grand Canyon. New York: CBS.
- "48 Hours" serial program; first aired August 30, 1990. Also a transcript: CBS News, "48 Hours; In the Grand Canyon; with CBS News Correspondents Dan Rather, John Blackstone, Scott Pelley, Harry Smith, Doug Tunnell, August 30, 1990", Show #124, pp. 1-18 of 20 pp.

Couture, Cheryl

- 2161 1990 Hike to bottom of Havasupai Canyon gives students rural experience. Mountain Campus News (Northern Arizona University), 4(5): 1, 4.

Crawford, William

- 2162 1990 By train to the Grand Canyon: Once again, behind steam, in Pullman green coaches. Trains, 50(3): 69-.
- Grand Canyon Railway.

Dawson, Glen

- 2163 1990 Rainbow Bridge. The Branding Iron (Westerners, Los Angeles Corral), (181) (Fall): 24.
- Begins with reminiscence of trips to South and North Rims of Grand Canyon and Havasu Canyon.

Don Briggs Productions

- 2164 1990 Grand Canyon mule ride. Narrated by Wilford Brimley. San Francisco: Don Briggs Productions. Video. 39:00.

Edelstein, Andrew J., AND Lovece, Frank

- 2165 1990 The Brady Bunch book. New York: Warner Books, 268 pp.
- Regarding the 1971 Brady Bunch situation comedy on television, filmed in part at Grand Canyon. (The Brady Bunch. Oscar Rudolph, director; Sherwood Schwartz and Howard Leeds, writers. Situation comedy aired on ABC television network. Season 3, Episodes 1-3, comprise a three-part series where the Brady family travels to the Grand Canyon. Starring Robert Reed, Florence Henderson, Ann B. Davis, Maureen McCormick, Eve Plumb, Susan Olsen, Barry Williams, Christopher Kight, Mike Lookinland. Episode 1 includes Hoke Howell and Jim Backus; Episode 2 includes Michele Campo and Jim Backus; Episode 3 includes Jay Silverheels. Only Episodes 2 and 3 are at the Grand Canyon. Episode 1: "Ghost Town, U.S.A.", aired September 17, 1971. 26:00. Episode 2: "Grand Canyon or Bust", aired September 24, 1971. 26:00. Episode 3: "The Brady Braves", aired October 1, 1971. 26:00.)

Fleischer Museum

- 2166 1990 The Gilcrease comes to Scottsdale. Scottsdale, Arizona: FFCA Publishing Co., 105 pp.
- See William R. Leigh, pp. 46-49; Thomas Moran, pp. 56-61.

Fox, Dottie

- 2167 NO DATE Below the rim : one woman's adventures in the Grand Canyon. [No imprint; privately published], 98 pp. [Ca. 1990-1993.] [Also an unstated revised ed., Who Press (Basalt, Colorado, 2000).]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Furse, John

- 2168 1990 Exploring the Grand Canyon watercolour diaries, 1988-89. Arts Review (London), 42 (January 26): 49.
Plymouth Arts Centre, traveling exhibit.

Greenspun, Philip

- 2169 1990 Beauty and beast in canyons. Narcissism Today (AutoEros Society, Melrose, Massachusetts), 1(1) (February 15): 3.
Includes brief mention of "shame" felt during visit to South Rim during a trip through the Southwest, regarding Park Service policy prohibiting Native Americans' sale of jewelry. No other remarks about Grand Canyon.

Hough, Katherine Plake

- 2170 1990 Carl Oscar Borg. Southwest Art, 19(11) (April): cover, 66-73.
Includes Grand Canyon.

Klett, Mark

- 2171 1990 A view of the Grand Canyon in homage to William Bell. In: Bruce, Chris (curator) and Easter, Deborah (ed.), Myth of the West. Seattle: University of Washington, Henry Art Gallery, pp. 78-89. [Volume "Published in conjunction with the exhibition, Myth of the West, held at the Henry Art Gallery, University of Washington, Seattle, September 16-December 2, 1990."]

Krygier, John B.

- 2172 1990 The landscape images of Baron Frederick W. von Egloffstein, topographic artist in the American West, 1853-1859. Master's thesis, University of Wisconsin at Madison, 209 pp. [Friedrich Wilhelm von Egloffstein.]

Lewis, Hal

- 2173 1990 Steam to the Grand Canyon. Railfan and Railroad, 9(2): 42-50, 69.
Grand Canyon Railway.

McCarty, James W.

- 2174 1990 (PRODUCER, DIRECTOR) Grand Canyon experience 1990. (Frank B. Lojko, consulting producer; James McCarty and Alan Lew, videography; Stanley S. Beus, Lawrence E. Stevens, Frank Lojko, project directors; Frank B. Lojko, James McCarty, Melle Starsen, scriptwriters.) [Flagstaff, Arizona]: Northern Arizona University Television Services. Video. 40:00.

Morand, Anne R.

- 2175 1990 Thomas Moran; Yellowstone and the Grand Canyon—In the field and from the studio. In: Splendors of the American West: Thomas Moran's art of the Grand Canyon and the Yellowstone. Birmingham, Alabama: Birmingham Museum of Art, in association with University of Washington Press, Seattle and London, pp. 11-27.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Oltrogge, Maureen, AND Probst, Greg

- 2176 1990 Taking the train. Courier (U.S. National Park Service), 35(2) (March): 16-17.
Inaugural run of the revived Grand Canyon Railway.

Parks, Stephen

- 2177 1990 Grand paintings of the Canyon. Southwest Profile, (February): 23-26.
Merrill Mahaffey.

Prudden, T. Mitchell

- 2178 1990 Under the spell of the Grand Cañon. In: The West : a collection from Harper's Magazine. London: Octopus Group Ltd., pp. 36-50. [Volume also reprinted by Gallery Books (New York, 1991).]
Reprinted (without by-line) in facsimile from Prudden (1898).

Scott, Sandra

- 2179 1990 [Essay on creativity and expression of the Grand Canyon.] Regarding: (Grand Canyon Natural History Association newsletter): (April): [1-2].

Spillman, Robert

- 2180 1990 The Canyon by shanks' mare. Sports Illustrated, 72(23) (June 4): 96-97.
On foot.

United States Guano Corporation

- 2181 NO DATE The treasure of Granite Gorge. Wayne Steffner, producer; Don Henderson, director; Rick Mittleman, writer. VHS. 14:00. [1990?]
Bat Cave. Presented by United States Guano Corporation, a division of New Pacific Coal and Oils, Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

Warner, Charles Dudley

- 2182 1990 The heart of the desert. In: The West : a collection from Harper's Magazine. London: Octopus Group Ltd., pp. 431-446. [Also printed by Gallery Books (New York, 1991).]
Reprinted (without by-line) in facsimile from Warner (1891).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Way, Thomas E.

- 2183 1990 Destination: Grand Canyon. Phoenix: Golden West Publishers, 112 pp.

1991

Anonymous

- 2184 1991 First Lady Barbara Bush visits canyon. Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers), 6(2) (Spring/Summer): [1]-[2].
Facsimile reproduction from Williams-Grand Canyon News, April 18, with original title, "First lady [sic] awed by Grand Canyon; Mrs. Bush at site to mark birthday of Park Service". (75th anniversary of National Park Service.)
- 2185 1991 'Merica. Eco'r Wyddfa (Caernarfon, Wales), (172) (October): 6.] [Item signed only "Selwyn".] [In Welsh.]
Includes note of a flight over Grand Canyon, where "Myra" cried at the view.
- 2186 1991 Artist Bruce Aiken has made a career of capturing the heights of nature's bounty from the depths of the Grand Canyon. People Weekly, 36(15) (October 21): 107.

Aitchison, Stewart

- 2187 1991 Grand Canyon by trail : a visual guide to the experience of hiking the inner wonders of the Grand Canyon. Stewart Aitchison and Mike Whelan, narrators. Cottonwood, Arizona: North Star Productions. Video. 32:00.

Anderson, Nancy K.

- 2188 1991 "The kiss of enterprise": the western landscape as symbol and resource. In: Truettner, William H. (ed.), The West as America: Reinterpreting images of the frontier, 1820-1920. Washington, D.C.: Smithsonian Institution Press, for National Museum of American Art, pp. 236-283.
Exhibition catalogue.

Behrens, Shirley

- 2189 1991 Ralph Love, poetic realism. Art of the West, 4(6) (September/October): 42-47.

Bosley, Dortha E. [Bosley, Dot]

- 2190 1991 Christmas memories. Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers), 6(1) (December 1990/January 1991): [3].
"This is the first of a series of articles written by Dortha Bosley, former resident and wife of Dick Bosley. Dick was a special security officer for the Santa Fe R.R. and was the caller for the Thursday night square dances at the Bright Angel Lodge[.]"
- 2191 1991 Remember when. Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers), 6(2) (Spring/Summer): [10].
Facsimile reproduction of handwritten reminiscence of working as a Harvey Girl at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Burak, Gale

- 2192 1991 Trail reminiscences. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 2(2): 7.

Burris, Roy E.

- 2193 1991 A trip to Supai. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 2(2): 6.

Caine, Philip D.

- 2194 1991 Eagles of the RAF : the World War II Eagle squadrons. Washington, D.C.: National Defense University Press, 417 pp.

Royal Air Force. See p. 83, note in passing from interview with Edwin Taylor in the flight training school at Bakersfield, California, "where he received no instrument time and spent much of his 20 hours in the AT-6 'sneaking off to fly through the Grand Canyon.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Cole, Ethel Moore

- 2195 1991 Growing up at Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 2(2): 2.

D'Emilio, Sandra, AND Campbell, Suzan

- 2196 1991 Visions and visionaries : the art and artists of the Santa Fe Railway. Salt Lake City: Gibbs Smith Publisher, Peregrine Smith Books, 147 pp. [Limited ed. for Santa Fe Railway employees, brown leather with gilt stamping; and trade ed.; hardbound and paperbound states.]

Dylan, Bob

- 2197 1991 Bob Dylan : The Bootleg Series, Volumes 1-3 (rare and unreleased) 1961-1991. (Jeff Rosen, producer.) Columbia. (Released on either 5 vinyl records, 3 CDs, or 3 audio cassettes.) 229:37.

Includes (Disc 1, selection 22) "Last Thoughts on Woody Guthrie (Live at Town Hall, New York, NY—April 1963)" (7:07), a poem recited live in concert that ends with the often-quoted, "You'll find God in the church of your choice / You'll find Woody Guthrie in Brooklyn State Hospital / And though it's only my opinion / I may be right or wrong / You'll find them both / In the Grand Canyon / At sundown".

Grand Canyon Natural History Association

- 2198 1991 Canyon song: A lyrical journey from rim to river. Katharine Ross, narrator; Michael Collier, director; Ed George, photographer; Lew Steiger, writer; original music by Barbara "Squeek" Moore). Produced by George/Collier/Steiger Brothers Films. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association. Videotape. 33:00.

Greening, Jack Kenneth

- 2199 1991 Good clean fun at Grand Canyon Village in the 1930's. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 2(2): 1.

King, June O'Neill

- 2200 1991 A most memorable mule trip. Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers), 6(1) (December 1990/January 1991): [4].

Facsimile reproduction of King (1989).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lee, David R.

- 2201 1991 Music and landscape appreciation: A comparison of the experience. California Geographical Society, 31: 5-18.

See p. 15, "Capture the Feeling of" [sic], which briefly notes Ferde Grofé's "Grand Canyon Suite".

Sandlian, Darah

- 2202 1991 The Canyon. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 4(4) (Fall): 9. [Authors is 13 years of age.]

Suran, William C. [Suran, Bill]

- 2203 1991 The Kolb brothers of Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, 60 pp. [Cover adds subtitle: Being a collection of tales of high adventure, memorable incidents, and humorous anecdotes.]

Sylvain, Diane

- 2204 1991 Night visions about a wild and strange place. High Country News, 23(3) (February 25): 15.

First view of Grand Canyon was at night.

- 2205 1991 The Grand Canyon. In: Dark and wild [letter from Larry Holland]. High Country News, 23(8) (May 6): 15.

"A poem found in an essay written by Diane Sylvain."

Tallon, James

- 2206 1991 [Essay on journey to Toroweap Point.] In: Along the Way [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 67(5) (May): 2 [and see photo by Jack Dykinga inside front cover, with legend on p. 1].

- 2207 1991 [Essay on riding mules in the Grand Canyon; reminiscences of events and wranglers, mid-1960s.] In: Along the Way [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 67(9) (September): 2.

See also letter from Barbara Clark Marsh, Arizona Highways, 68(5) (May 1992): 3.

Thune, Margaret Nelson

- 2208 1991 My father's trip on the tram. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 2(2): 5.

Tram to Hermit Camp.

- 2209 1991 I remember Christmas Eves at Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 2(4): 3.

1992

Anonymous

- 2210 1992 Smile a while. Rimmin' (Grand Canyon Pioneers and Villagers), 7(1) (Spring/Summer): [11].

Reproduction of syndicated comic-strip cartoons regarding Grand Canyon, from "Garfield" by Jim Davis, and "The Family Circus" by Bil Keane.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Annerino, John

- 2211 1992 Running wild : through the Grand Canyon on the Ancient Path. (Foreword by Charles Bowden, photographs by Christine Keith.) Tucson: Harbinger House, 206 pp.
- 2212 1992 Aventura dentro del Cañon del Colorado. Geomundo (Mexico), 16(8): cover, 182-189. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Adventure inside the Colorado Canyon.)

Blaurock, Carl

- 2213 1992 I fall for Grand Canyon. Trail and Timberline (Colorado Mountain Club, Denver), (872) (May 1): 105-.

Burak, Gale

- 2214 1992 Trans-Canyon hiker. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 3(1): 1-2.

Calmes, Leslie Squyres

- 2215 1992 The letters between Edward Weston and Willard Van Dyke. Tucson: University of Arizona, Center for Creative Photography, 67 pp.
- See "Letter 56" (Van Dyke to Willard, July 21, 1945 (pp. 42-43; notes, p. 61), which includes (p. 43) brief, disappointed remarks on the Grand Canyon.

Cansler, Larry

- 2216 1992 Grand Canyon moods : musical sketches of the great abyss. Larry Cansler, composer, producer. Copyright Cloud Dancer Music. CD.

Catterson, Brian

- 2217 1992 Suzuki DR650S vs. Mount Trumbull; how not to get to the Grand Canyon. Cycle World, 31(9) (September): 58.
- Road test of motorbike; a failed attempt to reach the rim of Grand Canyon from Mesquite, Nevada, around both sides of Mount Trumbull.

Ciura, Catherine

- 2218 1992 Following the footsteps of Colin Fletcher. The Pine (Northern Arizona University), (January): 12-13.
- Table of contents adds: "Two women attempt to hike the entire length of the Grand Canyon, promoting research and sore feet." Pam Foti and Marcy DeMillion.

Coonts, Stephen

- 2219 1992 The Cannibal Queen : an aerial odyssey across America. New York: Pocket Books, 344 pp.
- Grand Canyon: hardbound ed., see pp. 268-271; paperbound ed., 1993, see pp. 294-298.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Corn, Alfred

- 2220 1992 From 1992. The Kenyon Review, New Series, 14(3) (Summer): 48-56.
In segment "1971", see pp. 52-54, regarding 19-year-old Mary Mankaja, a Havasupai.

Deacon, Desley

- 2221 1992 The republic of the spirit: Fieldwork in Elsie Clews Parson's turn to anthropology. Frontiers: A Journal of Women Studies, 12(3): 13-38.
See pp. 20-21, Grand Canyon experience.

Euler, Robert C., AND Tikalsky, Frank

- 2222 1992 (EDS.) The Grand Canyon : intimate views. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, 114 pp.

Grattan, Virginia L.

- 2223 1992 Mary Colter : builder upon the red earth. Grand Canyon Natural History Association, 131 pp. [New foreword by Pam Frazier, p. ix.]

Hafford, William, AND Ladd, Gary

- 2224 1992 Rim to rim to rim; the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 68(5) (May): cover, inside front cover, 38-47.

Hammer, Dianne

- 2225 1992 REA in action in the Grand Canyon. Telephone Engineer and Management, 96(6) (March 15): 40-. U.S. Department of Agriculture, Rural Electrification Administration. Microwave communications.

Hsinchu City Government (Taiwan), Urban Development Bureau [新竹市政府都市發展局]

- 2226 1992 公務出國報告 (出國類別：觀摩考察)：美國西部重點城市都市景觀及海岸規劃：考察報告 [gōngwù chūguó bàogào (chūguó lèibíe: guānmó kǎochá) : měiguó xībù zhòngdiǎn chéngshì dūshì jīngguān jí hǎi'àn guīhuà : kǎochá bàogào] [Official travel report (overseas category: observation tour) : Urban landscape and coastal planning of key cities in the western United States : examination results]. [Hsinchu City, Taiwan]: [Hsinchu City Government, Urban Development Bureau], 26 pp. [In Chinese.]

See "(二) 拉斯維加斯—大峽谷—卡力哥鬼鎮 (92.09.28~92.09.30)" [(2) lā sī wéi jiā sī—dà xiágǔ—kǎ lì gē guǐ zhèn (92.09.28~92.09.30)] [(2) Las Vegas—Grand Canyon—Calico Ghost Town (92.09.28—92.09.30)]. (Grand Canyon visit as a tourist.)

Jones, W. Paul

- 2227 1992 Trinitarian thoughts on descending into the Grand Canyon. Theology Today, 49(3) (October): 333-343.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Klett, Mark

- 2228 1992 Revealing territory : photographs of the Southwest by Mark Klett. (Essays by Patricia Nelson Limerick and Thomas W. Southall.) Albuquerque, New Mexico: University of New Mexico Press, 170 [173] pp.

Loggins, Kenny

- 2229 1992 Live from the Grand Canyon—Kenny Loggins. Jeb Brien, director. Sony Music Video Enterprises. VHS ½-inch video, color. 70:00.

Loggins, guitarist and singer.

Park, Mun-Gyu [朴文圭]

- 2230 1992 外國國立公園紀行(中). 브라이스캐년, 자이언,그랜드캐년, 요세미테. [oegugguglibgong-wongihang (jung). beulaiseukaenyeon, jaieon, geulaendeukaenyeon, yosemite.] [Journey to foreign national parks (middle). Bryce Canyon, Zion, Grand Canyon, Yosemite]. 國立公園(韓國國立公園協會) [Guólì gōngyuán (hánguó guólì gōngyuán xiéhuì)] [National Park (Korea National Park Association, Seoul)], (54/55): 54-59. [In Korean, with item and serial titles in mixed Chinese and Korean orthography.]

Second of three installments; the other two are not pertinent to this bibliography.

Phungchit Supphamit [พืงจิตต์ ศุภมิตร]

- 2231 1992 ตามเสด็จ ต่างประเทศ : คุณหญิงพืงจิตต์ ศุภมิตร [Tām sadet tāng prathēt : khunhying phung citt' ṣuphmitr] [Following her majesty abroad : ladies and gentlemen]. กรุงเทพฯ: อมรินทร์พรินติงกรุ๊ป [Krungthēp: Bōrisat 'Ammarinprintingkrup] [Bangkok: 'Ammarin Printing Group Ltd], 297 pp. (Published Thai date 2535.) [In Thai.]

Volume comprises the reminiscences of Phungchit, a lady-in-waiting to Sirikit, the queen consort of King Bhumibol Adulyade, during state visits of 1950s–1960s. Notes Grand Canyon. See also Phungchit Supphamit (2004).

Quayle, Amil D.

- 2232 1992 Stairways. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(2) (Spring): 15.

- 2233 1992 The Grand Canyon. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(4) (Fall): 28.

Radebaugh, Ray

- 2234 1992 Building a waterfall. American Rock Garden Society, Bulletin, 50(1) (Winter): 21-40.

See pp. 37-38, three color photos by Loraine Yeatts, which are suggestions for designing garden waterfalls: "Mimulus cardinalis, Deer Creek Falls, Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona", and "Waterfall on Deer Creek, with Adiantum capillaris-veneris".

Sweigert, Susan

- 2235 1992 Grand Canyon exploratory backpack; October 9-18. The Rambler (Wasatch Mountain Club, Salt Lake City), 69(12) (December): cover, 2, 23-25.

Descent of Tuckup Canyon, with a hitch-hike on the river to Lava Falls, and a hike out from there.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Thybonny, Scott

- 2236 1992 Hermit. In: Lyon, Thomas J., and Stine, Peter (eds.), On Nature's terms : contemporary voices. College Station, Texas: A&M University Press, pp. 25-28.

Van Dyke, John C.

- 2237 1992 The Grand Canyon of the Colorado : recurrent studies in impressions and appearances. (Foreword by Peter Wild.) Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press, xxii + 218 pp.
Foreword pp. vii-xvii; text in facsimile from Van Dyke (1920).

Warwick, Ioanna-Veronika

- 2238 1992 Grand Canyon. Parting Gifts, 5(2) (Winter 1992-1993): 37.
Title typeset as "fGrand Canyon", which seems to be a typographical error.

Winter, Larry

- 2239 1992 The dangerous trip to Cape Solitude, a white-knuckler all the way. In: Back Road Adventure [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 68(7) (July): 54.
Accompanied by photo by Gary Ladd, "The confluence of the Colorado River and the Little Colorado River can be seen from Cape Solitude", inside back cover.

Zimmerman, Karl

- 2240 1992 All aboard for the South Rim. Americana, 20(3) (August): 44-50.
Grand Canyon Railway.

1993

Anonymous

- 2241 1993 A bit of a stretch? Colorado Plateau Advocate, (Spring/Summer): 10.
Artist Nicolino's proposal to string a line of brassieres across the Canyon.
- 2242 1993 Gair gan Delyth . . . Eco'r Wyddfa (Caernarfon, Wales), (190) (May): 13. [Item signed only, "Delyth". Ellipsis is part of title.] [In Welsh.]
(transl. 'A word from Delyth')
Regarding part of the author's trip to America; this installment includes a trip into Havasu Canyon.
- 2243 1993 A wild rough trip to Havasupai Point and Bass Camp. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 4(8): 1-2.

Bell, Judith

- 2244 1993 Illusions and allegories. U.S. Air Magazine, (August):.
Painting by Mark Tansey, "Constructing the Grand Canyon".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Brinkley, Douglas

- 2245 1993 The magic bus : an American odyssey. New York: Harcourt Brace, 513 pp.
Includes Grand Canyon.

Brown, Ann

- 2246 1993 Sharing your success; conquering the Canyon. Weight Watchers Magazine, 26(7): 62.

Brownell, Lisa

- 2247 1993 Rim with a view. Brown Alumni Monthly, 93(6) (March): 56.

Bugbee, Beth

- 2248 1993 Rim sitting at the Grand Canyon. Daughters of the American Revolution Magazine, 127(10) (December): 772.

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 2249 1993 Notes from Harvey Butchart's diary. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 4(4): 1.
"My First Visit to Supai", 1946.

- 2250 1993 More on the Salt Trail Canyon. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 4(3): 6-7.

Cadden, Tom

- 2251 1993 Walking through time. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 29(5) (June): 6.

Clyde, Norman

- 2252 1993 Christmas at Grand View Point—the Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 4(9): 4-5.

Cohen, Michael J.

- 2253 1993 Integrated ecology: The process of counseling with nature. The Humanistic Psychologist, 21 (Autumn): 277-295.

Begins with the author's reflections on experiencing a thunderstorm in Grand Canyon.

Danley, Richard L.

- 2254 1993 A winter dreamscape. Arizona Highways, 69(2) (February): 24-31.

Ferrell, Andre

- 2255 1993 Grand Canyon. In: GeoKids write about the earth. GeoNews (Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia), 1(1): 9.

Poem.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Finkbine, Bob

- 2256 1993 Mosi-Oa-Tunya (smoke that roars) : poems of the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], 124 pp.
See also Finkbine (2000).

Ganci, Dave

- 2257 1993 In search of flowers in the Inner Canyon. Phoenix Magazine, 28(6): 88-95.

Gonzales, Ray

- 2258 1993 Easter Sunday, 1988, The Grand Canyon, Arizona. In: McNamee, Gregory (ed.), Named in stone and sky : an Arizona anthology. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, pp. 169-170.

Hartz, Deborah

- 2259 1993 A different view of the Grand Canyon. Future Reflections (National Federation of the Blind Magazine for Parents and Teachers of Blind Children), 12(2) (Spring/Summer):.
See also Hartz (1994, 1995).

Ichikawa, Yoshiteru [市川嘉輝]

- 2260 1993 アメリカにおける『寒冷地河川における水理・水文に関する国際ワークショップ』に参加して [Amerika ni okeru "kanrei-chi kasen ni okeru mizu ri. Mizu bun ni kansuru kokusai wākushoppu" ni sankā shite] [Participating in the International Workshop on "Hydraulics in cold districts. International workshop on hydrology"]. 開発土木研究所月報 (北海道開発土木研究所) [kaihatsu dobokukenyūsho geppō (Hokkaidōkaihatsu dobokukenyūsho)] [Civil Engineering Research Institute Monthly Report (Hokkaido Institute of Civil Engineering), Sapporo], (487) (December): 123-128. [In Japanese.]

Includes remarks on a visit to Grand Canyon.

Kardong, Don

- 2261 1993 Over the edge. Runner's World (Easton, Pennsylvania), 28 (September): 58-63.
Rim-to-rim run.

Kuhn, Tom, AND Ladd, Gary

- 2262 1993 The lure of Thunder River. Arizona Highways, 69(5) (May): 40-44, back cover.

Lyons, Lana

- 2263 1993 Looking up at the Grand Canyon: An artist's view. Courier (newsmagazine of the National Park Service), 38(3): cover, inside front cover, 5-6.

Artist Kevin Adams.

McCray, Sherrita

- 2264 1993 At the Grand Canyon. In: GeoKids write about the earth. GeoNews (Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia), 1(1): 4.

Poem.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Miquel Bescansa, Ramón

- 2265 1993 El Gran Cañon : la historia de la tierra esculpida por el paso de un rio escarlata en los estratos rocosos de una colossal garganta. Madrid: Gallery/Healthcom, 1st ed., 63 pp. (Printed by Datagrafic, S.L.) ("Copyright 1992 Alonga". "Primera edición: Marzo 1993".) [Rear cover includes imprint of Laboratorios Alonga, S.A., Madrid.] [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'The Grand Canyon: the history of the land carved by the passage of a scarlet river in the rocky strata of a colossal gorge')

Cover title: Las Maravillas Universales : El Gran Cañon. (transl. 'The Universal Wonders: The Grand Canyon')

"N.B. El Dr. Miquel Jr. visitó el Gran Cañón del Colorado en el Otoño de 1991, escribiendo dos crónicas sobre el mismo, algunas de cuyas vivencias han sido vertidas en este libro. (Nota del Editor, Diniz Almeida)" (p. [3]) (transl. 'Dr. Miquel Jr. visited the Grand Canyon of Colorado in the Autumn of 1991, writing two chronicles about it, some of whose experiences have been expressed in this book. (Editor's Note, Diniz Almeida)').

Nemes Nagy, Ágnes

- 2266 1993 Iowa, 1979; Amerikai napló; részletek. Holmi (Budapest), 5(1) (January): 32-42. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'Iowa, 1979; American diary; details')

Selections from a diary. Includes several remarks relating to Grand Canyon, pp. 35-37. See also poem in Nemes Nagy (1986).

Orange Tree Productions

- 2267 1993 The sounds of the Grand Canyon : beautiful music and the natural symphony of the Grand Canyon. (Grant Geissman, acoustic guitar; Chuck Greenberg, flute; Tim Heintz and David Goldblatt, piano; Lee Ann Harris, percussion.) Newberry Park, California: Orange Tree Productions. CD. (The National Park Series™.)

Palmer, Parker J.

- 2268 1993 Grand Canyon. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 6(1) (Winter 1992/1993): 21.

Pendleton, Shawn

- 2269 1993 My poem about the Grand Canyon. In: GeoKids write about the earth. GeoNews (Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia), 1(1): 1.

Ревну, Богдан [Певний, Богдан]

- 2270 1993 Вітаїзм Михайла Мороза [Vitayizm Mykhayla Moroza] [The vitatism of Mikhail Moroz]. Сучасність / Sučasnist (Республіканської асоціації українознавців, Київ, Україна [Respublikans'koyi asotsiatsiyi ukraïnoznavtsiv, Kyiv, Ukrainina] [Republican Association of Ukrainian Studies, Kyiv, Ukraine], and South Orange, New Jersey, USA), (May 5): 130-141. [In Ukrainian.]

See p. 139, mention, in passing, of Moroza's travel in Colorado and Arizona in 1965. See p. 136, color reproduction, "Гренд каньйон", 1965, полотно, олія, 30" x 25" (transl. "'Grand Canyon", 1965, canvas, oil, 30" x 25'). No text mention of this painting.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Price, Edna Calkins

- 2271 1993 Burro Bill and me : Death Valley to Grand Canyon by burro via Arizona Strip. Death Valley, California: Death Valley Natural History Association, 279 pp.
- "Text from the 1973 edition. Death Valley Natural History Association added photos and captions." (p. [ii]). See also Price (1973, 2004).

Richfield, Paul J.

- 2272 1993 The turbulent times of a tour pilot. Flying, 120(3) (March): 74-75.

Scott, Steve

- 2273 1993 Eloy, Arizona. In: DZ's around the world [SECTION]. Sport Parachutist (British Parachute Association, Glen Parva, Leicester), (April/May): 40-41.
- See p. 40, brief remark on a side trip in a Twin Otter (no parachuting) to visit Grand Canyon. (DZ: Drop Zone.)

Seely, Rob

- 2274 1993 Havasu Canyon backpack, Grand Canyon National Park, October 29-November 1. The Rambler (Wasatch Mountain Club, Salt Lake City), 70(12) (December): 27-29.

Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery and Sculpture Garden

- 2275 1993 Pictures on Stone: American Color Lithography, 1836-1913 from the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery and Sculpture Garden, University of Nebraska-Lincoln : Seventh Annual Sheldon Statewide Touring Exhibition. Lincoln: University of Nebraska, Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery and Sculpture Garden, [6] pp.
- Exhibit guide for 11 venues, September 1993-July 1994. See p. [4], "Thomas Moran, 1837-1926, Grand Canyon of Arizona From Hermit Rim Road 1913, chromolithograph . . . ."

Sinclair, Jon

- 2276 1993 Grand Canyon memories. Runner's World (Easton, Pennsylvania), 28(11): 14.

Skinner, Vernon

- 2277 1993 The Grand Canyon. In: GeoKids write about the earth. GeoNews (Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia), 1(1): 6.
- Poem.

[Spamer, Earle E.]

- 2278 1993 [Untitled.] In: Spamer, Earle E. (compiler), Bibliography of the Grand Canyon and the lower Colorado River, from 1540. Grand Canyon Natural History Association, Monograph 8, Supplement 1, page [x-2].
- May also be cited with a title derived from first line: "Dawn". Dated "El Tovar June 6, 1992"; actually written in the 2nd floor northeast porch suite, at dawn.

Dawn.

The Canyon keeps secrets. Heads of buttes rise from the dark, gray chasm. Like an artist's sketch, lonely and ghostly, they show more form than substance.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

The sun, rising quietly, strikes planes of white light on the canyon's rim. Details waken.

Then, with broad strokes, pastels flow over the murky grays, revealing the ageless form of creation—and the earth cut open to show the laboring and ceaseless pace of time.

Thybony, Scott

- 2279 1993 Grand Canyon beneath the rim. Men's Journal, 2(2) (May/June): cover, 86-93, 96, 99, 100, 102. [Article title on cover and on contents page (p. 5) reads "Grand Canyon: the great adventures".]

See also letters by W. E. Reinka and Tom Jensen, (September): 20.

Wendt, Gene

- 2280 1993 A Christmas at Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 4(1): 1.

- 2281 1993 Musing on the old days at Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 4(4): 5.

Wheeler, Kasim

- 2282 1993 Grand Canyon. In: GeoKids write about the earth. GeoNews (Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia), 1(1): 2.

Poem.

- 2283 1993 The Grand Canyon. In: GeoKids write about the earth. GeoNews (Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia), 1(1): 5.

Poem.

1994

Adams, Ansel

- 2284 1994 Ansel Adams : the National Park Service photographs. (Introduction by Alice Gray.) New York, London, and Paris: Abbeville Press Publishers, 352 pp. (A Tiny Folio.)

Alexander, Sue

- 2285 1994 William Neill's natural cause. In: On Location [SECTION]. American Photo, 5(2) (March/April): 100.

Photographer William Neill. Notes his Grand Canyon work; with photograph, "Havasu Falls, Havasupai Indian Reservation, Grand Canyon, Arizona".

Ayers, Lon

- 2286 1994 Peasants on the throne; a difficult hike reveals the true meaning of wilderness. Nature Notes (Grand Canyon National Park), 10(1): 5-6.

Bain, George

- 2287 1994 Vishnu Temple. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 31-43.

Rock climbing.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bermudes, Robert W.

- 2288 1994 Teenage impression. In: Arizona Humor [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 70(4) (April): 50.
Remark on the view at Yaki Point by the writer's nephew.

Bonfiglio [Bonfiglio, Robert]

- 2289 1994 Bonfiglio live at the Grand Canyon. Katonah, New York: High Harmony Records. CD (HHCD 1003) and audio tape.

Brinkley, Douglas

- 2290 1994 The majic bus : an American odyssey. New York: Doubleday, 523 pp. [With updated and revised introduction.]
See pp. 319-325.

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 2291 1994 [Letter to Bill Suran about Bridge of Sighs.] Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter, 5(5): 7.
Accompanying the item by Robert Dawson, "The Bridge of Sighs" (pp. 6-7).

Chandler, Mitzi

- 2292 1994 I see something grand. (Illustrated by Barbara Epstein-Eagle.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, 30 pp.

Cole, Harry ("Ole Harry Cole")

- 2293 1994 Trips to Phantom Ranch. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 5(8): 2.

Dean, Janet

- 2294 1994 Canyon inspired a century of artwork. Sundial (Arizona Daily Sun, Flagstaff), (January 29): A6.

Dedera, Don

- 2295 1994 Capers, schemes, and dicey descents mark Canyon's long history. In: Roadside Rest [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 70(2) (February): 51.

Deth Boat [musical group]

- 2296 1994 Donkey ride down the Grand Canyon | Lemmings. Deth Boat. 45-rpm record.
Listen to "Donkey ride", A side. Deth Boat artists Jason Candler, Dan Hanchrow, George Rigney.

Dew, Josie

- 2297 1994 Travels in a strange state : cycling across the U.S.A. (Drawings by Melanie Dew, maps by Peter Wilson.) Boston, New York, Toronto, and London: Little, Brown and Co., 276 pp.
Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Foerster, Jeanne F.

- 2298 1994 Into the Grand Canyon; the burdened national park still has natural secluded places. Nude and Natural, 14(1): 33.

NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).

Hadley, Drum

- 2299 1994 Grand Canyon. In: Dofflemyer, John C. (ed.), Maverick western verse. Layton, Utah: Gibbs Smith, p. 41.

Hanson, Roseann, AND McCain, Edward

- 2300 1994 Challenging the Canyon in winter. Arizona Highways, 70(2) (February): 38-44.
Cross-countrying skiing on the Kaibab Plateau and North Rim.

Hartz, Deborah

- 2301 1994 A different view of the Grand Canyon. In: Jernigan, Kenneth (ed.), When the blizzard blows. Baltimore, Maryland: National Federation of the Blind, pp. 46-51. [Large-print ed.]

Volume comprises essays by blind authors who demonstrate that they “are ordinary people and far from helpless”. This essay relates to the author’s family hike with their young blind daughter and a baby, Bright Angel Trail to Tonto Plateau and to Bright Angel Campground and Phantom Ranch.

Hoegl, Andrew

- 2302 1994 (ED.) Road trip : true travel across America. New York: St. Martin’s Press, 257 pp.
Grand Canyon, see in pp. 208-218.

Jin, Jun-Hyeok [진준혁]

- 2303 1994 미국의 국립공원; “그랜드캐년” 紀行 [migug-ui guglibgong-won; “geulaendeukaenyeon” gihang] [National parks of the United States; “Grand Canyon” trip]. 國立公園 (韓國 國立 公園 協會) [Guólì gōngyuán (hánguó guólì gōngyuán xiéhuì)] [National Park (Korea National Park Association, Seoul)], (60): 54-58. [In Korean, with item and serial titles in mixed Chinese and Korean orthography.]

Johnson, Tom

- 2304 1994 Inside the Canyon . . . a photo feature by Tom Johnson. Canyon Magazine, 1(1): 16-21. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Kenny Endo, Taiko Ensemble

- 2305 1994 Eternal energy. Berkeley, California: Asian Improv Records. CD.
Listen to “Havasupai”.

Kerry, Bob, AND Muench, Marc

- 2306 1994 A pilgrimage to Zoroaster; rock-climbing in the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 70(2) (February): cover, 1, 4-11.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

King, June O'Neill

- 2307 1994 Grand rememberings of a canyon. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (March): 27.

Kristian, Ulf, AND B., Tom

- 2308 1994 Road trip: USA. Rullebladet (Norsk Organisasjon for Rullebrett, Oslo), 1994(3): [10]-[12] [page count includes wraps]. [In Norwegian.]
- Skateboarding. Grand Canyon, see p. 12.

Laughton, Alice

- 2309 1994 Grand Canyon and beyond. The PackRat (Rocky Mountain Ramblers Association, Calgary, Alberta), (July): 3.

Lippman, Bob

- 2310 1994 Deep ecology in the Grand Canyon. In: Perspectives on the Glen Canyon Dam Environmental Impact Draft Statement. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon River Guides, p. 26. [Verse.]

Matthes, François E.

- 2311 1994 Breaking a trail through Bright Angel Canyon. In: Lamb, Susan (ed.), The best of Grand Canyon Nature Notes. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, pp. 2-4.
- Reprinted from Grand Canyon Nature Notes, November 1927.

McKee, Edwin D.

- 2312 1994 On Canyon trails, parts I and II. In: Lamb, Susan (ed.), The best of Grand Canyon Nature Notes. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, pp. 9-10.
- Reprinted from McKee (1933).

Metzger, Art; Turnbull, John; AND Schick, Jeanne

- 2313 1994 Laura and Elmer Nelson of Grand Canyon. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 5(8): 6.

Meyer, Betty Kent [Meyer, Elizabeth Kent]

- 2314 1994 Memories of life at Grand Canyon in the 1920s and 30s. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 5(8): 5.

Nutting, Mary Jo

- 2315 1994 One step at a time. Think and Believe (Alpha Omega Institute, Grand Junction, Colorado), 11(4) (July/August): [1].
- Inspirational reminiscence on hiking in Grand Canyon.

Ohlman, Jim

- 2316 1994 Dana Butte. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 5(7): 6-7.
- A photo of the bin mentioned in this article appears in 5(9): 6.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Pearson, Helen

- 2317 1994 Different in those days; early trip to Grand Canyon, story of travail. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 5(11): 6. [From Arizona Republic, April 15, 1965.]
Brief recap of the first automobile trip to Grand Canyon, 1902.

Vogelsang, Arthur

- 2318 1994 The nose, the Grand Canyon, and the sixties. Antioch Review, (Winter):.

Wakeland, Bill

- 2319 1994 Grand Canyon 1994. In: Trip Reports [SECTION]. Scree (Mountaineering Club of Alaska), 37(7) (July): 2-3.

Williams, Terry Tempest

- 2320 1994 An unspoken hunger : stories from the field. New York: Vintage Books, 144 pp.
See "Stone Creek woman", pp. 67-72.

1995

Anonymous

- 2321 1995 Junior Ranger haiku. Nature Notes (Grand Canyon National Park), 11(4) (Winter): 5, 6.
Haiku by writers identified only by first names: Graham, Gwyn, Mariya, Jade, Katie, Kimberly, Anna, Rebecca, Carolyn, and Kaveh.
- 2322 1995 The art of Ed Mell. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(8): 12.
- 2323 1995 18 Wagen Westwärts; Erlebnissrallye USA 1995. Geländewagen und Freizeit (Mercedes G-Club e.V., Radolfzeil, Germany), 4 (September): cover, 3-18. [Cover tease: "Mit 18 G durch den Südwesten der USA". (transl. 'With 18 Gs through the southwest of the USA.')] [In German.]
(transl. '18 wagons westbound; Adventure Rally USA 1995.')

Includes trip to Toroweap.

Adams, Ansel

- 2324 1995 Ansel Adams : the National Park Service photographs. (Introduction by Alice Gray.) New York, London, and Paris: Artebrass, 144 pp.

Albertson, Lee [Albertson, Leland C., Jr.]

- 2325 1995 A report on the Easter sunrise service at Columbus Point. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(7): 10.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Aschenbach, Myreen

- 2326 1995 Volunteer field trip to Grand Canyon West. Desert Trumpet (Friends of Red Rock Canyon, Las Vegas), (Summer): 6-7.

Audretsch, Robert W., AND Ladd, Gary

- 2327 1995 Bushwhacking to Grand Canyon's hidden Cheyava Falls. Arizona Highways, 71(3) (March): cover, 38-44.

Barrett, Elaine

- 2328 1995 Pictographs in an Arizona ruin. Earthworks (Ancient Earthworks Society, Madison, Wisconsin), (Summer Soltice): 8-9.

Includes comments on visiting Grand Canyon.

Brown, Dick

- 2329 1995 Sights, sounds and thoughts of Hance's old river camp. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(8): 10-11.

Burak, Gale

- 2330 1995 Canyon impressions of a backpacker. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(5) (May): 1-3.

- 2331 1995 Yaki by moonlight. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(8): 2-3.

Originally in 1942.

- 2332 1995 The family next door. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(9): 2-3.

Bruce Aiken and family.

Butterworth, W. E., IV

- 2333 1995 Blast to the past; hiking the historic Grand Canyon's narrow trails, Scouts discover one wrong step can make you history too. Boys' Life, 85(2) (February): 24-27.

D'Emilio, Sandra, AND Campbell, Suzan

- 2334 1995 Canyon dreamers: Painting for the railway. Cañon Journal, 1(2): 4-15.

Dunn, Louise

- 2335 1995 A trip down Bright Angel Trail. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(10): 4-8.

Furey-Werhan, Carol

- 2336 1995 Bruce Aiken speaks to GCPS at Verkamp's store. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(5) (May): 9.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Glusman, John A.

- 2337 1995 The Grand Canyon; a journey through time. (Photographs by I. Alston.) Gourmet, 55(5): 150-153, 222-225.

Green, Keith

- 2338 1995 A hike up Phantom Creek. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(7): 6.
Reprinted from Williams News, April 19, 1995.

Grofé, Ferde

- 2339 1995 Story of the Grand Canyon Suite. In: Classics Section. Arizona Highways, 71(4) (April): Classics 14-16.
Originally published in the December 1938 issue.

Gunn, Nicholas

- 2340 1995 The music of the Grand Canyon. Sausalito, California: Real Music. CD. 53:27. Program notes on container insert. RM1422. (National Parks Series.) [Also various later releases under other labels.]

Hance, John

- 2341 1995 The brightest angel. In: The Rapture of the Wild [FEATURE]. Backpacker, 23(6) (August) (143): 99.
"Hermit John Hance, 1907, on how the Bright Angel Trail, located in Arizona's Grand Canyon, got its name."
Source uncredited.

Hartz, Deborah

- 2342 1995 A different view of the Grand Canyon. Braille Monitor, 38(1) (January):.
Excerpt from Hartz (1993), with introductory comments by editor Barbara Pierce.

Hoàng, Phú Cường

- 2343 1995 Ở Grand Canyon. [In Grand Canyon.] Tạp Chí Thơ [Poetry Magazine] (Garden Grove, California), (Spring): 20. [In Vietnamese.]

Huseman, Ben W.

- 2344 1995 Wild river, timeless canyons : Balduin Möllhausen's watercolors of the Colorado. Fort Worth, Texas: Amon Carter Museum (distributed by University of Arizona Press, Tucson), 232 pp.
Includes Möllhausen's views at the mouth of Diamond Creek, made following his 1858 visit during the Ives expedition.

Johnson, B. J., AND Openshaw, Sean

- 2345 1995 Coming to terms with the Canyon; backpacking is a test of will. Pinnacle (Arizona Daily Sun), (May): 8-9.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kuhn, Tom, AND Griffin, Fred

- 2346 1995 Christmas Eve at Phantom Ranch. Arizona Highways, 71(12) (December): 4-9.

Lehmann-Haupt, Rachel

- 2347 1995 Sacred raves. These all-night dance marathons look like hedonistic escape, but raves may just be the defining spiritual expression of a new generation. Yoga Journal, (May/June): 76-81.

Includes a (daytime) photo, "Fraser Clark, left, officiates at the symbolic Zippie wedding of the Techno and Rainbow Nations, held at the Grand Canyon. Earth Girl, center, represents the Ravers." Text notes, in passing, that "The Zippies threw a mega rave at the Grand Canyon last summer, which drew over 7,000 people and made national headlines."

Li, Hongzhi [李洪志]

- 2348 1995 洪吟 [Hóng yín]. 益群 [Taibei Shi]: Yi qun shu dian gu fen you xian gong si, 83 pp. [In Chinese.]

See note with Li (2007).

Liebig, Sally

- 2349 1995 Hearty pioneers trek to Havasupai. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(7): 8-9.

Hike into Havasu Canyon.

Metzger, Ethel Abbot

- 2350 1995 Sky-line boulevarding! O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(6): 1-2, 5.

Ford tri-motor over Grand Canyon.

Murillo, Ernesto

- 2351 1995 Vértigo en el Cañón del Colorado : poema en cinco actos, escrito en Arizona USA, en abril de 1991. Vertigo at the Grand Canyon : a poem in five acts, written in Arizona in April 1991. (Illustrations by Carlos Bolton.) Santiago, Chile: Ediciones Ala Antigua, 13 pp. (UCB Chile Linkages Project, Biblioteca Nacional de Chile.) [In Spanish, with parallel translation in English by María Isabel Murillo.]

Nelson, David A.

- 2352 1995 Rabbi on the road. Ha Kol (Congregation Beth Shalom, Oak Park, Michigan), (Iyar-Sivan 5755) (May): 3.

Brief remarks, with photo, of visit to Grand Canyon.

Oyarzún, Luis

- 2353 1995 Diario íntimo. (Edición y prólogo de Leonidas Morales T.) Santiago, Chile: Universidad de Chile, Talleres del Departamento de Estudios Humanísticos, 638 [640] pp. [In Spanish.] [Also reprinted; see Oyarzún (2017).]

(transl. 'Intimate diary')

Under "Año 1957", see "Gran Cañón del Colorado, Arizona, 21 de mayo (The Angel Lodge)" (pp. 261-262). (Bright Angel Lodge.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Sanden, Bernie

- 2354 1995 Grand Canyon public star party 1994. SACNews (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix, Arizona), (217) (February): 1-5.

Schreier, Jim, AND Wall, Russ

- 2355 1995 Grand music for the grandest canyon lives in the artistry of Ferde Grofé. In: Along the Way [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 71(1) (January): 2.

Sturla Friðriksson

- 2356 1995 Mikla Gljúfur (Grand Canyon). (Kvæði.) Skjöldur (Reykjavík), 4(4): 19. [In Icelandic; poem title is bilingual] [Kvæði: transl. 'poem']

- 2357 1995 Mikla Gljúfur (Grand Canyon). (Kvæði.) Freyr (Reykjavík), 91(12): 474. [In Icelandic; poem title is bilingual] [Kvæði: transl. 'poem']

Vendrell, Elisabeth

- 2358 1995 Estats Units de costa a costa. Ca la Dona (Barcelona), (22) (November): 20-23. [In Catalan.] (transl. 'United States from coast to coast')

Includes Grand Canyon.

1996

Anonymous

- 2359 1996 [Note.] In: Class Notes [SECTION]. Connecticut College Magazine (New London, Connecticut), 5(4) (Spring): 51.

Elizabeth Swisher Childs, '44, and husband Orlo visited Grand Canyon with family. "Orlo was a park ranger there in the '30s and still can lecture on everything in the canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 2360 1996 Wickenburg. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 7(5): 2.

Remarks on slide shows given by Mrs. Lenora Bass at her home in Wickenburg, Arizona.

Abbey, Edward

- 2361 1996 Fire lookout. In: Maughan, Jackie Johnson (compiler, ed.), Go tell it on the mountain. Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania: Stackpole Books, pp. 1-5.

Albertson, Lee [Albertson, Leland C., Jr.]

- 2362 1996 The 1996 Easter sunrise service. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 7(6): 6.

Allen, Floyd

- 2363 1996 Troop 34's awesome adventure; Arizona Explorers host Pennsylvania scouts for a week of outdoor fun highlighted by hiking and camping in the Grand Canyon. Scouting (Boy Scouts of America), 84(2) (March/April): 20-23, 48.

Havasu Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Andre, Linda

- 2364 1996 Landscape painting: Artists who love the land. Art to Zoo (Smithsonian Institution, Office of Elementary and Secondary Education), (March/April): 1-16 [entire issue].

Includes Thomas Moran and "The Chasm of the Colorado".

Book, Jeff

- 2365 1996 In the land of the Hopi. House Beautiful, 138(5): 50, 52-53, 56, 119.

Hopi-inspired architecture at Grand Canyon.

Brown, Robert A.

- 2366 1996 (COMPILER; WITH Endeavour Astronauts, NASA Johnson Space Center) Endeavour views the earth : astronauts' photographs from Space Shuttle Mission STS-47. Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, 85 pp.

See "The Grand Canyon, Arizona", pp. 22-23.

Burak, Gale

- 2367 1996 On being a Hermit ranger. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 7(7): 1-3; 7(9): 4, 6.

Cadden, Tom

- 2368 1996 Looking for something completely different? A winter rim-to-rim trip will cure you of those thoughts. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 32(3) (April): 7.

See also photo by Gloria Cadden, p. 1.

Clark, Shaun

- 2369 1996 From Igor Prince of Poodles to Buckskin Gulch; my third year of law school. The Loyola Reporter (Loyola Law School Student Newspaper) (Loyola Marymount University, Los Angeles), 19(8) (April 30): 8-9.

Review of trips in the Southwest. See "Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona" (p. 8). ("Igor Prince of Poodles" is a rock climbing route in Joshua Tree National Park, California.)

Dawson, John, AND Craighead, Charles

- 2370 1996 The Grand Canyon : an artist's view : a walk through Grand Canyon National Park. Salt Lake City: Haggis House Publications, Inc., 64 pp.

Deep Sea Music [musical group]

- 2371 1996 Canyon dreams. St. Laurent, Quebec: Madacy Entertainment. CD.

Dillon, Jeff

- 2372 1996 Ah... Supai! Flagstaff Live!, (May 23-June 5): 12, 15. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dudley, Gail, AND Danley, Richard L.

- 2373 1996 Nankoweap; the most difficult trail in the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 72(10) (October): cover, 1, 4-11.

Dunn, David

- 2374 1996 Environmental sound works by David Dunn, 1973-85. [No place]: Innova Recordings, 2 CDs, 2:15:30.

Listen to Disk 1, no. 1, "Nexus 1" (14:39); improvisational elements by Dunn; Ralph Dudgeon, Ed Harkins, and Jack Logan, trumpets. From the liner notes: "Nexus 1 was performed and recorded in the interior of the Grand Canyon National Park over a three-day period from the 17th to the 20th of June, 1973. All performance and recording took place in the area known as Hermit's Gorge [Hermit Canyon], approximately two miles down into the canyon interior along Hermit's Trail [Hermit Trail]. The score specified sound gestures which the trumpets could articulate interactively with the canyon environment. This interreaction primarily focused upon 1) the extended reverberation and extraordinary spatial acoustics of the rock formations, and 2) the non-human life forms such as the crows [sic] heard throughout the performance recording."

Ewazen, Eric

- 2375 1996 Grand Canyon octet : an octet in three movements : by Eric Ewazen : for Thomas Bacon and the Arizona State University Horns. Southern Music Co. (SU433.) [Individually paginated scores for conductor (41 pp.) and eight trombones (124 pp. total).]

Ferrari, Vincent G.

- 2376 1996 Hiking the Grand Canyon. Naturally, (21) (Fall): 9-10, 34.

NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).

Filter [musical group]

- 2377 1996 Filter 950. Phenomenology. Warner Reprise Records. Video. 93:00.
Heavy metal musical group; including its origins at Grand Canyon.

Fish, Peter

- 2378 1996 Bright Angel, bright mule. Sunset (Central West ed.), 196 (March): 14.

Ford, Byron C.

- 2379 1996 I hiked the Canyon after 50. Escondido, California: Byron C. Ford, 36 pp.

Hagerty, Donald J.

- 2380 1996 Beyond the visible terrain: The art of Ed Mell. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, 164 pp.

- 2381 1996 Ed Mell; alliance of land, light and sky. Southwest Art, 26(4) (September): cover, 70-76.
Excerpt from Beyond the Visible Terrain.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hitt, Jack

- 2382 1996 On Earth as it is in heaven; field trips with the apostles of creation science. Harper's Magazine, 293(1758) (November): 51-60.
- Grand Canyon, see p. 58.

Holmes, Burton

- 2383 1996 An 1898 trip to Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 7(4): 1, 3-4.
- Excerpt from Holmes, 1905). See also comment by Betty Myer, 7(7): 6 (name omitted in error, see correction in 7(10): 2).

Kardong, Don

- 2384 1996 Hills, hawks and Ho Chi Minh : more tales of a wayward runner. Sandpoint, Idaho: Keokee Co. Publishing, 254 [256] pp.
- See "Grand Canyon", pp. 201-209. Rim-to-rim run.

Kastelic, Nathaniel

- 2385 1996 The Grand Canyon trip; by Nathaniel Kastelic, 10 years old[,], 5th grade Aztec Elementary School in Scottsdale, Arizona. ΣΚΟΛΕ [SKOLE] (the Journal of Alternative Education) (Down-to-Earth Books, Albany, New York), 3(1) (Winter): 24-25.

Knuth, Donald, et al.

- 2386 1996 Knuth meets NTG members. March 13th, 1996. MAPS (Nederlandstalige TeX Gebruikersgroep), 16(96.1): 38-49.
- Transcript of questions and answers. See p. 41: Knuth recalls that he wrote the METAFONT computer programs for letters A and B while sitting under a tree for an hour at the Grand Canyon, during a family camping trip.

Kostka, Robert

- 2387 1996 Die Faszination der Canyons. Oesterreichischer Alpenverein, Akademische Sektion Graz, Mitteilungen (Graz, Austria), 1996: 32-38. [In German.]
- (transl. 'The fascination of canyons')
- Grand Canyon, pp. 32-34.

Lockwood, C. C.

- 2388 1996 Beneath the rim : a photographic journey through the Grand Canyon. Baton Rouge, Louisiana: Louisiana State University Press, 130 pp.

McCroskey, Mona Lange

- 2389 1996 (ED.) Summer sojourn to the Grand Canyon : the 1898 diary of Zella Dysart. Prescott, Arizona: HollyBear Press, 108 pp. [See McCroskey (2003) for 2nd ed.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Morand, Anne R.

- 2390 1996 Thomas Moran : the field sketches, 1856-1923. Norman, Oklahoma, and London: University of Oklahoma Press, for Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art, Tulsa, 313 pp. + 40 pp. color plates. (Gilcrease-Oklahoma Series on Western Art and Artists, Volume 4.)

Potter, Janet Greenstein

- 2391 1996 Great American railroad stations. New York: John Wiley and sons, Inc., 570 pp.
Grand Canyon depot, see pp. 418-419, 429.

Sadoff, Ira

- 2392 1996 At the Grand Canyon. The Kenyon Review, 18(2): 149-150.

Sakaki, Nanao

- 2393 1996 Break the mirror : the poems of Sakaki Nanao. (Foreword by Gary Snyder.) Nobleboro, Maine: Blackberry Books, 126 pp.
Volume reprints Sakaki (1987). See "Far Above the Grand Canyon", p. 115. See also Tähtinen (2011).

Smigelski, Seth

- 2394 1996 [Untitled.] Nature Notes (Grand Canyon National Park), 12(2) (Summer): 6.

Spence, John R.

- 2395 1996 Untitled. Nature Notes (Grand Canyon National Park), 12(3) (Fall): 5.
Title thus.

1997

Anonymous

- 2396 1997 An unforgettable trip to Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter), 8(4): 4.
Regarding the first commercial trip by Grand Canyon Stage Line, May 26, 1893, and a repeat trip by George and Sharon Yard in 1993.
- 2397 1997 At the Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(8) (Fall): 17.
Submitted from John Turnbull, from the papers of Art Metzger.

Anderson, Nancy K.

- 2398 1997 (WITH Thomas Bruhn, Joni Kinsey, and Anne Morand) Thomas Moran. Washington, D.C.: National Gallery of Art, and New Haven, Connecticut: Yale University Press, 398 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Azar, John S.

- 2399 1997 Azar hike. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(8) (Fall): 6-13.
From Jump Up Cabin to Teddy's Cabin, in four consecutive parts.

BBC [British Broadcasting Corporation]

- 2400 1997 Grand Canyon. Mike Birkhead and Huw Cordey, producers; Jenny Devitt, writer. A Mike Birkhead Associates Production for BBC-TV. Nature series, with George Page, copyright Thirteen/WNET; Fred Kaufman, executive producer. Video. 54:00.
- Scientific consultant "Dr. Larry Syevens" should be "Stevens".

Blandiana, Ana

- 2401 1997 Geniul de a fi : eseuri. Chişinău, Romania: Litera Internaţional, 312 pp. (Biblioteca Şcolarului, 103.) [In Romanian.]
(transl. 'The genius of being: essays.')
- See "Grand Canyon", pp. 231-232.

Brockway, Lauren

- 2402 1997 The Grand Canyon time gate; the Kiva elders through Lauren Brockway. Sedona, Journal of Emergence!, 7(10): 46-48.
- Channeling experience.

Brower, David, AND Steiger, Lew

- 2403 1997 David Brower. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(3): 1, 30-38.
- Brower oral history interview.

Buchheit, Mike

- 2404 1997 Afoot in the Shinumo Amphitheater; GCFI explores the North Bass Trail. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 3(4) (Winter): 2-4.
- Grand Canyon Field Institute.

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 2405 1997 [Letter pertaining to Upper Ribbon Falls and Old Bright Angel Trail.] The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(8) (Fall): 3.

Canepa-Murrphy, Melissa

- 2406 1997 Canyon home to music festival. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, 15(7): 52-53.
- 2407 1997 Grand Canyon Music Festival presents jazz and blues concerts. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, 15(8): 44.

Casebolt, Donald E.

- 2408 1997 Rim to rim; I invited my friends to take a hike and ended up making a point about vegetarianism. Adventist Review (General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Hagerstown, Maryland), 174(30)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(July 24): cover, 8-10 (also concurrently paginated for the volume, 984-986). [Cover tease: "Rim to Rim; How diet and exercise kept Donald Casebolt hiking through the Grand Canyon".]

Regarding a rim-to-rim hike when the author was 64 years old.

Collier, Joe

- 2409 1997 Ferocious falls; music editor sees up close—too close—what a flood at Supai really means. Flagstaff Live!, 3(21) (August 14-20): 6.

Contents page (p. 3) gives title as "Supai blues". See also comment, "The real flood", letter from Ted Melis, and editor's note, Flagstaff Live!, (August 28-September 3): 4.

Collins, Walton R.

- 2410 1997 Star treks; when you're a seeker of wild times, some of the best occur after the sun goes down. Backpacker, 25(6) (August): 127-126 [sic].

See p. 127, reminiscence of sighting the sword of the constellation Orion while camped on the Tonto Plateau.

Dedera, Don

- 2411 1997 John Hance's deepest tall tales are masterful visual adventures in the Grand Canyon. (Illustration by Tim Racer.) Arizona Highways, 73(11) (November): 49.

Deep Sea Music [musical group]

- 2412 1997 Suños en el Gran Cañón. Barcelona: editada y distribuido por Ediciones Musicales Horus D.L. CD.
Canyon Dreams (Deep Sea Music, 1996).

Destination Cinema, Inc.

- 2413 1997 Grand Canyon—The hidden secrets. Keith Merrill and O. Douglas Memmott, producers. Video.
Digitally mastered and transferred; a Destination Cinema, Inc., Presentation; distributed by Destination Cinema, Ogden, Utah. Includes "Special behind-the-scenes bonus: The Making of the Grand Canyon—The Hidden Secrets", a MAXSCREEN Presentation, produced by Destination Cinema; written, edited by Steven Kochones (copyright 1993 Destination Cinema).

Feature IMAX film abridged. Box copy indicates National Geographic Video; box copy indicates copyright Grand Canyon Theatre Venture. Feature 35:00; behind-the-scenes 22:30.

Ennis, Mike

- 2414 1997 [Letter regarding Curly Ennis, Bob Ennis, Ed Cummings, Jeanne Schick, and the writer living at Grand Canyon.] The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(1): 5.

Fisher, Mary Wager

- 2415 1997 A day in the Grand Canyon. Mohave Museum, Newsletter, (268) (June), pp. 1-2.
Reprinted from Fisher (1893). Diamond Creek and "Grand Cañon Hotel" (i.e., Farlee Hotel).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gokaldas, Virali

- 2416 1997 "What have you learned?"; a trail of thought. Nature Notes (Grand Canyon National Park), 13(1) (Spring): 10-11.

"A Student Conservation Association volunteer reflects on her time at Grand Canyon."

Grand Canyon Association

- 2417 1997 Hiking Grand Canyon. With Denise Traver and Mike Buchheit; Lon Ayers, narrator; Environmental Media Corp., producer, director; Anita Davis, project coordinator. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, in cooperation with National Park Service. Video, close-captioned in English. 21:00.

Accompanied by Video Companion Brochure, Hiking Grand Canyon (1 leaf, folded).

Green, Keith

- 2418 1997 Swimming at the oasis. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(7) (Summer): 3-5. Recollections of the Phantom Ranch pool. See also corrections by Bob Cornelius (2020).

Horgan, Bonnie, AND Hameroff, Stuart

- 2419 1997 Consciousness, microtubules and the quantum world; interview with Stuart Hameroff, MD. Alternative Therapies, 3(3) (May): 70-79.

Includes brief remark concerning a hike in Grand Canyon with Roger and Vanessa Penrose, David Chalmers "and several other people", during which conversations "Roger's ideas began to fall together for me."

Ikenberry, Donna

- 2420 1997 Happy trails: Hiking the depths of the Grand Canyon at Cheyava Falls. American Fitness, 15(2): 40-43.

Imus, Don, AND Imus, Fred

- 2421 1997 Two guys, Four Corners : great photographs, great times, and a million laughs. New York: Villard, 116 pp.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Kottler, Jeffrey A.

- 2422 1997 Travel that can change your life : how to create a transformative experience. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass Publishers, 180 pp.

See "Pain and Suffering", pp. 123-124. Supai.

Kuhn, Tom, AND Lawson, Chuck

- 2423 1997 Four-wheel to Blue Spring in Cape Solitude country. Arizona Highways, 73(7) (July): 50-53.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

LaMar, Marie

- 2424 1997 Gale's tales of Grand Canyon Motor Lodge 1942-1943. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society, Newsletter), 8(4): 1-2.
Gale Burak.

Lamp, Mike

- 2425 1997 Inward bound; hikers find each other while exploring the beauty of the Canyon. In: Outdoors! [FEATURE]. Flagstaff Live!, 3(10) (May 15-28): 28, 47.

Lefebure, Stephen

- 2426 1997 The Grand Canyon. In: The wilderness year : 1996. Washington, D.C.: The Wilderness Society, p. 41.

Lodewijks, Ed, AND Meyst, Frits

- 2427 1997 Steengoed; een roadtrip door West-Amerika. ANWB Kampioen (Algemene Nederlandsche Wielrijders-Bond), 125(1) (January): 60-68. [In Dutch.]
(transl. 'Earthenware; a road trip through western America')
Includes Grand Canyon.

Meyer, John M.

- 2428 1997 Gifford Pinchot, John Muir, and the boundaries of politics in American thought. Polity, 30(2) (Winter): 267-284.
See p. 272, Pinchot's first view of Grand Canyon.

Moran, Thomas

- 2429 1997 Appendix 3: Letters from the Far West. In: Anderson, Nancy K., with Thomas Bruhn, Joni Kinsey, and Anne Morand, Thomas Moran. Washington, D.C.: National Gallery of Art, and New Haven, Connecticut: Yale University Press, pp. 358-367.
See "The Colorado Canon. A Trip to the Verge of the Chasm. Major Powell's Second Survey—Peculiarities of the Country—Water Pockets in the Rocks—Looking Down the Abyss—The Colorado and Niagara. From Our Own Correspondent, Kanab, Utah Territory, Wednesday, 13 August 1873", pp. 363-366. From The New York Times, September 4, 1873. And see "Letter From Thomas Moran to Mary Nimmo Moran, Kanab, 13 August 1873", p. 367.

Newman, Suzanne S., AND Newman, Albert

- 2430 1997 The Nankoweapers. Flare (Arizona Daily Sun), (December 19): A1, A3, A12-A14.
Hiking Nankoweap Trail.

Osburn, Annie

- 2431 1997 The land of stone and light; a long week's journey into light: a rim-to-rim hike in the Grand Canyon. Orange Coast (Orange County, California), 23(12) (December): 178-186.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Peerdeman, Ria

- 2432 1997 Vrijheid, blijheid in Amerika; beroemde natuur- end pretparken zijn dé ingrediënten voor een fantastische gezinsreis met de camper door Californië, Arizona, Utah en Nevada. ANWB Kampioen (Algemene Nederlandsche Wielrijders-Bond), (April): 46-51. [In Dutch.]
(transl. 'Freedom, joy in America; famous nature and amusement parks are the ingredients for a fantastic family motorhome trip through California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Phillips, Dick

- 2433 1997 Curt Walters. Art Revue Magazine, 7(3) (Spring): cover, 18-19.
Artist. See also editorial in this issue by Jan McNutt, p. 5.

Ribokas, Bob

- 2434 1997 A hike down Nankoweap Trail. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(2): 5-6.

Roosevelt, Theodore

- 2435 1997 "I have come here to see the Grand Canyon . . ." (Introduction by Earle Spamer.) The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(7) (Summer): 12-15. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Transcriptions of two versions of Theodore Roosevelt's speech at Grand Canyon, May 6, 1903. (See with Roosevelt, 1903, for these texts.)

Shanholtzer, Patty

- 2436 1997 Mell's unsentimental grandeur. Flare (Arizona Daily Sun), (March 21): A6.
Artist Ed Mell.

Spurrier, Jeff

- 2437 1997 The International House of Bob. Los Angeles Magazine, (October): 42, 44-46.

Regarding the Rogger Steffens collection of memorabilia related to Reggae musician Bob Marley. Of note, in passing, is "The Life of Bob Marley" lecture series, which has been presented at "Hopi Prophecy Rock on the floor of the Grand Canyon for the Havasupai and Hopi tribes, who revere Marley as a prophet." [Sic.]

Stillion, Ann Marie

- 2438 1997 Touching beauty; artists of the Colorado Plateau speak of their love for land and water. Flagstaff Live!, 3(32) (October 30-November 5): cover, 11-13. [Cover and contents page (p. 3) give title as "Haunted by water".]

Tessman, Norm

- 2439 1997 The rescue of the Liberator 107 crew. (Illustration by Jack Fellows.) Arizona Highways, 73(7) (July): 12-15.

World War II parachutists in Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 2440 1997 (WITH Charlotte Wolkin) "Falling into a hole of some sort": Charles Goldblum's 1944 Grand Canyon adventure. Pittsburgh History, (Fall): 92-104.

World War II parachutists in Grand Canyon.

Thune, Margaret Nelson

- 2441 1997 Grand Canyon celebration—way back when. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 8(7) (Summer): 6.

Thüring, Jürg

- 2442 1997 Ein Reisebericht. LDRS, Large and Dangerous Rocket Ships (Switzerland), 16(7) (August):. [In German; serial title in English.]
(transl. 'A travelogue')

Model-rocket enthusiasts. Travel notes include Marble Canyon and Grand Canyon.

1998

Anonymous

- 2443 1998 Postmaster Guzman hosts First Lady. Postmasters Advocate (National League of Postmasters), 104 (February): 22.

Grand Canyon Postmaster Tony Guzman; First Lady Hillary Clinton.

- 2444 1998 T.E. Aianduskubi teated. Vaba Eestlane (Willowdale, Ontario), 46(28)(4380) (April 9): 6. [In Estonian.]
(transl. 'T.E. Horticultural Club announcements')

Summary of a March 26 lecture to the T.E. Horticultural Club by Martin Lepic, on "Grand Canyon ja selle ümbru" (transl. 'Grand Canyon and its surroundings'), following a recent visit there. (Meaning of "T.E." not determined.)

- 2445 1998 Backpackerovy světové treky II. Dobrodruh (Časopis pro Nenapravitelné Drsňáky) (Praha), 2 (May): 4-5. [In Czech.]
(transl. 'Backpacker's world treks II.')

See "Kaibab Trail, Arizona" (p. 4); accompanied by two photos, one of the Grand Canyon from North Rim, the other of Lava Falls.

- 2446 1998 PiPIX; Pienen Porukan Iloinen Excursio. Nibble (Tietoteekkarikilta, Hervanta, Tampere, Finland), (1): 17-28. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Happy Excursion of a Small Group.')

Regarding trip to America. See "Suuri Rotko" (Grand Canyon), pp. 23-25.

Annerino, John

- 2447 1998 Running wild : extraordinary adventure of the human spirit. (Introduction by Charles Bowden, photographs by Christine Keith.) New York: Thunder's Mouth Press, 317 pp.

Includes Grand Canyon experiences.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Buchheit, Mike

- 2448 1998 GCFI hits the Bright Angel Trail. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 4(2) (Summer): 2-3. Grand Canyon Field Institute.

Butterworth, W. E., IV

- 2449 1998 One trip, three canyons. Boys' Life, (May): 40-43. Boy Scout Troop 1254, Cooperstown, New York. Trip to Grand Canyon, Zion Canyon, and Bryce Canyon.

Carmony, Tom

- 2450 1998 The Pioneers' trip to Toroweap. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 2(10): 4.

Danley, Richard L.

- 2451 1998 When the sky falls; the other world of the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 74(2) (February): inside front cover-1, 24-31.

Deng, Guoxiong, AND Lin, Shujing [鄧國雄; 林淑靜]

- 2452 NO DATE 美圖西南部第二次地形考察紀要 [Měiyuán xīnán bù dì èr cì dì xíng kǎo chá jì yào] [Summary of the second geographical visit to southwestern United States]. 國立臺灣師範大學 (劉立塾潤, 師範大學地理學系系友會 [Guólì lóng wān shī fàn dà xué (Liú lì shú rùn, shī fàn dà xué dì lǐ xué xì xì yǒu huì)] [Department of Geography (Liu Lizhen Run, Department of Geography, Normal University Friends Association, Taiwan)]), pp. 32-39. [1998?] [In Chinese.]

DeVoss, David, AND Sander, Eric

- 2453 1998 In Arizona, it's an all-night party for the stars. Smithsonian, 29(9) (December): 112-116, 118, 120-122. Grand Canyon Star Party, see pp. 113-115.

Don Briggs Films

- 2454 1998 The Grand Canyon Suite. A Don Briggs film, music composed by Ferde Grofé, performed by London Symphony Orchestra, Stanley Black, conductor. Produced by Don Briggs, cinematography by Don Briggs, additional cinematography by Glen Carroll and Martin Litton. Sausalito, California: Don Briggs Films. 32:00. No narration. Package recto includes, "The American musical masterpiece by Ferde Grofé"; verso includes, "The quintessential American musical travelogue".

Farnsworth, Janet, AND Heath, Bernadette

- 2455 1998 Fritz and his Grand Canyon; like not so many other not-so-over-the-hill folks, Fritz Woiwode has found that challenging the grandest canyon can be a habit that's hard to break. Arizona Highways, 74(3) (March): 4-9. 66-year-old backpacker Fritz Woiwode returns yearly.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Foreman, Rebecca

- 2456 1998 A grand ride to the canyon. RailNews, (421) (December), pp. 62-69.
Grand Canyon Railway.

Freeman, Judith

- 2457 1998 In their own words; the diaries of Lucy Flake, Rachel Lee, and Emma Sykes. Plateau Journal, 2(2) (Winter 1998-1999): 34-48.

Garcia, Guy, AND Gray, Spalding

- 2458 1998 Slippery slopes; monologue artist Spalding Gray reflects on skiing, middle age and the mountains as metaphor. Snow Country, 9(8) (December): 59-60, 63, 65, 67.
Interview. Grand Canyon, see p. 60.

Gervais, Joe

- 2459 1998 A grand adventure, indeed. ARS Sojourner (Adventure Radio Society), (August):.

Grua, Diane

- 2460 1998 Saving the life work of two daring Grand Canyon photographers: The Emery Kolb Collection at Northern Arizona University's Cline Library. Annotation (National Historical Publications and Records Commission), 26(4) (December): 7-8, 19.

Hagerty, Donald J.

- 2461 1998 Grand Canyon views. Southwest Art, (February): 22, 24.

Holtzin, Rich [Holtzin, Richard Kerry]

- 2462 1998 Call me "Grand Canyon". The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 9(2) (Spring): 3-6.

Hughes, Ted

- 2463 1998 Birthday letters. New York: Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 197 pp.
See "Grand Canyon".

Kinsey, Joni Louise, AND Skolnick, Arnold

- 2464 1998 The majesty of the Grand Canyon : 150 years in art. (Text by Joni Louise Kinsey; Arnold Skolnick, picture ed., designer. Foreword by James E. Babbitt.) Cobb, California: First Glance Books, 160 pp. [Reprinted by Pomegrante (Petaluma, California, 2004).]

Lefebure, Stephen

- 2465 1998 The Grand Canyon. In: Daniel, John (ed.), Wild song : poems of the natural world. Athens (Georgia) and London: University of Georgia Press, p. 67.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lopez, Barry

- 2466 1998 Gone back into the earth. In: Murray, John A. (ed.), The river reader. New York: Lyons Press, pp. 13-20. (A Nature Conservancy Book.)
Reprinted from Lopez (1988).

Lytle, Victor H.

- 2467 1998 Canyon memories. Mexico City: TecnoArte Editorial S. A. de C. V., 125 [129] pp. ["Edition of 50 copies. This is part of our 'Books on Demand' project so any amount of additional copies can be made at anytime."]

May, Stephen J.

- 2468 1998 Thomas Moran. Southwest Art, (February): cover, 40-47, 139.

Murphy, Ron

- 2469 1998 [Letter from former employee at Grand Canyon.] The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 2(9): 2-3. [See also corrections, 2(10): 2.]

Nelson, Bernice

- 2470 1998 Chicken Point. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 9(1) (Winter 1997-1998): 4-5.

Ngaruawahia High School

- 2471 1998 Te Tira Haere : Ngaruawahia High School Kapa Haka USA tour, April 2nd-19th 1998. [Ngaruawahia High School, Ngaruawahia, North Island, New Zealand], 254 pp. [Title-page: Ngaruawahia High School : Kapa Haka USA tour : Thursday 2nd April 1998 to Sunday 19th April 1998.]

The Ngaruawahia High School "embrace[s] the spirit of the Treaty of Waitangi and encourage[s] bi-cultural and multi-cultural perspectives" (from the high school website, www.ngaruawahiahigh.school.nz; accessed July 6, 2018). This is a profusely illustrated summary of a U.S. tour by the Kapa Haka, a Moari-culture performance group made up of the high school's students. Tour (itinerary, p. 2) began in Salt Lake City, through the Southwest to Los Angeles. See cover and pp. 99-168, which embraces the group's time in Boulder City, Nevada, and at Hoover Dam and Grand Canyon South Rim. Performances (most in Maori dress) were made at all stops (and an impromptu performance while waiting for the Hoover Dam tour). Other notes of Grand Canyon appear on pp. 2, 16, 254.] [In English, but the "Performance Programme" (pp. 9-15), comprising spiritual and inspirational songs relating to Maori culture with modern perspectives, is in Maori, with some of the texts bilingual; the document's main title is also in Maori (which translates, "Traveling"). The songs do not refer to any place that is pertinent to this bibliography; however, the Maori language is cited here because the performances made at these places were in Maori, as documented by the songs printed in the program.]

Paiva, Fred Melo

- 2472 1998 Brincando Deus; Patrick de Gayardon, 1960-1998. Trip (São Paulo, Brazil), (62) (June): [105]-110 [probably]. [In Portuguese.]
(transl. 'Playing God; Patrick de Gayardon, 1960-1998')

Memorial to Gayardon, including note of his having parachuted with a wingsuit into Grand Canyon; i.e., Grand Canyon West. [NOTE: Serial contains material for mature audience (nudity) but this article does not.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Roper, Roger V.

- 2473 1998 Hotels revisited; retracing a 1919 Utah road trip. Utah Preservation, 2: 38-43.
Includes an automobile trip to North Rim via Kanab.

Sadoff, Ira

- 2474 1998 Grazing: poems. Urbana, Illinois: University of Illinois Press, 72 pp.
See "At the Grand Canyon". Reprints Sadoff (1996).

Schruers, Fred, AND Chavkin, Dan

- 2475 1998 Artist in residence; from his perch in the Hollywood Hills, David Hockney holds forth on his adopted home, stuccoed minimalls and painting the Grand Canyon. LA Magazine (Los Angeles), 43(10) (October): 108-115, 173.

Simpson, Hank

- 2476 1998 Rolling on the river with the Museum of Northern Arizona. Flagstaff Live!, 4(8) (February 26-March 4): 1, 3, 8-9, 25, 30.
Contents page gives title as, "Rolling on the river: Education and vacation with the MNA; whitewater, petroglyphs and the meaning of life".

Streshinsky, Maria

- 2477 1998 The Canyon: From rim to river. Via, (May):.

Thomas, Ronald Glen

- 2478 1998 Remembrances and reflections. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 2(9): 4.
Mary and Ralph Watahomigie.

1999

Anonymous

- 2479 1999 Merry Christmas. The Ol' Pioneer, 10(4) (October/December): 10.
Dated April 9, 1947; "(this was sent to Fred Witteborg, Mgr., El Tovar by a guest of the El Tovar)".
- 2480 1999 "My grace is sufficient for thee . . ." II Cor. 12:9 : history of Emmanuel Faith Community Church : 1939-1999. Escondido, California: Emmanuel Faith Community Church, 130 [132] pp. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
See in the section, "Church Ministries; Formation and Growth", brief remarks on trips to Grand Canyon (pp. 76, 77, 78, 79).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Abbey, Edward

- 2481 1999 Havasu; many years ago, the famous activist almost didn't make it out of the Grand Canyon. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 175-186.

Reprinted from Abbey (1968, Desert solitaire).

Albertson, Lee [Albertson, Leland C., Jr.]

- 2482 1999 Backpacking in the Canyon with a "space age hip joint". In: Barber, Jergen L., A grand challenge. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(2) (April/June): 9-12.

Atichat, Ketaphan [อติชาต เกตตะพินธุ์]

- 2483 1999 กวาทกถ และ ประสบการณ์ : ท่องเที่ยวธรรมชาติห้าวันในอเมริกา [kwi thkth læa prasbkārṇ : th̄ngthēiyw th̄rrmchūṭi h̄i wān ni xmerikā] [Geography and experience : Five-day nature tourism in America]. แปร่งฟัน [Pærng fan] [Pangfan], (15): 19-22. [In Thai.]

Visit to Grand Canyon (North Rim only?). Bibliographical data as given in Atichat's curriculum vitae online through the Chiang Mai University (มหาวิทยาลัยเชียงใหม่) (Chiang Mai, Thailand) website, math.science.cmu.ac.th/kettapun: "ท่องเที่ยวธรรมชาติห้าวันในอเมริกา (จุลสารปางแฟน ปีที่ 6 ฉบับที่ 15 พ.ศ. 2542)" (accessed 17 August 2019).

Barber, Jergen L.

- 2484 1999 A grand challenge. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(2) (April/June): 7-12.
Includes "Backpacking in the Canyon with a 'space age hip joint,'" from Lee Albertson's journal (see Albertson, 1999).

Biser, Elizabeth H.

- 2485 1999 Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 75(5) (May): 2.

Letter remarking on feelings of seeing the Grand Canyon again and again.

Blain, Dave, AND Blain, Jeanne

- 2486 1999 Reflections on the Grand Canyon Star Party. Webfooted Astronomer (Seattle Astronomical Society), (July):.

Booker, Janice L.

- 2487 1999 Philly firsts : the famous, infamous, and quirky of the City of Brotherly Love. Philadelphia: Camino Books, 208 pp.

See p. 63, artist Edith Lucile Howard painting at Grand Canyon, ca. 1926.

Bosley, Dortha E. [Bosley, Dot]

- 2488 1999 A remembrance. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 3(4): 3.

Fred Harvey Company rim drive bus trips.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Buchheit, Mike

- 2489 1999 Whitewater and whiteouts; Tanner-New Hance loop. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 5(1) (Spring): 2-4.
- 2490 1999 Solo in the Hermit Basin. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 5(2) (Summer): 2-3.
- 2491 1999 Grandview to New Hance loop. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 5(4) (Winter): 2-3.

Burak, Gale

- 2492 1999 A French mam'selle at Hermit. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(1) (January/March): 6-7.
- 2493 1999 A "from bad to worse" adventure. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(2) (April/June): 6-7.
- 2494 1999 A hike down Matkatamiba Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer, 10(4) (October/December): 4-6.

Burris, Roy E.

- 2495 1999 A letter to the editor. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 3(10): 2.
Regarding Grand Canyon visit by Herbert Hoover.

Butchart, Harvey [Butchart, J. Harvey]

- 2496 1999 [Letter pertaining to Kolb natural bridge.] The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(3) (July/September): 12-13.

Butler, Elias

- 2497 1999 Gallery shows "Art of the Grand Canyon and Colorado Plateau". Flare (Arizona Daily Sun), (July 29): cover, A3, A17.

De Vries, Clare

- 2498 1999 I and Claudius : travels with my cat. New York: Bloomsbury Publishing, 307 [311] pp. [Also 1st U.S. paperback ed., Bloomsbury Publishing, New York and London (2000).]
Grand Canyon, see pp. 235-246, 247, 259. Includes photos.

Desplanques, Jean-Bernard

- 2499 1999 Voyages rêves d'Amérique; périple aux USA de Cédric, Danaë, Sun Wa et Jean-Bernard; 4500 km à travers la Californie, l'Arizona, l'Utah et le Nevada. Le Buffle Qui Rit, (9) (October): 12-17. [Serial produced by Daya Bay (Hong Kong) expatriates (in France?).] [In French.]
(transl. 'Dream voyages of America; trip to the USA by Cédric, Danaë, Sun Wa and Jean-Bernard; 4500 km through California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada.')
Grand Canyon, pp. 13-14.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Destination Cinema, Inc.

- 2500 1999 Grand Canyon : the hidden secrets : a timeless adventure : digitally remastered from large-screen format. Sherman Oaks, California: SlingShot Entertainment, DVD. 38:00.

Title from container. Container adds: "Originally Presented in IMAX® Theaters" and "Destination Cinema".

Doggett, Jack

- 2501 1999 The art of Sam Jones; Canyon watercolors at Macy's. Flagstaff Live!, (May 27-June 2): 10.

Dudley, Gail

- 2502 1999 Nankoweap; it's a long way to the bottom. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 6-13.

Text reprinted from Dudley and Danley (1996).

Fischer, Barbara

- 2503 1999 Hilary [sic] Clinton visits the South Rim. Canyon Echoes (Coalition for the Canyon's Future, Flagstaff, Arizona), 1(2) (June): 1.

First Lady Hillary Clinton.

Ford, Byron C.

- 2504 1999 I hiked the Canyon after 50. Escondido, California: Byron C. Ford, revised ed., 64 pp.

Friedman, A. W.

- 2505 1999 [Excerpts from journal on Grand Canyon.] Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 5(2) (Summer): 7.

Gorbunov, Yuri

- 2506 1999 An esotericist's journey in America. Part 3; Among esotericists of California and Arizona. (David Keane, translator.) The High Country Theosophist (Boulder, Colorado), 14(7) (July): 12-19.

Grand Canyon, see p. 14.

Green, Keith

- 2507 1999 Guess where I'm callin' from. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(1) (January/March): 11-12.

Phantom Ranch telephone service; from "an undated clipping out of the Williams-Grand Canyon News".

Greening, Jack Kenneth

- 2508 1999 Grand Canyon Village 1930s, 1940s, and 1950s. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(1) (January/March): 4-6.

Grubbs, Bruce

- 2509 1999 Labyrinths of paradise; hiking in the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff Live!, (July 22-28): 22.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 2510 1999 Plateau cruising . . . and the gran'daddy of all trails. Flagstaff Live!, 5(46) (November 8-14): 22. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Includes Grand Canyon Stage Route.

Hefley, Jack

- 2511 1999 Memories. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(4) (October/December): 7.

- 2512 1999 A remembrance. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 3(12): 3.

Hockney, David

- 2513 1999 Space and line : Grand Canyon pastels on paper 1998 and works on paper 1966-1994. [London]: [Annely Juda Fine Art], 95 pp.

Exhibition catalogue, Richard Gray Gallery, New York, and Annely Juda Fine Art, London.

- 2514 1999 David Hockney : Espace/Paysage. Paris: Centre Georges Pompidou, 227 [228] pp. [In French.]

Exhibition catalogue for "David Hockney : Espace/Paysage", Galerie Sud, Centre Georges Pompidou, 27 January-26 April 1999. Gatefold wraps illustrate "A Closer Grand Canyon", 1998 (wrap-around illustration); Grand Canyon paintings and drawings illustrated, pp. 30-31, 39, 42-43, 53, 62, 64-65, 108-109, 154-165, 206; photograph, p. 207.

Homan, Bob, AND Homan, Sandy

- 2515 1999 Greetings from Silverton, Colorado. Powder Express (Fall Line Ski Club, Cherry Hill, New Jersey), (July): 1, 5.

Includes account of a hike on Grandview Trail. Article ends with note to "Find out what happens to Bob in next month's issue!", but this article seems not to have been continued (as examined in issues through the end of 2000).

Jones, W. Paul

- 2516 1999 Trinitarian thoughts. Take a look. Everything is connected. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 169-174.

Reprinted from Jones (1992).

Kardong, Don

- 2517 1999 Over the edge; a run from rim to rim is not for the faint-hearted. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 92-101.

Reprinted from Kardong (1993).

Leavengood, Betty

- 2518 1999 Grand Canyon women : lives shaped by landscape. Boulder, Colorado: Pruett Publishing Co., 248 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Leiser, Gary

- 2519 1999 Flight over the Grand Canyon. Travis Air Museum News (Travis Air Force Historical Society, Travis Air Force Base, California), 17(4): 10.
Regarding Lt. Ralph O. Searle, who was the first to fly over Grand Canyon in February, 1919.

Li, Hongzhi [李洪志]

- 2520 1999 洪吟 [Hóng yín]. Xianggang: Fa Lun fo fa chu ban she, 83 pp. [In Chinese.]
See note with Li (2007).

Lowe, Sam

- 2521 1999 Christmas at the Canyon. Highroads (AAA Arizona), 44(4) (December): cover, 4, 12-14.

Madison, Charlotte, AND Cook, Nana

- 2522 1999 G.B. and the rangers; doesn't everyone love the men and women in khaki? In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 152-156.

Oesdean, John

- 2523 1999 First Grand Canyon impression. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(3) (July/September): 12.

Orange Tree Productions

- 2524 1999 The sounds of the Grand Canyon : Volume 2 : beautiful music and the natural symphony of the Grand Canyon. (Tim Heintz and David Goldblatt, piano and keyboards; Grant Geissman and Bill Mize, Acoustic guitar; Dan Higgins, Native American flute and woodwinds; Lee Annn Harris, percussion; Kevin Colver, additional nature recordings.) Newberry Park, California: Orange Tree Productions. CD. (The National Park Series™.)

O'Reilly, Sean

- 2525 1999 Riders to the rim; get out of your car and take the iron horse. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 115-118.

O'Reilly, Sean; O'Reilly, James; AND Habegger, Larry

- 2526 1999 (EDS.) Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, 282 pp. (Travelers' Tales Guides.)

Patton, Michael Quinn

- 2527 1999 Grand Canyon celebration : a father-son journal of discovery. Amherst, New York: Prometheus Books, 357 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Richfield, Paul J.

- 2528 1999 The turbulent times; there are some things which shouldn't fly. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 157-160.

Reprinted from Richfield (1993).

Schmidt, Jeremy

- 2529 1999 From Anasazi to aircraft; the lure of the vanished world is strong and mysterious. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 229-239.

Reprinted from Schmidt (1993), Grand Canyon National Park : a natural history guide, a title that is not otherwise cited in this bibliography.

- 2530 1999 Temples to water; some memories are forever. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 249.

Reprinted from Schmidt (1993), Grand Canyon National Park : a natural history guide, a title that is not otherwise cited in this bibliography.

Simpson, Hank

- 2531 1999 By rotor and wing; flying the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff Live!, 5(23) (June 10-16): 1, 3, 8-9.

- 2532 1999 The deep range; a Grand Canyon mule trip. Flagstaff Live!, 5(46) (November 18-24): 1, 3, 8-9.

Swisher, Ron, AND Swisher, Gary

- 2533 1999 The mail must go through : a canyon adventure. Yoder, Wyoming: TRB Publishing, [32] pp.

Accompanied with a commemorative cachet envelope and instructions for obtaining a postmark from Supai, Arizona.

Thomas, Steven

- 2534 1999 Glowing spots of color; the growth of the arts and craft woodblock print in America. Style 1900, 12(3) (Summer/Fall): cover, 1, 26-33.

See "Pine—Grand Cañon, 1921", cover, 1.

Thybony, Scott

- 2535 1999 Beneath the rim; something happens to you down there. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 3-5.

Reprinted from Thybony (1993).

- 2536 1999 Shaman's Gallery; treasure is in the eyes of the beholder. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 137-141.

Reprinted from Thybony (1993).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Vardiman, Larry

- 2537 1999 Over the edge. Green Forest, Arkansas: Master Books, 153 [159] pp. [Cover adds subtitle: Thrilling, real-life adventures in Grand Canyon.]

Werhan, Ronald W. [Werhan, Ron]

- 2538 1999 A Toroweap adventure. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(1) (January/March): 7-11.
- 2539 1999 The first view. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(2) (April/June): 3-4.

Williams, Terry Tempest

- 2540 1999 Stone Creek woman; it's not often you meet a goddess. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 35-39.
- Reprinted from Williams (1994).

Winter, Larry

- 2541 1999 Cape Solitude; a family takes the hard way. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 81-85.
- Reprinted from Winter (1992).

Wood, Hazel

- 2542 1999 Aunt Hazel and Indian Garden. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(2) (April/June): 5-6.
- "A personal story by Jack Kenneth Greening's Aunt Hazel about when she and her husband, George Wood, were living and working in the bottom of the Grand Canyon with their baby boy, Robert LeRoy Wood in 1926."

Woodruff, Slim [Woodruff, Marjorie]

- 2543 1999 My first impression. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 10(2) (April/June): 13.

Zimmerman, Karl

- 2544 1999 [Excerpt.] In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 117-118.
- Excerpt as filler, from Zimmerman (1992).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

2000

Anonymous

- 2545 2000 Rediscovering America as a pilgrim-tourist. Community (The Upasika Newsletter) (Amaravati Buddhist Monastery, Hempstead, Hertfordshire, England), (9) (Spring 2000/2543): 4-5.

Includes Grand Canyon (p. 4). Written in the first person, but ending seems to have been cut off in mid-sentence on p. 5, along with possible author credit. Not continued in this issue or in subsequent issues; nor a correction noted.

- 2546 2000 Rim to the river; Mancuso's photography on exhibit. Flagstaff Live!, (September 7-13): 10.
Lamont Mancuso.

- 2547 2000 Verkamp's features famous Akin painting. In: Grand Canyon-Tusayan tourist guide : your guide to what's going on at Grand Canyon and Tusayan : fun at the canyon : Fall 2000. Williams, Arizona: Williams-Grand Canyon News, p. 13.

Abyssus, Q. S. O. [pseudonym] [Quartaroli, Richard D.]

- 2548 2000 Blasts from the past, part III: Historic radio use, off the Colorado River. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(2) (Summer): 22-26. (See also Fall issue for addendum, "Blasts mystery solved.")

- 2549 2000 Blasts mystery solved. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(3) (Fall): 6.

Adams, Ansel

- 2550 2000 The Grand Canyon and the Southwest. (Andrea G. Stillman, ed.) Boston, New York, and London: Little, Brown and Co., 112 pp.

Arizona Mountaineering Club

- 2551 2000 Dave Ganci—Sacred Temples—Climbing in the Grand Canyon. Arizona Mountaineer (Arizona Mountaineering Club, Phoenix), (May): 4.

Full-page notice of lecture.

Bryant, Kathleen

- 2552 2000 Into the heart of the Grand Canyon. American Artist, 64(701) (December): cover, 2, 33-48.

Buchheit, Mike

- 2553 2000 Presidential announcement at Hopi Point. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 6(1) (Spring): 2.

President Bill Clinton designates Grand Canyon-Parashant National Monument.

- 2554 2000 Coming full circle on a Bass to Boucher backpack. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 6(2) (Summer): 2-4.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

2555 2000 A journey from north to south. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 6(4): 2-3, 7.

Burak, Gale

2556 2000 A memory trip for Bill. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 11(4) (October/December): 9-1

Bill Basye.

Cobb, Ahad

2557 2000 Image nation. Santa Fe, New Mexico: Night Sky Books, 186 [188] pp.

See "Bright Angel Trail", pp. 74-75.

Coolbrith, Ina H.

2558 2000 In the Grand Cañon. In: Miller, Susan Cummins (ed.), A sweet, separate intimacy : women writers of the American frontier, 1800-1922. Lubbock, Texas: Texas Tech University Press, p. 170.

Reprints Coolbrith (1892).

Dugger, Mike

2559 2000 Grand Canyon (mis-)adventures. Lost and Found (Cibola Search and Rescue, Albuquerque, New Mexico), 5(11) (November 9):.

Everton, Macduff

2560 2000 The western horizon. (Photographs by Macduff Everton, introduction by Edmund Morris, commentaries by Mary Heebner.) New York: Harry N. Abrams, 144 pp.

See Grand Canyon, pp. 66-73.

Finkbine, Bob

2561 2000 Smoke that roars : stories and poems about the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], 197 pp.

See also Finkbine (1993).

Fox, Dottie

2562 2000 Below the rim : footsteps through the Grand Canyon. Basalt, Colorado: Who Press, 159 pp. [Unstated revised ed.; earlier ed. not dated (ca. 1990-1993).]

Gandhi, Mahatma

2563 2000 The collected works of Mahatma Gandhi. New Delhi: Publications Division, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Government of India, 6th ed., revised, 100 volumes.

Grand Canyon, see in Volume 46, "54. From and About Sarojini Devi", pp. 58-60; excerpts reprinted from Gandhi (1929).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gardner, Bruce A.

- 2564 2000 Scouting: a grand adventure. Braille Monitor, (November):. [Published in inkprint, in Braille, and on audio cassette.]
Rim-to-rim-to-rim hike with Explorer Scouts.

Green, Keith

- 2565 2000 Stories from Phantom Ranch. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 11(2) (July/September): 8.

H., Patty

- 2566 2000 Letter from Arizona: Patty's Havasupai trip. The Yodel (Lynnwood, Washington), 9(4) (June): 2, 4.

Harkless, Megan

- 2567 2000 For the first time. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(3) (Fall): 20-21.
Short story format, about first visit to Grand Canyon; also including river trip event.

Hart, James

- 2568 2000 Entering temples of silence: Grand Canyon, July 21, 1999. The Chariton Review (Truman State University, Kirksville, Missouri), (Fall):.

Hébert, Claudine

- 2569 2000 Un toast dans le Grand Canyon. In: Vacances/Voyage [SEPARATE ADVERTISING SECTION]. La Presse (Montréal), (October 21): H10. [In French.]
(transl. 'A toast in the Grand Canyon')

Helicopter tour from Las Vegas to Grand Canyon West, with champagne toast.

Hendricks, Larry

- 2570 2000 Tom Bean: Photographing the Canyon's new millennium. Flare (Arizona Daily Sun), (January 6): A20, A18 [sic].

Hideaki, Kono; Teruo, Iwase; AND Toshiyuki, Iino [コウノ ヒデアキ; イワセ テルオ; イノ トシユキ] [鴻野 英明; 岩瀬 照雄; 飯野 俊幸]

- 2571 2000 ハイビジョン体感生中継制作報告『これがアメリカ大西部だ』-グランドキャニオンからのハイビジョン生中継 [Haibijon taikan-sei chūkei seisaku hōkoku "kore ga Amerika dai seibuda" - Gurandokyanion - kara no haibijon-sei chūkei] [High-definition live broadcast production report, "This is the West of the United States"—Grand Canyon—high-definition live broadcast]. 映像情報メディア学会技術報告 [Eizō jōhō media gakkai gijutsu hōkoku] [Institute of Image Information and Television Engineers, Technical Report (Tokyo)], 24(19) (February): 37-41. [In Japanese; authors' names in Japanese and Chinese orthography, thus.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Husinec, Antun, AND Husinec, Andrea

- 2572 2000 America deserta: Grand Canyon. Priroda (Hrvatsko Prirodoslovno Društvo, Zagreb), 90(5) (874): 27-29. [\[In Croatian.\]](#)
(transl. 'American dessert: Grand Canyon')

Authors' visit.

Israel, Fred L.

- 2573 2000 Grand Canyon experiences. In: Schlesinger, Arthur M., Jr., and Israel, Fred L. (eds.), Grand Canyon experiences : chronicles from National Geographic. Philadelphia: Chelsea House Publishers, pp. ix-x.

James William

- 2574 2000 Grand Canyon Jan 4. 06. Streams of William James (William James Society, Boston), 1(3) (Winter): 5.

Excerpt from a letter, William James to son, Alexander, 4 January 1906, with an illustration of Hopi House.

Jones, Jack

- 2575 2000 President's message. SACNews (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix, Arizona), (281) (August): 11.
Includes brief remarks on the recent Grand Canyon Star Party.

Karchin, Louis

- 2576 2000 American visions. New York: New World Records. (80583.)

Includes two songs based on the poetry of Yevgeny Yevtushenko, one of which is "Who Are You, Grand Canyon?", performed by The Da Capo Chamber Players (19:12). Copyright by Recorded Anthology of American Music, Inc. Includes liner notes by Robert Carl, which notes also include the text of Yevtushenko's poem.

Keillor, Garrison

- 2577 2000 Walking down the canyon. Time, (July 31):.

Kenhama, Yamane [検浜諫 山根記]

- 2578 2000 '99 海外研修旅行. グランドキャニオンに感嘆! ['99 kaigai kenshū ryokō. Gurandokyanion ni kantan!] ['99 overseas study trip. Admiring the Grand Canyon!]. 三笠ニュース [Mikasa nyūsu] Mikasa News (御 三笠産業株式会社 [Mikasangyō kabushikigaisha] [Mikasa Sangyo Co., Ltd., Kyoto]), (148) (January 8): 2-3. [\[In Japanese, with bilingual serial title.\]](#)

Koons, Jan

- 2579 2000 Grand Canyon Field Institute family classes and outings. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 6(1) (Spring): 6.

Summary article.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Leavengood, Betty

2580 2000 North Rim adventure. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 4(8): 2.

Love, Lee

2581 2000 Radio adventuring at the Grand Canyon. ARS Sojourner (Adventure Radio Society), (June):.

McNamara, Jeannine, AND Kleine, Rob

2582 2000 Hiking the Grand Canyon : the corridor trails (Diane Fessler, ed.; Jeannine McNamara, narrator). ConMara Publishing, Inc. Video. 58:00.

See also McNamara (2004, 2014).

Meadows, Bernice

2583 2000 Childhood memories. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 11(4) (October/December): 1.

Newton, Fred

2584 2000 A mellow version of Grand Canyon. Flare (Arizona Daily Sun), (March 28): A17.
Hiking Soap Creek in Marble Canyon.

Oesdean, John

2585 2000 Reflections of two sisters raised at the Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 11(4) (October/December): 6-8.

Pinky Moore Oesdean and Ethel Moore Cole.

Peterson, Brenda

2586 2000 Singing to the sound : visions of nature, animals and spirit. Troutdale, Oregon: NewSage Press, 200 pp.

See "River Tao", pp. 53-60. Reprints Peterson (1998).

Pollis, Mike

2587 2000 Krol engineers courteous attitude. Constellation (U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Baltimore District), 26(6) (June): 4.

John Krol. Includes note of Grand Canyon hike.

Ranney, Wayne

2588 2000 The millennium at Phantom Ranch. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 11(2) (April/June): 8-10.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

2589 2000 The millennium reunion at Phantom Ranch. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(2) (Spring): 34-35.

Seely, Beth, AND Price, L. Greer

2590 2000 A Century of Grand Canyon Art : selected works from 1900 to 2000 : exhibit catalog. (Pam Frazier and Faith Marcovecchio, eds.) Grand Canyon: Grand Canyon Association, 32 pp.

Shields, Tom Robert

2591 2000 Grand Canyon colors. In: Hopkins, Lee Bennett (selector), and Alcorn, Stephen (illustrator), My America : a poetry atlas of the United States. New York: Scholastic, Inc.

Sykes, Lisa

2592 2000 Rock and roam; Lisa Sykes avoids the crowds at the Grand Canyon. Wanderlust, (38): 22-25, 27-28.

Turner, S. E., AND Fellows, Jack

2593 2000 Growling, gleaming World War II planes circling the canyon delighted local boys. Arizona Highways, 76(12) (December): 55.

Reminiscence. See also Turner (2013).

Verkamp, Mike

2594 2000 Moonlight on the Topocoba Trail. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 11(4) (October/December): 3-5.

Yevtushenko, Yevgeny Aleksandrovich

2595 2000 The city of no, the city of yes. New York: The Van Winkle Clef, CD + pamphlet.

Poetry recited by Yevtushenko, accompanied by Paul Winter (soprano saxophone), Eugene Friesen (violin cello), Jordan Rudess (keyboards), and Glen Velez (percussion). Includes "Who are you, Grand Canyon?"

2001

Anonymous

2596 2001 Nature's grandure [sic]. Two Tucson boys visit the Great Gorge. John T. Hughes relates some incidents. Building the road from Flagstaff.—Delightful summer resort. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 5(3): 2-3.

From Arizona Gazette, September 4, 1895.

2597 2001 McAllister debuts this summer; capturing the Colorado Plateau on canvas. Flagstaff Live!, (May 31-June 6): 10-11.

Artist Gary McAllister.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Abbey, Edward

- 2598 2001 My 40 years as a Grand Canyoneer. Grand Canyon Footprints, 1(3) (Fall): [4]. [NOTE: Issue numeration reversed from convention, as "Issue 1, Volume 3".]
Reprinted from Abbey (1984/1988).

Annerino, John

- 2599 2001 Escalando los templos perdidos del Grand Cañón. De Viaje (Caracas, Venezuela), 1(3): 84-91. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Climbing the lost temples of the Grand Canyon.')

Barrett, Didi

- 2600 2001 Thornton Dial Jr. (b. 1953); Little Buck. In: Arnett, William, and Arnett, Paul, Souls grown deep : African American vernacular art of the South : Volume Two : Once that river starts to flow. Atlanta, Georgia: Tinwood Books, pp. 470-483.
See p. 470, illustration, "Thornton Dial jr. with his Spirits of the Grand Canyon".

Buchheit, Mike

- 2601 2001 Much ado about Havasu. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 7(1) (Spring): 4-5.

Burak, Gale

- 2602 2001 Some thoughts on hiking in Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Footprints, 1(3) (Fall): [4]. [NOTE: Issue numeration reversed from convention, as "Issue 1, Volume 3".]

Deitz, Roger

- 2603 2001 Tom Lehrer: The elements. Sing Out!, 45(1) (Spring): 48-55.
See p. 49, photograph of Tom Lehrer seated (with a seat belt on his stool) at an upright piano on the edge of Grand Canyon. No mention of Grand Canyon in text.

Dickson, Paul

- 2604 2001 Images from the Grand Canyon Star Party. SACNews (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix, Arizona), 25(8) (August): 3.

Einemo, Gyda, AND Einemo, Reidar

- 2605 2001 Reisebrev fra Gyda og Reidar Einemo. Døves Tidsskrift (Norges Døveforbund, Bergen, Norway), 82(14) (August 31): 5. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'Travel letter from Gyda and Reidar Einemo.')
- Visit to Arizona and Las Vegas. Report is principally about Hoover Dam and Grand Canyon.

Estevam, Andréa

- 2606 2001 O deserto no pedal. Tpm (Trip Para Mulher) (São Paulo, Brazil), 1(2) (June): [28]-[30] [pagination includes cover]. [In Portuguese.]
(transl. 'The desert by pedal.')
- Bicycling through the Southwest. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Farnsworth, Janet, AND Heath, Bernadette

- 2607 2001 North Rim ride; seeing the Grand Canyon from the back of a horse. Arizona Highways, 77(11) (November): 12-17.

Finney, Chris

- 2608 2001 Canyon sky : music for guitar. [Flagstaff, Arizona]: Chris Finney. CD.

Ford, Byron C.

- 2609 2001 I hiked the Canyon after 50 (and still hiking!). Escondido, California: Byron C. Ford, revised ed. [i.e., 3rd ed.], 92 pp.

Galina, Décio, AND Mendes, Rui

- 2610 2001 Uma mulher sem máscaras. Tpm (Trip Para Mulher) (São Paulo, Brazil), (62) (February): cover, 16-25. [In Portuguese.]
(transl. 'A woman without pretenses.')

Elke Maravilha; with photograph at Grand Canyon, pp. 22-23.

Goetz, Peggy Newland, AND Goetz, Brian

- 2611 2001 (WITH June Meyer Newland) The adventure of two lifetimes. Liberty Corner, New Jersey: Anacus Press, Inc., 304 pp.

June Meyer and Teri Foster bicycle from New York to California in 1956; and June's daughter and son-in-law repeat the trip in 1996. Includes Grand Canyon.

Green, Nancy [Green, Nancy Rivest]

- 2612 2001 Flash flood at Phantom Creek. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 12(3) (July/September): 3-4.

- 2613 2001 From a river journal. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 12(4) (October/December): 7-8.

- 2614 2001 Backpacking adventures. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 5(12): 1, 3.

Hamer, Melesa

- 2615 2001 Grand Canyon lecture series; from the bottom up, the canyon inspires as it educates. Flagstaff Live!, (October 18-24): 28.

Heath, S. H.

- 2616 2001 Herbert E. Gregory, pioneer geologist of the Colorado Plateau [ABSTRACT]. In: Erskine, M. C. (ed.), Faulds, James E., Bartley, John M., and Rowley, Peter D. (co-eds.), The geologic transition, High Plateaus to Great Basin; a symposium and field guide; the Mackin Volume. Utah Geological

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Association, Publication 30 [and] American Association of Petroleum Geologists, Pacific Section, Guidebook 78, p. 423.

Includes quotation from correspondence from Gregory to his wife, writing of the view from Fifty Mile Point, Kaiparowits Plateau, Utah, "For scenery, the Grand Canyon must take second place." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Jenkins, Mark

- 2617 2001 Temple of zoom; a speed ascent of a Grand Canyon spire proves that light is right. Outside, 26(6): 35-39.
Zoroaster Temple.

Jocks, Heinz-Norbert

- 2618 2001 David Hockney—"Exciting times are ahead"; die Geburt des Auges aus dem Geist der Malerei: Kunst- und Ausstellungshalle der Bundesrepublik Deutschland, Bonn. Kunstforum International, (156) (August/October): 409-411. [In German.]
(transl. 'David Hockney—"Exciting times are ahead"; the birth of the eye from the spirit of painting: Art and Exhibition Hall of the Federal Republic of Germany, Bonn.')

Includes canvas study of Grand Canyon.

Kearns, Dave

- 2619 2001 Grand masters of hype need to chill out. In: Wire Windows [COLUMN]. Network World, 18(47) (November 19): 18.
Begins with note of relaxing at Grand Canyon, placing things in perspective.

Keller, Jennifer

- 2620 2001 Reflections: Observing at the Grand Canyon Star Party. SACNews (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix, Arizona), 25(8) (August): 2, 8.

Kiefer, Michael

- 2621 2001 Below the rim; exploring the natural wonders of the Grand Canyon. America West Airlines Magazine, 16(6) (August): cover, 6, 26-29, 62, 64-67.

Krastman, Hank

- 2622 2001 Journey to Palatkwapi. Hollow Earth Insider, 2(5):.
Interview in 1994. Regarding a putative trip by "donkey" to a secret cave in the Grand Canyon (but not the supposed Egyptian cave that is often referred to in alternative literature).

Leavengood, Betty

- 2623 2001 Pioneers hike Powell Plateau. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 12(1) (January/March): 7-9.

Leslie, Mitchell

- 2624 2001 Roadside attractions; an offbeat adventurer prefers molehills to mountains. Stanford Magazine, (January/February):.
Disappointed with experiences like the Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lippard, Lucy R.

- 2625 2001 Too much: The Grand Canyon(s). Harvard Design Magazine, (10) (Winter/Spring) ("What Is Nature Now?" issue):.

"There are too many Grand Canyons. ••• Here are places that are 'inhuman'—godlike or demonic. We can't reason with such places, our culture seems to imply, so we'd better try to overpower them."

Livingstone, Marco

- 2626 2001 Bonn: David Hockney. Burlington Magazine (United Kingdom), 143 (September): 587-589.

Includes Hockney painting, "A Closer Grand Canyon".

Maciak, L'ubomír

- 2627 2001 Národný park Grand Canyon (postrehy turistu zo Slovenska). Ochrana Prírody Slovenksa (Banká Bystrica, Slovakia), (January): 14-15. [\[In Slovak.\]](#)

\(transl. 'Grand Canyon National Park \(observations of tourists from Slovakia\)'\)

Marconi, Maria Cristina

- 2628 2001 Marconi my beloved. 2001 U. K. Centenary Edition : edited, enlarged and updated by Elettra Marconi. Boston: Dante University of America Press, 425 pp. [Title-page verso gives place of publication as Wellesley, Massachusetts. Distributed by Branden Publishing Co. This is the 2nd ed. of the 1st English ed., 1999; a translation of Mio marito Guglielmo (Rizzoli, Milano, 1995).]

About the author's life with Guglielmo Marconi. See photo, p. 183, "Marconi with Maria Cristina atop the Grand Canyon in Colorado [sic], 1933." See also in text, pp. 212-213.

Marcovecchio, Faith

- 2629 2001 Mining beauty; earth painter Ulrike Arnold exhibits at Kolb Studio. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association Newsletter), 7(2) (Summer): 2-3.

Mattison, Patricia

- 2630 2001 A long time ago. FAA Aviation News (Federal Aviation Administration), 40(1) (January/February): 14-16.

A winter general aviation flight in the vicinity of Grand Canyon turns dangerous.

Miner, Carrie M., AND James, Kerrick

- 2631 2001 The "back way" to Marble Canyon; a tough three-day trek leads to Grand Canyon views usually seen only by rafters. Arizona Highways, 77(9) (September): cover, 1, 6-13.

Mori, Takashi [\[森 隆資\]](#)

- 2632 2001 私のユネスコ活動 (2); 世界遺産グランドキャニオンを訪ねて(米国・アリゾナ州) [Watashi no Yunesuko katsudō (2); Seikaiisan Gurandokyanion o tazunete (Beikoku Arizona-shū)] [\[My UNESCO activities \(2\); Visit the world canyon, Grand Canyon \(Arizona, USA\)\]](#). AU通信 [AU Tsūshin] [AU Communication] (芦屋ユネスコ協会 [Ashiya UNESCO Association, Japan]), (2) (January 15): 8. [\[In Japanese; with Roman orthography in serial title, thus.\]](#)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Neumark, H.

- 2633 2001 Mule ride. Christian Century, 118(34) (December 12): 4-5.

Noorzad, Rita

- 2634 2001 GeoClub goes to the Grand Canyon. GeoNews (Hunter College of the City University of New York, Department of Geography, New York), 15(1) (October): 8-9.

Rand, Harry

- 2635 2001 Canyon views; Merrill Mahaffey paints the southwestern landscape. Southwest Art, (February): 136-138, 162.

Roberts, Liz

- 2636 2001 (TRANSCRIBER) John Riffey Memorial Tall Tale Rendezvous : Tuweep, Arizona, Grand Canyon National Park, April 21, 2001. [Tuweep, Arizona]: [Liz and Clair Roberts], 85 pp.

Cover sheet: "John Riffey, Tuweep ranger 1942-1980, 'good samaritan, gentle friend, teller of tale tales.'" Loose-leaf format for updates; original pages dated April 21, 2001. Pages 2-40, transcription of Tale Tales Rendezvous; pp. 41-75, stories "submitted for this project by people who were unable to attend in person and also by attendees who had previously written essays on John Riffey and wanted to share them with the group"; also appendices, index. Also a subsequent additions to loose-leaf format: 1) distributed April 2002, pages dated April 21, 2001, pp. 76-82 + photocopy of Martin Litton article (1969), 1 p., and photocopy of undated [1969] U.S. Department of the Interior Citation for Meritorious Service to John H. Riffey, 1 p.

Rosenthal, Rachel

- 2637 2001 Rachel's brain and other storms. Rachel Rosenthal: Performance texts. (Edited and with commentaries by Una Chaudhuri.) London and New York: Continuum, 232 pp.

See "Grand Canyon", pp. 220-227.

Ross, A. C. S.

- 2638 2001 Upside down mountaineering. The Royal Engineers Journal (Institution of Royal Engineers, Chatham, Kent, United Kingdom), 114(1) (April): 29-31.

Brigadier Ross's day hike on Bright Angel Trail to the Colorado River and return, at age 71.

Ross, Andrea

- 2639 2001 Grand Canyon Life Zones. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(3) (Fall): 17.

Running, John P.

- 2640 2001 John Running, photographer. [No place]: John Running, [14] leaves [including cover leaves]. [Spiral-bound with semi-opaque plastic covers added. 12 leaves are fold-out leaves. 7 x 5¾ inches.]

Promotional. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rusz, Joe

- 2641 2001 A Grand (Canyon) adventure; off-roading in Porsche 911s? Sometimes truth is stranger than fiction; despite cut tires and considerable loss of coolant, Zuffenhausen's finest soldier on to the canyon's rim. Road and Track, 52(7) (March): 84-86.

Motorists from Zuffenhausen (Stuttgart, Germany) on the North Rim.

Schlesinger, Arthur M., Jr., AND Israel, Fred L.

- 2642 2001 Grand Canyon experiences: the awesome Grand Canyon in the early years of the 20th century. Broomall, Pennsylvania: Chelsea House, and Northam: Roundhouse, 144 pp.

Semmelmann, Elizabeth

- 2643 2001 A photographer's obsession; the willingness to live and die for good art. Flagstaff Live!, (October 11-17): 10.

George Lamont Mancuso.

- 2644 2001 Mancuso's memorial; beloved Flagstaff photographer dies doing what he loves in the Canyon. Flagstaff Live!, (October 11-17): 18.

George Lamont Mancuso.

Singh, P. J.

- 2645 2001 A visit to the Grand Canyon Railway. ISRS Quarterly Newsletter (Indian Steam Railway Society, New Delhi), (6) (Summer):.

Swinerton, Jimmy

- 2646 2001 James Swinerton. Santa Fe, New Mexico: Gerald Peters Gallery, 66 [68] pp.

Exhibition catalog; September 21-November 17, 2001.

Thomas, Morton

- 2647 2001 Matkatamiba, Harvey, and me. Grand Canyon Footprints, 1(2) (Spring): [2]. [Issue numeration reversed from convention, as "Issue 1, Volume 2".]

Harvey Butchart.

Vogelsang, Arthur

- 2648 2001 The nose, the Grand Canyon, and the sixties. Antioch Review, 59(2) (Spring): 195.

Reprints Vogelsang (1994).

Wild, Peter; Barclay, Donald A.; AND Maguire, James H.

- 2649 2001 (EDS.) Different travellers, different eyes : artists' narratives of the American West, 1820-1920. Fort Worth, Texas: Texas Christian University Press, 270 [272] pp.

Essays taken from the publications of artists, with editors' introductions. Although the Grand Canyon and lower Colorado River regions are noted in the introductions for Thomas Moran (pp. 191-193) and Balduin Möllhausen (pp. 114-117), the extracted essays by these writers are not pertinent to this bibliography.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

2002

Anonymous

- 2650 2002 Members of Catawba's Men's Octet reunite to sing and remember. Catawba College Campus (Salisbury, North Carolina), 24(4) (December): 11-12.

Includes reminiscences of a visit to Grand Canyon in June 1948.

Baranow, Joan

- 2651 2002 Grand Canyon. Paris Review, 44(164): 84.

Bergman, Darlene

- 2652 2002 [Comment.] Continuum (LLLI Alumnae Association, La Leche League International, Schaumburg, Illinois), 15(5): 7.

Regarding a group hike into Havasu Canyon.

Berke, Arnold

- 2653 2002 Mary Colter : architect of the Southwest. (Color photographs by Alexander Vertikoff.) New York: Princeton Architectural Press, 320 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states. Short run in hardback.]

Blandiana, Ana

- 2654 2002 Geniul de a fi. București and Chișinău, Romania: Litera Internațional, 312 pp. (Biblioteca Școlarăului.) [In Romanian.]
(transl. 'The genius of being.')

Reprinting of Blandiana (1997). See essay, "Grand Canyon", pp. 231-232.

Booth, Rick

- 2655 2002 Zoroaster Temple; Grand Canyon, Arizona, northeast arête. Scree (Peak Climbing Section, Loma Prieta Chapter, Sierra Club), 36(10) (October): 2-4.

Boruch, Marianne

- 2656 2004 Poems : new and selected. Oberlin, Ohio: Oberlin College Press. (FIELD Poetry Series, Volume 15.)

Under "New Poems", see "The History of The" (pp. 3-15); specifically, "old photographs" (p. 8), pertaining to ". . . three nuns, all strangers in solid flowing white, / peering into the Grand Canyon . . ."]

Bridghmon, Pam

- 2657 2002 We are changed. Continuum (LLLI Alumnae Association, La Leche League International, Schaumburg, Illinois), 15(5): 5.

Regarding a group hike into Havasu Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Buehlman, Jean

- 2658 2002 Life after physics. In: Local News [SECTION]. The Wisconsin Physicist (University of Wisconsin at Madison, Physics Alumni), 9(1) (Fall/Winter 2002-2003): 16.

Includes remarks on retirement travel, including photo of the author at Grand Canyon.

Burak, Gale

- 2659 2002 Excerpts from John Hance's "Canon Hotel" guest book. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 13(2) (April/June): 9-12.

Excerpts from 1891-1898. Accompanied by period photos (1898, 1906) and a Burak photo from 1942.

Chorlton, David

- 2660 2002 Canyon. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 38(4) (July/August): 8.

Cook, Mary J. Straw

- 2661 2002 (ED., ANNOTATOR) Immortal summer : a Victorian woman's travels in the Southwest : the 1897 letters and photographs of Amelia Hollenback. Santa Fe, New Mexico: Museum of New Mexico Press, 162 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Cox, Louise

- 2662 2002 [Comment.] Continuum (LLLI Alumnae Association, La Leche League International, Schaumburg, Illinois), 15(5): 6.

Regarding a group hike into Havasu Canyon.

Cranson, K. R.

- 2663 2002 Havasupai heaven. SOI News (Scamp Owners International, Lansing, Michigan), 4(1) (Winter): 16, 14-15 [sic]. [Item signed "KRC".]

Trip to Havasu Canyon. Page reading sequence thus.

Davis, Sandy

- 2664 2002 Hike Havasupai: Notes on the physical experience. Continuum (LLLI Alumnae Association, La Leche League International, Schaumburg, Illinois), 15(5): 6-7.

Regarding a group hike into Havasu Canyon.

Dellinges, Bill

- 2665 2002 Grand Canyon Star Party (North Rim). East Valley Astronomy Club (Scottsdale, Arizona), (August): 1-2.

Eilender, Edie

- 2666 2002 Tuweep. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 13(2) (April/June): 4-5.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Frey, Birgit, AND Fritz, Roland

- 2667 2002 accolage on tour (Teil 2). Das Akkordeonorchester des Landes Niedersachsen auf Konzertreise in Kanada und den USA. Harmonika-Nachrichten (Germany), (56) (1) (February): [4]-[5]. In German.] (transl. 'accolage on tour (part 2). The Lower Saxony Accordion Orchestra on a concert tour in Canada and the USA.')

The accordion orchestra "accolage". This installment includes brief remarks on visit to Grand Canyon.

Greening, Jack Kenneth

- 2668 2002 Victory Gardens at Grand Canyon Village during World War Two. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 13(3) (July/September): 4-6.

Grossman, Kathy

- 2669 2002 Red dust at morning: Ten things I learned on our Havasupai hike. Continuum (LLLI Alumnae Association, La Leche League International, Schaumburg, Illinois), 15(5): 8.

Regarding a group hike into Havasu Canyon.

Holmes, Burton

- 2670 2002 An 1898 trip to Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 13(1) (January/March): 9-12.

Without citation of source, but from Holmes's Travelogues.

Holub, Karen

- 2671 2002 Lawyer getaways. Arizona Attorney, (May): 16-21.

See pp. 20-21, "Seeing Things Differently; The Canyon".

Howe, Steve

- 2672 2002 Tanner Canyon Rapid, Grand Canyon, Arizona. In: Lanza, Michael, Best seats (in the house); when nature calls, bring your binoculars. These backcountry privies boast the 10 best views in North America [FEATURE]. Backpacker, 30(7) (September): 68.

Jones, Jack

- 2673 2002 Reflections; the 2002 Grand Canyon Star Party. SACNews (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix, Arizona), 26(7) (August): 3, 8.

Klug, Foster

- 2674 2002 Rooms with a view; Mary Colter's buildings complement the Grand Canyon. Travel 50 and Beyond, 13(3) (Summer): 60, 62-64.

Kuhn, Tom, AND Danley, Richard L.

- 2675 2002 Canyon confrontation; hiking the lightly traveled Grandview and New Hance trails requires facing fears. Arizona Highways, 78(3) (March): inside front cover-1, 6-15.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kuhn, Tom, AND Heath, Bernadette

2676 2002 Deserted Surprise Canyon. Arizona Highways, 78(4) (April): 6-11.

Lusk, Brian

2677 2002 A Southwest cockpit odyssey. Airways, 9(3) (May): cover, inside front cover, 24-30.
Three-day trip with a Southwest Airlines cockpit crew. Includes Grand Canyon, in passing.

Manning, Cyril

2678 2002 Call of the chasm; not much compares to a 25-mile, rim-to-rim trek across the Grand Canyon in one day. Attaché (US Airways), (August):.

Manning, Warren

2679 2002 Making wheels a family tradition. Ma'asei Yaldeinu (Department of Youth Activities, United Synagogue of Conservative Judaism, New York), 3(2) (Fall/Winter): [1].

"I fondly recall leading Schacharit services looking over one of the great majesties of God's creation, the Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Maxa, Christine, AND Danley, Richard L.

2680 2002 Canyon express; visions of a steak dinner compel our author to finish a grueling one-day Rim-to-river-to-Rim hike along Boucher Trail. Arizona Highways, 78(9) (September): 1, 18-23, back cover.

Morris, Jan

2681 2002 Coast to coast : a journey across 1950s America. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, 283 pp.
Reprint of Morris (1956, New York ed., As I saw the U.S.A.). Includes Grand Canyon.

Orman, Bill

2682 2002 National Trails Day on the Old Bright Angel Trail. Grand Canyon Footprints, 1(5) (Fall): [4]. [Issue numeration reversed from convention, as "Issue 1, Volume 5".]

Pfaendler, Tom

2683 2002 A grand adventure. Desert Trumpet (Friends of Red Rock Canyon, Blue Diamond, Nevada), (June): 2, (July): 5, 7.

Pletcher, Jodie

2684 2002 Van-O-Love: Phoenix or bust! IMOK Zealot (Indiana-Michigan-Ohio-Kentucky Region, Lutheran Student Movement, Columbus, Ohio), (Spring): 1-2.

Includes note of Grand Canyon visit.

Rosenthal, David A.

2685 2002 Satellite DXing "to go". QST (Amateur Radio Relay League), (June): 40-43.

See pp. 42-43, DXing at Kanab Point. (DX: Distance Unknown. DXing: communicating with far-away radio stations.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Schroeder, Carl

- 2686 2002 Between the lakes : original piano compositions. [No place]: C. Schroeder. CD.
Includes "Pictures of a Grand Canyon Sunset" (2:17).

Skonie, Valerie

- 2687 2002 Journey into Myanmar with Cealo. In: Spirit, Mind and Body [SECTION]. The Petaluma Post (Petaluma, California), 15 (December) (194): 4.

Regarding Japanese-born Buddhist monk Gayuna Cealo. Illustrated with a photo of Cealo at Grand Canyon, but no text mention of Grand Canyon. See also p. 3, a full-length portrait of Cealo at Grand Canyon by Jacqueline Miller, which accompanies an anonymous, untitled item on Cealo as part of the Spirit, Mind and Body section, also without text mention of Grand Canyon.

Spencer, James

- 2688 2002 An ace. Topic Magazine, (1) (Summer):.
Includes note, in passing, of a B-17 flight in Grand Canyon.

Starkey, Michelle

- 2689 2002 Take a hike! Continuum (LLLI Alumnae Association, La Leche League International, Schaumburg, Illinois), 15(5): 5.

Regarding a group hike into Havasu Canyon.

Steiger Bros.

- 2690 2002 Kolb Brothers : Grand Canyon pioneers. [No place]: Steiger Bros., in association with Arizona PBS, DVD. (The Arizona Collection.) 36:00.

Tissandier, Albert

- 2691 2002 Albert Tissandier: Six months in the United States, 1885. (R. Ryan Jensen and Mary F. Francey, translators.) [Salt Lake City]: Utah Museum of Fine Arts, 64 pp.

A selected translation from Tissandier (1886), with the focus on his travels in Utah and environs.

Townsend, Chris

- 2692 2002 Crossing Arizona : a solo hike through the Sky Islands and deserts of the Arizona Trail. Woodstock, Vermont: The Countryman Press, 256 pp.

See Chapter 7, "In and Out of the Wilderness; Flagstaff to the Grand Canyon, 107 miles" (pp. 154-187); Chapter 8, "The Canyon; Bright Angel Trail to the North Rim, 32 miles" (pp. 188-213); Chapter 9, "Winding Down; the North Rim to Utah, 116 miles" (pp. 214-230).

Van Valkenburg, Jim

- 2693 2002 Each year finds local man back in Grand Canyon—afoot, alone. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 13(4) (October/December): 3-4.

Merrel D. Clubb. From Lawrence (Kansas) Daily Journal, May 5, 1954. See also "Correction", The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(11): 4: "Special thanks to Merrel D. Clubb Jr. for providing Dove Menkes with this

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

information. And, a thank you to the people at the Lawrence Daily Journal for granting Copyright permission to reprint this article."

Wagenberg, Peter

- 2694 2002 Bright Angel Trail : from the South Rim down to the Phantom Ranch. Las Vegas: Peter Wagnenberg, 3 VCR videotapes. Part One: South Rim to the Indian Gardens. Part Two: Indians Gardens to the Colorado River. Part Three: Along the Colorado River to Phantom Ranch. 120:00, 120:00, 85:00.

Unedited video in real time, with music; hike from South Rim to Phantom Ranch.

- 2695 2002 South Kaibab Trail : from the South Rim down to the Phantom Ranch. Las Vegas: Peter Wangenberg, 2 VCR videotapes. Part One: From the South Rim down to the Tonto Plateau. Part Two: From the Tonto Plateau down to the Phantom Ranch. 120:00, 100:00.

Unedited video in real time, with music; hike from South Rim to Phantom Ranch.

- 2696 2002 South Kaibab Trail : from the Phantom Ranch up to the South Rim. Las Vegas: Peter Wangenberg, 2 VCR videotapes. Part One: From the Phantom Ranch up to the Tonto Plateau. Part Two: From the Tonto Plateau up to the South Rim.

Unedited video in real time, with music; hike from Phantom Ranch to South Rim.

Watz, Franz

- 2697 2002 Grand Canyon panorama : overture for band. Kaltental, Germany: Wertach-Musikverlag, 40 pp. [Condensed score.]

Watts, Audrey

- 2698 2002 A winter visit to Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 13(3) (July/September): 8.

First visit, in the mid-1970s.

2003

Anonymous

- 2699 2003 Pack your bags . . . travelling with Mr. Jackson. In: Travel opportunities [SECTION]. School Ties (St. Michaels University School, Victoria, British Columbia), (Spring): 9. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Teacher Michael Jackson (not the entertainer, nor the beer connoisseur); includes note of 1992 trip to Grand Canyon.

- 2700 2003 Harker 7th graders enjoy Grand Canyon expedition. Harker News (Harker School, San Jose, California), (May):.

- 2701 2003 ISAS 2003: Arizona. Old English Newsletter (Modern Language Association of America, Old English Division), 37(1) (Fall): 14-20.

International Society of Anglo-Saxonists, 11th Biennial Meeting, Scottsdale, Arizona. Includes notes regarding excursion to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Aleshire, Peter, AND James, Kerrick

2702 2003 Colorado River assault. Arizona Highways, 79(6) (June): cover, 1, 6-13.

Askew, Ben

2703 2003 Red rock mountains of Sedona, AZ; ride report. Gulf Wings Newsletter (Gold Wing Road Riders Association, Chapter TX-G, Tomball, Texas), 15(8) (September).

Article is to be continued, but includes visit to South Rim of Grand Canyon in this installment.

Back, Colleen

2704 2003 A western adventure; exercise your pilot privileges on a scenic trip. AOPA Pilot (Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association), (February): 78-84. [In the reprint seen, running footer gives date February 2003 but reprint credit on p. 84 gives February 2002 and copyright 2002.]

Berger, Todd R.

2705 2003 A canyon-sized work of art. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association Member Newsletter), 9(3) (Fall): 3.

Bruce Aiken's "Shoshone Point".

Butchart, Harvey, AND Steiger, Lew

2706 2003 Dr. Harvey Butchart. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 1, 30-40.

Butchart oral history interview in 1995. See also comments by Ken Walters and by Anthony Williams, 16(3): 8.

Byrn, David L.

2707 2003 On the canyon's rim. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(2) (Summer): 19.

Clayton, Ron

2708 2003 Ron Clayton's Grand Canyon mule skinner's journal. Cortez, Colorado: David Bowyer Productions. DVD.

Clevenger, Geores

2709 2003 GCNP and Route 66. Webfeet News (Lake Merritt Joggers and Striders, Oakland, California), 26(5) (September/October): 6.

Cole, Anastasia, AND Rico, Monica

2710 2003 Road trip! Two girls, one car and 3,300 miles of open highway. Can you think of a better way to spend summer vacation? Elle Girl, (May/June): 102-105.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Coltrin, Mike

2711 2003 Powell Plateau circumambulation. Grand Canyon Footprints 1(6) (Spring): [2]-[3]. [NOTE: Issue numeration reversed from convention, as "Issue 1, Volume 6".]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cox, Pam L.

- 2712 2003 A lasting legacy; a CCC enrollee's return to Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 9(2) (Summer): 1-2.
Louis Purvis, author of The Ace in the Hole (1989).

Edmundson, Jerry, AND Edmundson, Becky

- 2713 2003 Grand Canyon liberated; hiking naturally. Nude and Natural, 23(1) (Autumn): 66-70.
NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).

Edsall, Larry

- 2714 2003 Porsche Cayenne spices up the Arizona Strip. Arizona Driver, 2(5) (September/October): 10-13.
Includes Grand Canyon.

Frazier, Pam

- 2715 2003 The art of Bruce Aiken; one with the Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 9(1) (Winter): 5.

Goerner, Virginia

- 2716 2003 A sketch in time : a young girl's diary of the 1920 Frank Reaugh sketch trip to the Grand Canyon (Virginia Howard, ed.). With an essay on Frank Reaugh by Elizabeth Skidmore Sasser and notes by Gardner Smith. Also includes the diary of the 1921 sketch trip edited by Gardner Smith. Stephenville, Texas: Moccasin Rock Press, 74 pp., plates. [An on-demand publication.]

Grubbs, Bruce

- 2717 2003 On the edge: QRP afield from the rim of the Grand Canyon. ARS Sojourner (Adventure Radio Society), (April):. [Cover article.]
QRP: Reduced-power ham radio transmission while attempting to maximize range.

Harlin, John, III

- 2718 2003 Grand Canyon National Park, Comanche Point, Comanche Ridge. American Alpine Journal (American Alpine Club, New York), 45(77): 202-.
Rock climbing.

Harper, Judy

- 2719 2003 "Do what you know"; featured artist, Clyde Ross Morgan. Sedona Magazine, (Summer):.

Houk, Rose, AND Kerrick, James

- 2720 2003 Canyon ranger; backcountry medic, educator, cop and psychologist goes to extremes. Arizona Highways, 79(1) (January): 6-13.
Bryan Wisher.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Humphreys, Russ

- 2721 2003 [Remarks on watching stars in Grand Canyon.] In: Vail, Tom, Grand Canyon : a different view. Green Forest, Arkansas: Master Books, pp. 26-27.

Volume is a creationist viewpoint.

Il'f, Il'ia, AND Petrov, Evgenii [Ильф, Илья; Петров, Евгений] [pseudonyms] [Илья Арнольдович Файнзильберг (Il'ya Arnol'dovich Faynzil'berg), AND Евгений Петрович Катаев (Yevgeniy Petrovich Katayev)]

- 2722 2003 Одноэтажная Америка : Письма из Америки [Odnoetazhnaya Amerika : Pis'ma iz Ameriki]. [One-sided America : letters from America]. Moskva: Текст [Tekst], 508 pp. [Also later printings.] [In Russian.]

Credited to the series published in Знамя [Znamya] (see Il'f and Petrov, 1936). Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

Iszler, Robin

- 2723 2003 A grand vacation. Hot Spots (North Dakota Appaloosa Horse Club), (October): [2].

Mule trip.

Jao, Tsung-i [饒宗頤] [Rao Zongyi]

- 2724 2003 饒宗頤二十世紀學術文集。十四卷，文錄，詩詞 [Rao Zongyi ershi shiji xueshu wenji. shisi juǎn, wén lù, shīcí] [Rao Zongyi's academic anthology of the 20th century. Volume 14, Essays, poems]. Taipei: 新文豐出版股份有限公司 [Xīn wén fēng chūbǎn gǔfèn yǒuxiàn gōngsī sī] [Xinwenfeng Publishing Co., Ltd.], 769, 17 pp. [Date given is 民國 92; i.e. 92 in the Minguo calendar of the Republic of China (Taiwan) era system.] [In Chinese.]

See “大峽谷” (Grand Canyon), p. 722. See also Jao (2015, 2016), including there notes on the usage of “Jao” and “Rao”.

Jones, Jack

- 2725 2004 Grand Canyon Star Party 2004—North Rim, June 12-19, 2004. SACNews (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix, Arizona), 28(8) (August): 1, 9.

Jurn, Arnie

- 2726 2003 Flying to the Grand Canyon. Air Currents (Arizona Soaring Association, Glendale, Arizona), (2nd Quarter): 1, 3.

Jurow, Kate

- 2727 2003 A summer in Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association Member Newsletter), 9(3) (Fall): 1-2.

Kammen, Shira

- 2728 2003 Music of waters. Berkeley, California: Magnetune. CD.

Promotional material indicates: “Music of Waters, which was recorded in the wild and beautiful side canyons of the Grand Canyon and in the Desert View Watchtower on the South Rim, features original modal compositions, as well as traditional songs and tunes. The music celebrates the vast and magnificent landscape of the Canyon

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

and the Colorado River, and is influenced by Celtic and Eastern European and other folk styles, as well as by the music of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. Shira is joined by Bay Area colleagues Peter Maund (known for his percussion work with Skyedance, Ensemble Alcatraz, Davka), Danny Carnahan (Wake the Dead, Caswell & Carnahan, etc), David Morris (Teatro Bacchino) on Viola da Gamba, and Cheryl Ann Fulton on harp." A 2006 online entry indicates that a downloadable audio file "Requires OverDrive Media Console". CD not located. However, the music, under the 2003 label Magnetune, can be streamed online: https://www.amazon.com/Music-Waters-Shira-Kammen/dp/B000TQ0IWK/ref=sr\_1\_1?ie=UTF8&qid=1513889173&sr=8-1&keywords=%22Music+of+waters%22+kammen (accessed December 21, 2017).

("© Copyright 2006 Shira Kammen. Licensed under the v1.0 by-nc-sa Creative Commons license. <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/1.0/>.)

Karl, Dick

- 2729 2003 Cross country, the whole country. In: Gear Up [COLUMN]. Flying, 130(3) (March): 96-99.
Grand Canyon, p. 98.

Keton, Jeannette S.

- 2730 2003 Everything old is new again for retired Captain Robert Wilson; from war to furlough to flying again. Flightline (Allied Pilots Association, American Airlines), (Spring): 12-13, 29.
- See p. 12, note of Army Air Corps pilot Wilson assigned to the South Pacific during World War II, training in the West. "They flew there together across the Grand Canyon, where, Wilson recalls, they ducked their new B-25 Mitchell aircraft under a cable stretched across one end." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Kuhn, Tom, AND Heath, Bernadette

- 2731 2003 Tonto East Trail; an uncrowded route for a great Grand Canyon view. Arizona Highways, 79(10) (October): 34-39.

Ladd, Gary

- 2732 2003 Dancing with lightning on mighty Vishnu Temple. Arizona Highways, 79(7) (July): 44-49.
Ascent of Vishnu Temple. See also letter by Doug Bacso, 79(12) (December): 2.

Massey, Carissa

- 2733 2003 Mary Colter: Southwestern architect and innovator of indigenous style. Master's thesis, Marshall University, 101 pp.
- Grand Canyon throughout; see in particular Chapter 3, "The Grand Canyon: Colter's Indigenous Styles", pp. 45-67.

McCroskey, Mona Lange

- 2734 2003 (ED.) Summer sojourn to the Grand Canyon : the 1898 diary of Zella Dysart. Prescott, Arizona: HollyBear Press, 2nd ed., 108 pp.

Mersereau, Bob

- 2735 2003 Grand Canyon memories. Arizona Alumnus, 80(3) (Spring): 4.
Letter.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Millsbaugh, Dick D.

- 2736 2003 Who needs a chaplain at the bottom of the Grand Canyon? Chaplaincy Today (Association of Professional Chaplains, Journal), 19(2): 16-21.

Regarding a mule ride into Grand Canyon. ("This article is the author's personal reflection following a family medical crisis through which the value of pastoral care provided by professional chaplains became evident by its absence. It was presented as a speech delivered to the Association of Professional Chaplains (APC) at the 2002 conference during his term as president and is reprinted here in response to members' requests.")

Moore, Rick

- 2737 2003 Cleaning up the San Juan power plant; standing on the shoulders of Trust members. Colorado Plateau Advocate, (Summer): 5.

Includes photograph of Curt Walters painting on the South Rim of Grand Canyon.

Muff, Eric

- 2738 2003 But, hey!!! . . . that's the adventure. Spar and Prop (Toronto Hydroplane and Sailing Club, Toronto, Ontario), (155) (February): 7, 9. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Southwestern trip. Includes Grand Canyon South Rim.

Niskanen, Seppo

- 2739 2003 Lännen ihmeet. Heijaste (Suomen Urantia-seura r.y., Helsinki), 19(2) (June 18): 14-15. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Wonders of the West')

Report of trip to the western U.S. Includes Grand Canyon.

Ostapowicz, Bogdan

- 2740 2003 Bujny życiorys wuefiaka (10). Biuletyn Absolwenta (Akademii Wychowania Fizycznego we Wrocławiu, Stowarzyszenie Absolwentów), (25) (April): 26-28. [In Polish.]

Part of a series, "Wspomnień czar" ('The charm of memories'). See p. 28, remarks on visit to Grand Canyon.

Quayle, Amil D.

- 2741 2003 Go there. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(2) (Summer): 46.

Rechel, Diane

- 2742 2003 Art that will grow on you; Waring's colorful nature work. Flagstaff Live!, (June 10-16): 10.
Gwendolyn Waring.

Scheid, Christopher

- 2743 2003 On the Grand Canyon Railroad . . . getting there is half the fun. Gateway to Canyon Country, (Summer): 9. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Grand Canyon Railway.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Šedivý, František

- 2744 2003 Indiáni nás zklamali; František Šedivý na výpravě v USA—7. Našy Noviny [Praha?], 2003(10)(343) (June 3): 8. [In Czech.]
(transl. ‘The Indians disappointed us; František Šedivý on an expedition in the USA — 7’)

This part of the serialized article includes Grand Canyon and vicinity.

Sheppard, Ron

- 2745 2003 Crossing the USA. Motorcycle Roads (Motorcycle Touring Association, Pahrump, Nevada), 20(4) (July/August): 16-18.

First installment of a serialized article. He notes (p. 17, so regretfully misled, or confused), “Pulling into the visitor center parking lot at the North Rim, I removed my camera from the saddlebag and walked out onto the Navajo Bridge that spans the Colorado River.” After ascending to the Kaibab Plateau (p. 18), “I was disappointed to see a sign near the store saying that the upper part of the canyon was closed until summer.”

Shibata, Kenichi [柴田健一]

- 2746 2003 しし座流星群とアメリカ中西部の旅 [shishizaryūseigun to Amerika chūseibu no tabi] [Leonid meteor shower and southwestern US trip]. Pleiades (札幌天文同好会 [Sapporo tenmon dōkō-kai] Sapporo Astronomy Club [Sapporo, Hokkaido, Japan]), (141) (May 1): 21-31. [In Japanese, with serial title in Roman orthography, thus, and bilingual publisher’s information.]

See p. 27, “11. グランドキャニオン” [11. Gurandokyanion] [11. Grand Canyon].

Smith, Gardner, AND Reitz, Robert

- 2747 2003 In considerable style : the sketch trips of Frank Reaugh. Including a complete transcript of the 1921 trip and a gallery of clippings. Stephenville, Texas: Moccasin Rock Press, 18th ed., 169 pp., plates. [Apparently produced on demand. Other eds. (printings?) not seen.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Stark, Bruce

- 2748 2003 American suite : for flute and piano. Tokyo: Belle-Kane. CD. (N.F.A. Collection.)

Includes “The Bird and the Canyon (Dawn at the Grand Canyon)”.

Stuart, Edwin

- 2749 2003 Bad trips. [No place]: 1stBooks Library, 136 [137] pp.

Stop at Grand Canyon South Rim, pp. 105-108. Superficial attention to the canyon; more interested in personal problems.

Thomas, Lowell

- 2750 2003 A trip across the Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 14(3) (July/September): 11-12.

Remarks on a 1915 trip.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Totty, Patrick

- 2751 2003 Toroweap, a remote area west of Grand Canyon National Park; the old man at the edge of the world. Cultured Traveler (Cultural Travels Newsletter), 5 (March):.

Tyler, Brent

- 2752 2003 Confessions of the Zippo Car driver. Zippo Click (Zippo Click Collectors Club, Zippo Manufacturing Co., Bradford, Pennsylvania), (Spring): 15.

Regarding Zippo lighters. Includes photo of Zippo Car at Grand Canyon; no text mention. See also "Letter from the President" by Gregory W. Booth, p. 2, which mentions in passing that the Zippo Car was in a photo stop at Grand Canyon.

Walczak, Thom

- 2753 2003 Grand Canyon Star Party 2003 21-28 June. SACNews (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix, Arizona), 27(8) (August): 8, 10.

The by-line is indicated as "Mike Spooner", but see correction, 28(3) (March 2004): 10, which indicates the author is Thom Walczak.

Wellborn, Terresa

- 2754 2003 Grand Canyon, North Rim. Dialogue (A Journal of Mormon Thought) (Dialogue Foundation, Salt Lake City), 50(1): 166.

Winchester, Judi A.

- 2755 2003 "God bless the hands that made them custard pies." William F. Cody's North Rim adventure. Points West (Buffalo Bill Historical Center), (Winter): 14-16.

2004

Anonymous

- 2756 2004 Travel to Supai land in the Grand Canyon. Kings Highway Newsletter (Pathfinder Missions, Columbia, Tennessee), 1(1) (January 30): 1-.

Report of trip to Supai, Arizona.

- 2757 2004 Grand Canyon hiking and camping trip. Mojave Academy Summer Newsletter (Datil, New Mexico), 2(2) (August): [2].

Trip report.

- 2758 2004 Collegiate faculty bike the North Rim of the Grand Canyon. DSB Weekly (University of Iowa, College of Dentistry and Dental Clinics), (646) (August 9): 1-5.

DSB: Dental Science Building.

Annerino, John

- 2759 2004 The Grand Canyon explored. National Geographic Adventure, 38 (March): 66-67.

"Unfortunately, I don't recognize any of my writing in this!" (teste J. Annerino, April 2004).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Blažević-Krietzman, Neda Miranda

- 2760 2004 Apstrakcije Dubrovnika, Sedone i Velikog Kanjona : estetsko zrcaljenje prirode i arhitekture : Muzej Mimara, 14.-31. Istopada 2004. (Foreword by Kathy Daniels.) Zagreb: Muzej Mimara, 48 pp. [\[In Croatian.\]](#)
(transl. 'Abstractions of Dubrovnik, Sedona and the Grand Canyon : aesthetic mirroring of nature and architecture.')

Exhibition catalogue. Photographs and essay by Neda Miranda Blažević-Krietzman.

Boas, Norman Francis

- 2761 2004 Franz Boas, 1858-1942 : an illustrated biography. Mystic, Connecticut: Seaport Autographs Press, 312 [317] pp.

Grand Canyon visit in 1922 by Franz, Marie, and Gertud Boas, noted in passing, p. 204. Also a photograph, Figure 112 (p. 205), "Park ranger, Marie, and Franz Boas in the Grand Canyon"; photo apparently taken on the rim near the head of Bright Angel Trail (no canyon view). The "park ranger" is not dressed as a ranger but is probably a wrangler guide.

Booth, Rick

- 2762 2004 Five favorites. Scree (Peak Climbing Section, Loma Prieta Chapter, Sierra Club), 38(5) (May): 2-3. Includes a Zoroaster Temple climb.

Bryant, Kathleen, AND Lindahl, Larry

- 2763 2004 Over the rocks, down to the river; Rider Canyon poses a challenge in reaching the Colorado's House Rock Rapids. Arizona Highways, 80(9) (September): 6-15.

Čaklais, Ingmārs

- 2764 2004 Visu iespēju zeme ASV; Jūrmalas pilsētas domes sabiedrisko attiecību speciālists Ingmārs Čaklais un viņa dzīvesbiedre zvērināta notāre Dace Čaklā (Ingmārs ir arī Daces biroja vadītājs) augusta vidū divas nedēļas pavadīja Amerikas Savienotajās Valstīs (ASV). Mājas Viesis (Izdevēja Centrālā savienība "Turība", Rīgā, Latvia), (November 19): 32-35. [\[In Latvian.\]](#)
(transl. 'A land of all possibilities in the United States; Jurmala City Council public relations specialist Ingmārs Čaklais and his wife, a sworn notary Dace Čaklais (Ingmārs is also the head of Dace's office), spent two weeks in the United States (USA) in mid-August.')

Includes Grand Canyon.

D'Antonio, Steve C.

- 2765 2004 The amazing Mister Moesly. The saga of Sea Craft—the company and the boat, one of the finest small powerboat hullforms ever devised—cannot be separated from the true adventures of the man who created both. Professional BoatBuilder, (91) (October/November): 116-118, 120, 122, 124, 126-135.

Carl Moesly. See p. 116, speaking of Moesly's former exploits, including a "ride in a B-17 bomber flown below the rim of the Grand Canyon at sunset" (ENTIRE NOTE).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Davidson, Jane

- 2766 2004 [Review of] "Male Witches in Early Modern Europe" by Laura Apps and Andrew Gow (Manchester University Press, 2003). Sixteenth Century Journal, 35(2) (Summer): 583-584.
- See p. 584: ". . . it strikes the reviewer that Apps's and Gow's research methods are rather like those of one who walks all the rim trails of the Grand Canyon, but never hikes to the bottom, nor rides the rapids. They have 'seen' the Grand Canyon of the story of male witches, but they have not thoroughly examined the chasm."
(ENTIRE NOTE)

Deep Sea Music [musical group]

- 2767 2004 Canyon dreams. Germany: Leinfelden-Echterdingen Mediaphon/Madacy Entertainment. CD.
- Deep Sea Music (1996).

DeWeese, Garry

- 2768 2004 Speaking freely: Yaki Point sunset. With All Your Mind (Biola University, Talbot School of Theology, MA Philosophy Program Newsletter), (9) (Spring): 1, 3.

Dhungel Gyawali, Smriti

- 2769 2004 ANA: "Greetings from the Wild West". The Nepal Digest (New York), Year 15, 5(1) (May 25) (Jestha 12 2061 B.S.): 24-25.

Includes hike into Havasu Canyon. ANA: Association of the Nepalis in the Americas.

Donaldson, Chuck, AND Donaldson, Leslie

- 2770 2004 Far away places with strange sounding names. The "Kick AZ-S" News (Gold Wing Road Riders Association, Arizona Chapter S), 3(5) (May): 12-13.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Dougherty, Michael

- 2771 2004 In pursuit of excellence: Profile of Suzanne Connolly, M.D. Mayo Alumni (Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota), 40(4) (Fall): 18-23.

See photo, p. 22, "The Connollys during a rafting trip at Havasupai Creek [sic] where it feeds into the Colorado River." Havasu Creek. No text mention.

Ensenberger, Peter

- 2772 2004 (PHOTOGRAPHY ED.) The Grand Canyon : featuring select images by Arizona Highways photographers. Phoenix: Arizona Highways Books, 80 pp. [Numerous later printings.]

Farb, Carolyn; Evans, James; AND Holzherr, Florian

- 2773 2004 Light show. Brilliant, (October): 56-57.

Artwork of Charles Mary Kubricht.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Fonze, Tony

- 2774 2004 Flying the canyon. Autorotate (Professional Helicopter Pilots' Association), 3(8) (November/December): cover, 3, 4-9.

Frazier, Pam

- 2775 2004 Art exhibit draws a crowd. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 10(1) (Spring): 3.
- 2776 2004 GCA's art collection grows. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 10(1) (Spring): 4.

Ganz, Caryn

- 2777 2004 Sons and Daughters. (Photograph by Tammy Schoenfeld.) Spin, 20(9) (September): 40.
- Sons and Daughters is a musical group. "Their cross-country journey also inspired a fairly ambitious fantasy: 'To play the bottom of the Grand Canyon,' says [drummer David] Gow. 'We could get Evel Kneivel to jump the canyon, and resurrect Johnny Cash,' [singer/guitarist Scott] Patterson says, grinning. 'That'd be the best gig ever.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Gordon, Dave

- 2778 2004 Chairman's chat—July 2004; USA South, 2004. Canopus (Astronomical Society of Southern Africa, Johannesburg Centre), (July): 5-7.
- Includes visit to Grand Canyon, with comment overheard, ". . . an American visitor standing behind me remarked 'Now, if they had built the Hoover Dam a little earlier, all of this destruction would have been avoided!'"

Green, Nancy [Green, Nancy Rivest]

- 2779 2004 Kolb Studio tour. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 8(6): 1-2. (Photo by Diane Cassidy.)
- Report.
- 2780 2004 Writing down the river: Into the heart of the Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 15(3) (July/September): 10.
- Report on a presentation by Kathleen Jo Ryan.

Jennings, William Scott

- 2781 2004 Mastering the sublime landscape. International Artist, (38) (August/September): 20-31.
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Jensen, Allan

- 2782 2004 Mine 10 bedste udsigter. Globen (De Berejstes Klub, København), (March): 62-63. [In Danish.] (transl. 'My ten best views')
- De Berejstes Klub: The Travel Club. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jibsa, Bagbeomiye [집사, 박범례]

- 2783 2004 하나님께서 이 땅에 행하신 사건의 흔적 그랜드 캐년! [hananimkkeseo i ttang-e haenghasin sageon-ui heunjeog geulaendeu kaenyeon!] [Traces of God in the Grand Canyon!]. 새문안 [Saemunan] [Saemoonan Bulletin] (Saemoonan Presbyterian Church, Seoul), 4(4) (April): 32-33. [In Korean.]

Johansson, Linda

- 2784 2004 Lindas resebrev. Fjellsprenger'n (Dyno Nobel Europe, Lierstranda, Norway), 15(1) (July): 20-21. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'Travel letter')

Author's report of working in company's office in Salt Lake City, Utah, including brief note of visit to Grand Canyon.

Klett, Mark

- 2785 2004 (PROJECT DIRECTOR) Third views, second sights : a rephotographic survey of the American West. Santa Fe, New Mexico: Museum of New Mexico Press, in association with Center for American Places, 238 pp., and CD-ROM.

A sequel to Klett (1992), Revealing Territory. Note, however, that the "second views" volume by Klett and others, Second view : the rephotographic survey project (University of New Mexico Press, 1984), is extralimital to this bibliography.

Kolb, Emery C.

- 2786 2004 Cheyava Falls. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 15(3) (July/September): 3-5.
Reprinted from Kolb (1935).

Leavengood, Betty

- 2787 2004 Grand Canyon women : lives shaped by landscape. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 2nd ed., 297 pp.

Martin, Tom

- 2788 2004 Grand Canyon, Clay Tank Castle, first ascent. American Alpine Journal (American Alpine Club, New York), 46(78): 174-.

Maxa, Christine, AND Danley, Richard L.

- 2789 2004 Nankoweap Trail challenges hikers, rewards with uncommon views. Arizona Highways, 80(8) (August): 48-inside back cover.

McCroskey, Mona Lange

- 2790 2004 A mule's eye view of the Grand Canyon : the photograph collection of trail guide Ray Tankersley. Prescott, Arizona: HollyBear Press, 122 pp.

McNamara, Ken

- 2791 2004 Hiking the Grand Canyon : the corridor trails : Bright Angel, South Kaibab, North Kaibab. ConMara Publishing, Inc. DVD.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Muḥammad 'Alī Bāshā [محمد علي باشا]

- 2792 2004 1912 الرحلة الأميركية، 1912 [al-Rihlah al-Amīrkīya, 1912] [American trip, 1912]. (Ed., introduction by محمد علي باشا [‘Alī Aḥmad Kan’ān].) [Bayrūt]: المؤسسة العربية للدراسات والنشر [al-Mu’assasah al’Arabīyah lil-Dirāsāt w-al-Nashr] [Arab Foundation for Studies and Publishing], 325 pp. [In Arabic.]
- Grand Canyon, see pp. 21, 107-109.

Muleady-Mecham, Nancy Eileen

- 2793 2004 Park Ranger : true stories from a ranger’s career in America’s national parks. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 244 pp.

Nydegger, Wale

- 2794 2004 Töfftour durch den “Wilden Westen”. CN (Basel, Switzerland), (January): 5-7. [In German.] (transl. “Motorbike tour through the “Wild West””)
- Includes Grand Canyon.

O’Reilly, Bill

- 2795 2004 “It takes your breath away”. Parade [syndicated], (July 18): 4-5.

Pašteka, Anton

- 2796 2004 Pavol Čaniga sa v USA nestratil. Malcký Hlas (Malacky, Slovakia), 14(12): 5. [In Slovak.]
- Regarding Čaniga’s trip to the USA, with remark on visit to Grand Canyon.

Pennington, Jack

- 2797 2004 A little chilly, though. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 10(1): 6.
- Grand Canyon Field Institute winter hike.

Phungchit Supphamit [พืงจิตต์ ศุภมิตร]

- 2798 2004 ตามเสด็จ ต่างประเทศ [Tām sadet tāng prathēt] [Following her majesty abroad]. [No place]: ไฟลินบุ๊คเน็ต [Phīlin búkh nēt] [Sapphire Booknet]. [In Thai.]
- Volume comprises the reminiscences of Phungchit, a lady-in-waiting to Sirikit, the queen consort of King Bhumibol Adulyade, during state visits of 1950s–1960s. Notes Grand Canyon. See also Phungchit Supphamit (1992).

Pratt, Mary, AND Danley, Richard L.

- 2799 2004 Grand Canyon Lodge on the North Rim exudes quiet coziness. Arizona Highways, 80(7) (July): 46-47.

Price, Edna Calkins

- 2800 2004 Burro Bill and me : Death Valley to Grand Canyon by burro via the Arizona Strip. Santa Barbara, California: Narrative Press, 198 pp. (Historical Adventure and Exploration Series, 86.) [Cover uses subtitle, “Ramblings in the American Desert”.]

See also Price (1973, 1993).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Randall, Margaret, AND Byers, Barbara

- 2801 2004 Into another time : Grand Canyon reflections. (Poems by Margaret Randall, drawings by Barbara Byers.) Albuquerque, New Mexico: West End Press, 96 pp.

Reed, John, AND Reed, Judy

- 2802 2004 John and Judy Reed, reporting from the "grandest of canyons," Grand Canyon, Arizona. In: Thompson, Brian (member news west compiler), CBHL Members' News [SECTION]. Council on Botanical and Horticultural Libraries, Newsletter, (93) (May): 10.

Schick, Jeanne

- 2803 2004 Raised at Grand Canyon. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 8(4): 3.

Sciuto, Alex W.

- 2804 2004 Science Club has grand olde time. Prep News (St. Louis University High School), 68(25) (March 26): 4, 11.

Spamer, Earle E.

- 2805 2004 "Did I ever tell you about the time the King of Belgium gave me a medal?" As reminded by Earle Spamer. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 15(2) (April/June): 9.

Regarding the award of the Order of Leopold by King Albert to an injured Grand Canyon Railway employee at Grand Canyon.

Spicer, Rocky

- 2806 2004 High wire; in one of the toughest construction jobs ever, steelworkers built a tramway across the Grand Canyon. Invention and Technology, 19(4) (Spring): 34-38.

Bat Cave tram.

Stampoulos, Linda L.

- 2807 2004 Visiting the Grand Canyon : views of early tourism. Chicago: Arcadia Publishing, 128 pp. (Images of America.)

See also Stampoulos (2008).

Steele, Bill

- 2808 2004 Cave exploration in the Grand Canyon. The Maverick Bull (National Speleological Society, Maverick Grotto, Dallas, Texas), 17(8) (June): cover, 2, 4, back cover.

Toliver, Brooks

- 2809 2004 Eco-ing in the Grand Canyon: Ferde Grofé's Grand Canyon Suite and the transformation of wilderness. American Musicological Society, Journal, 57(2): 325-368.

Includes illustrations from the score.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Waldt, Risa

- 2810 2004 President's message. The SAWG Sketchbook (Southern Arizona Watercolor Guild, Tucson), (May): 1.
- Note on painting while at Grand Canyon.

Watters, Kate [Watters, Katherine]

- 2811 2004 Postcards from the Grand Canyon : the artful experience of place. Master's thesis, Northern Arizona University, 85 pp.

2005

Anonymous

- 2812 2005 From RAG to riches; celebrating 80 years of fundraising. Nonesuch (University of Bristol, Bristol, United Kingdom), (Spring): 40-42.

Bristol University RAG (Raising and Giving) is "a student society dedicated to raising money for charity in infamously wild and wacky ways." One highlight is "'Jailbreak', a twice yearly event which involves participants being released from 'jail' and having to get as far away as possible within the 36-hour time limit. The catch is that they are not allowed to spend a single penny of their own money, and must seek sponsorship if they want to beat the all-time record holders who managed to travel all the way to the Grand Canyon under their own steam, raising over £2,000 in the process." (p. 41). See photo, p. 42, of a man and woman (not identified) at Grand Canyon, "Jailbreak record holders—pictured here in Arizona (that's 5190 miles from Bristol)".

- 2813 2005 Im Outback von Kalifornien; Erlebnisbericht der diesjährigen Kalifornien-Exkursion im Mai 2005. Extrablatt (Fachschaftsrat Geographie Jena), (10): 3-5. [Item signed "Ralf".] [\[In German.\]](#) (transl. 'In the outback of California; adventure report of this year's California excursion in May 2005'.)

Includes notes of Grand Canyon.

- 2814 2005 ConnectiFIT goes to the Grand Canyon. ConnectiFIT (Connecticut Department of Public Health Worksite Wellness Program Newsletter), (September): 1.

Berger, Todd R.

- 2815 2005 The painted canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 11(3) (Fall): 6, 10.
- Thomas Moran.

Åhlström, Annika

- 2816 2005 SCCM 34th Critical Care Congress, 15.-19.1.2005 Phoenix, Arizona, USA. Finnanest (Suomen Anestesiologiyhdistys, Tampere, Finland), 38(3): 280-283. [\[In Finnish.\]](#)
- Society of Critical Care Medicine. Report. Final, brief section, "Suuren Kanjonin kautta kotiin" (p. 283) (transl. 'Through the Grand Canyon, home') contains brief remark on visit to Grand Canyon (South Rim).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Azar, John S.

- 2817 2005 The old geezer hike. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 16(1) (January/March): 6-7.

Barker, Elizabeth

- 2818 2005 High performance flight rewards high performance Airmen. Fox II (944th Fighter Wing Air Force Reserve, Luke Air Force Base, Arizona), 18(5) (May): 5.

Includes note of "Grand Canyon tour" incentive flight.

Bishop, Bill

- 2819 2005 The Grand Canyon and Colorado River on postage stamps. In: Anderson, Michael F. (compiler, ed.), A gathering of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts; proceedings of the inaugural Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2002. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 13, pp. 57-61.

Brown, Wynne, AND Noebels, Peter

- 2820 2005 Biking to the Grand Canyon; starting near Flagstaff, modern cyclists retrace a scenic 1897 club excursion. Arizona Highways, 81(1) (January): 36-39.

Buchheit, Mike

- 2821 2005 The family that climbs together: A granddaughter's journey to Schellbach Butte. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 11(1) (Spring): 1-2.

Burak, Gale

- 2822 2005 The family next door. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 16(3) (July/September): 3, 6.

Bruce Aiken family. Reprint of Burak (1995); includes "2005 Editor's Notes".

Byng, Dave

- 2823 2005 Burn, blistered, and bummin' in the Grand Canyon. Road Runner (British Columbia Ministry of Transportation Staff Newsletter), (Fall): 32-33.

Cannon, Hal

- 2824 2005 Introduction; Songs and Stories from the Grand Canyon. In: Cannon, Hal (annotator), Songs and stories from Grand Canyon : authentic voices from America's best loved places. Washington, D.C.: Smithsonian Folkways Recordings, p. 6.

This is a track-notes pamphlet accompanying the CD (for which see Smithsonian Folkways Recordings, 2005).

Cates, Jeannie

- 2825 2005 Birmingham Grotto meeting minutes, September 1, 2005. Birmingham Grotto Newsletter (National Speleological Society, Birmingham Grotto, Birmingham, Alabama), 35(10) (October): 107.

See under "Trip Reports", a notice without further information: "David Caudle and Mike McEachern went to the Grand Canyon to Lava River Cave". Probably Thunder River?

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Clark, Michael

- 2826 2005 Portfolio; Grand Canyon. Michael Clark Photography, Newsletter, (Summer): 12-13.

Cook, Mary J. Straw

- 2827 2005 Grand Canyon summer of 1897. In: Anderson, Michael F. (compiler, ed.), A gathering of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts; proceedings of the inaugural Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2002. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 13, pp. 63-68.

Amelia Hollenback. See also Cook (2002).

Daniels, Scott, AND Heptig, Vince

- 2828 2005 Havasu heaven; scouts from Albuquerque Troop 166 hike to the bottom of the Grand Canyon and camp in a tropical paradise set between towering waterfalls. Scouting (Boy Scouts of America), 93(2) (March/April): cover, 3, 20-23, 42-43.

Davis, George J.

- 2829 2005 Growing up below the rim. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 11(4) (Winter): 4-5.

Espelien, Darcee

- 2830 2005 Women in the wilds; Institute leads Grand Canyon hike with female focus. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (July): 38-40.

Grand Canyon Institute.

Ferrin, Lynn, AND Buchheit, Mike

- 2831 2005 South Rim in winter. AAA World (American Automobile Association, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey regions), 6(6) (November/December): cover, 3, 38-44, 46.

Flax, Peter

- 2832 2005 Hiking at the speed of sound; seven national parks in 7 days—starring a ragtop, Red Bull, and one scary rabbit. Backpacker, 33(9) (December): 25-26, 28-29, 31.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Frauman, David C.

- 2833 2005 Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter, Grand Canyon architect: Stories in stone. In: Anderson, Michael F. (compiler, ed.), A gathering of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts; proceedings of the inaugural Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2002. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 13, pp. 43-47.

Frazier, Pam

- 2834 2005 A legacy of Grand Canyon art. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 11(4) (Winter): 10.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gadd, Will

- 2835 2005 Grand Canyon dreams; Will Gadd climbs to 17,800 ft to make the glide of his life. Cross Country (International Free Flying Magazine), (98) (March/April): 58-61.
Paragliding. Includes Grand Canyon.

Gill, Paul

- 2836 2005 Rimside seat. In: Spirit of Place [FEATURE]. Arizona Highways, 81(12) (December): 38-39.

Haag, Martin

- 2837 2005 Der lange Weg nach Havasu. Der Canyon gilt vielen als schönste Platz im Grand Canyon wiederum ist das Wasserfall-Wunderland von Havasu. Globetrotter-Redakteur Martin Haag stieg hinunter in den großen Graben (auch, um seiner Midlife Crisis etwas Tiefgründiges entgegenzusetzen). (Photos by Martin Haag, Michael Neumann, and Jürgen Kurapkat.) 4-Seasons.de (Das Globetrotter Magazin) (Hamburg), (11) (October): 58-64. [In German.]
(transl. 'The long way to Havasu. The canyon is considered by many to be the most beautiful place in the Grand Canyon, in turn, is the waterfall wonderland of Havasu. Globetrotter editor Martin Haag descended into the great rift (also to counter his midlife crisis with something profound).')

Havasu Canyon.

Hahnfeld, Matt

- 2838 2005 Western Michigan Chapter members hike Grand Canyon. Due North (North Country Trail Association, Western Michigan Chapter), 8(2) (April): 1, 3.

Haney, Chuck

- 2839 2005 Second chances at the North Rim of the Grand Canyon. Adventure Cyclist (Missoula, Montana), 44(8) (October/November): 24-32, 49.

Hansen, Nate

- 2840 2005 Fun with the feeble-minded; intellectual dating in the Grand Canyon; Nate the (Not So) Great says, "Wonder of the World, my ass!" Flagstaff Live!, 11(47) (November 23-30): 12.

Hawks, Diana

- 2841 2005 Field trip reports. Vestiges (Utah Rock Art Research Association), 25(11): 3.
Brief, generalized report of trip to Mount Trumbull and Toroweap.

Heath, Bernadette

- 2842 2005 Grand Canyon impressions. Helena, Montana: Farcountry Press, 80 pp.

Hun, Lee Sung [이심훈]

- 2843 2005 그랜드캐년에서 외 2편 [geulaendeukaenyeon-eseo oe 2pyeon] [Two at Grand Canyon]. 열린시학 [Yeolrin Sihak] [Open Poetry] (Seoul), 10(4) (December): 208-210. [In Korean.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jensen, Majbritt

- 2844 2005 Studietur til USA. Skulderbladet (Nørre Søby, Denmark), 15(2) (February/March): 4-5. [\[In Danish.\]](#)
(transl. 'Study tour to the USA')

Includes Grand Canyon.

- 2845 2005 Тайны лунной гонки : СССР и США, сотрудничество в космосе [Таїны lunnoї gonki; SSSR i SShA, sotrudnichestvo v kosmose] [Secrets of the lunar race; USSR-USA cooperation in space]. Москва: ОЛМА-Пресс Инвест [Moskva: OLMA-PRESS Invest], 471 pp. [\[In Russian.\]](#)

See p. 320, photograph of astronaut Gordon Cooper [Mercury 9, 1963; Gemini 5, 1965] and cosmonauts Georgi Beregovoy [Soyuz 3, 1968] and Konstantin Feoktistov [Voskhod 1, 1964] at Grand Canyon; date not indicated.

Kay, James

- 2846 2005 Cover shot. Outdoor Photographer, 21(3) (April): cover, 9.

Havasu Falls.

Kuhn, Tom

- 2847 2005 Retracing Goldwater's route to Kolb Arch; a lone hiker dares a treacherous trail to revisit the isolated natural bridge. Arizona Highways, 81(4) (April): 50-55.

Elias Butler.

Kurstjens, Pam

- 2848 2005 Nimbus 4's visit El Paso [sic]. Dust Devil Tribune (El Paso Soaring Society, El Paso, Texas), (46) (July/August): 1-2.

Includes photo of the "Nimbus 4" glider over Grand Canyon as part of the American Soaring Safari, p. 2.

Lindahl, Larry

- 2849 2005 Following an ancient route to Elves Chasm; Grand Canyon backpackers trace 45 rough miles into remote terrain. Arizona Highways, 81 (February) (2): 1, 18-27, back cover.

Martínez, Mireia

- 2850 2005 Viatge a l'Oest Americà; un recorregut per la costa oest dels Estats Units. Alella (Associació Cultural Revista Alella, Allela, Spain), 45(275) (September/October): 35-36. [\[In Catalan.\]](#)
(transl. 'Travel to the American West; a tour of the west coast of the United States')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Mattox, Don

- 2851 2005 A Steck story—unique "water" bottles; from the memories and pen of hiking partner Don Mattox. Footprints, (12) (January/February): 6.

George Steck.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

McCroskey, Mona Lange

- 2852 2005 The 1898 diary of Zella Dysart. In: Anderson, Michael F. (compiler, ed.), A gathering of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts; proceedings of the inaugural Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2002. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 13, pp. 39-42.

See McCroskey (1996, 2003) for full-length publication.

- 2853 2005 The photographs of Robert H. Kuhne: Grand Canyon National Park in its infancy, 1920-23. In: Anderson, Michael F. (compiler, ed.), A gathering of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts; proceedings of the inaugural Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2002. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 13, pp. 69-72.

McNeill, Fiona

- 2854 2005 The other Grand Canyon; Fiona McNeill finds paradise among the Havasupai. Travel Savvy, (May/June):.

Miller, Steve

- 2855 2005 The Grand : the Colorado River in the Grand Canyon, a photo journey. Berkeley, California: Wilderness Press, and Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 192 pp.

There is also a "2nd Edition (1st ebook Edition)", iBooks, 2013, but as it is produced solely in electronic format for tablet readers it is not cited in this bibliography.

Mills, John

- 2856 2005 Grand Canyon rim to rim (R2R). The Long Run (Pikes Peak Road Runners, Colorado Springs, Colorado), 29(8) (November): 1, 11-13.

Muir, John, AND Bird, Peter

- 2857 2005 John Muir suite : words of John Muir : music by Peter Bird. [No imprint], 24 pp. [Score.

"This edition may be freely distributed, duplicated, performed, and recorded." See fourth movement, "Grand canon" [sic], pp. 15-19; with separate scores for flute and for violin appended.

Nering, Doug

- 2858 2005 Shinumo and Hakatai revisited; a trip report. Footprints, (12) (January/February): 2-5.

Nummelin, Albert

- 2859 2005 Arizona dream del II. Mofly Newsletter (Aeroklubben i Göteborg, Säve, Sweden), 2005(2) (April): [2]-[3]. [In Swedish.]

Flying trip through Arizona, including note of Grand Canyon. (Part I, in the February issue, is not pertinent to this bibliography.)

O'Regan, Pat

- 2860 2005 Grand Canyon trek Part I: The descent. North Star Journal (Sierra Club, North Star Chapter, Minneapolis, Minnesota), 25(6) (December 2005/January 2006): 3.

Continued in O'Regan (2006).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Paláez, Ana María

- 2861 2005 Le toucher du visuel. Master's thesis, Université du Québec, 73 pp. [In French.]
(transl. 'The touch of the visual')

See Chapter 4, "Le Détachement de la Perspective dans l'Œuvre de David Hockney" ('Detachment from Perspective in the Work of David Hockney') (pp. 55-69), which features Hockney's Grand Canyon work.

Purvis, Louis Lester

- 2862 2005 Civilian Conservation Corps Company 818: Building the Colorado River Trail. In: Anderson, Michael F. (compiler, ed.), A gathering of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts; proceedings of the inaugural Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2002. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 13, pp. 81-85.

Personal reflections. See also Purvis (1989).

Rafferty, Charles

- 2863 2005 The man without passion arrives at the Grand Canyon. Painted Bride Quarterly (Painted Bride Art Center, Philadelphia), (55/56): 15.

Robinson, John

- 2864 2005 Qualis ab incepto. From the beginning onwards. Geneva, Switzerland: Edition Limitée, 3 volumes [privately published].

See in Volume III [2000-2005], "Grand Canyon", pp. 1055-1077.

Savard, Jeannine

- 2865 2005 My hand upon your name. Los Angeles: Red Hen Press. [See "Grand Canyon".]

Schäfer, Bruno

- 2866 NO DATE Reflexionen am Meilenstein 75 : zweite Halbzeit mit Verlängerung. Welschdbillig, Germany: Verein zur Förderung persönlichen Wachstums e.V., 75 pp. [2005.] [In German.]
(transl. 'Reflections at milestone 75 : second half with overtime')

See "'Ich kreise um Gott, den uralten Turm' (R. M. Rilke); im Labyrinth des Suchens" ("I revolve around God, the ancient tower" (R. M. Rilke); in the labyrinth of searching'), pp. 22-38; Grand Canyon, p. 26.

Seeley, Tim, AND Patterson, Russell

- 2867 2005 Trip talk: Tapeats Cave. The Rambler (Wasatch Mountain Club, Salt Lake City), 84(9) (September): 12-13.

Exploration of Tapeats Cave in a raft.

Smithsonian Folkways Recordings

- 2868 2005 Songs and stories from Grand Canyon : authentic voices from America's best loved places. Washington, D.C.: Smithsonian Folkways Recordings. CD. 58:00. With 24-p. "Track Notes" pamphlet annotated by Hal Cannon (with Introduction by Hal Cannon, p. 6). ("Conceived,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

compiled, and produced by Hal Cannon and Taki Telonidis for the Western Folklife Center" [Elko, Nevada].)

Includes: "Deep Canyon, Deep Voices"; "Walk to the Precipice", L. Greer Price; "Canyon Reflections", Gordon Burt; "Grand Canyon Gold", Alger Greyeyes (Navajo); "These Red Walls", Roland Manakaja (Havasupai); "Grand Canyon Creation Story", Phyllis Yoyetewa-Kachinhongva (Hopi); "Canyon Winds", Patty Dunnigan Nolan; "A Time to Decide", Ross Knox; "All Aboard for the Bright Angel Trail", Grand Canyon Cowboy Band; "Where Do You Go?", Sue Harris; "The Grand Canyon Trail", Roy Rogers. (See also Smithsonian Folkways Recordings, 2005, in Part II of this bibliography.)

Steiger, Lew

- 2869 2005 The Kolb Brothers of Grand Canyon. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: Grand Canyon Association, videocassette. 90:00.

Strangeland, Torbjørg

- 2870 2005 På 4 hjul fra Seattle til Houston. TS-nytt (Stangeland Gruppen, Stavenger, Norway), (80) (July): 37-40. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'On 4 wheels from Seattle to Houston')

Briefly includes Grand Canyon, with three photos at Grand Canyon.

Supplee, Serena

- 2871 2005 Inner Gorge metaphors : an artist's perspective of the Grand Canyon. Moab, Utah: Lily Canyon Books, [112] pp. [Also a hardbound state, 100 copies, signed and numbered by the artist.]

Targos, Renée

- 2872 2005 Bruce Aiken: Love on the rocks. Art Talk, 25(2) (November/December): 34-35.

Thomas, David Evan

- 2873 2005 In the blue glen. Los Angeles: FatrockInk, score for flute, viola and harp in four movements, 45 pp.; score for flute, [16] pp.; score for viola, [15] pp. ["To honor gentle Kate (1923-2001)".]

"Program Note" (from the composer's website, <https://davidevanthomas.com/product/in-the-blue-glen/>, accessed November 23, 2019) includes: "Some ten miles on foot, and over a mile as the condor flies down from the rim of the Grand Canon, Monument Creek has created an extraordinary playground: a narrow flume of bluish stone polished smooth as bone. I once spent an hour dabbling in that place—free, off the clock, out of sight—and it serves in memory as a metaphor for creative play. In the blue glen was an anonymous commission, in which the only instructions were: write what you wish." "Thanks to harpist Kathy Kienzle, whose advice has been invaluable in shaping the harp part. In the blue glen received its premiere on February 28, 2006, in Saint Paul, Minnesota by Ms. Kienzle, with Michele Frisch, flute and Kerri Ryan, viola."

Tillilie, Stacy

- 2874 2005 States of grace; winners of our 2004 photo contest show us America the Beautiful, from sea to shining sea. AAA World (American Automobile Association Mid-Atlantic, Inc., Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey regions), 7(2) (March/April): 66-73.

See "Grand Canyon National Park", by Lisa Moulton, pp. 68-69.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Vogel-Prandtl, Johanna

- 2875 2005 Ludwig Prandtl : ein Lebensbild Erinnerungen, Dokumente. Göttingen: Universitätsverlag Göttingen, 218 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Ludwig Prandtl: a life picture in memories, documents)

The German aerodynamicist Prandtl. See p. 113, letter about his stay at Grand Canyon, written to his daughter, December 27, 1929.

Vroman, Adam Clark

- 2876 2005 Adam Clark Vroman travel diaries, 1895 and 1897. In: Adam Clark Vroman platinum prints, 1895-1904. (Essays by Jennifer A. Watts and Andrew Smith; travel diaries by Adam Clark Vroman, transcribed by Austin Lamont.) Los Angeles: Michael Dawson Gallery; and Santa Fe, New Mexico: Andrew Smith Gallery, Inc., pp. 19-32.

The 1897 trip includes Grand Canyon; see pp. 28-29, 32. No photographs from Grand Canyon.

Wade, Bob

- 2877 2005 Grand Canyon adventure. Troop 362 Newsletter (Boy Scouts of America, Troop 362 [El Cajon, California?]), 2(2) (April 25): 5.

Walbridge, Dottie

- 2878 2005 Our trip to the Southwest; Part 4. Club Capers (Wally Byam Caravan Club International, Cape Cod Massachusetts Unit), (September): 7.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Wallis, Brad L.

- 2879 2005 First Lady visits Kolb Studio. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 11(3) (Fall): 1.
Laura Bush.

Whitman, Marina von Neumann

- 2880 2005 Life with father. SIAM News (Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics), 38(2) (March): 8, 10.

John von Neumann. Includes photo and commentary about her father on a mule at Grand Canyon while wearing a three-piece suit.

2006

Anonymous

- 2881 2006 Dr. Ray goes sky high. Engineering Newsletter (Christian Brothers University, School of Engineering), (Summer): [2].

Asit K. Ray. Includes notice of hike to Supai.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Aleshire, Peter

- 2882 2006 The price of paradise; a hobbit and an elf pay the toll to see the waterfalls of Havasu Canyon. Arizona Highways, 82(10) (October): 48-49.
- 2883 2006 Edge of transformation; Grand Canyon's rim divides loss from redemption. Arizona Highways, 82(12) (December): 44-49.

Bain, George

- 2884 2006 Vishnu Temple. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 39-41.
- Rock climbing.
- 2885 2006 (Ed.) Climbers of temples and buttes in the Grand Canyon region (compiled by John Annerino). In: Annerino, John, Hiking the Grand Canyon. San Francisco: Sierra Club Books, 3rd ed., pp. 287-301.

Bellows, Laura

- 2886 2006 Travel buzz; London, Arizona, Italy, Paris, Amazon. West University Buzz (Bellaire, Texas), (August): 10-11.
- See "Grand Canyon, Arizona; Natural beauty and history, and Vegas lights", p. 11.

Bostrom, Jodie

- 2887 2006 It was the hardest thing I have ever done . . . The Arizona Mountaineer (Arizona Mountaineering Club, Phoenix), (June): 1, 9-11. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
- Zoroaster Temple climb.

Burak, Gale

- 2888 2006 From (former) Ranger Gale Burak. In: Beck, Cliff, From the last newsletter. Footprints, (14) (February): 2.
- Comments on the Rust Trail (Old Kaibab Trail).

Burke, Dennis

- 2889 2006 Grand Canyon tour, October 1-8, 2006. Heart to Heart (Colorado HeartCycle Bicycle Club, Denver), (November/December): 4-5.
- St. George, Utah, to Grand Canyon North Rim and return.

Cannella, Carrie Morgan

- 2890 2006 The perfect light; Grand Canyon photographers go beyond the lens. Flagstaff Live!, 12(24) (June 15-21): 1, 3, 18-21.

Capps, Wayne

- 2891 2006 Generations come together; Tuskegee Airmen, modern aviators share C-17 flight. Palmetto Airlifter (315th Airlift Wing, Air Force Reserve, Charleston Air Force Base, South Carolina), 16(9) (September): 1, 2, 6-7.
- Orientation flight over Grand Canyon as part of Tuskegee Airmen Convention, Phoenix, Arizona.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cheek, Lawrence W. [Cheek, Larry]

- 2892 2006 The grandest gym. (Illustration by Joseph Daniel Fiedler.) Arizona Highways, 82(11) (November): 42.

Remarks on encountering rim-to-rim-to-rim hikers.

Childs, Craig

- 2893 2006 The Grand Canyon and the god of nothing; survivor of a harrowing hike in the gorge's blizzard. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (December): 12-19.

Childs, Craig, AND Ladd, Gary

- 2894 2006 The old man and the canyon; pioneering route-finder George Steck and his acolytes sought the solace of the Grand Canyon one last time. Arizona Highways, 82(5) (May): 8-13.

Clayton, Robin N., AND Ladd, Gary

- 2895 2006 Nervous Nellie on the edge; a struggling mother discovers courage and coolness perched on the North Rim. Arizona Highways, 82(6) (June): 32-39.

Cole, Stephen West

- 2896 NO DATE Quicksand and blue springs : exploring the Little Colorado gorge. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 126 pp. [2006?]

Conley, Bob

- 2897 2006 The great transcontinental rail journey. The Local (National Model Railroad Association, Mid-Eastern Region), 61(2) (March/April): 14.

Includes note of Grand Canyon, and photo of American Orient Express train at Grand Canyon.

Fairbanks, Douglas

- 2898 2006 Douglas Fairbanks: In his own words : from the archives of the Douglas Fairbanks Museum. (Foreword by Keri Leigh.) New York, Lincoln (Nebraska), and Shanghai: iUniverse, Inc., 316 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

See pp. 29-33, "Why I was disappointed in the Grand Canyon", a reprint of the item by Fairbanks and Warrington (1918) in Ladies' Home Journal.

Fané, Xavi

- 2899 2006 Viaje al centro de la tierra; un trekking a las entrañas del Gran Cañón del Colorado. Cuadernos Técnicos (Barrabés Internet S.L.U., Huesca, Spain), (27) (July/August): 8-10, 12, 14-16. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Journey to the center of the earth; a trek to the bowels of the Grand Canyon of Colorado.')

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Fenner, Frank

- 2900 2006 Nature, nurture and chance : the lives of Frank and Charles Fenner. Canberra, Australia: Australian National University E Press, 356 pp.

See p. 129 (three sentences regarding three days at the Grand Canyon in October 1976), and diary entries, "5 to 7 April 1937, Grand Canyon", pp. 299-301.

Furman, Rachel

- 2901 2006 Why I chucked my big career and took off for the Wild Blue Yonder in a 1975 Airstream Camper. Philadelphia Weekly, (June 14-20): 1, 4, 20-21, 23-26, 28.

See p. 28, photo of author at Grand Canyon, with legend, "Dry idea: It's tough to beat being alone in the desert"; no mention of Grand Canyon in text.

Galuška, Vladislav

- 2902 2006 Colorado Grand Canyon. (Photo by Juri Poberaj.) Dobrodruh (Měsíčník pro Aktivitu v Přírodě) (Praha), 10(4): 3. [In Czech.]

Gariboldi, Paolo

- 2903 2006 West America; California, Nevada, Utah ed Arizona; il sogno realizzato di un viaggio negli States. Mototurismo (Lurago Marinone, Italy), (138) (March): cover, 18-35. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'West America; California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona; the dream come true of a trip to the States.')

George, Penelope

- 2904 2006 Inner Gorge Metaphors; the eternal pull of the Canyon and the art of Serena Supplee. Flagstaff Live!, 12(3) (January 19-25): 12-13.

Glass, Steve

- 2905 2006 Who is Buzz? Colorado Runner, (18) (July/August): 14, 16.

Buzz Burrell. Includes brief note of his ascent of Zoroaster Temple and a one-day rim-to-rim-to-rim run in Grand Canyon (p. 14).

Grah, David

- 2906 2006 Four states and the Grand Canyon. Southern California Soaring (Region 12 Soaring Council), (July/August): 1-4.

Glider trip.

Günther, Frieder

- 2907 2006 Heuss auf Reisen : die auswärtige Repräsentation der Bundesrepublik durch den ersten Bundespräsidenten. Stuttgart: Franz Steiner Verlag, 178 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Heuss on trips: the foreign representation of the Federal Republic by the first Federal President')

Includes Theodor Heuss at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Halpern, David

- 2908 2006 David Halpern. In: Piedrda, Linda Elvira, "Black and white? or color?" Sojourns (Peaks, Plateaus and Canyons Association), 1(2) (Summer/Fall): 26.
- Grand Canyon photography.

Ho, Son Jong [손종호]

- 2909 2006 그랜드 캐년 외 1편 [geulaendeu kaenyeon oe 1 pyeon] [Grand Canyon and 1 other]. 서정시학 [Seojeongsihag] [Lyric Poetry and Poetics] (Seoul), 16(2) (June): 215-217. [In Korean.]

Howard, Benjie

- 2910 2006 Waking. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(1) (Spring): 11.

Iida, Toshihide [伊名田 利秀]

- 2911 2006 遥かなる地球創造の歴史を体験!!--グランドキャニオンなどアメリカ大西部国立公園, 5大パノラマトレッキング記 [Harukanaru chikyū sōzō no rekishi o taiken!!—Gurandokyanion nado Amerika dai seibu kokuritsu kōen, 5 dai panoramatorekkingu-ki]. [Experience the history of far away earth creations!!—Grand Canyon and other American West western national parks; 5 major trekking notes.] 包装技術 [Hōsō gijutsu] [Packaging Technology (Japan Packaging Institute, Tokyo)], 44(11): 895-897. [In Japanese.]

Ikenberry, Donna

- 2912 2006 Mesmerizing waterfalls. RV Journal, 14(2) (Summer): cover, 1, 10-12.
Havasu Creek.

- 2913 2006 Hiking the Canyon, clearing the mind. RV Life, (June): 12-14.

Jurow, Kate

- 2914 2006 How the Grand Canyon changed my life. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 12(2) (Summer): 11.

Kaun, Eeva

- 2915 2006 Grand Canyon. Eesti Ekspress (Tallinn, Estonia), (April 27): 20-21. [In Estonian.]

Lake, Shelley

- 2916 2006 Portfolio; the sanctity of sacred places. MAGNAchrōm (MAGNAchrom LLC), 1(1): cover, 25-40.
- See pp. 34-35, panoramic view inside the Watchtower, Grand Canyon. See also technical specifications for photos, p. 39.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lehni, Caroline

- 2917 2006 De l'exploration au récit grand public; usages de l'image dans Canyons of the Colorado par John Wesley Powell (1895). Études Photographiques (Société française de photographie), 18 (May): 72-95. [In French.]
(transl. 'From exploration to mainstream narrative; uses of the image in Canyons of the Colorado by John Wesley Powell (1895)')

M., Ken

- 2918 2006 7 days in Grand Canyon; trip report Dec 17-23, 2005; Hermit's Rest, Tonto Plateau, Bright Angel by way of Ribbon Falls. The Yodel (Lynnwood, Washington), 13(2) (October): 4, 6-7.

Margison, Linda

- 2919 2006 Dream fulfilled: Cancer patient sees Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 12(1) (Spring): 1-2.

Loran White.

McConnell, Tayloe

- 2920 2006 Passionate vision; Joella Jean Mahoney paints a landscape of emotions. Flagstaff Live!, 12(4) (January 26-February 1): 12-13.

McConnell, Tayloe, AND Torrance, Jill

- 2921 2006 An era of curiosity; Verkamp's Curios stays independent, and in the family. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (November): cover, 3, 10-17, 51. [Cover title: "100 Years of Verkamp's Curios".]

Meacham, Jim

- 2922 2006 President's letter. Wavelengths (American Society for Photogrammetry and Remote Sensing, Columbia River Region), 2006(1): 1.

Includes notice about a presentation by Mike Renslow on the 1923 Birdseye Expedition through Grand Canyon.

Miller, Steve

- 2923 2006 The Grand Canyon from below : photographs by Steve Miller. San Francisco: Pomegranate, booklet of 30 postcards with introduction.

Newell, L. Jackson

- 2924 2006 En route: A journey of the spirit. Dialogue (A Journal of Mormon Thought) (Dialogue Foundation, Salt Lake City), 29(4) (Winter): 157-193.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 163-164.

Norris, John

- 2925 2006 Running the Grand Canyon; tortuous descents and climbs eased by overwhelming beauty. Tail Winds, (June/July):.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

O'Brien, Christopher, AND Bacon, Jake

- 2926 2006 Working from life again; Kathryn Greenwald and her brushes with landscapes. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (September): 52-53.

Odderstol, Barbara Stephens

- 2927 2006 Memories of Dad at the Canyon in 1941-1946. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 17(3) (July/September): 5.

Stanley G. Stephens.

O'Regan, Pat

- 2928 2006 Grand Canyon trek; Part II The ascent. North Star Journal (Sierra Club, North Star Chapter, Minneapolis, Minnesota), 26(1) (February/March): 3.

Continued from O'Regan (2005).

Randall, Margaret, AND Byers, Barbara

- 2929 2006 Dentro de otro tiempo: reflejos del Gran Cañón. (Drawings by Barbara Byers; María Vázquez Valdez, translator; presentación de José Vicente Anaya.) [México]: Alforja Arte y Literatura, CONACULTA, FONCA [Consejo Nacional para la Cultura y Artes, Fondo Nacional para la Cultura], 134 [135] pp. [In Spanish.]

Translation of Randall and Byers (2004), Into another time : Grand Canyon reflections.

Rust, Joseph

- 2930 2006 From Joseph Rust (Dave's grandson). In: Beck, Cliff, "From the last newsletter." Footprints, (14) (February): 2.

Comments on the Rust Trail (Old Kaibab Trail), originally laid out by David D. Rust in Bright Angel Canyon.

- 2931 2006 From the Dirty Devil to the Bright Angel, the history of David D. and Ruth W. Rust. Footprints, (14) (February): 2-18.

Includes extensive selections from the journal of David Rust. "Excerpt #1, The Grand Canyon Venture", pp. 2-3; "Excerpt #2, The Building of the Grand Canyon Trail and Tram", pp. 3-15; "Excerpt #3, Dave, the Outfitter and Guide", pp. 15-18. References are to the trail down Bright Angel Canyon and the cable across the Colorado River.

Saneleuterio Temporal, Elia

- 2932 2006 De cómo ya no duermo sola. Murcia, Uruguay: Editora Regional de Murcia (Consejería de Educación y Cultura, Secretaría General, Servicio de Publicaciones y Estadística), 79 pp. (XX Premio Internacional de Poesía, 2005.) [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'How I no longer sleep alone')

See p. 68, "Las Vegas, 24 de agosto de 2004". Includes Grand Canyon and Colorado River.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Şekerci, Volkan

- 2933 2006 The Birdman; Patrick De Gayardon; 23 Ocak 1960-13 Nisan 1998. 4x4 Freelife (İstanbul), (May): 56-59. [In Turkish.]
- Obituary article about Patrick De Gayardon (January 23, 1960-April 13, 1998). See "Wing Suit'le The Grand Canyon geçişi" (transl. 'Crossing the Grand Canyon with a wing suit') (p. 56) in an interview with De Gayardon (p. 57, with photo), and p. 58.

Shiva, Shahram, AND Wing, Kevin

- 2934 2006 BMW R1200GS adventure : "extreme off-roading on the 'Humvee' of bikes". Iron Horse Magazine, (August): 60-64.
- Includes Grand Canyon West.

Sjöberg, Fredrik

- 2935 2006 Flytkonsten. Nora, Sweden: Nya Doxa, 192 pp. [In Swedish.]
- About artist Gunnar Widforss.

Smith, Dama Margaret (Mrs. White Mountain)

- 2936 2006 A Grand Canyon Christmas. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 17(1) (January/March): 8-9, 11.
- Selection from Smith (1930).

Sorem, Ron

- 2937 2006 Grand Canyon Rally 2006. The Wishbone Alley Gazette (Rainier Auto Sports Club, Kirkland, Washington), (February): 1.
- Report. Includes Grand Canyon West and Route 66.

Trimble, Stephen

- 2938 2006 Lasting light—125 years of Grand Canyon photography. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, in cooperation with Grand Canyon Association, 210 pp.

Van Dyke, John C.

- 2939 2006 A view from the rim; excerpt from John C. Van Dyke's The Grand Canyon of the Colorado, 1920 (submitted by Traci Wyrick; photo by Diane Cassidy). The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 10(9): 3.

Wyrick, Traci

- 2940 2006 Trekking a family legacy through the Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 12(1) (Spring): 6-8.
- Louis Schellbach family.

Zhan, Chenghan [詹承翰]

- 2941 2006 October 2017 in USA. 大里國光扶輪社 (國際扶輪 3462 地區第 1-4 分區) [dàlǐ guóguāng fú lún shè (guójì fú lún 3462 dìqū dì 1-4 fēnqū)] [Dali Guoguang Rotary Club (Rotary International 3462

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Districts 1-4]] (台中市 [Taichung City, Taiwan]), 21(14) (December 7): 13-14. [In English and Chinese, with item title in English.]

Report to the Anthem Rotary Club, Anthem, Arizona, regarding a Rotary host-family visit to U.S. Includes note of trip to Havasu Canyon.

Zyl, Japie van

- 2942 2006 Oudmatie reik na die sterre. In die hartjie van die Amerikaanse ruimteagentskap, NASA, in Kalifornië, is daar 'n Oudmatie wat reik na die sterre. Japie van Zyl is die Direkteur vir Sterrekunde en Fisika by NASA se Jet Propulsion Laboratory. Matieland het per e-pos met dié Namibiër van geboorte gesels. Matieland (Universiteit van Stellenbosch, Departement van Ontwikkeling, Stellenbosch, South Africa), 2006(1) (Winter): 12-13. [In Afrikaans.]
(transl. 'Oudmatie reaches for the stars. In the heart of the American space agency, NASA, in California, there is an old mate who reaches for the stars. Japie van Zyl is the Director of Astronomy and Physics at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.')

Interview. See p. 13, remark, in passing, concerning beginning a family tradition of staying at El Tovar, Grand Canyon, during Christmas.

2007

Anonymous

- 2943 2007 On Cloud Nine. In: Love and Happiness [SECTION]. Jet, 111(8) (February 26): 28.
Marriage notice. The wedding was at "West Rim of the Grand Canyon, Arizona, at Eagle Point"; i.e., at Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.
- 2944 2007 Klubmødet d. 1.03.2007 og MC-rejsen over USA. VMK Nyt (Vestjysk Motorveteran Klub, Denmark), 32(239) (April): 3-7. [In Danish.]
(transl. 'The club meeting on March 1, 2007 and the motorcycle journey across the USA.')
- Regarding a motorcycle trip from Florida to California. Includes Grand Canyon.
- 2945 2007 [Notice of presentation by Emily Lane and Chris North, including North Rim trip.] In: Meetings [SECTION]. New Zealand Alpine Club Newsletter, Canterbury Westland Section, (May):.
- 2946 2007 High peaks and deep canyons: April 30-May 7, 2007. Newsfocus (Colorado College, Woman's Educational Society, Colorado Springs, Colorado), (Fall): 8-9. [Item signed "A Happy Traveler".]
WES trip to New Mexico and Arizona. Includes Grand Canyon.
- 2947 2007 [Passing note and photo of Geology Club trip to Grand Canyon.] Geological Sciences Alumni Newsletter (University of Missouri at Columbia), (November): 8, 31.
- 2948 2007 This week's extra wonders: The Grand Canyon: Utah, Colorado, Arizona, and New Mexico, USA. Vibrant! (Path Adventures—Around the World in 70 Days, Path to Wellness, Montpelier, Vermont), (Week 9): 1.

Notes in particular, "... 'grand' is an understatement.'" Various errors.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Adachi, Noriyuki [足立倫行]

- 2949 2007 太平洋を挟んだ2人のミヒーロー、 [Taiheiyo o hasanda 2-ri no mihiroo ichi] [Two Miheroes across the Pacific Ocean]. In: 花咲く Yokai 談 [hanasaku Yokai-dan] [Blooming Flowers, Yokai Story] [SECTION]. とっとりNow [Tottori Now] (鳥取県広報連絡協議会 [Tottori ken kōhō renraku kyōgi-kai] [Tottori Prefecture Public Relations Liaison Council], 鳥取市 [Tottori-shi] [Tottori City]), (December 1, Heisei 19): 28. [In Japanese, with serial and section titles in mixed Japanese and Roman orthography, thus.]

Pertains to the writer's visit to American Indian reservations, with U.S. Senator Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, both of whom work with the loss of an arm. Includes a photo of the writer with legend, "居留地巡りの際、アリゾナ州でグランドキャニオンに立ち寄る。旅行中は3台のカメラで激写、また激写・の連続だった (1993年6月)" (transl. "Stop at the Grand Canyon in Arizona to visit the settlement. During the trip, I took a series of shots with three cameras (June 1993)"). The photo shows the writer shooting with one hand while at Supai.

Aird, Peter

- 2950 2007 First do no harm: don't counsel to increase self-esteem. British Journal of General Practice, (May): 417.

Notes that people "[do not go to Grand Canyon] to increase their self-esteem . . . but to go 'Wow!'"

Almazov, D. [Алмазов, Д.]

- 2951 2007 (PREPARER) Большой каньон Колорадо. Ни одно описание не может по-настоящему подготовить человека к масштабу и величию этого огромного ущелья, уходящего вдаль, насколько может видеть глаз, грандиозным комплексом каньонов, водопадов, пещер, башен, уступов и оврагов. [Bol'shoy kan'on Kolorado. Ni odno opisaniye ne mozhet po-nastoyashchemu podgotovit' cheloveka k masshtabu i velichiyu etogo ogromnogo ushel'ya, ukhodyashchego vdal', naskol'ko mozhet videt' glaz, grandiozным комплексом каньонов, vodopadov, peshcher, bashen, ustupov i ovragov.] [Grand Canyon of the Colorado. No description can truly prepare a person for the scale and grandeur of this huge gorge, which goes into the distance, as far as the eye can see, with a grand complex of canyons, waterfalls, caves, towers, ledges and ravines.] Вестник (Русского Географического Общества, Волгоградского Отделения) [Vestnik (Russkogo Geograficheskogo Obshchestva, Volgogradskogo Otdeleniya)] [Bulletin (Russian Geographical Society, Volgograd Branch)], 2007(11)(61) (November): [2]. [In Russian.]

"По материалам сайта «ЧУДЕСА ПРИРОДЫ»" [Po materialam sayta «CHUDESA PRIRODY»] [Based on materials from the MIRACLES OF NATURE website].

Andress, Gail, AND Andress, Donna

- 2952 2007 Canyon leaves big impression. In: Dear Editor [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 83(9) (September): 2.

Auxier, Patricia

- 2953 2007 Save her! At first, Ian didn't feel like going with his family to see the Grand Canyon again, but something told him he should. The parents of a two-year-old are grateful he did. The New Era (Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Salt Lake City), 37(9) (September): 6-8.

Nineteen-year-old Ian Bagley helps save girl who fell over the edge at North Rim, Grand Canyon. Serial is for church youth.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Bamert, Urs

- 2954 2007 Musikverein Verena Wollerau Winterkonzert 2007. Wollerau, Switzerland: Musikverein Verena Wollerau. [In German.]

Performances 1-2 December 2007. See "Philip Spark: Sonnenaufgang am «Angel's Gate»". (For the score of this piece, see Sparke [date?]). "Sunrise at Angel's Gate" was commissioned by Col. Finley Hamilton, conductor, U.S. Army Field Band, and first performed by them in March 2001.)

Banks, Leo W., AND Coogan, Dan

- 2955 2007 Mule sense; Grand Canyon mule skinner gulps, swears and gets used to living on the edge. Arizona Highways, 83(6) (June): 48-49.

Barnett, Sean

- 2956 2007 My experience in the Grand Canyon. In: Southwest Semester 2007. The Eagle's View (SOAR), (1) (February 28): 3. [Young author.]

Battles, Baron

- 2957 2007 [Comments]. In: My Best Day in the Grand Canyon [FEATURE]. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring): 8.

Beiser, Misha

- 2958 2007 The color of water; boatman and painter Greg McFadden debuts new exhibit. Flagstaff Live!, 13(33) (August 16-22): 12-13.

Benford, Sally

- 2959 2007 Bruce Aiken: Grand Canyon treasure. In: Off-Ramp [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 83(11) (November): 7.

Billingsley, Susan, AND Steiger, Lew

- 2960 2007 Susan Billingsley. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(3) (Fall): 1, 26-38.

Billingsley oral history interview. Photos courtesy of George Billingsley. See also corrections by Latimer Smith, 20(4): 3.

Bowden, Charles, AND Dykinga, Jack

- 2961 2007 Point of view; standing at the edge of the best Grand Canyon overlooks always delivers a mind-wrenching surprise. Arizona Highways, 83(6) (June): front cover, 1, 28-41.

Broecher, Jami

- 2962 2007 Canyon leaves big impression. In: Dear Editor [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 83(9) (September): 2.

Brown (Sgt.)

- 2963 2007 Exercise Cockney Ute. In: 10th Signal Regiment [SECTION]. The Wire (Royal Corps of Signals, Blandford Forum, Dorset, England), 61(2) (April): 106.

Grand Canyon hikes.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Brown, Mathieu

- 2964 2007 The summits within: Stories of Grand Canyon climbing [ABSTRACT]. In: 2007 History Symposium. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 18(1) (January/March): 12-13.

Butler, Elias, AND Myers, Tom

- 2965 2007 Grand obsession : Harvey Butchart and the exploration of Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Puma Press, 457 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

Casper, Anne Marie

- 2966 2007 Into the abyss . . . The Beta (Hampshire College, Amherst, Massachusetts), 5(4) (February): 4-8, back cover. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Clark, Don

- 2967 2007 Grand Canyon fun turns to misadventure, June 25 to 26, 2006. From: Chin, Diana, Clark, Don, and Howell, John, A Truly Grand Canyon; Hiking into the eighth wonder of the world requires careful planning. In: Northwest Explorer [SECTION]. Washington Trails (Washington Trails Association, Seattle), (March):.

Doolittle, Linda

- 2968 2007 Memories of a childhood trip. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring): 15.
South Rim visit and mule trip to Plateau Point.

Dragicevic, Nevena

- 2969 2007 The all American road trip. Xperience Xchange (Ryerson University, Toronto), (10) (March 9): 3.
Route 66. Faulty recollections in passing, "the highway cuts through the awe inspiring Grand Canyon in Arizona (pictured right) [sic]". Also, the illustration is not Grand Canyon.

Faier, Billy

- 2970 2007 Billy Faier Live 2007 : the downstairs concert : authorized bootleg : limited first edition. [No place]: Northern Plains Archive Recordings, Ltd. CD. 32 tracks, 16 songs. 73:30.

Information from an annotated listing of audio sequences from this concert, including opening, song introductions, break announcement, and encore call. Listen to: "Song of the Grand Canyon Mule Driver", "Bright Angel Rag", and possibly "Whoa Mule".

Farkas, Tomás

- 2971 2007 Muscle World 2; Ameriká voltunk. Fit Muscle Magazin (Hungary), 2007(2) (17): 40-44. [In Hungarian.] (transl. 'Muscle World 2; We are American')

Regarding Hungarian body builder Zoltán Vörös' visit to Las Vegas area during a convention; text is an interview with Imrével Kovács and Vörös. Grand Canyon mentioned in passing; photos include Vörös standing by a helicopter at Grand Canyon West.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Fisher, Steve

- 2972 2007 A trip in time. The Costco Connection (Costco Wholesale, Seattle, Washington), 22(7) (July): 49.
Grand Canyon Railway.

Flagstaff Live!, Staff

- 2973 2007 Vintage modernity; local photographer Jay Showers unveils brand new work with an old school feel. Flagstaff Live!, 13(36) (September 6-12): 1, 3, 22-24, 27.

Frazier, Pam

- 2974 2007 Shoshone Point. Sojourns (Peaks, Plateaus and Canyon Association), 2(2) (Summer/Fall): 48.

Garden Club of Virginia

- 2975 2007 Wonders of our world : the Garden Club of Virginia presents the 65th Annual Lily Show : sponsored by the Winchester-Clarke Garden Club, assisted by the North American Lily Society : Millwood Station, 250 Costello Drive, Winchester, Virginia, Wednesday, June 20, 2007, Thursday, June 21, 2007. Garden Club of Virginia.

See "Class 55. 'The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River'", p. 18. Not illustrated.

Goodman, Al W., Jr.

- 2976 2007 Musings from the Chair. News and Views (Association of Floodplain Managers, Madison, Wisconsin), 19(6) (December): 2, 5.

Article regarding Quantum Floodplain Management, which begins with the author's note of a visit to the Grand Canyon with attendees to the meeting of the Arizona Floodplain Management Association.

Goodwin, Garland O.

- 2977 2007 Acro Memories [COLUMN]. The Dixie Acro Flyer (International Aerobatic Club, Chapter 19, North Carolina), 22(5) (May): 4.

Includes reminiscences about Paul Mantz. "Mantz told us that he spent many days plotting the curves and turn rates on a map to fly his Cinerama B-25 through the Grand Canyon well below the rim. The film was thrilling, of course, but I admired his very smooth flying around those blind curves, barely missing the canyon walls left and right." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Hamburg, Stacey

- 2978 2007 My Grand Canyon. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 43(6) (November/December): 6.

Harnwell, Bob

- 2979 2007 The architecture of the Grand Canyon (Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter 1869-1958). Kangaroo Valley Voice (Kangaroo Valley, New South Wales, Australia), 13(1) (July): 8.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

[Hill, F. Ann]

- 2980 2007 Armand E. Singer. Postal Himal (Nepal and Tibet Philatelic Study Circle, Quarterly), (131) (3rd Quarter): cover, 2-3.
- Text from The Morgantown Post (West Virginia). Obituary, noting (p. 3): "An avid hiker, Armand hiked the Grand Canyon 15 times, the last time at the age of 87. He attempted a 16th time at the age of 91 with his daughter, but stopped when common sense took over." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Il'f, Il'ia, AND Petrov, Evgenii [Ильф, Илья; Петров, Евгений] [pseudonyms] [Илья Арнольдович Файнзильберг (Il'ya Arnol'dovich Faynzil'berg), AND Евгений Петрович Катаев (Yevgeniy Petrovich Katayev)]

- 2981 2007 If and Petrov's American road trip : the 1935 travelogue of two Soviet writers. (Erika Wolf, ed.; texts by Aleksandr Rodchenko and Aleksandra Ilf; Anne O. Fisher, translator.) Brooklyn, New York, New York: Cabinet Books; and New York: Princeton Architectural Press, 158 pp.
- Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

Jackson, Les

- 2982 2007 Special edition honoring the "Spirit of Southwest CARavan". Arizona Classic Roadrunner (Classic Car Club of America, Arizona Region, Scottsdale), (May/June): [entire issue].
- Grand Canyon, see cover, pp. 12-13.

John, Sebastian

- 2983 2007 An Indian's bus journey across America. SPAN (Public Affairs Section, American Center, New Delhi, India, on behalf of U.S. Embassy), (July/August): 29-36.
- 2nd of two parts. Includes Grand Canyon. (Also published in Hindi and in Urdu, with serial enumeration and pagination the same as in this English ed.)

Karpiuk, Beata, AND Rożkiewicz, Darke

- 2984 2007 Wśród skorpionów i grzechotników. In: Życie z Pieprzem . . . Życie z Pieprzem . . . [SECTION]. Medyk Białostocki (Białostockiej Akademii Medycznej, Białystok, Poland), 2007(1) (January) (48): 40-41. [Ellipses are part of section title.] [In Polish.]
- (transl. 'Among scorpions and rattlesnakes')
- Trip to America. Includes Grand Canyon.

Kay, James

- 2985 2007 Cover shot. Outdoor Photographer, 23(9) (October): cover, 9.
- Nankoweap granaries.

Kovaříková, Lucie, AND Jon, Michal

- 2986 2007 Na hliníkovém oři Divokým západem : národními parky USA na kole. Plzeň: Cyklo Knihy, 135 pp. [Cover adds (in English): "Yosemite, Death Valley, Zion, Bryce Canyon, Capitol Reef, Arches, Moab-Slickrock, Rocky Mountain, Mesa Verde, Monument Valley, Grand Canyon".] [In Czech.]
- (transl. 'On the aluminum horse in the Wild West: US national parks by bike')
- Bicycle touring.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ladd, Gary

- 2987 2007 Atop the Battleship; Grand Canyon's interior peaks offer an arduous thrill. In: Hike of the Month [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 83(6) (June): 52-53.

Lamishaw, Robert

- 2988 2007 Grand Canyon ride part II. BMW Monthly Words (BMW Club of Southern California), 2007(12): 1, 4-5.

This part includes Route 66 and Grand Canyon.

Lee, Milt, AND Lee, Jamie

- 2989 2007 Oyate te olowan. The songs of the people. Rapid City, South Dakota: Lee Productions. 5 CDs.
Folk songs in multiple languages; Volume 1 includes Havasupai, sung by Roland Manakaja and Jeff Manakaja. Program notes in English.

Lewis, Louise

- 2990 2007 No experts needed : the meaning of life according to you! New York, Lincoln (Nebraska), and Shanghai: iUniverse, Inc., 213 pp. [Cover adds: "A true story of following Spirit's words to a life of meaning".]

See "Canyon Bliss", pp. 141-143, which includes Grand Canyon North Rim.

Li, Hongzhi [李洪志]

- 2991 2007 洪吟 [Hóng yín]. Gillette, New Jersey: Yih Chyun Corp., 2 volumes. [In Chinese.]
See "On the Journey": "February 22, 2001 In the United States, at the Grand Canyon".
Two versions of English translation located online 2010: 1) Hong Yin Volume II The Grand Verses (English Translation Version A) www.falundafa.org/book/eng/pdf/HongYinVA.pdf (see "On the Journey", p. 16), and 2) Hong Yin Volume II The Grand Verses (English Translation Version B) www.falundafa.org/book/eng/pdf/HongYinVB.pdf (see "On the Journey", p. 15). Both URLs last accessed December 13, 2021.

LiButti, Renée

- 2992 2007 The prince of prints; landscape photographer Peter Lik takes the shots seen 'round the world! (Photos of Peter Lik by Michael Plumridge.) What's On (Las Vegas), 53(22) (October 8-21): cover, 54, 56.

Lindahl, Larry

- 2993 2007 Falling for falls; remote North Rim trail plunges down to the canyon's most mystical waterfalls. Arizona Highways, 83(6) (June): 1, 8-15, outside back cover.

Thunder River Trail.

March, Ryan

- 2994 2007 (ED.) Southwest splendors; Disney Vacation Club exclusive adventure 2007. Disney Files Magazine, 16(4) (Winter): 17-19.

Photographs. Includes Grand Canyon visit.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Marcinkevičius, Gintautas

- 2995 2007 Kelionės lavina (2). Suvalkietis (Lenkijos Lietuvių Draugija [Polish Lithuanian Society], Sejny, Poland), 2007(—): 27-29. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Travel avalanche, part 2')

Travel report. This installment includes Grand Canyon. Issue number or specific date in 2007 not determined.

Martin, Tom

- 2996 2007 Mountain lions on Isis. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 43(6) (November/December): 9.

Reminiscence of concern for an overdue solo hiker during an attempt to climb Isis Temple.

McConnell, Tayloe

- 2997 2007 Handlebars to Hermit; taking one of Grand Canyon's byways by bicycle. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (September): 46-48.

West Rim Drive.

McGarry, Susan Hallsten

- 2998 2007 Bruce Aiken's Grand Canyon : an intimate affair. (Foreword by John McCain, introduction by James Ballinger.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 150+ pp.

Miller, Douglas Kirby

- 2999 2007 The Miller family at the Grand Canyon—a personal history [ABSTRACT]. In: 2007 History Symposium. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 18(1) (January/March): 11.

Minard, Anne

- 3000 2007 Quiet splendor; a lonely meander to little-known Canyon viewpoints puts the ridiculous into perspective. Arizona Highways, 83(6) (June): 54-56, inside back cover. [Back Road Adventure feature.]

Murd, Carl

- 3001 2007 Üliõpilasena Las Vegases. Saue Sõna (Saue, Estonia), 2007(2) (January 20) (247): 8-9. [In Estonian.]
(transl. 'As a student in Las Vegas')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Oleata, Christopher

- 3002 2007 Grand Canyon. Brazilian Pacific Times (San Diego, California), 9(13) (January): 25.

Essay on hiking in Grand Canyon.

Onsager, Dolly

- 3003 2007 Traditions; celebrating Hal's birthday at the Grand Canyon. Posten (Desert Fjord, Scottsdale, Arizona), (November): 5.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Owen, David, AND Friedman, Douglas

- 3004 2007 Closing the distance: My great American family road trip. Best Life (Emmaus, Pennsylvania), 4 (June): 116-121, 140-141.
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Paredes, Robert

- 3005 2007 Collected writings of Robert Paredes. (Matthew Marth, compiler, ed.) [No place]: Pont du Gard Press, 273 pp.
- See "Grand Canyon", p. 256.

Park, Jihyun (Jenny)

- 3006 2007 A brief diary. International Inquirer (California State University at Sacramento, College of Continuing Education, English Language Institute), (Special DEU Issue, June/July): 5.
- Dong-eui University, Busan, South Korea. Includes brief mention of visit to Grand Canyon during a trip in the Southwest.

Peper, Will

- 3007 2007 Expeditions, canyons, and turkeys "OH MY"! In: Southwest Semester 2007. The Eagle's View (SOAR), (1) (February 28): 2.
- Young author. Includes Grand Canyon, briefly.

Perez, Edgar

- 3008 2007 President's message. California Border Section Newsletter (Institute of Transportation Engineers, California Border Section), 13(7) (September): 1-4.
- See p. 1, note of hike to Havasupai (i.e., Supai).

Peter and Donna Thomas [firm]

- 3009 2007 The Grand Canyon. Santa Cruz, California: Peter and Donna Thomas, [unpaginated].
- Miniature book, 3 × 2¼ inches. Accordion-fold production of ten panels, affixed to boards, with quotations from John Wesley Powell, Aldo Leopold, Nancy and Roger Kayser, and Donna and Peter Thomas. "50 copies for Donna's 50th birthday" (recto of accordion-fold leaf).
- WorldCat notes from a bookseller's description, which helps identify this production: "Brown paper covered boards varnished to look like wood with paper label on front board."; "The paper is 'duplex', or two sided: the sheet is off white, shaded with umber pigment, and the back has a layer of darker paper pulp with petroglyph-like imagery overlaid over the surface. It was printed with a red brown rainbow roll, so the ink is subtly shaded from the top of the page to the bottom, an attempt to visually allude to the colors of the Grand Canyon. Both the front and the back of the accordion page are printed with imagery that depicts the elevations of the Grand Canyon. This image is a duplication from one of the original technical drawing[s] from Powell's book."
- Additional remarks by E.E.S.:* Front board with paste-down illustration repeating a detail from the accordion-fold illustrations, on which is affixed in turn a paste-down title, "THE GRAND CANYON". The "petroglyph-like imagery" of the rear board comprises a few block letters, largely undecipherable. The graphical reproduction of the recto and verso of the accordion fold are details, greatly enlarged, from the Grand Canyon panoramas [by William Henry Holmes]. Quotation on recto of accordion fold: "The wonders of The Grand Canyon cannot be adequately represented in symbols of speech, [row of graphical symbols here].... John Wesley Powell - Exploring The Colorado: 1875" (ellipsis thus). The verso illustration, labeled with numerals, is identified here as a detail from

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

the "Panorama from Point Sublime—Looking West" a William Henry Holmes illustration (first published in Dutton, 1882) that appears in Powell (1895, Canyons of the Colorado; cited in Part I of this bibliography).

See also Peter and Donna Thomas (2013).

Pollock, Jacob

- 3010 2007 USY on Wheels: Mission Mitzvah delivers smiles across North America. Achshav! (United Synagogue of Conservative Judaism, Department of Youth Activities, New York), (Fall): 11.

"One of my favorite activities on USY on Wheels was sunrise Shaharit at Grand Canyon. It was an incredible view, even though we had to wake up at 4 a.m. to catch the sunrise!" (ENTIRE NOTE) (USY: United Synagogue Youth.)

Pucker Gallery [Clift, Ali]

- 3011 2007 Threads of Light: Cloth paintings by Ali. Boston: Pucker Gallery, 20 pp. [including wraps].

Exhibition catalogue; artwork by Ali Clift (surname not noted in catalogue). Grand Canyon paintings illustrated: "Grand Canyon VIII" (p. 1 [cover]); "Grand Canyon IX" (p. 3) [Deer Creek Falls]; [?] "Nicky Juggling" (p. 4); "Grand Canyon III" (p. 7) [Deer Creek Falls]; "Grand Canyon I" and "Grand Canyon II" (p. 8); "Grand Canyon IV" (p. 9); "Grand Canyon X" (p. 11) [Deer Creek Falls]; "Grand Canyon VII" (p. 13); "Grand Canon VI" (p. 15); "Grand Canyon V" (p. 17); "Red Wall Canyon" (p. 20 [back cover]) [Redwall Cavern].

Rothchild, Linda

- 3012 2007 Grand Canyon light/Grand Canyon night. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 43(6) (November/December): 6.

Ruffner, Elisabeth F.

- 3013 2007 Encounters with Grand Canyon, 1940-2006 (. . . not a pioneer . . . I came on the train!) [ABSTRACT]. In: 2007 History Symposium. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 18(1) (January/March): 11. [Ellipses are part of the title.]

S., Wyatt

- 3014 2007 Havasupai trip. Troop Tribune (Boy Scouts of America, Troop 118, Phoenix), 1(11) (August): 2.

Schindler, Kevin S.

- 3015 2007 Riding to the rim; the early bicycle rides from Flagstaff to the Grand Canyon. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (April): 57.

Senegačnik, Jurij

- 3016 2007 Spust v Veliki kanjon. Planinski Vestnik (Ljubljana, Slovenia), 112(1) (January): 45-48. [In Slovenian.]
(transl. 'Descent into Grand Canyon')

See also Senegačnik (2008).

Smith, Michael S.

- 3017 2007 Outdoor triad. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 43(6) (November/December): 6.

An experience of camping on the Tonto Plateau near Clear Creek.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Sondhi, Jiwon Prakash

- 3018 2007 What happened in . . . Vegas; Bharatiya seniors recount exciting four-day trip. Chetana (Bharatiya Temple Quarterly) (Troy, Michigan), (Spring): 11-12. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
Includes Grand Canyon.

Tenakhongva, Clark

- 3019 2007 Po'li : traditional songs of the Hopi. Phoenix: Canyon Records. CD. (CR-6412.) [In Hopi.]
Includes "Supai Maiden" (3:28).

Van Jordan, A.

- 3020 2007 Quantum lyrics : poems. New York and London: W. W. Norton and Co., 116 pp.
See pp. 52-53, "Cut to: Exterior: Grand Canyon, 1931—day. Elsa Einstein poses with Albert for several photographs taken at the Grand Canyon."

Warren, Alan

- 3021 2007 Armand E. Singer 1914-2007. Postal Himal (Nepal and Tibet Philatelic Study Circle, Quarterly), (131) (3rd Quarter): 6.
Memorial, noting: "Armand hiked the Grand Canyon 15 times and attempted it a 16th time at age 91 with his daughter, but after setting out, he thought better of it." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Wasserman, Jesse

- 3022 2007 The Grand Canyon. In: Southwest Semester 2007. The Eagle's View (SOAR), (1) (February 28): 3.
Young author.

Wilson, Thomas H.

- 3023 2007 Grand Canyon grandeur : early paintings and prints from the Hays Collection. [Mesa, Arizona]: Southwest Museum Foundation, 24 pp.
Exhibition catalogue. From the collection of A. P. Hays in the Mesa Southwest Museum.

2008

Anonymous

- 3024 2008 No walk in the park; three UPS Teamsters trek across the Grand Canyon. upsTeamster (International Brotherhood of Teamsters members with United Parcel Service, Washington, D.C.), 4(1) (Winter): 4.
- 3025 2008 Confessions of a now-retired aviator. Falco Builders Letter, (June): 14. [Article signed "anonymous".]
Photo spread of N520H biplane aerobatics in unsanctioned situations, including Grand Canyon and Navajo Bridge.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3026 2008 Fischlowitz Scholars—explore the USA. Mosaic (Office of International Student Affairs, Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa), 1(1) (Fall): 8.
- Includes remark by Karuna Giri, from Nepal (Grinnell Class of 2010), on her visit to Grand Canyon South Rim (with photo).

Alin, Alexander

- 3027 2008 Astronomisches aus dem Wilden Westen. Die Himmelspolizey (Astronomische Vereinigung Lilienthal e.V., Lilienthal, Germany), 4(13) (January): cover, 2, 4-7. [In German.]
(transl. 'Astronomy from the Wild West.')
- Grand Canyon, cover, pp. 2, 4-5.

Allen (Brother) [Hudson, Allen]

- 3028 2008 Youth Choir at the Grand Canyon. The Impact (East Gadsden Baptist Church, Gadsden, Alabama), 38(23) (June 29): [2].

Alton, Heidi

- 3029 2008 Grand Canyon adventure. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 44(2) (March/April): 12.
- January hike down South Kaibab Trail, overnight at Phantom Ranch, and hike up Bright Angel Trail in storm.

Baird, Brian

- 3030 2008 Statement of the Hon. Brian Baird, a Representative in Congress from the State of Washington. In: H.R. 3094, National Park Centennial Fund Act : and H.R. 2959, National Park Centennial Challenge Fund Act : Legislative hearing before the Subcommittee on National Parks, Forests and Public Lands of the Committee on Natural Resources, U.S. House of Representatives, One Hundred Tenth Congress, First session, Thursday, August 2, 2007 : Serial No. 110-39. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, pp. 8-21.

See p. 19: "I do not know that we have mentioned the international appeal of our National Parks. If you go to almost any U.S. National Park, you will see people who have traveled the world to get here. I had the privilege of kayaking the Grand Canyon about 15 years ago.

"There was a couple from East Germany, actually, who had a picture of the Grand Canyon above their breakfast table and had looked at it every single day for 35 years and had set money aside. It was their dream to visit the Grand Canyon: 35 years, from a country pretty far away from us, to come visit a U.S. National Park, and that is the treasure. We have this opportunity." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Berger, Todd R.

- 3031 2008 Chubs on the rim. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 14(3) (Fall): 6.
- Art exhibit by Julie Ogier; humpback chubs.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Berkson, Ethan

- 3032 2008 Troop takes trip to Havasupai Falls. 432 Tom Tom (Boy Scouts of America, Grand Canyon Council Lodge 432, Wipala Wiki Lodge), 58(4) (April): 4-5. [See also p. 12.]

Bhatia, I. J.

- 3033 2008 A visit to Grand Canyon. Dignity Dialogue (Dignity Foundation, Mumbai, India), (August): 28-29.

Brown, Mathieu

- 3034 2008 The summits within: Stories of Grand Canyon climbing. In: Berger, Todd R. (ed.), Reflections of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 14, pp. 195-198. (2nd Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 25-28, 2007, Grand Canyon National Park.)

Buckley, William F., Jr.

- 3035 2008 Flying high : remembering Barry Goldwater. New York: Basic Books, 208 pp.
See Chapter 9, "Flying Over the Grand Canyon".

Buzás, Balázs

- 3036 2008 Az igazi vadnyugat; Észak-Amerika. Világjáró Utazási Magazin (Budapest), (December 2008/January 2009): 34-42. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'The real Wild West: North America')
Grand Canyon, see pp. 40-41.

Compte, Mercè

- 3037 2008 Los Ángeles, Las Vegas, San Francisco . . . Aquest any la fem llarga i, per què no, també interessant. El Carbass (Revista de l'Armentera) (Ajuntament de l'Armentera, Spain), (6) (December): 85-86. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [In Catalan.]
(transl. 'Los Angeles, Las Vegas, San Francisco. . . This year we make it long and, why not, also interesting.')
- Includes brief remarks on Grand Canyon.

Cropley, Chris

- 3038 2008 Indian Gardens backpack trip report. Troop Journal (Boy Scouts of America, Troop 222, Naperville, Illinois), 1(1) (August): [4].
- 3039 2008 Grand Canyon rim-to-rim trip report. Troop Journal (Boy Scouts of America, Troop 222, Naperville, Illinois), 1(2) (September):.

Depicolzuane, Ed

- 3040 2008 From Las Vegas to the Grand Canyon; seeing the sights worlds away from the Northwest. Seattle Gay News (Seattle, Washington), 25(36) (June 20) (Section 3, Travel): 4.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

DeVore, Brenda

- 3041 2008 Excellent hiking adventure. Wayne County Historical Society, Newsletter (Corydon, Iowa), (December): [4].
Large family trip on Bright Angel Trail in snow, with a stay at Phantom Ranch.

Di Pietro, Lisa

- 3042 2008 Beauty in detail; a retrospective on the natural world of legendary landscape painter Merrill Mahaffey. Flagstaff Live!, 14(28) (July 10-16): 1, 3, 18-21.

Dodder, Steve

- 3043 2008 Grand Canyon Star Party, North Rim 2008. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 32(7) (July): 1, 3.

Dong Bang Shin Ki [musical group]

- 3044 2008 東方神起; 동방신기 화보집; A Week Holiday—It's Stylish (한정판). [Dong Bang Shin Ki : Dong Bang Shin Gi hwa bo jib : A week holiday : it's stylish (hang jeong pan [limited edition])]. [Imprint not determined], 108 pp. (Copyright LM Entertainment.) [Spine title: Photobook : a week holiday (in English, thus).] [In Korean, with title in mixed Japanese, Korean, and English orthography, thus.]

Book seen only from an internet posting for the volume. Dong Bang Shin Ki, or Dong Bang Shin Gi, is a South Korean musical group. Cover photo shows the group at Grand Canyon West; remainder of book seems to contain photos of the group's photo-shoot there. Apparently also accompanied by DVD.]

Duran, Leah

- 3045 2008 Mule master; They're not as famous as the panoramas, but the mules at the Canyon are known around the world, and the man in charge is Casey Murph. Arizona Highways, 84(11) (November): 6.

Dykinga, Jack; Bowden, Charles; AND Ranney, Wayne

- 3046 2008 Images : Jack Dykinga's Grand Canyon. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, 112 pp.

Einama, Kaido

- 3047 2008 Suur Kanjonit võib uudistada kosmosestki; Indiaanlaste klaassild viib tühjuse kohale. Puhkepäev (Äripäev, Nädalalõpulis) (Tallinn, Estonia), 2008(30)(480) (25-27 July): 14-15. [In Estonian.] (transl. 'The Grand Canyon can be explored from space; the glass bridge of the Indians leads to emptiness.')

Visit to Grand Canyon West, but includes illustration of Grand Canyon at South Rim.

Etezady, Roshanne

- 3048 2008 [Composer's notes on "Bright Angel for Clarinet and Piano".] In: "Contrasts" : Robert Spring, clarinet : Andrew Campbell, piano : Katherine McLin, violin : Jana Starling, clarinet : Katzin Concert Hall, Faculty Artist Concert Series, Sunday, September 28, 2008, 2:30 PM : program. [Tempe, Arizona]: Arizona State University, Herberger College of the Arts, School of Music.

"Bright Angel", music inspired by architect Mary Jane Colter, including movements, "Lookout", "Phantom", "Kiva", "Hermit's Rest", and "Bright Angel".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Fautleroy, Gussie

- 3049 2008 Limitless possibilities; Arizona artist Curt Walters finds endless ways to portray the grandeur of the Grand Canyon. Southwest Art, 37(9) (February): cover, 8, 108-111, 124-125.

Fleck, Richard F.

- 3050 2008 John Muir's historic visits to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River and later. In: Berger, Todd R. (ed.), Reflections of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 14, pp. 137-140. (2nd Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 25-28, 2007, Grand Canyon National Park.)

Gangelhoff, Bonnie

- 3051 2008 Larger than life; California artist Gil Dellinger thinks and paints on a grand scale. Southwest Art, 37(9) (February): 102-105, 127.

Green, Nancy [Green, Nancy Rivest]

- 3052 2008 Dave Rust: A life in the canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 19(2) (Fall): 7. Summary of a presentation by Fred Swanson.

Grubbs, Bruce

- 3053 2008 Bagging peaks in the upside-down mountains; 10 summits along the Nankoweap Trail of the Grand Canyon. Inside/Outside Southwest, 11(4) (June/July): 42-44.

Hamilton, Lynn

- 3054 2008 To boldly go where no bus has ever gone before—the GCRG Fall Rendezvous at Toroweap. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(4) (Winter 2008-2009): 9-10.
Grand Canyon River Guides meeting travels by school bus.

Hanmer, Karen

- 3055 2008 Over the edge; 2008. In: West of the Plains : a juried exhibit of contemporary book works by members of the Rocky Mountain chapter of the Guild of Book Workers : Denver Public Library, Denver, CO, Oct. 5-Dec. 18, 2008 : Hayden Library, Arizona State University, Tempe, AZ, Jan. 20-March 8, 2009 : Salt Lake City Public Library, Salt Lake City, UT, March 17-April 30, 2009.
Exhibited is a customized tooled binding made for a copy of the book, Over the Edge (authored by Thomas M. Myers and Michael P. Ghiglieri).

Harris, Georgia

- 3056 2008 My summer vacation of 1965. Inscriptions (New Mexico State University at Grants Literary Arts Magazine), (Spring): 5-7.

Head, Elan

- 3057 2008 First jobs. Autorotate (Professional Helicopter Pilots' Association), 8(1): cover, 3, 6-12.
Includes David Bales, who is featured on the cover and pp. 7-8, flying helicopter trips to Grand Canyon out of Las Vegas. (However, the cover photo legend, p. 3, indicates "Pilot David Bales flying over the Grand Canyon", but the scene shows the lower Colorado River.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Heck, Emily

- 3058 2008 The best time I ever spent with Gramma and Grampa. In: 2007 Best Time Ever Art and Writing Contest for middle schoolers. Madison, Wisconsin: Care Wisconsin (Care Wisconsin First, Inc.), p. 39.

Includes brief note of a visit to Grand Canyon. Author is 12 years of age.

Hedgpeth, Mel

- 3059 2008 Grand Canyon by mule. The Northwest Connection (Troutdale, Oregon), 2(12) (January): 1, 9.

Hitesman, J. P.

- 3060 2008 The central coast of California. The Beta (Hampshire College, Amherst, Massachusetts), 7(1) (Spring): cover, 8-14, back cover.

Grand Canyon of Arizona, see cover, 12-13, back cover.

Howarth, Graham, AND Howarth, Dawn

- 3061 2008 Grand Canyon trek 14th September 2008. Burnley Mountaineering Club, Newsletter (Lancashire, England), [October]: [9]-[14].

Hugoson, Boel, AND Hugoson, Ola

- 3062 2008 "Get your kicks on Route 66!" Polynews (Polyki AB, and Rondo Plast AB, Ystad, Sweden), 2008(4): 22-29. [In Swedish.]

Motorcycle trip from Chicago, Illinois, to Santa Monica, California. Includes Grand Canyon.

Hwang, Sehyun

- 3063 2008 The Grand Canyon. Warped Willow (A Journal of Art and Writing by the Students of Willett Elementary School) (Davis, California), 3(1) (March): 15.

Poem. Author is in the 4th Grade.

Ingalls, Kim

- 3064 2008 [Brief notice of family rim-to-rim hike in Grand Canyon.] Tulip City Conglomerate (Tulip City Gem and Mineral Club Bulletin, Holland, Michigan), 40(11) (November): 6.

Excerpt from South Haven Tribune, October 28, 2007.

Jarratt, David Arthur

- 3065 2008 Short hops. My life as a flyer! [No place]: Xlibris Corp., 304 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Grand Canyon, passim.

Johnsen, John Einar

- 3066 2008 Holy Riders turen 27.08.-14.09.2008. Tårnklang (Menighetsblad for Falnes og Ferkingstad) (Skudeneshavn, Norway), 2008(4): 8-9. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'Holy Riders tour August 27-September 14, 2008')

Motorcyclists tour Route 66. Includes brief note and double-page background photo of Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jones, Jack

- 3067 2008 Grand Canyon Star Party a great success. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 32(7) (July): 3, 10-13.

Kangur, Ülo

- 3068 2008 Matkajana Suures Kanjonis. In: Eesti matkajuhtide 41. kokkutulek : Kurgjärve, 29.-30. novembril 2008. a., pp. 23-24. [In Estonian.]
(transl. 'Hiking in the Grand Canyon', in 'Estonian Ramblers Association, Estonian Hiking Leaders 41st Reunion, November 29-30, 2008')

Report of hike on Bright Angel Trail.

Kasprzak, Jerzy

- 3069 2008 Nieziemskie Krajobrazy; wystawa w Muzeum UMCS. Wiadomości Uniwersyteckie (Uniwersytet Marii Curie-Skłodowskiej w Lublinie, Lublin, Poland), 18(4)(145) (April): 38-42. In Polish.
(transl. 'Unearthly Landscapes; exhibition at the UMCS Museum')

Photography exhibition, "Parki Narodowe USA. Historia Ziemi zapisana w krajobrazach" ('US National Parks. Earth history written in landscapes'). Grand Canyon, see pp. 39, 40.

Krulwich, Robert

- 3070 2008 Tell me a story. Engineering and Science Monthly (California Institute of Technology Alumni Association), (Fall): 10-16.

Thoughts on viewing Grand Canyon, see pp. 14-15.

Kusserow, Brittany Decker

- 3071 2008 The same hesitant rhythm : an honors thesis (HONRS 499). Bachelor's thesis, Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana, 65 pp.

See "May", pp. 24-28; experiences on a visit to the Havasupai.

Lee, Valerie

- 3072 2008 Paradise. MEMorandum (Duke University, School of Engineering, Master of Engineering Management), (November 10):3-4.

Remarks by a student from China after three years of study, including brief reminiscences from a visit to Grand Canyon.

Leibowitz, Rachel

- 3073 2008 The million dollar play house: The Office of Indian Affairs and the Pueblo Revival in the Navajo capital. Buildings and Landscapes, 15 (Fall): 11-42.

See "The Pueblo Revival Style and the 'Indianized Southwest'", p. 18 and following; includes Fred Harvey and Mary Colter architecture at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Leis, Joe

- 3074 2008 A near miss. Pacem in Terris (St. Francis, Minnesota), 20 (Fall): 3.
A 35th-anniversary trip with his wife, Lori. "It was dark before we arrived at the Canyon. We were like two little kids anxious to just get a peek, disappointed that we had to wait until morning. [¶] Arriving at the Canyon in the morning, we couldn't park the car fast enough. Approaching the edge of the Canyon, the beauty again unfolded before our eyes. It was stunning, with breathtaking views in all directions. We stood there in awe without a word, absorbing all our surroundings, experiencing God's creation and feeling His presence in a way that neither of us had ever before. Then words of praise and thanksgiving came flooding from us. What an awesome God we have. Our time for the next few days was spent with equally breathtaking views and experiences."

Lemon, Jake

- 3075 2008 Long distance packing. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (June): [unpaginated].
Preparations for, and brief recounting of, a long-distance mule trip that began with a rim-to-rim crossing of Grand Canyon. Includes author's discussion with Ron Clayton at Grand Canyon. [Note: Among the follow-up articles under this author and serial (see under 2009 and 2010), only those cited here were located. Note as well that the order of some articles seems to be awry. There may be two sets of printings, or reprintings.]
- 3076 2008 Long distance packing—Day 1. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (July): [unpaginated].
South Rim to Phantom Ranch.
- 3077 2008 Long distance packing; day 2. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (October/November): [unpaginated].
Phantom Ranch to Cottonwood Campground.

Lindahl, Larry

- 3078 2008 Reaching new heights. Arizona Highways, 84(7) (July): 32-37.
Climbing in Grand Canyon with brothers Aaron and Pernell Tomasi.

Mautz, Rainer

- 3079 2008 Sampling the world. Coordinates (Delhi), 4(3) (March): 22-24, 26, 27.
"This article describes an ongoing project that has the goal to visit the degree intersections of each latitude and longitude on land, or within sight of land, around the world documenting the visit with photographs at each location and publish them on the Degree Confluence website." [Global positioning technology. See p. 26: "What confluence has most unsuccessful attempts? 36°N 112°W, Arizona, USA has 7 unsuccessful attempts due to its location in the Grand Canyon. This point is tempting for many visitors, who then fail 200m from the goal at almost vertical Coconino Sandstone." (ENTIRE NOTE) Note: The coordinate location was nearly visited by Woody Harrell on October 11, 2003, as reported on the Degree Confluence website, <http://confluence.org/confluence.php?id=91> (last accessed May 13, 2022); the documented coordinates of the visit were 35°59.998'N, 111°59.996'W., as displayed on a photograph of the GPS device; "A few more feet to the north and this confluence would be on the face of a 500 foot cliff!"

McCroskey, Mona Lange

- 3080 2008 A mule's-eye view of Grand Canyon: The photograph collection of trail guide Ray Tankersley. In: Berger, Todd R. (ed.), Reflections of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

accounts. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 14, pp. 113-118. (2nd Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 25-28, 2007, Grand Canyon National Park.)

See McCoskey (2004) for full-length publication.

McCutcheon, John T.

- 3081 2008 Doing the Grand Canyon (1922). Whitefish, Montana: Kessinger Publishing, LLC, 24 pp.
Facsimile reprint of 1922 ed.

Medlock, Rose Flores, AND Wallis, Jason

- 3082 2008 How to make the Grand Canyon feel bigger. Orange Coast (Orange County, California), 34(4) (April): 40.
Filmmaker Greg MacGillivray and IMAX film.

Metzler, Brian

- 3083 2008 New Grand Canyon record. In: Running Shorts [SECTION]. Running Times, (354) (March): 10.
Dave Mackey rim-to-rim-to-rim run in 6:59:56.

Moore, John A., Sr.

- 3084 2008 Get out and enjoy nature via the bus and train. The Travelin' Grampa: Touring the U.S.A. without an automobile (Clifton Heights, Pennsylvania), 1(4) (June): 8-9.
Includes remarks on visiting Grand Canyon National Park via Amtrak rail to Flagstaff, and Greyhound bus from Flagstaff to Williams and Grand Canyon; also Grand Canyon Railway between Williams and Grand Canyon. Also notes "Limited air service from Las Vegas to Grand Canyon Airport".

Morris, John D.

- 3085 2008 Reflecting on Grand Canyon. Acts and Facts (Institute for Creation Research), (July): 3.

Muleady-Mecham, Nancy Eileen

- 3086 2008 Park Ranger sequel : more true stories from a ranger's career in America's national parks. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 218 pp.

Olesen, Ruth og Vagn

- 3087 2008 Fra Nova Scotia til Grand Canyon (fortsat fra nummer 4-2007). Nyt Under Solen (Dansk Naturist Union, Sønderborg, Denmark), 2008(1): 8-12. [In Danish.]
(transl. 'From Nova Scotia to the Grand Canyon (continued from number 4-2007)')
See p. 11. Earlier number not pertinent to this bibliography. [NOTE: Serial may contain material for mature audience (nudity) but this article does not.]

Puik, Vahur

- 3088 2008 Üllatav üle-pildistamine. Cheese (Fotojakiri/Estonian Journal of Photography) (Tartu, Estonia), 7(32): 48-57. [In Estonian.]
(transl. 'Surprisingly overlaid pictures')
Regarding the rephotography work by Mark Klett and Byron Wolfe. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Reddig, Erhard, AND Hammer, Achim

- 3089 2008 Dance South-West. EAASDC Bulletin (European Association of American Square Dancing Clubs), (February): 74-79. [In parallel English and German texts; English translation by Margot Wilhelm.]
See passing notes about spontaneous square dancing at Grand Canyon (with photo).

Rennicke, Jeff

- 3090 2008 Mary Jane Colter, architect; from exteriors that mirror the Grand Canyon to interiors that reflect local art and culture, Mary Colter's early 20th-century architecture is innovative even by modern standards. National Parks, 82(2) (Spring): 30-35. [See also "Corrections", 82(3) (Summer): 8.]

Ring, Bob, AND Ring, Al

- 3091 2008 Ambrose E. Ring's photo record of AIME's 1916 tour of Arizona mines. Arizona History Convention, Chandler, Arizona, April 26, 2008, 23 pp.
American Institute of Mining Engineers. Includes a trip to the Grand Canyon.

Robinson, Duncan

- 3092 2008 Painting at the edge of the world : the watercolours of Tony Foster. (Foreword by Robert F. Kennedy, Jr.) Seattle: University of Washington Press, and London: Royal Institution of Cornwall (distributed by Combined Academic, Chesham), 324 pp.

Ruffner, Elisabeth F.

- 3093 2008 Encounters with the Grand Canyon, 1940-2006. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 14, pp. 171-174. (2nd Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 25-28, 2007, Grand Canyon National Park.)

Senegačnik, Jurij

- 3094 2008 Veliki kanjon. Geografski Obzornik (Sekcija za šolsko geografijo Geografskega društva, Ljubljana, Slovenia), 55(1/2): cover, 3-9. [In Slovenian.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon')
See also Senegačnik (2007).

Shaw, Jim

- 3095 2008 Spring 2008 tour-log of the Southwest. Gateway Gazette (Gateway Riders BMW Club, Clayton, Missouri), 36(5) (October): 8-9.
Brief notes. Includes Grand Canyon North Rim and Marble Canyon. BMW motorcycles.

Sonnenberg, Steve

- 3096 2008 A grand adventure; excerpts from Steve Sonnenberg's travel log. (Nick Sutcliffe, ed.) Mines (Colorado School of Mines), 98(3) (Fall): contents page, 26-31.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Srinivasan, Lakshmi

- 3097 2008 A thrilling sojourn to the Grand Canyon (USA). सीआरपीएफ समाचार (भारत सरकार, केंद्रीय रिजर्व पुलिस बल) [CRPF samaachaar (bhaarat sarakaar, kendreey rijarv pulis bal)] [CRPF News (Government of India, Central Reserve Police Force)], 59(8) (November/December): [unpaginated].
- Five-page item in English. Serial title and publisher's information are in Hindi; serial contains texts in Hindi and English.

Stampoulos, Linda L.

- 3098 2008 Postcards of America : visiting the Grand Canyon : 15 historic postcards. Charleston (South Carolina), Chicago, Portsmouth (New Hampshire), and San Francisco: Arcadia Publishing, 17 cards total [15 postcards reproduced in black-and-white].
- See also Stampoulos (2004).

Swearingen, James

- 3099 2008 Grand Canyon overture. [28] pp. [Score.]
- Score indicates "Angela Johnson" (arranger?). The score is appended to an item in Bandworld Online Magazine (Southern Oregon University, American Band College), 25(3) (January): 35-37, with caption: "Title: Grand Canyon Overture Composer: James Swearingen Publisher: Hal Leonard Performance Time: 4:00 Grade: 2.5". Seen at <http://www.bandworld.org/MagOnline/Issue22/20.pdf> (accessed May 3, 2020).

Tamulaitienė, Marija

- 3100 2008 Sveikata—tai darna su savimi ir pasauliu. Sveikatos ABC (Kaunas, Lithuania), 2008(5) (May): cover, 6-12. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Health is harmony with yourself and the world')
- Interview with physician Marija Tamulaitienė. See p. 9, photo, "Kelionė po JAV. Su dukromis Audrone ir Inga prie Dižiojo kanjono." (transl. 'Traveling in the USA. With daughters Audrone and Inga at the Grand Canyon.')
- No text mention.

Tamura, Fumiko [田村 文子]

- 3101 2008 本場にグランドなグランドキャニオン [hontōni gurandona Gurandokyanion] [A truly Grand Canyon]. In: 2007年3月: 仙台 Riverside 姉妹都市交流 50周年記念: 祝賀式典参加ツアー報告 [2007-Nen 3 tsuki: Sendai ribāsaido shimai toshi kōryū 50 shūnenkinen: shukuga shikiten sankā tsuā hōkoku] [March 2007: Sendai Riverside 50th anniversary of sister city exchange: Celebration ceremony participation tour report]. [仙台] [Sendai]: 仙台リバサイド交流連絡会 [Sendai Ribasaido kōryū renraku-kai] / Sendai Riverside Exchange Liaison Committee, pp. 26-27. [In Japanese, with publication title in mixed Japanese and Roman orthography and bilingual publisher's data.]
- Report of a March 25, 2007, air tour from Las Vegas to Grand Canyon South Rim. Published March 2008; reporting on a 50th anniversary celebration of the sister-cities arrangement between Sendai, Japan, and Riverside, California.

Tseronis, I. Th. [Τσερονής, Ι. Θ.]

- 3102 2008 Πήγαμε Λας Βεγας, Hollywood, Αλ Κατραζ, Χαβαΐ. Εκεί που δεν ειχαμε παει! [Pigame Las Vegas, Hollywood, Al Katraz, Chavai. Ekei pou den eichame paei!] [We went to Las Vegas, Hollywood, Alcatraz, Hawaii. Where none have gone!] Τα νέα του Σλληνικού [Ta néa tou Ellinikou] [Greek News], 15 (September/October): 5. [Title with mixed Greek and Roman orthography, thus, and

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

with spelling, "Al Katraz" in transliteration, thus.] [In Greek, with item title in Greek and Roman orthography, thus.]

Greek News is the bimonthly newsletter of Worldwide Communications for Greeks, Gortynias, Greece. Author describes the western Grand Canyon region, in passing: "Είναι μια ατελείωτη έκταση εκ-πληκτικών τοπίων και χρωμάτων." (Είναι μια ateleíoti éktasi ek-pliktikón topíon kai chromáton.) (It is a land of endless, boring landscapes and colors.) (ENTIRE NOTE) Perhaps regarding the trip to Grand Canyon West.

Tymn, Mike

- 3103 2008 Meghan Abrogast. In: Age Group Ace [COLUMN]. Running Times, (358) (July/August): 37.
Includes passing note regarding Abrogast's "fond memories" of a rim-to-rim training run across Grand Canyon.

Vincent, Ken

- 3104 2008 CD Canyon : as seen through the eyes of a local. [No place]: Vincent Productions, LLC. CD, 2008.1 ed. 53:00.

Visions West Galleries

- 3105 2008 Sharron Evans; Bright Angel Trail. Western Art Collector, (12) (August): 160-164.
Evans's paintings of horses, inspired by a hike on Bright Angel Trail.

Webster-Scholten, C. P.

- 3106 2008 Flirting with danger : hiking the Grand Canyon the wrong way. Cedar City, Utah: [no imprint], 25 pp.

Weschler, Lawrence

- 3107 2008 True to life : twenty-five years of conversations with David Hockney. Berkeley: University of California Press, 249 pp., [24] pp. plates.

Whitely, Kara Richardson

- 3108 2008 Reaching my peak; scaling a mountain turned out to be the best way to win my battle with the scale. Self, (October): 110, 113.

Grand Canyon, in preparation for Mount Kilimanjaro.

Williams, Tyler

- 3109 2008 Marble Canyon; putting a toe in the Colorado River requires fancy footwork to get it there. In: Corner Pocket [SECTION]. Inside/Outside Southwest, 11(2) (February/March): 38-39.

Cathedral Wash, Badger Creek, and Soap Creek.

Yukahashi, Kazu [カズ タカハシ]

- 3110 2008 アメリカ国立公園の旅② 灼熱の溪谷をイテく [Amerika kokuritsu kōen no tabi ② shakunetsu no keikoku ote ku] [A trip to the American National Parks ② Reminiscence of a scorching canyon]. U.S. FrontLine [フロントライン (furonto rain)] (STS Innovation, Inc., New York, and Rancho

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dominguez, California), (410) (2nd week of July): cover, 24-31. [In Japanese, with serial title in English, and section title in mixed Japanese and English.]

See pp. 25-27, “親友になった大峡谷; グランドキャニオン園宜公置、アリゾナ州 Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona” [Shin'yū ni natta dai kyōkoku; Gurandokyanion-en mube kō, Arizona-shū; Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona] [The canyon that became my best friend; Grand Canyon Village, Arizona; Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona].

Zyranov, Pavel [Зырянов, Павел]

- 3111 2008 Адмирал Колчак, верховный правитель России [Admiral Kolchak, verkhovnyy pravitel' Rossii] [Admiral Kolchak, supreme ruler of Russia]. Москва: Молодая Гвардия [Moskva: Molodaya Gvardiya] [Moscow: Young Guard], 635 pp. (Жизнь замечательных людей. Серия биографий, 1359 [Zhizn' zamechatel'nykh lyudey. Seriya biografiy, 1359] [The life of wonderful people. Biography Series, 1359].) [Also later eds.] [In Russian.]

Regarding a Russian military mission to America during August-October 1917, includes remarks about the officers' return with the admiral to Russia by way of the Pacific, including, “По пути к западному побережью США русские офицеры посетили Большой Каньон в штате Колорадо [sic] и Йосемитский национальный парк.” [Po puti k zapadnomu poberezh'yu SShA russkiye ofitsery posetili Bol'shoy Kan'on v shtate Kolorado [sic] i Yosemitekiy natsional'nyy park.] [En route to the US west coast, Russian officers visited the Grand Canyon in the state of Colorado [sic] and Yosemite National Park.] (ENTIRE NOTE)

2009

Anonymous

- 3112 2009 “I told my physical therapist that it was my goal to hike the Grand Canyon and to be pain free.” Rezin Newsletter (Rezin Orthopedics and Sports Medicine, Bolingbrook, Illinois), (Winter):.
- “Pain free and the leader of his group of friends, Whitney Cox hiked the Havasupai Canyon in the Grand Canyon in early 2007.” (with photo).
- 3113 2009 Smithsonian photo exhibit; January 10-March 29, Phoenix. In: The Journal—Things To Do [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 85(1) (January): 12.
- Smithsonian Institution traveling exhibit, “Lasting Light: 125 Years of Grand Canyon Photography”.
- 3114 2009 “Charting the Canyon” photo exhibition; Phoenix Art Museum March 22-June 28. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 13(1): 2.
- 3115 2009 Extreme sports shorts at HHPC. The Campus Buzz (San Juan College, Farmington, New Mexico), 7(5) (January): 8.
- Showing of “extreme sports shorts” from the Tahoe Adventure Film Festival, at the Health and Human Performance Center. Includes “Grand Canyon Climbing—This first-of-its-kind film features highlights of a Grand Canyon climbing trip with climbing superstar Tommy Caldwell and Beth Roden from November 2007. (10 minutes).” (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 3116 2009 2008 IQ “Mathlete” Camp @ Grand Canyon. IQ Abacus Newsletter (IQ Abacus Math and Language School, Tempe, Arizona), 1(1) (January 9): 3.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3117 2009 Grand Canyon visions—Ed Funk. In: News of the Fellowship [SECTION]. Pagosa Unitarian Universalist Fellowship (Pagosa Springs, Colorado), (March): [1].
Exhibition announcement.
- 3118 2009 Las Vegas, Nevada, USA. Drienovský Občasník (Obecný úrad Drienov, Drienov, Slovakia), 10(2) (April 8): 4. [\[In Slovak.\]](#)
Includes Grand Canyon.
- 3119 2009 Larry M. Gibson, First Counselor in the Young Men General Presidency. In: New Leaders sustained at General Conference [FEATURE]. Ensign (Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints), 39(5) (May): 143.
Includes note of Gibson's post-high school "hike into Havasupai, Arizona, USA [Havasu Canyon], in the Grand Canyon, where he spent several days reading the Book of Mormon and praying about and pondering on his testimony."
- 3120 2009 34 Squadron leading RAF regiment. Royal Air Force Regiment Association, Birmingham Branch, Newsletter, (239) (May): 9-10.
Includes quote from Squadron Leader Michael Formby (from Leeming in Yorkshire): "We've taken part in a lot of adventure training and parachute training in America as well as walking and training at the Grand Canyon." (p. 9) (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 3121 2009 [Painting hanging in El Tovar.] In: Painting Our Future; News Briefs and Special Occasions [SECTION]. Brushstrokes (Oil Painters of America, Crystal Lake, Illinois), 19(2) (Summer): 10.
"West Rim Afternoon" by Brenda Howell, awarded Honor of Acceptance in Art Renewal Center's International 2008/2009 ARC Salon™, now hanging in El Tovar, Grand Canyon. Not illustrated.
- 3122 2009 From Mary and Rod —. Chirper (Katydid's Square Dance Club, San Jose, California), 46(7) (July): 5-9. [Item signed "Mary & Rod".]
Report of a Southwestern trip, including the area of Page, Arizona, and the Grand Canyon North Rim.
- 3123 2009 Exploring the Grand Canyon with back country friends, April 2009. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen Newsletter (Emmett, Idaho), (July): 3-4.
Xanterra Parks and Resorts mule trip, Grand Canyon.
- 3124 2009 Summer 2009 trip to Grand Canyon. The Spirit Newsletter (Pen Ryn School, Fairless Hills, Pennsylvania), (September/October): 12.
Trip report.
- 3125 2009 A new way of seeing. Mark 10: 46-52. October 25, 2009. (Proper 25, Yr. B). South Charleston, West Virginia: First United Methodist Church, 17 pp.
Written in the first person but unsigned. Begins with a reminiscence of a honeymoon trip to Grand Canyon.
- 3126 2009 Oley Foundation president hikes across Grand Canyon. Newslines (National Home Infusion Association), (November/December): 13, 15.
Rick Davis, disabled stroke survivor, 66.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3127 2009 Tvärs över USA i A-Ford (1). "A"visen (Norsk "A Modell Klubb / Model A Restorers Club—Norway Region, Oslo), 42(2): 6-10. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'Across the U.S.A. in A-Ford')

Model A Ford automobile. Grand Canyon, see p. 7. Subsequent part(s) of this travel report are not pertinent to this bibliography.

Baisley, Carrie

- 3128 2009 Grand Canyon adventure. The NORTA News (North Rockland Teachers' Association, Stony Point, New York), (September/October): [1].

Berger, Todd R.

- 3129 2009 (ED.) Grand Canyon Celebration of Art : 2009 modern masters. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 42 pp.

1st Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

Bilet, Morten, AND Osmo, Barbro

- 3130 2009 Arizona og meteorittene. Stein (Magasin for Populærgeologi) (Norsk Amatørgeologers Sammensluting, Randaberg, Norway), 36(4): 26-30. [In Norwegian.]

Principally about Meteor Crater, Arizona, but includes brief remarks about a visit to Grand Canyon (p. 30).

Birdwell, April Frawley

- 3131 2009 Darius goes Gator; UF screens movie about Duchenne muscular dystrophy. The Post (Health Science Center, University of Florida), (July/August): 10.

Regarding the film, "Darius Goes West", about Darius Weems' cross-country trip to raise awareness about Duchenne muscular dystrophy. Photo in article shows Weems at Grand Canyon.

Bowen, JulieAnne

- 3132 2009 Grand Canyon. Scope (Ouachita Baptist University, Arkadelphia, Arkansas), 2009 (Article 3), 1 p.

Chaikin, Andrew

- 3133 2009 (WITH Victoria Kohl) Voices from the moon : Apollo astronauts describe their lunar experiences. New York: Viking Studio (Penguin Group), 202 pp.

See quotations by Ed Mitchell (p. 66) and Dave Scott (pp. [89], 114); mentions of geology training at Grand Canyon.

Circiumaru, Andreea

- 3134 2009 Grand Canyon. ACUB Pro (Revista Românilor Liberi de Pretutindeni; Revistă lunară de cultură și opinie) (Asociației Europene de Colaborare și Unitate în Balcani, Calafat, Romania), 2009(8) (July/August): 20. [In Romanian.]

Cole, Ethel Moore

- 3135 2009 [Letter.] The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 20(1) (Spring): 3.

Reminiscences of living at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Crowley, Jon

- 3136 2009 The grand adventure to the Grand Canyon. Side X Side, (20): 12-16.

Davis, Ray

- 3137 2009 Blazing Saddles ride; Memorial Day weekend 2009. SCMA News (Southern California Motorcycling Association), 41(7) (July): 8-11.

Grand Canyon, see pp. 8-9.

Dean, John

- 3138 2009 The mega theory of evolution. Bob Burnquist is on a quest to go bigger and scarier than any athlete has ever thought possible—while also running an organic farm and choosing smoothies over Red Bull. He calls this progress. Behold the enlightened life (and far-out dreams) of the world's greatest skateboarder. Outside, (August): 70-73, 100-.

See p. 100: “. . . his most dangerous stunt ever, in 2006, when he flew off a ramp built on the rim of the Grand Canyon, grinded a rail over the precipice, then BASE-jumped 1,600 feet to the bottom.” Location not indicated, but surely outside of the national park; likely Grand Canyon West.

Decoteau, Randall

- 3139 2009 Talk of the trade: New kids on the (auction) block. Northeast Antiques (Palmer, Massachusetts), (September): 29.

Includes item about Keith Spurgeon of Mosby and Co. Auctions, Frederick, Maryland, who named his business for Mosby, his Senegal parrot. “Mosby’s been cross country 25 times; she’s the only bird I know who’s been to the Grand Canyon.” Includes photo of Decoteau with Mosby, but not at Grand Canyon.

Dodder, Steve

- 3140 2009 Grand Canyon Star Party—North Rim. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 33(6) (Summer): 1, 3, 10.

Dow, Marie Elizabeth Shade

- 3141 2009 The $25 trip. A Newsletter for Leisure Lutherans (Immanuel Lutheran Church, Rolla, Missouri), 16(3) (March): [2]-[3].

Dwyer, John

- 3142 2009 Jeeping the North Rim. Motor Pool Messenger (Military Transport Association of North Jersey), (October): 5-6.

Engel, Eric

- 3143 2009 A moment’s existence; landscape painter Sam Jones illustrates the experience. Flagstaff Live!, 15(13) (March 26-April 1): 14.

Etezady, Roshanne

- 3144 2009 [Composer’s notes on “Bright Angel”.] In: The 8th Annual UAB Clarinet Retreat, February 28 and March 1, 2009. [Program and Program Notes.] Birmingham, Alabama: University of Alabama at Birmingham, Department of Music.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Fay, Joanne

- 3145 2009 Grand Canyon—rim to rim. Crossroads Ranch II Property Owners' Association Newsletter (Prescott, Arizona), (106) (April): 5-6.

Ferrari, Luc

- 3146 2009 L'œuvre électronique. Paris: Ina GRM, CD, 10 disks. (Musique français d'aujourd'hui.)
(transl. 'Electronic work'; 'French Music Today' [series])
- Electoacoustical music. Listen to "Far-West new 2: de Page à Grand Canyon" ('Far-West new 2: from Page to Grand Canyon').

Ferri, Emanuela

- 3147 2009 La California e i parchi; 4-13 ottobre 2009. Insieme (Banca di Credito Cooperativo di Vignole, Notizie) (Vignole, Italy), (59) (December): 16-19. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'California and the parks; 4-13 October 2009')
- BCC-sponsored group travel report. Grand Canyon, pp. 16-17.

Forbes, Lydia

- 3148 2009 [Untitled verse.] Daponte String Quartet Newsletter (Maine), (October): 4.

Foster, Tony

- 3149 2009 Watercolour diaries. Sojourns (Peaks, Plateaus and Canyons Association), 4(1) (Winter/Spring): 40-43, back cover.

Gay, Marie-Agnès

- 3150 2009 Les mots de la fin dans A Multitude of Sins de Richard Ford. Cercles, Occasional Papers Series (Paris), 2009: 171-184. (Cercles, Revue Pluridisciplinaire du Monde Anglophone.) [In French.]
(transl. 'The final words in A Multitude of Sins by Richard Ford')
- Analytical commentary on one's last words, as elucidated by characters in Richard Ford's collection of stories, A Multitude of Sins. Begins with an event at Grand Canyon.

Gidh, Kedar

- 3151 2009 Hiking in Grand Canyon. Marathi Mandal of Philadelphia, Newsletter, 2(1) (October/December): 10-11. [Article in English; serial in Hindi.]

Goetzmann, William H., AND Goetzmann, William N.

- 3152 2009 The West of the imagination. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 2nd ed., 604 pp.
- Grand Canyon generally, see particularly Chapter 19, "The Grandest Canyon of Them All", pp. 233-240. [See pp. 542-543 on which is reproduced the 1990 painting by Mark Tansey, "Constructing the Grand Canyon", which is too reminiscent of the National Lampoon item by McLaughlin and Sussman (1975). —E.E.S.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gordon, Dan

- 3153 2009 A grand unifier. Temple Beth Torah News (Temple Beth Torah, Humble, Texas), (May) (Iyar/Sivan 5769): [3].
Trip to Grand Canyon.

Hayden, Mark

- 3154 2009 Ironman Brian Shwer. Jewish Scene (Cordova, Tennessee), 4(1) (September/October): 26.
Training for triathlon, notes a preparatory run in Grand Canyon, rim-to-rim-to-rim.

Hilberry, Jane

- 3155 2009 Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 15(3) (Fall): 10.

[Jacobson, Ora]

- 3156 NO DATE September feature: Grand Canyon artist residency. Arizona Gourds, (September [2009]): [unpaginated].
Unsigned but written in the first person. Several pages with numerous photos from the time when the author, a gourd carver, was the Artist-in-Residence on the North Rim. The serial is produced online by Jacobson on behalf of her business, Arizona Gourds. Issue not dated by year.

Jones, Jimmie; Smith, Jon M.; AND Aton, James M.

- 3157 2009 Jim Jones : recent paintings. Cedar City, Utah: Southern Utah University Press, 48 pp. + DVD. [DVD title: Jimmie Jones red rock painter. A documentary video by Jon M. Smith and James M. Aton.]

Karpinski, Henry

- 3158 2009 Light, river, rock, tree: Phantom Ranch's elemental music. American Bungalow, (63) (Fall): 70-81.

Kincy, Ray

- 3159 2009 TCA 55th National Convention. Central Texas Chapter Newsletter (Train Collector's Association, Central Texas Chapter), 1(7) (July/August): 6-7.
See p. 5: "TCA 55th National Convention[, ] Phoenix, AZ; photos by Pat Halpin". Text and photos include trip to Grand Canyon via Grand Canyon Railway.

Klett, Mark, AND Wolfe, Byron

- 3160 2009 Charting the Canyon : photographs by Mark Klett and Byron Wolfe : March 21 to July 12, 2009, Doris and John Norton Gallery for Creative Photography, Phoenix Art Museum. (Text by Rebecca Senf.) Phoenix: Phoenix Art Museum, [8] pp. [Wide-format exhibition brochure.]

Kourlimpini, Viky [Κουρλιμπινη, Βικυ] [Kurlimbin, Vicky]

- 3161 2009 Οδοιπορικό στις γωνιές του κόσμου; Ένα συναρπαστικό ταξίδι για τους περιπατητές του ονείρου μέσα από τα μάτια του συγγραφέα Βασίλη Καφούσια [Οδοιπορικό stis goniés tou κόσμου; ένα synarpastikó taxídi gia tous peripatités tou oneírou μέσα από ta mátia tou syngraféa Vasíli Kafoúsia] [Travel in the corners of the world; an exciting journey for dreamers through the eyes of author Vasilis Kafousia]. Οδοντιατρικό Βήμα (Μηνιαία Έκδοση) [Odontiatriko Vima (Miniaía Ékdosi)]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

[Dental Tribune (Monthly Version)] (Αθήνα [Athens]), (64) (November/December): 48, 50. [In Greek.]

See "Γκραν Κάνυον: η «τρομεή άβυσσος»" [Nkran Kányon: i «tromeí ávyssos»] [Grand Canyon: the "great abyss"] (p. 50).

Kuhn, Albert

- 3162 2009 Fotografen am Rande der dritten Dimension. Du (Zeitschrift der Kultur) (Zürich), 69(797): 32-41. [In German.]
(transl. 'Photographers on the edge of the third dimension')

Grand Canyon, see photograph, "Pomme Frites, 2006", p. 35 (legend, p. 34); text note, pp. 34, 40.

Långström, Danne

- 3163 2009 Viva Las Vegas vaiko Huitsin Nevada? Kuntateknikka (Helsinki), 2009(1): 35. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Viva Las Vegas or Huitsin Nevada?')

Grand Canyon noted, in passing. See accompanying translation, "På svenska" ('In Swedish'), with which there is a photo, "Grand Canyon & Colorado River, Arizona", a view from South Rim, and on which page a footer in Finnish refers to "Kuntateknikka 8/2008" that offers a different issue date, perhaps in error. ("Huisin Nevada" is a Finnish noun for a remote place; e.g., Timbuktu.)

Lemon, Jake

- 3164 2009 Grand Canyon pack trip. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (September/October): 2-3.
Day 1. Grand Canyon Village, Bright Angel Trail, Phantom Ranch. (Refer also to Lemon under 2008.)
- 3165 2009 Grand Canyon pack trip; continued. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (November/December): 9-10.
Day 5, April 19. North Rim to De Motte Campground. (Refer also to Lemon under 2008.)

Letz, Oliver, AND Letz, Edith

- 3166 2009 Fly Boy Fly Girl Rally 2009. Hangar-News (Marcair, Inc., Roanoke, Texas), 6(1) (August):.
Private-plane flight rally through the Southwest; includes Grand Canyon. Item signed at end, "Oliver, Edith, Gilbert"; but by-line is as cited here.

Lindeman, Helen R. Rowan Cabeen

- 3167 2009 I was born at the Grand Canyon. Griswold, Iowa: Helen R. Lindeman, 59 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Mills, Wayne, AND Mills, Todd

- 3168 2009 Wayne and Todd's excellent adventure. Ore-Cutts (Orcutt Mineral Society, Santa Maria, California), 45(6) (June): 3-5.
A driving "circumnavigation" of the Grand Canyon. Includes visits to North and South Rims.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Møller, Flemming, AND Steen, Erik

- 3169 2009 MC på Alaska Highway. Virago News (Virago MC Club Danmark), 16(4): 16-19. [Part 1.] [In Danish.]
Motorcycle trip. Includes note of Grand Canyon.

Morrison, Bob, AND Morrison, Mary

- 3170 2009 The Grand Canyon by helicopter. The Log (Erie Yacht Club, Erie, Pennsylvania), 7(2) (March/April): 20-21.
From Las Vegas, with a landing in western Grand Canyon.

Muller, Seth

- 3171 2009 The canyon canvas; how artists of today approach the ultimate grand subject. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (September): cover, 6, 12-17, 48.
Includes illustrations of artwork by Serena Supplee, Doug Miley, John Cogan, Elizabeth Black, and M. L. Coleman.

Narvydaitė, Margarita

- 3172 2009 Mylių Amerika; kelionių virusu užsikrėtę žinomi Lietuvos vyrai ir seni bičiuliai Martynas Tarkus ir Vytautas Radzevičius vasarą pasitiko už Atlanto. Tiesa Kiekvienam Sava [Tiesa Kiekvienam Sava] (London), 2009(14) (July 9-22) (21): 16-17. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Miles of America; Martynas Tarkus and Vytautas Radzevičius, famous Lithuanian men and old friends infected with the travel virus, met across the Atlantic in the summer')
Includes Grand Canyon.

Owen, Cecil

- 3173 2009 Buddy, can you spare an extra pair of shoes? In: Bizarre, Fascinating, and Wacky World War I and II Secrets [SECTION]. The People News of Bradley County (Cleveland, Tennessee), 12(2) (March): 19.
B-24 Army parachutists in Grand Canyon. From existing sources.

Picchio, Barbara

- 3174 2009 Vivere l'America; ricordo con entusiasmo ed emozione il mio ultimo viaggio negli Stati Uniti. Plus Magazine (Associazione Fabi Plus, Torino, Italy), (10) (March): 60-65. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'Living America; I remember my last trip to the United States with enthusiasm and emotion')
Includes Grand Canyon.

Pollock, Linda

- 3175 2009 1 car + 2 nurses = 3 week road trip. The Examiner (Pennsylvania Association of School Nurses and Practitioners), (Winter): 4, 7.
Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Proper, Lauren, AND Schwepker, Peter

- 3176 2009 Birth voyage. Arizona Highways, 85(10) (October): 32-37.
Novice campers and hikers at Grand Canyon.

Quayle, Amil D.

- 3177 2009 Grand Canyon and other selected poems. (Foreword by Brad Dimock.) Lincoln, Nebraska: Black Star Press, 112 pp. (Distributed by St. Anthony, Idaho: Black Star Press, Henry's Fork Division, St. Anthony, Idaho.)

Rollin, Catherine

- 3178 2009 The Grand Canyon : intermediate : Canyon Sunrise, Bright Angel Trail, The Canyon's Raging Rivers. [No place]: Alfred Music, 12 pp. [including wraps]. (Recital Suite Series.) [Score, "for performing piano students".]

Sadler, Christa

- 3179 2009 One woman's utopia; ranger Gale Burak and her Grand Canyon. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (March): 18-21.

Scott, John

- 3180 2009 Grand Canyon. In: Scott, John (ed.), Dawn of a new discovery : inspiring world poems. Also: Poetry of, for, and by children and youths : how-to guide for aspiring poets and students. Selected poems from William Blake, Walt Whitman, Robert Louis Stevenson, Christina Rossetti, Rabindranath Tagore, John Milton, Emily Dickinson, William Shakespeare, Sara Teasdale. Newark, New Jersey: Unique Art and Gifts, pp. 252-253.

See also illustration, p. 236 (credit, p. 360); and see notes, p. 352.

Senf, Rebecca A.

- 3181 2009 Charting the Canyon : photographs by Mark Klett and Byron Wolfe : March 21 to July 12, 2009 : Doris and John Norton Gallery for the Center for Creative Photography, Phoenix Art Museum. Tucson: Center for Creative Photography; and Phoenix: Phoenix Art Museum, [8] pp.

Exhibition brochure.

Skelton, Leslie

- 3182 2009 Emergence to migration. Amerind Quarterly (Amerind Foundation, Dragoon, Arizona), 6(3) (Summer): 3.

Hopi and Grand Canyon.

Skinner, Peter

- 3183 2009 Jon Ortner; canyon wilderness of the Southwest. Rangefinder, (April):.

Photographer Jon Ortner.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Sousa, David

- 3184 2009 Grand Canyon National Park, Ariz. In: Drop Zone [SECTION]. Battle Born (Nevada National Guard), (Summer): 6.
- 422nd Expeditionary Signal Battalion soldiers' extension ceremony at Grand Canyon South Rim. Photo and legend.

Temperidis, Akis [Τεμπεριδης, Ακης]

- 3185 2009 Οδός Αμερικής [Odós Amerikís]. [America's Street.] 4ΤΡΟΧΟΙ [4Trochoi] [4-Wheeler] (Greece), (407) (August): 138-144. [In Greek.]
- Route 66. Includes Grand Canyon

Timmerman, Wes

- 3186 2009 Rock art. Arizona Highways, 85(6) (June): 24-33.
- Photography in Grand Canyon.

Tucker, John

- 3187 2009 Grand preparations go into presidents landing at Grand Canyon Airport. TranSend (Arizona Department of Transportation), (September): 5-6.
- Regarding a vacation visit to Grand Canyon by President Barack Obama, August, 2009.

The Ukrainian Museum / Український Музей

- 3188 2009 Великодушний задум : Важливий дар творів Михайла Мороза [Velykodushnyy zadum : Vazhlyvyy dar tvoriv Mykhayla Moroz] / A generous vision : A major gift of works by Mychajlo Moroz. New York: The Ukrainian Museum / Нью-Йорк: Український Музей, folded brochure. [In Ukrainian and English.]
- See "Earth's Sculpture, Grand Canyon, 1965 oil on canvas, 25 x 30 in. (63.5 x 76.2 cm) / Земська різьба, Гренд кенйон, 1965 полотно, олія, 25 x 30 ін. (63.5 x 76.2 см) [Zems'ka riz'ba, Grend kenyon, 1965 polотно, oliya]".

Ward, Roger

- 3189 NO DATE Artists and models. In: Merritt, Ray (ed.), Shared space : the Joseph M. Cohen Collection. New York: Cygnet Foundation, and Bologna, Italy: Grafiche Damiani, pp. 86-105. (Volume distributed by Luminosity Lab, New York.) [2009-2010.]
- See p. 86, pastel "Study For a Closer Grand Canyon III", by David Hockney.

Wasserman, Paul, AND Merando, Sam

- 3190 2009 A look back at the 2009 National Convention . . . our "hosts with the most"—the TCA Desert Division Kids Club! Keeping Track (Train Collectors Association Kids Club, Strasburg, Pennsylvania), 6(3) (October): [unpaginated]. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
- Photos with legends. Includes Grand Canyon Railway and Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

xRez Studio

- 3191 2009 Crossing worlds. Santa Monica, California: xRez Studio, fulldome planetarium format film. (Soundtrack by Marconi Union, United Kingdom.)

The studio's website notes, "A visual tone poem designed for the emerging fulldome planetarium format, 'Crossing Worlds' utilizes spherical photography from the American desert west to immerse the viewer in a transcendent spectrum of austere landscapes." Includes Grand Canyon.

Zhong, Miao [钟杪]

- 3192 2009 [Letter.] In: 六年级马立平班 2009 暑假作业—写给老师的一封信 [liù niánjí mǎlípíng bān 2009 shǔjià zuòyè—xiě gěi lǎoshī de yī fēng xìn] [Ma Liping sixth grade classes 2009 summer jobs—a letter addressed to the teacher]. NCLS Journal (Newton Chinese Language School, Newton, Massachusetts), 2009(10) (October 3) : 8-11. [In Chinese.]

Includes note of Grand Canyon.

Zwan, Ellen van der

- 3193 2009 Go West! Fotostory. Bike en Trekking (Utrecht), 2009(1):. [In Dutch.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

2010

Anonymous

- 3194 2010 Team Reeve conquers the Grand Canyon. Reeve Report (Christopher and Dana Reeve Foundation), (Winter): 2.

Fourteen hikers, including three in wheelchairs, trek Bright Angel Trail (day hike).

- 3195 2010 Competition No[.] 5: February 1. Manhattan Focus (Manhattan Miniature Camera Club, New York), 49(5) (February): [1].

Exhibition by Vicki Dolce. Includes note of her "currently working on a travelogue presentation titled 'Grand Canyon Caverns—Rim to river' which covers Old Rte. 66 and Grand Canyon West", and brief remark of having taken "a helicopter down to Canyon West and rafted the river for 5 hours with a Hualapai Indian guide. It was an amazing experience!" (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 3196 2010 Gunnar Widforss (1879-1934[.]); painter of the national parks. In: Scandinavian Lecture Series [SECTION]. Nordic Spirit Newsletter (California Lutheran University, Scandinavian American Cultural and Historical Foundation/Scandinavian Center), 20(1) (Spring): [7].

Announcement of lecture by C. Allan Carlson.

- 3197 2010 Jim Jones: The final paintings. In: Art Museum Exhibits [SECTION]. Inside St. George (St. George, Utah), 5(2) (Spring): 12.

Jimmie Jones.

- 3198 2010 Winter Quarterly Meeting. Pocono Outdoor Club Quarterly (East Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania), 22(2) (Spring): 1.

Note of presentation at the Winter Quarterly Meeting, February 28: "John and Fran Whipple gave a slide presentation of their hike of the Grand Canyon last fall." (ENTIRE NOTE) Includes one photo.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

3199 2010 Oma and Opa's corner. Notes from Kingston (Kingston Maennerchor and Damenchor, Inc., Kingston, New York), (May): [6].

See "Robert Folkl", regarding bicycle ride from San Diego to New York, with a three-day stop at Grand Canyon.

3200 2010 Horská panoramata. Miroslav Caban—horolezec, cestovatel a fotograf. HSW info (HSW Signall, Praha), 2010(2) (June): cover, 12-15. [In Czech.]
(transl. 'Mountain panoramas. Miroslav Caban—climber, traveler and photographer.')

Regarding the panoramic photographs of Miroslav Caban. Includes photos of Havasu Falls and Horseshoe Bend.

3201 2010 Scandinavian Lecture Series; Arizona curator Alan Petersen focuses on Swedish artist. Nordic Spirit Newsletter (California Lutheran University, Scandinavian American Cultural and Historical Foundation/Scandinavian Center), 20(2) (Autumn): 5.

Gunnar Widforss.

3202 2010 Member profile. EFC News (Edinburgh Flying Club, Edinburgh, Scotland), (November/December): [1-12].

Angus Macdonald. See "Flying in US Western States February 2006", pp. [4]-[10], including Grand Canyon and vicinity.

3203 2010 Conquer the Canyon 2010. The Researcher (Cancer Research Institute, New York), 17(2) (December): 9.

Report on three-day fund-raising hike in Grand Canyon as part of a Conquer The Canyon® event.

3204 2010 Member presentation, January 20, 2011; Wings Field, Philadelphia Aviation Country Club. Pennsylvania Pilot (Aero Club of Pennsylvania, Blue Bell, Pennsylvania), 21(4) (Winter 2010/2011): 3.

Announcement of presentation by Nancy Kyle, "a video and slides of her helicopter flight into the Grand Canyon in 2010"; "champagne lunch" flight with Maverick Tours. (Grand Canyon West.)

Adams, Ansel

3205 2010 Ansel Adams in the national parks : photographs from America's wild places. New York: Little, Brown and Co., 344 pp.

Aiken, Bruce

3206 2010 Re-entry. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(4) (Winter 2010-2011): [Whale Foundation insert], [2] pp.

Adjusting to family life in and outside of Grand Canyon.

Asanger, Thomas

3207 NO DATE Grand Canyon. Roosendaal, Netherlands: Tierloff Musiekcentrale, 14 pp. (Tierloff for Band, 24.) [2010.] [Score.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Barnes, Jaime

- 3208 2010 New year, new beginnings: Balancing the roles of a new assistant professor, dual-career spouse, and new mom. Gaea (Association for Women Geoscientists, Thornton, Colorado), 33(1) (January/February): 11, 12-13.
- Includes photo (p. 1), "Jaime Barnes at the bottom of the Grand Canyon", location not indicated. No text mention of Grand Canyon.

Benford, Sally

- 3209 2010 The grand master. For more than a century, a who's who of talented artists have been making paintings of the Grand Canyon. Few, however, have achieved the notoriety of Thomas Moran. In: The Journal [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 86(8) (August): 10.

Berger, Todd R.

- 3210 2010 (ED.) 2010 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 34 pp.
- 2nd Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

Bersy, Éric

- 3211 2010 Roadtrip électrique. L'Écho (Syndicat Professionnel des Ingénieurs d'Hydro-Québec, Montréal), 46(6) (October/November): 31. [\[In French.\]](#)
(transl. 'Electrical roadtrip.')
- Item comprises three photographs with legends, from views taken during a trip in the western U.S. Includes: "Pylône du Grand Canyon, près de la Havasupai [sic]. Photo prise d'un hélicoptère." (transl. 'Grand Canyon pylon, near the Havasupai. Photo taken from a helicopter.'), which shows the Bat Cave tram tower positioned below the South Rim on the Hualapai reservation, doubly misidentified as an electrical transmission tower on the Havasupai Reservation.

Brown, Christopher

- 3212 2010 Path of beauty : photographic adventures in the Grand Canyon. New York: St. Martin's Press, 115 pp.

Brownold, Tom, AND Dimock, Brad

- 3213 2010 The grandest ride. Tucson: Rio Nuevo Publishers, 44 pp.
- Mule trip into Grand Canyon.

Bruner, Betsey

- 3214 2010 Defining the sky; artist and Arizona native Ed Mell creates with a sense of place. Flagstaff Live!, 16(28) (July 15-21): 1, 14-17.

Burger, Sheleph

- 3215 2010 Horseriding; World Equestrian Games 2010—Lexington, Kentucky, USA including Leesburg (West Virginia), Indianapolis (Indiana), Las Vegas (Nevada) and New York. From the Horse's Mouth (Uit die Perde se Bek) (Mooikloof Owners Association, Pretoria, South Africa), 2010(11) (November): 12.
- Includes remarks on a visit to Grand Canyon West. Article is in English; serial is in English and Afrikaans.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Burnett, Weston D.

- 3216 2010 Managing Partner [COLUMN]. The Compass Rose (Cohen and Burnett, P.C., Navigator Wealth Management, L.L.C., McLean, Virginia), 11 (Winter 2010/2011): 3, 4.

Includes brief remark (p. 3) of family hike in Grand Canyon, with photo (p. 4).

Butcher, Geoffrey

- 3217 2010 "Don't hold on to me". Contemplative Outreach of Middle Tennessee (St. Mary's Sewanee, Sewanee, Tennessee), (April): 1-2.

Includes anecdote about travel to Grand Canyon.

Cathcart-Rake, William

- 3218 2010 Sufficiently robust : fifty years of walking in Grand Canyon. New York and Bloomington, Indiana: iUniverse, Inc., 182 pp.

Churchill, Christopher

- 3219 2010 Christopher Churchill; American faith. Loupe (Boston University, Photographic Resource Center), 1(1) (October): 2-9.

Photographs. See "Visitors at Grand Canyon, AZ, 2007", pp. 4-5.

Cole, Ethel Moore

- 3220 2010 Brush with greatness. In: Letters to the Editor. Arizona Highways, 86(10) (October): 4.

Meetings with Gunnar Widforss during Cole's Grand Canyon childhood.

Collins, Gail G.

- 3221 2010 Capturing the light show; the landscape art of Cody DeLong. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (September): 30-32.

Counter, Barbara Cort

- 3222 2010 Describing the indescribable. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(2) (Summer): 13.

Crawford, Roy

- 3223 2010 Grand Canyon trip. Highland Sojourner (Pine Mountain Trail Conference, Whitesburg, Kentucky), 12(1) (Winter): [3]-[4].

Davidson, M. K.

- 3224 2010 Year 10 geography trip to the USA. The Alleynian (Dulwich College, London), (696) (Lent/Summer): 33-34.

Includes visit to the Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.

[Davies, James]

- 3225 2010 Afraid of heights? The Eagle (Davies Eye Center, Carlsbad, California), 3(9) (October): 1, 3.

Hike in Havasu Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Deck, Jeff, AND Herson, Benjamin D.

- 3226 2010 The great typo hunt : two friends changing the world, one correction at a time. New York: Crown Publishers, 269 [271] pp.

See Chapter 10, "Over the Edge", pp. 103-112; Chapter 17, "The Welcome-Back Committee", pp. 207-217; and Chapter 18, "Court of Opinion", pp. 218-232. Grand Canyon events pertain to the writers' physical correction of historic signage in the Watchtower at Desert View, for which they were arrested and found guilty in court.

Dodder, Steve

- 3227 2010 Grand Canyon Star Party 2010—North Rim. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 34(6) (July): 1, 3, 10, 12.

Duffield, Caroline

- 3228 2010 On the road again—Part 2. CABO Newsletter (Capital Area Beading Organization, Raleigh, North Carolina), (62) (March): 7-10.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Edel [firm]

- 3229 2010 Mythos Grand Canyon : eine geologische Zeitreise. [Hamburg]: Edel. DVD. 50:00. (Copyright 2007 Pioneer Film and TV Productions Limited.) (P. M. Welt des Wissens, Natur und Umwelt, 2.) [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon myth: a geological journey through time')

The film follows geologists led by Karl Karlstrom, who are establishing the ages of Grand Canyon strata.

Effinger, Christy

- 3230 2010 Upon visiting the Grand Canyon. EarthSpeak Magazine, (4) (Summer): 1-2.

Eklund, Gloria

- 3231 2010 VIG spring trip (April 2010); Grand Canyon National Park. Gatherings Volunteer Newsletter (Desert Botanical Garden, Phoenix), (Summer): 4.

Volunteers In the Garden. Trip report.

Ellegaard, Kurt

- 3232 2010 Route 66. VMK Nyt (Vestjysk Motorveteran Klub, Denmark), 33(285) (June): 20-21. [In Danish.]

Includes visit to Grand Canyon.

Elliott, Roger, AND Fischer, Pat

- 3233 2010 VTR 2009: The trip from Stilwell[,] Kansas to San Luis Obispo, CA. Kansas City Triumphs Sports Car Club, 32(2) (March 5): [6]-[26].

Grand Canyon South Rim, pp. [23]-[24].

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Elwell, Martin

- 3234 2010 My sister's poems. Evening Street Review, (2) (Spring): 65-71. [See "Buttered Popcorn", p. 76, about "Brady Bunch" television actors in Grand Canyon episode.] [Refer to Paramount Television and Redwood Productions (1971).]

Fallowfield, David

- 3235 2010 William Workman Chapter report; Annual Conference 2010. Spanish Traces (Old Spanish Trail Association, Colorado), 16(2) (Summer): 11-12.

Includes remarks on a visit to Toroweap Point following the Annual Conference in Fredonia, Arizona. William Workman Chapter, Cumbria, England.

Fillmore, Gary

- 3236 2010 Canyon magic : Grand Canyon paintings from the Picerne Collection of Arizona Landmark Art. Kolb Studio, Grand Canyon Village, Arizona, April 7th to June 21st, 2010 : sponsored by The Grand Canyon Association [and] Arizona Centennial Landmark Art Collection : exhibit organized and catalog published by The Blue Coyote Gallery. Cave Creek, Arizona: Blue Coyote Gallery, 77 pp. [Also a "2nd Edition", no date (an on-demand publication; a 2nd printing?).]

Frencken, Jean-Paul; Tas, Lianne; Schmeitz, Marco; Kitslaar, Koen; Loo, Theo van de; Meulen, Ronald van der; Dijk, Menno van; Saric, Ivan; Venne, Lore van de; Boel, Harm; Heugten, Roy van; Datema, Mattijs; Chakiri, Hamza; Schoenmakers, Steven; Lieven, Robbert; Stellingwerff, Douwe; Donkers, Tim; Hendricks, Jeroen; Jovic, Marko; AND Pluijmen, Roel

- 3237 2010 Studiereis Verenigde Staten; dagverslagen. KOersief (KOers, Technische Universiteit Eindhoven, Sectievereniging Structural Design), (82) (October): 19-23. [In Dutch.]
(transl. United States study trip; daily reports.)

KOers engineering student organization's trip to southwestern U.S. Includes Grand Canyon West.

Gargulinski, Ryn

- 3238 2010 Death in the Grand Canyon. The Wormwood Press, (3) (October/November): 13.

Garrison, Gene K.

- 3239 2010 Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter, architect. Roundup Magazine, (December): 7-11.

Gibaud, Jean Michel

- 3240 2010 Forte délégation du District France Monaco pour un déplacement inoubliable! Las Vegas 2010. Kiwanis Magazine District France-Monaco (Pont-Sainte-Marie, France), (117) (August): 2-3. [In French.]
(transl. 'Strong delegation from the District France Monaco for an unforgettable trip!')

Includes brief note of visit to Grand Canyon.

Grant, Jean

- 3241 2010 The Grand Canyon: Beyond the South Rim. Mature Living, (October): 22-25.

Includes several photographs of South Rim locales, plus Navajo Bridge, a Colorado River rafting scene, falls on the Havasupai Indian Reservation, and the Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Guldberg, Jørn

- 3242 _____ From Salten Langsø to Grand Canyon; popularization of the sublime in Harold Foss and Thomas Moran, 1870-1900. Statens Museum for Kunst Journal (Kunstmuseets Arsskrift, New Series) (København), _____. [2010?] [Cited from an incomplete copy.]

Gutiérrez, F. R.

- 3243 2010 The Grand Canyon tour..... CIAG Newsletter (Central Luzon State University, International Alumni Group), (October): 3. [Ellipsis is part of title, thus.]

Brief trip report, appended to Gutiérrez's "CLSU International Alumni Group 2nd Grand Reunion in Las Vegas—Highlights" (pp. 1-3), with photos by Bart Cinense and Ohma Viray.

Harada, Marvin

- 3244 2010 Reflections on the Grand Canyon. Korin (Orange County Buddhist Church, Anaheim, California), (November): [unpaginated]. [Also reprinted; see Harada (2011, 2017).]

Harman, Arlie

- 3245 2010 Skywalking above the Grand Canyon. The Wesley Window (Wesley Commons, Greenwood, South Carolina), (November 22): [1].

Arlie and Barbara Harman on the Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.

Harrison, Joe

- 3246 2010 The preacher, the undertaker and the merchant vs. the Grand Canyon. From the Hawk's Perch (Gateway Church of the Nazarene, Murietta, California), 10(4) (July/August): 2, 7.

Hernandez, Joseph

- 3247 2010 Summertime fun in America! Step World Times (財団法人日本ラーニング・ラボラトリー教育センター [zaidanhōjin Nihon rāningu raboratorī kyōiku sentā] [Japan Learning Laboratory Education Center, Tokyo]), (56) (August): [1]. [In English, with parallel texts in Japanese appended as "pinned notes". Serial title in English.]

Serial for younger readers. Includes "夏休み中のアクティビィはもりたくさん!" [Natsuyasumi-chū no akutipyi wa mo Rida kusan!] [Activities during summer vacation are also plentiful!], which briefly notes the author's visit to Grand Canyon (with photo). The author is the Chief Foreign Lecturer for the Japan Learning Laboratory Education Center.

Hunich, Ken

- 3248 2010 Ken at the Grand Canyon. ARSCE News (Association of Retired Seattle City Employees, Seattle, Washington), 38(2) (September/October): 4.

Kaminsky, Laura

- 3249 2010 The Great Unconformity : for solo cello. [No imprint], 3 pp. ("Commissioned by Rhonda Rider, 2010-2011 artist-in-residence at the Grand Canyon".) [Score.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Koinuma, Nory [肥沼則明 (こいぬまのりあき)]

- 3250 2010 <息子と2人で行った> アメリカ西部アドベンチャードライブ旅行の記録(その4) 10-Day Adventure Driving Tour in the U.S.A. (第4回) カジノの街と巨大な岩と谷の渓谷 [ <musuko to 2-ri de okonatta> Amerika seibu adobenchādoraibu ryokō no kiroku (sono 4) 10-Day Adventure Driving Tour in the U.S.A. (dai 4-kai) kajino no machi to kyodaina iwa to tani no keikoku] ["I went with my son"; a record of a Western American adventure drive (Part 4). (4th) Casino town and huge rocks and valleys]. The Tsukuba English Times (筑波大, 学附属中学校 [University of Tsukuba, Affiliated Junior High School, Tsukuba, Japan]), (262) (8 September) (第2学年英語科発行, 号外④ [dai 2 gakunen eigo-ka hakkō, Gōgai ④] [Second Grade English Communication, Extra No. 4]): 9-12.] [In Japanese, with bilingual item title and serial title in English, thus.]

The fourth of seven installments. This installment includes Hoover Dam, Zion, North Rim of Grand Canyon, and Page, Arizona. See also photo of Koinuma and his son at the Grand Canyon North Rim entrance sign, in the first installment, (259) (September 2) (号外① 第1回) 計画立案から出発まで [Gōgai ①, (dai 1-kai) keikaku ritsuan kara shuppatsu made] [Extra No. 1, (1st) From planning to departure], p. 1. See also his son's poster presentation displaying a map of their driving tour through the Southwest, illustrated with photos, in the seventh installment, (265) (September 16), 号外⑦, (第7回: 最終回) 旅のデータとこぼれ話 [Gōgai ⑦, (dai 7-kai: Saishūkai) tabi no dēta to koborebanashi] [Extra No. 7, (7th: Final) Travel data and summary], p. 17. (Author's name appears in publications only in English. Name in Japanese orthography shown here is as presented on his website.)

Kompar, Dario, AND Kompar, Gordana Zwicker

- 3251 2010 Na dnu Velikog kanjona. Hrvatski Planinar (Hrvatskog Planinarskog Saveza, Časopi) (Zagreb, Croatia), 102(6) (June): 202-205. [In Croatian.]
(transl. 'At the bottom of the Grand Canyon')

Hike into Grand Canyon; down South Kaibab Trail, up Bright Angel Trail.

Kramer, Evan

- 3252 2010 The "real" vacation begins. Port Orford Today! (Port Orford, Oregon), (October 13): 1-3; (October 20): 11-12; (October 27): 14-15, 18; (November 3): 1-3.

Continuations have different titles, but see only October 27: "America's Lonliest Road", which includes a visit to Grand Canyon North Rim.

Lago, Don

- 3253 2010 Neil Armstrong assists GCHS. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 14(2) (March): 2. Armstrong shares memories of geology training at Grand Canyon (as part of Lago's research).

- 3254 2010 Storm Pattern. Alaska Quarterly Review, 27(3/4) (Fall/Winter): [1]-[42]. (Special Feature.)

"While on a 1920s visit to the Grand Canyon to select the site for the world's greatest observatory, astronomer Edwin Hubble encounters the Navajo creation myth. In this extended essay, Don Lago weaves Hubble's exploration for the best vantage point from which to view the universe with the emblematic story revealed in the Navajo Storm Pattern rug design." Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lankford, Andrea

- 3255 2010 Ranger confidential : living, working, and dying in the national parks. Guilford, Connecticut: FalconGuides, 245 [246] pp.

Lavoie, Johanne

- 3256 2010 Chronique voyage; scintillante Las Vegas, bien plus que des casinos! [sic] Action Beauce (Saint-Georges, Québec), 2(4) (October): 49. [In French.]
(transl. 'Travel chronicle; sparkling Las Vegas, much more than casinos!')

Includes brief note of Grand Canyon Skywalk.

Law, Suzy Hockmeyer

- 3257 2010 Reunion memories. The Presbyter (First Presbyterian Church, Sapulpa, Oklahoma), 51(11) (November): 2.

Includes note of cross-country trip on a motorcycle with sidecar. "Our favorite destination was the Grand Canyon, although it was a little bumpy, going down in the side car!" (ENTIRE NOTE) (Probably Diamond Creek.)

Léderrey, Pierre

- 3258 2010 A la poursuite du rêve américain. Las Vegas, la Route 66, le Grand Canyon, Monument Valley ou Canyonlands: autant d'endroits magiques qui alimentent l'éternelle fascination pour les Etats-Unis. "Migros Magazine" a pris le guidon d'une Harley-Davidson pour deux mille kilomètres de légende. Migros Magazine (Zurich), (47) (November 22): 100-102. ("Photos LDD".) [In French.]
(transl. 'In pursuit of the American dream. Las Vegas, Route 66, the Grand Canyon, Monument Valley or Canyonlands: so many magical places that fuel the eternal fascination for the United States. "Migros Magazine" took to the handlebars of a Harley-Davidson for two thousand legendary kilometres.')

Lemon, Jake

- 3259 2010 Grand Canyon pack trip—continued; week 2, day 5, Monday, 4/19/2004. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (May/June): 4.

North Rim to De Motte Campground. This repeats the text of the November/December 2009 issue. (Refer also to Lemon under 2008 and 2009.)

- 3260 2010 Grand Canyon pack trip—continued. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (July/August): 6-8.

Week 2, days 6-7, April 20-21, 2004. De Motte Campground to Jacob Lake. (Refer also to Lemon under 2008 and 2009.)

- 3261 2010 Grand Canyon pack trip—continued. Squaw Butte Back Country Horsemen (Emmett, Idaho), (September/October): 6-8.

Week 2, days 8-9, April 22-23, 2004. Jacob Lake through Orderville Canyon to a point 14 miles from Stateline Campground. (Refer also to Lemon under 2008 and 2009.)

Lindahl, Larry

- 3262 2010 Just another day at the office. Arizona Highways, 86(5) (May): 44-47.

Sally Underwood, Grand Canyon Field Institute.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mainone, Robert

- 3263 2010 Canyon Grande. Frogpond (Haiku Society of America, Journal) (Nassau, New York), 33(3) (Fall): 38.

Milan, Kristl

- 3264 2010 Milan Kristl : Badura. Ljubljana, Slovenia: 3VIA Records/Zapisi (Trivia Art Association). ("Produkcija/Produced in 2004 by Milan Kristl and Boštjan Leskovšek ROR".) [In Slovenian. Insert in Slovenian and English.]

Instrumental. Listen to "Mama Kikla v Grand Kanjonu" (transl. 'Mother Hen in Grand Canyon'), a collaboration with Borut Kržišnik (35:56).

Miller, Rose

- 3265 2010 Mules, mules and more mules : the adventures and misadventures of a first time mule owner. [No place]: BookLocker.com, Inc., 272 pp.

The first three chapters, pp. 3-40, pertain to the author's mule ride in Grand Canyon.

Muller, Seth

- 3266 2010 Essence of the moment; the watercolor work of Robert Dalegowski. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (August): 36-38.

- 3267 2010 Into the great expanse; artist Steve Bledsoe captures stunning people and landscapes. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (November): 32-34.

Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, Staff

- 3268 2010 Wild for Widforss. In: On the Town [SECTION]. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (February): 10.

Exhibition of Gunnar Widforss art at Museum of Northern Arizona.

Ohlsson, Hans-Olof, AND Thörn, Bertil

- 3269 2010 Grand Canyon. In: Thörn, Bertil (compiler), Föredrag presenterade under Indianklubbens medlemsresa till Sydvästern år 2008 : Helsingborg 15 november 2010. [No place]: Indianklubben i Sverige, pp. 60-64. [Volume: "Första reviderade utgåvan" (first revised edition).] [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Lecture presented from the Indian Club's membership trip to the Southwest in 2008: Helsingborg, 15 November 2010')

Øster, Jakob

- 3270 2010 USA—tværs over håbets og drømmenes land. Globen (De Berejstes Klub, København), (40) (June): 40-44. [In Danish.]

(transl. 'USA—Across the land of hopes and dreams')

Cross-country tour includes Grand Canyon.

Parker, Patty

- 3271 2010 Southwestern serenade. Comstock Records, Ltd. CD.

Includes "Song of the Grand Canyon".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Peper, Sanne

- 3272 2010 ~~Black Noise~~ [A Trinity Trilogy] : Sanne Peper : 25.09-06.11.2010 : Corrosia! Expo. [Almere Haven, Almere, The Netherlands]: [Corrosia Theater, Expo & Film], 12 pp. [Title typography thus.]
- Photo-exhibition guide. See p. 4, "Painted Desert, AZ/Grand Canyon, AZ [+keywords]"; p. 11, "Grand Canyon. AZ 2007 c- print op dibond epoxy layer 120×180 cm". (Use of square brackets in photo legend thus.)

Petrovčič, Mojca M.

- 3273 2010 Trekking po Grand CANYONU, enem od sedmih čudes sveta. Glasilo Skupine Tehnik (Skupina Tehnik, Škofja Loka, Slovenia), 2010(7/8) (July): 54-57. [In Slovenian.]
(transl. 'Trekking through Grand CANYON, one of the seven wonders of the world')

Ramesh Kumar Chamala

- 3274 2010 Heaven is 21-miles long and 6000 ft. deep; rim-to-rim Grand Canyon hike. Public Relations Voice (CVN Public Relations Foundation, Hyderabad, Andhra Pradesh, India), 14(3/4) (44) (April/December): 24-25.

Raoult, Yves

- 3275 2010 L'Amérique—l'Amérique, je veux la voir . . . ARANO Bulletin (Association des Retraités de l'Apave Nord Ouest, Mont Saint Aignan, Québec), (53) (September/October): 7-23. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [In French.]
(transl. 'America—America, I want to see her . . .')

"Reportage d'un voyage aux U.S. réalisé en mai 2009 par Yves Raoult (accompagné de sa femme et d'un groupe d'amis)". (transl. 'Report of a trip to the U.S. made in May 2009 by Yves Raoult (accompanied by his wife and a group of friends)')

Rappaport, Susanne

- 3276 2010 The Curator's Notebook [COLUMN]. Bley House News (Dorset Historical Society, Dorset, Vermont), (Spring): [2].

Includes notes on a forthcoming exhibit of the artwork of Dean Fausett, the society having "just acquired five large sepia drawings . . . of the well-known Powell expedition into the Grand Canyon in 1869." Illustrates one drawing, "The party of three who separated find an Indian encampment", which portrays Dunn and the Howland brothers climbing a cliff, atop which is a party of Indians.

Riney, Trish

- 3277 2010 Seventy-four years, five days, thirty-five hundred miles. The Biking Life Magazine (Troy, Illinois), (June): 10.

Harold Corse, 74, and nephew Danny Heberlie, 32, ride a long trip, begun because "Danny wanted to see the Grand Canyon."

Rubel, Sandy

- 3278 2010 Route 66/Grand Canyon tour. Corvette Club Santa Barbara (Santa Barbara, California), 4(9) (September): 1, 8-9.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rufiange, François

- 3279 2010 From the President [COLUMN]. Moneta (Ottawa Coin Club, Ottawa, Ontario), 1(8) (September): 191.
Begins with brief remarks of a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

Sadler, Christa

- 3280 2010 Water, rock and sky; hiking Grand Canyon's Tapeats Creek to Deer Creek loop. Inside/Outside, 13(6) (June): 13-15.

Schanz, Marc V.

- 3281 2010 Air sovereignty never sleeps; Adm. James Winnefeld, the new NORAD and NORTHCOM boss, closely monitors what's needed to defend North America. Air Force Magazine, (December): 54-56.
Article capped, p. 54, by illustration, "Two National Guard F-16s power over the Grand Canyon during an Operation Noble Eagle sortie." No text mention.

Schotanus, Jan

- 3282 2010 Fûgelfrij yn de canyon. [Easterwierrum, The Netherlands]: [imprint?], 2 CDs.
(transl. 'Bird-free in the canyon')
Musical lyrics, based on the fiction young-reader title in Frisian by Schotanus, Fûgelfrij yn de canyon (Afûk, Ljouwert [Leeuwarden, The Netherlands], 2010), whose subjects are involved in protests against helicopter flights in Grand Canyon.

Sexton, Brian

- 3283 2010 Grand Canyon. Rim to rim. Solvikingen (Skatås Motionscentral, Göteborg), 48(2): 6. [In Swedish.]

Singh, Gary [AND Spiazzi, Renata]

- 3284 2010 Alive and digital. In: About the Cover [COLUMN] IEEE Computer Graphics and Applications (IEEE Computer Society, Los Alamitos, California), (May/June): cover, 2, 4-5.
Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers. Regarding the cover illustration, "Dry Tree", by Renata Spiazzi, which "originated with a photograph of a juniper near the Grand Canyon." Includes quote from Spiazzi explaining how the digitization was carried out.

Snyder, L. T., AND Searle, Dave

- 3285 2010 Japanese sport-touring shootout. Motorcycle Consumer News, (August): 12-23.
Road test of Honda VFR1200F, Yamaha FJR1300, and Kawasaki Concours 14. Includes South Rim of Grand Canyon (with photographs). Article is chiefly evaluations of and specifications for the motorcycles.

Southan, Jenny

- 3286 2010 Grand Tour; a road trip to the awesome Grand Canyon. Business Traveller (English Edition), (February): 76-77.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Stachelscheid, Joachim

- 3287 2010 Mit der Cessna durch den Westen der USA : ein spannender Reisebericht. [Norderstedt]: Books on Demand, GmbH, 72 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'With a Cessna through the western U.S.: a thrilling travelogue')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Steever, Gavin

- 3288 2010 One small step at a time. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 16(3) (Fall): 8.
11-year-old author.

Stockert, Drake

- 3289 2010 The joys of the obscure marathon XIV. On the Road (Illinois Valley Striders, Peoria), (March): [unpaginated].

Includes note of visit to Grand Canyon.

Temperidis, Akis [Τεμπεριδής, Άκης]

- 3290 2010 Route 66; ανακαλύπτουμε την πιο νοσταλγική πλευρά της Αμερικής μέσα από την πιο «αρχαία» της εθνική. 4.500 χλμ. από το Λος Άντζελες στο Σικάγο, με άλλα λόγια . . . Route 66 [Route 66; ανακαλύπτουμε την πιο nostalgική πλευρά τις Αμερικής μέσα από την πιο «archaia» tis ethnikí. 4.500 χιλμ. από το Los Ántzeles sto Sikágo, με άλλα λόγια . . . Route 66] [Route 66; we discover the most nostalgic side of America through its more "ancient" ethnic. 4,500 km from Los Angeles to Chicago, in other words . . . Route 66]. 4ΤΡΟΧΟΙ [4Trochoi] [4-Wheeler] (Greece), (3) (February): 92-97. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [In Greek, with item title in Greek and Roman orthography, thus]

Includes Grand Canyon. For English version, see Temperidis (2010, below).

- 3291 2010 Mother Road. We discover the nostalgic side of America crossing its most "ancient" road all the way from Los Angeles to Chicago. Let's get our kicks on Route 66. (Photos by Vula Netu and Akis Temperidis.) Overlander (Australia), (May): 44-54.

Includes Grand Canyon. For original version in Greek, see Temperidis (2010, above).

Weigand, John D., AND Dyan, Penelope

- 3292 2010 One big hole in the ground : a kid's guide to Grand Canyon, USA. Jamul, California: Bellissima Publishing, LLC, [49] pp. (Photography by John D. Weigand. Poetry by Penelope Dyan.)

Text entirely in verse. Young-reader title.

Wilson, Robert L.

- 3293 2010 Marble Canyon days. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(2) (Summer): 20-25.

Recollections of dam survey work.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wyrick, Traci

- 3294 2010 Park Naturalist Louis Schellbach's log books. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 21(1) (Winter): 4-7.
First of an intermittent series, selected and transcribed by Schellbach's granddaughter. March 15, 1941-September 16, 1943. See also "Additions/Corrections" in 25(1) (Winter 2014): 5. [See also update, 28(1) (Winter 2017): 5.]
- 3295 2010 Lewis [sic] Schellbach's log books: Part II. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 21(3) (Summer): 3-4.
Louis Schellbach. October 7-27, 1943. See also correction, 21(4) (Fall): 2. See also errata, 27(4) (Fall 2016): 7.

2011

Anonymous

- 3296 2011 Merrill Mahaffey show. Dudley-Jones Gallery. In: Art Events [Scottsdale]. Southwest Art, 40(10) (March): 16.
Includes illustration of "River Architecture", p. 16.
- 3297 2011 10 bears roam the canyon. Baylor University, Student Life Newsletter (Waco, Texas), (March): 3.
Baylor students' five-day hike in Grand Canyon.
- 3298 2011 2012 mission trip; Holbrook Indian School, Arizona. KC Contact (Kingsway College Alumni, Oshawa, Ontario), (March): 3.
Author, identified only as "Lain", is a Grade 12 student. Notes the group's visit to Grand Canyon.
- 3299 2011 Landscape paintings of the West to feature Richard Tashjian. The Armenian Mirror-Spectator (Baikar Association, Watertown, Massachusetts), 81(39) (4183) (April 9): 16.
Includes color illustration of Tashjian's "A Trail Along The Grand Canyon".
- 3300 2011 Playing for us in May . . . San Francisco Accordion Club Newsletter, (May): [1]-[2]. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
Includes accordionist Don Savant. See photo, p. [1], "Don Savant playing music with others at Red Wall Cavern, Grand Canyon" (in Grand Canyon but apparently not at Redwall Cavern). Brief biographical note, p. [2], includes, "He . . . has played venues including the Fioli ballroom, and Red Wall Cavern at mile 33 on a fifteen-day raft trip through the Grand Canyon . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 3301 2011 Red river; a jaunt to the Grand Canyon. "I can see why badly prepared people die in here." Army Mountaineer (Army Mountaineering Association, Northampton, United Kingdom), (Summer): 18-19.
Loop hike, New Hance Trail to South Kaibab Trail.
- 3302 2011 Special trips. Grandparents as Parents (Canoga Park, California), (Summer): 3.
Brief report of a week-long trip, including Grand Canyon (South Rim).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3303 2011 Perspectives Vanier est rendu où? Where in the world is Perspectives Vanier? Perspectives Vanier (Vanier Community Association, Ottawa, Ontario), 8(8) (August): 7. [In French and English.]

Léo Lavergne, Claudette Trottier, and Orville Potvin pose on the Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation, holding a copy of Perspectives Vanier.

- 3304 2011 Dreams take flight. Take Off (Singapore Youth Flying Club, Singapore), (August): 13.

Yves Rossy ("Jetman"); "his first successful flight in the U.S. with his momentous flight through Grand Canyon West".

- 3305 2011 The Grand Canyon—Dave Arndt. The Weekly Bulletin (Rotary Club, Janesville, Wisconsin), (August 1): [1].

Summary of lecture.

- 3306 2011 Verpalin am Grand Canyon. Verpalin Report (Verpa Folie Weidhausen GmbH, Weidhausen, Germany), (97) (November): [1]. [In German.]

Man wears a Verpalin T-shirt at Grand Canyon.

- 3307 2011 Elders enjoy a "Grand" Canyon trip. Bois Forte News (Bois Forte Band of Chippewa, Nett Lake, Minnesota), 34 (November/December): 1, 12-14. [Issue marked in error as 34(8).]

- 3308 2011 «Корчма» в Америке часть III. Корчма Тарас Бульба; Miami-Washington-New York-Chicago-Las Vegas-San Francisco-Los Angeles-Houston-Miami; Rally USA 2011. Руководитель проекта «Корчма Тарас Бульба» Юрий Белойван вместе с сотрудниками завершили увлекательное путешествие по Соединенным Штатам по маршруту, описанному в книге И. Ильфа и Е. Петрова «Одноэтажная Америка». «Бульба NEWS» предлагает читателям ознакомиться с впечатлениями путешественников, проехавших по маршруту Колорадо–Гранд-Каньон–Лас-Вегас–Сан-Франциско–Лос-Анжелес–Хьюстон–Новый Орлеан–Майями. [«Korchma» v Amerike chast' III. Rukovoditel' proyekta «Korchma Taras Bul'ba» Yuriy Belayvan vmeste s sotrudnikami zavershili uvlekatel'noye puteshestviye po Soyedinennym Shtatam po marshrutu, opisannomu v knige I. Il'fa i Ye. Petrova «Oдноetazhnaya Amerika». «Bul'ba NEWS» predlagayet chitatelyam oznakomit'sya s vpechatleniyami puteshestvennikov, proekhavshikh po marshrutu Kolorado–Grand-Kan'on–Las-Vegas–San-Frantsisko–Los-Anzheles–Kh'yuston–Novyy Orlean–Mayyami.] [The Tavern in America Part III. ••• Yuri Beloivan, project manager of the "Korchma Taras Bulba" project, together with the staff, completed a fascinating journey through the United States along the route described in the book 'One-Storyed America' by I. Ilf and E. Petrov. Bulba NEWS offers readers the experience of travelers along the Colorado–Grand Canyon–Las Vegas–San Francisco–Los Angeles–Houston–New Orleans–Miami route.] Бульба NEWS (Тарас Бульба) [Bul'ba NEWS (Taras Bul'ba)] (Moscow), 2011(12)(99) (December): 12-14. [In Russian, with item title in mixed Russian and English, thus, and serial title in Cyrillic and Roman orthography, thus.]

See p. 12, "Гранд-Каньон, День 24" [Grand-Kan'on, Den' 24] [Grand Canyon, Day 24.] Regarding the book by Ilf and Petrov, see listings under Il'f and Petrov; first ed. 1937.

- 3309 2011 Wenn einer eine Reise tut.... Die Weiche (Stammtisch Untereschbach e.V.) (Stammtisch Untereschbach Z-Club, Overath, Germany), 2011(4) (December): 37-49. Item is written in the first person but is not signed.] [Ellipsis is part of title, thus.] [In German.]

(transl. 'When somebody makes a journey...')

A rail enthusiast's trip across Route 66. Includes Grand Canyon.

- 3310 2011 The Grand Canyon—as you've NEVER seen it before; awesome photos of the Grand Canyon [concluding with] Et le lever de soleil au Grand Canyon??? Le Canard épilé de l'Amicale Epatente des Joyeux-Jeunes Retraités (Liaison de l'Amicale Epatente des Joyeux-Jeunes Retraités, SaiGon-

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

sur-Seine, France), (40) (December 24) (ngày Quý Sửu tháng Canh Tý năm Tân Mão (30 tháng Một Âm Lịch)): 70-77.

Photos with legends. Legends in English; with item title in English (p. 70) and French (p. 77), thus; and issue date information also in Vietnamese, thus.

- 3311 2011 グランドキャニオン 七日間の旅; ~偉大なる創造の記録~日本CGNTV開局4周年記念ドキュメンタリー「創造の中へ」 [Gurandokyanion nana-kakan no tabi; ~ idainaru sōzō no kiroku ~ Nihon CGNTV kaikyoku 4 shūnenkinen dokyumentarī 'sōzō no naka e'] [Grand Canyon 7-day trip; Record of Great Creation—Japan CGNTV 4th Anniversary Documentary “Into Creation”]. CGN Journal (Christian Global Network Television, Tokyo), 2: 2-3 [page 2 is inside front cover]. [Cover includes “CGN ジャーナル創刊号” [First issue of CGN Journal], but spine notes “CGN ジャーナル Vol. 2”; cover notes only “Vol.2”.] [In Japanese, with serial title in Roman orthography, thus.]

“昨年秋、創造論を推進すべく数多く「日韓ラブクリエーションセミナー」を開催してきたラブクリエーションジャパンが、創造科学探査旅行というプログラムを日本で初めて実施した。机上の学びに留まらず、実際に神の偉大なる自然界の産物を見て体験することで、聖書の世界をより深く知ろうと全国から47人がグランドキャニオンへと旅立った。” (transl. ‘Last fall, Love Creation Japan, which has held many “Japan-Korea Love Creation Seminars” to promote creationism, implemented a program called Creation Science Exploration Trip for the first time in Japan. Forty-seven people from all over the country set out for the Grand Canyon to learn more about the world of the Bible by actually seeing and experiencing the products of God's great natural world, not just learning at a desk.’)

Abbey, Edward

- 3312 2011 Havasu. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 31-38.

From Desert Solitaire (Abbey, 1968).

Albano, Bob

- 3313 2011 Project captures history running over state highways. In: Back Roads, The ADOT History Series. TranSend (Arizona Department of Transportation), (April/May): 3-4.

See p. 4, photo, “. . . the first driver to reach the Grand Canyon in a motor vehicle inches along a deeply rutted dirt road.”

Anderson, Quill

- 3314 2011 There and back again. MIA News (Miyakonojo International Association, Miyakonojo, Miyazaki, Japan), (52) (August): [1-4].

Grand Canyon, p. [4].

Austin, Brent

- 3315 2011 2010 Grand Canyon adventure: Our Hillbilly heaven. Bowlines (Bluegrass Wildwater Association, Lexington, Kentucky), (January/February): [1], [3]-[15].

Bass, William Wallace

- 3316 2011 Adventures in the canyons of the Colorado by two of its earliest explorers, James White and W. W. Hawkins, with introduction and notes by William Wallace Bass, the Grand Canyon guide. (Foreword by George Wharton James.) Lexington, Kentucky: Dunda Books, 43 pp. [Cover title: Dunda Books

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Classic. Adventures in the Canyons of the Colorado. William Wallace Bass. [An on-demand publication.]

Reprinting of Bass (1920). Text reset, with illustrations; original title-page reset, p. 2. Bass, pp. 7-14, 16, 34-35, 39-43; Hawkins, pp. 15, 17-33 (including facsimiles of original journal pages); White, pp. 36-39 (including facsimile of original letter); James, pp. 3-6.]

Berger, Todd R.

- 3317 2011 (ED.) 2011 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association. 3rd Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

Berger, Todd R., AND Deuschle, Carolyn

- 3318 2011 (COMPILERS) Grand Canyon reflections. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 44 pp.

Betz, Eric

- 3319 2011 In the ultimate grandeur; artist Bruce Aiken celebrated in new exhibit. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (August): 26-28.

Billingsley, George, AND Steiger, Lew

- 3320 2011 George Billingsley. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(1) (Spring): 1, 30-43. Billingsley oral history interview.

Brookins, Patty

- 3321 2011 New theater and film open at the park. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 18(2) (Summer): 11.
National Park Service interpretive orientation film, "Grand Canyon: A Journey of Wonder", presented at Grand Canyon Visitor Center.

Bruner, Betsey

- 3322 2011 Following the muse; for almost 40 years, artist Bruce Aiken has followed the call of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff Live!, 17(28) (July 14-20): 1, 3, 16-19.

Bruner, Jon, AND Noer, Michael

- 3323 2011 A black-tie dinner at the bottom of the Grand Canyon. Forbes, 188(5) (September 26): 68. In Havasu Canyon.

Buică, Elena

- 3324 2011 Luminișuri, luminișuri . . . București: Editura Anamarol, 326 [330] pp. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [In Romanian.]
(transl. 'Lights, lights . . .')
- See "Marele Canion" (Grand Canyon), pp. 164-171.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Campbell, Garth

- 3325 2011 Grand Canyon—rim-to-rim-to-rim run. Prairie Inn Post (Prairie Inn Harriers Running Club, Victoria, British Columbia), (Autumn/Winter): 11-14.

Casartelli, A.

- 3326 2011 World soul : poems. Volume Four : Collection of poems. [No place]: World Love Poetry Publishing, 99 pp.

See pp. 52-53, "Closed In Silence. Grand Canyon".

Cheshier, Cathy

- 3327 2011 My personal journey with cutaneous lymphoma. Cutaneous Lymphoma Foundation Forum (Birmingham, Michigan), (Spring): 9-10.

Includes notes of hike to Havasu Canyon and rim-to-rim Grand Canyon hike.

Cohen, Adam, AND Tehrani, Alex

- 3328 2011 In too deep. Running the 42-mile rim-to-rim trail into and out of the Grand Canyon was a bad idea. Trying it a second time was just insane. Runner's World (Easton, Pennsylvania), (October): 68-72, 74, 76.

Collins, Gail G.

- 3329 2011 In search of the profound; artist Williamson Tapia is a plein air purist. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (September): 26-28.

- 3330 2011 Outside the box; the 'ammo box' art and other works of Simone Stephenson. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (November): 28-30.

Ammo can art.

D. S. Ewing Architects, Inc.

- 3331 2011 Ewing Architects, Inc. A.I.A. Volume 3. Pasadena, California: D. S. Ewing Architects, Inc., 104 pp.
See "New Grand Canyon Lodge, Grand Canyon, AZ; New Construction", pp. 20-21. Architect's renderings for hotel designed to replace Kachina Lodge and Thunderbird Lodge. "The design utilizes elements of the Hope House [sic, Hopi House] and El Tovar Hotel to create a third 'rustic' aesthetic." Never built.

Dave, Prafulla Baa [દવે, પ્રફુલ્લ બા.]

- 3332 2011 અમેરિકા મારી નજરે [Amērikā mārī najarē] [My trip to America]. ઓપિનયન [Ōpinayana] / Opinion (Wembley, Middlesex, United Kingdom), 16(12) (March): 4-8. [In Gujarati, with bilingual serial title.]

Includes Colorado River and Grand Canyon; these are not illustrated.

Derr, Aaron, AND Gordon, Blake

- 3333 2011 There and back again! Illinois Boy Scouts take on one of the most difficult adventures in the United States: Hiking across the Grand Canyon and back. Boys' Life, 101(8) (August): 18-23. [Cover tease: "We Hiked the Grand Canyon—Rim to Rim to Rim".]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dodder, Steve

- 3334 2011 Grand Canyon Star Party, North Rim, 2011. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 35(5) (July): 11-17.

Douskey, Franz

- 3335 2011 West of midnight : new and selected poems. New York: NYQ Books (New York Quarterly Foundation, Inc.), 125 [127] pp.

See "Grand Canyon", pp. 86-87.

Doyle, Diane, AND Jacobson, Emily

- 3336 2011 Interview with Diane Doyle: Years of fun at Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 18(4) (Winter): 10.

Grand Canyon Association store employee retiring.

Dunafon, Cynthia

- 3337 2011 Hiking the Grand Canyon. CF Roundtable (United States Adult Cystic Fibrosis Association, Gresham, Oregon), 21(3) (Summer): 32-33, 35.

Emery, Jamie, AND Hunt, Doug

- 3338 2011 Doug and Alex; interview by Jamie Emery. Show Me the Ozarks, 10(116) (April): 28-29.

Includes note, in passing, of Grand Canyon; with photo (p. 28) of Doug Hunt and son Alex on the Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.

Farnsworth, Janet Webb

- 3339 2011 North Rim ride: Seeing the Grand Canyon from the back of a horse. In: Farnsworth, Janet Webb, and Heath, Bernadette, Grandma needs a four-wheel drive : adventure travel for seniors. Tucson: Wheatmark, pp. 27-30.

Font T llez, Sandra

- 3340 2011 Llagosterencs arreu del m n. El Butllet  de Llagostera (Barcelona), 4a etapa, (15) (August): 40-4.
[In Catalan.]
(transl. 'Lagosterans around the world.')

Interview with Font T llez, who has been teaching Spanish in American schools. Includes note and photo of her at Grand Canyon.

Gapp, Jenny

- 3341 2011 Canyon wonderment: Travels of a ranger librarian. OLA Quarterly (Oregon Library Association), 17(1) (Spring): 5.

Gavin, Thea

- 3342 2011 Fall dispersal; for Grand Canyon's North Rim seasonal crew. CNPS (California Native Plant Society, Orange County Chapter, Irvine, California), (November/December): [1].

Poem pertaining to the aerial dispersal of spiders.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gibson, Brenda

- 3343 2011 Descending the Grand Canyon. The Niagara Bruce Trail Club Grapevine, (Spring): [1].

Gibson, Susana

- 3344 2011 Riding the Canyon. Trail Blazer (Prescott Valley, Arizona), 33(5) (June): 72-.
Rim-to-rim solo horseback ride.

Goldman, Ross

- 3345 2011 My trip to Las Vegas. The Buzz (Hope House Foundation, Norfolk, Virginia), 3(1) (April 29): 3.
Includes brief remark on visiting Grand Canyon.

Green, Keith

- 3346 2011 The great Grand Canyon pigeon races. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 22(3) (Summer): 1, 3-4.
"Original research by Bob Audretsch".

Gust, Debra

- 3347 2011 Grand Canyon treasure. Image File (Lake County Discovery Museum: Curt Teich Postcard Archives, Wauconda, Illinois), 18(1): 14-15.
Documentary evidence of a faked Grand Canyon view in a Bright Angel Lodge lounge postcard.

Hamilton-Holway, Bill

- 3348 2011 From the President . . . [COLUMN]. UUMA News (Unitarian-Universalist Ministers Association, Boston), 44(3) (Spring/Summer): 1. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
Item signed "Bill"; full name shown, with familiar "Bill" thus, in UUMA Leadership list on back page. Item begins with brief remarks on a winter hike on the South Kaibab Trail.

Hamptom, Herbie

- 3349 2011 Cats in the canyon (in retrospect). The Desert Octagon (Tucson British Car Register), 17(10) (October): [5]-[6].
Jaguar automobiles driven to Williams, Arizona, with drivers' side trip to Grand Canyon on the Grand Canyon Railway.

Hanrahan, Chris

- 3350 2011 The President's corner [COLUMN]. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 35(5) (July): 1.
Remarks on the 2011 Grand Canyon Star Party, North Rim.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Harada, Marvin

- 3351 2011 Discovering Buddhism in everyday life. Anaheim, California: Buddhist Education Center, 128 [129] pp. + errata slip.

Essays compiled from Korin, Orange County Buddhist Church newsletter, Anaheim, California. Also a "Corrected second printing, 2014". See "Reflections on the Grand Canyon", pp. 126-128 (reprinted from Harada, 2010).

Heath, Bernadette

- 3352 2011 North Rim ride: Photographer's point of view. In: Farnsworth, Janet Webb, and Heath, Bernadette, Grandma needs a four-wheel drive : adventure travel for seniors. Tucson: Wheatmark, pp. 31-32.

- 3353 2011 Survival and orienteering class: Photographer's point of view. In: Farnsworth, Janet Webb, and Heath, Bernadette, Grandma needs a four-wheel drive : adventure travel for seniors. Tucson: Wheatmark, pp. 51-52.

- 3354 2011 Grapevine Creek, Grand Canyon National Park. In: Farnsworth, Janet Webb, and Heath, Bernadette, Grandma needs a four-wheel drive : adventure travel for seniors. Tucson: Wheatmark, pp. 85-89.

Heijdemann, Femke

- 3355 2011 Mijn wereldreis. In: Verslag [SECTION]. Contactblad (Montessori College Arnhem), Schooljaar 2011-2012(1) (October): 30-31 (and see also photo at lower left of collage on p. 24). [In Dutch.] (transl. 'My world trip')

Text includes Grand Canyon, and the photo is from the canyon as well.

Højlund, Christoffer H., AND Kappel, Kristian

- 3356 2011 I skole for alvor—et rejsebrev fra de varme lande. Dansk Tidsskrift for Teologi og Kirke (Aarhus, Denmark), 38(1): 63-66. [In Danish.] (transl. 'In school for real—a travel letter from the hot countries')

Includes Grand Canyon, in passing, but with a photograph of the canyon.

Hrubošová, Zuzana

- 3357 2011 Geologie Země (dámská oděvní kolekce). The geology of the earth (women's wear). Bachelor's thesis, Technická Univerzita v Liberci, Liberec, Czech Republic), 55 pp. [In Slovak, with bilingual title and abstract.]

The thesis provides designs for a women's apparel collection inspired by geology. Grand Canyon, see pp. 9-11, 18, 35, 38.

John Moran Auctioneers

- 3358 2011 California and American fine art auction : Tuesday, February 15, 2011 : catalogue. Altadena, California: John Moran Auctioneers, 36 pp. [Title-page indicates California and American Paintings Sale.]

See p. 14: "69; Dana Bartlett (1882-1957 Los Angeles, CA); Grand Canyon Landscape . . . watercolor on paper under glass . . ." (small illustration).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Johnson, Russell

- 3359 2011 Designing a sublime painting of the Grand Canyon. Master's thesis, Prescott College, 108 pp.

From the artist's statement: "The Grand Canyon is a landscape of radiant sights and experiences. The art I create reflects the excitement I feel toward the Grand Canyon. The Grand Canyon is a familiar and refreshing place yet it always reveals new pages in its seemingly endless book. Each new page is a delightful discovery of nature's mysteries, an enduring cyclical process that encourages me to express the impact of its sublime qualities. My approach to painting is to investigate grand themes in nature. During my portfolio research, I developed a strategy to translate my hiking experiences into impressions of how it actually felt to witness the Grand Canyon. Unconcerned about conveying exact details, I limited my attention to faithful and imaginative contemplation of the sublime. Just as the Grand Canyon has left an impression on me, my paintings serve a similar purpose: to invite an exploration of its majestic beauty."

Kabotie, Michael

- 3360 2011 Grand Canyon National Park. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 175-176.

Reprinted from Migration tears : poems about transitions (Lomawywesa, 1987).

Kahn, David

- 3361 2011 Member spotlight: David Kahn. PSF News (Planetary Studies Foundation, Galena, Illinois), 21.4 (Winter 2011, Fourth Quarter) [sic]: 6-7.

Includes brief note of a visit to Grand Canyon, with photo.

Kempa, Rick

- 3362 2011 What the canyon teaches. [No imprint], BROADSIDE.

"Drawing by Sharon Dolan. Printed at Littoral Press, Oakland, CA in an edition of 150, September 2011". Signed by Kempa, and numbered. Text and drawing printed in different colors. An accompanying informational slip indicates: "'What the Canyon Teaches' is printed from handset metal type with a 100+-year-old platen press on dampened handmade St. Armand paper, in an edition of 150. The font is Della Robia. [¶] Lisa Rappoport at Littoral Press in Oakland, CA designed and printed the broadside. ••• [¶] [Broadside]s are available in three colors: gold, terracotta, and sand-brown—or, in Canyon parlance, Coconino, Redwall, and Tapeats."

Kida, Jeff; Kramer, Kelly; AND Stieve, Robert

- 3363 2011 What's right with Arizona; Best of AZ 2011. Arizona Highways, 87(8) (August): cover, inside front cover, 18-51.

See: "Natural Wonder", photo by George Stocking, pp. 18-19; "Survival", photo of condors by John Cancalosi; "Landmarks", photo by George Stocking, p. 43 (canyon view at Desert View with Watchtower).

King, Angus

- 3364 2011 Governor's travels : how I left politics, learned to back up a bus, and found America. [No place]: Down East, 159 pp.

By a former Governor of Maine. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Klimaitė, Violeta

- 3365 2011 Amerikos užkariautoja: „Ji pavergė ne žėrinčiais miestais, o laukine gamta“. Druskonis (Vilniaus), 2011(33) (1122) (August 19-25): 1, 8-9. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. ‘The American conqueror: “She was enslaved not by glowing cities but by wildlife”’)
Gabrielė Čepaitė’s trip to America. Includes Grand Canyon.

Kohli, Megan

- 3366 2011 The power of a canyon. (Photo by Kimberly Sieb.) Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 18(2) (Summer): 6.

Krone, Kent, AND Krone, Charlene

- 3367 2011 The Red Rock Ride. The Trail Rider, (March): 28-30, 32-34.
Commercial six-day riding trip in southern Utah locations, and including Grand Canyon North Rim.

Kuester, Lanny

- 3368 2011 Secrets of the Grand Canyon : a spiritual journey. LaVergne, Tennessee: Xlibris Corporation, 244 [246] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Kusy, Jerzy

- 3369 2011 Szczęśliwa “17”!? Forum (Polish-American John Paul II Cultural Center, Cleveland, Ohio), 2011(5) (108) (May): 6-7. [In Polish.]

Regarding Fr. Kusy’s celebration with 17 brother priests from Poland the occasion of the 25th anniversary of their ordination. Included a trip across America, noting (with photo) a stop at Grand Canyon. See also brief remarks in English with the title, “Happy ‘17’!?” on back cover.

Lago, Don

- 3370 2011 These infinities of beauty and terror: Poets and writers discover the Grand Canyon. The Ol’ Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 22(2) (Spring): 1, 3-10; (3) (Summer): 6-16.

Lauter, Ken

- 3371 2011 Grand Canyon days : poems. Lexington, Kentucky: Xlibris Corporation, 87 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Lemke, Bill, AND Rivers, Carmin

- 3372 2011 The Grand Canyon then and now. New photographs by Bill Lemke. Text by Carmin Rivers. View Camera, (January/February): cover, 16-25.

Lichterman, Don

- 3373 2011 Three weeks in June. New York: S2E Publishing Co., 214 pp. [“Manufactured by Create Space/Amazon”; self-published.]

Travel experiences. See Chapter 4, “Supai”, pp. 56-72.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lim, Jenny

- 3374 2011 A drive through paradise. SMA News (Singapore Medical Association), 43(2) (February): 28-29.
Travel in the Southwest. Includes brief comments on visits to the North Rim and South Rim.

Louvigny, Vincent de

- 3375 2011 Tant de façons d'imager le monde. Poissy, France: Àvos Pages, [128] pp. [\[In French.\]](#)
A book of photographs. See "Points de vue du Monde", Chapitre 1—two views of Grand Canyon.

Marston, Glyn

- 3376 2011 Thud, sweat and tears. [No place]: CreateSpace, 509 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
Includes portions about a Grand Canyon run on foot.

Meagher, Brian Christian

- 3377 2011 The wilderness, the wild man and the wound : a sacred quest for God and the masculine soul. [No imprint], 216 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
Grand Canyon, see cover, pp. 14-15, 64-70, 73, 91, 138-143+.

Minguy, Pierre; AND usmint.gov, Wikipédia

- 3378 2011 La pièce du parc Grand Canyon en Arizona; du programme "America the Beautiful Quarters®" de la monnaie américaine. Bulletin de Liaison (Société Numismatique de Québec), 11(6) (June): 150-151. [\[In French.\]](#)
U.S. Mint commemorative series, Grand Canyon quarter.

Monroe, Harriet

- 3379 2011 The Grand Cañon of the Colorado. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 84-90.
From Monroe (1899).

Monser, Ashley

- 3380 2011 Seeing the Grand Canyon for the first time. In: It's a Mitzvah [SECTION]. Voices (Congregation B'nai B'rith, Santa Barbara, California), 85(4) (Fall) (Tishrei/Tevet 5772): 6.

Muir, John

- 3381 2011 The Grand Cañon of the Colorado. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 77-83.
From Steep Trails (Muir, 1918); thus in turn from Muir (1902).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Müller, Günter

- 3382 2011 Grand Canyon—Zu Fuß durch ein Weltwunder. Von Günter Müller (1976). D.A.V. (Deutscher Alpenverein, Sektion Lübeck e. V., Nachrichtenblatt) (Lübeck, Germany), 52(180) (June): 8-11. [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. 'Grand Canyon—walking through a wonder of the world. By Günter Müller (1976)')

The text, dated 1976, recounts a trip in 1971.

Muller, Seth

- 3383 2011 Visual love letters; Jana Aukon's art captures a passion for the land. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (February): 28-30.
- 3384 2011 Canyon crossing : experiencing Grand Canyon from rim to rim. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 260 pp.
- 3385 2011 Of the sensuous line; Serena Supplee talks art, joy and the great plateau. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (November): 18-23.

Murray, Ray E.

- 3386 2011 Life isn't always good . . . sometimes it's CRAP! Bloomington, Indiana: AuthorHouse, 207 pp. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [An on-demand publication.]

See the chapter, "Life Is Grand In the Canyon".

Nagy, Olivér

- 3387 2011 „Valami Amerika!“ 2. Grand Canyon, Arizona és Hoover-gát. MAG: Mindennapok Gárdonyiban (Gárdonyi Géza Ciszterci Gimnázium, Eger, Hungary), 6(2) (October): 13. [\[In Hungarian.\]](#) (transl. 'Some America! 2. Grand Canyon, Arizona and Hoover Dam')

Part of a series about this 12th-grade student's visit to America.

Newbold, Rodger

- 3388 2011 62 laps around the sun. Volume I—Grand Canyon and Capitol Reef. [No place]: Blurb, 56 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Photographs. No title-page; no title on hard-cover binding. Title taken from dust jacket.

Newman, Lance

- 3389 2011 (Ed.) The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, 245 [246] pp.

Nicolai, Daniel

- 3390 2011 In search of things past. Pinyon Press (Xanterra South Rim, L.L.C., Grand Canyon), 2011(17) (August 24): 1.

Reminiscence of Betty Scribner's family visit to Grand Canyon, circa 1924; reminiscence.

Ozawa, Kenshi [小沢 健市]

- 3391 2011 所長の海外体験記. その11. Grand Canyon: およそ 20 年ぶりの再訪. [Shochō no kaigai taiken-ki. Sono 11. Gurandokyanion: Oyoso 20-nen-buri no saihō.] [\[Director's overseas\]](#)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

experience. Part 11. Grand Canyon: Revisited after about 20 years.] 観光研究所だより [kankō kenkyūjoda yori] [News from the Tourism Institute] (立教大学観光研究所ニューズレター [Rikkyōdaigaku kankō kenkyūjo nyūzuretā] [Rikkyo University Tourism Institute Newsletter]) (Tokyo), 7(2) (Spring): 8. [In Japanese, with item title in mixed Japanese and Roman orthography.]

Pachón, Arsenio

- 3392 2010 Rektorképző Arsenio Pachónnal 2010. április 23-25. Leányfalun; folytatás. 2. előadás: A „tökéletes biztonság”—beszéd (kiscsoport és ultreya). De Colores (Esztergom-Budapest Cursillo Hírlevele) (Budapest), 19(4) (December): 8-10. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'Arsenio Pachón with rector training, April 23-25, 2010, Leányfalun; sequel. 2nd presentation: "Complete security"—speech (small group and ultra).')

Includes inspirational note from when he had seen Grand Canyon. Other part(s) of this series are not pertinent to this bibliography.

Passe, Bruno

- 3393 2011 Jetman dans le Grand Canyon. ParaMag (Loos en Gohelle, France), (289) (June): 30-35. [In French.]
(transl. 'Jetman in the Grand Canyon')

Regarding the jet suit flight by "Jetman", Yves Rossy, over Grand Canyon.

Phelps, Andrew, AND Phelps, Brent

- 3394 2011 Point Sublime : Brent Phelps, October 1984. [Salzburg, Austria]: [no imprint], [23] pp. and one 30 × 36 cm C-print [color print]. [200 copies, signed by Andrew Phelps.]

The place of publication and the notation, "self-published", are from Andrew Phelps' website, <http://www.andrew-phelps.com/point-sublime/> (accessed March 30, 2017). Additional information is found there as well.

Product composed by Andrew Phelps, comprising a C-print depicting images of nineteen mounted 2-×-2-inch Kodak color transparencies made by Brent Phelps (Andrew's father, deceased), during a solo trip to Point Sublime in a Ford F250 truck in October 1984, and a 14.7 × 18.7-cm saddle-wired booklet portraying oversize images of color transparencies. The booklet contains a reduced image of the C-print, eight double-page images of a sequence of sunset views from the same position at Point Sublime, and three one-page images of mounted transparencies depicting scenes along the Point Sublime road, including one with the truck. The front and back covers reproduce the recto and verso of the same mounted transparency, which is one of the sunset views. Andrew Phelps includes an introduction (p. [3]) and notes about the production (p. [23]).

Ponder, James

- 3395 2011 GHI-sponsored trip has rough start, but becomes unforgettable adventure. Today (Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, California), 24(8) (June 24): 5, 10.

Loma Linda University, Global Health Institute. Includes Grand Canyon.

- 3396 2011 Art unveiling at LLUMC East Campus reveals a lot about art and life. Today (Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, California), 24(8) (June 24): 12, 11 [pagination sequence thus].

Loma Linda University Medical Center. Art exhibition includes work of 84-year-old Rhona Brandstater Hodgen, who is pictured with her triptych of Grand Canyon in the lobby of the Tom and Vi Zapara Rehabilitation Pavilion.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ponomarenko, Veronika

- 3397 2011 Discovering Colorado. In: America Up Close [SECTION]. Pax Press (PAX Academic Exchange, Port Chester, New York), 16(3) (May): 5.

Notes by an exchange-student visitor from the Ukraine hosted by the Horton family of Fort Collins, Colorado. Includes comment, "The next day we reached the Grand Canyon. Well, it's grand indeed! I was afraid to look down." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Quayle, Amil D.

- 3398 2011 Grand Canyon. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 9-10.

From Quayle (2009).

Quintenz-Fielder, Amanda

- 3399 2011 Deep into the Canyon; Chris Brown. Rangefinder, (May):.

Rao, Zongxi, AND Deng, Weixlong [饶宗颐; 邓伟雄]

- 3400 2011 [Rao, AUTHOR; Deng, COMPILER] 大峡谷写生; 北美洲美国 [Daxiagu xie sheng : bei mei zhou meiguo] [Grand Canyon painting; North America]. Shenzhen Shi: 海天出版社 [Hai tian chu ban she] [Ha tian Publishing House], 13 pp. (饶宗颐书画册页丛刊 [Ráo zōngyí shūhuà cèyè cóngkā] [Rao Zongxi's calligraphy and painting album series]; 选堂游展写生丛刊, 饶宗颐 [xuǎn táng yóu jǐ xiěshēng cóngkān, ráozōngyí] [Rao Zongxi selected exhibition tour].) [In Chinese.]

Ray, Jimmy

- 3401 2011 Astroimaging with a Hyperstar on a C-11. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 35(3) (May): 8-9.

See p. 9, photo, "Mr. Ray at the Grand Canyon, 2010", shown as if "crawling" to the edge. (Reference to C-11 is to a Celestron 11-inch reflecting telescope.)

Roberts, Elsie Reed Hayes [Hayes, Elsie]

- 3402 2011 Very lovingly yours, Elsie : adventures of an Arizona schoolteacher, 1913-1916 (Barbara Anne Waite, compiler). Vista, California: Palomar Mountain Bookworks, 217 pp.

Elsie Hayes, the compiler's grandmother. Includes Grand Canyon.

Serafino, Giorgio

- 3403 2011 L'America in vespa : da Chicago a Los Angeles sulla Route 66. Milano: Mursia, 191 pp. [In Italian.] (transl. 'America on a Vespa: from Chicago to Los Angeles on Route 66')

Travel on a Vespa motor scooter. Includes Grand Canyon. See also Serafino (2017).

Shapiro, Michael

- 3404 2011 Beneath the rim. In: O'Reilly, James, Habegger, Larry, and O'Reilly, Sean (eds.), The best travel writing, 2011 : true stories from around the world. Palo Alto, California: Solas House, Inc., pp. 109-127. (Travelers' Tales.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Shute, Nancy

- 3405 2011 If we only had wings. National Geographic, 220(3) (September): cover, 66-79. [Cover title: "Can We Fly?"]

See p. 76, photo of Patrick de Gayardon soaring in nylon wing suit over Grand Canyon, and reference to Yves Rossy's jet-powered body flight over Grand Canyon.

Soto, Gloria

- 3406 2011 Un estat dels EUA; Nevada. Or i Flama (Centre Moral i Instructiu de Gràcia "El Centre", Barcelona), (90) (December): 18-19. [In Catalan.]
(transl. 'A U.S. state: Nevada')

Includes brief note of a helicopter flight over Grand Canyon from Las Vegas.

Sparke, Philip

- 3407 2011 [Composer's notes for "Sunrise at Angel's Gate".] In: Olivet Nazarene University, Department of Music, Concert Band, Dr. Neal McMullian, conductor : Wind Symphony, Prof. Ryan Schultz, conductor : 7:00 p.m., Tuesday, April 19, 2011, Kresge Auditorium, Larsen Fine Arts Center. [Bourbonnais, Illinois]: Olivet Nazarene University, Department of Music.

This piece "was commissioned by Colonel Finley Hamilton, conductor of the United States Army Field Band, and first performed by them in March 2001." (For the score, see Sparke ([date?])).

Stegner, Wallace

- 3408 2011 Packhorse paradise. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 180-189.

About Havasu Canyon. From Stegner (1969).

Szewczyk, Robert

- 3409 2011 Zupełnie niedawno w Ameryce. Poznaj Świat (Gdańsk), (July): 78-85. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'Quite recently in America')

Travel includes Grand Canyon.

Tähtinen, Tero

- 3410 2011 Eläväksi kävellyt runot. Niin & Näin [Niin ja Näin] (Suomen Fenomenologinen Instituutti, Tampere, Finland), 2011(2)(69) (Summer): 37-42. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Poems brought to life')

See "Nanao Sakaki ja päättymätön vaellus" (transl. 'Nanao Sakaki and the endless wandering') (pp. 41-42), in which Sakaki's poem, "Far Above the Grand Canyon", is translated by Tähtinen into Finnish (p. 41). Refer to Sakaki (1987, 1996).

Taks, Melvin I.

- 3411 2011 Our American wonderlands : poetry. [No imprint], 20 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Poems about national parks and monuments the writer has visited. See "Grand Canyon, Arizona", p. 12.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Thailand, House of Representatives, Transportation Commission [ประเทศไทย, คณะกรรมการการคมนาคม สภาผู้แทนราษฎร] [Pratheṣṭhiy, khṇa krrmāṭhikār kār khmnākḥm sphā phūthænrās'ḍr]

- 3412 2011 รายงานการเดินทางไปศึกษาดูงานและเจรจาธุรกิจ ด้านการคมนาคมและขนส่ง ของ คณะกรรมการการคมนาคม สภาผู้แทนราษฎร : ระหว่างวันจันทร์ที่ ๑๐ ถึงวันพฤหัสบดีที่ ๒๐ มกราคม ๒๕๕๔ : ณ ประเทศสหรัฐอเมริกา [Rāyngān kār deinthāng pī ṛṇks'ā dū ngān læa cercā ṭhurkic ḍāḍā nkār khmnākḥm læa khn sng khxng Rāyngān kār deinthāng pī ṛṇks'ā dū ngān læa cercā ṭhurkic ḍāḍā nkār khmnākḥm læa khn sng khxng : rahṷāng wān cānthr' thī 10 ṭhūng wān phvṭṣbdī thī 20 mkrākḥm 2554 : ṇ pratheṣ ṣṭhāṭhmerikā] [Report of travel to study and negotiate transport and transportation business by the Transportation Commission, House of Representatives : between Monday to Thursday, 10-20 January 2011 : in the United States]. [Thailand]: กลุ่มงานคณะกรรมการการคมนาคม สำนักกรรมการ ๑ [klum ngān khṇa krrmāṭhikār kār khmnākḥm lu, s'ā nāk krrmāṭhikār 1] [Group of Transport Commissioners, Office of the First Commissioner], 40 pp. [In Thai.]

See “มลรัฐเนวาดา (เมืองลาสเวกัส)” [mlrṭṭh newādā (meṷxng lā s' wekə s')] [Nevada (Las Vegas)], pp. 16-17, which includes remarks on a visit to Grand Canyon; and see in “ภาคผนวก” [phākḥ phnwk] [Appendix], specifically p. 38, three photos from the Transportation Commission's visit to Grand Canyon West, January 14, 2011.]

Tijink, Gert; Getkate, Henk (Tik); Pluimers, Wim (Kops); AND Denge, Henk ter (Mas)

- 3413 2011 Grand tour of the West. EMC Allerlei (Enterse Motor Club, Enter, The Netherlands), 2011(3) (September): 15, 17, 19, 21, 23, 25, 27. [In Dutch.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Toscano, Tatiana

- 3414 2011 35 take part in Grand Canyon excursion. The Concordia Courier (Concordia University, Irvine, California), 6(5) (October 25): 3.

Walter, Richard

- 3415 2011 From the President. Southwestern (Electrical Apparatus Service Association, Southwestern Chapter, Plano, Texas), (Spring): 2.

Includes trip to Grand Canyon aboard Grand Canyon Railway.

Williams, Terry Tempest

- 3416 2011 Stone Creek woman. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 104-107.

Reprinted from Williams (1994).

Wraa, Una Merethe

- 3417 2011 Route 66; Chicago-Los Angeles på motorsykkel—reisebrev fra Una Merethe Wraa. TS-kvarten (Norsk Forening for Tubero Sklerose, Medlemsblad) (Oslo), 25(1/2): cover, 26-29. [In Norwegian.] (transl. 'Route 66; Chicago-Los Angeles on a motorcycle—travel letter from Una Merethe Wraa')

Brief text (p. 26). Includes Grand Canyon. Also a concluding paragraph (p. 27) signed “Magne”.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wyrick, Traci

- 3418 2011 Park Naturalist Louis Schellbach's log books. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 22(2) (Spring): 11-12.

Repeats part 2, which appeared in the Summer 2010 issue.

- 3419 2011 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part III. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 22(3) (Summer): 4-6.

Overviews for 1943 and first half of 1944. Transcriptions, January 5-June 6, 1944.

- 3420 2011 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part IV. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 22(4) (Fall): 14-15.

June 15-22, 1944.

Yantos, David A.

- 3421 2011 In dream I dive—a poem. Pinyon Press (Xanterra South Rim, L.L.C., Grand Canyon), 2011(25) (December 14): 8.

Mooney Falls.

Yong, Song Ki, AND Soo, Lee Han [손기용; 이한수]

- 3422 2011 61년 동기 미 서남부 여행 [61nyeon dong-gi mi seonambu yeohaeng] [Class of '61 Southwest U.S. travel]. 時計塔 [Toki-kei-tō] [The Clock Tower] (Seoul National University College of Medicine Alumni Association of North America, Port Washington, New York), 38(3) (July 20): 11-12. [In Korean, with serial title in Japanese orthography and publisher's information in English.]

Wide-ranging trip principally in Utah and the Navajo Nation but includes Glen Canyon Dam and Grand Canyon West.

Yurcik, Della

- 3423 2011 Get to know your Park: A Backcountry Ranger shares her Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 17(1) (Spring): 10.

Yuzo, Fujitake [富賀来 祐蔵]

- 3424 2011 地球の騙し方(極めて私的な地球歩き紀行文) グランドキャニオン コロラド川までいく [Chikyū no damashi-kata (kiwamete shitekina chikyū aruki kikō bun) Gurandokyanion Kororodo-gawa made]. [How to deceive the earth (extremely private hiking travelogue) Grand Canyon to the Colorado River.] ハビタット通信 (明治学院大学服部研究室) [Habitatto tsūshin (Meijigakuindaigaku Hattori kenkyūshitsu)] [Habitat Communication (Meiji Gakuin University Hattori Laboratory, Tokyo)], (7) (Summer): 44-49. [In Japanese.]

Zwinger, Ann Haymond

- 3425 2011 Bright Angel Trail. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 22-30.

From Zwinger (1995).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

2012

Anonymous

- 3426 2012 Arts For Our Parks: Arizona Then and Now. Pinyon Press (Xanterra South Rim, L.L.C., Grand Canyon), 2012(4) (February 22): 5.
- Exhibition announcement. National Park Service Headquarters lobby, March 2-31.
- 3427 2012 Born in the USA; Glenn Tupper flies the Grand Canyon on the road trip of his life. Paramotor [England], (29) (February/March): 26-.
- Motorized paraglider flight.
- 3428 2012 April 24 show—Grand Canyon on Foot. Huts Update (Alaska Mountain and Wilderness Huts Association, Anchorage), (March/April): [1].
- Presentation about hiking the length of Grand Canyon by Tucker Spohr and Steve Rice.
- 3429 2012 The magnificent Grand Canyon! Penguin's Post (Primavera School, Prescott, Arizona), (2nd Quarter): [unpaginated].
- Brief report of field trip to Grand Canyon.
- 3430 2012 Polaroid: 65 years of instant photography. PRA Newsletter (Polaroid Retirees Association, Waltham, Massachusetts), (April/June): 4.
- Brief item on the origin of Polaroid cameras with the Polaroid Land Camera Model 95, with note of inventor Edwin Land having gotten the idea for instant picture cameras from his daughter while on vacation at Grand Canyon in 1943.
- 3431 2012 USA-resan 2012. Vasa Nytt (Vasa Orden av Amerika, Distriktslogen Södra Sverige Nr 20, Knislinge, Sweden), 46(2) (May): 16-17, 25, back cover. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'USA trip 2021.')
- Includes Grand Canyon.
- 3432 2012 포모나 인랜드 교회 [pomona inlaendeu gyohoe] [Pomona Inland Church]. In: ACT News [SECTION]. Creation Truth (Association for Creation Truth Newsletter) (한국창조과학회 미주지부 [Korean Creation Science Society, Americas Branch], Norwalk, California), 20(5): 6. [In Korean, with serial title in English.]
- See photo at Grand Canyon, p. 7, "포모나 인랜드교회 탐사여행" [pomona inlaendeugyohoe tamsayeohaeng] [Pomona Inland Church Exploration Trip].
- 3433 2012 Luxury summer. Daybreak (Roma), 6(54) (July): 12-14. [In Italian.]
- See "Il Grand Canyon, molto più di una immensa voragine . . .", pp. 12-13 (transl. 'The Grand Canyon, much more than a huge chasm . . .')
- 3434 2012 難病の子どもの夢が実現—4 回目の日本版 Wish Flight ロサンゼルス経由でグランドキャニオンへ出発 [Nanbyō no kodomo no yume ga jitsugen—4-kai-me no nipponban uisshu furaito Rosanzerusu keiyu de Gurandokyanion e shuppatsu]. [The dream of a child with intractable disease realized—

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

4th Japanese Wish Flight departs for Grand Canyon via Los Angeles.] AA Insight—Asia (American Airlines), (July): [2]. [In Japanese.]

Child with cancer asks to see Grand Canyon through the Make-a-Wish Foundation.

- 3435 2012 A modern master; artist Kurt Wenner has brought his famous chalk art to the Grand Canyon. In: Summer Visitor Guide 2012. Arizona Daily Sun (Advertising Supplement), 2012(2) (July 14-August 4): 8-9. [Cover tease: "The Grand Canyon rendered in 3-D art".]

Illusionary art in the courtyard of the National Geographic Grand Canyon Visitor Center, Tusayan, Arizona.

- 3436 2012 Grand Canyon comes alive at Sky Harbor Airport. Pinyon Press (Xanterra South Rim, L.L.C., Grand Canyon), 2012(19) (September 19): 4.

Three art exhibitions featuring Grand Canyon unveiled in Phoenix, presented by Phoenix Airport Museum. "A Grand Home: The Art of Bruce Aiken"; "A Grand Collection", from the collections of Grand Canyon National Park and Grand Canyon Association; "A Grand Ride", color mule-ride photographs by Tom Brownold. Notice only.

- 3437 2012 Havasupai trip; school in hiking boots. Child's Play [London?], (October): Special Issue Insert, [4] pp.

Field trip to Supai by students from Kino School, Tucson, Arizona. Written in the first person but not signed.

- 3438 2012 Guest presenter—November 6th; Hal Stewart, construction worker turned artist! Art Beat (Scottsdale Artists League, Scottsdale, Arizona), (November): 1.

Notes that the artist was Artist in Residence on the North Rim in 2005, and his current display of Grand Canyon art in Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport Art Gallery, Terminal 4.

Abt, Katja

- 3439 2012 Die Canyon-tour—ein Reise ins Land der Extreme. Wheelies (Schwäbisch Hall, Germany), (March): 14-16, 18. (Die Canyon-Tour—Teil 1.) [In German.]
(transl. 'The Canyon Tour—a journey into the land of extremes.')

A motorcycle-enthusiasts publication. This installment includes Grand Canyon.

Adank, Felix

- 3440 2012 «On en fait moins, mais mieux». Revue Mensuelle Suisse d'Odonto-stomatologie (Bern): 122 (February): 137-139. [In French.]
(transl. "'We do less, but better".')

See photo, p. 139, "Visite au Grand Canyon à l'occasion du congrès 25 ans Cerec à Las Vegas en 2010, mais pas encore tenté par une vie d'hermite." The photo shows the author at the arch entrance to Hermit's Rest. (transl. 'Visit to the Grand Canyon on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the Cerec congress in Las Vegas in 2010, but not yet tempted by the life of a hermit.')

Amann, Bonelle

- 3441 2012 Train ride to Grand Canyon . . . a success! New Horizons (Deaf Seniors of America), 17(2) (Summer): 1, 20. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Antoine, Nicolas

- 3442 2012 Voyage aux Etats-Unis. Les Echos de la M.F.R. (Maison Familiale Rurale, Coublevie, France), (December): 1, 3. [In French.]
(transl. 'Trip to the United States.')

Grand Canyon, in passing; with a group photo at Grand Canyon, p. 1.

Bear, Jordan

- 3443 2012 "Venturing out on a ledge to get a certain picture": The "authentic" spaces of Alvin Langdon Coburn's Grand Canyon. Photographies (Abingdon, Oxfordshire), 5(1) (March): 51-70.

Bellows, Rick

- 3444 2012 The spiritual journey of pilgrimage. The Franciscan Times (Third Order of the Society of St. Francis, American Province, Whitesboro, New York), (Winter): 6-7. )

"[F]rom Three Models of Spirituality". Includes Grand Canyon.

Benninghoff, Diane Brown

- 3445 2012 Anticipating more: Poetry of the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], 28 [31] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Berg, Dan

- 3446 2012 2012 Grand Canyon Railway excursion; October 10, 11, 12, 13, 2012. (Photo contributors: Carol Balesteri, Dan Berg, Ross Kallenberger, Don Lee.) Line Up (Motorcar Operators West), 20(3) (Winter): 22-27.

Twenty-nine rail motorcars and 60 operators and guests ride from Williams to Grand Canyon on Grand Canyon Railway tracks. See also Berg (2014).

Berger, Todd R.

- 3447 2012 (ED.) 2012 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 30 pp.

4th Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

Bishop, Jack

- 3448 2012 My trip to the Grand Canyon. In: Mrs. Young—Kingergarten [SECTION]. Polar X-Press (North Star Elementary School, North Star Academy Charter School, Newark, New Jersey), 2(8) (June 1): 3.

Charpier, Bill

- 3449 2012 The 43rd Franklin Westrek. The Brass Nuts (Horseless Carriage Club of America, Northern California Regional Group, Orangevale, California), 61(8) (August): 9-12.

Includes Grand Canyon North Rim. Franklin Dietrich Speedster automobiles.

Cipar, Stefan, AND Španović, Dario

- 3450 2012 Priroda kao neiscarpna inspiracija. Jedan dio prirode može biti prikazan na mnogobrojne načine, ovisno o dobu i vremenskim uvjetima koji vladaju u vrijeme fotografiranja. S an mi je posjetiti

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grand Canyon i provesti nekoliko dana u njegovom fotografiranju. Kužiš?! (NIU »Hrvatska riječ«, Subotica, Serbia), (56) (June 15): 16. [In Croatian.]

(transl. 'Nature as an inexhaustible inspiration. One part of nature can be displayed in many ways, depending on the age and weather conditions prevailing at the time of photography. I dreamed of visiting the Grand Canyon and spending a few days photographing it.')

Interview with young photographer Cipar.

Cizmar, Martin

3451 2012 Pushing the envelopes. Arizona Highways, 88(8) (August): 6-7.

Hank Delaney delivers mail by mule to Supai, as did his father, Bud Delaney.

Clark, Gordon, Sr.

3452 2012 From the Prez. The Herald (San Diego Antique Motorcycle Club), 29(1) (March): 4, 9.

Motorcycle tour from Las Vegas to Utah and North Rim of Grand Canyon. Item signed "Gordon"; full name from list of officers, p. 2.

Czarnecki, Maciej

3453 2012 USA—przez kaniony i pustkowia. FotoGeA.com o fotografowaniu i podróżach (Poland), (7) (July/August): 49-78. [In Polish.]

(transl. 'USA—through canyons and wastelands.')

Includes "Huvasapai Canyon" and "Kanion Antylopy, Grand Canyon North RIM" (sic).

Delahoyde, Stan, AND Delahoyde, Barb

3454 2012 Catching a Kolb. In: Letters to the Editor [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 88(4) (April): 4.

Reminiscence of Emery Kolb at Kolb Studio, ca. 1970.

Diskan, Cosmo

3455 2012 Isolation; a personal perspective on the Colorado Plateau or how I learned to stop worrying and love the isolation. OnCourse Magazine (Coconino Community College Journal of Student Coursework, COM 180) (Coconino Community College, Lone Tree Campus, Flagstaff, Arizona), 2012: 32-35.

Reflections at Point Sublime, Grand Canyon.

Dunlop, Roger

3456 2012 Rim to rim. In-touch (Ealing Trinity Circuit Office, London), (61) (September/November): 16-17.

Elson, Ryan

3457 2012 Don't step on the dirt : a comedic travelogue through America's national parks. [No imprint], 255 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Grand Canyon, see in the chapter, "Arizona" (pp. 33-76).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Engelhard, Michael

- 3458 2012 At home in a hole in the rock; a visitor finds refuge—and tales of deprivation—in the Grand Canyon's hidden alcoves. (Illustrations by Daniel Chang.) Sierra, (July/August): 32-35, 60.

Fahlman, Betsy, AND Dunbier, Lonnie Pierson

- 3459 2012 Arizona's pioneering women artists : impressions of the Grand Canyon State. Flagstaff, Arizona: Museum of Northern Arizona, in collaboration with The Arizona Committee of the National Museum of Women in the Arts, 92 pp. [Cover adds: Directory and catalog.]

Flores, Rick, AND Berry, Shane

- 3460 2012 Exploring the Colorado Plateau. The Adventurers' Club News (Adventurers' Club, Los Angeles), 56(12) (December): cover, inside front cover, 2-6. [Continued in January 2013 issue, 57(1): 4-5.]

Gaydos, Mike

- 3461 NO DATE Hiking for a cause. The Lantern (Strongsville High School, Strongsville, Ohio), (Part 1) (November Student Edition): [5]. [2012.]

Paul and Kevin Monahan, father and son, hiked Grand Canyon as a fund-raiser for the Wounded Warrior Project.

Gibson, Bill

- 3462 2012 Double the fun on the AZT. Arizona Trail News (Arizona Trail Association, Phoenix), 20(1) (Spring): 7.

Author hiked North Kaibab Trail round-trip with twin granddaughters.

Goff, Kevin

- 3463 2012 Natural cycles in deep time: The geological origins of Essex County and the lower Rappahannock. In: Essex County Countryside Alliance : 2012 report. Supply, Virginia: Essex County Countryside Alliance, pp. 32-39.

See pp. 37-38, author's reminiscence of first view of Grand Canyon.

Gonya, Gerry

- 3464 2012 [Note on Grand Canyon rim-to-rim hike.] Harvey Oaks Jeweler (Fremont, Ohio), (October/December): [2].

Gruïța, Octavian

- 3465 2012 Spectacolul Marelui Canion. In: Jurnal de călătorie [SECTION]. Dialog cu Cetățenii (Consiliul Local și Primăria Giroc, Giroc, Romania), 13(7) (April 24) (199): 6. [In Romanian.]
(transl. 'The Grand Canyon Show' in 'Travel Diary' section)

Hahn, Dan

- 3466 2012 Grand Canyon trip. 예수마을 [yesuma-eul] [Jesus Village] (예일장로교회 [yeiljanglogyohoe] [Yale Korean Presbyterian Church], New York), (14) (May): 101.

Remarks on a creationism-oriented trip.] [Author is a high school student. Item is in English, in a serial otherwise in Korean.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Handel-Bajema, Ramona

- 3467 2012 Art across borders: Japanese artists in the United States, 1895-1955. Doctoral dissertation, Columbia University, 288 pp.

See in Chapter 5, "Sojourning Artists Return to Japan": "Yoshida Hiroshi and the Japanese Market for Woodblocks" (pp. 155-161); brief remarks on Yoshida's Grand Canyon work (pp. 158-159).

Hanrahan, Chris

- 3468 2012 The President's corner [COLUMN]. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 36(6) (July): 1.

Remarks on the 2012 Grand Canyon Star Party, North Rim.

Harrington, Joe

- 3469 2012 Expendables 2. In: Joe Harrington's Movie Madness [COLUMN]. PV Mirror (Puerto Vallarta City Paper, Puerto Vallarta, Jalisco, Mexico), (217) (December 15-21): 12.

Includes recollection from a trip to North Rim of Grand Canyon, with a ranger's discussion of actor Sylvester Stallone requesting a helicopter to fly out of the canyon.

Hogaboom, Winfield C.

- 3470 2012 The Bright Angel—John Hance tells Winfield Hogaboom how that place in the Grand Canyon got its name. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 25(1) (Spring): 13.

Credited as "W. C. Hogaboom, in the Los Angeles Herald via The Coconino Sun, December 27, 1902." For the original, refer to Hogaboom (1902).

Holvandus, Siim

- 3471 2012 Kõlupead Ameerikas. Tallinn, Estonia: Tallinna Raamatutrükikoda, 398 pp. [In Estonian.]
(transl. 'Heads in America')

Two Estonians drive through America. Includes Grand Canyon.

Hoogstraten, Constance van

- 3472 2012 Gloria mundi : een wereldreis in 1913-1914. Zutphen: Walburg Pers bv, 160 pp. [In Dutch.]
(transl. 'Gloria mundi : a world tour in 1913-1914')

Trip around the world by 21-year-old François van Hoogstraten. Includes visit to Grand Canyon.

Ichigo, Mannen [萬年一剛]

- 3473 2012 アメリカの国立公園 [Amerika no kokuritsu kōen] [American national parks]. 神奈川県温泉地学研究所観測だより [Kanagawa ken onsen chigaku kenkyūjo kansokuda yori] [News from the Hot Springs Research Institute of Kanagawa], (62): 21-27. [In Japanese.]

Report on visits to eight parks across the U.S. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Il'f, Il'ja, AND Petrov, Jevgenij [Il'f, Il'ia, AND Petrov, Evgenii]

- 3474 2012 Putovanie po Amerike. [Traveling through America.] (Yulia Smetanová, translator.) Bratislava: Vydavateľstvo Spolku Slovenských Spisovateľov. [In Slovak.]
- Translation of Одноэтажная Америка [Odnoetazhnaia Amerika] [One-sided America] (see Il'f and Petrov, 1936). Visit to America included Grand Canyon.

Jang, Junwon

- 3475 2012 Grand Canyon trip. 예수마을 [yesuma-eul] [Jesus Village] (예일장로교회 [yeiljanglogyohoe] [Yale Korean Presbyterian Church], New York), (14) (May): 100.
- Author is a high school student. Remarks on a creationism-oriented trip. Item is in English, in a serial otherwise in Korean.

Jurek, Scott

- 3476 2012 (WITH Steve Friedman) Eat and run : my unlikely journey to ultramarathon greatness. Boston and New York: Mariner Books (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt), 260 pp. [Also reprinted by Bloomsbury (London, 2012, 2013) and in translations to Catalan, Chinese, Dutch, French, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Slovak, Slovenian, and Polish (2012-2018).]
- See Chapter 21, "Back to My Roots; Tonto Trail, Grand Canyon, 2010" (pp. 215-220).

Kent, Angie

- 3477 2012 It's a wide open road; on an American road trip, the real adventure can be just getting there in one piece. Paradise Magazine (Apollo Camper), (October): 20-21.
- Includes Grand Canyon, p. 21.

Klett, Mark, AND Wolfe, Byron

- 3478 2012 Reconstructing the view : the Grand Canyon photographs of Mark Klett and Byron Wolfe. [Phoenix]: Phoenix Art Museum and Center for Creative Photography; and Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, 172 pp.

Koenigsberger, Stephan

- 3479 2012 The Grand Canyon. Enigma (The Summit School, Jamaica Estates, New York), 2012: 35.

Larese, Steve

- 3480 2012 Southwest reflections : Grand Canyon and the Four Corners. Atglen, Pennsylvania: Schiffer Publishing, Ltd., 144 pp.
- Photo-documentary.

Larsson, Bodil; Larsson, Leif; Lindstedt, Evy; Lindstedt, Gunnar; Bogren, Berit; AND Bogren, Hans

- 3481 2012 USA-resan 2012. USA trip March 2012. In: Logen Höganäs Nr 634 [SUBSECTION], Swedish News [SECTION]. The Vasa Star/Vasastjärnan (Vasa Order of America, Richmond, California), 105(3) (Summer): 10. [In Swedish and English texts.]
- Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lee, Sunghee [이성희]

- 3482 2012 “사랑하는 연합교회 가족 여러분” [“salanghaneun yeonhabgyohoe gajog yeoleobun”] [“My beloved United Church family”]. 소망 [somang] [Hope] (피츠버그한인연합장로교회 [picheubeogeuhan-in-yeonhabjanglogyohoe] / Korean United Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh), 2012(1): 4-5. [Back page of issue indicates publication date of 2013 February (sic).] [In Korean, with bilingual publisher’s information.]
- “담임목사인사글” [dam-immogsainsageul] [Senior Pastor’s Greeting]. Inspirational message based on a trip to the Grand Canyon.

Leffler, Albert

- 3483 2012 Recollections from the 3751 Grand Canyon trip 2012. New Mexico Steam Locomotive Railroad Historical Society (Albuquerque), 11(2) (April/June): 1-3.
- San Bernardino Railroad Historical Society’s 4-8-4 locomotive Santa Fe No. 3751. Steam-powered excursion, “The Grand Canyon Limited”, May 14-19, 2012, from Union Station, Los Angeles, to Grand Canyon and return, in part as a celebration of the Arizona Centennial.

Lewis, Rhona

- 3484 2012 Sculpting faces and futures. Mishpacha (Brooklyn, New York, New York; and Har Hotzvim, Jerusalem, Israel), (400) (13 Adar 5772/March 7, 2012): 56-63.
- Regarding Robert Barron, a facial prosthetic specialist. “When he was young, Barron once spent weeks perfecting a painting of the Grand Canyon. It was so realistic that on the opening day of the state fair he found it hanging in the photo gallery. He won a blue ribbon.” (ENTIRE NOTE)]

Lodoabă, Laurian

- 3485 2012 Laurian Lodoabă. Orient Latin (Fundăția Culturală Orient Latin, Timișoara, Romania), 19(4): 38-39.
[In Romanian.]
- Poems include “Sunetul Marelui Canion” (‘The sound of the Grand Canyon’) and “Timpul s-a oprit aici” (‘Time has stopped here’) (p. 38), written at Grand Canyon, September 2011.

- 3486 2012 Laurian Lodoabă. Banat (Lugoj, Romania), 9(4): 6. [In Romanian.]
- Poems include “Sunetul Marelui Canion” (‘The sound of the Grand Canyon’) and “Timpul s-a oprit aici” (‘Time has stopped here’), written at Grand Canyon, September 2011.

- 3487 2012 [Poems.] In: Poezie [SECTION]. Acolada (Uniunii Scriitorilor din România, Societatea Literară Acolada și Editura Pleiade Satu Mare, Satu Mare, Romania), 6(10)(61) (October): 14. [In Romanian.]
- Includes “Timpul s-a oprit aici” [‘Time has stopped here’] (“Grand Canyon,Arizona,sept.2011”), and “Grand Canyon”.

Łukasik, Jagoda

- 3488 2012 Sulejowanie w podróżach; USA.—wielki kraj. Sulej (Towarzystwa Przyjaciół Sulejowa i ziem okolicznych, Sulejów, Poland), (51) (June): 13-14, and photos, p. 12. [In Polish.]
(transl. ‘Sulejówian travels; USA—great country’)
- Includes Grand Canyon, but with no photos are pertinent to this locale.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

M., Nicole

- 3489 2012 Grand Canyon; YI spring trip. Our Voice, Future and Community (Long Beach YMCA, Youth Institute, Long Beach, California), 12(1) (Spring): 5.

Maruta, Nori [丸田典]

- 3490 2012 7月30日 グランドキャニオン～ラスベガス～デンバー [7 tsuki 30-nichi Gurandokyanion ~ Rasubegasu ~ denbā] [July 30 Grand Canyon-Las Vegas-Denver]. From: 思い出の日記 [Shitau i-de no hi-ki] [Diary of Memories] [SECTION]. In: 2012 : 第2回守谷市青少年海外派遣事業報告書 : 平成24年7月27日(金)～8月7日(火) [2012: Dai 22-kai Moriya-shi seishōnen kaigai haken jigyō hōkoku-sho: Heisei 24-nen 7 tsuki 27-nichi (Kin)~ 8 tsuki 7-nichi (hi)] [2012: 22nd Moriya City Youth Overseas Dispatch Business Report: July 27 (Fri)-August 7 (Tue), 2012]. 守谷市, 茨城県 [Moriya, Ibaraki Prefecture, Japan]: 守谷市役所 生活経済部 市民協働推進課 [Moriya shiyakusho seikatsu keizai-bu shimin kyōdō suishin-ka] [Moriya City Hall, Life Economics Department, Civic Collaboration Promotion Section], p. 13. [In Japanese.]

Brief remarks on visit to Grand Canyon South Rim and trip on Route 66. See also additional photo, p. 9.

McCarran International Airport

- 3491 2012 Terminal 3 media kit 2012. Las Vegas: McCarran International Airport.
Artwork displayed in the airport's Terminal 3. See "Public Art Installations: Lik", pp. 32-33, pertaining to artist Peter Lik. See in particular, "'Blaze of Beauty'; Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona", p. 33.

McGivney, Annette

- 3492 2012 A matter of perspective; venturing deep into Grand Canyon has a way of putting life into balance and making you feel wonderfully small. Grand Canyon Journal, 2012: 5. (Photo by Elias Butler.)

McGivney, Annette, AND Butler, Elias

- 3493 2012 Arch rival. Of all the backcountry hikes in the Grand Canyon, the Point Huitzil Route to Royal Arch is among the most challenging—it was even a nemesis is the great Harvey Butchart. Although some people would say you'd have to be crazy to dangle from the edge of the South Rim to get there, others would say the payoff is worth a few dozen death-defying maneuvers. Our writer is one of the others. Arizona Highways, 88(11) (November): 40-45.

Miller, Jeremy, AND Herzog, Lena

- 3494 2012 The long draw; on the trail of an artistic mystery in the American West. Harper's Magazine, 324(1940) (January): 50-59.
Regarding the "unrecognizable" illustrations by Friedrich von Egloffstein in J. C. Ives' 1861 report on exploration of the Colorado River and Grand Canyon. They possibly depict Black Canyon of the Gunnison River.

Moore, Paul B.

- 3495 2012 Grand Canyon impressions. [No imprint], 66 pp. [An on-demand publication.] [Rear cover: "An Impressionistic Photography Study".]
Text pp. [iii], 64-66. Color photographs, without legends, are printed in an impressionistic style.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Newell, Suzann

- 3496 2012 Explorers Over-the-Hill Hikers. Meadview Monitor, (May/June): 10.
Brief trip report; visits to Grapevine Wash, Grapevine Springs; Grand Canyon West airport; Antelope Wash.

Newman, Paul A.

- 3497 2012 The Grand Canyon. Ipsa Jure (Geauga County Bar Association, Chardon, Ohio), 35(3) (June): 8-11.
Rim to Rim to Rim hike.

Nofzinger, Cinda Marie

- 3498 2012 Vacation views: Tourist photographs of the American West, 1945-1980. Master's thesis, University of Iowa, 404 pp.
See particularly: Chapter 3, "The West Through the Windshield: Photographs of Family Road Trips" (pp. 106-203); Chapter 4, "Shooting the Rapids: Photographing the Grand Canyon's Colorado River" (pp. 204-301).

Pearson, James

- 3499 2012 2012 International Air Cadet Exchange to Arizona. The Contact (Canadian Forces Base Trenton, 8 Wing, Astra, Ontario), 47(39) (September 28): 8.
Flight Sergeant James Pearson, 608 Duke of Edinburgh Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron, Belleville, Ontario, selected for the 2012 U.S. exchange. Includes note, in passing, and photo of group at Ooh Aah Point [South Kaibab Trail], Grand Canyon.

Perron, Suzie

- 3500 2012 Excursion en Arizona; virée dans le sud-ouest américain. Le Trait (Club de Minéralogie du Saguenay-Lac-Saint-Jean, Québec), 2012: 28-29. [\[In French.\]](#)
(transl. 'Excursion in Arizona; trip in the American Southwest')
Includes Grand Canyon.

Ponte, Alessandra

- 3501 2012 Photographic encounters in the American desert. Scapegoat (Toronto), (3) (Summer): 13-18.
Grand Canyon, see note in passing, p. 16; with two photos, p. 18.

Rebová Ivi

- 3502 2012 (PHOTOGRAPHER) Cestou inými svetmi; roadtrip juhozápadom USA. Nový Populár (Bratislava, Slovakia), (5): 26-29. [\[In Slovak.\]](#)
(transl. 'A journey through other worlds; southwestern USA roadtrip')
Includes "Grand Canyon, Arizona".

Ringer, Herb

- 3503 2012 "Shorty" Yarberry and the South Rim; Herb recalls Shorty Yarberry and the Grand Canyon. In: Herb Ringer's American West [SECTION]. Canyon Country Zephyr, 24(2) (June/July): 15.
George Armstrong Custer Yarberry.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Roach, Gerry

- 3504 2012 Orthogonal adventures. Montrose, Colorado: Summit Sight, 179 [180] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Seegers, Will

- 3505 2012 [Remarks.] In: Memories of Avi Kurganoff [SECTION]. The Water Tower (University of Vermont, Burlington), 11(8) (March 20): 12.

Includes brief remarks of having during the past winter break spent "a month kayaking the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River with Avi", a group of ten from the university. (This page comprises some memorial thoughts about Abraham S. Kurganoff, who had died from an unwitnessed fall in his dorm room.)

Selme, Gabriella

- 3506 2012 Helikopterresan. FOFFO (Fakta Och Fantasi Från Oss) (Stocksätterskolan, Hallsberg, Sweden), 2(3) (March): 9. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Helicopter journey')

Brief text and color drawing of helicopter, by a student in "Eken 2". Notes a helicopter trip to Grand Canyon.

Sevin, Dieter

- 3507 2012 Zwischen Deutschland und Amerika : mein Lebensweg. Hildesheim, Germany: Olms, 200 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Between Germany and America: my way of life')

See "Fahrt zum Grand Canyon" ('Drive to the Grand Canyon').

Shoemaker, Rick

- 3508 2012 Amazing wonders aviation. VBS puppet scripts. Let's Worship (Lifeway Christian Resources of the Southern Baptist Convention), (Summer):. [Vacation Bible School. See "Day #4: Are You Sure This Plane Is Safe?", which includes text about a trip over Grand Canyon.]

Slemmons, Rod

- 3509 2012 Laura Mackin. In: Laura Mackin: 120 years : January 13th-February 25, 2012. Chicago: Threewalls, pp. 2-3.

Exhibition catalogue. Essay includes writer's observation of having once seen a trash barrel at Grand Canyon South Rim "about half full of polaroid prints of the view in front of me, all almost exactly the same".

Smith, Matt, AND Smith, Karen

- 3510 2012 Dear Bob and Sue. Volume One: Into the national parks. [No imprint], 193 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Sornosa, Alicia

- 3511 _____ Recorriendo USA de Sur a Norte. Auto Aventura 4x4, _____: 72-77. [2012?] [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Touring the USA from South to North')

Intact issue not seen. Serial published in Spain? See "El Grand Canyon y la Ruta 66" ('The Grand Canyon and Route 66'), pp. 76-77.

Srinivasan, V. R.

- 3512 2012 Vivez til la limito: Jet-viro flugas alte supera Rio de Janeiro. ALI: Aziana Letro Ide (Chennai, India), (7) (June 7): 8-9. [Cover displays the logo used for Ido, Linguo Internaciona Universala.] [In Ido.]
(transl. 'Live to the limit: Jet Man flies high over Rio de Janeiro')

Regarding Yves Rossy, "Jet Man". Includes note of Rossy's 2011 flight over Grand Canyon. (Ido is a an artificial language, a variant of Esperanto.)

Stover, James

- 3513 2012 Best in show: "Milky Way over the Grand Canyon". The Flash! (Plano Photography Club, Plano, Texas): (July): 1.

Time exposure photograph of Milky Way seen from the Colorado River in Marble Canyon; with text.

Thompson, Tiffany Leahan

- 3514 2012 How to love yourself and the human race in seventeen days (or less). Master's thesis, Western Carolina University, 298 pp.

From the abstract: "Presented here for your consideration is a multimedia, genre-bending creative experiment in the form of a comedic travel memoir. Utilizing conventions from several creative genres including memoir, fiction, screenwriting and stand-up comedy, this work will take you on a journey through the psyche of a self-identified stoner as she takes an impromptu road trip across America." See: Chapter 9, "The Grand Canyon Pt. 1: The South Rim" (pp. 145-156; Chapter 10, "The Grand Canyon Pt. 2: The North Rim" (pp. 157-168).

Tronqued, Mitzi

- 3515 2012 A grand tour! Manila-based Assistant Manger Cutomer Services Mitzi Tronqued spent the Christmas holidays whizzing through the [truncated, thus]. CX World (Cathay Pacific Airways, Hong Kong), (193) (April): 16.

Regarding a fast trip through the Southwest; brief item with photos, featuring principally Grand Canyon.

Truemper, K.

- 3516 2012 Flying the Grand Canyon. Hangar Echoes (Experimental Aircraft Association, Chapter 168, Dallas, Texas), 43(7) (July): 1, 5-9.

Includes a hike to Indian Garden, Bright Angel Trail. Also notes, "This is an abbreviated version of a blog. For the full version, go to <http://passionforflight.blogspot.com/>" (accessed December 2020; 18 pp., with many illustrations).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Vallier, Jeannette, AND Vallier, Bob

- 3517 2012 Valley of Fire, Nevada. "After the ball is over": Camping out in Valley of Fire. In: Ready to Travel [SECTION]. Turbo Diesel Register (Diesel Registry, Tucker, Georgia), (75) (February/April): 70-72.
- See p. 72, brief note of driving to Toroweap in a Class C Serro Scotty Cummins Turbo Diesel-powered motorhome.

Venetiou, Elisabeth F.

- 3518 2012 Shutter storytelling; the photographic art of Joel Wolfson. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (December): 30-32.

Walz, Robert D.

- 3519 2012 ATSF 3751 to the Grand Canyon. Santa Fe 5000 Fifty Hundred Team News (Amarillo, Texas), 2(1) (4th Quarter): 41-47.
- Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway. Report of excursion of 14-car passenger train from Los Angeles to Grand Canyon and return, pulled by Santa Fe 4-8-4 3751. Also, the train double headed with Grand Canyon Railway 4960 and Santa Fe 3751 from Williams, Arizona, to Grand Canyon and return.

Wyrick, Traci

- 3520 2012 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part 5. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 23(2) (Spring): 12-16.
- June 23-December 2, 1944. See also "Additions and/or Corrections" in 24(3) (Summer): 13.

Yantos, David A.

- 3521 2012 Coyote howls. Pinyon Press (Xanterra South Rim, L.L.C., Grand Canyon), 2012(15) (July 25): 9.
- Includes verse.

Zimmerman, Susan

- 3522 2012 The unsolved mysteries of the Doolittle raid. WWII Quarterly, (Summer): 62-71.
- Includes brief note of a training flight "through the Grand Canyon and as close to its walls as possible" (quoting an unstated source).

2013

Anonymous

- 3523 NO DATE Road trip; Chapter 1. Undo Magazine (Bangkok), (7): 12-15. [Ca. 2013.] [In Thai; with article and serial titles in English, thus.]
- Southwestern U.S. Includes Grand Canyon.
- 3524 2013 Take a hike! Cancer survivor takes charge of his health. Bill Smith, cancer survivor, has hiked the Grand Canyon five times in the past five years. Inside Circle (Senior Circle, Huntsville, Alabama), (Winter): 9.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3525 2013 Communication Arts visits the wonders of the West. Mill Springs Academy Matters (Mill Springs Academy, Alpharetta, Georgia), (Winter): 6.
School's Communications Arts students visits include; with photo at Hopi House.
- 3526 2013 Re: Arizona—southern. eNTS (Native Tree Society), 3(1) (January): 236. [Item byline is "Chris"; communicated by email.]
Comment on hiking on Walhalla Plateau.
- 3527 2013 A grand adventure for Rick and Bob. New Mexico Steam Locomotive and Railroad Historical Society (Albuquerque), 12(1) (January/March): 5.
Rick Kirby and Bob DeGroft run on Grand Canyon Railway 4960 to Grand Canyon.
- 3528 2013 Out of the past; John Ivens Post #42, 1941-1943. American Legion/American Legion Auxiliary/Sons of American Legion/John Ivens Post/Unit/Squadron 42 at Grand Canyon, AZ, Newsletter, (February/March): 4.
"18 September 1941: Comrade Metzger, who acted as Master of Ceremonies for the party given for the C.C.C. boys, reported the affair was a great success and exceptionally well attended. There were several quartettes, singing by the audience, motion pictures were shown by Comrade Charlie Myers, and colored slides by Bill Bass. There were many requests for a repetition of the affair by members of the community." "26 April 1942: State Department Commander Miller visited the Post. There was an honorary dinner at the El Tovar in his honor. State Service Officer Ben Shiminowsky accompanied Commander Miller on his visit."
- 3529 2013 Meet a survivor. In: Sneak Previews of Speakers Coming to SEMMantics XXXIV! M-Pathy (Southeast Michigan Mensa), 50(3) (March): 9.
Announcement for Doug Grosjean presentation on Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon, December 2012.
- 3530 2013 National parks program. Roanoke Catholic School Alumni Newsletter (Roanoke, Virginia), (Spring): 15-16.
Report on the 2013 National Parks Experience program, which brought twelve students to Havasu Canyon.]
- 3531 2013 Biker USA on the road. Classic Club Italia (Cassolnova, Italy), (Spring/Summer): 10-13. [In Italian, with item title in English.]
Article seems to end in mid-sentence. Includes Grand Canyon.
- 3532 2013 Active rumors/notes from the editor. The Alfa Rumor (Arizona Alfa Romeo Owner's Club, Phoenix), (May): [unpaginated].
Reports on a road trip in the Southwest, including Grand Canyon South Rim.
- 3533 2013 Road trip to novitiate. The Caperone (North American Pacific Capuchin Conference Novitiate, San Lorenzo Seminary, Santa Ynez, California), 5(1) (August): [unpaginated].
Investiture Edition notes postulates' road trip to California, stopping at Grand Canyon; this page features several photos of postulants at Grand Canyon.
- 3534 2013 ACT News. Creation Truth (Association for Creation Truth Newsletter, Los Angeles), 21(11): 8-11. [In Korean; titles in English, thus.]
Includes trip to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

3535 2013 Grand Canyon. PTF Newsletter (Chinese Christian Schools, San Leandro Campus, San Leandro, California), (November/December): [2].

Report of 8th grade class trip from CCS Alameda and CCS San Leandro, and students from sister school in Beijing, China.

3536 2013 Gobosh N1277K visits the Grand Canyon. Aspen Airwaves (Aspen Flying Club), 31(12) (December): 4-6.

Erik Skjerseth and Sean Safdi fly a Gobosh aircraft over Grand Canyon, with stops at Page, Arizona, and Grand Canyon, Arizona.

3537 2013 Inspiring convocation. Sullivan High School (Sullivan, Indiana), (December): 3.

School convocation to hear Sullivan County resident Lonnie Bedwell, first blind solo kayaker to descend Colorado River through Grand Canyon, August 2013.

3538 2013 An assortment of interests; Bradford Washburn, Michael Hoppen Gallery, London, 5 December-27 January. Aesthetica (York, North Yorkshire, United Kingdom), (56) (December 2013/January 2014): 22.

Photography exhibition. Includes notice of Washburn's work in Grand Canyon.

3539 2013 Färdskrivaren (fam Sundeck-Fogelins äventyr i USA). Ford Magasinet (Club of American Ford, Vånga, Sweden), 36(2): 12-15. [Item signed only "Christina".] [\[In Swedish.\]](#) \(transl. 'Trip report \(Sundeck-Fogelin family adventure in the USA\)'\)

Includes Grand Canyon.

3540 2013 Back from the Grand Canyon. Passing Notes (Parkmont School, Washington, D.C.), (Session 5): 2.

Alby [Doughty, Bruce]

3541 2013 Route 66. Such Is Life (Kelly Country Albury Hog Chapter 6595, Albury, New South Wales, Australia), (February): [6]. [NOTE: This issue omitted issue number and newsletter date; data obtained from URL of this document on website.]

Notes, after Las Vegas, "It was then onto [sic] Hoover Dam and then the Grand Canyon, in a plane, well worth the cost." (ENTIRE NOTE)

American Trails [organization]

3542 2013 National Recreation Trails Photo Contest winners. American Trails, (Spring): 18-19.

See p. 18: "'Bright Angel Trail, Grand Canyon, AZ'—Photo by Fiana Shapiro", depicting mule riders ascending the trail.

Anderson, Bill, AND Anderson, Judy

3543 2013 First of many—rides of a lifetime. Northshore HOG News (Harley Owners Group, Northshore Chapter, Slidell, Louisiana), (107) (November): 3, 8-9.

See p. 3, comment on ride to Grand Canyon West from Route 66.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Angelini, Renzo

- 3544 2013 Parchi Nazionali 2. I grandi Parchi Nazionali del West; dop aver ammirato la spettacolarità dei Parchi Nazionali dello Utah, trattati nel numero precedente, il viaggio prosegue in Arizona e Colorado. Karpòs (Cesenatico, Italy), 2(5) (July): 54-81. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'National Parks 2. The great National Parks of the West; after admiring the spectacular nature of the Utah National Parks, discussed in the previous issue, the journey continues in Arizona and Colorado.')
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Ashurst, Ed

- 3545 2013 Miracle or coincidence? True stories about people living on the edge. [No imprint], 147 [149] pp. [Cover title: Miracle or coincidence? True stories about people living on the edge.] [An on-demand publication.]
- Grand Canyon, see "Ross Knox", pp. 86-92, and front cover.

Ashweddi, Thaandithi [એશિવેદી, ઠાંદિઠાંદી]

- 3546 2013 શાલાથાઢઠ શેરિઝોના શને ગ્રોટ વઢઠર થાઢઠ કેઢટાઢ! [Śālāthāḍhaṭha śērijhōnā śānē grōṭa vaḍhaṭha2 thāḍhaṭha kēḍhaṭāṭhā!]. રવરરોવુ (ઢયુઝ ડટાજેરટ) [Ravararōvu (ṭhayūjha ḍāṭājērata)] (Wonder Waves Entertainment Pvt. Ltd., Ahmedabad, India), 2013(5) (May): 8-12 [pagination includes wraps]. [In Gujarati.]
- An article about the Grand Canyon; translation of title not available.

Bastis, Thomas

- 3547 2013 Superintendent Profile, Thomas Bastis. ThruTheGreen (Golf Course Superintendents Association, Northern California), (January/February): 16.
- Interview. Includes rim-to-rim-to-rim run at Grand Canyon.

Beceiro, Saúl

- 3548 2013 Físicos na diáspora: Saúl Beceiro. Físical Entreviú (Xornal da Facultade de Física) (Universidade de Santiago de Compostela, Lugo, Spain), p. [2]. [In Galician.]
(transl. 'Physicists in the diaspora: Saúl Beceiro.')
- Includes photo of author at Grand Canyon, and note of Grand Canyon, in passing.

Belut, Emmanuel

- 3549 2013 Au cœur du Grand Inconnu (il était une fois en Utah, 2<sup>e</sup> partie). Le P'tit Usania (Union Spéléologique de Agglomération Nacéienne, Nancy, France), 16(181) (September): 1-4. [In French.]
(transl. 'At the Heart of the Great Unknown (Once Upon a Time in Utah, Part 2).')
- Grand Canyon North Rim, Kanab Creek.

Benninghoff, Diane Brown

- 3550 2013 Like a moth : more poems of the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], 33 [35] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Berg, Erik

- 3551 2013 "Follow the trail over ledge and shale": The Grand Canyon poems and photographs of Mai Richie Reed. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 229-236.

Bird, Peter

- 3552 2013 Night song. [No imprint], 8 [9] pp.
- For bass, drum, and four voices. Grand Canyon and regional Native American people and places: Paunsagunt, Kaibab, Kaiparowits, Kanab, Nankoweap, Shinumo, Tokawana. Moderato ♩ = 90, all voices without vibrato, drum "Always off-the-beat; no need to count!" [Score.]

Borton, Terry

- 3553 2013 238 eminent American "magic-lantern" showmen: The Chautauqua lecturers. The Magic Lantern Gazette (Magic Lantern Society of the United States and Canada), 25(1) (Spring): 3-36 [paginated includes wraps] [Item comprises entire number, with editor's introduction, p. 2.]
- See the Appendix (pp. 15-34), "List of 238 eminent magic lantern showmen, based on the archive of the Redpath Agency at the Library of Congress", which includes notes of those whose programs included Grand Canyon: B. R. Baumgardt (p. 16), Nat M. Brigham (p. 17), Owen R. Lovejoy (pp. 25-26); Arthur K. Peck (p. 28), Gladys M. Petch (p. 28, which notes, "It was Mrs. Petch who brought first to Scandinavia pictures of the Grand Canyon, and of the Indians of the Southwest"), and Frederick Poole (p. 29).

Bran, Elena [pseudonym]

- 3554 2013 Călătorie cu zeppelinul spre America (X). Grand Canyon de Colorado (Marile Chei ale Coloradoului). (M. N. Rusu, ed.) Vatra Veche (Târgu-Mureș, Romania), 5(6) (54) (June): 65. [In Romanian.] (transl. 'By zeppelin to America (10) . . .')
- Excerpt from Bran (1942).

Briot, Alain

- 3555 2013 Selling fine art photographs—Part 2. Nature Photographers PDF Magazine, (162) (September): 2-3.
- See "Story 2—Nobody is too Young to Buy Art" (pp. 2-3), regarding sale made to a youngster and her father at El Tovar, Grand Canyon.

Capo, James

- 3556 2013 Challenger goes on an epic journey; Challenger Program, rim-to-rim trek. One Accord (Church of God, a Worldwide Association, Inc.), (September/October): cover, 3, 7.

Carpenter, Carol

- 3557 2013 Photography and poetry by Carol Carpenter. Your Country Neighbor (Peru, Nebraska), 14(12) (December): 15.
- Includes poem, "Grand Canyon", and photograph of Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Casti, Emanuela

- 3558 2013 Cartografia critica : dal topos alla chora. Milano: Guerini Scientifica, 299 pp. (Spazi Nuova Serie, 1.) [In Italian.]
- See Capitolo 3, "Il Paesaggio come Icona Cartografica", which includes discussion of David Hockney's Grand Canyon canvases. See also Casti (2015, in English).

Cederfelt, Bengt

- 3559 2013 To discover America. Del 2 av 2. Briefing (Scandinavian Geographic Society, Stockholm), (88) (June): 15-19. [In Swedish.]
- Includes remarks on a helicopter flight from Las Vegas over Grand Canyon (p. 19). (Part 1 of this article—(87) (February): 9-13—is not pertinent to this bibliography.)

Chen, Julie

- 3560 2013 (JUROR) 500 handmade books. Volume 2. New York: Lark Crafts (Sterling Publishing Co., Inc.), 420 pp.
- See p. 56: "Kaitlind A. Murak. Untitled. 2011. 66 × 15 × 11 inches (167.6 × 38.1 × 27.9 cm). Rives BFK paper, tracing paper, ink, stone from the Grand Canyon; drawn, folded, riveted" (illustration shown). See p. 120: "Jenny Iserman. Grand Canyon. 2009. 6 × 36 × 1/8 inches (15.2 × 36 × 0.3 cm). Washi paper, gampi paper, watercolor paper, mat board, acrylic molding paste, gesso, etching ink, copper foil, monoprinted, inkjet printed, accordion structure" (illustration shown).

Cherubini, Claudio

- 3561 2013 Piuñél [sic] il globetrotter 3; una moto e tanta passione. In: Carpenedolesi Oltre Confine [SECTION]. Megafono (Carpenodolo, Italy), 16(3) (May/June): 11. [In Italian.]
- (transl. 'More from the globetrotter, 3: a motorcycle and a lot of passion.)
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Cichowski, Kamil

- 3562 2013 Moja Ameryka. Nasz Biuletyn (Państwowy Szpital dla Nerwowo i Psychicznie Chorych w Rybniku, Oddział IX, Rybnik, Poland), (9) (October) (129): 4. [In Polish.]
- (transl. 'My America.')
- Brief description of a trip to Grand Canyon and hike into canyon.

Clark, Cameron

- 3563 2013 By heart and hoof; the work and legacy of the Grand Canyon mules and muleskinners. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (July): cover, 6, 7, 10-17.
- Photo feature.

Cole, Ethel Moore

- 3564 2013 Letter to the Editor. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 24(4) (Fall): 3.
- Reminiscences of living at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Coll, Lisa

- 3565 2013 Rim to rim to rim. The Leaflet Newsletter (New Leaf Ultra Runs, Chicago), (5) (September/October): 23-25.

Cordes, GayNell

- 3566 2013 Canyonlands IV. The Flivver Flash (The Space City T's, Houston, Texas), 36(9) (September): 1, 4-5.

Model T Ford Club of America chapter. MTFCI Canyonlands IV national tour. This report includes a stop at Grand Canyon North Rim.

Darling, David

- 3567 2013 The rocket man and other extraordinary characters in the history of flight. London: Oneworld Publications.

See "Jetman", regarding Yves Rossy, which includes his flight over the Grand Canyon.

Davis, George

- 3568 2013 A Grand Canyon adventure. Emerities (Georgia State University, Emeriti Association), (Winter): 1.

Dockham, Kate

- 3569 2013 Between the Covers [COLUMN]. The Loudon Ledger (Loudon Communications Council, Loudon, New Hampshire), 15(8) (August): 10.

Includes brief note of a stay at El Tovar, Grand Canyon.

Dodder, Steve

- 3570 2013 SAC outreach: 2013 Grand Canyon Star Party, North Rim, June 8-15, 2013. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 37(8) (August): 10-11.

Eberle, Bill [Eberle, William C.]

- 3571 2013 3 days in Arizona : and more in Maine. Thomaston, Maine: wcePublishing, 32 pp.

"Included in this book are poems I began writing on the morning of May 18, [2013] starting with a few words and an idea stuck in my mind from the night before, walking along the rim of the Grand Canyon at sunset . . . ." (from the "Forward" [sic]).

Ellis, Clarence "Doc"

- 3572 2013 Up the road less travelled. Bloomington, Indiana: iUniverse LLC, 379 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

See "Grand Canyon Expedition, Dec 27, 1971-Jan 12, 1972" (pp. 95-128); also pp. 239-252, regarding a hike with Harvey Butchart during which Butchart broke both heels at Royal Arch Creek; includes a facsimile reproduction of Butchart's typewritten account, pp. 243-245.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ferrer, Joaquim

- 3573 2013 Califòrnia—Nevada—Arizona. In: Els Viatges d'en Quim (transl. 'Quim's Travels') [SECTION]. El Soroll de les Fonts (Ajuntament de Sant Joan les Fonts) (Sant Joan les Fonts, Spain), (58) (December): 30-31. [In Catalan.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Flipworkz [firm]

- 3574 2013 Grand Canyon National Park flipbook. [No place]: Flipworkz, for Grand Canyon Association, [48] leaves.

Booklet 4 × 2½ inches, comprising two series of photographs as like frames of a movie, which when the leaves are fanned produce the effect of short films of two Grand Canyon views; one fans from front to back of booklet, the other from back to front. (Credits: Worldwide Media Corp/Footage Search; Wilderness Video/Footage Search; Santa Fe Railroad [Santa Fe Railway]; Fred Harvey Co.; and U.S. National Park Service.)

Flynn, Keith

- 3575 2013 Colony Collapse Disorder. San Antonio, Texas: Wings Press, 103 [106] pp.

See p. 28, "Grand Canyon, Arizona. Election Day at the Grand Canyon".

Foster, Bruce; Ember, Dave; AND Compton, Don

- 3576 2013 America's national parks : a pop-up book. Bend, Oregon: W.W.West, Inc., [9] leaves, with affixed small booklets some of which have their own pop-ups, + package sales insert (product plastic-wrapped).

Cover credits: "Paper Engineering by Bruce Foster; Illustrations by Dave Ember; Concept and Text by Don Compton". Copyright information page indicates: "Art Direction and Paper Engineering by Bruce Foster; Cover and Pop-Up Illustrations by Dave Ember; Text by Don Compton; Cover and Map Design by Linda McCray; Copy Editor, Barbara Fifer". Cover illustrations include Grand Canyon. With supporting foreword by Thomas Kiernan, President, National Parks Conservation Association. The Grand Canyon pop-up leaves include an affixed, 3-panel fold-out, "The Divine Abyss", the inside of which is a 3-panel panorama of a canyon view with El Tovar; an affixed 3-leaf booklet, "Down the Great Unknown"; and an affixed small pop-up that portrays two boaters in a rapid (one of whom improbably wears a backpack, and both just as improbably in a wooden boat that is shown only as its front half despite a two-panel scene). Although pop-ups books are usually for youthful users, the texts herein are for adults and advanced youthful readers. The fold-outs are elaborate, hence easily damaged in careless or inexperienced hands, and most affixed items are further secured by the use of photo-style corner hinges.

Gammon, Carolyn, AND Unger, Israel

- 3577 2013 The unwritten diary of Israel Unger. Waterloo, Ontario: Wilfrid Laurier University Press, revised ed., 240 pp.

Grand Canyon, see p. 147.

Ghesquire, Mike, AND Ghesquire, Lynn

- 3578 NO DATE Westward ho! Grand Canyon. Millennium Magazine (Millennium Luxury Coaches, Sanford, Florida), (17): 8-9. [2013?]

Mule ride to Phantom Ranch.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gibson, Dan

- 3579 2013 Grand Canyon : a natural wonder. (Dan Gibson's Solitudes. Exploring Nature with Music.) Solitudes (copyright Somerset Group, Ltd.). CD. 54:33.

Globočnik, Katarina, AND Drol, Nina

- 3580 2013 Glasba je univerzalni jezik. Loški Utrip (Škofja Loka, Slovenia), (198): 36-37. [In Slovenian.] (transl. 'Music is a universal language.')

Globočnik interview. Grand Canyon; includes comments on a South Rim visit with a wheelchair.

Grand Canyon Association

- 3581 2013 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art 2013. (Designed by Barbara Glynn Denney.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 28 pp.

5th Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

Gränzer, Monika

- 3582 2013 Wilde tage am Farbenfluss; eine Familie folgt dem Colorado-River. Landpost (Stuttgart), (32): 27-29. [In German.] (transl. 'Wild days by the colored river; a family follows the Colorado River')

Visit to Marble Canyon and Grand Canyon South Rim.

Gray, John

- 3583 2013 The Grand Canyon Clean-up. The Arizona Mountaineer (Arizona Mountaineering Club, Phoenix), wrap-around cover, 16-17.

Report on annual Over-the-Edge On-Rappel Grand Canyon Trash Pickup.

Gurung, Dipendra

- 3584 2013 250 Gurkha Signal Squadron (250 GSS) Newsletter. Ex CANYON DRAGON-AT expedition to USA. The Kukri (Brigade of Gurkhas, Journal) (Headquarters Brigade of Gurkhas, Pewsey, Wiltshire, United Kingdom), (63) (July): 100.

Brief report of Level 3 Adventurous Training exercise to U.S., July 27-August 7, 2012. Included Grand Canyon (though noted in passing).

Hagerty, Donald J.

- 3585 2013 A perfect union: the Library and Courts Building Maynard Dixon Frank Van Sloun murals. Bulletin (California State Library Foundation), (106): 14-23.

See p. 19, note that Dixon completed his "last great mural, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, for the Santa Fe Railroad's Los Angeles ticket office only three weeks before his death on November 13, 1946." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Harlan, Gabrielle Rachel

- 3586 2013 "Playing Indian" in the American Southwest: the development of the Pueblo Revival style, 1890-1930. Doctoral dissertation, University of Virgin, 558 pp. + figures [766 pp. total] [all figures follow p. 558; they are not paginated].

See in particular "Chapter Three—Playing Indian at the Edge of the Grand Canyon: Consuming Identities at Hopi House" (pp. 254-326, Figures 3.1-3.35).

Harms, Kay, AND Pegelow, Laine

- 3587 2013 Look what God is blessing. The Great Arizona Road Trip. Portraits (Arizona Southern Baptist Convention, Scottsdale), 17(1) (January/February): cover, 3-9, 12-17.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Hayler, John

- 3588 2013 TCB . . . Taking Care of Business. Propwash (Hastings District Flying Club, Port Macquaire, New South Wales, Australia), (July): 5-8. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Flight in a twin-engine Beechcraft 58P Baron from Greensborough, North Carolina, U.S.A., to Macquaire, New South Wales, Australia. See p. 5: "Mid afternoon saw us landing at the Grand Canyon airport, and it was a truly breathtaking sight from the air in '58TT' [N158TT]. It's quite a ditch they have there!!" (ENTIRE NOTE)]

Helstáb, Laura

- 3589 2013 „West coast is the best coast?" Viva Las Vegas és a Grand Canyon. PBÚ (Pesti Bölcsész Újság, Budapest), 16(211) (October 11): 19f. [In Hungarian.]

Hensel, Doug

- 3590 2013 Blister in the sun. Carolina Godiva Track Club (Durham, North Carolina), 38(10) (July): 1, 4.

Rim-to-rim run; an attempt at a rim-to-rim-to-rim run.

- 3591 2013 Happy trails. Carolina Godiva Track Club (Durham, North Carolina), 39(3) (December): 1, 5

A health-related perspective of the writer's attempt at a rim-to-rim-to-rim run.

Hoberman, Mara

- 3592 2013 Adel Abdessemed. (Studio visit and portrait by Robert Lakow.) Whitewall (New York), (Spring): 92-101.

Abdessemed, artist and performance artist. See p. 95, reference to Abdessemed having "dangled over the Grand Canyon while scratching 'DEATH' onto the rock face." (ENTIRE NOTE) (Research indicates that this pertains to Algerian conceptual artist Abdessemed having engraved the word onto the under side of a boulder at "Grand Canyon", which subsequently was removed to a gallery (2008) (see for example online http://www.artnet.com/magazineus/reviews/davis/davis4-30-09\_detail.asp?picnum=11; accessed April 15, 2022). As such, unlikely and improbably at/from Grand Canyon, at least the national park.)

Hotham, Gary

- 3593 2013 [Senryū.] In: Haiku and Senryu [SECTION]. Frogpond (Haiku Society of America), 36(2) (Spring/Summer): 29. [In English.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jag (Monk)

- 3594 2013 Monk Jag's USA retreat. BSV (Buddhist Society of Victoria, Newsletter) (East Malvern, Victoria, Australia), 17(1) (February/April): 1-2.

Visit to Grand Canyon.

Jenkins, Jennifer L.

- 3595 2013 Sights and sounds: Fox Movietone visits Grand Canyon, June 1929. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 3-8.

Jost, Jon

- 3596 2013 Canyon. [United States]: Jon Jost. HD Video. 76:00 and 24:00

An experimental short silent film produced as a compressed-time view of a day at the Grand Canyon; see also Jost (1970). "Canyon is in effect a re-make of a film I shot in 1970 in 16mm, which ran 5 [sic] minutes. It was a look down into the [Grand] Canyon for a full day, made from a sequence of shots, taken from the same viewpoint, Yavapi [sic, Yaki Point], dissolved one to the next. This version is in HD and takes advantage of the improved definition, and the release for certain constraints which 16mm imposed—technical and financial. Here the limits of time, cost, and the improved aesthetic quality allowed for another approach, though again the work is from a single vantage point—it is subtler and more in keeping with the nature of the canyon and its pacing. I also made a shorter version for those unable to adjust to a hint of the canyon's 'sense of time'—the short version is 24 minutes long." (from Jon Jost website, <http://www.jonjost.altervista.org/work/canyon.html>; accessed 15 July 2019). See also an interview with Jost, regarding the 1970 and 2013 films (Oter and Jost, 2014).

Ko, Benny

- 3597 2013 Expedition to the great American Southwest (5). Indy Asian American Times / 印州华报 (Carmel, Indiana), (December 13): 7.

Grand Canyon North Rim.

Kolpas, Norman

- 3598 2013 Soaring perspectives; large-scale landscapes by Arturo Chávez depict the wonders of the West. Southwest Art, 43(6) (November): 80-83.

Includes Grand Canyon, illustrated by "Rock of Ages", in oil.

Kozel, Kevin

- 3599 2013 SAC outreach: My first Grand Canyon North Rim Star Party. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 37(8) (August): 12-13.

Kramer, Lauren

- 3600 2013 Hike deep into the Grand Canyon. The Canadian Jewish News (Montreal Edition), 43(30) (August 29) (23 Elul 5773): 33.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lambert, Steve

- 3601 2013 [Visit to Grand Canyon.] In: Spotlight [SECTION]. Alliance Integrated Services Limited, Newsletter, 2(1) (March): ii.
Brief item, with photograph.

Larsson, Ola

- 3602 2013 Bara några rader . . . om slutna cirklar på CES. ElektronikBranschen (Stockholm), 2013(1): [3].
[Ellipsis is part of title.] [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Just a few lines . . . about closed circles at CES')
Consumer Electronics Show, Las Vegas. Item includes note and photo of helicopter trip into Grand Canyon (photo shows it is a commercial "champagne" flight to Grand Canyon West).

Lee, Jung Sun [이정선]

- 3603 2013 아름다운 미국 여행의 추억 [aleumdaun migug yeohaeng-ui chueog] [Beautiful American travel memories]. 영원한 친구들 [yeong-wonhan chingudeul] / Lasting Friends (사단법인 한미우호협회 (KAFS) [sadanbeob-in hanmiuhohyeobhoe] / Korean American Friendship Association, Seoul), (184) (March): 19-24. [In Korean, with bilingual serial title and publisher's information.]
Includes remarks on an aircraft tour to Grand Canyon and a rafting ride on the Colorado River.

Lefebure, Stephen

- 3604 2013 Rocks full of sky. Tucson: Anaphora Literary Press.
See "Grand Canyon", p. 61; "Zoroaster Temple", p. 62. See also cover image: "Grand Canyon National Park' by Grand Canyon NPS, in Desert View, Arizona, June 2010" (Watchtower); legend on title-page verso.

Leis, Patrick

- 3605 2013 Små hvide løgne. Globen (De Berejstes Klub, København), (54) (Winter 2013/2014): 10-13. [In Danish.]
(transl. 'Little white lies')
Motorcyclist's report of a visit to the Southwest; includes Grand Canyon West. ("Little white lies" refers to an incident where he was stranded at a border station trying to get back into the U.S.)

Leopold, Aldo

- 3606 2013 [Letter] To Clara Leopold, May 11, 1917. In: Aldo Leopold : a Sand County almanac and other writings on ecology and conservation. (Curt Meine, ed.) New York: The Library of America, pp. 758-760.
Includes brief remarks on a trip into Grand Canyon.
- 3607 2013 [Letter] To Estella Leopold, Grand Canyon, July 18 [1917]. In: Aldo Leopold : a Sand County almanac and other writings on ecology and conservation. (Curt Meine, ed.) New York: The Library of America, pp. 760-762.
Describes a trip into Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

LoVecchio, Janolyn G.

- 3608 2013 Business women tourists at the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 189-193.

Marcelle, J. R. Kurt

- 3609 2013 Spiritual poetic insights. [No place]: CreateSpace, 50 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
See "The Grand View", pp. 23-25.

McGivney, Annette, AND Markow, Paul

- 3610 2013 Mail dominant. Arizona Highways, 89(5) (May): 50-51. [Thomas Ratz, El Tovar employee, and his collection of Grand Canyon correspondence from the first half of the twentieth century.]

Mooregood, Bestus

- 3611 2013 The Winslow zone; Station to Station invades La Posada with a train full of hipsters, and, of course, I'm there. Flagstaff Live!, 19(39) (September 26-October 2): 12-13.

Concludes with a trip to Soap Creek Rapids on the Colorado River.

Moriarty, Hilary

- 3612 2013 Letter from America. (The Director's Column.) Boarding School (Boarding Schools' Association, London), (38) (Winter): 3.

Includes remarks, and photo, of the author's visit to Grand Canyon.

Muller, Seth

- 3613 2013 Poems about interactions with animals in Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (16) (Winter): 14.

"Ravens", "California Condor Dreamin'", and "Bighorn". Poems "will be part of a poetry book about Grand Canyon and the Colorado Plateau called Heart in the Bony Middle, to be released by Vishnu Temple Press in early 2014." See Muller (2014).

Muona, V-P

- 3614 2013 Route 66 motoristin "pyhiinvaellusmatka". Kokko MC-Club r.y. (Kokkola, Finland), 2013: 24, 26, 28. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Route 66 motorists' "pilgrimage")

Motorcycle trip on Route 66. Includes Grand Canyon.

Myers, Tom [Myers, Thomas M.]

- 3615 2013 Down the gorge with Uncle George: Hiking the length of the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 65-72.

A retrospective of canyon-length hikers, in memory of George Steck.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Nanfeldt, James

- 3616 2013 I once rode a Norton to California. New Sweden BMW Riders, Monthly Newsletter (New Jersey), (August): 5-8.
- Cross-country trip on a Norton 850 motorcycle in 1976. Includes Grand Canyon. No illustrations.

Nelson, Rodney

- 3617 2013 Mogollon Picnic : poems. Princeton, New Jersey: Red Dashboard LLC Publishing, 39 [41] pp.
- See "Hermit Gorge" (p. 20); "Gunnar Widforss' Canyon" (p. 27); "From a letter to Bernadette" (p. 36).

Nering, Doug

- 3618 2013 Exploring the John Hance Inner-Canyon Toll Road. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 59-64.

Nienaber, Gawie

- 3619 2013 Route 66—Live to ride a dream. Kick Start (Vintage Motorcycle Club, Johannesburg, South Africa), 27(12) (December): 11-14.
- Includes note of visit to Grand Canyon.

Odderstol, Barbara Stephens

- 3620 2013 The trails of an Early Canyon Kid. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 155-160.

Ooi, Lucy

- 3621 2013 An aeronautical Arizona vacation. Flying Club 1 (Flying Club 1, Springfield, Virginia), 13(12) (December): 10-12.
- Part 3 of a series. This installment includes flight from Grand Canyon Caverns, over Grand Canyon, to Valle and on to Page, Arizona.

Perry, Sean

- 3622 2013 Arizona trike tour 2012. Access (C16 Virago Star Owners Club), (Winter/Spring): [10]-[11].
- Trip with three-wheeler Harley Davidson motorcycles. Includes Grand Canyon South Rim.

Peter and Donna Thomas [firm]

- 3623 2013 The Grand Canyon. Santa Cruz, California: Peter and Donna Thomas, [unpaginated].
- Miniature book. Accordion-fold production of 18 panels, with quotations from John Wesley Powell, Aldo Leopold, Nancy and Roger Kayser, and Donna and Peter Thomas, overprinted on elevational depiction from Powell.
- WorldCat entry for 2013 production further indicates: "Contains nine watercolor landscape paintings painted on-site in the Grand Canyon in 2007 by Donna Thomas. Watercolor illustrations are tipped in with decorative handmade corners, which have been hand-stitched to pages. Includes a section of pages cut out resembling a view of the river and the different rock layers of the canyon. Bound with exposed coptic binding on wooden

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

boards. Paper leaves irregular on fore-edge. Issued in beige cloth covered clamshell box (21 cm) with ribbon ties and paper title label on lid. Handmade paper and wooden boards by Peter Thomas. Paper cutting, stitching and clamshell box by Donna Thomas."

See also Peter and Donna Thomas (2007).

Petersen, Alan

- 3624 2013 Gunnar Widforss: The artist and the myths. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 245-250.

Petrillo, Rick

- 3625 2013 North Rim camp. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 30.
Rick Petrillo ©1985".

Plange, David

- 3626 2013 Single across the Pacific; it might be a PT6 but there's still only one engine—David Plange flies an overweight Caravan across lots of water. General Aviation (Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, London) (Cornwall, United Kingdom), (April): 20-23.

Cessna Caravan, flight from Wichita, Kansas, to Singapore. Includes remark of "a breathtaking view of the Grand Canyon flying almost directly over KGCN, the Grand Canyon National Park Airport just off the rim of the canyon itself." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Plasse, Ron

- 3627 2013 From Ron Plasse. In: News of the World and Beyond [SECTION]. Circle 'n Squares Newsletter (Santa Rosa, California), (December): 2-4.

Southwestern trip, including Grand Canyon.

Posporelis, Sotiris [Ποσπορέλης, Σωτήρης]

- 3628 2013 Road Trip USA. Η Εύα φεύγει από Τούμπα και προσγειώνεται Σαν Φρανσίσκο. Ανταμώνει με τον ανταποκριτή μας και αδελφό της, Σωτήρη, και σαν αφηνιασμένα άλογα καλπάζουν στην Ανατολική Ακτή. Αυτό είναι το οδοιπορικό τους. [Road Trip USA. Η Έβα févgei apó Touúmpa kai prosgeiónetai San Fransísiko. Antamónei me ton antapokrití mas kai adelfó tis, Sotíri, kai san afiniasména áloga kalpázoun stin Anatolikí Aktí. Aftó éinai to odoiporikó tous.] [Road Trip USA. Eva leaves Toumba and lands in San Francisco. She meets our correspondent and her brother, Sotiris, and they gallop on the East Coast like abandoned horses. This is their journey.] SOUL (Η Ψυχη Της Πολης 2310 Magazine [I Psychi Tis Polis 2310 Magazine] [Soul of Urban Life 2310 Magazine]) (Θεσσαλονίκη [Thessaloniki, Greece]), (71) (February/March): 90-95. [In Greek; with principal item title in English, thus.]

Includes Grand Canyon.

Raivio, Päivi, AND Tate, Justin Tyler

- 3629 2013 Kaip padaryti turistinę nuotrauką? / How to take a tourist photo. In: Martini, Federica, and Michelkevičius, Vytautas (kuratoriai/curators), Interformato simpoziumas; apie kritinį turizmą, vietiskumą ir postromantinį būvį; VDA Nidos meno kolonija, 2013 m. gegužės 16-19 d. / Interformat symposium; On Critical Tourism, Site-Specificity and Post-Romantic Condition; Nida Art Colony, May 16-19, 2013 [section]. Nidos Meno Kolonija, Žurnalas / Nida Art Colony Log (Vilniaus

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

dailės akademija, Nidos Meno Kolonija / Vilnius Academy of Arts, Nida Art Colony), 2013(1)(5) (January/September): 174-179. [In parallel Lithuanian and English texts, with bilingual titles.]

See drawing on p. 176: „Aš pats.“ Didysis Kanjonas, Arizona, JAV” / “Selfie’—Grand Canyon, Arizona, USA”.

Rees, Hannah M.

- 3630 2013 A crewel story. In: Selected Writing by Hannah Rees [SECTION]. The Bay View Literary Magazine (United Methodist Church, Bay View Association, Petoskey, Michigan), 8 (Summer) (“Connections”): 13-14.

Regarding the author’s teen daughters’ stitching a crewel pattern for their grandmother during a cross-country trip to visit her at Bay View. Includes remarks on “several days at the Grand Canyon where the girls rode the donkeys down half way before having lunch and coming back up” (a reference to the Plateau Point mule trip).

Richardson, Tony

- 3631 2013 Adventure in the Grand Canyon. La Jolla Sports Club, Newsletter (La Jolla, California), (July/August): 3.

Rim-to-river-to-rim run.

Ringer, Herb

- 3632 2013 Herb remembers . . . Shorty Yarberry of the Grand Canyon. In: Herb Ringer; his lifelong love affair with the American West (in words and images) [FEATURE]. Canyon Country Zephyr, 25(3) (August/September): 26. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

George Armstrong Custer Yarberry.

Romig, James

- 3633 2013 Allometric preludes for solo piano. [No place]: Parallax Music Press (ASCAP), [4], 21, [1] pp. [Score.]

“A Prelude to the Preludes...”, “June 1-21, 2012, Grand Canyon National Park”, pp. [2]-[3] (ellipsis is part of title). “Allometric Preludes for piano. Book One (Preludes 1-12)”, pp. 1-21; “Supported by the Artist-In-Residence program at Grand Canyon National Park”; “May 2012-September 2013, Grand Canyon National Park, Rocky Mountain National Park, Grand Teton National Park, Yellowstone National Park, Denali National Park, Kenai Fjords National Park, Acadia National Park, Macomb, Illinois”. Unpaginated last leaf comprises facsimile reproduction of the manuscript score for “A Prelude to the Preludes...”, titled there “Allometric Preludes”, dated “6/20/12 Grand Canyon National Park”.

Runs, Vanessa [Rodriguez, Vanessa]

- 3634 2013 The summit seeker. [No imprint], 168 pp. (Produced by Y42K Production Services.) [An on-demand publication.]

See “On Running the Grand Canyon”, pp. 133-143.

Saint-Germain, Adamus

- 3635 2013 (CHANNELED THROUGH Geoffrey Hoppe) Grand Canyon journey with Adamus Saint-Germain : Grand Canyon Tour 2013, Arizona USA : transcript : featuring Adamus Saint-Germain, channeled through

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Geoffrey Hoppe, assisted by Linda Hoppe, and Amir Yakobi on djembe. Golden, Colorado: Crimson Circle Energy Co., 17 pp.

Inspirational state-of-consciousness talk by Adamus Saint-Germain regarding the canyon's "interdimensional energy highway", recorded at Shrine of the Ages, Grand Canyon. Available as a digital-audio .mp3 file online, with text transcript in PDF. The PDF transcript is also available in translations in Finnish, French, German, Polish, Norwegian, Romanian, and Swedish. (The .mp3 and PDF files were accessed July 2014. No longer accessible June 2, 2022.)

Schallau, Adam

- 3636 2013 Grand-prize winner. Thunderstorm, Grand Canyon. In: Kida, Jeff (ed.), Best Picture 2013 [FEATURE]. Arizona Highways, 89(9) (September): 36-37.

Scruggs, Thomas

- 3637 2013 Grand Canyon magic or mysticism. [No place]: Hobo Publishing, 40 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Simmons, Tracey Buswell

- 3638 2012 Driver profile: Driving to the sky with Kathy Barker; Silver State Trailways, Nevada. Trailways Traveler, 2012: 20.

Charter bus driver on trips to Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.

Smarandache, Florentin

- 3639 2013 În Vestul NeSălbatic : fotojurnal instantaneu. Craiova, România: Editura SITECH, 128 pp. [In Romanian.]
(transl. 'In the Wild West: instant photojournalism')

Cursory travelogue. See regarding Marble Canyon, pp. 54-55; Grand Canyon, pp. 65-66.

Snyder, Brian

- 3640 2013 Off the map : fifty-five weeks of adventuring in the great American wilderness and beyond. [No place]: CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. [An on-demand publication.]

Grand Canyon, see pp. 81-83.

Stern, Jean; McGarry, Susan Hallsten; AND Dunn, Terry Lawson

- 3641 2013 Art of the national parks : historic connections, contemporary interpretations. [Albuquerque, New Mexico]: Fresco Fine Art Publications, LLC, 432 pp.

See "Grand Canyon National Park", pp. 150-221, featuring the historic art and photography of Thomas Moran and William Henry Jackson; and contemporary art of Bruce Aiken, Elizabeth Black, Arturo Chávez, Linda Glover Gooch, Matthew Higginbotham, Peter Holbrook, William Scott Jennings, Merrill Mahaffey, Louisa McElwain, Tom Murray, P. A. Nisbet, Dave A. Santillanes, and Curt Walters.

Stevens, Mitch

- 3642 2013 Deer Creek to Kanab Creek—an epic Grand Canyon trek. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 49(3) (Summer): 15.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Stipa, Anthony

- 3643 2013 Carol's troupe; after two decades of musical memories, assistant professor of music Carol Evans and her local vocal group is all grown up. Today (Gwynedd-Mercy College, Gwynedd Valley, Pennsylvania), (Spring): 2-4.
- Voices of Gwynedd choral group. Includes note (p. 3) of having performed patriotic songs at Grand Canyon on July 4, 2007, as part of a Southwest U.S. tour; but photograph legend (p. 4) indicates Memorial Day Weekend, 2007.

Svenson, Helena

- 3644 2013 Med sikte på stora upplevelser. Tålmod är måste för en naturfotograf, säger Björn Billing. För honom är det en hobby som ger både rekreation och nya tankar i jobbet som idéhistoriker. GUjournalen (Göteborgs Universitet, Göteborg, Sweden), 2013(1) (February): 24-25.  [In Swedish.]
- (transl. 'With a view to great experiences. Patience is a must for a nature photographer, says Björn Billing. For him, it is a hobby that provides both recreation and new ideas in the job as a historian of ideas.')
- Interview with photographer Billing. Includes Billing's remarks on a photo of Havasu Falls (illustrated), one of his "most appreciated and noticed pictures" (translated here).

Takeshi, Tsuruoka [鶴岡 武氏]

- 3645 2013 西海岸観光 [Nishikaigan kankō] [Sightseeing on the West Coast]. 協会だより [Kyōkaida Yori] [From the Association] (触媒資源化協会 [Shokubai shigen-ka kyōkai] [Japan Catalyst Recycling Association], Tokyo), (246) (June): 3-7. [In Japanese.]
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Tasala, Outi

- 3646 2013 Matka mantereen halki. Jotailan Jutut (Sovio-Sovelius Yhdistyksen Kotisivu, Espoo, Finland), (18) (May): 18-21. [In Finnish.]
- (transl. 'Journey across the continent')
- Travel across America. Includes Grand Canyon. (The Sovio-Sovelius' Association is a geneological organization for Sovio and Sovelius families.)

Pórdís Björnsdóttir

- 3647 2013 Á mótorhjóli um Bandaríkin. Fregnir (Soroptimistasamband Íslands), 39(102) (December): 12-13. [In Icelandic.]
- (transl. 'On a motorcycle around the United States')
- Motorcycle trip in the western U.S. Grand Canyon noted in passing.

Trojan, Krystyna

- 3648 2013 „prawie“ Dzikie Zachód . . . jak zdobywaliśmy. Od dłuższego czasu rodzina mieszkająca w USA zapraszała nas do siebie. Wzięliśmy więc mapy i przewodniki, ułożyliśmy plan zwiedzania i w lipcu 2009 r. poleciliśmy z Krakowa przez Paryż do Chicago. Informator (Śląskiej Okręgowej Izby

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Inżynierów Budownictwa, Katowice, Poland), 2013(1)(37) (March): 30-35. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
[In Polish.]

(transl. ‘‘Almost’’ Wild West. . . like we found it. A family living in the USA has been inviting us to their place for a long time. So we took maps and guides, made a sightseeing plan and in July 2009 we flew from Krakow via Paris to Chicago.’)

Includes Grand Canyon.

Tseng, Hua-pi [Zeng, Huazhen] [曾華璧]

- 3649 2013 戰後臺灣環境保育與觀光事業的推手：游漢廷先生訪談錄 [Zhàn hòu táiwān huánjìng bǎoyù yǔ guānguāng shìyè de tuīshǒu: Yóuhàntíng xiānshēng fǎngtán lù] [The push for environmental protection and tourism in Taiwan after the war: Interview with Mr. Eu Hunter]. 臺灣文獻 [táiwān wénxiàn] [Taiwan Literature], 64(4): 223-274. [In Chinese.]

Interview with Hunter H. T. Eu. The English abstract (p. 274) gives title as: ‘‘Hunter Eu’s narration: The engineer behind conservation and tourism in post-war Taiwan’’. Eu participated in the ‘‘Introduction to Park Operations Program’’ at the Horace M. Albright Training Center, Grand Canyon, March 7-May 27, 1966. Includes personal recollections on time spent at Grand Canyon, pp. 240-242.

Turner, Sam

- 3650 2013 P38s over Grand Canyon. In: Quail Run Writers, Hatched : an eclectic collection from the Quail Run Writers. [No place]: Quail Run Writers, pp. 67-68.

Boyhood reminiscences of P-38 training activities at Grand Canyon during World War II. Also notes P-51s. (See also Turner and Fellows, 2000.)

- 3651 2013 Gathering piñon nuts. In: Quail Run Writers, Hatched : an eclectic collection from the Quail Run Writers. [No place]: Quail Run Writers, p. 335.

- 3652 2013 Bright Angel newsstand Grand Canyon: 1952. In: Quail Run Writers, Hatched : an eclectic collection from the Quail Run Writers. [No place]: Quail Run Writers, p. 349.

- 3653 2013 Nathan. In: Quail Run Writers, Hatched : an eclectic collection from the Quail Run Writers. [No place]: Quail Run Writers, p. 371.

Urbienė, Daiva

- 3654 2013 Olimpinė ekspedicija dviračiais: iš Pekino į Londoną. Lietuva (Vilnius), 2013(6) (February 4-10): 52-53. [In Lithuanian.]

(transl. ‘Olympic cycling expedition: from Beijing to London’)

Bicycling from Beijing to London, by way of Korea, Japan, the U.S., and Ireland. Includes Grand Canyon, in passing, with photo.

Verkamp, Susan [Verkamp, Susie]

- 3655 2013 Peggy Verkamp: A canyon life well-lived. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 161-166.

Margaret M. Verkamp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Vogel, Al

- 3656 2013 Canyon trek: decades old dream. The Dispatch (U.S. Army Dugway Proving Ground, Utah), (May): 12-13.
- Jim Robertson's dream.

Walsh, Patrick Hamilton

- 3657 2013 The backpacker who sold his supercar : a road map to achieving your dream life. Bloomington, Indiana: Trafford Publishing, 296 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
- Cover illustration depicts the author at Grand Canyon.

Webb, Roy

- 3658 2013 Falling into the Canyon: The 1944 airmen's surprise visit to the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 213-215.

Weed, Emma

- 3659 2013 Coast to canyon trip—A life-changing experience. The Brooksville Breeze (Brooksville Friends and Neighbors, Brooksville, Maine), (Summer): 1-3.
- Principally about a hike into Grand Canyon.

Weeks, Charles M.

- 3660 2013 HWI profile: Dr. Charles M. Weeks, Senior Research Scientist. Hauptman-Woodward Institute (Hauptman-Woodward Medical Research Institute, Buffalo, New York), (Winter/Spring): 6.
- Interview notes "best experience as a parent" was a mule trip into Grand Canyon with his teenaged children. Includes photos.

Wijaya, Willy Yanto

- 3661 2013 Catatan perjalanan melintasi pesisir barat dan timur Amerika Serikat plus perbatasan Meksiko. (Bagian 1). BVD: Berita Vimala Dharma (Pesamuhan Umat Vihara Vimala Dharma, Bandung, Indonesia), (154) (August): 37-45. [In Indonesian.]
- (transl. 'Travel logs from the west to east coasts of the United States plus the Mexican border. (Part 1).')
- The continuation ("Bagian 2") includes Grand Canyon but has not been found in this format. The text and photos are, however, located on the author's online blog, <https://willyyanto.wordpress.com/tag/phoenix-arizona/> (accessed June 2020).

Williams, Diane Stapp

- 3662 2013 Gourdian angel. The Costco Connection (Costco Wholesale, Seattle, Washington), 28(3) (March): 33.
- Artisan Bonnie Gibson, producer of gourd art. The article makes no mention of Grand Canyon; however, the Grand Canyon connection to a photo in this item was revealed through a comment in her "Arizona Gourds" newsletter on Gibson's website, www.arizonagourds.com/April2013.html, which mentions this Costco Connection article with the comment: "The photo [in the article] is from when I served as artist in residence at the North Rim of the Grand Canyon a few years ago—which explains the uniform shirt. The pictured gourd was made as

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

a gift to the National Park Service, as is owned by them. It is currently on display at the Phoenix airport as part of a traveling art show."

Williams, Gordon

- 3663 2013 Blacksmith on a Bike—Gordon Williams. The Anvil's Horn (Arizona Artist Blacksmith Association), (161) (March): 7.

Begins, "I'm excited about my upcoming adventure, 'Blacksmith on a Bike.' My friend Mike Allen and I will be riding our bikes from Fairbanks, Alaska to the railing we made on the South rim [sic] of the Grand Canyon, unsupported." (ENTIRE NOTE) Regarding the railing, which was installed in 2010 at the Mather Point Amphitheater, see more information with Anonymous, 2019, The Forum (The Guild of Metalsmiths).

Wyrick, Traci

- 3664 2013 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part VI. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 24(3) (Summer): 7-13.
- December 3, 1944-April 29, 1945. See also "Additions/Corrections", 26(3) (Summer 2015): 8. See also addendum, 27(4) (Fall 2016): 7. See also update, 28(1) (Winter 2017): 5.

- 3665 2013 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part VII. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 24(4) (Fall): 3-6, 16.
- May 2-August 28, 1945. See also "Additions/Corrections" in 25(1) (Winter 2014): 5. See also "Additions/Corrections", 26(3) (Summer 2015): 8.

Jewtuschenko, Jewgenij Alexandrowitsch [Yevtushenko, Yevgeny Aleksandrovich]

- 3666 2013 Wer bist du Grand Canyon. (Translated from the Russian by Ulrich Bergmann.) Dichtungsring (Zeitschrift für Literatur) (Bonn), (42): 42-47. [In German.]
- Translation of "Who are you, Grand Canyon?" (Yevtushenko, 1972).

Zhen, Lian Quan

- 3667 2013 Chinese landscape painting : techniques for watercolor. Cincinnati, Ohio: North Light Books, 127 [128] pp.
- Cover depicts "The Lookout" (Lookout Studio) at Grand Canyon, which appears in the section, "Planning a Chinese vs. Western Painting", p. 47; there the locale is erroneously cited only as "North Rim of the Grand Canyon". See also p. 52, in the section, "Techniques for Varying the Composition", which shows (without name) Moran Point.]

2014

Anonymous

- 3668 2014 A message from Father Jim. The Encourager (Saint Barnabas Church, Warwick, Rhode Island), (January): [1].
- Includes reminiscence of a Grand Canyon visit.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3669 2014 Client 1st notes. The Navigator (Client 1st Advisory Group), (Spring): [1].
See "Take a Copy of The Navigator on Your Next Vacation!", which includes a photo of "Phil and Judy Shields at the Grand Canyon", holding a copy of the newsletter.
- 3670 2014 Riding the rapids; Dougal Jerram; Geology, 1992. In: Network [SECTION]. Cardiff University Magazine (Cardiff University/Prifysgol Caerdydd, Development and Alumni Relations Division, Cardiff, Wales), (Spring): 29.
Features Jerram's participation as geologist with BBC Two while filming Operation Grand Canyon with Dan Snow (see BBC Two, 2014).
- 3671 2014 [Seminararians intensive seminar/creation science exploration/seminars.] Creation Truth (Association for Creation Truth Newsletter, Los Angeles), 22(4): 8-9. [In Korean, with English serial title, thus.] Includes photograph of group at Grand Canyon.
- 3672 2014 American Wilderness: OCS trip to the Grand Canyon. The Historian (Carleton College, History Department, Northfield, Minnesota), 12(1) (April 18): [1].
Brief report of "American Wilderness" seminar trip to Grand Canyon under Prof. George Vrtis. OCS: Off-Campus Studies.
- 3673 2014 A grand experience. In: Sunday of Divine Mercy; a scriptural reflection. Church of St. Mary Magdalene (San Diego), (April 27): 3. [Not signed, but written in the first person.]
- 3674 2014 Vortgragsreferat. Erlangenalpin (Deutscher Alpenverein, Sektion Erlangen), (April/September): 19.
[In German.]
(transl. 'Lecture'.)
See: "Mit dem Kajak durch den Grand Canyon: Wildwasser, Landschaft, Tiere" (transl. 'Lectures'. 'Kayaking through the Grand Canyon: whitewater, landscape, animals'). Speakers: Susanne and Bernd Keuonhof.
- 3675 2014 BCC made it to the Grand Canyon mountain biking the North Rim. OutSpokin' (Bonneville Cycling Club, Salt Lake City), (May/June): [10]-[19].
- 3676 2014 Wounded veterans visit GCW. Canyon Connection (Grand Canyon Resort Corporation), (11) (June): [10]-[11].
Heroes for Freedom visit Grand Canyon West. Includes comments from veterans, signed "Tom" and "Den x".
- 3677 2014 Plein Air and Beyond: A Recent body of Artwork, by Jim Thompson (The Drawing Board Gallery, Yorba Linda, California, January 2-March 21). In: Scholarship at Work [SECTION]. APU Life (Azusa Pacific University, Azusa, California), 27(2) (Summer): 11.
Notice of art exhibition. The en plein air piece, "All Sixty-Six", representing "God's faithfulness during the artist's 66 years of life", is "a scene of the Grand Canyon on the surface of 66 yo-yos, some of which cracked during the process". This piece is illustrated here in a small, thumbnail image.
- 3678 2014 Grand Canyon North Rim trail; rating: 2 to 4. The Dirt Devils Digest (Dirt Devils, Southern California), (September): 3-4.
Trip report. 4-wheel-drive vehicles from St. George, Utah, to Kelly Point, Grand Gulch Mine, Pigeon Canyon, Tassi Ranch, Whitney Pockets, and Mesquite, Nevada.
- 3679 2014 Employees take on "grand" hike. The Connector (South Carolina Department of Transportation), 26(3) (Fall): 15.
Susan Johnson and Allen Frierson completed rim-to-rim-to-rim Grand Canyon hike. Two photos and legend.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3680 2014 Mustangtrio i Las Vegas. KalmarPosten (Kalmar, Sweden), 26(45) (November 5): 38. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Mustang Trio in Las Vegas.')
- Includes Grand Canyon.
- 3681 2014 Bush Tele abroad. Bush Telegraph Weekly (Berowra Heights, New South Wales, Australia), (November 20): 10.
- "Julie" poses at Grand Canyon with a copy of "Bush Tele".
- Abyssus, C. V. [pseudonym] [Quartaroli, Richard D.]
- 3682 2014 Kolb on a Rope. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(3) (Fall): 9-11.
- Identification of site of Kolb Brothers' photograph, showing photographer with gear hanging from a rope stretched across a crevice, colloquially referred to as "Kolb on a Rope".
- Alba, Chris Weygandt
- 3683 2014 Paso Artsfest, May 23-24. A tale of amazing encounters. Beautiful Surprises. Paso Robles Magazine (Paso Robles, California), (May): 16-17.
- Includes Vietnamese artist Quyag Ho, with reproduction of his painting, "Grand Canyon Storm".
- Arnold, Amanda
- 3684 2014 Beyond the paper; the expansive and unusual photography of Dudley Bacon. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (August): 36-38.
- Notes, "Lee's Ferry Sunrise" is inspired from one of his photographs but is made of cardboard, candy wrappers, toilet paper tubes, plastic bags and the green bags that limes are sold in."
- Aykanat, Esin
- 3685 2014 Doğal dokuların geometrik biçimli seramik yüzeylerdeki yorumu. Yüksek lisans sanat çalışması raporu [Master's thesis], Hacettepe Üniversitesi Güzel Sanatlar Enstitüsü, Seramik Anasanat Dalı, 100 pp. [In Turkish.]
(transl. 'Interpretation of natural textures on geometrically shaped ceramic surfaces.')
- See pp. 18-19, "Canyon Wall Vase" by Anne Goldman (with reference to Havasu Canyon).
- Berg, Dan
- 3686 2014 2014 Southwest Rail Tour; Grand Canyon Railway, May 4, 5 and 6, 2014. (Cover photos by Dan Berg and Phil Nist.) Line Up (Motorcar Operators West), 22(2) (Summer): cover, 2, 10-16, back cover.
- Two-day excursion by rail motorcar on Grand Canyon Railway. See also Berg (2012).
- Berg, Erik
- 3687 2014 GCHS stages a tour to tour a stage (line)—a report of our May outing. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 18(3) (May/June): 2-3.
- Grand Canyon Stage Line.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Berry, Emmons, AND Berry, Nora

- 3688 2014 Raising a family at Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 21(2) (Spring): 10.

Boström, Mårten

- 3689 2014 Reserven blev en VM-guldmedaljör. Hufvudstadsbladet (Helsingfors, Finland), (May 17): 28-29.
[In Swedish.]
(transl. 'The reservist became a World Cup gold medalist.')

Interview. Includes remarks on running in Havasu Canyon.

Brennen, Christopher Earls

- 3690 2014 The far side of the sky. [No place]: Dankat Publishing Co., 366 pp. [Privately published.]
See Chapter 19, "Grand Canyon", pp. 149-154; Chapter 36, "Havasupai", pp. 261-269.

Bryan, Barry

- 3691 2014 Hiking rim-to-rim across the Grand Canyon. In: Trailing Around the World [SECTION]. Bibbulmun News (Bibbulmun Track Foundation, Perth, Western Australia), (65) (April/July): 30-32.

Burkhart, Roger "Burky", AND "Al Gore"

- 3692 2014 A chance encounter between veterans. Between the Lines (Vietnam Veterans of America, Chapter 20, Rochester, New York), (22) (October): 14.

Writer's chance encounter with Sen. John McCain at North Rim, Grand Canyon (with photo). McCain [Republican Senator from Arizona] kiddingly identified himself as [former Democratic Vice-President] Al Gore.

Butler, Elias

- 3693 2014 This one's for Harvey. Arizona Highways, 90(7) (July): 46-49.

Regarding the author's climb of Butchart Butte near Point Imperial in 2008; a butte named for Harvey Butchart (1907-2002).

Childs, Craig

- 3694 2014 A winter's walk. Arizona Highways, 90(1) (January): 40-45.

Grand Canyon.

Clough, Ronald, AND Sanyasi Images

- 3695 2014 A grand adventure. Part II: Journey from Canyon Country. Motorcycle Bagger, (November/December): 16-.

Cumbers, Barbara

- 3696 2014 Grand Canyon. Poetry Salzburg Review (Salzburg, Austria), (26) (Autumn): 84.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dalskov, Knud

- 3697 2014 MC tur til USA—Californien-Arizona-Nevada. FSM (Faaborg Ski og Motionsklub, [Odense, Denmark]), 25(1) (March): 26-29. [In Danish.]
- Motorcycle trip in Southwest. Includes notes of "Little Grand Canyon" (Little Colorado River Gorge) and Grand Canyon (p. 28).

Dey, Deepnath

- 3698 2014 My Grand Canyon experience. উত্তরণ [Uttarāṇa] (Uttoron, Bengali Community of Greater Seattle) (Seattle, Washington), (শারদপত্র ১৪২১) [Śāradapatra 1421] (Sharod Patro 2014): ৪১ [41].
- Item in English; serial mostly in Bengali, with publication data bilingual.

Dodder, Steve

- 3699 2014 SAC outreach: Grand Canyon Star Party 2014; North Rim. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 38(8) (August): 12-15.

Dvorak, John

- 3700 2014 Earthquake storms : the fascinating history and volatile future of the San Andreas fault. New York and London: Pegasus Books, 254 pp.
- Levi F. Noble and geological work at Grand Canyon, pp. 94-99; seismologist Charles Richter on a mule trip on Bright Angel Trail, p. 121.

Ehrenpreis, Vanessa

- 3701 2014 Transcending the guardrail: Connecting with the natural world at South Rim. Pathways (Alternative Spring Break Literary Magazine), 3: 9-12.

Ehrlich, Ted

- 3702 2014 The grand tour; Hermit's Rest to South Kaibab. Location: Grand Canyon, AZ. TrailGroove (Lander, Wyoming), (18): 83-100.
- Loop hike from Hermit Trail to South Kaibab Trail.

Elder, Jimmy

- 3703 2014 Renderings [pastor's column]. The Weekly Guide (First Baptist Church, Columbus, Georgia), 8 (March 2-8): 2.
- Remarks on a February visit to Grand Canyon.

Elsmore, Warrenb

- 3704 2014 Brick wonders : ancient, modern, and natural wonders made from LEGO®. Hauppauge, New York: Barron's Educational Series, Inc., 1st U.S. and Canada ed., 254 pp. + 2 large fold-outs.
- See "Grand Canyon", pp. 214-221. LEGO® building blocks.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Engelhard, Michael

- 3705 2014 No walk in the park; an off-trail adventure on the inner canyon's other side. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (April): 18-22.

Farkas, Tünde

- 3706 2014 Bakancsban a világ körül—Gyalogtúra a Grand Canyon mélyére; Farkas Tünde élménybeszámolója. Sárisápi Hírmondó / Šarišápske Správy (Sárisáp, Hungary), 18(4) (December): 7. [In Hungarian; serial title given in both Hungarian and Slovak.]
(transl. 'Boots around the world—hike deep into the Grand Canyon; Tünde Farkas's experience report.')

Ferrari, Vincent

- 3707 2014 Out and about; what B-CCC members are up to this month. The Viewfinder (Bowie-Crofton Camera Club, Bowie, Maryland), 33(7) (March): 15.

Includes: "A photograph by Vincent Ferrari was chosen to be used on an event invitation by the Grand Canyon Field Institute. The photo [illustrated] is entitled 'Storm's End', and was taken from the South Rim Village at Grand Canyon, Arizona, in February of 2012."

Frost, Kayla

- 3708 2014 Backpack to Phantom Ranch (women only). In: Rare Opportunities [FEATURE]. Arizona Highways, 90(1) (January): 22.

See also letter from Mike Buchheit, 90(4) (April): 4.

Gammon, Carolyn, AND Unger, Israel

- 3709 2014 Das ungeschriebene Tagebuch von Israel Unger. (Erica Fischer, translator.) Berlin: Metropol Verlag, 268 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'The unwritten diary of Israel Unger'.)

Translation of Gammon and Unger (2013). Grand Canyon, see pp. 178-179.

Gavin, Thea

- 3710 2014 Going rim to rim, barefoot. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 214-221.

Gianelli, Sarah

- 3711 2014 It's the arts. The Noise (Flagstaff, Arizona), (155) (UltraSuperMega Edition) (April): 17-.

Begins with the work of Shawn Skyabelund, including (illustrated) his installation at Grand Canyon National Park Headquarters, "The Price of Entrance".

Glass, Bradford L.

- 3712 2014 A river runs through it [life lessons offered by nature]. Purposeful Wanderings (The Road Not Taken, Cape Cod, Massachusetts), 13(12) (December): [2]. [Square brackets are part of the title.]

Inspirational message based on Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grand Canyon Association

- 3713 2014 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art 2014. (Designed by Barbara Glynn Denney.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 28 pp.
- 6th Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

Green, Nancy [Green, Nancy Rivest]

- 3714 2014 Steam car replica run, August 26-27, 2014. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(4) (Fall): 10-12.
- Flagstaff to Grandview Point, Grand Canyon. Nick and Chris Howell drive the same 1902 Toledo steam car that made the first automobile run from Flagstaff to Grandview in 1902; also the brothers' first visit to Grand Canyon.

Gulliford, Andrew

- 3715 2014 White water, scorpion stings, and a steep hike out: Welcome to Grand Canyon. In: Gulliford, Andrew (ed.), Outdoors in the Southwest : an adventure anthology. Norman, Oklahoma: University of Oklahoma Press, pp. 261-264.

[Gulliford, Andrew]

- 3716 2014 Canyons and deserts. In: Gulliford, Andrew (ed.), Outdoors in the Southwest : an adventure anthology. Norman, Oklahoma: University of Oklahoma Press, pp. 189-202.
- Not signed. Includes Havasupai.

Hallenberg, Juha

- 3717 2014 Amerikan kuulumisia. Suomelan Sanomat (Asociación Finlandesa Suomela), (November): 10-12. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'American affiliations')
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Hamaguchi, Tomiyo [濱口富代]

- 3718 2014 グランドキャニオン [Gurandokyanion] [Grand Canyon]. In: 広報文芸 [Kōhō bungei] [Public Relations Literary Arts] [SECTION], 詩 [uta] [Poetry] (米倉 雅久 [Yonekura Masahisa], ed.). 広報とば [kōhō toba] [Toba Public Relations] (とば総務課, 広報情報係 [Toba sōmu-ka, kōhō jōhō-gakari] [Toba General Affairs Division, Public Relations Information Section]), (April 1): 22. [In Japanese.]

Gunn, Nicholas

- 3719 2014 Return to Grand Canyon. [Brentwood, Tennessee]: Spring Hill. CD.
- Sequel to The Music of Grand Canyon (1995); originally released 1999.

Henderson, Denise

- 3720 2014 Close to the edge. In: Letters to the Editor [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 90(4) (April): 4.
- Reminiscences of growing up at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Henningsohn, Lars

- 3721 2014 Det är stort att få vara ordförande! SUFs Ordförande har Ordet. Svensk Urologi (Svensk Urologisk Förening, Tidskrift), 2014(3): 6. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'It's great to be chairman! SUF's Chairman has the floor.')

Author is chairman of the Swedish Urology Association. Article notes family visit to Southwest USA, including Grand Canyon; with photo at Grand Canyon.]

Hereter, Román

- 3722 2014 El Cafetal en el Far West; un recorrido por los parques Nacionales del Circulo Dorado. El Cafetal (Cialven s.l., Sant Joan Despi, Spain), (September): 30-44. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'El Cafetal in the Far West; a tour of the Golden Circle national parks.')

See "Grand Canyon", pp. 41-42.

Hoehn, Jack

- 3723 2014 Going to church in the Grand Canyon. Adventist Today Update, (May 3-9): [unpaginated].

"There is an outdoor natural church in the Grand Canyon." West Rim worship site.

Holladay, Kris

- 3724 2014 Full circle. The SOFT Times (Support Organization for Trisomy 18, 13 and Related Disorders), (November 2013/January 2014): 2.

Thoughts on seeing a full-circle rainbow from an aircraft flying over Grand Canyon.

Hollenbach, Margaret

- 3725 2014 Rock Bhakti: Dreaming the Vishnu Schist. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 16-31.

Ittzés, Tamás

- 3726 2014 Képes amerikai élménybeszámoló. Bohem Jazz Magazin (Kecskemét, Hungary), 4(1) (February): 4-5. [In Hungarian.]

Travelogue. Includes Grand Canyon.

Jenkins, Mark

- 3727 2014 Thus spake Zarathustra. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 191-198.

Rock climbing Zoroaster Temple.

Jurgen, Rick

- 3728 2014 The dead deer at Yuma Point. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 118-129.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kaakkuriniemi, Ari

- 3729 2014 Arin matka maailman ympäri. Hyvän Tuulen Kuivaniemi (Kuivaniemi, Finland), (Summer): 2. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Ari's trip around the world')

Grand Canyon, in passing.

Kast, Günter, AND Urbaniak, Sandra

- 3730 2014 Kurbeln am Rande des Abgrunds. Mountains 4U, (June/July): [unpaginated]. [In German.]
(transl. 'Cranking on the edge of the abyss')

Mountain biking at Grand Canyon's rim. Contents page indicates "Genial Reisen mit dem Mountainbike durch den Grand Canyon" (transl. 'Awesome mountain bike trips through the Grand Canyon').

Kempa, Rick

- 3731 2014 (Ed.) On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 243 pp.

Separately authored chapters.

Kindras, Kateryna, AND Labunsky, Valentin [Кіндрась, Катерина; Лабунський, Валентин]

- 3732 2014 Над безоднею землі [Nad bezodneyu zemli] [Above the abyss of the earth]. In: Від Штату До Штату [Vid Shtatu Do Shtatu] [From State To State] [SECTION]. Нова Газета (Український тижневик) [Nova Hazeta (Ukrayins'kyi tyzhnevyyk)] [New Newspaper (Ukrainian weekly)] (New York), 2014(20) (279) (May 22): 20-21. [Cover tease: "Гранд-Каньйон: Над прірвою під рукою Творця" (Hrand-Kan'yon: Nad prirvoyu pid rukoyu tvortsyu) (Grand Canyon: Above the abyss in the hands of the Creator).] [In Ukrainian.]

King, Clint

- 3733 2014 Falling down first. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 32-39.

Korte, Nic

- 3734 2014 Freedom and risk. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 67-81.

Kumar, Navjotika

- 3735 2014 Repetition and remembrance: The Rephotographic Survey Project. History of Photography, 38(2) (May): 137-160.

"This essay considers the role of repetition and remembrance in the Rephotographic Survey Project (1977-79) and the related Third Views project (1997-2000), directed by the photographer Mark Klett." Includes Grand Canyon.

Lago, Don

- 3736 2014 No time for the river: Thomas Wolfe's experience of the Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(1) (Winter): 7-11.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3737 2014 Haunted by time: British writers discover the Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(2) (Spring): 6-15.

Landi, Ann

- 3738 2014 Facing the blank canvas. Terror. Doubt. Anxiety. Artists offer their tricks and tips for getting beyond the roadblocks and starting new work. ARTnews, (June): 72-77.

See p. 74, Elisabeth Condon; also illustrates her "Slipping Cheops Pyramid" (2013), painted during a visit to Grand Canyon.

Leavengood, Betty

- 3739 2014 Grand Canyon women : lives shaped by landscape. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 3rd ed., 242 pp.

Lee, D. J.

- 3740 2014 The edge is what we have. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 131-139.

Lėka, Aušra

- 3741 2014 Kelyje: virš, po, prie amerikietišku stebuklu; beveik 7 tūkst. km klajonių po JAV pietvakarinę dalį užrašai. Veidas (Vilnius), 2014(40) (October 17): 48-53. [\[In Lithuanian.\]](#)
(transl. 'On the road: up and down to the American wonders; record of nearly 7,000 miles of wanderings in the southwestern U.S.')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Levinienė, Vilija

- 3742 2014 Kelionė į Arizoną. Dirva (Lietuvių Tautinės Minties Laikraštis/The Lithuanian National Newspaper) (Amerikos Lietuvių Spaudos ir Radijo Draugija „Viltis“, Inc., Chicago), 99(13) (June 24): 10. [\[In Lithuanian.\]](#)
(transl. 'Travel in Arizona')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Lewis, Sarah, AND Gamboni, Simon

- 3743 2014 Open road; on a road trip across southern America, Sarah Lewis soaks up endless desert scenes, modern marvels in Palm Springs and the dining highlights of Austin, Las Vegas and New Orleans. (Photos by Simon Gamboni.) Mercedes-Benz Magazine (Stuttgart), (July): 64-71.

See pp. 64-65, double-page illustration, "A Grand Scale. Hiking across Plateau Point on the Bright Angel Trail, Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona." See also text, pp. 68-69.

Lindeman, Helen R. Rowan Cabeen

- 3744 2014 [Letter to Traci Wyrick.] The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(3) (Summer): 6.
Regarding Lindeman's life at Grand Canyon, 1936-1950.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Loghin, Vasile

- 3745 2014 Studii—jurnale de călătorie. Târgoviște, Romania: Cetatea de Scaun, 162 pp. [In Romanian.]
(transl. 'Studies—travel diaries')

Volume comprises unique chapters on geology. Cited here for the "Jurnal Geografic de Călătorie în S.U.A. (11 iulie-5 august 1994)" (transl. 'U.S. Geographic Travel Journal (July 11-August 5, 1994)') (pp. 123-146), which comprises a travelogue of a U.S. tour (see map, p. 127) with a focus on natural history but with cursory details. See in particular "1 august 1994: Phoenix-Flagstaff-Grand Canyon Village" (pp. 141-142, and photos on p. 144).

Lucchitta, Ivo, AND Quartaroli, Richard D.

- 3746 2014 Ivo Lucchitta. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(2) (Summer): 1, 26-44.
Lucchitta oral history interview.

Luttrell, Chuck [Luttrell, Charles]

- 3747 2014 Grand Canyon's Lava Falls "Trail". The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(2) (Spring): 3-4.

Martens, Mary Ellen

- 3748 2014 My NCOD pastoral week experience. Hand in Hand (Archdiocese of Milwaukee, Deaf and Hard of Hearing Ministry), (Spring): 6.
National Catholic Office for the Deaf. Includes note of tour to Grand Canyon West.

McClellan, Laurie

- 3749 2014 Time's factory. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 12-15.

McCormick, Molly

- 3750 2014 Grand connection. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 40-47.

McLure, Marcelene

- 3751 2014 Editor's note. Carolina Breaths (North Carolina Association of PeriAnesthesia Nurses, New Bern, North Carolina), 33(2) (July): 5, 17.
Includes notes and photos of visit to Grand Canyon West.

McNamara, Ken

- 3752 2014 Hiking the Grand Canyon : the corridor trails : Bright Angel, South Kaibab, North Kaibab : 63 minutes of trail footage and animation. ConMara Publishing, Inc. DVD.

Metcalfe, Dillon

- 3753 2014 About water. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 82-89.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Mitchell, Rosie

- 3754 2014 The Grand Canyon. ZimTrader (Harare, Zimbabwe), (111) (August Mid Month): 2-3.
Remarks on a visit to South Rim.
- 3755 2014 Exploring below the rim. ZimTrader (Harare, Zimbabwe), (111) (August Mid Month): 3-4.
Remarks on hiking New Hance Trail.

Mollard, Gé

- 3756 2014 Go West! Road movie d'enfer sur 5300 bornes. USA—Ouest américain—1<sup>re</sup> partie. Le Journal des Motards (France), (January): 59-63. [In French.]
(transl. 'Go West! Road movie from hell over 5,300 kilometers')
Route 66 and Grand Canyon. (Part 2 in the February issue does not pertain to this bibliography.)

Moorhead, M. V., AND Hardiman, Billy

- 3757 2014 Cover story: A grand trip to the Grand Canyon proves memorable in many ways. German boys choir shares its magical talents in an equally magical venue. Wrangler News (Tempe, Arizona), 25(8) (May 3-16): cover, 3, 8-9.
Regensburger Domspatzen, the boys choir of Regensburg Cathedral, Regensburg, Germany.

Muller, Seth

- 3758 2014 Heart in the Bony Middle : poems. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 64 pp.
Poems about the Grand Canyon and the Colorado Plateau.
- 3759 2014 Angel ascending; basking in the wonder of the Grand Canyon's great Bright Angel Trail. Grand Canyon River Runner, (17) (Summer): 10-11.
- 3760 2014 Bright Angel and the heat spirit. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 229-232.

Muller, Seth, AND Running, John

- 3761 2014 Capturing the essence; photographer John Running sees a special exhibit of his work as it finds a home at NAU. Flagstaff Live!, 20(42) (October 16-22): 1, 3, 14-17.
Northern Arizona University.

Naille, Carol

- 3762 2014 Remembrances [sic]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(1) (Winter): 11.
Item dated January 18, 1994.

Ng, Nathaly

- 3763 2014 The beauty of the Grand Canyon. In: Davidson, Camille (ed.), Milestones : a collection of essays from Florida's adult learners. Orlando, Florida: Florida Literacy Coalition, Inc., Florida's Adult and Family Literacy Research Center, p. 172.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Nielsen, Carl M., III "Chip"

- 3764 2014 The Pastor Shares [COLUMN]. The Builder (Arlington Hills United Methodist Church, Maplewood, Minnesota), (April): 2.
- Inspirational message relating to a hike along Grand Canyon's South Rim. Signed "Pastor Chip".

Norling, Bill

- 3765 2014 Boy Scouts. American Legion Talks (American Legion Post 44, Scottsdale, Arizona), 2014(4) (April): [unpaginated].
- In part takes note of Grand Canyon hikes on Bright Angel Trail and an overnight trip on Hermit Trail.

Olson, Jack

- 3766 2014 North of the zoo. In: Jack's Jaunts [COLUMN]. Rocky Mountain Outdoors (Rocky Mountain Outdoor Writers and Photographers), (January/February): 2.
- Trip to Grand Canyon North Rim.

Orr, Chris

- 3767 2014 Fr Chris Orr and Wylie Coyote's travel update. St. Mary's School Newsletter / Te Panui Kura o Hato Mere (Christchurch, New Zealand), (Term 3, Week 10) (September 25): [2].
- Brief letter with photos, signed "Fr Chris & Willie E Coyote" [sic]; reporting American travels with a stuffed toy of the cartoon character Wile E. Coyote. Includes photo of toy at Grand Canyon. In English, with newsletter title also in Maori.

Ostapowicz, Bogdan

- 3768 2014 "Klan" Ostapowiczów. Biuletyn Absolwenta (Akademii Wychowania Fizycznego we Wrocławiu, Stowarzyszenie Absolwentów), (61) (September): 20-30. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'The Ostapowicz "clan"')
- Visit to Grand Canyon, see p. 28.

Oter, Jorge, AND Jost, Jon

- 3769 2014 Canyon once again. Interview with Jon Jost. Fotocinema (Revista Científica de Cine y Fotografía) (Universidad de Málaga, Málaga, Spain), (9): 361-367.
- Regarding the 1970 and 2013 films, Canyon, by Jost. Serial is multilingual; this article is in English. See Jost (1970, 2013).

Panjei, Egawati

- 3770 2014 Reflections on joining Fulbright Pre-Academic Program 2013 and experiencing American Midwest life at the University of Kansas (KU) in Lawrence, Kansas. AMINEF (American Indonesian Exchange Foundation, Jakarta, Indonesia), 6 (February): 13-16.
- Includes note regarding a visit to the South Rim of Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Penn, Daniela

- 3771 2014 2200 Meilen : mit der Familie durch die USA. Hamburg: tredition, 340 pp. [An on-demand publication.] [In German.]
(transl. '2200 miles : with the family through the USA')

See "Tag 17: Gran Canyon oder Deutschland ist ein Dorf" ('Day 17: Grand Canyon or Germany is a village'), pp. 248-262.

Perlmutter, Nina

- 3772 2014 Grand Canyon thru Jewish eyes—Rabbi Nina Perlmutter. The Bulletin (Heichal Baoranim, Flagstaff, Arizona), 23 (May) (Iyar/Sivan 5774): 1-2.

Petersen, Alan

- 3773 2014 Other treasures. The Gunnar Widforss Catalogue Raisonné Project, [3] (April): [3].

Selection from Gunnar Widforss's personal scrapbook, a black-and-white photograph annotated, "my first picture of Grand Canyon. Watercolor 14 x 18—1923 [sic]." Legend indicates this was in "July 1924 [sic] from a location on the North Rim that was later named for him."

- 3774 2014 Other news. The Gunnar Widforss Catalogue Raisonné Project, [3] (April): [4].

Includes color reproduction: "Grand Canyon, 1924, watercolor on paper, 7 1/4 x 10 inches (18.4 x 25.4 cm). Courtesy private collector. A painting from Gunnar's second season at Grand Canyon, formerly in the collection of Ansell Hall."]

Pitman (Mrs.)

- 3775 2014 Science trip. Claverham Community College Newsletter (Battle, East Sussex, United Kingdom), (December): 4-5.

Report of trip with 34 students, aged 9-11, in the American Southwest, including Grand Canyon (noted briefly).

Pohl-Imfeld, Martin

- 3776 2014 Einmotorig unterwegs . . . EAS Newsletter (Experimental Aviation of Switzerland), (August): 8-11. [Ellipsis is part of title Serial title is in English, thus.] [In German.]
(transl. 'Single engine on the road . . .')

Flight over Grand Canyon in a Sling2 Experimental Light Sport Aircraft.

Powell, Robert

- 3777 2014 From the desk of Fr. Powell. St. Lawrence Martyr Parish Bulletin (New Bedford, Massachusetts), 17(17) (March 23): [3].

Item signed, "Fr. Bob"; full name given on p. [1]. Inspirational reminiscence of his first visit to the rim of Grand Canyon.

Propst, Chris

- 3778 2014 The unnamed side canyon. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 107-117.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Pry, Dan, AND Pry, Nancy

- 3779 2014 [Report on trip to Page, Arizona, Colorado River to Lees Ferry, and Grand Canyon South Rim.] In: Your Assistant Chapter Directors [SECTION]. Colonial City Wings (Gold Wing Road Riders Association, Region D, Mount Vernon, Ohio), (August): [unpaginated].

Quadrozzi, Jaye

- 3780 2014 Jay Quadrozzi; Young & Associates, Farmington Hills. Michigan Lawyers Weekly, (March 24):. Interview. Includes remarks on visit to "Havasupai Falls in the Grand Canyon". [Havasupai Canyon.]

Quayle, Amil D.

- 3781 2014 Poetry by Amil Quayle. In: Quayle, Amil D. [BIOGRAPHICAL FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(1) (Spring): 38-41.
"[F]rom Amil's book Grand Canyon and other Selected Poems, Black Star Press" (2009). Selected poems relating to Grand Canyon include "Grandson and Grand Canyon".

Ranney, Wayne

- 3782 2014 Grand Canyon trail guide: A job worth living for. In: Gulliford, Andrew (ed.), Outdoors in the Southwest : an adventure anthology. Norman, Oklahoma: University of Oklahoma Press, pp. 224-234.

Rettl, Lisa

- 3783 2014 Flugstunden zwischen Ost und West : Rolf Dolinas abenteuerlicher Weg zum Erfolg. Wien, Graz, and Klagenfurt: Styria GmbH und Co KG, 304 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Flight lessons between East and West: Rolf Dolina's adventurous path to success')
Grand Canyon, pp. 86-90.

Richards, Arnie

- 3784 2014 The discovery of the Cranberry Canyon route. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 157-166.

Rugg, Kristi

- 3785 2014 Night hike, South Kaibab. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 99-103.

Rukkila, Jean

- 3786 2014 Awake with Orion; dancing wishes, dreaming yellow. In: Letter From Home [SECTION]. Flagstaff Live!, 20(43) (October 23-29): 4.
Includes Grand Canyon recollections while watching an Orionid meteor shower.

Ryan, Arthur J.

- 3787 2014 Canyon don'ts. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(1) (Winter): 11.
Dated December 6, 1905. "From the 'Impressions' book at El Tovar submitted by Carol Naille" (ellipses thus):

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

At El Tovar obey the clerk
To early rise take care
At latest eight . . . and don't be late
Unless you feed on air.

Don't let them send you out at 9
To take a canyon drive,
(To learn to sneeze and see some trees
And circulate a $5.00.)

When standing on the canyon brink
Pray go no further—Stop!
DON'T brave the lunge and take the plunge
Or stock iin life will drop.

When writing in this little book
Keep safely from the truth
DON'T knock . . . be wise . . . 'twill advertise
But green, untutored youth.

Schallau, Adam

- 3788 2014 Chasing the light : Grand Canyon. Henderson, Nevada: Park Partners, Inc., 192 pp. ("Poetic Text by Lynn Wilson. Publisher: Kevin Poulson. Canyon Notes by Jim Wilson.") ["Photo Captions", pp. 182-188.]

Schellbach-Wyrick, Traci

- 3789 2014 Shirley Temple visits Grand Canyon—1938. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 18(1) (January/February): 1.

Photograph of writer's grandfather, Louis Schellbach, III, park naturalist, with Shirley Temple at Grand Canyon.

Scholing, Marshall

- 3790 2014 A record. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(3) (Summer): 1, 3-4.

Diary excerpt from August 1958; first meeting with Harvey Butchart at foot of Tanner Trail.

Seese, Ron

- 3791 2014 The MISSING national park. The Centurion (The 3905 Century Club, Stanley, Virginia), 2014(5) (December): 11-17.

Item signed "Ron Seese, WB7ASC". Serial by ham radio enthusiasts. Article is an account of a trip through the West with radio gear. Includes Grand Canyon South Rim. The reference to the "missing" park is the inability to find a camping site in or relatively near Zion National Park.

Sheperd, V. W.

- 3792 2014 Unbound magnificence : poems. North Charleston, South Carolina: CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform, 166 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

See "Grand Canyon", p. 1. See also wrap-around cover photo, view upstream at top of Hance Rapid.

Sims, Mark

- 3793 2014 Hello Texas! The Connection (First Baptist Church, Perrin, Texas), 13(2) (February): [1].

Item signed "bro. mark". Includes remarks on visit to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Siquig, Shayleen

- 3794 2014 A net of support; accomplishing goals and learning about myself. Hands Across the Pacific (University of Hawai'i at Manoa, Pacific Outreach Initiative Center on Disability Studies, Hawai'i-Pacific Deaf Blind Project), (Fall/Winter): [11].

The author is a hearing-impaired university student. Notes, in passing, of travel to Grand Canyon.

Sjöberg, Fredrik

- 3795 2014 Die Kunst zu fliehen : vom Glück, sich in kleine Dinge zu versenken und große Kontinente zu entdecken. (Paul Berf, translator.) Köln: Bastei Lübbe Taschenbuch, 190 pp. [In German.]

Translation of Flyktkonsten (Sjöberg, 2006). German translation also printed by Verlag Galiana (Berlin, 2014).

- 3796 2014 Kunsten at flygte. København: Hr. Ferdinand, 190 pp. [In Danish.]

Translation of Flyktkonsten (Sjöberg, 2006).

Smith, Lenny

- 3797 2014 "Lenny's Corner" [COLUMN]. Spur Line (National Model Rail Road Association, Pacific Southwest Region, Arizona Division), 48(1) (January): 28.

Reminiscences of a chartered parlor car trip on the Grand Canyon Railway.

Smith College Museum of Art

- 3798 2014 Smith College Museum of Art : the year in review : 2013/4. SCHEMA (Smith College Museum of Art, Northampton, Massachusetts), 2013-2014, 52 pp.

Under "Gifts and Purchases of Art", see p. 44, "Struss, Karl. American, 1886-1981 . . . Untitled (Detail of Grand Canyon), n.d.; Untitled (Grand Canyon), n.d. . . ." These pieces are not illustrated.

Smithson, Karen Suzanne

- 3799 2014 Something to say. Sage-ing With Creative Spirit, Grace and Gratitude (A Journal of the Arts and Aging) (Okanagan Institute, Kelowna, British Columbia), (11) (Spring): 8-10.

See pp. 9-10, remarks on viewing Grand Canyon from an airliner, inspiring the writer's song, "Day Flight".

Sonley, Moyra

- 3800 2014 Moyra's migrations. Phoenix to Salt Lake City; part 2. Gargrave and Coniston Cold Parish Magazine (North Yorkshire, United Kingdom), (June): 13-14.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Stankov, Stefan, AND Milosevij, Bojana [Станков, Стефан; Милошевић, Бојана]

- 3801 2014 Ради и путуј! [Radi i putuj!] [Work and travel!] Екогеа (Лист студената Геопросторних основа животне средине) [Ekogea (List studenata Geoprostornih osnova životne sredine)] [Ecogea (Geospatial Fundamentals of the Environment, Student Newspaper)] (Универзитет у Београду, Географски факултет [Univerzitet u Beogradu, Geografski fakultet] / University of Belgrade, Faculty of Geography), (4) (December): 10-14. [In Serbian, with bilingual publisher's information.]

Includes brief remarks on a visit to Grand Canyon West.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Steel, Joan

- 3802 2014 Valley friends; the Grand Canyon. Outlook (Hughenden Parish Magazine, St. Michaels and All Angels) (Hughenden Church, Hughenden, High Wycombe, Buckinghamshire, England), (December 2014/January 2015): [22]-[23].

Brief summary of a presentation by Michael Hoey, retired from the Royal Engineers, about a north-to-south Grand Canyon hike on Bright Angel Trail, but with some confusing notes (such as "an Indian reservation where cattle were grazing") and misstatements (such as "Bright Angel Trail is used by mules carrying freight that is heavier than their own body weight").

Stumpf, Herb

- 3803 2014 2 Jahre mit dem VW-Bus um die Welt : eine Reiseerzaehlung mit praktischen Tips. München: Hofbauer (CreateSpace), 308 pp. [An on-demand publication.] [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. '2 years with a VW Bus around the world: a travel story with practical tips')

Volkswagen Bus. See "Reisabschnitt: USA (Westküste bis Kanada)" (transl. 'Travel leg: USA (West Coast to Canada)'), pp. 183-210; includes Grand Canyon.

Suruceanu, Nicu

- 3804 2014 Am traversat Statele Unite în camping-car. Mecanicii '61 (Asociației "Promoția '61 Mecanică", Universitatea Politehnica București), 10(95) (April): 9-17. [\[In Romanian.\]](#)
(transl. 'I crossed the United States in a motorhome')

First of three installments. This installment includes Grand Canyon.

Sykes, Christopher Simon

- 3805 2014 David Hockney : the biography, 1975-2012 : a pilgrim's progress. New York, London, Toronto, Sydney, and Auckland: Nan A. Talese / Doubleday, 430 pp.

Grand Canyon, pp. 172, 173, 175, 176, 304, 322, 328-332; "A Bigger Grand Canyon", pp. 330, 331; "A Closer Grand Canyon", pp. 331, 384-385, color plates Section 4 (legend, p. xv).

Taylor, Danny G.

- 3806 2013 Mom, Mother Road, and me. Route 66 Federation News (National Historic Route 66 Federation), 19(1) (Spring): 35-38.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Temel, Baybora

- 3807 2014 David Hockney'in sanatında ana başlıklar. Main topics in David Hockney's art. Trakya Üniversitesi Sosyal Bilimler Dergisi (Edirne, Turkey), 16(2) (December): 125-136. [\[In Turkish, with bilingual title and abstract.\]](#)

Thybony, Scott

- 3808 2014 Fifty Mile: A search for ancient tracks. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 5-11.

50 Mile Canyon; searching for fossil footprints.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Tinus, Arline R.

- 3809 2014 Finding the river magic : a painter's journey down the Colorado River. [No place]: A.R.T. Publishing, 220 pp.

Tolppanen, Bradley P.

- 3810 2014 Churchill in North America, 1929 : a three month tour of Canada and the United States. Jefferson, North Carolina: McFarland and Co., Inc., 262 pp.
Winston Churchill. Grand Canyon, see pp. 9, 10, 31, 183-185.

Vuorenmaa, Tommi A.

- 3811 2014 Kaksi koleankaunista yötä. Suomi-USA (Suomi-Amerikka-Yhdistysten liitto, Helsinki), (April): 10-11. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Two chilly nights')
- See the entry for September 30, "Syyskuu 30. Grand Canyon, Arizona".

Wendorph, Joe

- 3812 2014 A word from Pastor Joe. "A View To A Thrill". Markham Messenger (Markham Woods Presbyterian Church, Lake Mary, Florida), (June): [1].
Inspirational message, including Grand Canyon.

Westermeyer, Paul

- 3813 2014 Dean's Column. Pipenotes (American Guild of Organists, Twin Cities Chapter), 20(3) (November): 2.
Remarks on a trip to Grand Canyon, with mention of Olivier Messiaen's "From the Canyons to the Stars". (This refers to Des Canyons aux Étoiles (1974), which incidentally is said to have been inspired in part by the Grand Canyon but actually was inspired only by Bryce and Zion Canyons. —E.E.S.)

Whitestone, Sara

- 3814 2014 Patina. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 233-235.

Woodruff, Slim [Woodruff, Marjorie]

- 3815 2014 Canyon karma. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 227-228.

Wu, Jincong [吴锦聪]

- 3816 2014 我的寒假：去大峡谷国家公园 [wǒ de hánjià: Qù dà xiágǔ guójiā gōngyuán] [My winter vacation: Go to the Grand Canyon National Park]. 小语世界 [Xiǎo yǔ shìjiè] [Small Language World] (Huaxia Chinese Academy of Greater New York, Purchase, New York), (15) (February 27): [2]-[4] [text in left column on each page]. [Issue composition by "七年级马立平班 任课" (老师：黄岳) [Qī niánjí mǎlìpíng bān rènkè (lǎoshī: Huáng Yuè)] [Class 7 Ma Liping Class (Teacher: Huang Yue)].] [In Chinese.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wyrick, Traci

- 3817 2014 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part VIII. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(1) (Winter): 3-5.
September 1-November 5, 1945. See also letter from Helen Rowan Cabeen Lindeman, 25(3) (Summer): 6. See also addendum, 27(4) (Fall 2016): 7.
- 3818 2014 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part IX. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(3) (Summer): 5-6.
November 7-December 25, 1945. See also erratum, 27(4) (Fall 2016): 7.
- 3819 2014 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part X. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 25(4) (Fall): 7-9.
January 1-March 30, 1946.

Yohe, John

- 3820 2014 Holy water. In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 185-190.

Yuan, Xinchang, AND Bao, Shengwu [渊新昌; 宝生物]

- 3821 2014 国邦和宝·美国西海岸; 考察团行纪 [guó bānghé bǎo-měiguó xīhǎi'àn; kǎochá tuán xíng jì] [The United States and the United States West Coast; Inspection Line Team]. 国邦通讯 [guó bāng tōngxùn] [Company News] (Shandong Guobang Pharmaceutical Co., Ltd., Beijing), 2014(5): 3. [In Chinese.]

Photos with legends from a corporate visit to the U.S. Includes Grand Canyon.

Zaagsma, Carol

- 3822 2014 From the pastor. The Centenarian Newsletter (Centenary United Methodist Church, Mankato, Minnesota), (March 26): [2].
Item signed "Rev. Carol". Inspirational message, including experience at Yavapai Observation Station, Grand Canyon.

Zilina, Larissa

- 3823 2014 Весь мир у ваших ног! [Ves' mir u vashikh nog!] [The whole world at your feet!] Аэропорт Шереметьево [Aeroport Sheremet'yevo] [Sheremetyevo Airport] (Moskva), (July): 42-45. [In Russian.]

Panoramic views from high elevations, worldwide. Includes Grand Canyon Lodge (North Rim), South Rim, and the Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.

Zucconi, David G.

- 3824 2014 A day off-trail (or, how to almost die in the Grand Canyon). In: Kempa, Rick (ed.), On foot : Grand Canyon backpacking stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 90-98.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

2015

Anonymous

- 3825 2015 Hike the Canyon. The Niagara Bruce Trail Club Grapevine, (Winter): 4.
Brief report.
- 3826 2015 [Millee Tibbs exhibition.] In: Faculty News [SECTION]. Wayne State University, Newsletter, (Winter): 25.
- "Assistant Professor of Photography Millee Tibbs is currently exhibiting work from the series Mountains + Valleys in a solo exhibition titled From the Mountains . . . at Moraine Valley Community College near Chicago, IL." Illustrated here is her work, "Mountains + Valleys (Grand Canyon, One in 9 Variations)", 2014. Ellipsis is part of exhibition title.
- 3827 2015 Schweizer fliegt über Grand Canyon. 20 Minutum (Zürich), (April 22): 8-9. [In German.]
(transl. 'Swiss flies over the Grand Canyon.')
- Brief. Regarding Roger Hugelshofer's unpowered flight in a wingsuit over Grand Canyon.
- 3828 2015 A grand trip to remember. Phoenix Flyer (AmeriSchools Academy, Phoenix), (May): 1.
- Brief report and photos of fourth- and fifth-level students' trip to Grand Canyon South Rim.
- 3829 2015 Grand Canyon North Rim; May 30th-June 6th 2015. The Dirt Devils Digest (Dirt Devils, Southern California), (June): 2-5.
- Trip report. 4-wheel-drive vehicles from St. George, Utah, to Mount Trumbull, Whitmore Canyon, Toroweap, Point Sublime and other Kaibab points, and Zion National Park. See also "President['s] Message" by Ray Kleinhuizen, p. 1, with photo.
- 3830 2015 Сияющий штат Америки: прикоснуться к индустрии грез [Siyayushchiy shtat Ameriki: prikosnut'sya k industrii grez] [The Shining States of America: Touching the dream makers]. «АГАТ. Мы Вместе» (Корпоративный журнал для сотрудников ГК «АГАТ») (Нижний Новгород, Московское) [«AGAT. My Vmeste» (Korporativnyy zhurnal dlya sotrudnikov GK «AGAT») (Nizhniy Novgorod, Moskovskoye)] [“AGATE. We Are Together.” (Corporate magazine for employees of AGAT Group of Companies) (Nizhny Novgorod, Moskovskoe)], 2015(7) (Summer): 56-63. [In Russian.]
- Regarding the American trip of Артем и Екатерина Ульяновы (Artem and Ekaterina Ulyanov). Includes Hoover Dam and Grand Canyon (see pp. 60-61). A wide-format serial.

Abbey, Edward

- 3831 2015 A journal. In: The hidden canyon : a river journey. Petaluma, California: Cameron and Company, pp. 24-25, 28-29, 33, 36, 43, 52, 63, 68-71, 74-75, 94, 101, 106, 113, 122-123, 130-133, 145.

Anderson, Peter, AND Kempa, Rick

- 3832 2015 (EDS.) Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, 144 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Arnberger, Rob [Arnberger, Robert L.]

3833 2015 Born to work at Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 22(2) (Summer): 14-15.

Aton, James M.

3834 2015 The art and life of Jimmie Jones : landscape artist of the canyon country. Layton, Utah: Gibbs Smith, 264 pp. ("First Edition" [title-page verso].) [First state.]

3835 2015 The art and life of Jimmie Jones : landscape artist of the canyon country. Layton, Utah: Gibbs Smith, 264 pp. ("First Southern Utah Museum of Art Edition" [title-page verso].) [Second state; a reprinting in Canada of the 1st Gibbs Smith ed. (i.e., first state), to correct the color reproduction of some pages (fide James M. Aton via Richard D. Quartaroli, 13 November 2015).]

Austin, Mary

3836 2015 The Grand Cañon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 124.

From Austin (1928).

Baranow, Joan

3837 2015 Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 24.

Credited to Living Apart (Plainview Press, 1999).

Barker, S. Omar

3838 2015 Grand Canyon cowboy. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 35.

From Rawhide Rhymes: Singing Poems of the Old West, 1968.

Barton, John

3839 2015 Sunrise, Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 31-34.

Bass, William Wallace

3840 2015 A winter day at Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 54-55.

Credited to The Grand Canyon in Poem and Picture, 1909 (sic).

Beath, Mary

3841 2015 Grand Canyon/West. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 30.

Credited to Refuge of Whirling Light (University of New Mexico Press, 2005).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Berger, Bruce

- 3842 2015 Ballad of the Bright Angel. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 61.
- Credited to The Geography of Hope: Poets of Colorado's Western Slope (David Rothman, ed.; Conundrum, 2005).

- 3843 2015 Reaching Rider Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 66.

Blankenship, Heidi Elizabeth

- 3844 2015 Fence Fault. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 86.

Bloch, Chana

- 3845 2015 The colors of darkness. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 28.

The "Acknowledgements" for the volume indicate (p. 139) for Bloch only the poem, "'The Grand Canyon' from Blood Honey . . . (Autumn House, 2009)."

Blumenthal, Michael

- 3846 2015 The geologist. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 70.

From The Wages of Goodness (University of Missouri, 1999).

Brooks, Dorothy

- 3847 2015 Sentry duty at the Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 56.

With notation (p. 140), "published in 2012 in a slightly altered form in The Eleventh Muse by Poetry West."

Buchanan, Nikki, AND Burcham, John

- 3848 2015 Now performing. As an interpreter for the National Park Service, Elyssa Shalla puts on a show—for thousands of people of year. It's a gig that isn't dramatically different from when she was a professional musician in the Netherlands. The biggest change is that her new stage is an amphitheater inside the Grand Canyon, and her audience wears hiking boots instead of high heels. Arizona Highways, 91(2) (February): 50-51.

Based at Indian Garden.

Bullard, Christopher

- 3849 2015 Grand Canyon : poems by Christopher Bullard. Cincinnati, Ohio: David Robert Books, 90 [91] pp.
[An on-demand publication.]

See "Grand Canyon", pp. 89-90; see also cover illustration.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Burges, Johannes

- 3850 2015 (WITH Ulrich Schäfer) 360° westwärts : im Propellerflugzeug in 80 Tagen um die Welt. München: Malik, 256 pp. [In German.]
(transl. '360° westward: around the world in a propeller plane in 80 days')
Grand Canyon, pp. 61, 66-67.

Campbell, Mike

- 3851 2015 Hermit Trail: Demanding but beautiful. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 22(3) (Fall): 6-7.

Carlson, Janet, AND Carlson, Gerry

- 3852 2015 Desert Riders ATV Club [COLUMN]. Riverview Review (Riverview RV Resort, Bullhead City, Arizona), (April): 7-8.
Includes "Group Ride to Peach Springs" (and to Colorado River), p. 7. ATV: All-terrain vehicle.

Carlström, Carola

- 3853 2015 SWEA världsmöte i Arizona. SWEA Posten (Nyhetsbrev från SWEA Irland) (Swedish Women's Educational Association International, SWEA Irland), (70) (Autumn): cover, 4-5. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'SWEA world meeting in Arizona')
Includes visit to Grand Canyon, p. 5.

Casti, Emanuela

- 3854 2015 Reflexive cartography : a new perspective in mapping. Amsterdam, Oxford, and Waltham (Massachusetts): Elsevier, 288 pp. (Modern Cartography, Volume 6; D. R. Fraser Taylor, series ed.)
See Chapter 3, "Landscape as a Cartographic Icon", which includes discussion of David Hockney's Grand Canyon canvases, pp. 89-91. See also Casti (2013, in Italian).

Chaffee, Patricia Ann

- 3855 2015 Jane Allen—attracted to community and culture. In: Featured Widow [SECTION]. Pathfinder (East Lyme, Connecticut), 1(9) (April): 8-11.
See p. 11, reminiscences "all stand out for some reason but riding a donkey down into the Grand Canyon on a two foot wide path, while in her mid 70's really stands out in her mind." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Christoph, Nicola

- 3856 2015 News from Nicola Christoph. Evangelisch Lutherischer Gemeindebrief (St. John's German Lutheran Parish Springvale Inc., German Lutheran Trinity Church East Melbourne Inc., Martin Luther Homes Boronia Inc., Scoresby, Victoria, Australia), (August): 12.
Report of mission work in the American Southwest. Note, in passing, of having visited Grand Canyon, with photo of the author at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Coble, Judith

- 3857 2015 Judy's big adventure. Vol. 3. Continued recovery from a brain aneurysm. [No place]: CreateSpace, 154 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
Grand Canyon, pp. 129-130.

Cole, Ethel Moore

- 3858 2015 [Letter.] In: Letters to the Editor [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 91(7) (July): 4.
Reminiscences of living in the Grand Canyon area.

Cox, Mark

- 3859 2015 Piecing the Grand Canyon together. The Poetry Miscellany (University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, English Department), (45): 76-77.

Dåversjö, Jerry

- 3860 2015 Längs Route 66. In: Ordföranden Har Ordet [SECTION]. Julhälsningen (Upplands Fordonshistoriker, Uppsala), 2015: 1. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Along Route 66.')
- Includes note, in passing, of a helicopter flight from Las Vegas over Grand Canyon.

Davidson, Meredith, AND Nelson, Kate

- 3861 2015 Searching for Mary; in which our trusty sidekicks follow the twentieth-century trail of a legendary architect. El Palacio, (Fall): 64-69.
- Mary Jane Colter.

Dellinges, Bill

- 3862 2015 North Rim Star Party. The Observer (East Valley Astronomy Club, Mesa, Arizona), 29(7) (July): 3-4.

Dings, Fred

- 3863 2015 At the Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 25.
- From Eulogy of a Private Man (Triquarterly Books/Northwestern University Press, 1999).

Dixon, Maynard

- 3864 2015 The Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 48.
- From Rim-Rock and Sage: The Collected Poems of Maynard Dixon (California Historical Society, 1977).

Dodder, Steve

- 3865 2015 SAC Outreach: June 13th-June 20th; The 2015 Grand Canyon Star Party, North Rim Report. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 39(7) (July): 11-15.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Drougas, Susie

- 3866 2015 Grand Canyon mule ride. The Trailhead News (Backcountry Horsemen of Washington, Ellensburg, Washington), 40(3) (May/June): 12, 14.

Družyna Odysei Umysłu [The Odyssey of the Mind Team]

- 3867 2015 Odyseusze w USA; Bogatynianie reprezentantami Polski. Bogatynia (Biuletyn Informacyjny Miasta i Gminy Bogatynia) (Bogatynia, Poland), 215(6)(67) (June): 6. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'Odysseians in the USA; Bogatynians are representatives of Poland.')

Includes note and photo of visit to Grand Canyon.

Egg, Wilma

- 3868 2015 Secretary—Wilma Egg. A View From the Summit (Alpine Coach Association, Yakima, Washington), (March): 6-7.

Brief report of tour in Southwest, including Grand Canyon Railway trip to Grand Canyon.

Eigner, Janet B.

- 3869 2015 North Kaibab Trail. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 119.

Faulkner, Judy, AND Faulkner, Paul

- 3870 2015 Amazing Arizona trip #3. In the Breeze (Bluebonnet MX-5 Miata Club, San Antonio, Texas), (June): 8.

Fournier, Isabelle

- 3871 2015 Les Petits Chanteurs de Trois-Rivières: Tournée Américaine. Le Billet Bleu (Collège Marie-de-l'Incarnation, Trois-Rivières, Québec), 13(2) (Spring): 13. [In French.]
(transl. 'The Little Singers of Trois-Rivières: American Tour.')

Trip report; includes note, in passing, of Grand Canyon, with photo of group at Grand Canyon.

Fujiwara, Hidemitsu [藤原 秀光]

- 3872 2015 ラスベガス研修ツアー 2015 に参加して; 北海道札幌市 プルミエ歯科クリニック; mitsuレポート [Rasubegasu kenshū tsuā 2015 ni sankā shite; hokkaidōsapporoshi purumie shika kurinikku; Repōto]. [Participating in the Las Vegas Training Tour 2015; Hokkaido Sapporo City Premier Dental Clinic; Mitsu Report.] ITX News Letter (株式会社インプラテックス [Implatex Co., Ltd., Tokyo]), 2015(7): 1. [Article title in mixed Japanese and Roman orthography, thus. Serial title in English, thus.] [In Japanese.]

Report on Hokkaido Premier Dental Clinic training tour to Las Vegas. Includes brief note of visit to Grand Canyon.

Füzes táncosport [Füzes Dance Group]

- 3873 2015 A Füzes táncgyűttes Amerikában járt. Biatorbágyi Körkép (Biatorbágy Város Önkormányzatának, Biatorbágy, Hungary), (September): 22-23. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'The Füzes dance ensemble went to America.')

Includes notes, in passing, of visit to Grand Canyon, with group photo at sign.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Gaillard, Cindy

- 3874 2015 A boy named Cindy. Master's thesis, Ohio State University, 336 pp.
- Thesis toward the degree of Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing—Nonfiction. Entire abstract reads: "This work is a partial memoir about a journey I took at twelve years of age in 1973 encompassing the states of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming and Colorado. It is a personal story of both spiritual and sexual awakening. Set in a time when homosexuality was condemned, it traces the personal obstacles of self-identity as a young lesbian who struggles with her love of God." (p. ii)] See in particular: Chapter 5, "Phoenix to the Grand Canyon" (pp. 76-114); Chapter 6, "Grand Canyon to Lake Powell" (pp. 115-159).

Gargulinski, Ryn

- 3875 2015 Death in the Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 36.

Gavin, Thea

- 3876 2015 To be pierced by the canyon : poems from the Grand Canyon. [Orange, California], Thea Gavin, pp. [i], 1-28 [p. 28 is inside back cover]. [Privately published.]
- 3877 2015 Introducing others to the edge. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 23.
- 3878 2015 Fall dispersal. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 41.

Poem pertains to the aerial dispersal of spiders. Reprinting of Gavin (2011).

George, Diana Hume

- 3879 2015 Eating fruit at the Grand Canyon—A song to make death easy. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 42-43.
- From Written with a Spoon: A Poet's Cookbook, 2nd ed. (Nancy Fay and Judith Rafaela, eds., Sherman Asher, 2002).]

González Herrero, Patricia

- 3880 2015 Viajando al Gran Cañón del Colorado. Mass Bienestar (Madrid), (9) (March): 120-123. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Traveling to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado')

Grand Canyon Association

- 3881 2015 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art 2015. (Designed by Barbara Glynn Denney; Faith Marcovecchio, ed.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 28 pp.
- 7th Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

Green, Keith

- 3882 2015 Recollections. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 26(1) (Winter): 3-6.
- See also cover photo, with legend on p. 2, "Silver Bridge. Grand Canyon National Park."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grzegorzewski, Adam

- 3883 2015 Od Pacyfiku do Atlantyku. Motocykl Moje Hobby (Polskiego Związku Motorowego, Warszawa), 2015(3)(169): 25-38, (4)(170): cover, 29-47. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'From the Pacific to the Atlantic')

Motorcycle trip; includes Grand Canyon.

Hait, Pam

- 3884 2015 More is more. Colorado Plateau Advocate, (Fall/Winter): 14-15.

On the 30th anniversary of Grand Canyon Trust. Includes personal remarks about Grand Canyon.

Haitink, Elke

- 3885 2015 Wereldse werkweek. Een HR-professional stelt een werkweek van vijf droombanen in vijf verschillende steden samen. Tijd, geld en afstand zijn geen belemmering. HR&Business Magazine (Nieuwegein, The Netherlands), (6) (September): 7. [In Dutch.]

(transl. 'World work week. An HR professional puts together a workweek of five dream jobs in five different cities. Time, money and distance are not an obstacle.')

A descriptive summary of five "dream jobs" for a five-day working week, with money and distance no object. Includes "Park ranger Phantom Ranch, Arizona, USA".

Hart, James

- 3886 2015 Entering temples of silence. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 49.

Reprints Hart (2000).

Henrie, Carol

- 3887 2015 A coyote runs across my path at midnight in the Pine Loop campground at Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 44-45.

Reprints Henrie (1985).

Holm, Bill

- 3888 2015 Grand Canyon of the Colorado. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 46.

From The Dead Get by with Everything (Milkweed Editions, 1991).

Hong, Yaochun [洪耀春]

- 3889 2015 中華郵政工會103年美國南加州：交流訪問團行程紀要；103年10月27-11月7日 [zhōnghuá yóuzhèng gōnghuì 103 nián měiguó nán jiāzhōu; jiāoliú fǎngwèn tuán xíngchéng jìyào; 103 nián, 10 yuè 27-11 yuè 7 rì] [China Postal Union 103 years, US Southern California; a summary of the itinerary of the exchange mission; 103 years, October 27-November 7]. 中華郵政工會 [Zhōnghuá Yóuzhèng Gōnghuì] [China Post Trade Union] (Taipei), (65) (April): 22-24. [In Chinese.]

Visit to Grand Canyon, see p. 24.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Huey, Hawkeye, AND Huey, Aaron

- 3890 2015 Hawkeye Huey was here. (Kelly Vaughn, ed.) Arizona Highways, 91(10) (October): 32-37.
Photo feature by 5-year-old Hawkeye Huey, including Arizona Highways interview questions with his father, National Geographic photographer Aaron Huey. Photos taken with a Fujifilm Instax Wide 300 camera; all without legends. See p. 37, view of Aaron Huey at rim of Grand Canyon. See also photo by Aaron Huey, p. 37, of the young photographer with his camera on the rim of Grand Canyon.

Irwin, Mark

- 3891 2015 Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 62-63.
From Quick, Now, Always (BOA, 1996).

Janssen, Art

- 3892 2015 Desert View outing. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 19(6) (November/December): 1-2.
Trip report.

Jao, Tsung-i [饒宗頤] [Rao Zongyi]

- 3893 2015 Master Jao Tsung-i 走近饒公. Two poems by Jao Tsung-i translated by Dr Nicholas Morrow Williams. 饒公兩詩 (英文翻譯: 魏寧博士). 選自《夢餘: 饒宗頤詩文選譯》, 康奈爾大學東亞研究系列, 即將出版. Sinology News / 稷風 [jì fēng] [國學院通訊《稷風》 (Guóxuéyuàn tōngxùn "jì fēng") (National Academy Newsletter "Ji Feng")] (香港浸會大學, 饒宗頤國學院 [xiānggǎng jìn huì dàxué, ráozōngyí guóxuéyuàn] [Hong Kong Baptist University, Jao Tsung-i State College]), 1(1) (Summer): 19-21. [In parallel Chinese and English texts, with bilingual serial title.]

"From The Residue of Dreams: Selected Poems of Jao Tsung-i, forthcoming from Cornell East Asia Series" (see Jao, 2016). See p. 20: "On the Grand Canyon. 大峽谷. For Jao the awesome scale of the Grand Canyon seems to place even the mythical mountain of Kunlun in the shade. The forces of nature behind it place in perspective even the great luminaries of human civilization. 作者在此描繪出大峽谷的壯麗景象, 甚至傳說中的崑崙山也比之不及。在自然造化面前, 就算是人類聖賢也會感佩不已。" Page presents a quatrain, illustrated with a painting of Grand Canyon by Jao, "饒宗頤 大峽谷寫生 (1990年)" [Ráozōngyí dà xiágǔ xiěshēng (1990 nián)] [Jao Tsung-i Grand Canyon sketch (1990)]. See also Jao (2016).

[Nicholas Morrow Williams (see Jao, 2015, 2016) explained in his "Prefatory Note" to The Residue of Dreams (p. xiii) that he uses the Pinyin system of Chinese transliteration, except for Jao's name: "Jao achieved an international reputation in the 1960s, when the Wade-Giles system was still widely used, so his English name follows the Wade-Giles romanization: Jao Tsung-i instead of Pinyin Rao Zongyi." Note as well that the English name of Hong Kong Baptist University's Academy of Sinology (see Jao, 2015) honors "Jao Tsung-i", as do numerous other institutions named for him.]

Jonušas, Kazys

- 3894 2015 Nepamirštamos Fort Blisso kopos. Karys ([Lithuania], Krašto apsaugos ministerija), 2015(4) (2032) (April):. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Unforgettable dunes of Fort Bliss')

Regarding Bronius Basalykas on military training at Fort Bliss, Texas. See pp. 26-27, brief remarks on off-base recreational activities, which included a week-long hike in Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 3895 2015 Artilleristų lūkesčiai ir studijos Oklahomoje. Karys ([Lithuania], Krašto apsaugos ministerija), 2015(7) (2035) (July): 22-27. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Artillery expectations and studies in Oklahoma')

Regarding Tomas Naudužas on military training at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. See p. 24, photo of Naudužas at Grand Canyon.

Kabotie, Michael

- 3896 2015 Grand Canyon National Park. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 37-38.

Reprinted from Migration tears : poems about transitions (Lomawywesa, 1987).

Kanter, Carol

- 3897 2015 A Grand Canyon Suite. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 74-76.

In six stanzas: "Moon", "Walls", "River", "Tributary", "Rocks", and "Agave". Although the poems in this volume each are placed on separate pages, not running in with the poems of other writers, an accident of layout places the final word of stanza VI on the top of p. 76, which page contains the next poem.

Kempa, Rick

- 3898 2015 Nightwalk, Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 116-117.

From Ten Thousand Voices (Littoral Press, 2013).

Khalil, Elhami [إلهامي خليل]

- 3899 2015 الجبال والوديان [aljbāl walwdyan] [Mountains and valleys]. أرثوذكس نيوز Orthodox News (Los Angeles), 15(309) (April 16-30): 6. [In Arabic, with bilingual serial title.]

Includes photo of author at Grand Canyon South Rim.

Kida, Jeff, AND Schallau, Adam

- 3900 2015 Grand scheme; Photo Editor Jeff Kida and Grand Canyon specialist Adam Schallau discuss Schallau's fascination with Arizona's world-famous natural wonder. In: The Journal [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 91(3) (March): 9.

Photography.

Koby, Howard

- 3901 2015 A concurs in motion; sights, sounds and aromas of springtime in Arizona. Special event: 25th Annual Bell Lexus Copperstate 1000 Road Rally. Arizona Driver, 14(5) (September/October): cover, 14-19.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Korte, Nic

- 3902 2015 Knowing the Grand Canyon in your bones. High Country News, 47(12) (July 20): 44-45.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lamberton, Ken

- 3903 2015 Chasing Arizona : one man's yearlong obsession with the Grand Canyon State. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, 364 [365] pp.

See "Week 21; A Ring of Fire Above the Rim; Grand Canyon", pp. 145-149, which features the annular solar eclipse of May 20, 2012.]

Laramée, Guy, AND Schlatter, N. Elizabeth

- 3904 2015 Guy Laramée (interview by N. Elizabeth Schlatter). In: Anti-Grand: Contemporary Perspectives on Landscape. Richmond, Virginia: University of Richmond Museums, Joel and Lila Harnett Museum of Art, pp. 46-49.

Volume published on the occasion of the exhibition of the same name, January 15-March 6, 2015. Item includes note of Grand Canyon (p. 47) and illustration (p. 49) of Laramée's sculpture, "The Grand Library" (2012), a canyonscape carved into 80 volumes of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Lauter, Ken

- 3905 2015 This world. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 53.

From Grand Canyon Days (Lauter, 2011).

Lawrence, Brad

- 3906 2015 Bryce Canyon weekend getaway; August 22 fly-in. APA Newsletter (Arizona Pilots Association), (October): 14-17.

Includes flight over Grand Canyon (pp. 14, 16).

Lee, David

- 3907 2015 Field trip: Grand Canyon, North Rim. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 50-51.

From So Quietly the Earth (Copper Canyon Press, 2004).

- 3908 2015 Bright Angel Point at sunset. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 125.

From So Quietly the Earth (Copper Canyon Press, 2004).

Leen, Doug

- 3909 2015 National parks : poster art of the WPA perpetual calendar. Darien, Connecticut: Ziga Media, LLC, [28] pp. [including covers]. [Spiral-bound, long format.]

Includes Grand Canyon National Park. Note: Work Projects Administration renamed Works Progress Administration in 1939.

Lefebure, Stephen

- 3910 2015 The Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 57.

From Rocks Full of Sky (Lefebure, 2013).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Leiva Aguilera, Javier

- 3911 2015 Ruta por Estados Unidos: 6219 millas de viaje por la Costa Oeste. [No place]: CreateSpace, 170 pp. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Journey through the United States: 6219 miles of travel along the West Coast')

See "Día 8: Flagstaff-Grand Canyon-Page", pp. 37-43.

Lévai, Eszter

- 3912 2015 Egyszer volt egy (mérsékelten) vad (dél)nyugat. Szinapszis (Simmelweis Egyetem hallgatoinak lapja) (Budapest), 11(2) (February): 32-37. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'Once upon a time there was a (moderately) wild (South)West.')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Lewis, Bernice

- 3913 2015 Hiking out. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 118.

Luz, Edgard

- 3914 2015 SAD; nurturing hope for a new generation. Journal of Adventist Education (General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Department of Education, Silver Spring, Maryland), 77(4) (April/May): 32-35.

See p. 34, photo, "South American Division delegates to the 2014 International Conference on the Bible and Science, St. George, Utah, U.S.A., visit the Grand Canyon."

- 3915 2015 Division Sud-Américaine; cultiver l'espoir dans les cœurs d'une nouvelle génération. Revue d'Éducation Adventiste (Conférence Générale des Adventistes du Suptième Jour, Département de l'Éducation, Silver Spring, Maryland) [Journal of Adventist Education, French ed.], Édition Spéciale 38: 52-55.

French ed. of the item above. See p. 54, photo, "Les délégués de la Division Sud-Américaine au Congrès International Bible et Science lors de la visite au Grand Canyon du Colorado (États-Unis)."

Marjańskiej, Ludmiły

- 3916 2015 Wąwozy. In: Jentys-Borelowska, Maria, Piękna jasna pani; przypomnienie Ludmiły Marjańskiej (1923-2005). Migotania (Fundacja Światło Literatury, Gazeta Literacka, Gdańsk), 2015(1) (46): 15. [Poem, "Gorges", from 1987; notes Grand Canyon. Memorial by Jentys-Borelowska, p. 14.] [In Polish.]
(transl. 'Ravines.' in 'Beautiful fair lady; memorial of Ludmila Marianska (1923-2005)')

Markgraf, Diandra

- 3917 2015 On the wall; artistic adventures and those close to home. Flagstaff Live!, 21(23) (June 4-10): 14-15.

Ani Eastwood paintings ("Hance Rapid, Mile 77.5" illustrated) and Amy Martin (including photograph from her "River Life" collection, a scene in Marble Canyon).

- 3918 2015 On the wall; fortuitous seasons hinge on collaborations. Flagstaff Live!, 21(32) (August 6-12): 14-15.

See "Dark Horizon", p. 14, regarding Terry Samples' paintings; including note of Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

McCrary, Roy, AND Kurs, Mitch

- 3919 2015 High School Deaf Academic Bowl 2015 highlights. PAWSitive Reflections (California School for the Deaf, Riverside, California), 61(2) (Spring/Summer): 14.

Includes note of hike in Grand Canyon.

McDaniel, Judith

- 3920 2015 Coming back out. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 120-121.

McDonnell, Janet A.

- 3921 2015 "Far-reaching effects:" The United States military and the national parks during World War II. The George Wright Forum, 32(1): 89-110. [Punctuation style in title thus.]

"Grand Canyon hosted thousands of troops each month as they broke up their convoy training trips for a few days of rest and relaxation. Roughly a third of the park's visitors were military. Several Army units used the recently abandoned CGC complex in the park as a recreational camp. Later, troops rotated from the Kingman Army Air Group for periods of recreation. One Army colonel who commanded an anti-aircraft artillery battalion no doubt spoke for many when he wrote, 'The trip to the Grand Canyon proved to be beneficial far beyond our expectations in recreational and educational values.'" (p. 96) "While Mount Rainier and Mount McKinley provided a suitable environment for training in alpine and Arctic warfare, other parks provided a climate and training environment closer to what soldiers would experience in North Africa. Desert warfare training camps in Arizona and southern California, for example, organized maneuver-recreation trips to Grand Canyon." (p. 98)

McGivney, Annette, AND Burcham, John

- 3922 2015 Scouting trip. Arizona Highways, 91(1) (January): 42-45.

Boy Scouts of America Troop 65 from Wood Dale, Illinois; trip to Grand Canyon and rim-to-rim hike. See also letter from Mike Blaskiewicz, 91(3) (March): 4.

Mernit, Judith Lewis, AND Warren, Brooke

- 3923 2015 The West in 72 hours; Asian tourists look for space, spectacles and a decent bowl of noodles. High Country News, 47(6) (April 13): cover, 14-21.

Includes Grand Canyon West.

Miettinen, Harri

- 3924 2015 Puusuutarit Amerikassa. Tampereen Rakennusmestari (Tampereen Rakennusmestarit ja -insinöörit AMK ry, Tampere, Finland), 61(6) (September): 13-17. [In Finnish.]

Tampere University of Applied Sciences construction engineering students' organization, Puusuutarit Ry, trip to America in May. Includes helicopter trip over [western] Grand Canyon.

Minsker, Justin

- 3925 2015 Preparing Texas students for tomorrow's workforce. Solutions (Texas Workforce Commission, Austin), 12(3) (Summer): 9.

Includes photo, "GeoFORCE students on Pima Point at the Grand Canyon as part of the 10th grade Southwest Academy." Individuals not identified; no text mention.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Moeckel, Thorpe

- 3926 2015 Erosional. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 82-83.

Moon, Yoon Sung [윤성문]

- 3927 2015 미서부5대 캐년을 찾아서#1 그랜드캐년. 아득한 시간여행, 그 장엄함과 경이로움에... [miseobu5 dae kaenyeon-eul chaj-aseo#1 geulaendeukaenyeon. adeughan sigan-yeohaeng, geu jang-eomhamgwa gyeong-iloum-e...] [US West 5: Finding Grand Canyon #1: Grand Canyon. Time travel, in its majesty and wonder . . .]. 주안예 [juan-e] / News InChrist (주안예교회 [juan-egyohoe] InChrist Community Church, Valley Chapel, Northridge, California), 3(10) (October): 11. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [In Korean, with bilingual serial title and publisher's information.]

Motorliebe [firm]

- 3928 2015 Auf der Vespa durch die USA. (Concept by Motorliebe; text by Dani Heyne; photographs by Daniel Phakos and Dani Heyne; layout by Lars Ringel and Dani Heyne.) Bielefeld, Germany: Delius Klasing Verlag (printed by Westermann Druck, Zwickau), 272 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'On a Vespa through the USA')

Three riders on Vespa motorscooters cross the United States from Santa Monica, California, to New York. Includes Grand Canyon South Rim and Little Colorado River gorge (pp. 98-101).

Muller, Seth

- 3929 2015 Sanctuary. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 85.

From Heart in the Bony Middle (Muller, 2014).

- 3930 2015 Bright Angel, waning light; Grand Canyon's busiest trail a beautiful revisit in the winter days. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (November/December): 32-34.

Muskellunge [musical group]

- 3931 2015 Preying or praying. Portland, Oregon: CD Baby, CD-ROM.

Muskellunge is a bluegrass musical group; release pertains to conservation and protection of Grand Canyon.

Myers, Tom, AND Black, Bronze

- 3932 2015 Flipped out for Grand Canyon : one-of-a-kind Grand Canyon photographs. Flagstaff, Arizona: Puma Press, 224 pp. [Limited hardbound ed. of 500; and paperbound ed.] [Cover (dust jacket in hardbound ed.) adds, "All proceeds from this book benefit Grand Canyon Youth".]

Nelson, Rodney

- 3933 2015 The western wide : poems. Eau Claire, Wisconsin: ThrewLine Books, 146 pp.

See "You at the South Rim" (p. 50); "Lecture at the South Rim" (p. 112).

Nizalowski, John

- 3934 2015 Origin in depth. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 123.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Oliver, Bill

- 3935 2015 Adventuring in the Grand Canyon and up Cheops Pyramid (5,401'); May 3-6, 2015. The Desert Sage (Sierra Club, Desert Peaks Section), (358) (July/August): 14-16.

Palmer, Parker J.

- 3936 2015 Making all things new. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 89.

From Weavings: A Journal of the Christian Spiritual Life, 1989.

Paluch, Paweł

- 3937 2015 Lazurowe wodospady Havasu. Zwój Jeremiasza (Dwutygodnik Polonijny) (Miami, Florida), 1(15) (November 1): 16-19. [\[In Polish.\]](#)
(transl. 'Azure waterfalls of Havasu')

Havasu Canyon.

Patberg, Judythe Pearson

- 3938 2015 Rushing to sunset : Hiking in the Himalayas (young) and Grand Canyon (old). Bloomington, Indiana: AuthorHouse, 186 pp. ((Mostly) Minnesota Editions.) [An on-demand publication.]

See "Part Two: Rim-to-Rim-to-Rim", pp. 101-175.

Patterson, Shelia

- 3939 2015 Red rock. Ride Nipomo Horse and Trail Newsletter (Ride Nipomo Equestrian Trail Alliance, Nipomo, California), (Summer): 6.

Report of trail rides by horse in Utah and Arizona, including a mule ride on the North Kaibab Trail to Supai Tunnel.

Patton, Lee

- 3940 2015 The solace of geology. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 92-93.

Paulson, Beth

- 3941 2015 from Canyon Notes. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 84.

Reprinted from Canyon Notes (Mt. Sneffels Press, 2012).

Peregoy, Nate

- 3942 2015 Life between two (grand) canyons. Our Father Monthly Connection (Our Father Lutheran Church, Centennial, Colorado), (May): [1].

Pastor's message, including remarks on trips to Grand Canyon.

Pérez, Patrick

- 3943 2015 Mary Colter au Grand Canyon ou l'invention d'un paysage. Mary Colter in the Grand Canyon or the invention of a landscape. Projets de Paysage (Revue Scientifique sur la Conception et l'Aménagement de l'Espace) (France), 9 (1 July 2015), 27 pp. (Dossier Thématique, No. 12,

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Paysage et Culture.) Seen online at [http://www.projetsdepaysage.fr/mary\_colter\_au\_grand\_canyon\_ou\_l\_invention\_d\_un\_paysage.]
[In French, with bilingual title.]

Petersen, Alan

3944 2015 A big surprise on eBay! The Gunnar Widforss Catalogue Raisonné Project, [4] (June): [3]-[4].
Gunnar Widforss' first Grand Canyon painting, "North Rim View" (1923) purchased by friends in Flagstaff.

3945 2015 Gunnar Widforss visits Grand Canyon. The Gunnar Widforss Catalogue Raisonné Project, [4] (June): [4].
Gunnar Widforss of Åkersberga, grandson of Gunnar's oldest brother, Pelle, and brother of Eva Wendlandt. Includes photos of the younger Widforss at Point Sublime and with Bruce Aiken in Flagstaff.

Petersen, James R.

3946 2015 Eine Wilde Horde auf dem weg nach Westen; International Fellowship of Motorcycling Rotarians. Rotary Suisse Liechtenstein (Mitglieder der Rotary Clubs in der Schweiz und im Fürstentum Liechtenstein, Monatszeitschrift) (Uster, Switzerland), 89(5) (May): cover, contents page, 12-17. [In German.]
(transl. 'A wilde horde heading West: International Fellowship of Motorcycling Rotarians')
Includes Grand Canyon.

Pinder, Annette

3947 2015 The trip of a lifetime: The Guys Group. Buffalo Healthy Living (East Amherst, New York), (July): 14.
People, Inc., formed The Guys Group for the special needs of young adult men transitioning from homes into communities. Notes that the group traveled 6,000 miles in an RV, including a visit to Grand Canyon (with photo).

Quayle, Amil D.

3948 2015 Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 88.
From Quayle (2009).

Rane, Jordan, AND Schallau, Adam

3949 2015 Three men and a canyon; a band of brothers discovers the obvious—that hiking down is the easy part. Cowboys and Indians (Dallas, Texas), 23 (July): 120-126.

Ray, David

3950 2015 Origin in depth. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 122.

Reing (Family)

3951 2015 Wedding of Scott and Kei. Temple Times (Temple Beth Shalom, Mahopac, New York), (September/October 2015) (Elul/Tishri/Heshvan 5776): 19.
Scott Reing-Kei Swenson Reing wedding at Grand Canyon South Rim.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rosen, Danny

- 3952 2015 Going down Grand. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 64-65.

Ross, Andrea

- 3953 2015 Upper Ribbon Falls. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 67.

Rukkila, Jean

- 3954 2015 Along the Widforss Trail. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 40.
From Mountain Gazette, (83): 15.

Rukkila, Jean

- 3955 2015 Go for the glow; share the fit of presence. In: Letter From Home [SECTION]. Flagstaff Live!, 21(52) (December 24-30): 4.
Includes reminiscence of watching the canyon in moonlight from the suspension bridge near Phantom Ranch.

Saner, Reg

- 3956 2015 Tonto Plateau, Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 69.
From Quarterly Review of Literature, 1993.

Scoulding, J.

- 3957 2015 2 MED Brigade's "grand" expedition. ARQ (Army Reserve Quarterly) (Great Britain, Army Headquarters, Army Media and Communication, Andover, Hampshire, United Kingdom), (Winter 2015/2016): 50.
Brief report of rim-to-rim crossing of Grand Canyon, south to north.

Shelton, Jenn, AND Etzel, Ken

- 3958 2015 [Not] getting religion in the Grand Canyon; the author, ultrarunning legend Connie Gardner and the enigmatic Lance Armstrong bond on a desert adventure. Trail Runner Magazine, (July): 28-37. [Square brackets are part of the title.]
Havasu Canyon.

Spamer, Earle E.

- 3959 2015 The men from Bass Station vs. Glen Canyon Dam; hunting and rescuing Grand Canyon's most exclusive animal. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 26(1) (Winter): 6-12.
Focuses on the discovery of the Kanab ambersnail, but relates to a cross-canyon trip on the Bass trails (see Orr, 1910). See also a sequel to this item by Spamer in Spamer (2016). (Erratum: p. 12, note 6: Mount Hayden was not named for Ferdinand Vandiveer Hayden. It was named for Charles Trumbull Hayden, a Salt River ferry operator where today is Tempe, Arizona. He was the father of Carl Trumbull Hayden, who was a U.S. Representative and U.S. Senator from Arizona from statehood in 1912 to 1968. The geographic name was proposed by Frank Bond in 1929, who later was the chairman of the U.S. Board on Geographic Names.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

[Spamer, Earle E.]

- 3960 2015 The Grand Canyon: They say it's indescribable. A poem. In: Spamer, Earle E., The Grand Canon : Second Edition, 1542-2014. A bibliography of 65,000 published items in printed and other media about or including the Grand Canyon and lower Colorado River regions—Arizona, Nevada, California, Baja California, Sonora—southwestern United States—Northwestern Mexico. Philadelphia: Raven's Perch, p. 2660. [Publication on DVD. Second ed. of The Grand Canon also downloadable online at <https://ravensperch.org>.]

Verse-free. Not free verse, but actually a full page, blank.

Subissi, Alessandro, AND Bertini, Giovanni

- 3961 2015 CAI Pisa e CAI-PNW insieme nel Sud-Ovest Americano (3-23 maggio 2015). Notiziario (Club Alpino Italiano, Sezione di Pisa), 34(2): 2-5. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'CAI Pisa and CAI-PNW together in the American South-West (3-23 May 2015)')

Includes South Rim of Grand Canyon. CAI-PNW is the Pacific Northwest subsection of the Pisa Section.

Szikszay, Philip

- 3962 2015 [Exhibition note.] In: Galerieführer Waldviertel : Ausstellungen September 2015-Februar 2016. Mistelbach: Kulturvernetzung Niederösterreich, 20 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Waldviertel gallery guide: Exhibitions September 2015-February 2016')

See "Galerie Alte Schmiede" (transl. 'Old Forge Gallery'), pp. 12-13; specifically, p. 13, illustration, "Linde Waber, Tageszeichnung vom 18.10.213 vom Grand Canyon, 35 x 35 cm, dünnes Japan-papier, farbige Tuschen" (transl. 'Daily drawing from October 18, 2013, from the Grand Canyon, 35 x 35 cm, thin Japanese paper, colored inks'). The exhibition note by Szikszay is principally about Waber's piece.

Taillac, Claudine; Jenney, David; AND Santamaria, Lillian

- 3963 2015 Grand Canyon reflections. (Designed by David Jenney Design.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 126 pp.

Theall, Michelle

- 3964 2015 Up the down escalator. In: McDowell, Dimity, and Shea, Sarah Bowen (eds.), Tales from another mother runner : triumphs, trials, tips, and tricks from the road. Kansas City (Missouri), Sydney, and London: Andrews McMeel Publishing, pp. 140-144.

Includes Grand Canyon.

Thompson, Phyllis Hoge

- 3965 2015 The silence, the sun. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 47.

Tohe, Laura

- 3966 2015 Sometimes she dreams. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 39.

From No Parole Today (West End Press, 1999).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Torres, Themis Mizerkowski, AND Parmigiani, Leandro

- 3967 2015 Viva Las Vegas! Sociedade Brasileira de Reumatologia, Boletim (São Paulo), 39(3) (July/September): 16-17. [In Portuguese.]

Includes remarks on a visit to Grand Canyon West.

Tory, Sarah

- 3968 2015 End of the trail wars. High Country News, 47(12) (July 20): 14-18.

Regarding mountain bikers near Sedona, Arizona, but includes reference to the "Sedona Five" who attempted to bike across Grand Canyon but were arrested at Phantom Ranch.

Tsaneva, Maria

- 3969 2015 Thomas Moran : 122 paintings and watercolors. [No imprint], 1st ed., 92 pp.

Volume contains Foreword (pp. 3-6) with remainder comprising black-and-white reproductions with legends only, in chronological order. Color cover depicts Grand Canyon, without legend and not reproduced in the volume.

Underhill, Lonnie E.

- 3970 2015 (ED.) Hamlin Garland's "A Night in the Grand Canyon". Journal of Arizona History, 56(3) (Autumn): 353-376.

Garland's unpublished manuscript, "A Night in the Grand Canon. Hance's Tent. Grand Canon, August 25, 1896", transcribed, pp. 359-363, 365-372.]

- 3971 2015 Hamlin Garland, John Hance and the Grand Canyon. Gilbert, Arizona: Roan Horse Press, 87 pp.

Vaitasūtė-Keizikienė, Agnė

- 3972 2015 Kaip nepasiklysti Jungtinėse Amerikos Valstijose, arba Trys savaitės išsvajotoje žemėje. Laisvalaikis su Respublika Mūsų (Vilnius), 2015(43)(918) (October 23-29): 22-25. [In Lithuanian.] (transl. 'How not to get lost in the United States, or Three weeks in a dreamland')

Includes brief note of a Grand Canyon visit.

Valparaiso, Randy, AND Valparaiso, Rosie

- 3973 2015 A trip to Albuquerque, New Mexico[,], and the Grand Canyon 10/2-8. Get-Around Gazette (Corvettes Limited of Los Angeles, California), 59(6) (October): 11-12.

Varrato, Barb

- 3974 2015 TOSC's Barb Varrato and family—intrepid travelers. Aerodyne News (Aerodyne Industries), 2(4) (Winter): 10-11.

Grand Canyon hike.

Walka, Ann Weiler

- 3975 2015 Alchemy. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 76.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Walker, Dorothy

- 3976 2015 Profile. Howick Camera Club (Auckland, New Zealand), (March): 6.
Includes the writer's "favorite image", "Coming in to Land", an artistic photograph focused on a raven in flight at Grand Canyon, with background blurred by camera motion.

Weilert, Brian, AND Weilert, Stacia

- 3977 2015 West coast loop. [No place]: CreateSpace, 294 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
This is a print version of web-posted remarks and photos. See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 79-87.

Whitt, Laurelyn

- 3978 2015 Rim. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 115.
First published in The Windsor Review (Fall 2012).

Williams, Daniel

- 3979 2015 Thomas Moran paints. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 29.
First published in Imagination and Place: An Anthology (I & P Press, 2009).

Wilson, Eric

- 3980 2015 I sing you for an apple. New England Review, 36(2): 54-67. ("In memoriam Steinbjørn Berghamar Jacobsen, September 30, 1937-April 12, 2012".)
Regarding Wilson's fill-in service as an escort interpreter for Jacobsen, the Faroese-speaking poet and writer, during a 1978 U.S. tour. (Wilson did not speak Faroese himself but made do with some knowledge of Old Icelandic and Swedish, "with Danish words thrown in", since Jacobsen's Danish was actually "something of his own invention". Eventually incorporating more Faroese words, their "two versions of 'Danish' more or less merged"; all this was compounded by Jacobsen's free use of alcohol). Concludes (pp. 64-66) with recollections of Jacobsen's spur-of-the-moment decision to hike into Grand Canyon alone, without shirt or shoes(!), and his late arrival back on the rim in poor condition after apparently having gone to the bottom. Jacobsen recounted that he had, in very broken English, begged food and water from hikers: "I sing you for an apple". He said that he would write a memoir about his American trip. "He would not entitle it in the Faeroese 'Eg sang fryi eitt súrepli!' It would be just what he had told the other hikers, in English: 'I Sing You for an Apple!'" Jacobsen's (1982) memoir, in Faroese, does include Grand Canyon, but it is entitled Brá úr USA.

Wilson, Steve

- 3981 2015 Along rockfall. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 87.

Wofford, Philip

- 3982 2015 Walk all day. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 68.
From Wofford (1972).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wu, John [政治] [Wu Junqiang, 吳君強]

- 3983 2015 大峽谷健行 [dà xiágǔ jiàn xíng] [Grand Canyon hiking]. 国湾大学 [国立台湾大学], 南加州 校友会, 四十二届 [Guó wān dà xué [guólì táiwān dà xué], nán jiāzhōu xiàoyǒu huì, sìshí'èr jiè] [Guowan University [National Taiwan University], Southern California Alumni Association], (42): 98. [Serial title as given on conventional back cover. English title on conventional front cover: 2015 : National Taiwan University Alumni Association of Southern California. Spine reads: “2015年刊 : 四十二届” [2015 Niánkān: sìshí'èr jiè] [2015 issue : forty-two].] [In Chinese.]

Wyrick, Traci

- 3984 2015 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part XI. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 26(3) (Summer): 5-8.
April 1-June 14, 1946.

Yevtushenko, Yevgeny Aleksandrovich

- 3985 2015 from Who are you, Grand Canyon? [sic] In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 73. [redited to Almost at the End (A. W. Bouis, translator) (i.e., Yevtushenko, 1987).]

2016

Anonymous

- 3986 2016 Have Harley—will travel; an American adventure blog by Lindz and Woz. Bartys Bulletin (Harley Owners Group, Fenlanders Chapter 9143), (January): [unpaginated].
Harley Davidson motorcycles. Includes Grand Canyon.
- 3987 2016 [Remarks on Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.] In: Wharton, Emma, Connecting youth to the rivers of the West. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(2) (Summer): 25-26.
Grand Canyon Youth-sponsored trips. Three items, signed “Greg, age 19”, “Bella, age 18”, and “Chelsea, age 16”.
- 3988 2016 Novices on the road. Novitiate bound! The Caperone (North American Pacific Capuchin Conference Novitiate, San Lorenzo Seminary, Santa Ynez, California), 8(1) (August): 8.
Notes postulates' road trip to California, including a stop at Grand Canyon.
- 3989 2016 [Lecture notice.] In: Events and Entertainment [SECTION]. The Dupont Current (Washington, D.C.), 15(27) (November 30): 28.
Kevin Fedarko and Pete McBride to discuss “Between River and Rim: Hiking the Grand Canyon” at the Grosvenor Auditorium, National Geographic.
- 3990 2016 「桃園區公所105年度組團赴美國爾灣市暨先進城市訪問考察活動」報告書：出國報告（出國類別：考察） [táoyuán qū gōngsuǒ 105 niándù zǔtuán fù měiguó ǎ wān shì jì xiānjìn chéngshì fǎngwèn kǎochá huódòng' bàogào shū : chūguó bàogào (chūguó lèibí: Kǎochá)] [Report on the visiting activities of the Taoyuan District Office to Irvine and other cities in the United States during Year 105 : studies abroad]. 桃園市桃園區公所 [Táoyuán shì táoyuán qū gōngsuǒ] [Taoyuan City, Taiwan: Taoyuan City, Taoyuan District Office], 58 pp. [The year in this report is given only as

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

105; i.e., 民國 105 in the Minguo calendar of the Republic of China (Taiwan) era system. The trip was made during May 8-17; the report is dated July 29.] [In Chinese.]

See “十三、大峽谷國家公園 Grand Canyon National Park” [Shísān, dà xiágǔ guójiā gōngyuán Grand Canyon National Park] [13, Grand Canyon National Park] [bilingual, thus], pp. 31-32; and “八、大峽谷” [Bā, dà xiágǔ] [8, the Grand Canyon], pp. 40-41. See also photo on p. 58. Grand Canyon visit is to Grand Canyon West (Hualapai Indian Reservation).

Atlanta Symphony Orchestra

3991 NO DATE Nature's symphony : how nature has inspired famous works of music. Atlanta, Georgia: Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, 10 pp. [including wraps]. [2016.]

See pp. 2-3, “A New Day: Ferde Grofé and the Sound of Sunrise”.

Bacharach, Joan

3992 2016 (GENERAL ED.) Treasured landscapes: National Park Service art collections tell America's stories. Washington, D.C.: U.S. National Park Service, Museum Management Program, 160 pp.

Grand Canyon, see cover, pp. 27, 33, 42-44, 105, 118.

Balfour, Amy C.

3993 2016 Sisterhood of hikers in the Grand Canyon; Amy Balfour's solo trek takes an unexpected turn. Sierra, (July/August):.

Bostwick, Will

3994 2016 The whale worshipper; in science and in life, Eric Keen, C'08, plots his own course. (Photos by Luke Padgett.) Sewanee Magazine (University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee), (Winter): 16-25.

See p. 21, during Keen's years at the university, “At the same time he was teaching himself advanced physics in a fire tower on the north rim of the Grand Canyon one summer, he was writing and recording an album of whale-themed children's music . . . .” (ENTIRE NOTE)

Brinkley, Douglas

3995 2016 Rightful heritage : Franklin D. Roosevelt and the land of America. New York: Harper (HarperCollinsPublishers), 744 pp.

Grand Canyon (in passing), see pp. 43, 113, 119, 238, 454. See also p. [2] of photos section following p. 312: “When FDR visited the Grand Canyon, he wasn't awestruck. ‘I like my trees at Hyde Park better,’ he told his wife when standing on the South Rim. ‘They are alive and growing.’” (no text mention, nor credit for quotation in this legend)

Brooks, Beverly Metcalfe

3996 2016 Grand Canyon mule ride. In: Bev's Bits [COLUMN]. Cave Creek Museum Nuggets (Cave Creek, Arizona), (May): 3.

Reminiscence from 1958. Includes Kolb photo (not credited) of mounted riders on Bright Angel Trail.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Brown, Jackie

- 3997 2016 Blast from the past; Quartermaster Lookout—Bat Mine. Meadview Monitor, (September/October): 6-8.
- From May 1967 Meadview Monitor. Report of an "Auto Caravan trip taken to the Bat Cave Tower and Quartermaster Lookout points".

Burcham, John, AND McGivney, Annette

- 3998 2016 We set up shop in the middle of a natural wonder. In the spirit of the legendary Kolb brothers, who made a career out of photographing tourists at Grand Canyon National Park, we installed an octabox and a Canon EOS 5DS along the Bright Angel Trail, at a place called Mile-and-a-Half Resthouse. While our photographer [Burcham] was busy making portraits of hikers, our writer [McGivney] was asking them all kinds of questions. Arizona Highways, 92(11) (November): 42-51.
- Photographs of, and interviews with, Hannah Tyldesley and Emily Kier, 23, from London; Shane Anders, 34, from Asheville, North Carolina; Ethan and Cameron, 9 and 10, from Charlotte, North Carolina; Sharon Swain, 64, from Columbia, South Carolina; David Schmittinger, 61, from Prescott, Arizona; Tom O'Loughlin, 27, from Lancashire, England; Cecilia Wenisch, 67, from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Philippe Le Vessier, 50, from Pluméliau, France; Tyler Williams, 47, from Flagstaff, Arizona; Jamie Bussey, 34, from Calgary, Alberta, Canada; Chris Adams, 48, from Redwood City, California; and James Turner, 36, from Phoenix, Arizona. See also interview with Burcham in this issue, p. 9. See also letter from David Hugins, 93(2) (February 2017): 4.

Butters, Kerry

- 3999 NO DATE A visit to the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], 40 pp. [An on-demand publication.] [2016?]

Căluțiu-Sonnenberg, Gabriela

- 4000 2016 Las Vegas, fabulosul. Itaca (Centrului de Promovare "Itaca", Dublin, Ireland), 4(15) (July/September): 49-54. [In Romanian.]
(transl. 'Fabulous Las Vegas')
- Includes remarks on Grand Canyon (Grand Canyon West). [Itaca is described as "Revistă de cultură pentru scriitorii de limbă română din afara granițelor țării" ('Culture magazine for Romanian-language writers outside the country').]

Davis, Donald

- 4001 2016 Cripple Joe : stories from my daddy. Winston-Salem, North Carolina: John F. Blair, 238 pp.
- See "The Grand Canyon", pp. 203-219.

DeVault, Karen

- 4002 2016 Mule skinner. Women2Women Michigan (Grand Blanc, Michigan), 7(5): 26. [Inspirational message, recalling a mule trip to Phantom Ranch.]

Dodder, Steve; Welch, Tiare; AND Rotramel, Rick

- 4003 2016 SAC outreach: Grand Canyon Star Party North Rim 2016. Saguaro Skies (Saguaro Astronomy Club, Phoenix), 40(7) (July): 14-18.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Dufault, Sirena

- 4004 2016 Across Arizona on one wheel. Arizona Trail News (Arizona Trail Association, Phoenix), 24(2) (Summer): 9.
- Jack Mahler from Bend, Oregon, rides the Arizona Trail from Mexico to Utah on a Kris Holm 29er unicycle. (Packed across Grand Canyon in 10 hours.)]

Dyson, Marianne J.

- 4005 2016 A passion for space : adventures of a pioneering female NASA flight controller. Chichester, United Kingdom: Springer Praxis Books.
- See "Preparing for STS-2", which notes small-aircraft flight to Grand Canyon in the 1980s; and "Secret Preparations and Discrete Discrimination", which includes notes of the author's one-day hike to the bottom and back in the Grand Canyon. STS: Space Transportation System, also known as the Space Shuttle. NASA: National Aeronautics and Space Administration.]

Elston, Dave

- 4006 2016 A year in the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 133 [136] pp.

Encinas, Kionnas Reye

- 4007 2016 [Letter to the Wa:k community.] In: Wa:k Royalty [SECTION]. Wa:k Newsletter (Tohono O'odham Nation, San Xavier District, Tucson), 26(9) (Wasai Gakidag Masad—Month of Dry Grass) (September): 4. [In O'odham and English.]
- The author, Junior Miss Wa:k Ceksañ 2015-2016, writes of events in which she has participated in this role, including "blessings of the Skywalk in Grand Canyon", with a few specific notes about her visit there. Her letter begins with several sentences in O'odham; the remainder is in English.

Equator Creative Media

- 4008 2016 Carry on: Finding hope in the Grand Canyon. (Starring Anthony Castle; Jeremy Simmons, director, producer; Jill Castle, executive producer; Carrie Simmons, producer, writer; photography by Ryan Van Duzer; Jann Carl, narrator; original music by Bob Daspit and Chris Castle; sound by 3 Leaf Recording; still photos by Matt Sperlling; production assistance by Daring Adventures.) [No place]: Equator Creative Media. 56:00. (Jeremy Simmons, supplier.)
- Documentary about 14-year-old Anthony Castle, afflicted by Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy, who is taken on a wheelchair by trail to the bottom of Grand Canyon.

Eurenius, Anders

- 4009 2016 15 October—The descent of Grand Canyon. In: Åslund, Henrik (ed.), The US Cordillera Excursion 2015. Gothenberg, Sweden: University of Gothenberg, Department of Earth Sciences, Geovetarcentrum/Earth Science Centre, pp. 11-13. (University of Gothenberg, Department of Earth Sciences, Report, 2016 C122.) (Göteborgs Universitet. Naturvetenskapliga fakulteten.)
- Essay on the hike on Bright Angel Trail to Plateau Point.

Fedarko, Kevin, AND McBride, Pete

- 4010 2016 Losing the Grand Canyon. Two adventurers set out on a 650-mile trek through the Grand Canyon. They faced danger and hardship—and saw firsthand how development could spoil one of America's

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

most beloved places. National Geographic, 230(3) (September): 114-139 [pp. 124-129 comprise recto and verso of three-panel fold-out that includes map, "Contested Canyon", pp. 124-126].

- 4011 2016 La pérdida del Gran Cañón. Dos aventureros emprendieron una travesía 1 050 kilómetros a lo largo del Gran Cañón. Enfrentaron peligros y dificultades, y vieron de primera mano cómo el desarrollo podría echar a perder uno de los lugares más queridos de Estados Unidos. National Geographic España, 39(3) (September): 18-41. [In Spanish.]

Translation of the article in the September issue of National Geographic (above).

Filippi, Maurizio

- 4012 2016 Viaggio nel Sud Ovest degli Stati Uniti. Club Alpino Italiano, Sezione di Padova, Annuario, 2015: 80-85. [Volume cover title: Annuario CAI Padova duemilaquindici ('CAI Padua yearbook two thousand and fifteen') (published Spring 2016).] [In Italian.]
(transl. 'Journey to the Southwest of the United States')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Freedman, Phil

- 4013 2016 A great story about hiking the Grand Canyon. The Transmission (Dartmouth College, Class of 1968 Newsletter), (Fall): 5.

Gipson, Meagan

- 4014 2016 100 years away. [No place]: www.grandcanyonproject.com, CD. ("Engineered by Chad Turner at the Grove Studio".)

Debut album. Packaging includes sticker: "5th Generation Arizonan! Great-Great-Granddaughter of William Wallace Bass Known for Grand Canyon's Bass Trail."

Gottfried, Katalin M. Hedvig

- 4015 2016 Egy év vakáció? Vagy mégsem? Szignum (A Szent István Egyházi Általános Iskola és Kollégium, Makó, Hungary), 12(8/9) (September): 7. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'One year vacation? Or not?')

Regarding an academic study trip to the U.S., February-April 2016. Includes note and photo of visit to Grand Canyon.

Goyal, Suryansh

- 4016 2016 The Tempe times. Review (Scindia School, Fort, Gwalior, India), (16) (December 15): 4.

Regarding the writer's time as a exchange student in Tempe, Arizona. Includes brief remarks on trip to Grand Canyon and hike to Indian Garden.

Grand Canyon Association

- 4017 2016 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art 2016. (Designed by Barbara Glynn Denney; Faith Marcovecchio, ed.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 28 pp.

8th Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Green, Nancy [Green, Nancy Rivest]

- 4018 2016 Gifts from the canyon. In: Northern Arizona Authors Association collected works : Volume 2. Williams, Arizona: Moonlit Press, pp. 79-83.

Grzesik, Frank

- 4019 2016 The grand mistress : hiking the Grand Canyon in your fifties and beyond. [No imprint], 133 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Hendricks, Larry

- 4020 2016 Saving beauty; adventurers Kevin Fedarko and Pete McBride champion for the Grand Canyon with an epic thru-hike. Flagstaff Live!, 22(36) (September 1-7): 1, 3, 16-19.

Hiroaki, Takashima [高島博明]

- 4021 2016 Report 2; アメリカ研修報告書 [Report 2; Amerika kenshū hōkoku-sho] [Report 2; USA training report]. こすもす [Kosu mosu] [Soar] (社会医療法人財団, 新行橋病院広報誌 [Shakai iryō hōjin zaidan, shin'yukuhashibyōin kōhō-shi, Shinyukibashihospital PR Magazin] [Social Medical Corporation Foundation, Shin Yukuhashi Hospital, Yukuhashi, Fukuoka Prefecture, Kyushu, Japan]), 32(11): 4-5. [In Japanese, with bilingual subtitle and "Report 2" in Roman orthography, thus.]

Brief. Includes photo taken during visit to Grand Canyon South Rim.

Janglo, Hasunjib [장로, 하순집]

- 4022 2016 커버 스토리 [keobeo seutoli] [Cover story]. Y 한마음 [Y hanma-eum] [Y One Heart] (나성영락교회 [naseong-yeonglaggyohoe] [Na Seong Young Church] [Youngnak Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles]), (104) (May): cover, 11. [In Korean.]

Cover photo is an overcolorized view of the Colorado River as seen eastward from Toroweap, Grand Canyon. The "Cover Story" (p. 11) is only an extended legend for the cover photo. No accompanying text.

Jao, Tsung-i [饒宗頤] [Rao Zongyi]

- 4023 2016 The residue of dreams : selected poems of Jao Tsung-i. (Nicholas Morrow Williams, translator.) Ithaca, New York: Cornell University, East Asia Program, 201 [208] pp. (Cornell East Asia Series, 182.) [Williams' text and notes in English, with poetry also in the original Chinese.]

See the quatrain, "On the Grand Canyon", p. 54; credited as "大峽谷, Wenji 722" [Grand Canyon, Wenji, 722; i.e. Jao (2003), p. 722]. Also presented (p. 55) is a color reproduction of a watercolor painting with Chinese calligraphy, by Jao, "Grand Canyon (1980s)". Includes notes by Williams. Grand Canyon also noted in passing (p. 6) in Williams' "Introduction" (pp. 1-15), under the section "Jao as Poet".

[Nicholas Morrow Williams (see Jao, 2015, 2016) explained in his "Prefatory Note" to The Residue of Dreams (p. xiii) that he uses the Pinyin system of Chinese transliteration, except for Jao's name: "Jao achieved an international reputation in the 1960s, when the Wade-Giles system was still widely used, so his English name follows the Wade-Giles romanization: Jao Tsung-i instead of Pinyin Rao Zongyi." Note as well that the English name of Hong Kong Baptist University's Academy of Sinology (see Jao, 2015) honors "Jao Tsung-i", as do numerous other institutions named for him.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Judge, Jury

- 4024 2016 Folks, the view of Grand Canyon is THIS WAY. In: Selfie/Self-Obsessed Culture [CARTOONS]. The Noise (Clarkdale, Arizona), (179) (June) (mango édition; salarius édition): 36.
- Cartoon of family all facing away from the canyon, taking "selfie" portraits.

Krauss, Uwe

- 4025 2016 Desert dreams; Arizona, California, Nevada, and Utah. In: Touring America's Backroads ["Special Collector's Issue"]. RoadRUNNER Motorcycle Touring and Travel, Special Issue, 1: 20-29.

Kurneta, David, AND Burke, Jordan

- 4026 2016 Warrior hike; in their own words. Arizona Trail News (Arizona Trail Association, Phoenix), 24(2) (Summer): 6-7.
- Warrior Expeditions program that puts combat veterans on National Scenic Trails.

Levine, Suzanne

- 4027 2016 Grand Canyon Older Than Thought : poems by Suzanne Levine. Simsbury, Connecticut: Antrim House, 74 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
- See "Grand Canyon Older Than Thought", p. 2. (Based on a New York Times headline.)

Liggett, Deb

- 4028 2016 Grand Canyon National Park; mud balls and feathers. In: Yosemite Conservancy (ed.), The wonder of it all : 100 stories from the National Park Service. Yosemite National Park, California: Yosemite Conservancy, pp. 122-123.
- A Horace Albright Training Center guest instructor visits a park ranger's home for dinner; mostly regarding five-year-old Gabriel.

Lovenich, Julia

- 4029 2016 Havasu Falls; Wasserfall-Wunderland im Grand Canyon. Terra (Steinfurt, Germany), (April): 106-109. [In German.]
(transl. 'Havasu Falls; waterfall wonderland in the Grand Canyon')
- Report of a pack trip into Havasu Canyon.

Maxwell, Nicholas

- 4030 2016 Orienteering musings in the USA. Devon Orienteer (Devon Orienteering Club, United Kingdom), (173) (July): 4.
- Includes notes on a one-day hike to bottom of Grand Canyon and return.

McClure, Caleb

- 4031 2016 On the Wall; all wrapped up in the flow of art. Flagstaff Live!, 22(36) (September 1-7): 12.
- Includes remarks on the forthcoming Colorado River Days festival, and an illustration of the Joel Russel painting, "Crash Camp Sunset".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Miller, P. W. (Bill)

- 4032 2016 [Letter.] In: Letters [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 92(2) (February): 4.
Remarks on viewing Grand Canyon.

Mölder, Liisi, AND Weiss, Fabian

- 4033 2016 Alles XXL. Fast jeder US-Amerikaner strahlt einen an. Und alles ist "awesome", genial. Doch was steckt hinter den Superlativen? Unsere Autoren erfahren es, in 25 Tagen, auf knapp 10.000 Kilometern, Zwischen San Francisco und New York. ADAC Urlaub (Allgemeiner Deutscher Automobil-Club Reisebüros, Stuttgart), (May): 24-31. [In German.]
(transl. 'Everything XXL. Almost every American beams at you. And everything is "awesome". But what is behind the superlatives? Our authors find out in 25 days, covering almost 10,000 kilometers between San Francisco and New York.')
- Includes Grand Canyon at Desert View. (XXL: Extra extra large.)

Muller, Seth

- 4034 2016 On the walls, on the streets; public art becomes a major draw in Flagstaff, with new projects, soaring imagery and innovative works. In: Summer Visitor Guide 2016. Visitor Guide (Arizona Daily Sun, and Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, Flagstaff), 2016(2) (July 10-August 12): 8-10.
- Features Taylor Mahoney mural, "Sound of Flight", which depicts a scene at Grand Canyon.

Munoz, Laura

- 4035 2016 Rim to rim : an emotional, physical and spiritual journey. [No imprint], 658 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Ordelheide, Grant

- 4036 2016 Round the clock. What do 24 hours in the Grand Canyon look like? From night hikes lit by headlamp to glorious sunrises to afternoon rainbows, every hour in the park brings countless surprises. Bonus: Pro tips for capturing memorable photos any time of the day. National Park Journal (Grand Canyon Edition) (National Park Trips Media, Boulder, Colorado), 2016: 49-56 [double-gatefold section].

Østbø, Rolf, AND Aanes, Peter

- 4037 2012 Alleveiersmør; fra øst til vest i USA. Sørvesten (Medlemsblad for Norges Handikapforbund Sørvest, Rogaland og Hordaland) (Norges Handikapforbund Sørvest, Nesttun, Bergen, Norway), 2012(4): 14-18. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'The Mother Road; from east to west in the USA')
- Disabled author's travelogue of a trip along Route 66, Chicago to Los Angeles. Grand Canyon, see pp. 17-18.

Probst-Gipson, Debbie

- 4038 2016 Stories the Canyon keeps. [No place]: Quickstep Publishing, www.GrandCanyonProject.com, 259 pp. [Cover adds: A "Grand" family legacy.]
Bass family.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Quayle, Amil D.

- 4039 2016 Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(4) (Winter 2016-2017): 6.
From Quayle (2009). Appended as part of memorial notice for Quayle, by Bruce Quayle and Robin Fox.

Random, Jack

- 4040 2016 The Grand Canyon Zen golf tour : a memoir by Jack Random : featuring the handbook of Zen golf. Turlock, California: Crow Dog Press, 218, [33] pp. [An on-demand publication.]
See in particular the chapter, "Grand Canyon", pp. 31-38.

Revilla Briongos, Agustí

- 4041 2016 Bright Angel Trail, Gran Canyó del Colorado. SEAS (Secció Excursionista de l'Ateneu de Sant Just Desvern, Butlletí) (Sant Just Desvern, Spain), (323) (March/April): cover, 5-9. [In Catalan.]

Rosenmayr, Leopold

- 4042 2016 Die Weisheit ist ein unruhiger Geist : Impulse aus den Weltkulturen, Skizzen aus dem eigenen Leben. Wien, Köln, and Weimar: Böhlau Verlag Ges.m.b.H & Co. KG, 219 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Wisdom is a restless spirit: impulses from world cultures, sketches from one's own life')
See "Auf gewagtem Feissteig: Abstieg in den Grand Canyon in Arizona/USA", pp. 186-190. (transl. 'A daring ice climb: descent into Grand Canyon in Arizona/USA')

Rye, Damon, AND Rye, Sandy

- 4043 2016 Crosstrek gets us there. In: Letters from Readers [SECTION]. Drive (Subaru), (Spring): 6.
2013 model Subaru Crosstrek owners drive through the West. Includes Toroweap Overlook (with photo at entrance to Tuweep area).

Sajovic, Tomaž

- 4044 2016 Uvodnik; svetloba sveta. Proteus (Prirodoslovono Društvo Slovenije, Ljubljana, Slovenia), (May): 388-391. [In Slovenian.]
(transl. 'Editorial; light of the world')
Discusses the inspirational photography of Sebastiãa Salgada, including (in translation here) "A view of the confluence of the Colorado and Little Colorado Rivers from the Navajo Indian Reservation and Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona, USA 2010". The photograph appears in a full-page spread on pp. 390-391. The view is from the southern rim of the Little Colorado River gorge, looking westward.

Schaack, Emily

- 4045 2016 Aim high; Ames residents share their bucket list goals and how to reach them. Ames Living (Johnston, Iowa), (February): cover, 5-7.
See "Extreme Sightseeing", regarding Jody and Joyce Fisher hike into Grand Canyon.

Schallau, Adam

- 4046 2016 Something old. Something new. A portfolio by Adam Schallau. Arizona Highways, 92(1) (January): inside front cover-1, 34-43.
Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Scully, Sophie; Morgan, Ellie; Herbert, Libby; AND Edwards, Chloe

- 4047 2016 Viva Las Vegas!! Llais Llangatwg Voice (Llangatwg Community School, Neath, Wales), (93) (Spring): [2].

Class trip with Mrs. Clancy. Includes note of visit to Grand Canyon West.

Shah, Veena [वीणा शहा] [Śahā, Vīṇā]

- 4048 2016 पहिलं प्रेम.. ग्रँड कॅननयन! [Ahilam prēma.. Graṁḍa Kēnanayana!] [First love.. Grand Canyon!]. रतेहबंक्ष [Ratehabanksa or Rateh Binshak] (महाराष्ट्र मंडळ डेट्रॉइट [Mahārāṣṭra maṇḍala dētrōṭīṭa] [Maharashtra Mandal of Detroit]), "2016 Sankrant Edition": 14-15. [Ellipsis is part of item title, thus. Maharashtra Mandal of Detroit, Michigan, newsletter.] [In Marathi, with some serial information also given in English.]

Shaw, Ada

- 4049 NO DATE Rim to rim. [No imprint], 76 pp. [2016.] [An on-demand publication.]

Author is 13 years of age. Memoir of a rim-to-rim hike in Grand Canyon.

Sims, Warren

- 4050 2016 Ministry Minutes [SECTION or COLUMN]. Thrive (Peachtree City Church of Christ, Peachtree City, Georgia), (June 26): [2].

Includes brief reminiscence of visit to Grand Canyon when he was young.

Sjöberg, Fredrik

- 4051 2016 The art of flight. (Peter Graves, translator.) United Kingdom: Particular Press (Penguin Random House UK), 550 pp. [Dust jacket adds: "Accidental journeys with the bestselling author of The Fly Trap".]

See "The Art of Flight", pp. 1-254; and see dust jacket illustration. About artist Gunnar Widforss; a translation of Flykttkonsten (Sjöberg, 2006). (Second work in this volume is "The Raisin King" (pp. 255-550); not pertinent to this bibliography.)

Spamer, Earle E.

- 4052 2016 The men from Bass Station again; or, the Keystone Kops on the Kaibab. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 27(2) (Spring): 3-6.

Sequel to Spamer (2015). Principally about an expedition across the Arizona Strip, but includes the cross-canyon journey on the Bass trails.

Spieszny, Anna

- 4053 2016 Droga matką do Wielkiego Kanionu. Głosiciel (Zakliczyn, Poland), 2016(7/8) (238) (July/August): 12-13. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'The Mother Road to the Grand Canyon')

Traveling in the American West and on Route 66. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Stafford, Kim

- 4054 2016 Water braids a rope : at Ha Tay Gam, the River Colorado. Santa Cruz, California: Peter and Donna Thomas, [unpaginated]. [9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>8</sub> × 11<sup>7</sup>/<sub>8</sub> × <sup>5</sup>/<sub>8</sub> inches. With verse-text leaves facing illustrations.]
- Unique? Description (with all paintings illustrated) from website <http://www.baymoon.com/~peteranddonna/4-water.htm> (viewed September 2, 2017; last viewed June 7, 2022): "Six watercolors painted in the Grand Canyon. Hand-drawn initial letters. Cover: squirrel-skin tanned by Donna, enamel-over-copper abstract landscape frontispiece. Clamshell box[.] $1850.00". (Regarding Peter and Donna Thomas see also herein "Peter and Donna Thomas [firm]", 2007, 2013.)

Supplee, Serena

- 4055 2016 Grand Canyon calling : an artist's relationship with the Grand Canyon. Moab, Utah: Lily Canyon Books, 112 pp. [Also a clothbound state, 250 numbered copies, signed.]

Tierney, Veronica [Tierney, V. Ronnie]

- 4056 2016 Mule team boss enjoying the journey; from head to hoof, John Berry manages the ride and the riders. Flagstaff Business News (Flagstaff, Arizona), 9(10) (October): 10, 44.
- Grand Canyon.

Trépanier, Luc; Bregunat, Christophe; Bretin, Claire; Lecoq, Sarah; Vaumourin, Jean-Paul; AND Hamann, Jeff

- 4057 2016 Navajo tour. Le paramoteur est synonyme de liberté et rien ne l'incarne mieux que les grands espaces du sud-ouest américain. Une imposante délégation du club Atlantic Paramoteur s'y est rendu pour une envolée fantastique. Paramoteur+ (Ivy-sur-Seine, France), (February/March): 52-58. [In French.]
- (transl. 'Navajo tour. Paramotoring is synonymous with freedom and nothing embodies it better than the great outdoors of the American Southwest. An imposing delegation from the Atlantic Paramotor club went there for a fantastic flight.')

Paramotor flying over Lake Powell, Glen Canyon (including downstream from Glen Canyon Dam), and Grand Canyon. Text by Trépanier; photos by others.

Tsomondo, Dzana

- 4058 2016 Dana Neibert; shooting for the sun. Typography Annual, 2016: 52-59.
- Regarding the work of photographer Dana Neibert. Includes (and illustrates) Grand Canyon.

Twiner, Rick

- 4059 2016 Exercise DESERT SCORPION; National Reserve Headquarters Artillery. London Bridge (Reserve Forces' and Cadets' Association for Greater London, Journal), (Winter 2016/2017): 21.
- Twenty-five London Reservists ascended Mount Whitney, crossed the High Sierra, and descended into Grand Canyon (rim-to-rim).

Watson, Allson

- 4060 2016 Appreciating our national parks. FEO Newsletter (Friends of Eastern Orways (Great Orway National Park), Alreys Inlet, Victoria, Australia), (November): 1.
- Includes remarks on Allson's visit to Grand Canyon, briefly noting haze, water refill stations, and traffic.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wilkes, Stephen

- 4061 2016 Stephen Wilkes. In: Kida, Jeff (ed.), Old Yeller was here; a portfolio [of National Geographic photographers in Arizona]. Arizona Highways, 92(9) (September): 22-23.
- Artistic multiple composite view of Grand Canyon at Desert View Point. With interview.

Woods, Mark

- 4062 2016 Lassoing the sun : a year in America's national parks. New York: Thomas Dunne Books (St. Martin's Press), 312 pp.
- See Chapter 4, "April: The Grandest Canyons", pp. 73-101, and color plates following p. 120.

Wyrick, Traci

- 4063 2016 Louis Schellbach's log books Part 12. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 27(4) (Fall): 4-7.
- June 16-July 31, 1946. Includes (p. 7) several corrections and emendations for Parts 2, 6, 8, 9. See also emendation, 28(1) (Winter 2017): 5. See also "Additions/Corrections", 29(1) (Winter 2018): 11.

Zmuda, Gene

- 4064 2016 [Remark.] In: Where are You Reading University of Dayton Magazine? [SECTION]. University of Dayton Magazine, 8(3) (Spring): 17.
- Photo of Gene Zmuda '73 and Kathy Baluch Zmuda '72, with brief quote from Gene, posing with a magazine issue at Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation.

2017

Anonymous

- 4065 2017 Z letalom nad Grand Canyon. Motosi (Ljubljana), (February/March): 78-79. [In Slovenian.] (transl. 'By plane over the Grand Canyon.')
- 4066 2017 Expedition Canyon Marauders. Lion's Roar (Royal Air Force Benson), (74) (Summer): 8-9.
- Report on a 10-day trekking and mountain biking trip in U.S. Includes Grand Canyon.
- 4067 2017 ワールドオブコンクリート研修ツアーレポート [wārudoobukonkurīto kenshū tsuārepōto]. [World of Concrete training tour report.] Japan Concrete Sawing and Drilling Association, News Letter [一般社団法人 白本コンクリート切断穿孔業協会], (50) (September 1): 9-13. [Item signed only as "奥井" (Okui).] [In Japanese, with bilingual serial title.]
- See photos at Grand Canyon, p. 12, with legend, "グランドキャニオンで" [Gurandokyanion de] [At the Grand Canyon]; no separate text mention. Apparently at Grand Canyon West.
- 4068 2017 USA. Bobr (Občasník Turistického Oddílu Kadao, Kadaò, Czech Republic), (23) (December): 10-12. [Item signed "DiB". First page (cover) offers title, "USA; Další putování Lucky a DiBa".] [In Czech]
- In brief note (p. 12) of visit to Grand Canyon, the author writes (translated here), "We descended 1,000 meters and still did not reach the bottom. I guess the canyon is huge."

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 4069 2017 창조과학탐사 [changjogwahagtamsa] [Creation science exploration]. In: ACT News [SECTION]. Creation Truth (Association for Creation Truth Newsletter, Los Angeles), 25(8): 8-11. [In Korean; section and serial titles in English, thus.]

Includes trip to Grand Canyon.

Ahearn, Bill, AND Ahearn, Susan

- 4070 2017 A grand(view) adventure. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 24(2) (July): 8-9.

Grandview Trail, with comments on recent trail maintenance.

Bakk, Elin

- 4071 2017 Drømmetur til Ville Vesten. Harley-News (Harley-Davidson Owners Club Norway), 31(5): 35-40. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'Dream trip to the Wild West.')

Motorcycle trip. Part 1 of a series. This part includes Grand Canyon.

Bellavia, Al

- 4072 2017 Pueblo High School engages with nature. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 53(3) (Summer): 16.

Twelve students from Pueblo High School, Tucson, earned their way to Grand Canyon for spring break, under the auspices of Tucson Inspiring Connections Outdoors. See also Jimenez (2017), and Metzler (2018).

Boshart, Werner

- 4073 2017 1. Augustfeier im Grand Canyon; Arizona Swiss Society. Räblus (Dorfzytig Warth-Wininge, Warth-Winingen, Switzerland), (92) (September): 11. [In German.]

A Swiss traditional "First of August" celebration, held at Grand Canyon.

Byrne, Ed

- 4074 2017 [Humor.] In: Comedians Corner [SECTION]. The Holt Chronicle (Holt, Norfolk, United Kingdom), (381) (July 28): 16.

"My problem with the Grand Canyon is Americans are too proud of it for my liking. The Grand Canyon was like that when they found it! And it was not that hard to find." (ENTIRE ITEM)

Claes, Tim; Anthonis, Kristof; Bellekens, Dieter; Van Nuffel, Filip; Heremans, Jarno; Claessens, Ruben; AND Van den Bruel, Vincent

- 4075 2017 Reisverslag Amerikareis Juli 2017. Raakske Zonderschot (Katholieke Werkliedenbond, Zonderschot, Heist-op-den-Berg, Belgium), 38(152) (Winter): 14-17. [In Dutch.]
(transl. 'America trip travelogue, July 2017')

Includes Grand Canyon, pp. 15-16.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cook, Rachel

- 4076 2017 (JUROR) 4th Louisiana Biennial: National Juried Exhibition, January 26-February 16, 2017. [Ruston, Louisiana]: Louisiana Tech University, School of Design, [28] pp. [including wraps].
- See p. [7], "Kerstin Dale"; her "current work is based on her concern for the ecological changes in the Grand Canyon and the Colorado River, versus the population growth of the desert southwest"; illustrated with the piece, "10th Wave" (2015).

Copenhaver, Martin B.

- 4077 2017 From the stillspeaking devotional of the United Church of Christ: Finding God in all the wrong places. Denmark Manor United Church of Christ (Export, Pennsylvania), (August 13): 6.
- Includes remarks on hiking in Grand Canyon.

Díaz, Franklin; Bushaw, Kevin; AND Alfaro, Anthony

- 4078 2017 Explore Arizona. ION Arizona (Phoenix), (192) (June): cover, 80-101.
- Photo feature. Havasu Falls, pp. 88-89; Grand Canyon (Havasu Canyon), p. 95; Grand Canyon, pp. 96, 97. [NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (homosexual themes, nudity).]

Evans, Michelle

- 4079 2017 Michelle (Ricketts) Evans '97. In: Alumni News [SECTION]. Weavings (Wesley Foundation at the College of William and Mary, Alumni Newsletter) (Williamsburg, Virginia), (Special Edition, December): 9.
- Includes photo of Evans and husband, Travis, at Grand Canyon.

Friederici, Peter

- 4080 2017 Grand mother; notes from the occasional visit to the South Rim. Flagstaff Live!, 23(32) (August 3-9): 4.
- Regarding the author's mother.

G., Chris

- 4081 2017 A road trip wake-up call. In: Client's Corner [SECTION]. The Canine Listener (Dogs for Better Lives, Central Point, Oregon), (131) (Fall): 22.
- Travel reminiscences with "Hearing Dog Raylene", including note, in passing, of Raylene "[riding] shuttles along the Grand Canyon's rim".

Gianelli, Sarah

- 4082 2017 Sketching the unseen; paradox of Grand Canyon. In: It's the Arts [SECTION]. The Noise (Flagstaff, Arizona), (192) (merces vestitu édition) (August): 19.
- Alan Petersen exhibition of drawings and paintings, "Unseen/Scene", at Museum of Northern Arizona.

Grand Canyon Association

- 4083 2017 Grand Canyon Celebration of Art 2017. (Designed by Barbara Glynn Denney; Faith Marcovecchio, ed.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 28 pp.
- 9th Annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, exhibition catalog.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Grand Canyon Trust, AND National Geographic Live

- 4084 2017 Grand Canyon Trust and National Geographic Live present "Between River and Rim: Hiking the Grand Canyon". In: Grand Canyon Trust : report to donors : 2017. [Flagstaff, Arizona]: Grand Canyon Trust, pp. 14-15.

Scheduled presentations in 2018 by Kevin Fedarko and Pete McBride, regarding their 800-mile hike through Grand Canyon.

Granillo, Gabriel

- 4085 2017 Sound and color; how hearing color helps Deb Strong Nappe heal through art. Flagstaff Live!, 23(40) (September 28-October 4): cover, 3, 14-17.

Grand Canyon noted in article, but not illustrated with paintings.

- 4086 2017 Art of the land: the Kane Ranch Artist Retreat gives voices to the Colorado Plateau. Flagstaff Live!, 23(45) (November 2-8): cover, 3, 14-17.

Gunnarsson, Rosanna

- 4087 2017 Imagining a Grand Canyon. Stockholm: Rosanna Gunnarsson, 20 pp. [Score for orchestra; performance notations in English.]

Haile, Rahawa

- 4088 2017 We go it alone. Outside, 42(4) (May): 92-96, 98, 124.

See p. 124, reference to and quoting Oprah Winfrey at Grand Canyon. This (without citation) pertains to the January 2017 issue of O (The Oprah Magazine) (see Winfrey, 2017).

Harada, Marvin

- 4089 2017 Reflections on the Grand Canyon. Metta (Buddhist Study Center, Honolulu, Hawaii), (April): 1, 3. Credited to Harada (2011).

Isaac, Albert

- 4090 2017 Travel and relaxation. In: From the Editor [COLUMN]. Senior Times (Gainesville, Florida), 18(8) (August): 6.

Includes photo and brief note of visit to Grand Canyon.

Jaffe, Matthew, AND Burcham, John

- 4091 2017 Fringe benefits. Toroweap is one of the most isolated outposts in the National Park Service. It's off the grid, literally, and the nearest grocery store is a four-hour round-trip away. Yet, for the rangers who live and work there, the distant wonderland on the North Rim of the Grand Canyon is a home from which they never want to leave. And some don't. Arizona Highways, 93(1) (January): 32-39.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Jámbor, Eszter [Szabóné Jámbor, Eszter]

- 4092 2017 Csopak..., mert szeretem! Csopaki Hírek (Csopak Község Önkormányzatának közéleti havilapja) (Csopak, Hungary), 6(12) (December): 3. [Ellipsis is part of title, thus.] [In Hungarian.] (transl. 'Csopak..., because I love you!')

Includes brief note of visit to Grand Canyon. (The continuation of this article, in the March 2018 issue, is extralimital to this bibliography.) Take note also of the following two ancillary items, cited here for their informational perspective:

Szendi, Péter

- 2018 Az öt tornacsuka útinaplója, nemcsak gyerekeknek—barangolás a Balaton-felvidéken. Lovasi Hírek (A Lovasi Önkormányzat Hírlevele) (Veszprém, Hungary), 14(8) (August): 1-2. [Regarding Szabóné Jámbor Eszter's (Eszter Jámbor) storybook idea for hikers with children, which was conceived during a hike in the Grand Canyon (noted on p. 1).] [In Hungarian.] (transl. 'The travel diary of five gymnasts, not only for children—roaming the Balaton Uplands')
- 2019 A Balaton-felvidéket népszerűsíti Jámbor Eszter könyve. Csopaki Hírek (Csopak Község Önkormányzatának közéleti havilapja) (Csopak, Hungary), 8(2) (February): 3. [Regarding Szabóné Jámbor Eszter's (Eszter Jámbor) storybook idea for hikers with children, which was conceived during a hike in the Grand Canyon (noted on p. 1).] [In Hungarian.] (transl. 'The Balaton Uplands are popularized by Eszter Jámbor's book')

Jimenez, Tais

- 4093 2017 Experiencing beauty and friendship. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 53(4) (Fall): 12.

The writer is a recent graduate of Pueblo High School, Tucson, a participant in the Outdoor Adventures Club partnered with the Sierra Club, which visited Grand Canyon. See also Bellavia (2017), and Metzler (2018).

Kida, Jeff

- 4094 2017 (ED.) The big pictures: Grand Canyon; a portfolio. Arizona Highways, 93(1) (January): 1, 16-27, back cover.

Kristjana Björg Guðbrandsdóttir

- 4095 2017 Finnur jarðtengingu heima á Íslandi. Fréttablaðið (Reykjavík), 153(17) (July 1): cover, 18-19. [In Icelandic.] (transl. 'Finding a connection at home in Iceland') [Cover tease: "Hleður batterín" ('Charging the batteries').]

Regarding singer/songwriter Jökull Júlíusson of the rock band Kaleo. Includes two photos of Jökull at Grand Canyon.

Lago, Don

- 4096 2017 Where the sky touched the earth : the cosmological landscapes of the Southwest. Reno and Las Vegas: University of Nevada Press, 210 pp.

See "Introduction: The Eclipse" (pp. 3-12), pertains to the annular solar eclipse of May 20, 2012 (though not so identified) as viewed at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Lin, Jingzhu [林靜竹]

- 4097 2017 年會在賭城及西南區國家公園遊 [nián huì zài dǔ chéng jí xīnán qū guójiā gōngyuán yóu] [Annual conference tour, casinos and southwestern national parks]. In: 休閒旅遊 [xiūxián lǚyóu] [Leisure Travel] [SECTION]. 景福醫訊 [Jǐng fú yī xùn] [Jingfu Medical News] / Jing-Fu Bulletin (台大醫院景福館 [táidà yīyuàn jǐng fú guǎn] [National Taiwan University Hospital, Jingfu Hall], Taipei City), 34(2) (February): 15-19. [In Chinese, with bilingual serial title.]

Travel following the meeting of the North America Taiwanese Medical Association. Includes Grand Canyon.

Lin, Zhuli [里主任]

- 4098 2017 中華民國參加 2017 年美國第 68 屆 英特爾國際科技展覽會出國報告書 [Zhōnghuá mínguó cānjiā 2017 nián měiguó dì 68 jiè yīngtè'ěr guójì kējì zhǎnlǎn huì chūguó bàogào shū] [Republic of China, 2017, 68th Intel International Technology Exhibition, United States : Overseas Report]. [Taipei City, Taiwan]: 國立臺灣科學教育館 [Guólì táiwān kēxué jiàoyù guǎn] [National Taiwan Science Education Center], 34 pp. [In Chinese.]

See pp. 20-23, “5 月 20 日(六)至 22 日(一)—國家公園之旅 (錫安、布萊斯峽谷、大峽谷)” [5 yuè 20 rì (liù) zhì 22 rì (yī)—guó jiā gōngyuán zhī lǚ (xī ān, bù lái sī xiágǔ, dà xiágǔ)] [May 20 (Saturday) to 22 (Monday)—National Park Tour (Zion, Bryce Canyon, Grand Canyon).] Includes visit to Grand Canyon South Rim. Report dated “民國 106 年 8 月 14 日”; i.e., 民國 106 in the Minguo calendar of the Republic of China (Taiwan) era system, August 14.]

Mathisen, Kirsten Marea

- 4099 2017 Grand Canyon. In: Paper Poetry [SECTION]. Flagstaff Live!, 23(46) (November 9-15): 8.

Also with text. Verse “Made from words found in ‘Art of the Land: the Kane Ranch Artist Retreat gives voices to the Colorado Plateau,’ which appeared in issue 45 of Flag Live!” (see Granillo, 2017).

Matusik, Barbara Ann

- 4100 2017 The phenomena of Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter: Creating an architectural sense of place on Grand Canyon [sic]. Doctoral dissertation, University of Florida, 184 pp.

McBride, Pete; Fedarko, Kevin; AND Heyn, Ellen

- 4101 2017 Wild friends; an 800-mile trek inside the Grand Canyon. In: Grand Canyon Issue. Colorado Plateau Advocate, (Fall/Winter): 30-31.

Interview by Ellen Heyn. Refer to McBride (2018).

McCambridge, Annie

- 4102 2017 Winter in sunny Arizona! St. Paul's Post (Sisters of the Cross and Passion, St. Paul's Province, Middleton, Manchester, United Kingdom), (59) (December 11): [2].

Includes photos of Sister Annie at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

McGivney, Annette

- 4103 2017 Pure land : a true story of three lives, three cultures, and the search for heaven on earth. Detroit, Michigan: AUXmedia (Aquarius Press), 353 pp.

Centers on the life and family of Tomomi Hanamura of Japan, who in 2006 was murdered by a Havasupai near Supai, Arizona, and the relationship between the stories of the author and the murderer's family. Full of personal perspectives in the canyon.

McGovern, Nicole

- 4104 2017 Lady of the Canyon. This year Oprah's ready to live on the edge! In: Behind the Scenes [SECTION]. O (The Oprah Magazine), 18(1) (January): 10.

Talk show host Oprah Winfrey. Superficial.

Meador, JP

- 4105 2017 A journal of the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], [32] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Metzger, Art

- 4106 2017 Letters from Art Metzger. (Submitted by Barb Carver.) The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 28(4) (Fall): 12-14.

Excerpts from letters from Metzger to Jeanne Cummings Schick, Carver's mother, regarding life at Grand Canyon.

Miller, Rolly

- 4107 2017 Amtrak bucket list; back on the move. Division 11 (National Model Railroad Association, Mid-Central Region, Keystone Corridor, Allegheny Plateau Division, Division 11), 24(5) (May): [2].

Includes brief note of a drive from Flagstaff to Grand Canyon, to see "absolutely nothing, but fog".

Moyon, Jacqueline, AND Moyon, Alain

- 4108 2017 Le grand ouest Americain. Eriba Info (Eriba Club Sud Ouest, Rodez, France), (58) (2017, 1<sup>er</sup> semestre): 24-26. [In French.]
(transl. 'The grand American West')

Report of a trip through the American West; includes brief note of Grand Canyon.

Muench, David

- 4109 2017 David Muench's timeless moments : Grand Canyon National Park. Helena, Montana: Farcountry Press, 96 pp.

Nelson, Rodney

- 4110 2017 Canyon : poems. Denver: Tiger's Eye Press, 13 [15] pp. (Infinites, 9.) ("First Printing 2017, Arvada, Colorado" [title-page verso].) [Also a 2nd printing, same imprint, with notation, "2nd Printing 2017, Arvada, Colorado" [title-page verso].]

Eight poems; those that relate to Grand Canyon area are "Minded Places", "Comanche Point", "Lecture at the South Rim", "Hymning the Canyon", "You at the South Rim", "Abbey's Tower", "Gunnar Widforss' Canyon".

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Nielsen, Majbritt

- 4111 2017 Portræt; Jacob Mchangama. In: Guiden til jurastuderende 2017/18. København: Karnov Group Denmark A/S, pp. 38-45. [\[In Danish.\]](#)
(transl. 'Portrait; Jacob Mchangama.' In 'Guide for law students 2017/18')

Interview with law student Mchangama. See full-page photo of Mchangama standing at the rim of Grand Canyon (no separate text mention of the canyon).

Orange Tree Productions

- 4112 2017 The sounds of Grand Canyon : beautiful music and the natural symphony of the Grand Canyon. Newberry Park, California: Orange Tree Productions. CD. (The National Park Series™.) (Distributed by Grand Canyon Association.) [Distributed with funding solicitation, CD © 2017.] [Original see Orange Tree Productions (1993, 1999).]

Ordelheide, Grant

- 4113 2017 Best shots; along with a stunning panoramic poster of the Grand Canyon, this section gives you the details behind the poster shot and how to take your best photos from a helicopter. National Park Journal (Grand Canyon Edition) (National Park Trips Media, Boulder, Colorado), 2017: 49-56.

Pages 51-54 comprise gatefold photograph, "Pink In the Night", a sunset view of the canyon from the South Rim. (Pages 50, 55 comprise a gatefold advertisement.)

The Ousley Family

- 4114 2017 The Ousley family 2016 Christmas trip. [No place]: CreateSpace, 142 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Cover photo at Grand Canyon.

Oyarzún, Luis

- 4115 2017 Diario íntimo. (Edición y prólogo de Leonidas Morales T.; ilustraciones de Carlos Pedraza.) Valparaiso, Chile: Editorial UV de la Universidad de Valparaiso, [new ed.], 720 pp. [\[In Spanish.\]](#) (transl. 'Intimate diary')

WorldCat record indicates, "Originally published: Concepción: Edic[i]ones LAR, 1990." See also Oyarzún (1995). Under "Año 1957", see "Gran Cañón del Colorado, Arizona, 21 de mayo (The Angel Lodge)". [Bright Angel Lodge.]

Pereira, Carlos

- 4116 2017 Trabajar en Arizona, una nueva experiencia; Crónica de un viaje a Mahagi, Graduaciones en la Universidad "Lago Alberto". Grupo TYPASA, Boletín Corporativo, (50) (2º Cuatrimestre): 93-94. [\[In Spanish.\]](#)
(transl. 'Work in Arizona, a new experience; chronicle of a trip to Mahagi, graduations at the University "Lago Alberto"')

Includes photo at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Pieper, Craig D.

- 4117 2017 Letter from the publisher. (Photos by Melody Hood.) Aero Crew News (Atlanta, Georgia), (November): 8-9.

Regarding a driving trip taken during the National Business Aviation Association's Business Aviation Convention and Exhibition, Las Vegas, which included an air tour from Boulder City, Nevada, over western Grand Canyon.

Popov, Alexander [Попов, Александр]

- 4118 2017 Большой каньон. Часть первая. Желание побывать в американском Каньоне было давним, но казалось трудновыполнимым: далеко и дорого. Благоприятные условия для поездки сложились благодаря служебным командировкам в Хьюстон, однако вопросов было множество. Как добираться? Где жить и как питаться? Сложен ли спуск вниз (а особенно—подъём)? Сколько дней выделить на поездку? Как общаться, не зная толком языка? Какая нужна одежда и экипировка? Скажется ли влияние высоты? [Bol'shoi kan'on. Chast' pervaya. Zhelaniye pobuvat' v amerikanskom Kan'one bylo davnim, no kazalos' trudnovypolnimym:daleko i dorogo. Blagopriyatnyye usloviya dlya poyezdki slozhilis' blagodarya sluzhebnyim komandirovkam v Kh'yuston, odnako voprosov bylo mnozhestvo. Kak dobirat'sya? Gde zhit' i kak pitat'sya? Slozhen li spusk vniz (a osobenno—pod'yom)? Skol'ko dney vydelit' na poyezdku? Kak obshchat'sya, ne znaya tolkom yazyka? Kakaya nuzhna odezhda i ekipirovka? Skazhetsya li vliyanie vysoty?] [Grand Canyon. Part One. The desire to visit the American Canyon was old, but it seemed difficult to fulfill: far and expensive. Favorable conditions for the trip were due to business trips to Houston, but there were many questions. How to get there? Where to live and eat? Is the descent down (and especially the climb) difficult? How many days do you have to travel? How to communicate without knowing the language? What clothes and equipment are needed? Will the effect of altitude affect?] Калининградка (Газета Калининградская Правда Города Королёва) [Kaliningradka (Gazeta Kaliningradskaya Pravda Goroda Korolova)] [Kaliningradka (Kalingrad Truth Newspaper, City of Korolev)], (113)(18725) (October 12): 10. [In Russian.]

- 4119 2017 Большой каньон. Королёвский турист побывал на знаменитом американском Каньоне. Часть первая. [Bol'shoi kan'on. Korolovskiy turist pobывал na znamenitom amerikanskom Kan'one. Chast' vtoraya; Spusk k reke.] [Grand Canyon. Korolev tourist visited the famous American Canyon; Part Two; Descent to the river]. Калининградка (Газета Калининградская Правда Города Королёва) [Kaliningradka (Gazeta Kaliningradskaya Pravda Goroda Korolova)] [Kaliningradka (Kalingrad Truth Newspaper, City of Korolev)], (115)(18727) (October 17): 6. [In Russian.]

Pramode, Indulekha (Mrs.)

- 4120 2017 The Grand Canyon wonder. In: A dedication to Dr. A.P.J.[.] Abdul Kalam on his 2nd death anniversary. [Chennai, Tamil Nadu, India]: PSBB Millennium School, OMR Branch, pp. [11]-[12] [pagination count includes wraps].

Recent visit to Arizona and Grand Canyon. (PSBB, OMR: Padma Seshadri Bala Bhavan, Old Mahabalipuram Road.)

Recht, Patrick

- 4121 2017 Tségháhoodzáni. [No place]: lulu.com, 2nd ed., 196 pp. [An on-demand publication.] [In French.]
Narrative of a trip through the Southwest. Includes Grand Canyon. (The title is the Navajo word for Window Rock, in the Navajo Nation, Arizona.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Scheid, Ann

- 4122 2017 Understanding Underwood. Architecture For Sale Quarterly (Beverly Hills, California), (Winter 2017/2018): 66-77.
- Architect Gilbert Stanley Underwood. Includes the original Grand Canyon Lodge (North Rim, 1928) (pp. 68, 72, 73).

Schindler, Kevin S., AND Sheehan, William

- 4123 2017 Northern Arizona space training. (Foreword by Carolyn Shoemaker.) Charleston, South Carolina: Arcadia Publishing, 128 pp. (Images of America.)
- See Chapter 2, "A Grand Classroom", pp. 21-38; regarding astronaut geology training at Grand Canyon. See also Schindler (2020).

Schinto, Jeanne

- 4124 2017 Lady of the canyon: Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter, interior designer, architect, collector. Maine Antique Digest (Waldoboro, Maine), (September): 7-B to 9-B.
- Colter's work at Grand Canyon.

Serafino, Giorgio

- 4125 2017 L'America in vespa : sotto la pelle della Route 66. [No place]: Terra e Asfalto, 303 pp. [In Italian.] (transl. 'America on a Vespa: under the skin of Route 66')
- Travel on a Vespa motor scooter. Includes Grand Canyon. See also Serafino (2011).

Sîrghie, Anca

- 4126 2017 America visului românesc. Sibiu: Editura D*A*S, 408 pp. [Volume 1.] [In Romanian.] (transl. 'America of the Romanian dream')
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Sjöberg, Fredrik

- 4127 2017 L'arte della fuga. (Fulvio Ferrari, translator.) Milano: Iperborea, 187 pp. [In Italian.]
- Translation of Flyktkonsten (Sjöberg, 2006).

Slaney, Joshua, AND Sleiman, Christian

- 4128 2017 Time-out in the USA. Lucerna (St. Patricks' College, Strathfield, New South Wales, Australia), 22(1): 7.
- Students' 21-day basketball tour of U.S. Notes with a prominent photo their visit to Hualapai Ranch and Grand Canyon Skywalk. Authors are Year 11 students.

Smith, Matt, AND Smith, Karen

- 4129 2017 Dear Bob and Sue. [No imprint], 314 pp. [Cover title: Dear Bob and Sue : one couple's journey through the national parks.] [An on-demand publication.]
- Grand Canyon, see pp. 275-288.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Tenshin Memorial Museum of Art, Ibaraki [天心記念五浦美術館]

- 4130 2017 三百六十度の世界 : 松本哲男展 : 平成29年度企画展 [Sānbǎi liùshí dù no : sekai matsumoto tetsuo-ten : Heisei 29 Nendo kikaku-ten] [World of 360 Degrees : Tetsuo Matsumoto Exhibition : 29 Fiscal Year Exhibition]. [Kitaibaraki, Ibaraki Prefecture, Japan]: 天心記念五浦美術館, Tenshin Memorial Museum of Art, Ibaraki, 4 pp. [In Japanese.]

See p. 3, 「地から宙グランド・キャニオン」1993年 宇都宮美術館蔵” [“Ji kara chū gurando kyanion” 1993-nen Utsunomiya bijutsukan zō] [“From the Ground Grand Canyon”, 1993; Collection of Utsunomiya Museum of Art] (illustrated; no accompanying text).

Tolonen, Romi

- 4131 2017 (ED.) Lämpövoimakerho Pohjois-Amerikassa 2017. [Espoo, Finland]: [Aalto University, Undergraduate Center, with Lämpövoimakerho, Aalto], 52 pp. [including wraps]. [In Finnish and English.]
(transl. ‘Thermal Power Club in North America 2017’)

See “Excursion Director’s Preface; Editorial by Romi Tolonen” (p. 4, in English), and “Las Vegas ja Los Angeles” (‘Las Vegas and Los Angeles’) (p. 44, in Finnish, which includes Grand Canyon).

Trần, Mạnh Tung

- 4132 2017 Nghỉ hè. Hội Y Nha Dược Sĩ Việt Nam Florida, Bản Tin [Vietnamese Medicine and Pharmacy Association of Florida, Newsletter] (Summer): 1-2. [In Vietnamese.]
(transl. ‘Vacation’)

Regarding a vacation trip. Includes Grand Canyon.

Vaughn, Kelly, AND Kish, Dawn

- 4133 2017 So far. So good. Arizona Highways, 93(1) (January): 40-43.
Ultra” race runner Rob Krar and rim-to-rim-to-rim runs.

Walker, Mary Jane

- 4134 2017 A maverick traveller. Point Chevalier, Auckland, New Zealand: TMCAP Ltd., 319 pp. [Also reprinted by A Maverick Traveller Ltd. (Auckland, 2018).]

Grand Canyon noted in passing, p. 62, and in photo, p. 168; cover illustration also shows the author at Grand Canyon.

Weber, David J., AND deBuys, William

- 4135 2017 First impressions : reader’s journey to iconic places of the American Southwest. New Haven (Connecticut) and London: Yale University Press, 339 [341] pp. (Published in cooperation with the William P. Clements Center for Southwest Studies, Southern Methodist University.)

See Chapter 7, “Grand Canyon”, pp. 110-135.

Weld, Wayne R.

- 4136 2017 Wayne’s walk to the Grand Canyon: (my battle with Parkinson’s disease). [No imprint], [56] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Winfrey, Oprah

- 4137 2017 This land was made for you and me. Oprah's declaring 2017 her Year of Adventure! She's going to see, taste, touch, experience, and explore the world—starting with one of its greatest wonders. O (The Oprah Magazine), 18(1) (January): cover, 2, 78-81 (with editor's series introduction, p. 77). [Cover title: "Live Big!"]
- Photographs show Winfrey at various places on the South Rim of Grand Canyon, with legends indicating the manufacturers of the clothing she wears (regarding which see also "Shop Guide", p. 113).
- 4138 2017 Here we go! O (The Oprah Magazine), 18(1) (January): 17.
- 4139 2017 Works for me! On the move. O (The Oprah Magazine), 18(1) (January): 110 (gatefold facing 109). Promotes walking and hiking; with illustration of Winfrey on trail.

Wyrick, Traci

- 4140 2017 Louis Schellbach's log books Part 13. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 28(1) (Winter): cover, 2-6.
- August 1-September 30, 1946. Includes "Additions/Corrections" (p. 5) for Parts 1, 6, 12. See also "Additions/Corrections", 29(1) (Winter 2018): 11.

2018

Anonymous

- 4141 2018 [Lecture announcement.] In: Chapter News (Desert Foothills Chapter) [SECTION]. The Petroglyph (Arizona Archaeological Society), 54(8) (April): 4.
- At the April meeting Wayne Ranney will present "Smitten by Stone: How We Came to Love the Grand Canyon".
- 4142 2018 SAE Aero Design Mexico i USA East. SAE Aero Design ([Aeroklub Poznański], Politechnika Poznańska, Poznań, Poland), Biuletyn nr 18 (40) (April 3) [and following issues]. [In Polish.]
- Serial reports from a trip to the U.S. and Mexico, for a model-airplane competition in Mexico. See "Środa 4 kwietnia" (Wednesday 4 April), Biuletyn nr 19 (41) (April 5): [1]-[2]. However, the same text and layout also seen as Biuletyn nr 13 (35) (April 5): [1]-[2]; the reason for this duplication is not resolved here. Includes remarks and photos of visit to Grand Canyon West. SAE International, formerly Society of Automotive Engineers.
- 4143 2018 SAE Aero Design West. SAE Aero Design ([Aeroklub Poznański], Politechnika Poznańska, Poznań, Poland), Biuletyn nr 07 (40) (April 23). [In Polish.]
- Report from a trip to a model-airplane competition in Van Nuys, California. Includes remarks and photos of visit to Horseshoe Bend (p. [9]) and Grand Canyon (hike to Plateau Point) (p. [15]). SAE International, formerly Society of Automotive Engineers.
- 4144 2018 On loan. Museum Notes (Museum of Northern Arizona), (Summer/Fall): 5.
- Six works of art by Gunnar Widforss loaned to the Ljungberg Museum (Kronberg County Art Museum, Ljungby, Sweden). Item illustrates one piece, "Hopi Point, Grand Canyon".
- 4145 2018 ワールドオブコンクリート研修ツアーレポート [Wārudoobukonkurīto kenshū tsuārepōto] [World of Concrete training tour report]. Japan Concrete Sawing and Drilling Association, News Letter [一般

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

社団法人 白本コンクリート切断穿孔業協会], (52) (September 1): 11-14. [In Japanese, with bilingual serial title.]

See in photos (p. 12), “サンフランシスコ・ラスベガス・グランドキャニオン他” [Sanfuranshisuko Rasubegasu Gurandokyanion hoka] [San Francisco, Las Vegas, Grand Canyon, etc.], including three photos at Grand Canyon South Rim.

- 4146 2018 Adventurer’s and sometimes peakbagger’s notes to the USA SW deserts. Kootenay Mountaineer (Kootenay Mountaineering Club, Castlegar, British Columbia), (Autumn Equinox): 18-45. [Item signed only, “Eliane & Steven”.]

See “Sedona & Grand Canyon—AZ” (pp. 42-44); “Monument Valley, Navajo Tribal Park, Goosenecks State Park & Lees Ferry, AZ” (pp. 44-45).

Aitchison, Stewart

- 4147 2018 1962: Stewart Aitchison. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol’ Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 14.

Albertoni, Carlos W.

- 4148 2018 Estados Unidos; volando sobre el Gran Cañon del Colorado. En Arizona, en el corazón del país norteamericano, se abre majestuoso uno de los escenarios naturales más impactantes del mundo, desde un helicóptero, nuestro cronista se deja atrapar por el mismísimo abismo de esa boca enorme y profunda. Viajando con Marley (Buenos Aires), (May): 88-92, 94-96. [In Spanish.]
(transl. ‘United States; Flying over the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. In Arizona, in the heart of the North American country, one of the most impressive natural settings in the world opens majestically, from a helicopter, our chronicler allows himself to be trapped by the very abyss of that enormous and deep pit.’)

Bauch, Nicholas

- 4149 2018 A geography of elusive sight: Henry G. Peabody’s slideshow of the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of the National Park Service, November 2016 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, pp. 36-41.

Bedard, Dan

- 4150 2018 Growth and gratitude on a grander scale. Get Your Ducks in a Row! (Carolina Family Estate Planning, Cary, North Carolina), (November): [2].

Includes brief remark and two photos of visit to Grand Canyon.

Ben Gaied, Maja Mešič

- 4151 2018 Potovanje po zahodu ZDA (II. del). Čudovirta narava, prijazni ljudje, malo manj navdušujoča velemesta, vsekakor pa vrendo ogleda. Paraplegik (Glasilo Zveze Paraplegikov Slovenije) (Zveza Paraplegikov Slovenije, Ljubljana), (154) (October): 72-74. [In Slovenian.]
(transl. ‘Traveling in the Western United States (Part II). Beautiful nature, friendly people, a little less exciting metropolises, but definitely worth a visit.’)

A disabled author’s travelogue. Part II includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Berg, Charlie

- 4152 2018 [Graduating class no. 231 note.] In: Alma Matters [SECTION]. The Alumni Journal (Central High School of Philadelphia), (Spring): 11.

Regarding Berg's chance meeting with another Central High graduate (not identified, from "238") who was taking photographs at Grand Canyon South Rim. Includes photo of the two men.

Billingsley, George

- 4153 2018 My experience as a seasonal park ranger at Havasu Campground in Grand Canyon National Park, 1970. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of the National Park Service, November 2016 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, pp. 64-71.

Blinkas, Jonas

- 4154 2018 Išsinuomotu visureigių per Vakarų Ameriką. Druskonis (Druskininkai, Lithuania), 2018(4)(1449) (February 2-8): 1, 6-7. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Renting an SUV in the American West.')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Bowden, Charles

- 4155 2018 Grand Canyon trek: A personal journey through a vertical world. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 165-172.

Reprinting of Bowden (1984).

Bowden, Charles, AND Ranney, Wayne

- 4156 2018 Grand Canyon : a photographer's favorite viewpoints. (Photographs by Jack Dykinga; text by Charles Bowden and Wayne Ranney.) Phoenix: Arizona Highways, 112 pp.

The Broad Stage [event venue]

- 4157 2018 National Geographic Live! Between River and Rim: Hiking the Grand Canyon : Mar 15-16 / 7:30 PM. Pete McBride, photographer/filmmaker. Kevin Fedarko, writer. The Broad Stage (Santa Monica, California): (March): 20-22.

Čaniga, Ivan

- 4158 2018 11. Dve jednotky znamenajú majstrovské alebo anjelské číslo. Sú prvotným a základným symbolom numerológie. Ľudia pod jedenástkou sú vraj citliví a zraniteľní. Netuším, či je Ivan zraniteľný, ale svoju citlivosť a vnímavosť demonštruje vo svojich prácach naplno. Clonové číslo 11 je tiež dobrá voľba. (Vladimir Yurkovic, ed.) PrintProgress (Časopis pre polygrafiu a súvisiace odvetvia) (Foto|grafik|um (Vizuálna kultúra cez hľadáčik) [supplement], No. 03_2018) (Trnava, Slovakia), (May/June): 63-70 (concurrent pagination for Fotografikum fgu01-fgu08). [In Slovak.]
(transl. 'Two units mean a master or angel number. They are the primary and fundamental symbol of numerology. People under the age of 11 are said to be sensitive and vulnerable. I have no idea if

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ivan is vulnerable, but he fully demonstrates his sensitivity and receptivity in his work. Aperture number 11 is also a good choice.)

See in interview section, "Q09; Devät Otázok" (transl. 'Nine Questions'), remarks on the artist's photograph of a free creation in glass, "Grand Canyon" (2005) (pp. 65, 70 / fgu03, fgu08); the work is illustrated in color, p. 67/fgu05.

Chanin, Abe, [AND Kolb, Emery C.]

- 4159 2018 The Grand Canyon—my religion. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 142-149.

Reprinting of Chanin (1978).

Chase, MacKenzie

- 4160 2018 Confluence of Color; the Colorado Plateau is illuminated through the eyes of George Averbeck and Serena Supplee. Flagstaff Live!, 24(8) (February 15-21): cover, 3, 14-16.

Art exhibition at Museum of Northern Arizona.

Chase, MacKenzie, AND Wiechee, Nancy

- 4161 2018 Land lines; the geometric landscapes of Chelsea Kavanagh. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (August): 20-23.

Artist works with natural wood shapes. Mentions Mooney Falls (that piece is not illustrated), and also notes her desire to spend time in Grand Canyon to create a series of pieces.

Childs, Craig, AND Ladd, Gary

- 4162 2018 The old man and the canyon; pioneering route-finder George Steck and his acolytes sought the solace of the Grand Canyon one last time. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 204-210.

Reprinting of Childs (2006).

Christiansen, Julie

- 4163 2018 Route 66. The Muse (Pinelands Community Magazine, Pinelands, Cape Town, South Africa), (83) (April): 8-9.

Recounting a trip by motorcycle in September 2017. Includes the section from Laughlin, Nevada, to Williams, Arizona, and Grand Canyon.

Coallier, Julien

- 4164 2018 Grand Canyon National Park photo collection : popular natural scenery series. [No place]: Archetype Publishing, [86] pp. [An on-demand publication.] [Also produced with cover titles in Spanish, French, German, and Italian, but otherwise without change.]

An example of a contrived specialty publication; in this case comprising wholly of photographs without legends. Not all photos pertain to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Courtney, Megan, AND Duggan, Chris

- 4165 2018 Passion for history; professors, authors, husband and wife. Legacy Magazine (Lindenwood University Student Magazine, St. Charles, Missouri), 1(3) (February): 28-29.
- History professors Kris and Jeffrey Smith. Includes brief recollection of a January hike to bottom of Grand Canyon, with information gathered that Kris Smith uses in coursework.

Delfin, Emmanuel

- 4166 2018 Maryknoll ministry. Hope in Action (St. John's Seminary, Camarillo, California), 1(2) (October): 1-2.
- Includes remarks on having camped at Grand Canyon and attending Mass there at the El Cristo Rey Chapel.

Dykinga, Jack; Bowden, Charles; AND Ranney, Wayne

- 4167 2018 Grand Canyon : a photographer's favorite viewpoints. (Photographs by Jack Dykinga; text by Charles Bowden and Wayne Ranney.) Phoenix: Arizona Highways, 112 pp.

Engelhard, Michael

- 4168 2018 Walking with darkness. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (October): 28-31.
- Night hiking in Grand Canyon.

Engelhard, Michael, AND Guy, Melissa

- 4169 2018 A stroll on the Esplanade. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine (July): 32-34.

Flores, George

- 4170 2018 May 2018. In: Garden Grove Elks; The Lodge Travel Club [SECTION]. Elk Call (Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks, Lodge No. 1952, Garden Grove, California), 62(2) (May): 7.
- Begins with brief remarks on the April trip to "Grand Canyon West, Glass Sky Walk" (Grand Canyon Skywalk, Hualapai Indian Reservation).

Frank, Michael

- 4171 2018 1997: Michael Frank. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 14.

Fre, Silvana

- 4172 2018 Ruta 66; se menea de Chicago hasta L.A. Todo Control (Obra Social del Personal de los Organismos de Control Externo, Argentina), 19(99) (December): 29-30. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Route 66; swings from Chicago to L.A.')

Includes Grand Canyon.

Furuya, Ikuya [古谷 郁弥]

- 4173 2018 世界中の大学生と切磋琢磨。交換留学 アメリカ アリゾナ州立大学 (2016年8月~2017年5月) 人文学部英語英文学科 4年生 [sekaijū no daigakusei to sessatakuma. kōkan ryūgaku Amerika Arizona shūritsu daigaku (2016-nen 8 tsuki ~ 2017-nen 5 tsuki) jinbungakubu eigo eibun gakka 4-nense] [Collaborative competition with university students around the world. Exchange student Arizona]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

State University (August 2016-May 2017) 4th year student, Faculty of Humanities, Department of English and English Literature]. In: 海外留学の手引き 2018 : 広島修道大学 [Kaigai ryūgaku no tebiki 2018 : Hiroshimashūdōdaigaku] [Overseas Study Guide 2018 : Hiroshima Shudo University]. Hiroshima: 広島修道大学 国際センター [Hiroshimashūdōdaigaku kokusai sentā] [Hiroshima Shudo University, International Center], p. 4. [In Japanese.]

Includes photo of the author and friends at entrance to Grand Canyon National Park.

Goštautaitė, Daiva, AND Vitkūnā, Andriū

- 4174 2018 JAV mokyklose neteko matyti mobilaus telefono. Aukštaitiškas Formatas (Vilnius), 2018(2)(76): cover, 15-20. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. U.S. schools have lost sight of the cell phone.)

Interview, regarding perspectives of English teacher Vitkūnā's during a trip to America. Grand Canyon, see p. 20.

Green, Nancy Rivest

- 4175 2018 1961: Nancy Rivest Green. From: Celebrating the 100th anniversary, Grand Canyon National Park 1919-2019; describe your "first Grand Canyon visit". In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(3) (Summer): 9.

Han, Huimin, AND Yu, Jing

- 4176 2018 Chinese style and Chinese manners on artistic style of Li Qun's prints. In: Li Qun, Yan Han, and Wang Qi, Li Qun 力群 : National Artworks Collected and Donated Project. (谭平 [Tan Ping], ed.-in-chief; 申淼 [Shen Yu], translator). [Beijing]: 北京 : 文化艺术出版社 [wénhuà yìshù chūbǎn shè] Culture and Art Publishing House, 2nd ed., pp. 62-70. [Item is in English, with bilingual volume title, publisher information, and illustration legend, thus.]

See p. 67, analytical remarks on Li Qun's "Dawn" and the musical composition, "the Meandering Footpath" (i.e., "On the Trail"), from Ferde Grofé's "Grand Canyon Suite". See p. 11 for reproduction, "1957 黎明 Dawn 35.5cm x 25.4cm A Colored Woodcut Print 套色木刻版画".

Hangan, Margaret

- 4177 2018 A study of the historic occurrence of African Americans in the Grand Canyon region. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of the National Park Service, November 2016 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, pp. 14-21.

Hickman, Hawk [Hickman, Hawk Hickok]

- 4178 2018 Hawk and Red Fox—modern day gypsies—Volume Four—full color version : years six and seven. [No place]: Triple H Productions, 128 pp. (Copyright Triple H Enterprises.) [Cover title cited; no title-page; no spine title.] [An on-demand publication.]

Red Fox is Hawk's wife, Karen. See "Chapter 3—The Great Hiking Adventure" (pp. 77-91), "Chapter 4—Mooney and Beaver Falls" (pp. 92-101), "Chapter 5—Fifty Foot Falls" (pp. 102-111), "Chapter Six—The Hike Out" (pp. 112-116), "Chapter Seven—The Bus Ride home and Pizza Orgy" [in Kingman] (pp. 117-118), and "Epilogue" (pp. 119-128); all relating to a 2017 group hike in Havasu Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hirosi, Hisashi [廣瀬 就久]

- 4179 2018 小圃千浦 —カリフォルニアに生きる：岡山の美術 特別展示 岡山の作家☆再発見Ⅷ [Obata Chiura—Kariforunia ni ikiru : Okayama no bijutsu tokubetsu tenji Okayama no sakka ☆ Saihakken Ⅷ] [Chiura Obata-Living in California : Okayama Art Special Exhibition Okayama Artist ☆ Rediscovery VIII]. 美術館NEWS [bijutsukan nyūsu] [Museum News] (岡山県立美術館 (岡山市) [okayama kenritsu bijutsukan (Okayama-shi)] [Okayama Prefectural Museum of Art (Okayama)]), (123) (Winter) (December): [2]-[3]. [In Japanese, with serial title in mixed Japanese and Roman orthography, thus.]

Notice of an exhibition of the art of Chiura Obata, January 18-March 10, 2019. Item includes color reproduction of “《グランドキャニオン》水彩・絹 1940年 アムバー アンド リチャード・サカイ コレクション” [“Grand Canyon” suisai kinu 1940-nen amubā Ando richādo Sakai korekushon] [“Grand Canyon” Watercolor on silk 1940 Ambah and Richard Sakai Collection].

Hubbard, Ken

- 4180 2018 (PHOTOGRAPHER) Picture this. Along with a stunning panoramic poster of Grand Canyon’s South Rim, this section gives you details behind the best shot and how to take your best photos while at the Grand Canyon. National Park Journal (Grand Canyon Edition) (National Park Trips Media, Boulder, Colorado), 2018: 45-52.

Pages 47-50 comprise a gatefold panoramic view of Grand Canyon. Pages 46/51 on verso of gatefold comprise facing-page advertisement for Tamron telephoto lens, of which the accompanying photos are credited to Ken Hubbard. (Repeated in the 2019 ed.)

Humphreys, Russ

- 4181 2018 [Remarks on watching stars in Grand Canyon.] In: 湯姆 韦尔 [Vail, Tom], 大峡谷：一个非凡的视野 [Dà xiágǔ : yīgè fēifán de shìyě] [Grand Canyon : an extraordinary vision]. Green Forest, Arkansas: Master Books, pp. 26-27. [In Chinese.]

Volume is a translation of Vail’s (2003) Grand Canyon : a different view; a creationist viewpoint.

Juvanc, Aleš

- 4182 2018 S kolesom čez Severno Ameriko (1. del). Mostiščar (Glasilo Občine Ig, Občina Ig, Slovenia), 24(1) (February): 22-23. [In Slovenian.]
(transl. ‘By bike across North America (part 1)’)

Report of travel in the U.S. Includes Grand Canyon. (A later installment in (2) (March): 16-18 is not pertinent to this bibliography, but see there p. 18, a boxed notice of a talk to be given by Juvanc about his travels, March 21, at the Knjižnica Ig (Ig Library).)

Karakaş, Gökhan

- 4183 2018 Uzak ülke ABD’de dalgalanan Siyah Beyaz sevda. Beşiktaş (Beşiktaş Sportif Ünrünler San. ve Tic. A.Ş., Beşiktaş-İstanbul), (September): 64-65. [In Turkish.]
(transl. ‘Black and White love waves far away in the USA’)

Turkish football [soccer] enthusiasts. Includes displays at Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kauliņš, Juris

- 4184 2018 Pilns saules aptumsums un ceļojums pa ASV rietumiem. Zvaigžņotā Debess (Latvijas Zinātņu Akadēmijas, Latvijas Universitātes Astronomijas Institūta, Populārzinātnisks Gadalaiku Izdevums) (Riga, Latvia), (Spring): 50-58. [In Latvian.]
(transl. 'Total solar eclipse and travel around the western United States')
- Report on a tour through western U.S. as a part of a trip to witness the total solar eclipse of August 21, 2017. Includes Grand Canyon.

Kluth, Mary Anne

- 4185 2018 "Master Study, Grand Canyon Trail". In: Summer of Collage at the Palo Alto Art Center. Enjoy! (City of Palo Alto, California), (Summer): 3.
- Notice of Kluth exhibition, June 16-August 26, 2018. Illustrated is her "Proposal collage for Master Study, Grand Canyon Trail, 2016, hand-cut archival photo collage".

Knausenberger, Marcus

- 4186 2018 Gemeindebrief. In: Lukas-Kirche Volksdorf : Programm Advent Weihnachten Epiphaniass 2018/19. [Hamburg, Germany]: Lukas-Kirche Volksdorf, pp. [2]-[3]. [In German.]
(transl. 'Parish letter')
- Inspirational message based on a visit to Grand Canyon.

Kreinbrink, Anthony

- 4187 2018 1963—Anthony Kreinbrink. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 15.

Kreinbrink, Jeannine

- 4188 2018 2003—Jeannine Kreinbrink. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 15.

Kuchurivski, Emily

- 4189 2018 How I almost died at the Grand Canyon. Cedar Sentinel (Kingsway College student magazine) (Oshawa, Ontario), 57(7) (March): 22-25.
- Inspirational. Somewhat embroidered, by the author's admission.

Lâm, Trần

- 4190 2018 Bố con mình C.Ù.N.G.Đ.I... Là người thích du lịch bụi, sau khi làm bố, tôi đã quyết định thường xuyên cùng bé cưng của mình đi khắp nơi để khám phá những điều mới mẻ, những miền đất lạ. Jetstar Pacific (Jetstar Airways, Hồ Chí Minh, Vietnam), (July/August): 24-27. [Ellipsis, thus, is part of title.] [In Vietnamese, with serial title in English, thus.]
(transl. 'My father-and-son go-together... As a backpacker, after becoming a father, I decided to often travel with my baby everywhere to discover new things and regions in strange lands.')
- Regarding the author's travel, hiking and camping with an infant son. Features Grand Canyon. See also a version in English (below).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 4191 2018 Now let's go. A veteran backpacker, and a new dad, I decided to travel with my little baby all over the places [sic] to spot out something new and get off the beaten track. Ever thought about it? Jetstar Pacific (Jetstar Airways, Hồ Chí Minh, Vietnam), (July/August): 46-47.

In English, an abbreviated version of the article in Vietnamese that appears on pp. 24-27. Includes Grand Canyon, but see the Vietnamese version (above) for two photographs taken at Grand Canyon.

Larese, Steve

- 4192 2018 This isn't going to be easy. Arizona Highways, 94(5) (May): 42-47.
Hike on Nankoweap Trail.

Let13 [pseudonym]

- 4193 2017 West USA: questo è viaggiare; honeymoon. CiSonoStato.it Digital Magazine [Italy], 1(3) (Winter) (December): 28-42, 44-63. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'West USA: this is traveling; honeymoon')
- Travelogue, July 27-August 31. Includes Grand Canyon.

Liao, Binliang [廖彬良]

- 4194 2018 遊美二三事; 活動集錦 [yóuměi èrsān shì; huódòng jíjīn] [Two or three things from a nice tour; activity highlights]. 台灣環境 (台北市) [Táiwān huánjìng (táiběi shì)] [Taiwan Environment (Taipei)], (172) (October): 46-48. [In Chinese.]
- Visit to the Southwest U.S. includes Grand Canyon.

Ljungbergmuseet

- 4195 2018 Ljungbergmuseet hösten 2018. Ljungby, Sweden: Ljungbergmuseet. [In Swedish.]
- Cover and first item promote the exhibit, "Gunnar Widforss—Akvarellmålarerna, 16.6-16.9 2018", which features his watercolors of Grand Canyon. (See also online, <http://www.ljungbergmuseet.se/exhibition/gunnar-widforss-vildmarksmalaren-som-forsvann/>.) See also Sjöberg and Petersen (2018).

Makleit, László

- 4196 2018 Arizona; túrák az USA nemzeti parkjaiban (1. rész). Magyar Turista (Budapest), (August): 32-22. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. 'Arizona; Tours in U.S. National Parks (Part 1)')
- First of three installments of a series, the remainder of which are not pertinent to this bibliography. Focus here is Grand Canyon and nearby attractions.

Marten, Jessica

- 4197 2018 Special guest. ARTiculate (University of Rochester, Memorial Art Gallery, Rochester, New York), (April/May): [8]-[9] [pagination includes wraps].
- David Hockney's "15 Canvas Study of the Grand Canyon" (1988), on loan from the Art Bridges foundation.

Mascaro, Kathleen

- 4198 2018 1993: Kathleen Mascaro. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 15.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Matthes, François E.

- 4199 2018 Breaking a trail through Bright Angel Canyon. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 11-18.

Reprinting of Matthes (1928).

Matthews, John

- 4200 2018 The Grand Canyon caper. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 133-141.

Reprinting of Matthews (1977).

Matusik, Barbara Ann

- 4201 2018 The phenomenon of Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter: Creating an architectural sense of place on Grand Canyon [sic]. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of the National Park Service, November 2016 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, pp. 57-63.

See also the author's doctoral dissertation on the same subject, 2017.

McBride, Peter [McBride, Pete]

- 4202 2018 The Grand Canyon : between river and rim. (Foreword by Hampton Sides. Introduction by Kevin Fedarko.) New York: Rizzoli International Publications, Inc., 236 pp. [Dust jacket cover, title-page and publisher's information page (p. 236) also include the logo of Grand Canyon Association, although information on p. 236 and on rear flap of dust jacket specify that the volume is "published by" Rizzoli, and spine is imprinted with the Rizzoli logo. Not stated, but sales of this title benefit Grand Canyon Association.]

Illustrated account of a 750-mile hike, in segments, through the entire Grand Canyon below the rim.

McClellan, Bill

- 4203 2018 Back to the basics: Life at the bottom of the Canyon. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 155-164.

Bruce Aiken family at Roaring Springs. Reprinting of McClellan (1981).

Metzler, Brianna

- 4204 2018 High school students find challenge, inspiration at Grand Canyon. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 54(3) (Summer): 10.

Students from Pueblo High School, Tucson, hike in Grand Canyon under the auspices of Tucson Inspiring Connections Outdoors. The writer is a Pueblo student.

Moreau, F. Frédéric [Moreau, Félix Frédéric]

- 4205 2018 The Grand Cañon. In: Spamer, Earle, Demons at the Farlee Hotel. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 3-6.

Translation of the chapter, "Le Grand Cañon", from Moreau (1888), with introductory remarks and postscript by Spamer; about Moreau's 1886 visit to Peach Springs, Arizona, and the Farlee Hotel at Diamond Creek. See

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Moreau (1888) for transcription and translation together. Translation from the French by Spamer with the assistance of Google Translate (not indicated in article). Erratum: Page 5, figure legend line 8, for west read east. (Figure and legend were added by the editor.)

Mortenson, Pam

- 4206 2018 1970: Pam Mortenson. From: Celebrating the 100th anniversary, Grand Canyon National Park 1919-2019; describe your "first Grand Canyon visit". In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(3) (Summer): 9.

Muench, Joyce Rockwood

- 4207 2018 Phantom Ranch. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 106-116.

Reprinting of Muench (1960).

Müller, Katherine

- 4208 2018 19th World Veteran Championships; Las Vegas, NV, 18 June-24 June 2018. Netzroller (Tischtennisclubs Herisau, Club-Bulletin) (Herisau, Switzerland), 31(3) (October): 20-23. [In German, with title thus.]

Item signed only "Eure Katherine", but with her full name displayed in two photos of competition documents. Includes notes on a trip to Grand Canyon West.

Omura High School (Nagasaki Prefecture) [長崎県立大村高等学校]

- 4209 2018 S S H-研究開発実施報告書2018 [SSH—kenkyū kaihatsu jisshi hōkoku-sho 2018] [SSH—Research and Development Report 2018]. Omura, Nagasaki, Japan: 長崎県立大村高等学校 [Nagasaki kenritsu Ōmura kōtō gakkō] [Nagasaki Prefectural Omura High School], 58 pp. [In Japanese.]

See in Chapter 3, "章 研究開発の内容" [kenkyū kaihatsu no naiyō] [Contents of Research and Development], section 5-1, "海外研修" [kaigai kenshū] [Overseas Training] (pp. 38-42), which includes a five-day visit to Green Valley High School [Henderson, Nevada], where student presentations were made. Also noted is a visit to Grand Canyon South Rim. [SSH: a designated "Super Science High School" (スーパーサイエンスハイスクール [sūpāsaiensuhaisukūru]).]

Ongtupqa Music LLC

- 4210 2018 Ongtupqa. (Starring Clark Tenakhongva, Gary Stroutsos, Matthew Nelson. Levi S. Davis, director.) [No place]: Ongtupqa Music LLC. DVD. 48:00.

"Recorded inside the Desert View Watchtower and on the South Rim of Grand Canyon, this Hopi cultural project celebrates the most ancient sounds to emerge from Öngtupqa—the Hopi name for Grand Canyon. This 48-minute video includes history and information about Hopi cultural connections to the canyon, full-length songs, and breathtaking images of this natural wonder of the world."

- 4211 2018 Ongtupqa. (Clark Tenakhongva, singer; Gary Stroutsos, flutist; Matthew Nelson, rhythmist.) [No place]: Ongtupqa Music LLC. CD. 53:05.

"Recorded inside the Desert View Watchtower and on the South Rim of Grand Canyon, this Hopi cultural project celebrates the most ancient sounds to emerge from Öngtupqa—the Hopi name for Grand Canyon." Ten pieces: "Oomah Voli'", by Clark Tenakhongva; "Sipaapuni'", by Gary Stroutsos; "Lo'lo' Mali' Neii'", by Clark Tenakhongva; "Uumumu' Ta'ya'ya'ta'", by Clark Tenakhongva; "Yoi' Quatsii'", by Clark Tenakhongva; "Nah' Wah' Kin' Tah'", by Clark Tenakhongva; "Yam'ta'ka", by Gary Stroutsos; "Qua'tsii'", by Clark Tenakhongva; "Yoi'

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ts' Lolo' Taah", by Clark Tenakhongva; and "Rain of Life", solo Hopi flute by Gary Stroutsos. Stroutsos plays a replica of a 1,400-year-old wooden flute found in a northeastern Arizona cave in the 1930s. Video also available on DVD.

Padrón, Erika Ma.

- 4212 2018 Sobrevolando el Gran Cañón. Metro (Quito, Ecuador), (April 24): 12. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Flying over the Grand Canyon.')

Two employees' honeymoon visit to Grand Canyon.

Payne, Matt

- 4213 2018 Chasing light: Mountain photography by Matt Payne; local photographer captures regional landscapes in a new light. The Gulch (Durango, Colorado), (4) (August/September): 28-31.

See p. 30, photo, "'Nyctophilia.' Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona."

Petersen, Alan

- 4214 2018 The Gunnar Widforss Catalogue Raisonné Project. In: Sjöberg, Fredrik, and Petersen, Alan, Gunnar Widforss : Akvarellmålaren. Rimforsa, Sweden: Almlöfs Förlag, pp. 53-61. [Item is in English.]

Phillips, Jessi

- 4215 2018 Letter from Phantom Ranch: Meet the man who lives at the bottom of the Grand Canyon. Sjors Horstman has spent the last 30 years of his life at the bottom of the Grand Canyon as a volunteer for the National Park Service—one of the longest-serving volunteers in NPS history. Pacific Standard (Social Justice Foundation, Santa Barbara, California), (September/October):.

Phillips, Jessi, AND Martin, James Q.

- 4216 2018 Return to Phantom Ranch. At the only lodge at the bottom of the Grand Canyon, some staffers stay for years, while others quickly bail. All are welcome back, anytime. Adventure Journal (Monarch Beach, California), (9): 38-47.

Pouw, Lars

- 4217 2018 Amerika; hiken in de Grand Canyon. In: 50 reisverhalen : de reiziger aan het woord : 20 jaar : inspired by stories. The Netherlands: Experience Travel, p. 46. [In Dutch.]
(transl. 'America; hiking in the Grand Canyon' in '50 travel stories : the traveler speaks : 20 years : inspired by stories')

Ranney, Helen

- 4218 2018 1967: Helen Ranney. From: Celebrating the 100th anniversary, Grand Canyon National Park 1919-2019; describe your "first Grand Canyon visit". In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(3) (Summer): 10.

Ranney, Wayne

- 4219 2018 1973: Wayne Ranney. From: Celebrating the 100th anniversary, Grand Canyon National Park 1919-2019; describe your "first Grand Canyon visit". In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(3) (Summer): 10.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rechner, Carl “Cullie”

- 4220 2018 A walk with a wisdom keeper. Blue Wings (Atheletic Club of Columbus, Columbus, Ohio), (January/February): 13.
- Hike into Havasu Canyon, with remarks on meeting “Roland Manakaja, an Elder of the Havasupai tribe” (Roland Manakaja).

Renner, Mia

- 4221 2018 Gefährliche Selfies im Canyon. Kieler Nachrichten (Schleswig-Holstein, Germany), (292) (50. Woche) (December 15): 12. [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. ‘Dangerous selfies in the canyon’)

Author, 14, writes about safety in taking “selfie” pictures at Grand Canyon.

Riesenberg, Mindy

- 4222 2018 (ED.) Grand Canyon Celebration of Art 2018 : celebrating 10 years. (Barbara Glynn Denney, designer.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, 28 pp.

10th annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art. Exhibition catalog.

Rinaldi, Fabrizio

- 4223 2018 I colori di Gunnar Widforss : a cura di Fabrizio Rinaldi. Lerma, Italy: Viandanti delle Nebbie, 20 pp.
(Album dei Viandanti.) [\[In Italian.\]](#)
(transl. ‘The colors of Gunnar Widforss: curated by Fabrizio Rinaldi’)

“Questo non è il catalogo di una mostra perché non c’è stata e probabilmente non ci sarà mai nessuna retrospettiva—almeno in Italia—su un artista da noi sconosciuto, che ha trascorso la vita ritraendo nei suoi quadri gli immensi paesaggi americani.” (p. 3) (transl. ‘This is not the catalog of an exhibition because there has not been and probably never will be any retrospective—at least in Italy—on an artist unknown to us, who has spent his life portraying immense American landscapes in his paintings.’)

Rion, Abe [安部 里音]

- 4224 2018 夢を現実に。アリゾナセミナー (2017年1月~2017年3月) 人間環境学部人間環境学科 3年生
[Yume o genjitsu ni. Arizonaseminā (2017-nen 1 tsuki ~ 2017-nen 3 tsuki) ningen kankyō gakubu ningen kankyō gakka 3-nense] [Dream come true. Arizona Seminar (January 2017-March 2017) 3rd year student]. In: 海外留学の手引き 2018 : 広島修道大学 [Kaigai ryūgaku no tebiki 2018 : Hiroshimashūdōdaigaku] [Overseas Study Guide 2018 : Hiroshima Shudo University]. Hiroshima: 広島修道大学 国際センター [Hiroshimashūdōdaigaku kokusai sentā] [Hiroshima Shudo University, International Center], p. 9. [\[In Japanese.\]](#)

Includes photo of the author and friends at Grand Canyon.

Rodríguez Serrano, Carmen

- 4225 2018 La fascinación por el paisaje: una vista del Gran Cañón del pintor José Arpa Perea. The fascination for the landscape: a view of the Grand Canyon by the painter José Arpa Perea. Laboratorio de Arte (Universidad de Sevilla, Departamento de Historia del Arte), 30: 551-556. [\[In Spanish, with bilingual title and abstract.\]](#)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Rodriguez-Soto, Ana

- 4226 2018 Chapel ministers amid Grand Canyon splendor. In: Summer Planning and Joyful Living [SECTION]. Florida Catholic, (April 13-26): B8.
El Cristo Rey Chapel.

Ruman, Ondrej

- 4227 2018 USA—1. část. Poddubáček (Časopis Spojenej Školy Bijacovce) (Bijacovce, Slovakia), 2017/2018(1): 30-36. [In Slovak.]
(transl. 'USA—Part 1')
Part 1 of a serialized travelogue. See "Národný park Grand Canyon (Arizona)" (transl. 'Grand Canyon National Park (Arizona)'), pp. 35-36.

Ryoichi, Ban [伴 良一]

- 4228 2018 【英語で語る易しい文化論】「Dave's Look at the Grand Canyon」(グランドキャニオンの神秘と謎) [Eigo de kataru yasashī bunka-ron] 「Dave's Look at the Grand Canyon」(Gurandokyanion no shinpi to nazo) [Easy culture theory in English, "Dave's Look at the Grand Canyon" (Grand Canyon secrets and mysteries)]. 地球家族 [Chikyū kazoku] [Earth Family] (国分寺市国際協会会報です [Kokubunji-shi kokusai kyōkai kaihōdesu] [Kokubunji International Association Newsletter]) (国分寺市国際協会 [Kokubunji-shi kokusai kyōkai] [Kokubunji International Association], 国分寺市、都内 [Kokubunji City, Tokyo]), (109) (December): 3. [In Japanese, with item title in mixed Japanese and Roman orthography, and punctuation, thus.]
- Brief remarks concerning a lecture on Grand Canyon, presented by "David Magnusson, who is from the United States and currently teaches English at four universities in the Kanto region" (translated here).

Saarinen, Kauko

- 4229 2018 Tiedetuubin USA: auringonpimennysmatka 14.-25.8.2017. Valkoinen Kääpiö (Jyväskylän Sirius ry, Muurame, Finland), 35(1) (Spring): cover, 2, 10-13. [In Finnish.]
(transl. 'Science Tube USA: Solar eclipse travel 14-25 August 2017')
Amateur astronomers in the U.S. to witness a total solar eclipse. Travels include a visit to Grand Canyon South Rim. (Tiedetuubiin refers to the "Science Tube" YouTube web site.)

Scafuri, Jenna

- 4230 2018 Flying in the Grand Canyon: A dream job with unique challenges. Rotor (Helicopter Association International), (Spring): cover, 1, 16-19.
Grand Canyon National Park helitack team.

Sjöberg, Fredrik, AND Petersen, Alan

- 4231 2018 Gunnar Widforss : Akvarellmålarern. Rimforsa, Sweden: Almlöfs Förlag, 64 pp. [In Swedish and English.]
- Complements, but is not an exhibition catalogue for, the exhibit, "Gunnar Widforss—Akvarellmålarern", at Ljungbergmuseet, Ljungby, Sweden, June 16-September 16, 2018 (see Ljungbergmuseet, 2018).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Smith, Matt, AND Smith, Karen

- 4232 2018 Dear Bob and Sue: Season 2. [No imprint], 353 [361] pp. + advertisements. [An on-demand publication.]

Smith, Sandy R.

- 4233 2018 8 life lessons I learned at the Grand Canyon. Orion (Orion Society, Great Barrington, Massachusetts), 37(3) (Autumn): 80.

Spamer, Earle E.

- 4234 2018 Demons at the Farlee Hotel. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 3-6.
Translation of the chapter, "Le Grand Cañon", in Moreau (1888), with introductory remarks and postscript by Spamer. (See Moreau, 1888, herein.) Regarding Moreau's account of his 1886 visit to Peach Springs, Arizona, and the Farlee Hotel at Diamond Creek. (Erratum: Page 5, figure legend line 8, for west read east. The figure and legend were added to this article by the editor.)
- 4235 2018 1974: Earl [sic] Spamer. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 14-15.

Stafford, Cindy

- 4236 2018 1969: Cindy Stafford. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(4) (Fall): 14.

Stephan, Judy

- 4237 2018 Feeling insignificant. Vancouver Island Voyager (British Columbia, Canada), (June): 14.
"Just Judy" editorial. Reflections on seeing a display of the stratigraphic column in an exhibit at Grand Canyon.

Sullivan, Sharon

- 4238 2018 Confluence of color; a coming together of two artists and two mediums. (Paintings by Serena Supplee, glasswork by George Averbeck.) Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (February): 20-22.

Sutherland, Christine

- 4239 2018 Grand Canyon. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 54(1) (Winter): 9

Sweet, Dan

- 4240 2018 Helicopter sightseeing at the Grand Canyon. It's not just a tour . . . it's an experience. Rotor (Helicopter Association International), (Spring): 20-21. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Tabian, Iuliana

- 4241 2018 Research in Industrial Projects for Students program. Imperial Engineer (Imperial College London, for City and Guilds College Association and The Royal School of Mines Association), (29) (Autumn): 27.

Brief report of travel study grant to the Old Centralians' Trust, for participation in the RIPS program. Includes note and photo from a visit to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Tierney, Veronica [Tierney, V. Ronnie]

- 4242 2018 Grand Canyon worker keeps mule train operations running smoothly; wranglers, river runners, tourists benefit from award-winning Xanterra employee Anderson Mann. In: Community Profile [SECTION]. Flagstaff Business News (Flagstaff, Arizona), 9(11) (September): 13, 42.

Tilbe, Jim

- 4243 2018 Apache Wells Thursday Hiking Club. Apache Wells Roundup (Apache Wells, Mesa, Arizona), (January): 9.

Brief remark on November 2017 hike into Havasu Canyon.

Tsujii, Eiji [辻井榮滋]

- 4244 2018 青年英語教師のアメリカ留学記—1969年夏—IV. 帰途の旅—大西部を越えて [Seinen eigo kyōshi no Amerika ryūgaku-ki — 1969-nen natsu — IV. Kito no tabi — dai seibu o koete] [A study of young English teachers studying in America—Summer 1969—IV. The trip home—beyond the great West]. 立命館経済学 [Ritsumeikan keizai-gaku] [Ritsumeikan Economics] (立命館大学経済学会 [Ritsumeikan University Economic Society]), 67(1) (May): 74-89. [In Japanese.]

See “グランド・キャニオン” [Grand Canyon], pp. 80-84.

Venrick, Reed

- 4245 2018 The Trail of Time. High Desert Journal (Portland, Oregon), (28) (Fall):.

A poem about a walk on the geological Trail of Time at Grand Canyon.

Walker, Adam

- 4246 2018 Canyon conqueror. SouthwestNOW (Waxahachie, Texas), 12(4) (April): cover, 2, 8-12, 14.

Cover adds: “Jonathan Robinson takes on the hike of a lifetime.” An eight-year-old boy hikes three days with father, grandfather, two uncles and a cousin, from North Rim to South Rim.

Walter, Angela

- 4247 2018 Mehr als eine Senioren-WM; Angela Walter erlebt ein modernes Märchen im Rahmen der WVC in Las Vegas. Tischtennis Magazin (Tischtennis-Verbandes Niedersachsen, Hannover), (October): 27-29. [In German.]

(transl. ‘More than a Senior World Championship; Angela Walter experiences a modern fairy tale at the WVC in Las Vegas’)

Senioren-Weltmeisterschaften; World Veterans Championships. Includes travel notes of Grand Canyon, in passing; and photo, “Rafting auf dem Colorado River war bei den Exkursionen angesagt” (‘Rafting on the Colorado River was a popular excursion’), which shows a view in Glen Canyon below Glen Canyon Dam.

Williams, Tyler, AND Hatcher, Bill

- 4248 2018 A walk in the park. An esplanade is a long, open, level area. Something people walk for pleasure. The Esplanade of the Grand Canyon is long and open, too, and parts of it are easy to walk, but our writer didn’t venture out for pleasure. He was intent on seeing the ‘Chicken Train,’ an unusual rock formation that’s part of a lost world inside the greatest landscape in the world. Arizona Highways, 94(9) (September): cover, 1, 28-35.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wyrick, Traci

- 4249 2018 Louis Schellbach's log books: Part 14. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(1) (Winter): 7-9, 11.

Also includes corrections to Parts 12, 13 (p. 11).

- 4250 2018 1968: Traci Wyrick. From: Celebrating the 100th anniversary, Grand Canyon National Park 1919-2019; describe your "first Grand Canyon visit". In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 29(3) (Summer): 9.

Zalcmane, Agnese

- 4251 2018 Lielais Amerikas saules aptumsums 2017. Ceļā uz vareno Amerikāņu aptumsumu (nobeigums). Zvaigžņotā Debess (Latvijas Zinātņu Akadēmijas, Latvijas Universitātes Astronomijas Institūta, Populārzinātnisks Gadalaiku Izdevums) (Riga, Latvia), (Spring): 40-49. [In Latvian.]
(transl. 'The Great American Solar Eclipse 2017. Towards a mighty American eclipse (end).')

Conclusion of a report on a tour through western U.S. as a part of a trip to witness the total solar eclipse of August 21, 2017. Includes Grand Canyon.

Zhang, Meiyu [張美玉]

- 4252 2018 希望種子 個人生活心得; 淡江大學 財務金融系畢業; 美國大峽谷國家公園打工度假分享 [xīwàng zhǒngzǐ gèrén shēnghuó xīndé; dàn jiāng dàxué cáiwù jīnróng xì bìyè; měiguó dà xiágǔ guójiā gōngyuán dǎgōng dùjià fēnxiǎng] [Hope Seeds personal life experience; graduated from Department of Finance, Tamkang University; working in the Grand Canyon National Park, USA].
In: 2018 下半年度 : 希望種子半年報 [2018 Xià bànniándù : xīwàng zhǒngzǐ bàn nián bào cáituán fārén huá gù jiàoyù jījīn huì] [2018 second half : Hope Seeds semi-annual report]. [Taiwan]: 財團法人華固教育基金會 [Cáituán fārén huá gù jiàoyù jījīn huì] [Huagu Education Foundation], pp. 4-9. [In Chinese.]

The author worked for Xanterra in the food court at Maswik Lodge, Grand Canyon.

2019

Anonymous

- 4253 2019 經營組 黃雅玲 報導; 美國蜜月自由行-大峽谷國家公園 [Jīngyíng zǔ huángyǎlíng bàodǎo; měiguó mìyuè zìyóu xíng-dà xiágǔ guójiā gōngyuán] [Management Group Huang Yaling report; American honeymoon freedom—Grand Canyon National Park]. 畜試所訊 (行政院農業委員會畜產試驗所, 臺南市) [xíngzhèng yuàn nóngyè wěiyuánhuì xùchǎn shìyàn suǒ, táinán shì] [Animal Experiment Station News] (Taiwan, Executive Yuan, Agricultural Committee Livestock Laboratory, Tainan City, Taiwan)], (345) (April 25): 16-17. [In Chinese.]

Two employees' honeymoon visit to Grand Canyon.

- 4254 2019 Shah family visits Grand Canyon and Antelope Caverns [sic]. In: Observers Around the World [SECTION]. Fullerton Observer (Fullerton, California), 41(9) (Mid-May): 20.

"Jay, Komal, and Ria Shah took a road trip through Hoover Dam, Las Vegas, Antelope Canyon, and the Grand Canyon." Photo of Ria Shah at South Rim holding a copy of Fullerton Observer.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 4255 2019 The Guild of Metalsmiths 42nd Fall Conference: "The Madness", September 20, 21 and 22, 2019[,]
Little Log House Antique Power Show grounds. The Forum (The Guild of Metalsmiths), 21(7)
(July): 4.

"Featuring . . . Valerie Ostenak", whose sculptures include "a decorative railing at the Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE) Ellipsis is part of the quotation.

Ostenak's résumé (seen online) specifies: "2010—Designed/built/ installed a hand-forged decorative steel railing at the Grand Canyon Mather Point Amphitheater (a three-person team)"

(http://assets.artworkarchive.com/image/upload/v1537821981/f40493/documents/Valerie\_Ostenak-CV-career-addr-091618\_mbysxf.pdf). Other members of the team have been identified as Gordon Williams (see Williams, 2013, who also credits Mike Allen) and George Witzke (see The Ironwork Store webpage, <https://www.theironworkstore.com/about>, which notes, ". . . he worked with a team of blacksmiths to create the railing at the Grand Canyon's Mather Point Amphitheater." [ENTIRE NOTE]). The railing is not illustrated in any of these items, but see on Grand Canyon National Park's flickr.com photos page from the dedication of the amphitheater on October 25, 2010, https://www.flickr.com/photos/grand\_canyon\_nps/sets/72157625118655413/. (Websites cited here accessed 12 August 2019.)

- 4256 2019 Jujol arreu del món. El Butlletí Sant Joan Despí (Ajuntament de Sant Joan Despí [Spain], Departament de Comunicació), (September): 20-25. [In Catalan.]
(transl. 'Jujol around the world.')

Photo collage of people displaying a Sant Joan Despí 140th anniversary banner at places around the world. See p. 25, "Grand Canon del Colorado (Estats Units); Família Miralles"; family poses at Grand Canyon South Rim.

- 4257 2019 ワールドオブコンクリート研修ツアーレポート (寄稿いただいた原稿を広報委員会で編集させていただきました。) 日程：令和元年1月20日～1月26日 研修先：米国ラスベガスワールドオブコンクリート [Wārudoobukonkurīto kenshū tsuārepōto (kikō itadaita genkō o kōhō iinkai de henshū sa sete itadakimashita.) Nittei: Ryō wa gan'nen 1 tsuki 20-nichi ~ 1 tsuki 26-nichi kenshū-saki: Beikoku rasubegasuwārudoobukonkurī boku] [World of concrete training tour report (the manuscript submitted was edited by the Public Relations Committee). Date: January 20th to January 26th, 1991 Training destination: Las Vegas World of Concrete, USA]. Japan Concrete Sawing and Drilling Association, News Letter [一般社団法人 白本コンクリート切断穿孔業協会], (54) (September 2): 10-14. [In Japanese, with bilingual serial title.]

See p. 12, "展示会視察を除く2日目以降の観光 (アルカトラス、グランドキャニオン他)" [Nokia shisatsu o nozoku 2-nichi-me ikō no kankō (arukatorasu, Gurandokyanion hoka)] [Sightseeing from the second day onwards (excluding inspection visits) (Alcatraz, Grand Canyon, etc.)].

- 4258 2019 The Post travels to the Grand Canyon. The Post (Cedar Springs, Michigan), 22(39) (September 26): 1, 19.

Samantha Avery of Cedar Springs participated in a Project Athena Foundation fundraiser by hiking across Grand Canyon.

- 4259 2019 The grandest of canyons. In: Hot Picks [SECTION]. Flagstaff Live!, 25(47) (November 14-20): 6.

Exhibit by artist Tony Foster, "Searching for a Bigger Subject: Watercolour Diaries from Mount Everest to the Grand Canyon", shown at Museum of Northern Arizona, November 16, 2019-February 16, 2020.

- 4260 2019 Ranchers explore the outdoors through hiking excursions. In: Rainbow Acres : a residential Christian community serving adlts with developmental disabilities : Annual Report FY 2019. Camp Verde, Arizona: Rainbow Acres.

Includes remarks on the Ranchers' group visit to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Barrett, Connor, AND Haghghat, Armon

- 4261 2019 Recap: Grand Canyon Fly-In December 2018. APA Newsletter (Arizona Pilots Association), (January): 14-15.

Becerril, Patty

- 4262 2019 Haz de tus próximas vacaciones familiares una gran aventura. / Turn your next family vacation into a great adventure. Star News (Preprensa Digital, S.A. de C.V., México D.F., gratuitos distribuidos a borda de TAR Aerolíneas, Querétaro, México), (50) (June): 98-101. [In parallel Spanish and English texts.]

Family camping trip with children to Grand Canyon.

Bennett, Jay

- 4263 2019 Iconic WPA posters. Stranger's Guide (Austin, Texas), (5, The US National Parks Issue): 26-31.
Grand Canyon National Park, p. 28. (Work Projects Administration, renamed Works Progress Administration in 1939.)

Briggs, Don

- 4264 2019 The Grand Canyon photography of Don Briggs : a benefit project for Friends of the River. (John Cassidy, ed. Kevin Plottner, designer.) [No imprint], [42] pp. [An on-demand publication.
Produced by blurb.com (indicated on dust jacket rear).]

No localities identified for photos, but includes a few that are not in Grand Canyon.

Brodie, Nathaniel Farrell

- 4265 2019 Steel on stone : living and working in the Grand Canyon. San Antonio, Texas: Trinity University Press, 298 [299] pp.

A "story of a season living in the Grand Canyon and working on a National Park Service trail crew." (from the back cover)

Carver, Barb

- 4266 2019 1957: Barb Carver. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(1) (Winter): 11.

Cicero, Noah

- 4267 2019 Give it to the Grand Canyon. Phillipsburg, New Jersey: Philosophical Idiot, 155 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Memoir of life while a concessioner employee at Grand Canyon.

Conrad, Svea

- 4268 2019 Framing immensity; artist Dawn Sutherland on painting the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff Live!, 25(37) (September 5-11): 1, 3, 12-14.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cruz, Margarita

- 4269 2019 A thoughtful space; pottery, mules and the art of patience. Flagstaff Live!, 25(17) (April 18-24): 5.
LeeAnn Dodde creates pottery while working at Phantom Ranch, finishing pieces at her Shuttle Bus Studio in Prescott.

Dávila, Ana María

- 4270 2019 Comentari. In: Banda : Banda Municipal de Barcelona : 2019_2020 : Núm. 2 : 10 Novembre 2019, Sala 2 Oriol Martorell : Natures Sonores i l'Arpa de José Antonio Domené : L'Auditori. Barcelona: L'Auditori, pp. [3]-[4] [count includes wraps]. [\[In Catalan.\]](#)
Program includes a performance of Philip Sparke's "Sunrise at Angel's Gate"; Dávila's commentary on this piece, see p. [3]. (For the score, see Sparke, 2001.)

Dawe, Tom

- 4271 2019 Tom Dawe : new and collected poems. St. John's, Newfoundland, Canada: Breakwater, 398 pp.
See "Grand Canyon".

Dekastello, Soňa

- 4272 2019 Easy Ride—putování po západním pobřeží USA. In: Zažili jsme ve Veltrusích [SECTION]. Veltruské Listy (Informační zpravodaj MěÚ Veltrusy) (Veltrusy, Czech Republic), 21(4) (December): 18.
[Item signed "sd"; full name from publisher's information on p. 2.] [\[In Czech.\]](#)
(transl. 'Easy Ride—wandering the west coast of the United States.')
- Brief remarks on a presentation by Jarda Samek at the chateau café Důlák. One photo depicts Marble Canyon as viewed from Navajo Bridge, with legend, "Marble Canyon s řekou Colorado" (transl. 'Marble Canyon with the Colorado River') (ENTIRE NOTE).

Diaphane Éditions

- 4273 2019 Photaumnales : 16<sup>e</sup> édition : Terra nostra—le temps de l'Anthropocène : 21 Sept. 19-05 Janv. 20; Beauvais, Hauts-de-France : dossier de presse. Clermont-de-l'Oise, France: Diaphane Éditions, 50 pp. [including wraps]. [\[In French.\]](#)
(transl. 'Photaumnales: 16th edition: Terra nostra—the time of the Anthropocene: 21 Sept. 19-05 Jan. 20; Beauvais, Hauts-de-France: press kit.')
- See "Pete Mc Bride [sic]; Colorado River", p. 23. Exhibition of photographs by Pete McBride at Le Quadrilatère, Beauvais, Hauts-de-France, as part of the multi-venue exhibition.

Edwards, Pamela

- 4274 2019 Another "First Grand Canyon Visit"; 1988 Pamela Edwards. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(3) (Summer): 9-10.
A contribution to an ongoing series.

Engel-Pearson, Kimberli [Engel-Pearson, Kim]

- 4275 2019 One canyon, countless canyon stories: Exploring the narrative Grand Canyon. In: Pearson, Byron E. (guest ed.), Grand Canyon National Park at 100. Journal of Arizona History, 60(4) (Winter): 459-473.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Engelhard, Michael

- 4276 2019 Seeking solitude. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (February): 21-23.
Cape Solitude.
- 4277 2019 A writer's retreat; reflections on solitude at the Grand Canyon's North Rim fire lookout. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (July): 28-31.
Also reflections on Edward Abbey fire lookout experience.

Friederici, Peter

- 4278 2019 C is for canyon; spelling out the landscape. In: Letter From Home [SECTION]. Flagstaff Live!, 26(1) (December 26, 2019-January 1, 2020): 4.
Includes brief remarks about remembering "the specific twists and turns of the North Kaibab Trail".

Gabrick, Robert

- 4279 2019 [Letter.] Arizona Highways, 95(5) (May): 4.
Reminiscence of a sunset storm at the South Rim.

Ghavanloo, Fereshteh

- 4280 2019 Resimde insan ve doğa ilişkisi. Relationship between human and nature in painting. Master's thesis, Hacettepe Üniversitesi, 49 pp. [In Turkish, with bilingual title and abstract.]
See pp. 17-18, regarding David Hockney's paintings of Grand Canyon.

Grofé, Ferde

- 4281 2019 Grand Canyon Suite. Arizona Highways, 95(2) (February): 52-55.
Reprinted from the December 1938 issue.

Gurrutxaga, Myriam, AND Etxeberria, Enara

- 4282 2019 Route 66 moto gainean. Ataria (Tolosaldeko Komunikazio Taldea, S.M.ko, Udala, Spain), (1136) (November 1): 12. [In Basque.]
(transl. 'Route 66 on a motorcycle')
Motorcycle trip, Chicago to Los Angeles. Includes brief note of helicopter tour over Grand Canyon.

Güttler, Thomas, AND Dorn, Ulrich

- 4283 2019 Langzeit-Belichtung : Fotopraxis mit ND-, GND- und Pol-Filter. Haar bei München, Germany: Franzis Verlag GmbH, 128 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'Long exposure: photo practice with ND, GND and polarizing filters')
Under "Landschaft mit hoher Schärfentiefe" ('Landscape with high depth of field'), see "Sonnenaufgang am Pima Point im Grand Canyon" ('Sunrise at Pima Point in the Grand Canyon'), pp. 18-19.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Harpootlian, Tom

- 4284 2019 Spring trip—Nevada, Arizona and Utah. SPPC Perspective (Seven Ponds Photography Club, Dryden, Michigan), 2(3) (May/June): 3-4.
Trip report. Includes Grand Canyon.

Henderson, Esther

- 4285 2019 Maricopa Point. Arizona Highways, 95(9) (September): 56.
Regarding the composition of Henderson's 1950s photo, "Maricopa Point", which features photographic model Jay Gaza and a horse.

Hombert, Lilane

- 4286 2019 Le rêve américain de la classe 54. In: Vie du village [SECTION]. Mi Dorf / Mon Village (Blodelsheim, Haut-Rhin, France), (70) (June): 39. [In French.]
(transl. 'Class 54's American dream')
Regarding a group trip to America. Includes brief note of Grand Canyon.

Honda, Takahide [本田隆]

- 4287 2019 川と私 [Kawa to watashi]. River in my memories. 河川 [kasen] [River] (公益社団法人 日本河川協 [kōeki shadanhōjin Nihon kasen-kyō] [Japan River Association, Tokyo]), (September): 64-68. [In Japanese, with bilingual item title.]
See p. 65, brief remarks on having stopped at Grand Canyon during a motorcycle trip.

Hüller, Christoph

- 4288 2019 Academic achievements and athletic activities. In: Studentenaustausch/Student Exchange [SECTION]. Gazette (Verband Deutsch-Amerikanischer Clubs/Federation of German-American Clubs e. V., Pommersfelden, Germany), 2019(3) (December): 14-15.
Includes remarks and photo of visit to Havasupai Indian Reservation.

Jia, Judy, AND Li, Johnny

- 4289 2019 徒步科罗拉多大峡谷 [túbù kēluōlādūō dà xiágǔ] [Hiking the Grand Canyon of the Colorado]. 新华报周刊 [xīnhuá bào zhōukān] [Xinhua News Weekly] / New Chinese Journal (Greenwood Village, Colorado), (April 19): 6. [In Chinese, with bilingual serial title (note difference between the translated Chinese title and the English title).]

Junquera, Ernesto

- 4290 2019 Un ir y volver a los Estados Unidos. Grupo TYPASA, Boletín Corporativo, (52): 83-85. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'Back and forth to the United States')
Includes note of visit Grand Canyon (p. 85), with photo of the author at Grand Canyon (p. 84), which although unstated is at Grand Canyon West.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Keane, Bil

- 4291 2019 The Circus hits the road. Arizona Highways, 95(2) (February): 48-49.
"Family Circus" syndicated comics by Bil Keane, featuring Grand Canyon. Reprinted from the September 1984 issue.

Kosuke, Inoue [井上 昂輔]

- 4292 2019 あおばの一枚 [Aoba no ichi-mai] [A piece of Aoba] [FEATURE]. In: あおばランド [Aoba rando] [Aoba Land] [CHILDREN'S PAGES]. あおば [Aoba] (あおば農業協同組合 人事総務課, 富山県 富山市 [aoba nōgyōkyōdōkumiai jinji sōmu-ka, Toyamaken Toyama-shi] [Aoba Agricultural Cooperative, Human Resources and General Affairs Division, Toyama City, Toyama Prefecture, Japan]), (221) (July): 13. [In Japanese.]

Item is written for younger readers; comprises a photograph of Grand Canyon by the author, who is from the Fuchu Branch (婦中支店 [Fuchū shiten]), with legend: "旅行でアメリカのグランドキャニオンへ行ってきました。この日は快晴でアメリカのスケールの大きさに驚きでした!" [ryokō de Amerika no Gurandokyanion e itte kimashita. Kono Ni~Tsu wa kaisei de Amerika no sukēru no ōki-sa ni odorokideshita!] [I went to the Grand Canyon in the US on a trip. It was a sunny day and I was amazed at the scale of the United States!].

Krueger, Martha McKee

- 4293 2019 (WITH Elizabeth Ann Wagner) Bobby, Brighty, and the Wylie Way : a collection of stories, letters, and memoirs. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 104 pp. [pp. 102-104 enumerated but blank].
- 4294 2019 Early life at the North Rim. In: Krueger, Martha McKee, Bobby, Brighty, and the Wylie Way : a collection of stories, letters, and memoirs. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 17-19.

Laingen, Christopher

- 4295 2019 Christopher Laingen. In: The Faculty [SECTION]. Eastern Illinois University, Department of Geology and Geography, 2018-2019 Annual Newsletter, pp. 14-15.
- Includes note of a three-day, 30-mile loop hike on the Boucher, Tonto, and Bright Angel Trails, Grand Canyon; and photo of Grand Canyon.

Latvis, Laurynas

- 4296 2019 Praradimai. Šiaurės Atėnai (Šiaurės Atėnu, Vilnius), 2019(4)(1308) (February 22): 15. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Losses')
- Includes reminiscence of visit to Grand Canyon.

Leard-Coolidge, Lindsay

- 4297 2019 Sublime impressions : prints and printmakers of the Grand Canyon. Carlisle, Massachusetts: Benna Books (Applewood Books), 112 pp.

Martin, John, AND Martin, Dot

- 4298 2019 Arizona sun brightens the day! The adventures of John and Dot Martin. Central Vermont Runners Newsletter (Middlesex, Vermont), 40(3) (May): 3-4.
- Includes Grand Canyon (Rim Trail).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Martinez, Judy, AND Martinez, Brian-James

- 4299 2019 Ghosts of the Grand Canyon. Woodbury, Minnesota: Llewellyn Publications, 202 [203] pp. [Cover adds: "Personal Encounters that Will Have You on the Edge".]

Actual ghosts, supposedly.

Mason, Margaret Hodgkins

- 4300 2019 1995: Margaret Hodgkins Mason, Tour Guide-ess, Marvelous Marv's Grand Canyon Tours. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(1) (Winter): 12.

McBride, Pete [Pete McBride Photography]

- 4301 2019 Into the canyon. (Pete McBride, director; Insignia Films, producers.) [No place]: Pete McBride Photography. Video. 84:00.

Regarding the segmental hike of the length of Grand Canyon, below the rim, by Pete McBride and Kevin Fedarko.

McKee, Robert Wylie

- 4302 2019 The Wylie Way. In: Krueger, Martha McKee, Bobby, Brighty, and the Wylie Way : a collection of stories, letters, and memoirs. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 21-23.

- 4303 2019 Life at the Grand Canyon: A memoir. In: Krueger, Martha McKee, Bobby, Brighty, and the Wylie Way : a collection of stories, letters, and memoirs. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 25-74.

- 4304 2019 [Correspondence to granddaughter Beth Wagner, 1990, regarding life during his childhood on the North Rim.] In: Krueger, Martha McKee, Bobby, Brighty, and the Wylie Way : a collection of stories, letters, and memoirs. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, p. 98.

Reproduced in facsimile.

McKee, Thomas Heron; Carlson (Mr.) [Carlson, Raymond]; Bryant, Harold C.; AND Garrison, Lon,

- 4305 2019 [Correspondence between McKee and the others.] In: Krueger, Martha McKee, Bobby, Brighty, and the Wylie Way : a collection of stories, letters, and memoirs. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 87-97.

Regarding the Swedish flag flown over the Wylie Way Lodge, North Rim, when Crown Prince Gustav and Crown Princess Louise visited there in July 1926; and regarding life on the North Rim.

Mills, Ken, AND Mills, Maureen

- 4306 2019 Trains in the midwest. The Looker (New Romney, Kent, England), (223) (September 25): 27.

Brief report of a trip by English railway enthusiasts, from Las Vegas to Denver. Includes Grand Canyon Railway.

Minick, Roger

- 4307 2019 Sightseer. Stranger's Guide (Austin, Texas), (5, The US National Parks Issue): 72-85.

Photo essay. See p. 82, "Family at Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. 1980." (Oriental family.)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Miyamoto, Kana [宮本 果奈 (みやもと かな)]

- 4308 2019 自分自身を見つめ返す; ことができた1か月. アリゾナセミナー (2018年1月~2018年3月) 人文学部教育学科 3年生 [Jibun jishin o mitsume kaesu; koto ga dekita 1-kagetsu. arizonaseminā (2018-nen 1 tsuki ~ 2018-nen 3 tsuki) jinbungakubu kyōiku gakka 3-nensei] [Look back at yourself; I was able to do it for a month. Arizona Seminar (January 2018-March 2018) 3rd year student, Department of Education, Faculty of Humanities]. In: 留学の手引き 2019 [ryūgaku no tebiki 2019] [Study Abroad Guide 2019]. Hiroshima: 広島修道大学 国際センター [Hiroshimashūdōdaigaku kokusai sentā] [Hiroshima Shudo University International Center], p. 14. [In Japanese.]

Includes photo of student at the Grand Canyon.

[Morrison, Chrissie]

- 4309 2019 Yak tracks. YSS Newsletter (New York Library Association, Youth Services Section), 2 (Summer): [13].
"Yancey [a stuffed-toy yak] has been on the move since our last issue. In April, he went with Past president and current 1st year Director Chrissie Morrison's family to the Grand Canyon." With two photos at entrance to Grand Canyon National Park South Rim: "Yancy getting ready to tour the South Rim of the Grand Canyon National Park", and "Yancey doing a #VacationHandstand with gymnast Kiley Morrison". (ENTIRE ITEM)

Murata, Hiroo [村田 洋志夫]

- 4310 2019 七十歳でアメリカ一周 二四、〇〇〇kmの旅 [Nana jū-sai de Amerika isschū; 24,000 km no tabi] [Around the United States at the age of 70; a trip of 24,000 km]. 報会 窓同 [hō-kai mado dō] [News Report] (宮城県仙台第二高等学校同窓会, 仙台市 [Miyagi ken Sendaidainikōtōgakkō dōsōkai, Sendai-shi] [Miyagi Sendai Second High School Alumni Association, Sendai City, Japan]), (52) (June 1): 9-10. [In Japanese.]

Includes note of Grand Canyon.

Nakatani, Hiroshi [中谷 博]

- 4311 2019 ウェスティングハウス社とアメリカ合衆国の思い出 (12) [uesutinguhausu-sha to Amerikagasshūkoku no omoide (12)] [Westinghouse and memories of the United States (12)]. 京機短信 [Kyō-ki tanshin] KEIKI Short Letter (Keikikai, Kyoto University, Mechanical Engineering Alumni Association), (324) (April 5): 28-43. [In Japanese, with bilingual serial title.]
See "アリゾナ州、グランドキャニオン" [Arizona-shū, Gurandokyanion] [Grand Canyon, Arizona] (pp. 39-40); a visit to South Rim.

Noble, David

- 4312 2019 Solitude. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 26(3) (Fall): 12 [back cover].

Nobue, Fujii [藤井 信栄]

- 4313 2019 私の仕事 [Watashi no shigoto] [My job]. In: 回想録 連載3 [kaisō-roku rensai 3] [Memoir Series, 3] [SECTION]. あいみっく [Aimikku] [IMIC] ((一財) 国際医学情報センター [(ichi zai) kokusai igaku jōhō sentā] / International Medical Information Center) (Tokyo), 40(3) (August 31): 80-82 [concurrently paginated for issue, 26-28]. [In Japanese; publisher given in both Japanese and English.]

Includes note of visit to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Noguchi, Miho [野口 美帆]

- 4314 2019 退役軍人病院 (VA) 病院での研修を終えて [taieki gunjin byōin (VA) byōin de no kenshū o oete] [After training at Veterans Administration (VA) hospital]. 専齋 Sensai (長崎医療センター [Nagasaki iryō sentā] [Nagasaki Medical Center]), (369) (May): 7. [In Japanese.]

Brief note of personal activity following a professional visit to U.S. Includes a visit to Grand Canyon South Rim.

Odderstol, Barbara Stephens

- 4315 2019 The trails of an Early Canyon Kid. [Part 1.] The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(1) (Winter): 12-16. [See also "Correction", (2) (Spring): 3; photos were courtesy of Barbara Stephens Odderstol.]
- 4316 2019 The trails of an Early Canyon Kid, Part 2. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(4) (Fall): 9-10.

Owen, Carolyn

- 4317 2019 Cory Owen's special trip. By Carolyn Owen (proud mother). Linked (Lafayette Industries, Manchester, Missouri), (July): [4].

Brief report of the Owens family's western trip, including North and South Rims of Grand Canyon. Includes photo of Cory Owen at Grand Canyon. (Lafayette Industries provides "employment opportunities to persons with developmental disabilities and to persons with other disabilities who are 18 years or older".)

Peng, Wei [彭薇]

- 4318 2019 春游游记; 三年级 孙婷雯 指导老师 [chūnyóu yóujì; sān niánjí sūntíngwén zhǐdǎo lǎoshī] [Spring travel notes; Third grade, Sun Tingwen, Instructor]. Newsletter / 每周简报 [měi zhōu jiǎnbào] [Weekly Newsletter] (瑞华中文学校 / Ray Chinese School, Naperville and Lisle, Illinois), (694) (May 11): 1. [In Chinese.]

Student author. Includes remarks on a hike on South Kaibab Trail.

Ranney, Wayne, AND Brown, Bryan

- 4319 2019 Wanda Nevada: A failed search for cinematic gold in the Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(3) (Summer): 3-4.

Regarding the filming of the movie, Wanda Nevada (United Artists, 1979), which includes locales near, at and in Grand Canyon.

Richards, Arnie

- 4320 2019 1960: Arnie Richards. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(1) (Winter): 11.

Riesenberg, Mindy

- 4321 2019 (ED.) Grand Canyon Celebration of Art 2019 : celebrating Grand Canyon National Park's centennial. (Barbara Glynn Denney, designer.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Conservancy, 56 pp.

11th annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art. Exhibition catalog.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Saddler, Kim

- 4322 2019 Principal's message..... Greetings from the USA! KFPS News (Kangaroo Flat Primary School, Kangaroo Flat, Victoria, Australia), 2019(10) (April 24): [1]. [Ellipsis is part of title, thus.]
- Message from the principal, who is traveling in the United States. Includes brief comments Grand Canyon West.

Saeki, Asuka [佐伯 明日香]

- 4323 2019 20 時間 1,200km の旅 in アメリカ [20-jikan 1,200 km no tabi in Amerika] [20-hour 1,200 km trip in USA]. よかネット [yokanetto] / Yokanet (株)よかネット [Ltd. yokanetto] [Yokanet Co., Ltd.], 福岡市 [Fukuoka City]), (135) (July): 14-16. [In Japanese, with bilingual serial title.]
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Schallau, Adam, AND Kida, Jeff

- 4324 2019 Q&A: Adam Schallau. In: The Journal [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 95(11) (November): 12-13.
- Interview, focusing on a black-and-white photograph by Schallau along the Colorado River upstream from the Little Colorado River.

Schaller, David A.

- 4325 2019 1966: David Schaller. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(1) (Winter): 11.

Schnyder, Joe

- 4326 2019 Fall color tour of the Grand Canyon; October 14-17, 2018, Joe Schnyder, excursion coordinator. Line Up (Motorcar Operators West), 27(1) (June): 18-21, back cover (back cover illustration legend inside front cover).
- Motorcar ("speeder") excursion via Grand Canyon Railway tracks.

Shaw, Fred

- 4327 2019 The genuine genesis of Hopi House. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(2) (Spring): cover, 2, 10-16.
- Editor's note: "This article is derived from Fred Shaw's book 'False Architect: The Mary Colter Hoax.' Fred also gave an author talk at the 2019 History Symposium; the video can be viewed at this link: <https://vimeo.com/322919890> password is '2019'." Shaw's book is an ebook only; publications that are so produced are not cited in this bibliography. The Kindle version is accessible at <https://www.amazon.com/False-Architect-Mary-Colter-Hoax-ebook/dp/B07CJRX2F5> (accessed 30 April 2019). See also Shaw (2020).

Smith, Matt, AND Smith, Karen

- 4328 2019 Dear Bob and Sue: Season 3. [No imprint], 330 [335] pp. + advertisements. [An on-demand publication.]

Stein, Amy Ilona

- 4329 2019 Cultural artifact and work of art: Grand Canyon landscape painting. In: Pearson, Byron E. (guest ed.), Grand Canyon National Park at 100. Journal of Arizona History, 60(4) (Winter): 475-505.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Stieve, Robert

4330 2019 Amery Bohling. Arizona Highways, 95(2) (February): cover, 1, 4-5.

Issue commemorates the centennial of Grand Canyon National Park. The cover art, "Approaching the Windy Ridge 40×30", is an oil painting by Bohling (also shown with the artist on p. 4) that depicts two packers with mules ascending a Grand Canyon trail. Editor's note on p. 5 indicates that the painting will be available for purchase at the Grand Canyon Celebration of Art, September 14, with proceeds benefiting the Grand Canyon Conservancy.

Stoica, Cristina

4331 2019 16 locuri din SUA care merită vizitate. Romanian Journal (Sunnyside, New York), (383) (July 3): 16-19, 36. [In Romanian, with serial title in English.]
(transl. '16 places in the USA worth visiting')

Includes brief note of "Marele Canion" ('Grand Canyon'), with photo.

Sukuri, Masashi [宿利正史]

4332 2019 3) 2014年第6号 東京大学公共政策大学院客員教授宿利正史氏 [3] 2014-nen dai 6-gō Tōkyōdaigaku kōkyō seisaku daigakuin kakuinkyōju yadori Seishi-shi] [3] 2014 No. 6 Visiting Professor, Graduate School of Public Policy, The University of Tokyo Masashi Sukuri]. In: 一般社団法人交通環境整備ネットワーク 10年史 [10-year history of Transportation Environment Maintenance Network]. Tōkyō: 一般社団法人交通環境整備ネットワーク [Traffic Environment Maintenance Network], pp. 85-89. [In Japanese.]

See pp. 85-86, remarks on, and photographs of, a Grand Canyon Railway steam locomotive at the Grand Canyon Depot. (This is one of several articles reprinted from the bulletin of the Transportation Environment Maintenance Network; this one is from No. 6 (2014). The 2019 item was seen online with the heading, "The history of ecotran 2009-2019".)

Sulpizio, Thomas

4333 2019 1986: Thomas Sulpizio. From: More First Grand Canyon Visits. In: The Bulletin [NEWSLETTER SECTION]. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 30(1) (Winter): 11-12.

Tierney, Veronica [Tierney, V. Ronnie]

4334 2019 Women wranglers managing mules, rugged terrain, treacherous weather; Chelsea Plumb and Cricket Scheerer enjoy long days in the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff Business News (Flagstaff, Arizona), 12(3) (March): 8, 40.

4335 2019 Stewards of the trails keeping Grand Canyon accessible; volunteers do blistering work in extreme conditions to maintain miles of trails for hundreds of thousands of hikers. Flagstaff Business News (Flagstaff, Arizona), 12(4) (April): 18, 42.

Tire, Soner

4336 2019 David Hockney: From canvas to iPad. David Hockney: Tuvalden iPad'e. Route Educational and Social Science Journal (Antakya, Turkey), 6(9) (October): 398-411. [In Turkish; with bilingual item title and abstract, and serial title in English, thus.]

Includes Hockney's Grand Canyon work.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Wagner, Jan

- 4337 2019 S.D. Miata Club road trip to the Grand Canyon and Grand Canyon Railroad. Armed Forces Dispatch (Carlsbad, California), 59(22) (September 26): 15. (Item credited as "AutoMatters™ & More #609".)

S.D.: San Diego. Mazda Miata automobiles. Grand Canyon Railway.

Wang, Yue [王梓さん]

- 4338 2019 アメリカ留学記. 2015-2017年米山奨学生 王梓さん [Amerika ryūgaku-ki. 2015-2017-Nen Yoneyama shōgakusei] [Study abroad in USA. Yoneyama Scholarship 2015-2017]. 週報 [Shūhō] [Weekly Report] (R.I.第2570地区第3グループ, 所沢東ロータリークラブ [R. I. Dai 2570 chiku dai 3 gurūpu, tokorozawahigashi rōtarīkurabu] [Rotary International District 2570, Tokorozawa East Rotary Club, Tokorozawa City, Japan]), (February 28): [3]. [In Japanese.]

Report of the scholarship recipient. Includes Grand Canyon.

Welsh, Johnny

- 4339 2019 Paper maps, no apps : an unplugged travel adventure. Frisco, Colorado: Peak 1 Publishing, LLC, 206 pp.

Brief, day-by-day accounts of 17 days of travel through the Southwest. See "Day Fifteen. My Ass Hurts" (pp. 149-155), which includes Grand Canyon South Rim and the route to Kanab, Utah, by way of Jacob Lake.

Wiechec, Nancy

- 4340 2019 Season of magic; winter on the South Rim. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (February): cover, 4, 8-14.

Williams, Tyler, AND Hatcher, Bill

- 4341 2019 Walhalla. In Norse mythology, Valhalla is a glorious place of honor in the afterlife—a place where the heroes go. In Arizona, Walhalla, a variation on the Norwegian word, is a place where mere mortals can experience what might be the most breathtaking expanse in all of North America. And maybe the world. Arizona Highways, 95(10) (October): 36-41.

Walhalla Plateau.

Wolfe, Amy Yedida

- 4342 2019 The day of rest; a Brooklyn Hasidic family heads to the Grand Canyon. Stranger's Guide (Austin, Texas), (5, The US National Parks Issue): 96-99.

An Orthodox Jewish family camps and copes during the Sabbath at the North Rim.

Zagdoun, Benoît

- 4343 2019 Des photos d'Américains tirées de banques d'images ont-elles été utilisées pour illustrer le Service national universel? In: Revue de Presse [SECTION]. L'US Magazine (Université Syndicaliste, Paris) (Journal du Syndicat National des Enseignements de Second Degré, No. 788, Supplément) (June 8): 5. [Cover banner displays serial title as L'US Mag.] [In French.]
(transl. 'Were photos of Americans taken from image banks used to illustrate Universal National Service?')

Regarding the use of photographs from publicly available image banks by the Service National Universel, France, to promote its programs on its website. The images imply that they show the service's teenage volunteer

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

participants. One image shows young hikers on a Grand Canyon trail. Item includes a screen shot of the SNU banner that used the Grand Canyon photo, adding the title, "Le fake du mois" (transl. 'Fake of the Month'). Credited to franceinfo, June 19, 2019.

2020

Anonymous

- 4344 2020 Auf Reisen mit Manfred Neunzig. „s Blättle“ (Fellbach, Schmidlen, Oeffingen, Lindle und die oberen Ortsteile von Rommelshausen, Luginsland, Auf der Gans, Obere Ziegelei, Sommerrain und Neugereut) (WAK-Werbeservice GmbH, Gschwend, Baden-Württemberg, Germany), 2020(4) (January 21): 8. [In German.]
(transl. 'Traveling with Manfred Neunzig.')

Announcement for a travel lecture by Neunzig, "Vom Grand Canyon Nord und dem Colorado-River zum Lake Powell" (transl. 'From Grand Canyon North and the Colorado River to Lake Powell.').

- 4345 2020 Girls of courage, confidence and character: 3 amazing life lessons from a High Adventure Girl Scout. The Manitou Girl (Girl Scouts of Manitou, Sheboygan, Wisconsin), 2(2) (Spring): 8-9.
Written in the first person. Author identification: "Victoria, 16, is a Girl Scout Ambassador who participates in a high-adventure program through Girl Scouts Heart of Central California." Includes remarks on an 8-day hiking trip in Grand Canyon, pp. 8-9.]

- 4346 2020 50周年記念旅行 in Las Vegas 2020年2月6-10日; Grand Canyon & Hoover Dam [50 Shūnenkinen ryokō in rasubegasu 2020-nen 2 tsuki 6-10-nichi] [50th Anniversary Trip in Las Vegas February 6-10, 2020; Grand Canyon and Hoover Dam]. Ring of SEIKO (セイコーグループ 事務方戦略会 [Seikōgurūpu jimu-kata senryaku-kai] [Kiyohiro Engineering Co., Ltd.]) (Japan), (13) (April): cover, 14-17. [Table of contents on cover gives item title as "ラスベガス50周年記念旅行" (Rasupe-gatana su 50 shūnenkinen ryokō).] [In Japanese, with item title in mixed Japanese and Roman orthography, and serial title in Roman orthography, thus.]

In-house newsletter item; photo collage.

- 4347 2020 창조과학탐사 20주년 [changjogwahagtamsa 20junyeon] [20th Anniversary of Creation Science Exploration]. In: ACT News [SECTION]. Creation Truth (Association for Creation Truth Newsletter) (한국창조과학회 미주지부 [Korean Creation Science Society, Americas Branch], Norwalk, California), 28(4): 8-9. [In Korean, with serial title in English.]

Features a trip to Grand Canyon.

Aeilts, David

- 4348 2020 Beautiful and wild : life lessons learned hiking the canyon. Minneapolis, Minnesota: The Wordsmith, 55 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Ahmed, Ameema

- 4349 2020 What goes up must come down. They're not household names like Earhart and Lindbergh, but 99 years ago, Lieutenant Alexander Pearson Jr. and Sergeant Arthur Juengling made history when they flew their De Havilland DH-4 biplane over the Grand Canyon. Their mission was to study weather patterns, look for possible landing areas and prove the bloodthirsty bystanders wrong. (Photographs courtesy of Stephen Schmidt.) Arizona Highways, 96(1) (January): 36-39.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Aiken, Bruce

- 4350 2020 Bruce Aiken, landscape painter. From: Interviews [SECTION]. In: Dundas, Zach (ed.), Grand Canyon : "the ages at work". Austin, Texas: Wildsam Field Guides, p. 95.

Akatsuki, Mizumoto [水元惟暁]

- 4351 2020 とにかく日本から出てみる。アリゾナで経験したこと [tonikaku Nihon kara dete miru. Arizona de keiken shita koto] [Anyway, let's get out of Japan. What I experienced in Arizona]. In: 特集 : 海外で研究するということ [tokushū: Kaigai de kenkyū suru to iu koto] [Special feature: Studying abroad]. 個体群生態学会会報 [Kotaigunseitaigaku-kai kaihō] [Society of Population Ecology, Bulletin] (Kyoto), (77): 28-32. [In Japanese.]

See p. 29, “写真 1 アリゾナの名所グランドキャニオン。写真と現実のギャップがここまで大きい場所は他に知らない。” [shashin 1 Arizona no meisho Gurandokyanion. Shashin to genjitsu no gyappu ga koko made ōkī basho wa hoka ni shiranai.] [Photo 1 Grand Canyon, a famous place in Arizona. I don't know of any other place where the gap between photography and reality is so big.]

Allison, Steven

- 4352 2020 Emigrant story// The journey of the Albert Mueller family. Crossroads Chronicle (Oregon-California Trails Association, Crossroads Chapter), 31(1) (Spring): 5-6.

Includes photo (p. 6), “Erich, Minna, and Kurt at Grand Canyon circa 1964”; no text mention.

Arias, Rodrigo [Ариас, Родриго]

- 4353 2020 Мою юго-западная одиссея [Moю yugo-zapadnaya odisseya] [My Southwest odyssey]. Газета / Gazeta (The official Russian newspaper of William and Mary) (College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia), (58) (April): 4. [In Russian.]

Includes note of visit to Grand Canyon; with photo.

Aton, James M.

- 4354 2020 Painting “my odyssey”; Jimmie F. Jones, Grand Canyon master. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 142-147.

Berg, Erik

- 4355 2020 An Eagle’s eye view of the Grand Canyon; the aerial photos and explorations of Charles and Anne Lindbergh. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 75-80.

Berry, John

- 4356 2020 John Berry, mule skinner. From: Interviews [SECTION]. In: Dundas, Zach (ed.), Grand Canyon : "the ages at work". Austin, Texas: Wildsam Field Guides, p. 103.

Beyaert-Geslin, Anne

- 4357 2020 La photographie comme méta-image. La photo, modèle de la photo et de la peinture. / Photography as a meta-image. Photography, model of photography and painting. Signata

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

(Annales des sémiotiques / Annals of Semiotics) (Liège, Belgium), 2020(11), 18 pp. [In French, with bilingual item title.]

See paragraph 24 (p. 8) and accompanying note 16 (p. 17), regarding the art of David Hockney, citing his "Study of the Grand Canyon" (1998) on nine canvases (not illustrated).

Bowditch, Lucy

- 4358 2020 Interpreting 19th and early 20th century photographs of the Grand Canyon; religion, science, art history, and tourism. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 153-158.

Buchheit, Mike

- 4359 2020 A quiet walk in the park. Arizona Highways, 96(7) (July): 50-51.
Walking at Grand Canyon while the park was closed due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Burillo, R. E.

- 4360 2020 Protecting the most vulnerable; lessons from Katrina. Flagstaff Live!, 26(27) (June 25-July 1): 7.
Regarding life lessons in the wake of hurricane Katrina and the COVID-19 pandemic. Includes remark, "When hurricane Katrina made landfall in August 2005, I was living and working at the Grand Canyon Lodge on the Big Ditch's higher and sweeter northern ledge." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Burrillo, R. E., AND Bailey, Jonathan T.

- 4361 2020 Sharing the wild. The Gulch (Durango, Colorado), (14) (Fall): 18-23.
Burrillo (p. 19) quotes from his forthcoming book, Behind the Bears Ears. He notes that he had been "a seasonal restaurant manager at the North Rim of the Grand Canyon", and "You can walk the entirety of the Grand Canyon's inner gorge without seeing much more than a handful of other people . . . but you can't walk fifty yards from the gift shop to the South Rim without seeing much fewer than a gazillion of them."

Cai, Qidong [蔡啓東]

- 4362 2020 Trekking of Grand Canyon National Park 大峽谷壯遊 [. . . dà xiá gǔ zhuàng yóu] [. . . Grand Canyon tour]. In: 大紐約區台灣人筆會 : 2020 年會 [Dà niǔyüē qū táiwān rén bǐhuì : 2020 nián huì] [Greater New York Region Overseas Taiwanese Pen Club : 2020 Annual Meeting]. [No place]: Greater New York Region Overseas Taiwanese Pen Club, pp. 75-78. [In Chinese, with item title in mixed English and Chinese, thus.]

Corman, Phil, AND Corman, Linda

- 4363 2020 The Grand Canyon. In: Tales from the Right Seat [SECTION]. The Mooney Flyer (Official Online Magazine for the Mooney Community), 9(8) (August): 27-29.
Mooney single-engine aircraft trip to Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Cornelius, Bob

- 4364 2020 Setting the record straight: Bob Cornelius and the Phantom Ranch pool. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 31(3) (Summer): 7-8.

Sets the record straight from the article by Keith Green (1997). Cornelius was the Phantom Ranch ranger at the time when the pool was closed and filled in. Article includes image of painting by Cornelius, "Phantom Creek Swallow Smoke".

Cummins, Ann

- 4365 2020 One love. From: Stories [SECTION]. In: Dundas, Zach (ed.), Grand Canyon : "the ages at work". Austin, Texas: Wildsam Field Guides, pp. 120-126.

Reggae concert at the Havasupai Peach Festival, 1983.

Dattagupta, Urmi [দত্তগুপ্ত, উর্মি]

- 4366 2020 গ্রন্থ ক্যাঁিনিয়ান্ ন্যন্যাশনাল পাপার্ক্ে হিন্দু পুরানের চিহ্ন [Granda kyāiniyān n'yan'yāsanāla pāpārkē hindu parānēra cihna] [Signs of Hindu Paran at the Grand Canyon National Park]. সংবাদ বিচিত্রা / Sangbad Bichitra [News Variety] (Cultural Association of Bengal, North America, Cliffside Park, New Jersey), (406) (September): ১৬-১৭ [16-17]. [In Bengali; with transliterated serial title, thus.]

The author takes notice of Hindu names in geographic and stratigraphic features at Grand Canyon, as seen during a visit there.

Davis, Paul E.

- 4367 2020 Building and rebuilding the Grand Canyon Lodge. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 99-104.

Djørup, Rigmor

- 4368 2020 David Hockney; Los Angeles, Grand Canyon; Rigmors yndlingskunstværk. Under Linden (Magasin for plejenjemmet Lindelys beboere og deres pårørende) (Hellerup, Denmark), 7(4) (April): 18-21. [In Danish.]
(transl. 'Rigmor's favorite artwork')

Regarding artist David Hockney and his Grand Canyon work. Written by "Rigmor, layouterens ældste datter" (transl. 'eldest daughter of the layout artist'), following her second U.S. trip. Redaktion (p. 2) indicates serial layout by Ane Djørup.

Doğan, Deniz

- 4369 2020 Yeni yüzyıl keşifleri; dijital çağın sunduğu syahat alternatifi: Tek bir konumdan Dünya'yı yeniden keşfetmek. Masterpiece Magazine (Garanti BBVA Özel Bankacılık, İstanbul), (24): 56-59. [In Turkish.]
(transl. 'New century explorers; the travel alternative offered by the digital age: rediscovering the world from a single location.')

As a consequence of the COVID-19 pandemic. Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Duran, Neus

- 4370 2020 Turisme virtual. Les restriccions de mobilitat que ha provocat la pandèmia faran d'aquest un estiu atípic. Per sort, les reconstruccions en 3D i la realitat virtual ajudaran a explorar els racons més atractius del planeta sense sortir de casa. Compartir (Fundació/Fundación Espiriu, Barcelona), New Series, (2) (July): 30-31. [In Catalan.]
(transl. 'Virtual tourism. The mobility restrictions caused by the pandemic will make this an atypical summer. Luckily, 3D reconstructions and virtual reality will help you explore the most attractive corners of the planet without leaving home.')

Regarding virtual touring during the COVID-19 pandemic. See "2 Senderisme pel Gran Canyó" (transl. 'hiking the Grand Canyon'); directs to the website <https://www.google.co.uk/maps/about/behind-the-scenes/streetview/treks/grand-canyon/> (last accessed May 4, 2022).

Eastridge, Nick

- 4371 2020 On foot through the Grand Canyon : Lees Ferry to Tassi Ranch, October 1-November 23, 2019. [No imprint], 165 pp. [Cover title omits the dates.] [An on-demand publication.]

Feder, Marcín

- 4372 2020 Interviews; meet our new head of unit! TRADivarius (DG Trad Newsletter) (European Parliament, Directorate-General for Translation, Multilingualism and External Relations Unit), (40) (March): 2.

Interview with Feder, "head of the recently established Speech-to-text Unit". Includes remarks on Feder's travels, including having seen in 2019 "Grand Canyon by helicopter—another high point!" (ENTIRE NOTE)]

Fennessy, Christine

- 4373 2020 Running in the dark. Outside, (January/February): 66-73.

See p. 69, regarding runner Rob Krar, noting, "sufferfests in the Grand Canyon were transcended by the sheer scope and beauty of the place".

Goodfellow, Jessica

- 4374 2020 Three landscapes. Southern Review (Louisiana State University), 56(3) (Summer): 375-377.

Verses. See "III. Souvenir Photo, Grand Canyon, 1977" (pp. 376-377).

Granillo, Gabriel

- 4375 2020 Landscapes and love; the adventure of wedding photography in northern Arizona. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (Spring): cover, 4, 8-20 [includes advertising]. [See also "Editor's Notes" by MacKenzie Chase, p. 6.]

Heidt, Terry, AND Heidt, Glenda

- 4376 2020 Epic ride—Utah national parks and the Grand Canyon North Rim. Wing Word (Gold Wing Road Riders Association, Chapter AB-C, Innisfail, Alberta, Canada), (April): [14]-[17].

Motorcycle trip in June-July 2019.

Ishizuka, Seiichi [石塚 誠一]

- 4377 — 不惑を過ぎて旅行の魅力にはまるもう一度訪れたい「アメリカ」 [Fuwaku o sugite ryokō no miryoku ni hamaru mōichido otozuretai 'Amerika'] [Beyond the inconvenience I fell in love with

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

travel and want to visit "America" again]. In: 今月のトピックス：特集：会社訪問 -No.20：石塚運送有限会社 様 [kongetsu no topikkusu : tokushū kaisha : hōmon-nanbā 20 : Ishizuka unsō yūgengaisha-sama] [This month's topics : special feature : Company visit No. 20 : Ishizuka Transport Co., Ltd.]. トラック情報ちば (千葉県トラック協会機関紙) [torakku jōhō chi ba (Chiba ken torakku kyōkai kikan-shi)] [Chiba Information (Chiba Trucking Association Bulletin) (Japan)], _____, pp. 2-3. [Ca. 2020.] [In Japanese.]

Company profile includes brief personal remarks by Ishizuka, with photo of him and his wife at Grand Canyon South Rim.

Karr, Mike

- 4378 2020 In the Territory..... [COLUMN]. MountainBrook Village Mountaineer (Gold Canyon, Arizona), (March): 15. [Ellipsis is part of column title, thus.]

Perspective on Grand Canyon North Rim.

Kehoe, Kathy

- 4379 2020 A little folk history; Strasburg Harvey Girls. Strasburg Heritage Association, Newsletter (Strasburg, Virginia), 20(3) (Fall): 3-7.

Strasburg women as Harvey Girls at Grand Canyon.

Kellner, Thomas, AND Langer, Freddy

- 4380 2020 Ein Bild, das uns zum Wanken bringt. Thomas Kellner het den Grand Canyon so genau geschen wie vielleicht kein Mensch vor ihm. Der Fotograf nimmt die Schlucht auseinandere und komponiert sie mit seinem extremen Querformat neu. Frankfurter Allgemeine Magazin (Frankfurt am Main), (October): 76-79. [In German.]

(transl. 'An image that shakes us. Thomas Kellner created the Grand Canyon as precisely as perhaps no one before him. The photographer dissects the canyon and recomposes it with his extreme landscape format.')

Kida, Jeff, AND Whitney, Keith

- 4381 2020 (EDS.) This is the start of something big; a portfolio. Arizona Highways, 96(1) (January): cover, inside front cover, 1, 22-35, back cover.

Knighton, Conor

- 4382 2020 Leave only footprints : my Acadia-to-Zion journey through every national park. New York: Crown (Random House), 323 [325] pp.

Grand Canyon, see in Chapter 13, "Canyons (Grand Canyon, Black Canyon of the Gunnison)", pp. 159-167.

Komukai (Dr.) [小向]

- 4383 2020 Dr. 小向 思い出の旅行記パート 2 [Dr. Komukai omoide no ryokō-ki pāto 2] [Dr. Komukai Memories of Travel Report Part 2]. Swan 広報誌スワン (南部病院 ・スワンクリニック) (社会医療法人博進会) [kōhō-shi suwan (Nanbubyōin suwankuririkku) (Shakai iryō hōjin hakushinkai)] [Swan Public Relations Magazine (Southern Hospital, Swan Clinic) (Social Medical Corporation Hakushinkai)] (Okitaomote, Nambu-cho, Sannohe-gun, Aomori Prefecture, Japan), (October/December) (Autumn): 5-6. [In Japanese, with "Swan" and "Dr." in Roman orthography.]

Grand Canyon, p. 5. "グランドキャニオンはアメリカ合衆国アリゾナ州北部にある峡谷。コロラド高原が長年のコロラド川による浸食作用で削り出された地形。アメリカ、グランドキャニオンです。" "

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

写真では伝わらないどこまでも続く大渓谷、景色の雄大さに度肝を抜かれました。” [“The Grand Canyon is a canyon in northern Arizona, United States. Topography of the Colorado Plateau carved out by the erosion of the Colorado River for many years.” “The Grand Canyon, USA. I was amazed at the magnificence of the scenery and the endless canyon that cannot be seen in the photographs.”] (ENTIRE NOTE)

Kovács-Árvai, Ágnes

- 4384 2020 Csodák nyomában. Balatonfűzfői Hírlap (A Balatonfűzfői Önkormányzat ingyenesen megjelenő havilapja) (Balatonfűzfői, Hungary), 30(11) (November): 17. [In Hungarian.]
(transl. ‘In the wake of miracles’)

Regarding Szabóné Jámbor Eszter’s (Eszter Jámbor) storybook idea for hikers with children, which was conceived during a hike in the Grand Canyon. Take note also of Jámbor (2017).

Kozak-Hamala, Edyta

- 4385 2020 Szczęście w podróży. Biuletyn Informatycznyjny (Okręgowej izby Radców Prawnych w Krakowie) (Kraków), (4) (October/December): 30-33. [In Polish.]
(transl. ‘Happiness on the road’)

Includes Grand Canyon (p. 22).

Leard-Coolidge, Lindsay

- 4386 2020 Printmakers of the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 116-121.

Lehmann, Doris

- 4387 2020 [Letter.] In: Letters [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 96(2) (February): 4.

Includes brief remarks on a winter visit to Grand Canyon.

Lisk, Mark

- 4388 2020 Arizona : the Grand Canyon State : photographs by Mark Lisk. [Sanger, California]: Familius LLC, 238 [240] pp.

Mathia, Suzanne

- 4389 2020 Picture perfect, Part 1, Havasu Canyon; a portfolio. Arizona Highways, 96(8) (August): cover, 1, 22-29.

See also “Contributors” section, p. 3, where Mathia discusses the composition of the cover photo.

McSally (Ms.) [McSally, Martha]

- 4390 2020 Farewell to the Senate. Congressional Record—Senate, 166(196) (November 18): S7060-S7061.

Final remarks on the floor of the U.S. Senate. See p. S7061: “. . . I, like many other Arizonans, took in the beauty of our great landscapes by hiking sections of the Arizona trail. On a day-long trek to the bottom of the Grand Canyon and back with a dear friend, we were joined for part of the hike by the park’s new superintendent. We saw firsthand the benefits the Great American Outdoors Act would bring to this national treasure and crowning jewel of our State—legislation we championed in this very room.” (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Monroe, Harriet

- 4391 2020 Its ineffable beauty. From: Stories [SECTION]. In: Dundas, Zach (ed.), Grand Canyon : "the ages at work". Austin, Texas: Wildsam Field Guides, pp. 136-139.
- From Monroe (1899).

Muir, John

- 4392 2020 The Grand Cañon of the Colorado. From: Almanac [SECTION]. In: Dundas, Zach (ed.), Grand Canyon : "the ages at work". Austin, Texas: Wildsam Field Guides, p. 37.
- Brief excerpt "From The Century Magazine, 1901"; i.e., Muir (1902).

Othman, Abu Bakar Bin

- 4393 NO DATE [Comments and photos.] In: We know what we did last summer at Stanford. GLP at Stanford University [SECTION]. BTS (Behind the Scenes) (Singapore University of Technology and Design), (4): 17. [2020.]
- Global Leadership Programme. Includes note and photo of visit to Grand Canyon (South Rim).

Peglar, Tori

- 4394 2020 Into the deep; a family hikes to the bottom of the Grand Canyon, discovering there's more than meets the eye. Grand Canyon National Park Journal (Active Interest Media/National Park Trips, Boulder, Colorado), 2020: 80-82.

Perry, Will

- 4395 2020 A tourist in the Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(1) (Spring): 28-29.
- A January 1913 visit to Grand Canyon by the author's grandmother, Rosamond Underwood, with her mother and father, Grace and George; including a mule trip to the Colorado River. With five photographs.

Petersen, Alan

- 4396 2020 Release of the Catalogue Raisonné. The Gunnar Widforss Catalogue Raisonné Project, [7]: [1]. Catalogue is available online at [www.gunnarwidforss.org.]

Pillo, Alexander

- 4397 2020 Take me home, Country Roads. 3.000 Meilen, 22 Tage, vier Bundesstaaten: Der Südwesten der Vereingten Staaten von Amerika ist so vielfältig wie kaum eine andere Gegend auf unserem Planeten. Ein Roadtrip zwischen Motels, Nationalparks und schier endlosen Straßen. Motus (ATR Service GmbH, Stuttgart), 2020(1) (Spring/Summer): 40-43. [In German.]
- (transl. 'Take me home, Country Roads. 3,000 miles, 22 days, four states: The Southwest of the United States of America is more diverse than almost any other area on our planet. A road trip between motels, national parks and seemingly endless roads.')
- Itinerary included Grand Canyon South Rim.

Powers, Noah

- 4398 2020 Ruminations at the Grand Canyon. Zephyrus (Western Kentucky University, English Department, Bowling Green, Kentucky), 2020: 47-48.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Ranney, Wayne

- 4399 2020 A 45-year reflection of life and work at Grand Canyon National Park. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 27(1) (Spring/Summer): 30.

Regimbal, Chuck; Regimbal, Betsy; Wible, Patti; AND Ross, Debbie

- 4400 2020 Grand Canyon trip February 2020. The Trailhead News (Backcountry Horsemen of Washington, Ellensburg, Washington), 45(3) (May/June): 14-15.
Mule ride to Phantom Ranch.

Ribun, Inoue [井上 理文]

- 4401 2020 50年前の技術交流海外旅行－1 $ 360円時代の世界一周－ [50-nen mae no gijutsu kōryū gaigairyokō - 1 $ 360-en jidai no sekai isshū -] [Technology Exchange Overseas Travel 50 Years ago—around the world in the era of 360 Yen]. KTC (Kobe University Technology Promotion Club) / 神戸大学工学振興会 一般社団法人 [Kōbudaigaku kōgaku shinkō-kai ippan shadanhōjin], (90) (March 1): 68-72. [In Japanese; with bilingual serial title.]
See under “(9) アメリカへ” [(9) Amerika e] [(9) To the United States]: “③ラスベガス経由グランドキャニオン” [③ Rasubegasu keiyū Gurandokyanion] [③ Grand Canyon via Las Vegas]. Brief remarks on a stop at the South Rim in 1960.

Riesenberg, Mindy

- 4402 2020 (ED.) COA : Grand Canyon Celebration of Art : 2020. (David Jenney, designer.) Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Conservancy, 56 pp.
12th annual Grand Canyon Celebration of Art. Exhibition catalog.

Ripa, River

- 4403 2020 Ongtupqa. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(3) (Fall): 18.
Dated August 2018.

Russell, Renny

- 4404 2020 Rebel of the Colorado : the saga of Harry Leroy Aleson. (Foreword by Roy Webb.) Questa, New Mexico: Animist Press, 285 pp. [Copyright 2019; first available Summer 2020. “Acknowledgments” (p. [xii]) dated “Summer 2020”; and “Afterword” dated 2020. Privately published; hardbound and slipcased editions. 1000 copies.]
Aleson spelled his middle name as both “Leroy” and “LeRoy” (fide Renny Russell, 12 August 2020). It appears both ways in this book.

Schallau, Adam

- 4405 2020 Grand Canyon: Earth and sky : photographs by Adam Schallau. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, 40 pp.

Schindler, Kevin S.

- 4406 2020 In the footsteps of giants; retracing the astronaut training at Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 :

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 182-185.

See also Schindler and Sheehan (2017).

Schlagen, Maik, AND Kalthoff, Christian Schulze

- 4407 2020 Mit totaler Hypophyseninsuffizienz auf achtmonatiger Abenteuerreise. Glandula (Netzwerk Hypophysen- und Nebennierenerkrankungen e.V., Fürth, Germany), (51): 30-32. [In German.] (transl. 'With total pituitary insufficiency on an eight-month adventure trip')

Interview with Schlagen, who began a motorcycle tour down the Pan-American Highway after a pituitary operation that left him with total insufficiency. The tour was interrupted by the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic but he had en route visited Toroweap (no details, but includes a scenic photo [p. 30] with legend [p. 32], "Toroweap am Grand Canyon in den USA").

Shaw, Fred

- 4408 2020 Who designed Hopi House? In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 110-115.

See also Shaw (2019).

Stafford, Cindy

- 4409 2020 Mary Dean Powell at Grand Canyon: No room at the inn? "For arrogance, bad breeding, and ill treatment, my reception at El Tovar beggars description." The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 31(3) (Summer): 4-7.

Focus is on her November 1924 visit to Grand Canyon.

- 4410 2020 Suff's campaign gains steam at El Tovar. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 31(4) (Fall): 3-5.

Women's suffrage cross-country train campaign stopped at Grand Canyon in April, 1916.

Summerfield, Geoffrey

- 4411 2020 A grand obsession. Poems in a Time of Coronavirus (St. Paul's Church, Grove Park, Chiswick, London), (15): 5.

"Grandma" flies to America to see the Grand Canyon. (Serial title refers to the COVID-19 pandemic.)

Summit, Jodi

- 4412 2020 A life changed in a moment; Jason Goulet reflects on 1990 accident that left him paralyzed. The Timberjay (Tower, Minnesota), 31(30) (July 31): 1, 8.

Includes note, in passing, of Goulet's travels on his own, including Grand Canyon. Also shows photo of Goulet at Grand Canyon (apparently Grand Canyon West).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Trost, Tina, AND Sherwood, Lori

- 4413 2020 Stop 5: Page, AZ—September 21-25, 2019. In: 54 days of ramblin' through the Southwest Texas Roses style [FEATURE]. (Feature photos by Jimmie Andrews and Susan Spruce.) RVW Magazine (RVing Women, Apache Junction, Arizona), (March/April): 21-22, and photos p. 24.
- Includes brief notes of Glen Canyon Dam, Colorado River in Glen Canyon, Navajo Bridge, North Rim of Grand Canyon.

Vanderbilt, Tom

- 4414 2020 Ciao, Burmotti. (Photographs by Mattia Balsamini.) Outside, (September/October): 52-59.
- See p. 55, "You may have seen [Vittorio] Brumotti's popular YouTube videos: he pirouettes a bike on the edge of the Grand Canyon . . . ." (Pertains to <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vcjIhn5sVKQ>.)

Zheng, Pinhui, AND Qiu, Jiaqi [鄭品慧; 邱嘉琪]

- 4415 2020 美國南加大海外實習 [Měiguó nán jiā dà hǎiwài shíxí] [U.S. University of Southern California Overseas Internship]. In: 校友小品 [xiàoyǒu xiǎopǐn] [Alumni sketches] [SECTION]. 景福醫訊 [Jǐng fú yī xùn] [Jingfu Medical News] / Jing-Fu Bulletin (台大醫院景福館 [táidà yīyuàn jǐng fú guǎn] [National Taiwan University Hospital, Jingfu Hall], Taipei City), 37(11) (November): 28-34. [In Chinese, with bilingual serial title.]
- See p. 32, brief remarks on a visit to Grand Canyon.

2021

Anonymous

- 4416 2021 Endspurt für „Malerisches Erfurt“. Amtsblatt (Landeshauptstadt Erfurt, Stadtverwaltung, Erfurt, Germany), 2021(14) (August 6): 21. [In German.]
- (transl. 'Final stretch for "Picturesque Erfurt".')
- Regarding the "Picturesque Erfurt" exhibition, on the occasion of the 70th birthday of Jürgen Valdeig, in the city museum. Includes the note, "Das Original der Röbling-Gedenktafel mit einer Ansicht der Brooklyn Bridge 1950 und der Grand Canyon vom Toroweap Point gesehen sind das Zeugnis von Valdeigs USA Ausstellungen und Aktivitäten." (ENTIRE NOTE) (Not illustrated.) (transl. 'The original Röbling mural depicting a view of the Brooklyn Bridge in 1950 and the Grand Canyon seen from Toroweap Point is a testament to Valdeig's USA exhibitions and activities.')

Arnberger, Elvira

- 4417 2021 Elvira Arnberger 2019 oral history. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 32(4) (Fall): 12-14.
- Edited from the full oral history taken in 2019.

Arnold, Mark

- 4418 2021 Goin' back to "The Gap": tales of the Grand Canyon and a hippie youth. [No imprint], 41 pp. [pp. 40-41 enumerated but blank]. [An on-demand publication.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Austin, Noah, AND Burcham, John

- 4419 2021 At the end of their ropes. Children's toys, cameras, cellphones, sunglasses . . . even trash cans and traffic cones are dropped or tossed into the Grand Canyon. There's a lot of rubbish below the rim, but there would be a lot more if it weren't for the Arizona Mountaineering Club, which conducts an annual cleanup. Unfortunately, no matter how much stuff these dedicated volunteers take out, they'll never get to all of it. Arizona Highways, 97(1) (January): 42-45. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

See also letter from Marylee Peterson, 97(3) (March): 4.

Brown, Tom

- 4420 2021 The prodigal has returned! In: Perspectives [COLUMN]. The Messenger (James Island Baptist Church, Charleston, South Carolina), 48(19) (May 11): 2. [Item signed "Pastor Tom".]

Includes brief remarks of visit to Grand Canyon.

Chiarelli, Lidia [Чијарели, Лидија]

- 4421 2021 Големiot Кањон – Небесна Прошетка [Golemiot Kanjon – Nebesna Prošetka] [The Grand Canyon—Heavenly Walk]. (Препев од англиски на македонски: Даниела Андоновска Трајковска [Translated from English to Macedonian: Daniela Andonovska Trajkovska].) In: Лидија Чијарели, Италија [Lidia Chiarelli, Italy] [СЕКЦИОН]. Раст (списание за книжевност, уметност и култура) [Rast (spisanie za kniževnost, umetnost i kultura)] / Growth (Journal of Literature, Art and Culture) (Битолски книжевен круг, Битола [Bitolski kniževen krug, Bitola] / Association of Writers "Bitola Literary Circle", Bitola, Macedonia), (23): 193. [In Macedonian; with bilingual serial title and publisher's information.]

In context, verse is a reflection on a visit to Grand Canyon West and the Grand Canyon Skywalk, although these names are not mentioned specifically; also mentions Colorado River and Hualapai huts.

Collins-Ranadive, Gail

- 4422 2021 Inner Canyon : where deep time meets sacred space. (Foreword by Melissa Giovanni.) [No place]: Little Bound Books (Homebound Publications), 2nd ed., trade paperback, 106 [118] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Di Paolo, Bill

- 4423 2021 My Grand Canyon story. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 28(1) (Spring/Summer): 28.

Dutch, Larry

- 4424 2021 A PSAR poem. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 28(1) (Spring/Summer): 23.

Grand Canyon National Park's Preventive Search and Rescue program.

Haug, Kristin, AND Töpfer, Verena

- 4425 2021 Mittagspause auf dem Mekong : Auswanderer über ihr neues Leben in 22 Ländern. München: Penguin Verlag (Penguin Random House Verlagsgruppe GmbH), 254 [255] pp. [Cover includes the logos of Penguin Verlag and Spiegel Buchverlag.] [In German.]
(transl. 'Lunch break on the Mekong : emigrants on their new life in 22 countries')

See "Hamburg → Las Vegas; Vier Mal am Tag über den Grand Canyon" (transl. 'Hamburg to Las Vegas; four times a day over the Grand Canyon'), pp. 134-137. Regarding Sundance helicopter pilot Ingo Nehls (see also photo on p. [9] of color inserts).

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Hogan, Jen, AND Riesenber, Mindy

- 4426 2021 Grand Canyon National Park employee becomes first non-native woman to solo entire length of Grand Canyon. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 28(2) (Fall/Winter): 24-25.
Interview format. Jen Hogan, Backcountry Ranger, hiked January 7-March 25, 2021.

Hughes, Geoff

- 4427 2021 Erosion. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 28(2) (Fall/Winter): 33.

Jaffe, Matthew [Jaffe, Matt]

- 4428 2021 Head over heels at the Grand Canyon. John Hance, the Kolb brothers, Eric Gueissaz . . . the Grand Canyon has attracted all kinds of characters over the years. This is the story of two more: "White Mountain" and Dama Smith, the stolid-as-a-rock park ranger and his smart, sometimes sassy wife, who fell in love and lived epic lives against the widescreen grandeur of a still-untamed Arizona. Arizona Highways, 97(1) (January): 24-29. [Ellipsis is part of subtitle.]

Keable, Ed [Keable, Edward T.]

- 4429 2021 [Field briefing.] In: Explorations with Ed [SECTION]. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 28(2) (Fall/Winter): 8.
Remarks on a loop hike on South Kaibab Trail, Tonto Trail, Plateau Point Trail, Bright Angel Trail. By the Superintendent of Grand Canyon National Park.
- 4430 2021 [Field briefing.] In: Explorations with Ed [SECTION]. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 28(2) (Fall/Winter): 9.
Remarks on the Little Colorado River confluence. By the Superintendent of Grand Canyon National Park.

Lindsey, Kelsey

- 4431 2021 And old-timers are still blowing our minds. In: Tell Me Something Good [SECTION]. Outside, (April/May): 48.
Brief note of Dale Sanders, 85, completing Grand Canyon rim-to-rim-to-rim hike.

Monast, Jim

- 4432 2021 My favorite national park in the United States; enjoying America's diverse landscapes. Workers' COMPanion (Monast Law Office, Upper Arlington, Ohio), (October): 1.
Grand Canyon. Includes remark on riding "donkeys" into the canyon.

Muller, Seth

- 4433 2021 In the footsteps; thoughts and reflections on backpacking with the family. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (Spring): 29-30.
Grand Canyon.

Murphy, Shane

- 4434 2021 John Hance's visitors' book(s). The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 32(1) (Winter): 13-14.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 4435 2021 Rob Arnberger 2019 oral history. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 32(3) (Summer): 10-13. [This issue mistakenly labeled on masthead (p. 2) as the Spring issue; correct on the cover.]

Noble, Allison, AND Burcham, John

- 4436 2021 Rarefied air. Arizona Highways, 97(1) (January): 18-23.
Brothers Pernell and Aaron Tomasi have climbed Grand Canyon summits since 1994; Pernell thus far 137.

Petersen, Alan

- 4437 2021 "Painter of the National Parks," 1925-1927. The Gunnar Widforss Catalogue Raisonné Project, [8]: [1]-[4] (entire issue).

An excerpt from a chapter in a "forthcoming monograph on Gunnar Widforss."

Quatro, Jamie, AND Johnson, Kyle RM

- 4438 2021 The depth of life. It's one of America's most iconic sites, yet few visitors ever descend into the mile-deep heart of the Grand Canyon. On an intense three-day hike, Jamie Quatro heads below the rim of this extraordinary natural wonder to reconnect with her brother—and push her mind and body to their limits. (Photographs by Kyle RM Johnson.) Travel and Leisure, 51(1) (January): cover, 8, 62-73.

Rim-to-rim, South to North.

Radinger, Elli H.

- 4439 2021 Das Geschenk der Wildnis : Freiheit, Gelassenheit, Mut, Dankbarkeit—Wie die Natur jedem das gibt, was er braucht. München: Wilhelm Heyne Verlag, 272 pp. [In German.]
(transl. 'The gift of the wild : freedom, serenity, courage, gratitude—how nature gives everyone what they need')

See "Stille Tage im Grand Canyon" (transl. 'Quiet days in the Grand Canyon'), pp. 151-172; with photos, pp. 148-150, and two color plates in the third color plate section between pp. 240/241.

- 4440 2021 Darilo divjine : svoboda, sproščenost, pogum, hvaležnost—narava vsakomur daje tisto, kar potrebuje. (Petra Piber, translator). Ljubljana, Slovenia: Mladinska knjiga, 272 pp. [In Slovenian.]

Translation of Radinger (2021, Das Geschenk der Wildnis).

Schallau, Adam

- 4441 2021 Grand Canyon: Earth and sky; a portfolio. Arizona Highways, 97(1) (January): cover, 1, 30-41.

Shiraichi, Kaoru [白一詔薫]

- 4442 2021 [Personal remarks.] In: 営農部 米麦言果 [Einō-bu beibaku gen hate] [Rice and Wheat Farming Department]. JAいしかり [JA Jeieiishikari] [JA Ishikari] (Japan) (Home ed.), 2021 (2/3) (February/March): 6-7. [In Japanese.]

Includes photo at Grand Canyon; no text mention.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Tierney, Veronica [Tierney, V. Ronnie]

- 4443 2021 Former wrangler shares Grand Canyon life through art; drawn to the Colorado River, Mary Lois Brown has lived a colorful life as a mule wrangler, camp cook and, now, artist. In: Community Profile [SECTION]. Flagstaff Business News (Flagstaff, Arizona), 14(1) (January): 19, 27.
- 4444 2021 Brenda Halvorson soars with the Papillon Group; helicopter company CEO has spent a lifetime enjoying the Grand Canyon from top to bottom. In: FBN Business Woman of the Month [SECTION]. Flagstaff Business News (Flagstaff, Arizona), 14(5) (May): 10.

Whitmore, John

- 4445 2021 Transformational road trip; the Grand Canyon. Cedarville Magazine (Cedarville University, Cedarville, Ohio), 9(2): 10-11.
- Inspirational message with suggested Bible readings on a Grand Canyon hike. Creationist perspective.

2022

Anderson, Corina

- 4446 2022 A Phantom Ranch love story. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 33(2) (Spring): 7.
- Ethan and Corina Anderson.

Casimiro, Stephen

- 4447 2022 High traverse: Chiura Obata erased cultural boundaries and redefined the landscape of art in the Sierra Nevada. Adventure Journal (Monarch Beach, California), (24) (Spring): 94-103. [See p. 103, "Grand Canyon, 1940; watercolor on silk, 17.5 x 21.75 inches." No separate text mention.]

Cockrum, Dan

- 4448 2022 Building the transcanyon waterline (with notes on the December, 1966 flood). The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 33(2) (Spring): 8-12.
- Cockrum, former project engineer; first-hand recollections.

Kabotie, Ed

- 4449 2022 Confluence; by Ed Kabotie, Tewa/Hopi, 2021. In: Riggs, Sarana, Lifeways of the Little Colorado River. Colorado Plateau Advocate, (Spring/Summer): 25.
- Small reproduction of impressionist painting, pertaining to the confluence of the Little Colorado River.
- 4450 2022 Midnight challenge; by Ed Kabotie, Tewa/Hopi, 2021. In: Riggs, Sarana, Lifeways of the Little Colorado River. Colorado Plateau Advocate, (Spring/Summer): 28.
- Small reproduction of painting that includes Desert View Watchtower.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Kida, Jeff

- 4451 2022 (ED.) Natural wonders are big in Arizona. Especially the Grand Canyon, which is 277 miles long, a mile deep and up to 18 miles wide. It's so big it can create its own weather, and it can be seen from outer space. A portfolio. Arizona Highways, 98(1) (January): 20-35.

In this Grand Canyon themed issue all views are of the Grand Canyon.

Stroeer, Suzanne "Sunny", AND Rudow, Rich

- 4452 2022 Trapped in a fractal. Hiking the Tuckup Trail isn't easy—there's no definitive route, the high-desert vegetation is inhospitable, and there's a maze of side canyons and arroyos to navigate and overcome. Hikers who have done it say it's "like being trapped in a fractal." Our writer would agree. Arizona Highways, 89(3) (March): 44-47.

Thompson, Susan

- 4453 2022 Grand Canyon trip highlights friendships, fitness and fun. Lake Panorama Times (Johnston, Iowa), 53(1) (January): 1, 4.

About a group hike by "seven area women" down Bright Angel Trail. The author was not one of the group.

Tierney, Veronica [Tierney, V. Ronnie]

- 4454 2022 Architect Mary Colter's legacy captured in stone; Grand Canyon buildings continue to inspire one hundred years later. Flagstaff Business News, 15(4) (April): 14, 42.

Tillilie, Stacy

- 4455 2022 Prized images; the winning images of the 2021 AAA World Photo Contest take us on a trip through worlds of wonder. AAA World (American Automobile Association Mid-Atlantic, Inc., Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey regions), 24(2) (March/April): 26-29.

See p. 27, "First Runner-Up. Photographer: Al Juliano"; sunrise photo of Grand Canyon at Toroweap.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Date Undetermined

Items that are undated, but for which the years have been determined, have been listed in this bibliography under those years.

[Adams, Ansel]

- 4456 NO DATE National Park Service photographs : the large HD photographs with annotations. [No imprint], [232] pp. [An on-demand publication.] [Volume acquired new in October 2021.]

Includes Boulder Dam and Grand Canyon. A modern piracy. Title from the cover; no title-page, no title on spine. Volume comprises black-and-white photos with captions; no photographer's credit, nor any information regarding context or provenance. Author indicated on Amazon web page as "Sherita Purviance" (who may have produced this volume). Cover depicts a stock color photo with graphical art superimposed. Pages seemingly with captions and no photos are only poorly designed "chapter" headings. Description from the Amazon.com posting (October 2021): "This book is a collection of the author's photos taken for the National Park Service. In 1941, the author was employed by the U.S. Department of the interior [sic] to photograph the National Parks in the Western United States. The photographs would be part of a 'Mural Project' for the Interior Department's new museum in Washington, D.C. The Interior's mural project would allow him to travel and photograph the National Parks[.]" The Interior Department's mural program was, as is well known, the work of Ansel Adams.

Agawa, Mikiya [田川未来也]

- 4457 NO DATE あの日のあの川 リレー日記 ～第 34 話～ [no Ni Tsu no ano kawa rirē nikki ~dai 34-wa~] [That River, That Day Relay Diary—Episode 34]. 第 34 話主人公 田川未来也 (筑波大学 社会・国際学群 国際総合学類 4 年 白川 (直) 研究室『川と人』ゼミ) (□川ガール・■川系男子) (出身地を流れる川: 群馬県 利根川水系 鑄川)「絶景に魅せられて」。いつのこと?: 小学校 5 年。どこの川?: コロラド川 (アメリカ合衆国)。 [Episode 34, Mikiya Agawa, speaker (Tsukuba University, Social and International Studies, 4th year, Faculty of International Studies, 4th grade, Nao Ogawa Laboratory "River and People" Seminar) (River flowing through birthplace: Tone River, Kabura River, Tsukuba Prefecture). "I was fascinated by the superb view". When?: 5th year of elementary school. Which river?: Colorado River (United States).] JRRN 会員寄稿 (1) / JRRN Member Contribution (日本河川・流域再生ネットワーク (JRRN) [Japan River / Basin Regeneration Network (JRRN)]), (December): 1-2. [Year not indicated; photo on p. 1 is dated 2006.] [In Japanese, with bilingual series title.]

Photo of Grand Canyon on p. 1; p. 2 includes a photo of Horseshoe Bend.] [The theme of the "That River, That Day Relay Diary" is noted as: "みなさんはどこの川でどんなことをした記憶がありますか? 幼少期や青春時代に体験した川での記憶を日記として掘り起こして語るコーナーです。リレー形式で毎回次の人にバトンをつなぎます。" [What river do you remember? This is a corner where you can dig up and talk about the memories of the river that you experienced in your childhood and youth, as a diary. The baton is passed to the next person each time, in a relay format.]

Annerino, John

- 4458 _____ The ladies who walked through time. Westward (Prescott Courier), 6 (November 30): 6-7+. [Year of publication not ascertained; cited from a separate.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Arizona Public Service

- 4459 NO DATE Hiding a line in the Grand Canyon. Phoenix: Arizona Public Service, 16-mm film, color, sound. 26:00. [Electric power line.]

Behn, Giles

- 4460 NO DATE The Grand Canyon : an ode. [No imprint], 9 pp. [150 copies printed.]

Bouman, Hans, AND Kers, Martin

- 4461 _____ In het spoor van Lucky Luke en Clint Eastwood. Djoser Magazine (Leiden), _____ : 2-4. [In Dutch.] [Ca. 2013-2016?; cited from an imperfect copy.]
(transl. 'On the trail of Lucky Luke and Clint Eastwood.')

Southwest trip, including Grand Canyon.

Clingman, Loy

- 4462 \_\_\_\_\_ Loy Clingman's Grand Canyon country sweet and sour. Phoenix: Rimrock Records, 33 $\frac{1}{3}$  rpm record. DML 501. (Copyright Debra Music Corp.)

- 4463 _____ From the rim to the river : Loy Clingman sings original Grand Canyon songs. Phoenix: Viv Records, Inc., 45 rpm record. E.P. 2002.

Cobb, Irvin S.

- 4464 NO DATE Irvin S. Cobb's description of Grand Canyon. Desert Rat Scrap Book, 3(3) [Pouch Three: Packet Three, Moonlight on the Colorado Packet]. [Ca. 1950.]

Refer to Cobb (1913).

Deth Boat [musical group]

- 4465 _____ The mysterious turkey curse. Deth Boat (Artwork by Dan Hanchrow). ("3 CDs, 21 years in production, 51 unreleased studio and live tracks", etc.

Multimedia Deth Boat retrospective. Deth Boat artists Jason Candler, Dan Hanchrow, George Rigney. Listen to Disk 3, "Fold, Spindle, Mutilate", which includes Donkey ride down the Grand Canyon (audio recording, 1994, A side.) Refer also to Deth Boat (1994).

Fred Harvey [firm]

NOTE: Some of the citations for photoview booklets could be based on imperfect copies; some citations could actually be duplicates of others.

- 4466 NO DATE Selected views of the Grand Canyon, done in hand color. Grand Canyon, Arizona: [Fred Harvey] El Tovar Art Rooms, 12 plates, string-tied.

- 4467 NO DATE The Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: [Fred Harvey] El Tovar Studio, 15 hand-colored plates, string-tied.

- 4468 NO DATE The Grand Canyon of Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Fred Harvey, 17 pp.

- 4469 NO DATE Grand Canyon from Hermit Rim Road. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: [Fred Harvey] El Tovar Studio, 12 sepia-tone photographs, string-tied. [Ca. 1905-1920.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 4470 NO DATE The Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: Fred Harvey, 13 hand-colored photos, string-tied. [Ca. 1908.]
- 4471 NO DATE The Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: Fred Harvey, 15 hand-colored photos, string-tied. [Ca. 1908.]
- 4472 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park in photogravure. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: [Fred Harvey] El Tovar Studio, 13 pp. (including 12 sepia plates), string-tied. [Undated and dated eds., ca. 1910-1920s.] [Various formats, edition dates, and number and arrangement of plates.]
- 4473 NO DATE The Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: El Tovar Studio, 18 colored views, cover with additional colored view, string-tied. [1911.]
- Date identified in Library of Congress, Copyright Office, Catalogue of copyright entries, Part 1: Books, Group 2, new series, volume 8, for the year 1911 (Washington, D.C., 1911), p. 535: "Hand colored view, Grand Canyon of Arizona. Grand Canyon, Ariz., El Tovar studio [1911] cover-title, 18 mounted col. prints obl. 4to. $5.00 [11952] © Apr. 15, 1911 . . . Fred Harvey, Kansas City, Mo." (square brackets are part of quote).
- 4474 NO DATE The Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: El Tovar Studio, 14 colored views, cover with additional colored view, string-tied. [Ca. 1920.]
- 4475 NO DATE The Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: El Tovar Studio, 13 colored views, cover with additional colored view, string-tied. [Ca. 1920.]
- 4476 NO DATE Grand Canyon of Arizona in photogravure. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: El Tovar Studio, 29 monotone photos. [1920s.]
- 4477 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Fred Harvey, 24 plates on heavy stock. [Five Quail Books, Catalogue Four, queries date as "1920s?".]
- 4478 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: [Fred Harvey] El Tovar Studio, 12 hand-colored photos. [Ca. 1920s.]
- 4479 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park in photogravure. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Fred Harvey, El Tovar Studios, 24 black-and-white prints. [Ca. 1922.]
- 4480 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park in photogravure. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Fred Harvey, El Tovar Studios, 24 black-and-white prints. [Ca. 1920-1925.] [Two views are hand-tinted.]
- 4481 NO DATE Grand Canyon of Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: [Fred Harvey] El Tovar Studio, 12 hand-colored photographs, string-tied. [One copy seen had been purchased at Grand Canyon in August, 1926.]
- 4482 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Fred Harvey, 25 black-and-white photos. [Ca. 1930.]
- 4483 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Fred Harvey, 24 black-and-white prints. [Ca. 1935.]
- 4484 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: El Tovar Studio, 24 black-and-white photos. [Ca. 1935-1940.]
- 4485 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. [No imprint], 24 black & white plates. [Copy seen was hand-dated July, 1937.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

- 4486 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park and other Arizona scenes (arranged by Fred Harvey). Chicago: Curt Teich and Co., Inc., [40] pp. [1940s?]
- 4487 NO DATE The Watchtower guide. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: Fred Harvey, An Amfac Resort. [Fold-out sheet.] [Ca. 1980s.]
- 4488 NO DATE The Watchtower guide : Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. [Grand Canyon, Arizona]: Fred Harvey Trading Company, 8 pp. on large fold-out sheet.

Gates Tours

- 4489 NO DATE What the tourists say about the Grand Canyon of Arizona. (Photos by Henry G. Peabody, 1899.) Gates Tours. [Apparently various eds.: ca. 1902-1904?, 13 pp.; ca. 1910, 16 pp.]

Grofé, Ferde

- 4490 NO DATE Grand Canyon Suite. 1. Sunrise : 2. Painted Desert : 3. On the Trail : 4. Sunset : 5. Cloudburst. Miniature score. Van Nuys, California: Alfred Publishing Co., Inc., 170 pp. (TBO0040.) [Complete orchestral score in small format.]

Hall, Sharlot M.

- 4491 NO DATE A Christmas at the Grand Canyon. (Illustrations by Homer H. Boelter.) [No imprint], [12] pp. Oversize edition; a reprint of Hall (1907, Out West). Front wrap reads, "Christmas Greetings" and "Homer H. Boelter Lithography". Apparently a gift edition. The Boelter firm was active in the mid-20th century in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Johnnie Balmer and the Grand Canyon Boys

- 4492 NO DATE Grand Canyon rag. Phoenix: The Old Timer Record Co. 78 rpm record. (8003-A.) Banjo instrumental.

Long, William Simon

- 4493 NO DATE Doubling the North American isle : a review of Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, British America, the Pacific slope, and ancient Quivera, with a graphic description of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Camden, New Jersey: The Long Art Studios, 53 pp.

WorldCat notes: "Later than 1912 [cf p. 20] but earlier than 1915 [cf p. 25]." Mounted illustrations. See p. 33; and "The Great Grand Canyon", pp. 34-40; "The Need of an Airship Line", p. 36; "The Chasm by Day", p. 37; "The Earth's Greatest Gash", pp. 37-38; "The Midnight Battle in the Depths", pp. 38-39; "Down the Bright Angel Trail", pp. 39-40; "Arizona View of the Grand Cañons and Mount San Francisco", between pp. 40-41.

Parker, O. K.

- 4494 NO DATE Through the Grand Canyon. Waltham, Massachusetts: Metz Co., [30] pp. (Arranged and printed by Perry and Searle Co., Lynne and Boston, Massachusetts.)

In 1914, Metz automobile is driven to South Rim then to Peach Springs and the Colorado River at Diamond Creek. See also Parker under 1914 herein.

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

Phoenix Recording Service

- 4495 NO DATE Grand Canyon Indian dancers. Phoenix: Phoenix Recording Service, 45-rpm record. (Distributed by Bright Angel Curio Shop [Fred Harvey, Grand Canyon].)

Redewill, E. R.

- 4496 NO DATE Grand Canyon of Arizona Waltz. Redewill Music Co.

Seen as a Supertone Player Music Roll, for player pianos (sold exclusively by Sears Roebuck and Co., Supertone no. 20005), tempo 60 (4:16). The Grand Canyon of Arizona Waltz was available on piano rolls before 1914, and was available also through other piano-roll manufacturers, including the Atlas Player Roll Co. and the Universal Music Co. (as noted in advertisements of the 1910s and 1920s). The timing cited here for the Supertone roll was as determined by Tom Dimock (brother of Brad Dimock, who is mentioned elsewhere herein) when he played this roll from Spamer's collection, for which he provided a recording to CD in 2000.

Redl, U.

- 4497 NO DATE Un amigo a mi lado. In: Experiencias con Maitreya [SECTION]. Emerger Mundial (Share Ediciones, Barcelona), (50): 2. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'A friend by my side'. In 'Experiences with Maitreya' section.)

Letter signed "U.R.", but an online posting by Share Internacional provides the writer's surname. The writer reports an experience in Grand Canyon of the spiritual presence of Maitreya, a future Buddha.

Sparke, Philip

- 4498 _____ Sunrise at Angel's Gate : for concert band. Hagendorn: De Haske. [Score.]

Date not determined. Composer's notes for "Sunrise at Angel's Gate" also seen in: Olivet Nazarene University, Department of Music, Concert Band, Dr. Neal McMullian, conductor : Wind Symphony, Prof. Ryan Schultz, conductor : 7:00 p.m., Tuesday, April 19, 2011, Kresge Auditorium, Larsen Fine Arts Center. [Bourbonnais, Illinois]: Olivet Nazarene University, Department of Music, [8] pp. [including wraps]. This piece "was commissioned by Colonel Finley Hamilton, conductor of the United States Army Field Band, and first performed by them in March 2001."

Strange, Richard

- 4499 NO DATE (PHOTOGRAPHER) Grand Canyon National Park. [No imprint], 32 pp. (Distributed by Mostly Postcards, Inc., Scottsdale, Arizona; printed by Dynacolor Graphics, Inc., Miami, Florida.) [2007 or earlier.]

Stücke, Heinz

- 4500 NO DATE Ĉirkaŭ la mondo per biciklo. [No imprint], 14 pp. [In Esperanto.]
(transl. 'Around the world by bicycle')

Grand Canyon, in passing, p. 14.

Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc.; AND Hopper Paper Co.

- 4501 NO DATE America the beautiful : a series of 14 lithographic reproductions from direct color photography. Kansas City, Missouri: Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and Taylorville, Illinois: Hopper Paper Co. [Early 1940s.]

The Grand Canyon!

II. To, Into, and Expressing the Canyon

University of New Mexico Art Museum

4502 NO DATE Grand Canyon Trilogy. Albuquerque: University of New Mexico Art Museum, Jonson Gallery, folded pamphlet.

Introduction to exhibition of paintings by modernist landscape artist Raymond Jonson (1891-1982).

Verkamp's [firm]

4503 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Verkamp's, [30] pp., string tied. [1930s?]

4504 NO DATE Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Verkamp's, [32] pp., string tied.

---

and the Fore day Gorge Strole Was Wash of from the raft and down that left me alone i thought that it Wold be my time next i then pool off my boos and pands i then tide a rope to my Wase i Wend over falls From 10 to 15 feet hie my raft Wold tip over three and fore time a day

— James White, 1867

On our best maps much of [the Colorado River's] route is still a blank space; but a scientific party, mostly young men from Illinois, headed by professor Powell, is now on an exploring expedition, partly to enlarge their knowledge and recruit their health, but mainly to solve the mystery of the Upper Colorado and its wonderful canyon, by attempting to pass through it in boats or rafts—a passage which has as yet only been successfully accomplished by one man, whose adventures in the gorge form one of the most fascinating stories of peril and hair-breadth escapes we ever remember reading.

— Anonymous, 1869

The trip went “too smoothly”

— attributed to Georgie White by Anonymous, 1955

The Grand Canyon!

PART III

DOWN (AND UP) THE COLORADO

A KEY TO MARGINAL SYMBOLS
APPEARS ON PAGE 15

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1861

Burton, Richard F.

- 4505 1861 The City of the Saints, and across the Rocky Mountains to California. London: Longman, Green, Longman, and Roberts, 707 [708] pp. [Also reprinted by Harper and Brothers (New York, 1862).]

Cited here for its imaginative, early perspective. See p. 212, regarding the Green River:

"Its length, volume, and direction entitle it to the honour of being called the head water of the Great Rio Colorado, or Coloured River, a larger and more important stream than even the Columbia. There is some grand exploration still to be done upon the line of the Upper Colorado, especially the divides which lie between it and its various influents, the Grand River and the Yaquisilla [Little Colorado River], of which the wild trapper brings home many a marvellous tale of beauty and grandeur. Capt. T. A. Gove, of the 10th Reg. of Infantry, then stationed at Camp Floyd [Cedar Valley, Utah], told me that an expedition had often been projected: a party of twenty-five to thirty men, well armed and provided with inflatable boats, might pass without unwarrantable risk through the sparsely populated Indian country: a true report concerning regions of which there are so many false reports, all wearing more or less the garb of fable—beautiful valleys inclosed in inaccessible rocks, Indian cities and golden treasures—would be equally interesting and important."

See also pp. 171-172, footnote: "The cañon—Americanised to kanyon—signifies, primarily, a cannon or gun barrel, secondarily, a tube, shaft of a mine or a ravine of peculiar form, common in this part of America. The word is loosely applied by the Western men, but properly, it means those gorges through a line of mountains, whose walls are high and steep, even to a tunnel-like overhanging, whilst their soles which afford passages to streams are almost flat. In northern Mexico [still from the perspective prior to the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, 1848] the kanyon becomes of stupendous dimensions; it is sometimes a crack in the plains 2000 feet deep, exposing all the layers that clothe earth's core, with a stream at the bottom, in sight, but impossible for the traveller dying of thirst to drink at."

1870

Findlay, Alexander George

- 4506 1870 A directory for the navigation of the North Pacific Ocean : with descriptions of its coasts, islands, etc., from Panama to Behring Strait and Japan, its winds, currents, and passages. Second edition. London: for Richard Holmes Laurie, 1,007 [1,008] pp. [Cover title: North Pacific Directory.]

See "The Rio Colorado", pp. 131-133. Includes note of "that most wonderful natural phenomenon—the Grand Cañon", which is "quite useless to man" (apparently taking Joseph C. Ives at his word); with a footnote mentioning the James White affair.

1872

Beaman, E. O.

- 4507 1872 The Colorado exploring expedition. Anthony's Photographic Bulletin, 3(2) (February): 463-465.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

- 4508 1872 A tour through the Grand Canon of the Colorado. Anthony's Photographic Bulletin, 3(10) (October): 703-705.

Credited to New York Sun but no author credit line.

1876

Daly, Charles Patrick

- 4509 1876 Professor Powell's explorations. American Geographical Society, Journal, 8: 58-59.
- 4510 1876 Lieut. Wheeler's expedition. Geographical Society of New York, Journal, 6: 59-61.
- 4511 1876 Annual address; the geographical work of the world in 1874. Geographical Society of New York, Journal, 7: 53-92.

See "Professor Powell's explorations", p. 65.

1877

Moss, John

- 4512 1877 Through the Grand Canyon on a raft. Weekly Arizona Miner (Prescott, Arizona), (Supplement), 14(18) (April 20): [1], (May 4):.

With editor's introductory paragraph, followed by a first-person retelling of a solo raft trip in Summer 1861 through Grand Canyon, in four days to Fort Mohave on the lower Colorado River. Although written in the first person, it begins with a parenthetical "(said Captain Moss to his listener)". Fiction, of course, but listed here inasmuch as are also all accounts of James White's descent of the river in 1867.

1883

Nonnac [pseudonym]

- 4513 1883 [Letter.] Deseret News, (June 20): 5 [issue pagination].

Correspondence dated Denver, Colorado, June 7, 1883. The Grand Canyon of the Arkansas River "produces a sensation more thrilling than anything it has been my lot heretofore to experience, (when, except a passage I once made through the Grand Canyon of the Colorado some years since, in an old scow, in company with six others, over numerous rapids, fearing our frail tub-like boat, would be dashed to pieces every few minutes, while the precipitous mountains towering up on either side, thousands of feet, the holes in the rocks studded with flowers of varied hues and in great variety and profusion, and that early in January)." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Uncorroborated, geographically confused, or entirely made up; but cited here for the record.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1885

Peck, J. K.

- 4514 1885 The Seven Wonders of the New World. In one volume. New York: Hunt and Eaton, and Cincinnati, Ohio: Cranston and Stowe, 320 pp.

See Chapter 4 (pp. 158-202), "The Cañons and Gardens of the Gods, Colorado." Despite the wording, this comprises a retelling of the Powell expedition on the Colorado River, with embellishment and some geographic confusion. See also in Preface, pp. 5-6, the tease, "I can show you where a man was saved from a fall of a thousand feet by clinging to a pair of pants that had been swung to him by a companion, who claimed his garments afterward."

1890

Finck, Henry T.

- 4515 1890 Pacific coast scenic tour : from southern California to Alaska, the Canadian Pacific Railway, Yellowstone Park and the Grand Cañon. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 309 pp. [Also reprinted 1891, 1907.]

See Chapter 18, "The Grand Cañon of the Colorado" (pp. 294-305), which mostly reprints, with slight editing, his experience visiting the canyon at Peach Springs (about which see Finck, 1887). (Six years later, Finck also visited the canyon at Hance's, about which see Finck, 1893.)

1894

Himoe, H. C.

- 4516 1894 Atlantic and Pacific Surgical Association. In: Notes of Societies [SECTION]. The Railway Surgeon (National Association of Railway Surgeons, Chicago), 1(7) (August 28): 163.

Regular quarterly meeting held in Williams, Arizona. "On August 2 the members and their ladies left by stage trip to the Grand Canon of the Colorado, seventy miles distant." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1898

Anonymous

- 4517 1898 [Note on J. F. Stone and F. S. Knox, "two months' vacation spent in the Grand Canon of the Colorado."] In: On the Wing [SECTION]. The Black Diamond (Coal Dealers' Association of Illinois and Wisconsin, [etc.], Chicago and New York), 21(24) (December 10): 660.

Julius F. Stone. Actually pertains to Stone's trip as an investor in the Hoskaninni Mining Company in Glen Canyon, though no mention is made of this, nor of mining activities. Does not mention the Colorado River, and implies that this was a two-month river trip through Grand Canyon:

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

"These gentlemen reported having had a most wonderful trip through the canon and are the fourth party that were ever successful in making the entire trip."

Also notes, "Both of the gentlemen secured a great number of views in the Canon, and no doubt they will be able to exhibit to their friends in the near future some of the most wonderful photographs ever procured in the Grand Canon of the Colorado."

1899

Anonymous

4518 1899 [Summary of lecture by Julius F. Stone, February 14.] In: On the Wing [SECTION]. The Black Diamond (Chicago), 22(7) (February 18): 184.

See also correction, 22(8) (February 25): 21: ". . . Grand Canyon of the Colorado river, Colorado, should have read Arizona . . . ."

4519 1899 Lectures at the American Museum of Natural History, New York. Science, New Series, 10(257) (December 1): 821.

Includes a series of five "Columbia University lectures given in coöperation with the Museum, by G. W. James [George Wharton James]", which include: "Dec. 2d.—Down the Canyons of the Colorado with Major Powell.

1900

Anonymous

4520 1900 Proceedings of the American Microscopical Society; minutes of the Annual Meeting held at Columbus, O., Aug. 17, 18 and 19, 1899. American Microscopical Society, Transactions, 21 (May): 257-.

See under "Friday, August 18":

"In the evening an informal reception was tendered the members of the Society and their ladies by Mr. J. F. Stone at his residence on East Broad Street. Mr. Stone described his trip down the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and exhibited a series of lantern slides made from the magnificent views taken en voyage. The general and spontaneous expression of pleasure and of indebtedness to their host showed the high appreciation in which members of the Society held the courtesies which had been extended to them on this occasion. The Secretary presented to Mr. Stone with the compliments of the Society a copy of the last annual volume of the Transactions as a token of the thanks of all for his general hospitality." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The trip must have been Julius F. Stone's trip through Glen Canyon, as his Grand Canyon trip did not take place until 1909. The notation of "Grand Canyon" is likely a misconception by the society's secretary or the journal's editor.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1901

Rust, David D.

4521 1901 Boating on the Colorado. Improvement Era, 4(7) (May): 507-512.

Principally an overview of river runners, river running, and boats in general, treating "the Colorado" as that river from Glen Canyon through Grand Canyon. He takes specific note of four expeditions to date, those of Powell, Stanton, Flavell, and Galloway, but adds a couple of anecdotes about visitors to Lees Ferry running through the Paria raffle. He ends with a Mormon-influenced reflection:

"A trip on the river is a most valuable course of training. Although no formal studies in morality are given, still the sermons that may be read in the great temples of stone, are redolent of moral influence. The dangers of life on the river tend to sharpen the mind and give to even the mediocre a resolute will and a conquering determination."

1907

Anonymous

4522 1907 "Coburn of Kansas." Farm Implements (Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota), 21(8) (August 26): 59.

"We do not usually think of official reports as works of genius or even of talent. ••• However, there are exceptions. Major Powell's official report of the first voyage through the Grand [C]anyon of the Colorado is one. But that was essentially an adventure tale well told, and owing its interest to its revelation of things unknown before and to the perils which the voyagers endured." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The other exception, the actual subject of this particular item, are the biennial reports from secretary F. D. Coburn, Kansas State Board of Agriculture. Credited to Chicago Inter Ocean.

Hendrix, E. R.

4523 1907 In "God's reservation". Christian Advocate (Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Nashville, Tennessee), 68(33)(3480): 1030-1031 (also paginated concurrently for issue, 6-7).

Begins with remarks on the Petrified Forest, but is principally about Grand Canyon. Includes the notable statement (p. 1031/7) (among other misstatements):

"It is not strange, then, that men should be afraid of these awful depths, which dispute any one's right to enter them. Only two successful expeditions have ever been made the entire length of the canyon, and even the leaders of these, Major Powell and Mr. Stanton, were once and again dragged by their men from the water after losing consciousness."

1908

Allen, David

4524 1908 A daring voyage down the Grand Canyon. Wide World Magazine (London), 22 (October): 65-72.

Russell-Monett trip on the Colorado River.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1909

Willey, Day Allen

- 4525 1909 Through Grand Cañon in a sixteen-foot boat. Recreation, 29(2): 77-78.
Russell-Monett trip on the Colorado River.

1913

Anonymous

- 4526 1913 The Kolb voyage through the Grand Canyon. In: Eighteenth annual report, 1913, of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society to the Legislature of the State of New York; transmitted to the Legislature April 15, 1913. New York Assembly, Documents, 33(59): 88-89.
- Summary of the lecture presented to the society by Emery C. Kolb, January 15, 1913, at Delmonico's, New York City.
- 4527 1913 National Geographic Society. National Geographic Magazine, 24(12) (December): 1360.
- Program of meetings of the society for 1913-1914. "All these lectures, with one or two exceptions, will be published in early numbers of the National Geographic Magazine." Includes: "November 21.—'The Grand Canyon.' By Emery C. Kolb. Mr. Kolb and his brother made an adventurous trip through the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in a small boat, accompanied by a moving-picture machine. This trip was difficult and dangerous in the extreme." (ENTIRE NOTE) The lecture was published by Ellsworth and Emery C. Kolb (1914), Experiences in the Grand Canyon, National Geographic Magazine, 26(2) (August): 99-184.
- 4528 1913 [Emery Kolb film presentation at Tremont Temple, Boston.] In: Correspondence [SECTION], "New England and Canada" [SUBSECTION]. Moving Picture World (New York), 18(11) (December 13): 1294.

Kolb, Ellsworth L., AND Kolb, Emery C.

- 4529 1913 The picture story of a great adventure story. Through the almost impassable rapids of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River. ("Photographs copyrighted by the Kolb Brothers, the Two Adventurers".) American Magazine (New York), 76 (July): 59-66; (August): 58-63.
- In table of contents in July issue the second author's name misspelled "Emory"; correctly spelled in text.

1914

Anonymous

- 4530 1914 [Emery C. Kolb lecture.] In: Scientific Notes and News [SECTION]. Science, New Series, 39(992) (January 2): 19.
- "Mr. Emery C. Kolb, of Grand Canyon, Arizona, gave a lecture, illustrated with colored slides and motion pictures, before the Geographic Society of Chicago on December 19, [1913], the title being 'Photographic Exploration of the Canyons of the Colorado River.'" (ENTIRE ITEM)

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

4531 1914 [Emery C. Kolb presentation of film, "The Canyons of Colorado" [sic] in Buffalo, New York.] Moving Picture World (New York), 19(7) (February 14): 854.

4532 1914 B. of C. to give lecture course of six numbers; entertainment announces star program; only 1200 can purchase tickets. The Detroitier (Detroit Board of Commerce), 6(3) (October 19): 1-2.

See p. 1: "Nov. 7—'Shooting the Rapids of the Grand Canyon of Arizona.' KOLB BROTHERS. Lecture by EMERY C. KOLB."; and synopsis, p. 2.

4533 1914 Champ Clark is next on B. of C. lecture course. The Detroitier (Detroit Board of Commerce), 6(7) (November 16): 2.

Item includes note, "One number of the Board of Commerce lecture course has come and gone and it was a pronounced success, over one thousand, members of the board and their families, being on hand to hear Emery Kolb tell of his wonderful trip through the Grand Canyon." (ENTIRE NOTE; punctuation thus)

Kolb, Ellsworth L.

4534 1914 Through the Grand Canyon from Wyoming to Mexico. (Foreword by Owen Wister; "Photographs by the Author and his brother".) New York: Macmillan Co., xix [xxii], 344 pp., 48 plates. [Photographs by Ellsworth L. Kolb and Emery C. Kolb.] [October, first state.] [Some early printings of Kolb were distributed by the publisher in boxes.]

Only this edition and state are cited in this bibliography. Through the Grand Canyon has been reprinted nearly continuously since 1914, under various imprints, and is still in print, most lately through the Grand Canyon Conservancy. Richard D. Quartaroli has made a detailed study of these issues, which appears as Appendix II in THE GRAND CANON Volume 1; he lists the Macmillan and later imprints as Variants A–FF. In addition, each variant is cited separately in Part 2 of THE GRAND CANON Volume 1, where also are cited a variety of on-demand reprintings that are not considered in Quartaroli's study. The Macmillan variants of this publication, 1914-1971, hold the second-longest documented record of a Grand Canyon–Colorado River title continuously in print, appearing in 27 editions/printings under the Macmillan imprint (Quartaroli variants A–AA), 57 years. Because it is not clear how long Macmillan sold copies itself (in later years Emery Kolb was essentially the principal outlet for sales, at Grand Canyon), it was likely continuously available for 62 years, until Emery's death in 1976. The disposition of remaining copies in Kolb's possession upon his death is not known, and it is not clear that the work was available from Macmillan thereafter (fide Richard D. Quartaroli).

Kolb, Ellsworth L., AND Kolb, Emery C.

4535 1914 Experiences in the Grand Canyon. National Geographic Magazine, 26(2) (August): 99-184.

1915

Anonymous

4536 1915 The Catholic Woman's League. In: Directory and register of Women's Clubs : City of Chicago and vicinity, 1915. [Chicago]: Linden Brothers and Harry H. De Clerque.

See p. 26, "October 31, 1914—Dept. of Home. Stereopticon Lecture, 'The Grand Canyon of Arizona,' Mr. Emory [sic] C. Kolb." (ENTIRE NOTE) Emery C. Kolb.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1916

Anonymous

- 4537 1916 The Kolb Brothers. The Grand Cañon. Washington University Medical School Auditorium, 8 p. m. 50c. In: Index to the Month's Lectures and Recitals [SECTION]. St. Louis Public Library, Monthly Bulletin, New Series, 14(2) (February): 75.

"An illustrated lecture by explorers of the Cañon. Under the auspices of the Washington University Assoc. See 'Through the Grand Canyon from Wyoming to Mexico.' by Ellsworth L. Kolb, one of the brothers." (WITH TITLE, ENTIRE ITEM)

- 4538 1916 [Julius F. Stone lecture.] In: Associations and Societies [SECTION]. Electrical Record (New York), 19(3) (March): 75.

"At a meeting of the Electrical League of Cleveland, Ohio, on February 11, Julius F. Stone gave a lecture, illustrated with stereopticon views, on the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. By special invitation, the members of the league brought their families with them. It proved to be the most popular lecture given by this enterprising league so far this season." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 4539 1916 The work of the Washington University Association. Washington University Record, Series 1, 12(1) (October): 24-25.

Lectures and presentations. See p. 25: "Feb. 15: Messrs. E. C. and E. L. Kolb, 'Through the Grand Canyon from Wyoming to Mexico' (illustrated)." (ENTIRE NOTE)

1917

Anonymous

- 4540 1917 Recreation men. III.—The Kolb brothers of Grand Canyon, Arizona. Recreation, 56(5) (May): 206-208.

- 4541 1917 Movie shows on the edge of Grand Cañon. Popular Mechanics Magazine, 28(1) (July 19): 73.

About Kolb Studio (illustrated), but neither this name nor the Kolb brothers are mentioned. Also illustrated is the "power house" 50 feet beneath that provides electricity to the studio.

Dawson, Thomas Fulton

- 4542 1917 The Grand Canyon; an article giving the credit of first traversing the Grand Canyon of the Colorado to James White, a Colorado gold prospector, who it is claimed made the voyage two years previous to the expedition under the direction of Maj. J. W. Powell in 1869. Washington: U.S. Government Printing Office, U.S. 65th Congress, 1st Session, Senate Document 42, 67 pp. [including wraps].

"Presented by Mr. Shafroth. May 25, 1917.—Referred to the Committee on Printing." (Senator John F. Shafroth, of Colorado.) (Note also facsimile reprintings, 2001/2002.)

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1923

Butman, Carl H.

- 4543 1923 Geological Survey takes radio set into the Grand Canyon. Radio World (New York), 3(23) (75) (September 1): 4.

Birdseye Expedition.

Freeman, Lewis R.

- 4544 1923 Boating in the bowels of the earth; six men and four boats buck the Colorado at the bottom of a mile-deep gorge. Sunset Magazine, 50 (May): 17-20, 84, 87-88, 90-94.

Birdseye expedition.

- 4545 1923 Bucking rapids in the inferno; six six-footers fight their way upstream in the gorge of the Colorado River. Sunset Magazine, (June): 40-43, 76-78.

Birdseye expedition. This item pertains to the Birdseye expedition having to move camp during the sudden Colorado River flood at Lava Falls—"upstream" actually refers to having to clamber back to the camp being abandoned in order to transfer boats and supplies).

La Rue, E. C. [La Rue, Eugene Clyde]

- 4546 1923 The survey of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in Arizona. ("Photographed by E. C. La Rue".) [Washington, D.C.]: U.S. Geological Survey, one 8-mm film reel (black-and-white). 29:27.

Silent film, regarding the Birdseye expedition. (Accessible online at <https://azmemory.azlibrary.gov/digital/collection/naucol/id/286/>, from a copy held by Northern Arizona University, Cline Library, Special Collections and Archives.)

Washington Service [organization]

- 4547 1923 Engineers and scientists take radio afield. Radio World (New York), 4(12) (90) (December 15): 12.

Includes Birdseye Expedition in Grand Canyon.

1924

Anonymous

- 4548 1924 Washington. From: Local Post News [SUBSECTION]. In: The Society of American Military Engineers [SECTION]. The Military Engineer, 16(86) (March/April): 157.

At the January 24 meeting, "The members and their guests were then entertained by an illustrated lecture on the treacherous Colorado River and the Grand Canyon by Col. Claude H. Birdseye, Chief Topographic Engineer, U. S. Geological Survey, who was in charge of the expedition that navigated the turbulent waters of that river."
(ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

- 4549 1924 The twentieth meeting of the Association of American Geographers. Geographical Review, 14(2) (April): 293-295.

See p. 295, reference to presentation on Colorado River trip by Col. Claude H. Birdseye illustrated with lantern slides.

- 4550 1924 The American Geographical Society. In: Scientific Events [SECTION]. Science, 59(1529) (April 18): 352-353.

Gold medals awarded include the "Charles P. Daly Medal to Colonel Claude H. Birdseye". "Colonel Birdseye is the author of several technical papers in the field of surveying, did distinguished work for the artillery service during the war, and during the summer of 1923 repeated Powell's famous exploit of descending the Grand Canyon of the Colorado by boat as leader of a topographic and hydrographic party to study the water-power possibilities of the Canyon." (p. 353). (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 4551 1924 The American Chemical Society. In: Scientific Events [SECTION]. Science, 59(1530) (April 25): 374.

General program includes: "New National Museum. (1) Motion picture, 'Boat Trip through Grand Canyon,' with narrative by Roland W. Burchard, of U. S. Geological Survey party which made this exploration." (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 4552 1924 Pittsburgh. From: Local Post News [SUBSECTION]. In: The Society of American Military Engineers [SECTION]. The Military Engineer, 16(88) (July/August): 335-336.

At the spring meeting, May 7, "A 3-reel picture of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado was shown and explained by Mr. Herman Stabler, Chief of the Land Classification Branch of the Geological Survey. The picture has many thrilling moments, as the party shoots the rapids of the Colorado river with their crews clinging to the combing of the boats, half submerged in the rapids." (p. 336) (ENTIRE NOTE)

- 4553 1924 Grand Canyon survey of 1923. American Scenic and Historical Preservation Society, 29th Annual Report, pp. 171-174.

Birdseye expedition.

Abel, Max

- 4554 1924 DX reception in the Grand Canyon; Colonel Birdseye's exploring party keeps radio contact with the world while thousands of feet down in the canyon. The Wireless Age (New York), 11(4) (January): 17-18, 78, 80.

Technically, DX refers to "distance unknown", but reception by the Birdseye Expedition was from known radio stations that were purposely broadcasting messages to the 1923 expedition.

Birdseye, Claude H.

- 4555 1924 Through the rapids of the Grand Canyon. Oberlin Alumni Magazine (Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio), 20(4) (January): 10-14, 34, 36. [By-line: "Claude H. birdseye, '01".]

- 4556 1924 Surveying the Colorado Grand Canyon. The Military Engineer, 16(85) (January/February): 20-28.

- 4557 1924 Through the rapids of the Grand Canyon. Ohio State University Monthly, 15(5) (February): 25-29. [By-line: "Claude H. Birdseye, EX-'04".]

Introduced by an unsigned, editorialized page (p. 24), "A Mighty Chasm Conquered".

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

- 4558 1924 Through the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River [ABSTRACT]. In: Titles and abstracts of papers, Cincinnati, 1923. Association of American Geographers, Annals, 14(1) (March): 35.

Birdseye, Claude H., AND Moore, Raymond C.

- 4559 1924 A boat voyage through the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Geographical Review, 14(2) (April): 177-196.

This is a popularized account, more of a travelogue, of the U.S. Geological Survey expedition on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon to survey potential dam sites. It was during this expedition that radio reception was tested inside the canyon, although because the radio had been sent out for repairs a critical gap in messaging occurred while the expedition was camped below Lava Falls, when a major flood came down the Colorado River that required a nighttime abandonment of camp. That portion of the account is transcribed here, though the many troubles that were encountered were overlooked in this rendition. (See also the much more informative account by Freeman, 1924, Down the Grand Canyon.)

“ • • • Although the drop of Lava Falls is only ten feet, so many dangerous rocks here extend across the river that no one has attempted to run through. Portage on the left bank was easy and was accomplished largely by lining, so that the boats were seldom taken completely out of the water.

“We camped at this point and at dark noticed that the river had suddenly begun to rise. The boats were moored in a rather insecure place just below the rapids and were soon pounding badly in the waves. [Emery] Kolb thought he remembered a shelving beach a quarter of a mile below, and evidence of his good judgment was renewed when an excellent mooring was found just where he expected it. The river continued to rise at the rate of about 18 inches an hour and reached the peak of 21 feet the following afternoon. No one had expected such a rise, and we were up all night pulling one boat or another to a higher place on the bank. The rapid, which had been a very short, sharp-crested fall before the flood, now stretched downstream as far as the eye could see, a tumble of racing water, some of the big waves running fully 20 feet high and throwing spray much higher. Immense quantities of driftwood, including many large logs, were carried downstream. Later we learned that the volume of the river had jumped from 10,000 to 125,000 second-feet during the flood.

“The river subsided slowly, and we waited four days before we could launch the boats. • • • ”

Dacy, George

- 4560 1924 Broncho-busting the wild Colorado; a race with death through seething rapids. Popular Science Monthly, 104(4) (April): 34-35.

Birdseye expedition.

Freeman, Lewis R.

- 4561 1924 Hell and high water; boating adventures in the rapids of the world's deepest river. Sunset Magazine, 53 (August): 9-13, 57-59.

- 4562 1924 Hell and high water. The Colorado dragon takes a bite out of the explorers. Sunset Magazine, 53 (September): 24-27, 62-63.

Birdseye expedition.

- 4563 1924 The Grand Cañon's roaring rapids vanquish the explorers. Sunset Magazine, 53 (October): 16-19, 52, 54, 56.

Birdseye expedition.

- 4564 1924 Surveying the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. National Geographic Magazine, 45 (May): 471-530, 547-548.

Birdseye expedition.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

4565

1924 Down the Grand Canyon. New York: Dodd, Mead and Co., 371 pp. [Also printed in London (William Heinemann, 1924). Reprinted Dodd, Mead (New York, 1930) and, under title Many Rivers, Dodd, Mead (New York, 1937).]

This book-length account embraces Freeman's experiences on the Colorado River, from headwaters to the delta, part of which includes the dam site surveying expedition under Claude H. Birdseye. His account of the experience at Lava Falls is transcribed here:

"Pushing off from Havasu with deeply loaded boats on the morning of the 15th of September, three and a half days in a river with the lightest average descent yet encountered brought us to the head of the rapid called Lava Falls. The skies had been clear most of the way, but violent wind squalls indicated that equinoctial storms were gathering to break up on the plateau region behind us. If the radio set had been with us [it had been sent out for repairs at Havasu Creek and would be returned at Diamond Creek] we would have received numerous messages broadcast from several stations in response to wires from Washington advising us that one of the heaviest storms of recent years had broken upon the basin of the Little Colorado, and warning us to be on the lookout for the waters of a very heavy flood. Having received such warnings, we should unquestionably have picked out a broad open section, with ample room to back away from a rise, and waited for the flood to pass. Unwarned, we were surprised at a time and place that were far from favourable—twilight on the brink of Lava Falls.

"As the boulder barrier at the head of the rapid offered no runnable channel at the stage at which we found it, the boats were lined down the right [sic] side of the most violent section to a narrow crescent of beach below. Beds and cooking outfit were left at the head of the falls, where a few patches of sand among the boulders offered the only feasible camp-site. The rest of the outfit was carried down to the boats and restowed in preparation for an early start on the morrow. The portage was completed an hour before dark.

"Immediately after supper it was noticed that the boats were awash at their moorings, and a few minutes later the beach upon which they had rested was completely submerged by the rising river. As there was no place but the sharply sloping hot-springs formations on which to pull them up, they soon began banging heavily as the waves from the rapid increased in weight. The Grand was in the worst position, being immediately under a ten-feet-high wall of travertine, with boulders all about. The other boats, for a while, could be drawn up a foot or two at a time as the water rose.

I buffered the Grand off the rocks with driftwood until the water was midhigh deep, and then crowded her in to take her chance with the other boats. Meanwhile it had become evident that a better mooring place would have to be found at once, as there was room for not more than one boat upon the shelf to which the water had now risen, and only an empty one could be handled even there. This would have to be the cook-boat, Marble, as all of the other three were heavily loaded.

"It was now quite dark; all chance of seeking a safer mooring by daylight had been lost. The rest was a night job. [Leigh] Lint and [Emery] Kolb pushed off in the Boulder, the latter carrying an acetylene lantern and the former pulling cautiously down the eddy beside the lower end of the rapid. The rest of us were kept busy pulling in the three remaining boats and preventing their destruction from banging against the rocks in the waves from the rising and broadening rapid. Lint and Kolb returned in half an hour to report that they had left the Boulder on a sloping beach of limestone a third of a mile below, and to recommend that the Grand and Glen be taken down there at once.

"Kolb rode with me on the bow of the Grand; Lint with Blake [H. Elwyn Blake, Jr.] on the Glen. The moon was shining on the opposite wall and a part of the rapid. The latter had lengthened greatly and was booming louder every minute. The illuminated strip of rollers was a ghostly grey, and the effect curiously like that of wind-billowed canvas. We ran as close as we dared to the left bank of travertine, over which streams from the hot springs were falling, gleaming white in the reflected moonlight. There was not much current in the eddy, but a heavy loup from the main chute of the rapid splashed against, and occasionally into, the boat. A distinctly unpleasant odour to the water suggested that the flood was coming from the Little Colorado, the founts of which we had already discovered were olfactorily offensive. Mingled with this was a humid, almost tropical smell—rank vegetation and a suggestion of the perfume of flowers.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

"It was a weird and eerily stirring rather than a wildly exciting ride. Once or twice we were caught by the powerful downrush of the rapid, but a stroke or two brought the boat back to the half-water on the verge of the eddy. As we doubled cautiously round a jutting point a new roar from down-river cut into the heavier boom of Lava Falls. Evidently we were nearing a second rapid not far below where the gleam of the tail of the first was quenched in the shadow of a moon-blotting cliff. Then a cove opened up to our left and I pulled into quieter water and beached the Grand beside the Boulder on a sloping shelf of travertine.

"As there had been no chance to get my bed in the rush of pushing off, I took a lantern and started back to camp as soon as the boats were secured. It was vile work pushing across the slushy, crumbling springs formation, with a tangle of rotting vegetation underfoot, and huge thistle and saw-edged grasses that grew higher than my head. These pricklers and cutters were particularly unpleasant as a consequence of the fact that my sole protection against them was half a pair of knickers and one tennis shoe. After fording three or four warm streams, I finally broke through to clearer going, but even here there were a half dozen breeds of cacti to complicate my nocturnal navigation. The last hundred yards was along the cliff and over boulders among which the rising flood was already beginning to swirl. There was zest and exhilaration in the blind ride in the half-moonlight down the edge of the booming rapid; the tortuous tramp back through the swamp of the hot springs was sodden grief all the way.

"In my absence the Marble had been dragged several feet above the water, but the spray was already beginning to dash over her again as the mounting waves banged higher and higher against the wall. I found everyone in camp engaged in moving back from the encroaching flood. We had hardly turned in before it was necessary to scramble back over the boulders and give the Marble another hoist. Then we had a rest until an ambitious wave came up and surrounded the bed of Felix [Homs], the cook. The surprised sleeper awoke in such consternation that he fled forthwith, leaving bed and clothes behind in the water. Birdseye and [Frank] Dodge salvaged the sleeping-bag, and Felix was put to bed again on a higher level.

"By morning the water was up to our feet, where we had rolled in after our final move to the last bit of beach under the mesquite. The rapid had altered in character overnight beyond belief. The head of the dam of boulders, where the previous day there had been a series of abrupt falls, was now completely submerged—drowned out. Over it rushed a broad, solid chute of wildly running water which did not begin to break into waves until half way down what had formerly been the rapid. From there on the combers were tremendous; quite the largest we had seen. These culminated in an enormous uptossed mass of churning, surging water just above where the boats were moored: a point at which yesterday there was only a swift but comparatively smooth stretch of current. This wave was a great boil or fountain, which at times measured all of from fifteen to twenty feet from trough to crest. It appeared to be caused by conflicting currents rather than by a rock, and rarely assumed the same form twice in succession. At times, in breaking back, it cupped down a large quantity of air, which, when compressed, threw out jets of spume like that from a cavernous blow-hole on the ocean shore.

"A continuous procession of drift logs of great size was moving down the river, some of the largest trees being upended and sucked down in whirlpools or, again, almost tossed out of the water. It looked barely possible that a boat might survive an attempt to run through the rapid, but only in the event it could be kept away from several of the largest waves. Probably the most favourable stage at which to run would be an intermediate one, somewhere between the low water we found on the first day and the flood of the second.

"The river had risen fourteen feet during the night, to which eight feet more was added by evening of the second day. The hydraulic engineers of the party estimated the flow at from 75,000 to 100,000 second-foot. We learned subsequently that it had been over 125,000—considerably greater than that of the spring rise. The Marble had finally to be hoisted up an almost sheer wall by block-and-tackle to keep it clear of the climbing waves. The other boats, after unloading, were more easily handled.

"After a three-days' halt to allow the flood to recede, we pushed off again on the morning of September 22nd. The increased weight of the water was evident the moment we were well into the current, and when it began to slop aboard in running the riffle under the cliff below it proved to be a veritable liquid mud. A splash of it left a white coating on the skin as it dried, while the effect on the eyes was almost blinding. There was the same heaviness to the swirling water noted after previous rises, only much worse, so that the boats were more

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

unmanageable. The run of water from riffle to riffle was almost continuous, and it was not always easy to pull into an eddy for a landing."

Martin, Howard H.

- 4566 1924 Conquers Grand Canyon; Bro. Birdseye charts the gorge. The Cadeceus of Kappa Sigma (Kappa Sigma Fraternity, New York), 39(4) (February): 322-327. [Contents page gives title as "Col. Birdseye Explores the Canyon".]

Claude H. Birdseye, Colorado River expedition.

Mitchell, Guy Elliot

- 4567 1924 Boat survey of the Grand Canyon. Appalachia, 15(4): 440-445, 2 plates.

Birdseye Expedition.

- 4568 1924 Running the rapids of the Grand Canyon; an exceptionally hazardous piece of surveying and mapping by Uncle Sam's topographers. Scientific American, 130(4): 226-227.

Birdseye Expedition.

Paul, George F.

- 4569 1924 Surveyors make perilous trip down Grand Canyon. Sporting Life, 71(11) (February): 36-37, 51.

Birdseye Expedition.

- 4570 1924 Surveyors make perilous trip down the Grand Cañon. Santa Fe Magazine, 18(3) (February): frontispiece, 19-22.

Birdseye Expedition.

Talman, Charles Fitzhugh

- 4571 1924 The river of adventure. The Outlook (New York), 136: 474-477. [This short text compares the Powell and Birdseye expeditions, but the focus is on Birdseye.]

Webster, Lilla [Webster, Lydia Gertrude Hamilton]

- 4572 NO DATE When dreams come true. [California?]: [no imprint], [78] leaves, text on recto only, photos and illustrations tipped in. [Ca. 1923.]

Cited in Catalogue 192 from Bohling Book Co., Decatur, Mich. (no date); ". . . obviously a very small edition." WorldCat citation indicates: "Latest dated reference in text is to the Kolb expedition on the Colorado River in 1923. Illustrations are chiefly mounted photographs and postcards." The "Kolb expedition" is the Birdseye Expedition, on which Emery Kolb was a boatman.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1925

Mitchell, Guy Elliot

- 4573 1925 Heroes of mapmaking; from Alaska's snows to dismal swamps, pluck and energy is completing the largest map in the world. Scientific American, 133(4) (October): cover, 219, 222-223.

Grand Canyon featured is featured; but see particularly the artistic cover illustration by the well-known pulp artist Howard V. Brown that depicts a rodman hanging from a cable over a rapid, with the legend, "All in the Day's Work". It surely relates to the Birdseye Expedition.

1926

Birdseye, Claude H.

- 4574 1926 Boating in the rapids of the Grand Canyon. Army and Navy Courier, (February/March): 40.
- 4575 1926 Down the Colorado Canyon by small boats. Mid-Pacific Magazine (Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii), 31(6) (June): 573-576.

Freeman, Lewis R.

- 4576 1926 Up and down Glen Canyon of the Colorado. [Part 1.] How one of the most important and arduous explorations of the great gorge of the Southwest was made possible by the use of outboard motors. Motor Boating, 39(2) (August): 13-15, 134, 136, 138, 142, 144, 146, 150.

Incomplete citation because not all parts have been seen for this bibliography. The title cited here is Part 1 of 12 parts, a serialized reprinting from Freeman's Down the Grand Canyon, in monthly installments, which embrace Glen and Grand Canyons as well as the Colorado River below Grand Canyon to the delta. Series concludes 40(1) (July 1927), subtitle "Part XIII; The concluding installment of the adventures of the author—one of the few men who have journeyed the length of the Colorado River to the sea in small boats aided by outboard engines".

---

As of the time this volume was compiled, publications after 1926 may not yet be in the public domain
Consult <https://guides.library.cornell.edu/copyright/publicdomain> (last accessed September 21, 2022)

---

1928

Burgess, W. K. [Burgess, Walter K.]

- 4577 1928 The search for the Pathe-Bray Colorado River Expedition. U.S. Air Corps News Letter (Office of the Chief of the Air Corps, U.S. War Department, Washington, D.C.), 12(4) (March 15): 101-105.

Pilot's official report of the search for Pathé-Bray Colorado River Expedition.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Coidán, Conde Estaban

- 4578 1928 Un nuevo jefe honorario de los navajos; los indios confieren un honor envidiable a Elmer Pearson. Films (Films Publishing Corporation, S.A., New York), 4(3) (March): 29. [In Spanish.]
(transl. 'A new honorary chief of the Navajos; the Indians confer an enviable honor on Elmer Pearson.')

Elmer Pearson, First Vice President of the film company Pathé Exchange, Inc. About half of this item pertains to the filming of "La Novis del Colorado" (Bride of the Colorado) on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon (the Pathé-Bray Colorado River Expedition), which was never released (see Pathé Exchange, 1928).

Jaeger, Oscar R.

- 4579 1928 Shooting the rapids of the Colorado. American Forests and Forest Life, 34: 643-648.
Clyde Eddy expedition.

Pathé Exchange, Inc.

- 4580 1928 Bride of the Colorado. (Elmer Clifton, director; John Randolph Bray, producer; Denison Clift, continuity. Story by John Randolph Bray and John Farrow. Starring John Boles, Donal Blossom, William Irving, Henry Sedley, Carl Stockdale, Richard Alexander, and (not credited) Mae Busch.) Pathé Exchange, Inc.

This silent film, also referred to as Pride of the Colorado and apparently under a working name, Menace, was filmed on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon. There are numerous references to the film prior to and during the filming trip, casually known as the Pathé-Bray expedition. Although portions of it seem to have been publicly shown around 1928, the film never was completed for release; and the print seems to have been lost. An early, brief review—seemingly the only known review—was not enthusiastic (see next paragraph). A great deal of background information (more than a thousand pages) may be read in the proceedings of a suit adjudicated in the New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division—First Department (1930, 1931).

(The anonymous review referred to above is: The Bride of the Colorado—Pathe-De Mille. From: The Shadow Stage [SUBSECTION]. In: Photoplay Magazine—Advertising Section. Photoplay Magazine, 33(6) (May 1928): 112. The entire review is as follows: "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River plays the lead in this picture. It makes a beautiful spectacle and a desperate menace, but does not lend itself to real story interest. In fact, the characters and the plot are absolutely incidental to the cathedral cliffs, the whirling rapids and other stupendous beauties of the canyon. John Boles and Donal Blossom, a newcomer to pictures, have some intimate love scenes, but even here it is the background which interests." [The reference to "De Mille" (Cecil B. DeMille) is likely due to the fact that DeMille's Producers Distributing Corporation merged in 1928 with American Pathé, a parent corporation to Pathé Exchange. DeMille had no role in the production of this film.]

1929

Eddy, Clyde

- 4581 1929 Down the world's most dangerous river. New York: Frederick A. Stokes Co., 293 pp.

Also note various printings, some or all of which may have the printing date also noted on the title-page, with original 1929 copyright date noted on verso. Some printings may indicate the printing by date, but the title-page retaining the date of an earlier printing; e.g., 5th printing January 9, 1940, date 1937 on title-page. The British printings were under the title, Danger River (Eddy, no date [1930?]). See also Eddy (2012), a reprinting under a revised title.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Lee, LeFever M.

- 4582 1929 American chemists meet. The Ohio State Engineer (Ohio State University, College of Engineering), 12(7) (May): 10, 19.

American Chemical Society convention, Ohio State University. Notes (p. 10) lecture by Julius F. Stone on a trip on the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon.

1930

Eddy, Clyde

- 4583 NO DATE Danger river : being an account of the only successful attempt to navigate the rapids of the world's most dangerous river. London: Skeffington and Sons, Ltd., 288 pp. [1930?]

Variants of bindings have been noted; e.g., yellows differing from the lemon-yellow cloth of the first state of this ed.; and tan and navy blue cloths.

Hall, Hal

- 4584 1930 Getting on in the world; the ability to play a flute landed Glenn Kershner in Hollywood as a cinematographer. American Cinematographer, 10(11) (February): 15, 40.

See p. 40, remarks concerning Kershner having accompanied "a band of motion picture makers" on the Colorado River in Grand Canyon. This was the Pathé-Bray Colorado River expedition.

Jaeger, Oscar R.

- 4585 1930 Shooting the rapids of the Colorado. Arizona Highways, 6(5) (May): 8-9, 16.

Credited to American Forests (i.e., Jaeger, 1928). Clyde Eddy expedition.

Jones, Marcus E.

- 4586 1930 [Remarks on the second Powell expedition.] In: Contributions to Western Botany, No. 17. Claremont, California: [no imprint] [Marcus E. Jones], p. 37.

Serial is scarce enough to reprint this item in its entirety:

"In June, 1929, I visited El Tobar [sic] on the southern side of the Grand Canon and saw the stately monument erected to Major Powell and the band of Government men who accompanied him down the Colorado river in 1871, on that blood curdling trip. The secrecy that has always surrounded that trip and his work surveying the Grand Canon has always been a puzzle to me. Forty years ago or more I made the acquaintance of one of his party, the topographer, Captain F. M. Bishop of Salt Lake City, and he was a fellow townsman for many years till my removal to California. His herbarium made on that expedition has always been in my own collection, all the types not now at Harvard.

"On the visit referred to I failed to see his name among the list of those who traversed the Grand Canon, and for this reason I hunted him up, now a very old man, at Salt Lake, and conferred with him about the matter. During the conversation his daughter showed me a transcript of his diary, fragmentary but complete as far as it went, which throws a flood of light on the expedition, and its asinine management. I borrowed the M.S. and have copied it, and some day, may possibly publish it. Captain Bishop was one of the very few educated men in the party, and was the center of the botanical activity, making the best collection, but Mrs. Thompson, the sister of Major Powell [Ellen Louella "Nellie" Powell], sent her collections to Harvard independently. Captain Bishop was later the Professor of Botany at the State University in Salt Lake City."

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

The Bishop diary was first published in 1947: "Captain Francis Marion Bishop's Journal, August 15, 1870-1872" (Charles Kelly, ed.), in The Exploration of the Colorado River in 1869, Utah Historical Quarterly, 15(1/4): 159-238 (volume is cited in Part I of this bibliography).

New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division—First Department

- 4587 1930 Pathe Exchange, Inc., Plaintiff-Respondent, against Bray Pictures Corporation, J. R. Bray and Margaret Bray, Defendants-Appellants, Impleaded with Cinema Finance Corporation, Defendant. Papers on Appeal from Order. [No place]: New York Supreme Court, SEPARATELY PAGINATED SECTIONS [160 pp. total]. (N. Y. Co. Clerk's Index No. 15230—1930.)

Regarding the Pathé-Bray Colorado River Expedition in Grand Canyon (filming the never-released silent film, Bride of the Colorado); exhibits include notices of Clyde Eddy. See Pathé Exchange (1928).

1931

Barber, Devergne

- 4588 1931 Running the rapids of the Colorado. Rudder, 47(4): 28-32, (5): 55-59.

Dellenbaugh, Frederick S.

- 4589 1931 One night in the Grand Canyon. In: Blossom, Frederick A. (ed.), Told at The Explorers Club : true tales of modern exploration. New York: Albert and Charles Boni, Inc., pp. 69-80.

New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division—First Department

- 4590 1931 Pathe Exchange, Inc., Plaintiff-Appellant and Respondent, against Margaret Bray, Bray Pictures Corporation and J. R. Bray, Defendants-Respondents and Appellants : Case on Appeal from Judgment and Order. [No place]: New York Supreme Court (printed by Loder Printing Co., Inc., New York), 2 volumes, pp. i-x, 1-402; i-x, 403-861.

Case heard 1928-1930, regarding the Pathé-Bray Colorado River Expedition in Grand Canyon (filming the never-released silent film, Bride of the Colorado); exhibits include notices of Clyde Eddy. See Pathé Exchange (1928).

Whittemore, Margaret

- 4591 1931 Dangerous rivers; they are Clyde Eddy's hobby. Nature Magazine, 17 (June): 387-388.

1932

Jaeger, Oscar R.

- 4592 1932 The great Grand Canyon adventure : a narrative of rapid-shooting on the Colorado, the world's wildest river. Dubuque, Iowa: Oscar R. Jaeger, 196 pp.

Cover title places a dash after "Colorado", instead of a comma. Cover also indicates "Pocket Edition". Clyde Eddy expedition.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1933

Bruner, William

- 4593 1933 Up the lonely Colorado; from the site of the Hoover Dam to Grand Canyon. Yachting, 53(1) (January): 33-36, 78.

1935

Kolb, Emery C.

- 4594 1935 Cheyava Falls. In: History and exploration of the Grand Canyon region. Grand Canyon Natural History Association, Natural History Bulletin 2, pp. 10-17.

"My first visit to Cheyava Falls was by a different but more dangerous route. A friend, Milton Madden, and I rowed and dragged an open fourteen-foot canvas boat with our cameras and luggage, upstream from Bright Angel Creek to Clear Creek. At the mouth of Clear Creek we camped two nights. The trip to the falls and the return to the river occupied a full day. Over this route only cameras and lunch were carried, thus eliminating the weight of our beds. It was all hard work, nevertheless, though thrilling to the utmost. The return trip to Bright Angel Creek down the river was made in only an hour for we were caught in a fast rising river which gave us no little alarm and necessitated quick thinking and quick action."

Followed by a later, much longer, detailed exploration of Cheyava Falls from the North Rim (cited in Part II of this bibliography).

Smith, James N.

- 4595 1937 Cliffs and waters of the Grand Canyon. Sierra Club Bulletin, 22 (February): 80-84.

Two survey trips organized by Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc., in late 1935, on the Colorado River from Diamond Creek to "Pierce's Ferry" (Pearce Ferry). Also notes that the Hualapai helped create "a species of road" to enable the crews to deliver equipment to the river. Celebrating the end of the surveys, by launching "all our rockets, flares, and distress signals", managed to incinerate "a pile of life preservers", which were left behind "in a heap".

1938

Birdseye, Claude H.

- 4596 1938 Exploration in the Grand Canyon. Reclamation Era, 28(8) (August): 170-171.

Brief historical review of Colorado River trips.

Case, Robert Ormond

- 4597 1938 He shot the Colorado alone. Saturday Evening Post, 210 (February 26): 8-9, 34, 36, 38-40.

Buzz Holmstrom.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Franse, H. G.

- 4598 1938 Shooting the rapids for science and thrills. Arizona Highways, 14(3) (March): 4-5, 23-24.
Carnegie-Caltech expedition.

Hilgedick, W. C.

- 4599 1938 The place of radio in the national parks. The Regional Review (U.S. National Park Service, Region One, Richmond, Virginia), 1(5) (November): 9-10.

See brief note on p. 10:

"An outstanding demonstration of long distance communication with one of these sets occurred when an expedition down the Colorado River talked each day for two months to the Grand Canyon South Rim headquarters station."

This is an error. The Birdseye Expedition (1923) carried a radio capable only of receiving; messages specifically directed to the expedition were broadcast from established commercial radio stations in the West.

Spearman, Rupert B.

- 4600 1938 A lone boatman navigates the Colorado River. Reclamation Era, 28(3) (March): 50-51.
Buzz Holmstrom. Author's name given as "Rupert P. Spearman."

- 4601 1938 Expedition including women safely navigates Colorado River. Reclamation Era, 28(9) (September): 177-179.

Nevills Expedition, with Elzada Clover and Lois Jotter.

1939

Burg, Amos

- 4602 1939 Conquering the Colorado. (Edmund Reek, director; starring Mel Allen, Paul Douglas, Buzz Holmstrom.) New York: Twentieth Century Fox. 16 mm film. 11:00.

Recreation of Buzz Holmstrom's solo trip down the Colorado River, 1937.

Clover, Elzada U.

- 4603 1939 Danger can be fun. Michigan Alumnus, Quarterly Review (The Quarterly Review of the Michigan Alumnus) (University of Michigan, Alumni Association), 45(14) (February 18) (Winter): 103-113. [Disambiguation: There is also a monthly series of Michigan Alumnus.]

Regarding Clover's botanical collecting trip along the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, with Norman Nevills.

1940

Anonymous

- 4604 1940 Grand Canyon. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 3(9) (July): 36.

"From a light canvas boat Barry Goldwater of Phoenix in May gave a realistic broadcast by shortwave radio as his frail craft shot through seven and eight-foot waves of the Colorado river near Phantom ranch at the bottom

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

of Arizona's Grand Canyon. His broadcast was interrupted by circumstances beyond his control when he was forced to quit talking and bail for his life. It was a Ripley program. Robert L. [Ripley] described the gorge as capable of swallowing 100 Yosemite, a dozen Niagaras and the entire range of Swiss Alps, with room remaining to toss in all the armies of the world with their full equipment. Governor Jones went on the air to say the canyon is 'greatest believe-it-or-not wonder of all time.'" (ENTIRE ITEM)

Garland, Hamlin

4605 1940 The stricken pioneer. The Rotarian, 56(5) (June): 6.

This poem is noted by Garland in his collection of stories about famous people, Roadside Meetings (1930), to have been written after having met the infirm John Wesley Powell and which commemorates Powell and Garland's similarly infirm Uncle William. The 1930 printing comprises three stanzas that do not specifically mention these men. The Rotarian printing comprises six stanzas—three additional stanzas preceding those that were printed in 1930, and with edits to the final three stanzas as compared to the 1930 printing. The newer (first three) stanzas likewise do not mention the men by name, but the third stanza in this now-longer version does recall "The mightiest canyon of the earth / he conquered • • • [he now] taking no part / In all the explorations of the West." The Rotarian version does not include any part of the prose introductory notes that appeared in the 1930 printing.

Goldwater, Barry M.

4606 1940 A journey down the Green and Colorado Rivers : from the diary of Barry M. Goldwater. Phoenix: H. Walker Publishing Co. [privately published], 106 + xiii [xv] pp.

300 copies. Ford describes this as "mimeographed on one side; map; stapled gray paperback" and notes, "All . . . hand numbered and signed by the author."

1941

Anonymous

4607 1941 [Alexander Grant trip through Grand Canyon.] In: The Listening Post [section]. The Youth's Instructor (Seventh-day Adventists, Washington, D.C.), 89(38) (September 23): 16.

"On the fourth of August, Alexander Grant, Jr., folded and tucked into a gunnysack a canvas boat in which he became the first to traverse—in such a flimsy craft—the treacherous rapids of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. Mr. Grant, Eastern tidewater champion, said that he intended to use the same FOL-boat to ride every fast rapid in the United States and Canada. The trip just concluded required twenty days from Lees Ferry, Arizona, to the calm waters of Lake Mead, and beyond this he had a 75-mile paddle to reach Boulder Dam. Mr. Grant is twenty-six years of age and is a cousin of President Franklin D. Roosevelt." (ENTIRE ITEM)

Burg, Amos

4608 1941 Grand Canyon adventure. In: Cramer, Seward S. (ed.), Through hell and high water : by members of the Explorers Club. New York: Robert M. McBride and Co., pp. 109-117 (introduced by editor's "casual comments" on pp. 107-108).

Goldwater, Barry M.

4609 1941 An odyssey of the Green and Colorado Rivers : the intimate journal of three boats and nine people on a trip down two rivers. [Privately printed], [32] pp.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

- 4610 1941 An odyssey of the Green and Colorado; the intimate journal of three boats and nine people on a trip down two rivers. Arizona Highways, 17(1) (January): 7-13, 30-37.

Grant, Alexander "Zee" G., Jr.

- 4611 1941 Cockleshell on the Colorado; through the Grand Canyon in a foldboat. Appalachia, 23(4) (92) [New Series, 7(12)]: 485-494.

Nevills Grand Canyon trip.

Nevills, Norman D.

- 4612 1941 Descent of the canyons. Region III Quarterly (U.S. National Park Service), 3(3) (July): 37-44.
Upper Basin rivers and Grand Canyon.

1942

Heald, Weldon F.

- 4613 1942 Riding the rapids of the Grand Canyon. Travel, 79 (October): 14-17+.
Nevills 1941 trip.

1943

Anonymous

- 4614 1943 "Shooting" the Grand Canyon tops all thrills. Popular Mechanics, 79(3) (March): 90-91.
Norman Nevills.

1945

Allan, Doug

- 4615 1945 Gamblers with fate. New York: Robert M. McBride and Co., 306 pp.
See "Adrift on the Furious Colorado", pp. 219-242. Clyde Eddy expedition.

1946

Aleson, Harry L.

- 4616 1946 Colorado River raft drift. Southern Sierran, (August): 3.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Clark, Neil M.

- 4617 1946 Fast water man. Saturday Evening Post, 218(46) (May 18): 30-31, 148, 150, 152.
Norman Nevills.

Woodbury, Ralph

- 4618 1946 Norman Nevill's [sic] expedition. [Portland, Oregon?]: [no imprint], [8] pp. (on double).
Norman Nevills.

1947

Henderson, Randall

- 4619 1947 Just Between You and Me [COLUMN]. Desert Magazine, 10(11) (September): 46.
Notes meeting with Emery Kolb at Grand Canyon. Author refers to the Kolb brothers' 1911-1912 filming trip as "one of the grittiest episodes in the epic of Colorado river navigation."
- 4620 1947 Grand Canyon voyage. [Parts 1 and 2 of 4.] Desert Magazine, 11(1) (November): cover, 3, 4-10; (2) (December): 7-12.
See also letters by George O. Bauwens, Elwyn Blake, and George R. Winn in February 1948 issue, 11(4): 37, 38; and Otis Marston, March 1948, 11(5): 30. Parts 3 and 4 appear in the January and February 1948 issues.

Wells, Halsted

- 4621 1947 The du Pont Company presents The Cavalcade of America, starring Van Heflin in "Towards the Horizon" by Halsted Wells : based on an original radio story by Dan Hammorman. [No place]: Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, Inc., Broadcast no. 544, 32 pp.
- Script, as broadcast December 1, 1947. About the Powell Expedition.

1948

Anonymous

- 4622 1948 Organ benefit movie popular. Yosemite Sentinel (Yosemite National Park), (February 7).
Report of film showing, "Grand Canyon Voyage", by Marjorie Farquhar, depicting Colorado River trip with Norman Nevills.

Gordon, Alvin J.

- 4623 1948 Through the Grand Canyon by boat. San Francisco: Alvin J. Gordon. 16-mm color or black-and-white film. 19:00.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Heald, Weldon F.

- 4624 1948 Riding Grand Canyon rapids. In: Peattie, Roderick (ed.), The inverted mountains : canyons of the West. New York: Vanguard Press, Inc., pp. 185-208.
- Nevills 1941 trip.

Henderson, Randall

- 4625 1948 Grand Canyon voyage. [Parts 3 and 4 of 4.] Desert Magazine, 11(3) (January): 4-14; (4) (February): 9-16.
- Parts 1 and 2 appeared in the November and December 1947 issues.

Mazet, Horace S.

- 4626 1948 (Ed.) Riding the rapids of the Grand Canyon. Travel, 91 (June): 4-9.
- Edits correspondence and records of Charles Larabee.

1949

Bell, L. P.

- 4627 1949 Riding the rapids of the Colorado. Christian Science Monitor Magazine, 14 (September 17):.

Maley, Molly

- 4628 1949 Through hell and high water. Transit Topics (San Diego Transit System and San Diego and Coronado Ferry Co.), 6(10) (September/October): 4-9.
- Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon. See also Maley and Reilly (1951).

Marston, Otis Reed "Dock"

- 4629 1949 Conquering the Grand Canyon; braving the turbulent Colorado was a party of five in a 19-foot boat—first power boat to traverse the Grand Canyon. Pacific Motor Boat, 41(10) (September): cover, 9, 13-14, 58.

Masland, Frank Elmer, Jr.

- 4630 NO DATE By the rim of time. Being the diary and impressions of Frank E. Masland, Jr., a member of the Norman Nevills' 1948 Colorado River expedition. Written for his personal pleasure, and published at the insistence of his friends and associates. Carlisle, Pennsylvania, and Philadelphia: [no

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

imprint] (printed and distributed by Publication Division of C. H. Masland and Sons), 44 pp.
[1949.] [Printing information and Masland and Sons advertisement inside rear cover.]

1950

Anonymous

- 4631 1950 Boats versus rapids; two test the rolling, churning Colorado; only one gets through. Life, 29(3) (July 15): 56-57, 63.

Ed Hudson and Esmerelda.

Segeberblom, Gene

- 4632 1950 Shooting the Grand Canyon in a power boat. Popular Mechanics, 93(4) (April): 144-147.

1951

Anonymous

- 4633 1951 College trustee heads Carpet Institute. The Dickinson Alumnus (Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania), 28(3) (February): 7.

Frank E. Masland, Jr., '18, elected chairman of the board of the Carpet Institute, Inc. Item also notes Masland's Colorado River trips. Half of the page is a notice of The Goat Run (Masland, 1950), which is about a river trip on the San Juan, taking out at Lees Ferry.

- 4634 1951 Laboratories members run rapids of Colorado River. Bell Laboratories Record, 29(9) (September): 431.

Mexican Hat expedition through Grand Canyon included three Bell Laboratories engineers, P. L. Wright (and his wife), Esther Rentrop, and Eugenia Wyckoff. Notes that Rentrop and Wyckoff were "the 159th and 160th persons known to have run the big river in its entire history". Correction (fide Richard Quartaroli from the Dock Marston accounting): their numbers are 142 and 144, respectively).

- 4635 1951 They rode the rapids. Desert Magazine, 14(12) (October): 32.

Two separate parties, Frank Wright, Jim Riggs, and two others in cataract boats, and Harry Aleson "with two other boatmen and five passengers" in neoprene rafts; Lees Ferry to Lake Mead. "Emma Schray of Fresno, aged 66, is believed to have been the oldest woman to make the trip. She was with the Wright-Riggs expedition." Item credited to Las Vegas Review Journal.

- 4636 1951 [News note.] In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 14(12) (October): 32.

"Boulder City—Two men and a woman are making a leisurely rapids shooting jaunt through Grand Canyon in rubber boats, according to word received by the office of river control in Boulder City from the national park service station at Bright Angel." (ENTIRE ITEM) (Dick and Isabelle Griffith and John Schlump.)

- 4637 1951 Newlyweds run Colorado. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 14(13) (November): 31.

Dick and Isabelle Griffith, and John Schlump. Item credited to Las Vegas Review-Journal.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Henderson, Randall

4638 1951 Just Between You and Me [COLUMN]. Desert Magazine, 14(14) (December): 42.

Notes the visit to the Desert Magazine office of Otis Marston and his wife, Margaret. Remarks on motor-powered trips on the Colorado River, but the author prefers the oar-powered trips such as those of Norman Nevills. "Just why anyone should want to race through those gorgeous canyons at break-neck speed is beyond my ken."

Maley, Molly, AND Reilly, P. T. "Pat"

4639 1951 How I became a Colorado River rat. Transit Topics (San Diego Transit System and San Diego and Coronado Ferry Co.), 8(4) (Autumn): 4-9.

See also Maley (1949).

1953

Anonymous

4640 1953 Emery Kolb is honored. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 16(1) (January): 31.

"Grand Canyon—Emery Kolb, who has spent 50 years taking pictures of Grand Canyon was honored recently at an anniversary party staged by friends. Kolb bought a studio at Williams, Arizona, in 1902, and in 1911 he and his brother Ellsworth ran the treacherous Grand Canyon rapids in order to make a photographic record of the trip. In 1915 Emery began showing the pictures in public and has been presenting two showings daily at his South Rim studio.—Coconino Sun." (ENTIRE ITEM)

Belknap, Bill

4641 1953 Boulder Camera [COLUMN]. Henderson Home News (Henderson, Nevada), 3 (June 25): 12.

Column regarding the Colorado River from Bright Angel Creek to Lake Mead, and Lake Mead National Recreation Area.

Grant, Alexander "Zee" G., Jr.

4642 1953 I tamed the world's worst river. Cavalier, 1(2): 36-39, 66-67.

1954

Anonymous

4643 1954 Six-week river trip ends. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 17(9) (September): 31.

Earl Eaton and Charles Volte, in rubber raft with two outboard motors, finish trip from Roaring Fork River, Colorado, to Lake Mead. Uranium prospectors Carl Gage and Leroy Byers joined the trip in Grand Canyon. Item credited to Las Vegas Review-Journal.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Henderson, Randall

4644 1954 Just Between You and Me [COLUMN]. Desert Magazine, 17(9) (September): 42.

Includes remark on drought-induced low flows curtailing river trips. Notes, "The only chartered expedition to go through Grand Canyon was one piloted by Georgia White [Georgie White] and her husband, 'Whitey.' They took three rubber life rafts with 10 passengers from Lee's Ferry to Boulder City in 21 days—making portages where there was not enough water to take loaded boats through the rocks exposed in the rapids."

Lee, Katie

4645 1954 Folk songs of the Colorado. (Photographs by Tad Nichols.) Arizona Highways, 30(5) (May): 2, 14-23.

1955

Anonymous

4646 1955 River swim completed. In: Here and There on the Desert [SECTION]. Desert Magazine, 18(7) (July): 31.

John Dagget and William K. Beer complete swim through Grand Canyon in Colorado River. Item credited to Los Angeles Times.

4647 1955 River pilot Georgia [sic] White brings record party through Grand Canyon. Desert Magazine, 18(10) (October): 29.

Georgie White carries 30 passengers on three 22-to-27 foot pontoons and four 10-man neoprene rubber boats; complains the trip went "too smoothly." Twenty-day trip included 8-year-old "Bonnie Bundy of Mt. Trumbull" [sic, Mount Trumbull] who was "believed to be the youngest person ever to make the trip." Item credited to Nevada State Journal.

4648 1955 [Listing for a half-hour television presentation on KCOP Los Angeles.] TV-Radio Life (Los Angeles), 32(16) (December 3-9): 24.

In the 7:30-8:00 slot on Channel 13: "I Search for Adventure. 'The Big Swim.' Films of the daring swim of Bill Beer and John Daggett up [sic] the Grand Canyon length of the Colorado River. Even luckless boatmen have drowned in the violent rapids, but these two made the trip unassisted by boatmen or others." See also on same page two display ads: "KCOP Los Angeles['] Most Powerful Station! Don't Miss I Search for Adventure 7:30 P.M. ••• Channel-13 Brings You New Horizons in T. V. Entertainment!" and "Jack Douglas presents 'I Search for Adventure' Tonight—Thurs. 7:30 P.M. KCOP".

Beer, Bill

4649 1955 We swam the Colorado. Collier's, 136(3) (August 5): 19-21.

Eggert, Charles

4650 1955 A canyon voyage. Barrytown, New York: Adventurama Productions. 16-mm film. 61:00.

Adventure and documentary film made during a 1955 expedition on the Green and Colorado Rivers, to Lees Ferry, to retrace the Powell Expedition and to document the rivers prior to the construction of dams. It was intended to continue through Grand Canyon but low water levels made it impractical at that time (but see Eggert, 1956, Danger River [below]); nonetheless, a bit about Grand Canyon is included. The film was made available through in-person programs contracted through National Artists Corp., New York. A Canyon Voyage premiered

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

at the Cosmos Club, Washington, D.C. Film length as cited here given by Marriott Library, University of Utah, from the digitized file of the 16-mm film (correspondence, 22 July 2020). See also the companion book, Eggert (2020). [NOTE: The Marriott Library also holds a VHS copy of the films in question, in the Hatch River Expeditions video collection, which are noted there to have a combined time of 1:39:15. There is also "a 1960s edited version [of both films together] with Charles Eggert's commentary on the making of the films and how they were re-cut and edited to use during the fight over dams in the Grand Canyon in the 1960s. 48:102 [sic, 48:10]."]

1956

Anonymous

- 4651 1956 Indiana franchise owner completes wild and dangerous trip on raging Colorado River thru the Grand Canyon. Roto-Rooter Exchange (Roto-Rooter Corporation), (August): 1, 3.

Guy Taylor.

- 4652 1956 Peterson and Masland on the lecture program. Frontiers (Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia), 21(2) (December): 60.

Frank E. Masland, Jr., speaks on the Colorado River.

Eggert, Charles

- 4653 1956 Danger River. Barrytown, New York: Adventurama Productions. 16-mm film. 20:00.

Adventure and documentary film made during a 1956 expedition on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, completing the project begun with A Canyon Voyage (Eggert, 1955 [above]). The film was made available through in-person programs contracted through National Artists Corp., New York. Film length as cited here given by Marriott Library, University of Utah, from the digitized file of the 16-mm film (correspondence, 22 July 2020). See also the companion book, Eggert (2020), and see note with Eggert (1955).

Wing, Kittridge

- 4654 1956 Blue water voyage in the Little Colorado. (Map by Norton Allen.) Desert Magazine, 19(8) (August): 13-18.

Kittridge with Les Womack, descent from Little Colorado rim to Blue Springs, thence in a Navy four-man inflatable raft to Colorado River confluence. Exit via Tanner Trail in Grand Canyon.

1957

Anonymous

- 4655 1957 Most remote! In: Personalia [SECTION]. The Rotarian, 90(2) (February): 48.

Note left in film can in cairn one mile below Lava Falls, river right: "Rochester [New York] Rotary Club luncheon held at this spot Tuesday, June 18, 1956."

Hyde, Philip

- 4656 1957 Through the Grand Canyon by boat. National Parks Magazine, 31(129) (April/June): 64-69, 81.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Masland, Frank Elmer, Jr.

4657 1957 Colorado River epilogue. The Shuttle (C. H. Masland and Sons), 24(Book 3) (March): 28-32. [Rug and carpet manufacturer, Carlisle, Pennsylvania; "Published for our Retailer Associates".]

4658 1957 Running the Colorado rapids. Explorers Journal, 35(4): cover, 1-4.

Peavy, Robert

4659 1957 Grand Canyon adventure. American Whitewater, 3(3) (Fall): 18-.

White, Georgie

4660 1957 Queen Mary on the Colorado. American White Water, 3(1) (Spring): 21.
With editor's introductory note. Photograph by William Belknap, Jr.

1958

DeRoss, Rose Marie

4661 1958 Adventures of Georgie White, TV's "Woman of the Rivers". Palm Desert, California: Desert Magazine Press, 84 pp.

Grant, Alexander "Zee" G., Jr.

4662 1958 Cockleshell on the Colorado; through the Grand Canyon in a foldboat. American Whitewater, 4(2) (Summer): 26-.

Henrick, Betty

4663 1958 Two weeks on the Colorado River with Georgie White. (Diary by Betty Hendrick, edited by "Uncle" Charlie.) [No imprint], [24] pp. [including wraps]. (Printed by Bob Saltsman, [no place].)

O'Neill, Wendell

4664 1958 Now that Lake Mead is up again . . . Into the Grand Canyon by boat. Sunset, 121 (July): 24-.
[Running up into Grand Canyon from Lake Mead. Principally advice to boaters.] [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Sayre, Joel

4665 1958 Georgie's roaring river; "the average can't imagine!". Sports Illustrated, 8(24) (June 16): 61-72.
Georgie White.

4666 1958 Georgie's roaring river; "characters and cataracts". Sports Illustrated, 8(25) (June 23): 66-72.
Georgie White.

Speirs, Jack

4667 1958 The world's roughest cruise. Outboard, 5(7) (August): 42-44.
Dock Marston, Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1959

Anonymous

- 4668 1959 Wild fight with a river. Life, 47(14) (October 5): 61, 63-64, 66, 68.
Jet boat uprun.

Speirs, Jack

- 4669 1959 Colorado River conquest. Powerboat Quarterly, 1 (Fall): 38-44.

1960

Egan, Jack

- 4670 1960 Grand Canyon's "river rats". Chicago Sunday Tribune Magazine, (June 5): 24-25.

Hartle, Patricia W.

- 4671 1960 Princeton authors. In: Class Notes [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 61(3) (October 7): 32.
About Robert K. Heimann, '48, author of Tobacco and Americans (McGraw-Hill, New York). Notes his summer vacations river-running. "The above picture was taken at river level during a run through the Grand Canyon, and the briar pipe is said to be filled with Half and Half." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Kirschbaum, Walter

- 4672 1960 "Grand" adventure. American Whitewater, 6(3) (November): 5-10.

Lee, Katie

- 4673 1960 Traveling the Canyon's white water highway. Arizona Highways, 36(6) (June): 28-39.
Recalling a hike to Phantom Ranch to meet a Mexican Hat Expeditions trip. On the river, the last mention is Deer Creek; however, the article includes photos and notes pertaining to the lower portion of Grand Canyon.

Marston, Otis Reed "Dock"

- 4674 1960 Grand Canyon white water. American Whitewater, 6(1) (May): 19-21.

1961

Francis, Earl L.

- 4675 1961 "I ran the Colorado River rapids!" (As told to Joseph Stocker.) Cavalcade, 4(1) (May): 24-26, 91-95.

NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (adult situations).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Mannering, Guy

- 4676 1961 Grand Canyon uprun : jet boats conquer the Colorado. Christchurch, New Zealand: C. W. F. Hamilton and Co., Ltd., 16 mm film. 32:00.

See also Mannering (2003).

Morrison, George

- 4677 1961 Up the Colorado—by jet boat. Power Boat, (May). [Cited from an offprint, 8 pp.]

1962

Belknap, William, Jr.

- 4678 1962 Shooting rapids in reverse! Jet boats climb the Colorado's torrent through the Grand Canyon. National Geographic, 121(4) (April): 552-565.

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation

- 4679 1962 Lady of the rapids. Beverly Hills, California: Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation. 16-mm film. 11:00. (Movietone Sports series.)

Georgie White.

1963

Hamilton, Joyce

- 4680 1963 White water : the Colorado Jet Boat Expedition 1960. Christchurch, New Zealand: Caxton Press, 259 pp. [Dust jacket subtitle omits "1960". 1st printing October, 1963; 2nd printing October, 1963. The two printings are identical except the color page in the 2nd printing is lighter than in the 1st, and the notation of the reprinting.] [Also a limited, privately distributed full white suede leather-bound state of 2nd printing, 10 or fewer copies, bound by the book binder David Cookson by arrangement with Guy Mannering. Double box impressed into front and rear covers near edges; five raised bands on backstrip, brown/tan striped head and tail bands; two pebbled white leather labels in gilt ("WHITE WATER" and "JOYCE HAMILTON"); all edges marbled; front and rear endpapers patterned, heavyweight paper; the endpaper map from the front and rear endpapers of the trade copies is accordion-folded and bound in after p. [260], which is blank. (Points regarding the limited leather-bound state of the 2nd printing courtesy of Bill Bishop, Canyon Books, partly in correspondence with Jon Hamilton via Phil Smith.)

See also 50th anniversary ed. (Hamilton, 2010), and Hamilton (no date) listed under "Date Undetermined" in this bibliography.

1964

Belknap, William, Jr.

- 4681 1964 The low-water river runners. Argosy (New York), 358(5): cover, 2, 53-57.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Leydet, François

- 4682 1964 Time and the river flowing: Grand Canyon. (David Brower, ed.) San Francisco: Sierra Club, 179 pp. [With heavy stock exhibition dust jacket, the entire inside of which contains photographs and information on Sierra Club membership and publications.]

Masland, Frank Elmer, Jr.

- 4683 1964 Exploring the Colorado: Lee's Ferry to Lake Mead. National Parks Magazine, 38 (May) (200): 4-7, 15.

1965

Anonymous

- 4684 1965 Shop supervisor travels the Grand Canyon as an avocation. Lockheed Star (Lockheed-California Co.), 32(25) (November 18): 5.

P. T. Reilly.

- 4685 1965 The perils of Delphine. [Part 1.] The Brine Line (American Potash and Chemical Corporation), 13(6) (December): 10-12.

Includes extensive quotations from the diary of Delphine Mohrline. Concluded in February 1966 issue. Commercial Colorado River trip with Georgie White.

Henderson, Randall

- 4686 1965 Rapid descent with Norman Nevills. Westways, 57(10, Part 1): 17-19.

Jones, Les [Jones, Leslie Allen]

- 4687 1965 Grand Canyon at low water. American Whitewater, 11(1) (Summer): 4-.

- 4688 1965 The Colorado at low water. American Whitewater, 11(2) (Autumn): 29-.

Muench, Josef

- 4689 1965 River trip through the Marble and Grand Canyons; a white water adventure. (As told to Joyce Rockwood Muench. Photographs by Josef Muench.) Arizona Highways, 41(4) (April): cover, 1, 10-12, 30-35.

Muench, Joyce Rockwood

- 4690 1965 Georgie White; queen of the rivers. Arizona Highways, 41(4) (April): 2-3.

Segerblom, Gene

- 4691 1965 An amazing river adventure; down the Colorado to Lake Mead. (Paintings by Cliff Segerblom.) Nevada Highways and Parks, 25(2) (Summer): 28-35.

River trip through Grand Canyon in sportyaks.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1966

Anonymous

- 4692 1966 The perils of Delphine. [Part 2.] The Brine Line (American Potash and Chemical Corporation), 14(1) (February): 12-13, 16.

Includes extensive quotations from the diary of Delphine Mohrline. Concluded from December 1965 issue. Commercial Colorado River trip with Georgie White.

- 4693 1966 Scientific lectures. In: Announcement : the University of Michigan Biological Station, Pellston, Michigan, Fifty-eighth Session, June 27 to August 20, 1966. [No imprint], p. 16.

"The following lectures, seminars, and motion pictures were given in 1965. [¶] Colorado River expedition—Elzada U. Clover . . . ." (ENTIRE NOTE)

Den Dooven, K. C.

- 4694 1966 "We ran a river". Western Gateways, 6(1) (Winter): cover, 3-15, 43-45, 47; 6(2) (Spring): 28-32, 34-36.

Ripley, Roy B.

- 4695 1966 Travelling nature's masterpiece. The Kraftsman (Kraft Foods, Chicago), (May/June): cover, contents page, 4-13.

Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon with Georgie White. Also features Georgie's use of Kraft brand foods at meals.

1967

Anonymous

- 4696 1967 Woman of the river. The Limb (Orange, California), (February): cover, 2, 4, 13-15, 17.

Georgie White. Apparently reprinted from Santa Ana Register.

DeRoss, Rose Marie

- 4697 1967 Adventures of Georgie White : TV's "Woman of the Rivers". Costa Mesa, California: Gardner Printing and Mailing Co., 2nd ed., revised, 123 pp.

Hicks, A. C. Reeves

- 4698 1967 46. In: Class Notes [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 67(30) (July 4): 31-32.

See p. 32: "Don Mercer ran the Colorado River last summer from Lees Ferry, Ariz. to Diamond Creek, Ariz. through Grand Canyon. He reports it is as 'really getting away.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

Leydet, François, AND Braun, Ernest

- 4699 1967 Down the Colorado. Holiday, 41(6) (June): 50-55, 118-119.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Ruhlow, Jerry

- 4700 1967 Ride the wild river. California Living (Los Angeles Herald-Examiner), (August 20): 8-12.

Tscharner, Jack, AND Carper, Larry

- 4701 1967 Run the wild Colorado. Rapid City, South Dakota: Jack's Camera Shop. 16-mm film, color, sound.
Sanderson River Expeditions, Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

1968

Abbey, Edward

- 4702 1968 Running the wild river. Sage (Las Vegas, Nevada), 2(3) (Winter): inside front cover, 1-9.

Eller, Stevie, AND Harrington, Janice C.

- 4703 1968 Adventure on the mighty Colorado. Phoenix Magazine, 3(8): 16-17, 50-51.

Fowler, Don D., AND Fowler, Catherine S.

- 4704 1968 (EDS., TRANSCRIBERS) John Wesley Powell's journal: Colorado River exploration, 1871-72. Smithsonian Journal of History, 3(2): 1-44.

Leydet, François

- 4705 1968 Time and the river flowing: Grand Canyon. (David Brower, ed.) San Francisco: Sierra Club; and New York: Ballantine Books, Abridged ed., 160 pp. (A Sierra Club-Ballantine Book.)

Palmer, Dewey H., AND Kittle, George L.

- 4706 1968 Rafting down the Colorado; the best and most exciting way to see the Grand Canyon is from the river at the bottom. Ford Times (Ford Motor Co.), 61(7) (July): cover, contents page, 11-15.
River trip with Georgie White.

Udall, Stewart L.

- 4707 1968 Shooting the wild Colorado. Venture, 5(1) (February): 62-71.

- 4708 1968 "Shooting the Wild Colorado". In: Brooklyn Academy of Music. [Brooklyn, New York]: Brooklyn Academy of Music, [March]: 18-20.

Principally an excerpt from Udall's article in the February 1968 Venture, with an editor's introductory remarks. Advertises a March 20 film showing and lecture by Udall, "An Evening at the Explorers Club". Undated, but publication advertises March 1968 events and quotes from the February article just mentioned.

U.S. Geological Survey, Branch of Astrogeology

- 4709 1968 John Wesley Powell, canyon geologist. Walt Roeder, producer; Edwin D. McKee, director; Carol S. Breed, writer. San Francisco: W. A. Palmer Films. 16-mm film, color. 21:00. (The Powell )

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Centennial Film.) [Also re-released 1981 by National Audiovisual Center, Washington, D.C., in U-matic ¾-inch, Beta ½-inch, and VHS ½-inch formats.]

1969

Anonymous

- 4710 1969 Odyssey of Maj. John Powell's Grand Canyon explorations in 1869. The Crackerbarrel (Elgin Area Historical Society, Illinois), 8(1) (January): 4.
- 4711 1969 Famous trip boosts Powell's career. Reclamation Era, 55(1) (February): 6-10.
- 4712 1969 Emery C. Kolb : oldest Grand Canyon resident now 88 is honored. [No imprint], 3-panel brochure. Banquet honoring Kolb at El Tovar Hotel, May 26, 1969, under the auspices of Northern Arizona University, Northern Arizona Pioneers Association, U.S. Geological Survey, U.S. National Park Service, Grand Canyon American Legion, and Jack Williams, Governor of Arizona.
- 4713 1969 Powell beat the Colorado 100 years ago. Lake Powell Chronicle (John Wesley Powell Centennial Edition, July 31): 8-9.
- 4714 1969 A century of the wild Colorado; John Wesley Powell first braved the river 100 years ago. Life, 67(18) (October 31): 46-51.

Belknap, Buzz [Belknap, William, III]

- 4715 1969 Shooting the Canyon. Travel and Camera, 32 (June): 46-47.

Bora, Jim

- 4716 1969 Many things to many people. Colorado River Adventures, (15): 28-31, 75-76.

Crossley, Robert P.

- 4717 1969 The wildest boat trip in the world. Popular Mechanics, 131(3) (March): 122-126, 237-239.

Dedera, Don

- 4718 1969 Gaylord Lee Staveley; he ran rivers. West (Los Angeles Times), (October 5): 26-28.

Earle, W. Hubert

- 4719 1969 Editor's Notes [COLUMN]. Saguaroland Bulletin (Desert Botanical Garden of Arizona, Phoenix), 23(7) (August/September): 75.

Includes note of having been on a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

- 4720 1969 Editor's Notes [COLUMN]. Saguaroland Bulletin (Desert Botanical Garden of Arizona, Phoenix), 23(8) (October): 87, 95.

See p. 87, advance notice of October 7 meeting of the Cactomaniacs, "followed by slides showing Your Daring Editor's courageous trip down the Colorado River on a rubber raft last July." (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Gronberg, W. E.

- 4721 1969 Down the wild Colorado. Illinois Highway Engineer, 21(1) (First Quarter): 2-4.
Regarding a 1968 Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon with Western Rivers Expeditions, Phantom Ranch to Temple Bar. The author and his wife met the trip via mule on Bright Angel Trail.

Hamilton, Peggy

- 4722 1969 Wild Irishman. Wellington, Auckland, Sydney, and Melbourne: A. H. and A. W. Reed, 214 pp. [Dust jacket adds subtitle, "the story of Bill Hamilton, New Zealand farmer, inventor, engineer, and jet boat pioneer".]
Charles William Feilden Hamilton. See opposite p. 193, pp. 198-206, 207-208.

Hughes, Betty

- 4723 1969 Adventure on the Colorado River. Redbook, (May): 66, 68, 72.
Colorado River rowing trip through Grand Canyon.

Judge, Joseph, AND Edwards, Walter Meayers

- 4724 1969 Retracing John Wesley Powell's historic voyage down the Grand Canyon. National Geographic, 135 (May): 668-713.

Kolb, Ellsworth L.

- 4725 1969 River running 1921: The diary of E. L. Kolb. (W. L. Rusho, ed.) Utah Historical Quarterly, 37: 269-283.

Pearl, Jack

- 4726 1969 The fantastic odyssey. Ten men plummeted into the Great Unknown. The survivors emerged with an incredible story and a permanent place in American history. Boys' Life, 59(5) (May): 28-29, 70-71.
Powell expedition.

Smith, Vera Lee

- 4727 1969 Powell journey bares canyon secrets. National Geographic School Bulletin, 47(30) (May 5): 474-475.

Thompson, John H.

- 4728 1969 A fine Colorado River madness; what did they think they were doing—a couple of middle-agers shooting the meanest rapids in the country? (Photography by Enra Thompson.) Chicago Tribune Magazine (Chicago Tribune, March 2, Section 7): cover, 32-37, 41, 43-44, 48, 50.
Commercial Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Young, John V.

- 4729 1969 Grand Canyon river run. Travel, 131 (February): 40-45, 62.

1970

Anonymous

- 4730 1970 Grand Canyon river expedition : a GAF View-Master guided picture tour. Portland, Oregon: GAF Corporation, [16] pp. [including wraps].
- Booklet A372, accompanying GAF View-Master Stereo Reel package (three reels, nos. A3721-A3723), United States Travel series.

Braun, Ernest

- 4731 1970 Colorado River journal. In: Braun, Ernest, Grand Canyon of the living Colorado. San Francisco: Sierra Club, and New York: Ballantine Books, pp. 65-76.

Currey, Jack

- 4732 1970 (PHOTOGRAPHER, ED., NARRATOR) Run the wild river. (Robert Preston, Richard Preston, Robert E. Moran, associate photographers.) [No place]: Jack Currey Film Productions. 95:00.

Includes training in Grand Canyon for a run on Mexico's Río Grijalva.

DeRoss, Rose Marie

- 4733 1970 Woman of the rivers: White water adventures in the Canyon of the West. Los Angeles, California: The author, revised ed., 123 pp.

Goldwater, Barry M.

- 4734 1970 Delightful journey. Tempe, Arizona: Arizona Historical Foundation, 209 pp. [Trade ed.] [Also a deluxe ed. of 100 copies with leather spine and slipcase.]

Meador, Tom

- 4735 1970 Date: June/July 1970. Destination: Marble and Grand Canyons of the Colorado. Personnel: Tom Meador and others (unnamed). Reported by: Tom Meador. In: Trips [SECTION]. The Texas Caver (Texas Speleological Association), 15(10) (October): 196.

Superficial report of trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon, passing by numerous cave locations.

Pyramid Films

- 4736 1970 Rapids of the Colorado. Santa Monica, California: Pyramid Films, 16-mm film, color, sound. 12:00.
- Sierra Club trip through Grand Canyon, 1969.

Udall, Stewart L.

- 4737 1970 Shooting the wild Colorado. In: Braun, Ernest, Grand Canyon of the living Colorado. San Francisco: Sierra Club, and New York: Ballantine Books, pp. 83-87.

Reprinted from Udall (1968).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1971

Huser, Verne

- 4738 1971 Floating western rivers. Part Two: The Grand Canyon experience. High Country News, 3(12) (June 25): 6-7, 10.

Litton, Martin [Litton, Clyde Martin]

- 4739 1971 Rip-roaring river . . . the rumbling Colorado—architect of the Grand Canyon. Holiday, 49(5): 50-53. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

1972

BBC [British Broadcasting Corporation]

- 4740 1972 The great unknown: Grand Canyon by kayak and raft. (Andrew Faulds, narrator; photography by Paul Berriff; Richard Robinson, writer/producer.)

An episode in The World About Us (David Attenborough, creator, compiler). First aired April 12, 1970.

Burkhart, C. J.

- 4741 1972 How to become a river rat in twenty easy lessons; floating through the Grand Canyon. Travel, 137 (March): 58-63.

Fowler, Don D.

- 4742 1972 (ED.) "Photographed all the best scenery": Jack Hillers' diary of the Powell expeditions, 1871-1875. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press.

Kirschbaum, Walter

- 4743 1972 "Grand" adventure. American Whitewater, 17(4) (Winter): 125-.

Meredith, William

- 4744 1972 At the Confluence of the Colorado and the Little Colorado. The New Yorker, 48(10) (April 29): 105.
Also refer to Conley (1985).

Watson, Angela

- 4745 1972 Dauntless Angela rides through the Grand Canyon; ten-day pontoon voyage. "(As told to Toivo Lindholm, who collaborated with her on this article)". The Deaf American (National Association of the Deaf, Indianapolis, Indiana), 25(4) (December): 3-6.

An Eastertime 1970 trip on the Colorado River with Georgie White. The author, deaf, also notes that her deaf father, David Watson, Sr., worked on Navajo Bridge.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1973

Elliott, Steve

- 4746 1973 Vagabond camera; the challenge of whitewater. Travel, (June): 56, 64-65.
Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

English, Crockett

- 4747 1973 The Flying Longhorns became river runners (on a 190-mile raft trip through the Grand Canyon). Alcalde (University of Texas at Austin Alumni Magazine), 61(4) (March): 12-14.

Huser, Verne

- 4748 1973 Stone Canyon. Summit, 19(4) (May): 8-10.

Hyde, Philip

- 4749 1973 Mountain and desert : a portfolio of twelve lithographic prints. New York: Charles Curtis, Inc., 12 loose prints in paper folder. (The Sierra Club Gallery)

Inside cover leaf of folder contains text by the photographer, "From perception, a gentling influence". Color prints; see: "Marble Gorge, Grand Canyon" [pothole], "Lava Canyon Rapids, Grand Canyon".

Wallace, Robert

- 4750 1974 Wooden boats plus Colorado rapids equals adventure. Smithsonian, 5(2) (May): cover, 36-43.

1975

Crouch, Dee

- 4751 1975 Wild water anthology. Mountain Gazette, (32) (April): 22-23. [Pages also with sidebar notations, "Blackadar 1" and "Blackadar 2".]
See p. 22, "Lava Falls, Grand Canyon, Arizona: Summer, 1970".

1976

Huser, Verne

- 4752 1976 Grand Canyon Easter. Down River, 3(4) (April): 14-17.
Colorado River trip.

Sussman, Gordy

- 4753 1976 Kayaking the Grand Canyon. Down River, 3(4) (April): cover, 11-13.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Sykes, Glenton Godfrey

- 4754 1976 Life a mile down. In: People on the River [FEATURE]. Journal of Arizona History, 17(1) (Spring): 39-43.

1977

Abbey, Edward

- 4755 1977 . . . White water ramblers. (Illustration by Dan Clyne.) Playboy, 24(8) (August): 88-90, 114, 167, 172, 174-175. [Ellipsis is part of title, continuing the title of the article by Richard Fegley, "Riverboat gamblers" (see below).] [Table of contents page for this number gives title as "White-Water Ramblers".]

Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).

- 4756 1977 A journal. In: Blaustein, John, The hidden canyon : a river journey. New York: Viking Press, pp. 25-40, 65-72, 105-111.

Abbey, Rita Deanin

- 4757 1977 Rivertrip. (Foreword by Frank Waters.) Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, 69 pp.

Fegley, Richard

- 4758 1977 (PHOTOGRAPHER) Riverboat gamblers. Playboy, 24(8) (August): 81-87.

Cover tease: "Wet women! Patti McGuire and friends conquer the Colorado". Publication and article contains material for mature audience (nudity). See also letters in November issue, 24(11): 11-12, under heading "Canyon Caper".

Blaustein, John

- 4759 1977 (PHOTOGRAPHY) Just keep your head above water. Sports Illustrated, 47(5) (August 1): cover, 24-29.

Cover tease: "Running a Wild River; Down the Colorado Rapids"; table of contents (p. 3) gives title as "Running the Colorado".

- 4760 1977 The hidden canyon : a river journey. (A Journal, by Edward Abbey; Introduction, by Martin Litton). New York: Viking Press, 136 pp. (including 99 plates). [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

Points (fide Richard Quartaroli): hardbound, black spine, dust jacket black spine; 2nd printing, March 1978, same spine.

- 4761 1977 The hidden canyon : a river journey. (A Journal, by Edward Abbey; Introduction, by Martin Litton). New York: Penguin Books, 136 pp. (including 99 plates).

Points (fide Richard Quartaroli): paperback, white spine; reprinted 1978, orange spine; reprinted 1981, white spine; reprinted 1983, orange spine; reprinted 1986, orange spine.

Buchwald, Art

- 4762 1977 Down the Seine and up the Potomac with Art Buchwald. New York: Putnam, 500 pp.

Includes Robert Kennedy family trip on Colorado River.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Clark, Georgie White

- 4763 NO DATE (WITH Duane Newcomb) Georgie Clark : thirty years of river running. San Francisco: Chronicle Books, 165 pp. [1977.]

Howard, Dave

- 4764 1977 12 days on the Colorado. Desert Magazine, 40(8) (August): cover, 3, 24-29.
- ARTA (American River Touring Association) trip through Grand Canyon; rowing to Diamond Creek, motor below to Pearce Ferry.

Ludtke, Melissa

- 4765 1977 Grandeur and turmoil. In: Blaustein, John (photographs), Just keep your head above water. Sports Illustrated, 47(5) (August 1): 29.

1978

Abbey, Edward

- 4766 1978 A journal. In: Blaustein, John, The hidden canyon : a river journey. New York: Penguin Books, pp. 25-40, 65-72, 105-111.
- 4767 1978 White water ramblers. In: Babbitt, Bruce (compiler), Grand Canyon: An anthology. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Press, pp. 203-218.
- Reprints the text of Abbey (1977).

[Anderson, Fletcher]

- 4768 1978 The big sneak; a record passage (illegal as hell) through the Grand Canyon. (Illustrated by Gary Barnard.) Mountain Gazette, 6(9) (70) (June): 8-13.
- Colorado River solo speed run through Grand Canyon, without permit. Published anonymously. (Account published under Anderson's name following his death; see Anderson, 2006.)

Cooper, Tim

- 4769 1978 An exploration of the Little Colorado River gorge. Mountain Gazette, (76/77) (December 1978/January 1979): 8-11.

Duggleby, John

- 4770 1978 Whitewater: a many-splendored fling. Discovery (Allstate Motor Club Magazine), 18(3) (Summer): cover, 3, 12-15.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Huber, Otto

- 4771 1978 Katarakte im Grand Canyon; in der Waschtrommel des Colorado. In: Schäfer, Max (ed.), Durch Strudel und wilde Wasser : Verwegene Fahrten mit Kajak, Floß und Dschunke : Abenteuerberichte aus 5 Kontinenten. Würzburg: Arena Verlag Georg Popp, pp. 201-211. [In German.]
(transl. 'Cataracts in the Grand Canyon; in the washing drum of the Colorado' in 'Through whirlpools and wild waters: daring trips in kayaks, rafts and junks: adventure reports from 5 continents')

Nash, Roderick Frazier

- 4772 1978 The big drops : ten legendary rapids of the American West. San Francisco: Sierra Club Books, 215 pp.

Short, Vaughn

- 4773 1978 Raging River, Lonely Trail : tales told by the campfire's glow. Tucson: Two Horses Press, 159 pp.
Verses, with narrative preceding each poem.

1979

Abbey, Edward, AND Blaustein, John

- 4774 1979 The river rowdies hit the water. California Living (Los Angeles Herald Examiner), (August 26): cover, 20-23, 28, 34-35.

[Anderson, Fletcher]

- 4775 1979 The ultimate cruise or race to oblivion? A search for the solo speed record in the Grand Canyon . . . breaking all the rules! Canoe, 7(2) (March): 28-31. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
Colorado River solo speed run through Grand Canyon, without permit. Published anonymously. (Account published under Anderson's name following his death; see Anderson, 2006.)

Anderson, Martin J.

- 4776 1979 First through the Grand Canyon: Powell's lucky voyage in 1869. Journal of Arizona History, 20(4) (Winter): 391-403.

Harrington, Mary

- 4777 1979 Colorado River trip. The Big Sur Gazette (Big Sur, California), 2(9) (September): 23.

Jones, Beverly F., AND Smith, Betty H.

- 4778 1979 We went white-water rafting. Today's Education, 68(2): 54-55.

Mercado, Mary

- 4779 1979 River run is rain, rapids, rainbows. The Missile Ranger (White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico), 31(46) (November 23): 4.

About the author's trip on the Colorado River, Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch. Note: The serial "is published by Wendall Faught, an individual, in no way officially connected with the Department of Army"; banner indicates,

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

"Published in the interest of personnel at White Sands Missile Range"; a notice on p. 5 indicates that all news copy and photos should be sent to the Public Affairs Officer, White Sands Missile Range.

1980

Baars, Donald L.

- 4780 1980 Grand Canyon by river. In: Euler, Robert C., and Tikalsky, Frank (eds.), The Grand Canyon up close and personal. [Dillon, Montana]: Western Montana College Foundation, pp. 59-78.

Galland, China

- 4781 1980 Women in the wilderness. New York: Harper and Row, 162 pp.
Colorado River trip, see pp. 7-23.

Klausman, Hank

- 4782 1980 Grand Canyon whitewater. Georgia Canoeing Association, Inc., Newsletter (Atlanta), 15(7) (July): [7]-[8], (8) (August): [6]-[7].

Raft-supported kayak trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon, ending at Whitmore helipad where the author leaves the trip. One member of trip stays with raft to Pearce Ferry (but without details). Articles are reproduced as facsimiles of typewritten pages, with pagination applied handwritten on these leaves as [1]-4 in July issue and 1-2 in August issue, but the newsletters are themselves unpaginated and true counted pagination is as indicated in the citation.

Meredith, William

- 4783 1980 The Cheer. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 62 pp. [Dust jacket title: The Cheer : poems.]
See "At the Confluence of the Colorado and the Little Colorado", p. 20 (dedicated to Lee and Stewart Udall (p. [vii])). Reprinted from The New Yorker (Meredith, 1972).

1981

Anonymous

- 4784 1981 Will environment win new game in Washington? Georgia Conservancy Newsletter, 10(6) (June): 1, 4.

See p. 1, reference to Secretary of the Interior James Watt's poor experience on the start of a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

Aleson, Harry L.

- 4785 1981 Adventure on the Colorado; after a hot, dry climb down into the canyon, two river runners faced the dangerous rapids of the Colorado. Beehive History (Utah State Historical Society), (7): 14-18.

The "1946 Raft Drift" by Aleson and Georgie White, Parashant Wash to Emery Falls.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Abbey, Edward

- 4786 1982 Down the river. New York: E. P. Dutton, 242 pp.
See "In the Canyon", pp. 144-148.

Fisher, Karen

- 4787 1981 (PRODUCER) White-water raft trip. (Photographs by Richard Steedman.) Cosmopolitan, 190 (May): 244-247.

Greene, Virginia A.

- 4788 1981 Into the Grand Canyon with a mop; cruising Lake Mead in a houseboat, a peaceful respite from the chaos of civilization. Desert Magazine, 44(8) (September): 27-29.

Hartman, Tom

- 4789 1981 First things. Sweet Briar College Library Gazette (Friends of the Mary Helen Cochran Library, Sweet Briar College, Sweet Briar, Virginia), 15(1) (Winter): 3-4.
See p. 3, brief remarks on a Grand Canyon river trip with his wife, Margaret, "some years ago in company of a poet-geologist friend" (unnamed).

Heald, Weldon F.

- 4790 1981 1941: The eighteenth expedition. In: Schullery, Paul (ed.), The Grand Canyon : early impressions. Boulder, Colorado: Colorado Associated University Press, pp. 173-189.
Reprint of Heald (1948). Nevills 1941 trip.

Lopez, Barry

- 4791 1981 Into the earth; a journey for the soul. Notre Dame Magazine, (May):.
Accompanying the Paul Winter Consort on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.
- 4792 1981 Into the earth. Plateau, 53(3): 29-32.
Excerpted from Notre Dame Magazine.

Morell, Virginia

- 4793 1981 To be a boatman. Outside, 6(7) (December 1981/January 1982): 28-34, 77-78.

Stevens, Larry

- 4794 1981 A boatman's lessons. Plateau, 53(3): 24-28.

1982

Carr, Kate

- 4795 1982 River song. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 42.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Don Briggs

- 4796 1982 Wet shorts. San Francisco: Don Briggs. 16-mm film, color. 5:00.
No narration.

Glass, Melody

- 4797 1982 [Poem written in Grand Canyon, August 1982.] In: Colorado River Investigations I : July/August 1982. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University, and Museum of Northern Arizona, p. [iii].

Hayes, Laird

- 4798 1982 71. In: Class Notes [SECTION]. Princeton Alumni Weekly, (June 1): 48.

Includes note, "Chip Kaufman is an architect in San Diego, and between projects he can be seen kayaking down the Colorado through the Grand Canyon and singing the ballad, 'Lava Falls is a Piece of Cake.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)]

Ingram, Linda

- 4799 1982 Raven. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, pp. 10-11.

- 4800 1982 Enclosure. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 26.

- 4801 1982 Lava Falls. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 43.

Jefferson, Mark

- 4802 1982 The river plunges on. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 41.

Lee, Katie

- 4803 1982 River. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 40.

- 4804 1982 The Colorado to his captors. In: Thorum, Reho R. (ed.), Canyon voices : a selection of poetry about the Grand Canyon. Fredonia, Arizona: Reho R. Thorum, p. 48.

Ottenson, Jan

- 4805 1982 Rafting through the Grand Canyon. Cosmopolitan, 192 (June): 102, 104, 108.

Rose, Anthony J.

- 4806 1982 Rio Cañon. In: Colorado River Investigations I : July/August 1982. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University, and Museum of Northern Arizona, p. [iv].

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Winter, Paul

- 4807 1982 Missa Gaia : Earth Mass : a mass in celebration of Mother Earth recorded live in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and the Grand Canyon. Litchfield, Connecticut: Living Music, two 33½ rpm records, 16-page LP-sized booklet. [Also CD, LD0002.]

1983

Abarbanel, Karin

- 4808 1983 Wet 'n wild; riding the rapids with Marianna Allred Hopkins. Executive Female, 6 (January/February): 8-9.

Hopkins is a river guide for Grand Canyon Expeditions.

Chandler, Mitzi

- 4809 1983 Boatwoman on the Colorado; navigating Lava Falls and cooking up gourmet meals are all in a day's work. National Parks and Conservation Magazine, 57 (November/December): 8-11.

Cindy Burns, National Park Service, Grand Canyon, Colorado River Unit.

Grout, Bill

- 4810 1983 Riding the rivers. Express (Amtrak), 3(6) (June): 26-30, 32, 34.

1984

Anonymous

- 4811 1984 Grand Canyon dory trip. National Geographic World, 106 (June): 3-9.

Abbey, Edward

- 4812 1984 Down the river. In: Huser, Verne (ed.), River reflections : an anthology. Charlotte, North Carolina: East Woods Press, pp. 222-231.

Bell, Bob Boze

- 4813 1984 The best of Bob Boze Bell Low Blows. Phoenix: New Times, Inc./BBB Books, 120 pp

Parodies, gathered from Bell's columns. See "Grand Canyon Trailblazers", pp. 110-113 (author's Colorado River trip).

Byars, Betty

- 4814 1984 Poem by Betty Byars. In: Beus, Stanley S., and Carothers, Steven W. (eds.), Colorado River Investigations II : July/August 1983. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University, for U.S. National Park Service, Grand Canyon National Park, p. 175.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Editors of Canoe Magazine

- 4815 NO DATE The ultimate canoe challenge : May 1980-December 1983 : 28,000 miles. [No imprint.] [Separate. Cover notes, "Complimentary Copy For Store Customers".] [1984.]
- 4816 1984 The ultimate canoe challenge; May 1980-December 1983; 28,000 miles. Canoe, (October): cover, 35-56 (with interleaved advertising pages).
- For a book-length treatment see Kruger and Frenz (2005). Includes uprun of the Colorado River.

Huser, Verne

- 4817 1984 (ED.) River reflections : an anthology. Charlotte, North Carolina: East Woods Press, 268 pp. [Reprinted Globe Pequot Press (Chester, Connecticut, 1988) and University of New Mexico Press (Albuquerque, 2005).]

Lojko, Frank B.

- 4818 1984 Thoughts upon observing a millennia [sic] of time. In: Beus, Stanley S., and Carothers, Steven W. (eds.), Colorado River Investigations II : July/August 1983. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University, for U.S. National Park Service, Grand Canyon National Park, p. 179.

Nelson, Wayde

- 4819 1984 Canyon emotions. In: Beus, Stanley S., and Carothers, Steven W. (eds.), Colorado River Investigations II : July/August 1983. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University, for U.S. National Park Service, Grand Canyon National Park, p. 180.

Udall, James R.

- 4820 1984 The burble line. Outside, 9(3) (April): 73-74.
Lava Falls.

Walsh, Dennis M.

- 4821 1984 The river trip. In: Beus, Stanley S., and Carothers, Steven W. (eds.), Colorado River Investigations II : July/August 1983. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University, for U.S. National Park Service, Grand Canyon National Park, p. 181.

Whitford, Deborah A.

- 4822 1984 Georgie and the river rats. Nevada Magazine, 44(3): 37-38, 55-56.
Georgie White Clark.

Yarrow, Ruth

- 4823 1984 Down Marble Canyon. [No imprint], [20] pp. (A Wind Chimes Minibook, 7.) [First ed. of 200 copies.]
- Haiku, from a rafting trip on the Colorado River.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1985

Anonymous

4824 1985 The Keeling caper. Hibernacle News, 1985: [31].
Marriage at Fern Glen, Grand Canyon.

4825 1985 River of no return. Newlook, 1(3) (July): 78-91.
Photos credited to John Blaustein, Woodfin Camp & Associates, and Cosmos (see p. 4), but not indicated with individual photos. [NOTE: Serial contains material for a mature audience (nudity) but this article does not.]

Abbey, Edward

4826 1985 Down the river. In: Huser, Verne (ed.), River reflections : an anthology. Chester, Connecticut: Globe Pequot Press, pp. 222-231.

Bernstein, Aaron

4827 1985 Rafting through the Grand Canyon's grandeur. Business Week, (August 26): 103-104.

Conley, Cort

4828 1985 (COMPILER) Gathered waters : an anthology of river poems selected by Cort Conley. Cambridge, Idaho: Backeddy Books, [vi], II, 112, [1] pp.

See p. 56, "At the Confluence of the Colorado and the Little Colorado", by William Meredith. See Meredith (1972, 1980, 1985). This is the only poem in the volume that is pertinent to this bibliography.

There are two states for Conley's compilation, each of 2,000 copies. State 1 (cancelled): [No date (preface, p. II, dated 1985); title-page verso notes only, "Copyrights for individual poems appear on the permissions pages, which should be considered an extension of this page."; perfect-bound in four signatures, no dust jacket, in blue wraps, ink color on covers 1 and 4 graded dark to light from top to bottom, "Gathered Waters" in white, "An Anthology of River Poems Selected by Cort Conley" in blue; rear cover with Backwater Books imprint and colophon; rules at tops of pages are misaligned.] State 2: [Title-page verso indicates, "Copyright 1985 by Cort Conley[,] All Rights Reserved[,] ISBN 0-9-3566-8-0[.] Copyrights for individual poems appear on the permissions pages, which should be considered an extension of this page. Distributed by Backeddy Books[,] Box 301, Cambridge, Idaho 83610[.] Printing limited to 2,000 copies. No. _____ [with enumeration handwritten]"; perfect-bound in eight signatures, in white wraps, title and subtitle in blue ink; with dust jacket, laminated on outside, blue-gray ink color graded dark to light from top to bottom on front and rear, "Gathered Waters" in white, "An Anthology of River Poems Selected by Cort Conley" in blue; front gatefold includes price, "$9.95"; rear cover includes Backeddy Books imprint and colophon; spine of wraps and dust jacket both include the Backeddy Books colophon (absent on wraps spine in 1st state).] Page [113] provides identical production information for both states.

The following information fide Cort Conley to E.E.S., January 2, 2017: First printing (i.e. 1st state) with printer's errors (rules at page tops not aligned) and shipping damage. Second printing (i.e. 2nd state) at the printer's expense, with errors corrected and dust jacket added. The balance of the imperfect 1st state was sent to Conley, who has distributed them gratis over time. Conley added: "I'd given each poet a sheet of the same text paper and asked them to sign their autograph three times. Once collected, they were pasted into three special copies that were bound in pale green goatskin with a watch crystal in the cover that had tiny river pebbles in it." These copies were given away.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Daniel, Joseph E.

- 4829 1985 Serious water. Yacht, (September/October): 102-109.

Getchel, Dave

- 4830 1985 It's all in the draw of the cards. Canoe, 13(2) (April): 58-65.
Open canoe descent of Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Gottesleben, Monika

- 4831 1985 [Travel in the Southwest.] PULS (Monatsheft der Gruppen IMPULS und Ce Be eF, Club Behinderter und Ihrer FreundInnen) [Switzerland], 27(8) (September): 32-35. [In German.]
Includes an untitled poem, p. 32. Grand Canyon noted, pp. 32, 33-34. (Translation of organizational imprint: 'Monthly magazine of the Groups IMPULS and Ce Be eF, Club for Disabled People and Their Friends'.)

Hartman, Joseph H.

- 4832 1985 Rafting the Grand Canyon. Encounters (Science Museum of Minnesota), (January/February):.
Lake Mead section only, up from the lake into the Lower Granite Gorge of Grand Canyon.

Knowlton, Smokey (family) [Knowlton, Robert V., et al.]

- 4833 1985 River love : the Colorado River : from the Rockies 1,450 miles to Mexico : with the Smokey Knowlton family. La Habra, California: Smokey Knowlton (printed by Litho Graphics, Garden Grove, California), 112 pp.

Lavender, David

- 4834 1985 Up the down-river; exploring the lower Grand Canyon by canoe. Arizona Highways, 61(9) (September): 12-17.

Access on Lake Mead.

- 4835 1985 River runners of the Grand Canyon. [Tucson]: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, and University of Arizona Press, 147 pp. [Title-page verso indicates: "Clothbound edition published by the University of Arizona Press, Tucson, Arizona [AND] Paperbound edition published by Grand Canyon Natural History Association, Grand Canyon, Arizona." Title-page imprint of hardbound state lists both publishers; paperbound state lists Grand Canyon Natural History Association.]

Litton, Martin [Litton, Clyde Martin]

- 4836 1985 The Grand Canyon from the bottom up . . . Westways, 77(6): 51-55. [Ellipsis is part of title; conjoined with article by John R. Skinner (see in Part II of this bibliography).]

Netherby, Steve

- 4837 1985 Floating the Colorado; this raft trip through spectacular canyons and thunderous rapids, also offers great fishing and camping for the whole family. Field and Stream, 89(12) (April): 123-124.

Piasecki, Barb

- 4838 1985 Boatwomen of the Colorado. Northern Arizona Life, 2(6) (August): 15-18.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Thybony, Scott

- 4839 1985 Waterproof jazz. In: Dispatches [SECTION]. Outside, (October): 16.
Paul Winter Consort.

Welch, Randy

- 4840 1985 Kayaking the Grand. American Whitewater, 30(2) (March/April): 26-.

Winter, Paul

- 4841 1985 Canyon : a celebration of the Grand Canyon. Sausalito, California: Living Music Records. 33 $\frac{1}{3}$  rpm record. LMRC-6.

- 4842 1985 Canyon consort. The Paul Winter Consort in the Grand Canyon. San Francisco: Open Circle, Inc. Video.

1986

Bangs, Richard

- 4843 1986 Flipping out. In: Dispatches [SECTION]. Outside, 11(4) (April): 19-20.

Colorado River in Grand Canyon used to shoot boating mishap scenes for "Dream West", a CBS mini-series about John C. Frémont. See also Abyssus (1998).

Calvin, William H.

- 4844 1986 The river that flows uphill : a journey from the Big Bang to the big brain. New York: Macmillan Publishing Co., 528 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.] [1st ed.] [Also printed by Sierra Club Books (San Francisco, 1986).]

A scientist's diary of a two-week trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Kieffer, Susan Werner

- 4845 1986 The rapids of the Colorado River, Grand Canyon, Arizona. U.S. Geological Survey, Open-File Report 86-503. Video. 21:00.

Technical.

Madsen, Lisa D.

- 4846 1986 Georgie! Woman of the river. Wildwater, 7(2) (April/May): cover, 3, 20-35.

Georgie White. "Part I: A Woman and a River", pp. 20-30; "Part 2: A Trip with Georgie", pp. 30-35.

McDowell, Matt, AND Sanford, Ron

- 4847 1986 Wrestling white water; a tale of 12 survivors. The Rotarian, 148(2) (February): 30-33.

Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek. "We had three 15-foot (4.6-metre) 1953 army surplus rafts, a double-oar system that had never been tested, and three guides who had never navigated the Colorado."

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Van Peenen, John

4848 1986 Colorado River memories. (Pen and ink drawings by Toni Evins.) Wildwater, 7(2) (April/May): 36-37.

Poems: "Leaving Havasu" (p. 36), "Blacktail Canyon" (p. 36), "Excerpt from The Lay of Lava Falls" (p. 37).

Webber, Michael John

4849 1986 Riding the rapids in the Grand Canyon. (Photography by Michael K. Nichols.) Travel and Leisure, 16(4): 96-103, 122, 124-127.

Welch, Randy

4850 1986 Yakpacking the Colorado River. American Whitewater, 31(1) (January/February): 24-.

1987

Anonymous

4851 1987 River runners: A selection of profiles. Wildwater, (Spring): 33-37.

See p. 35, "Georgie Clark, 'Woman of the River,' Las Vegas, Nevada".

Anderson, Martin J.

4852 1987 Artist in the wilderness; Frederick Dellenbaugh's Grand Canyon adventure. Journal of Arizona History, 28(1) (Spring): 47-68.

Barroff, Marie

4853 1987 Rafting down the Grand Canyon: a meditation. Virginia Quarterly Review, 63 (Summer): 498-514.

Clark, Georgie White

4854 1987 Tales from a river woman. (As told to Deborah Whitford.) Women's Sports and Fitness, 9(4) (April): 38-41, 71.

Cook, William

4855 1987 The Wen, the Botany, and the Mexican Hat : the adventures of the first women through Grand Canyon, on the Nevills Expedition. Orangeville, California: Callisto Books, 151 pp.

Erhart, Margie

4856 1987 Watching the water: Grand Canyon journal. In: Niemi, Judith, and Wieser, Barbara (eds.), Rivers running free : canoeing stories by adventurous women. Minneapolis, Minnesota: Bergamot Books. [See also reprinting, 1992.]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Flavell, George F.

- 4857 1987 The log of the Panthon : an account of an 1896 river voyage from Green River, Wyoming to Yuma, Arizona through the Grand Canyon. (Neil B. Carmony and David E. Brown, eds.) Boulder, Colorado: Pruett Publishing, 109 pp.

The first wholly recreational Colorado River trip.

Goldwater, Barry M.

- 4858 1987 Down the mighty Colorado. Phoenix Home and Garden, 7(3) (January): 98-100, 104, 107-110, 112-114.

Extracts from Goldwater (1970).

Grand Canyon Natural History Association

- 4859 1987 River song. Richard Chamberlain, narrator; Don Briggs, producer, director, cinematographer; Michael Collier and Charlie Pearson, writers; Arnold Black, composer; Sandra Scott, executive producer). Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association. Videotape. 30:00. [Also a version in Japanese.]

Sasowski, Ira

- 4860 1987 Caving adventure. P.B.S.S. Spylunk (National Speleological Society, Permian Basin Speleological Society Grotto, Texas), 4(3) (May/June): 4.

Aborted attempt to raft in Thunder River Cave and Tapeats Cave. Also "hitchhiked" with a commercial group on the Colorado River from Tapeats Creek to Deer Creek, stopping to see Christmas Tree Cave.

Sun Time Productions

- 4861 1987 River of the Grand Canyon : the high adventure of river running. W. L. "Bud" Ruscho, writer, director; Bob Hart and Shauna Abdalla, narrators. Sun Time Productions. 41:00. [Also a version with Japanese narration.]

1988

Beer, Bill

- 4862 1988 We swam the Grand Canyon. Seattle, Washington: The Mountaineers, 171 pp.

Csatari, Jeff

- 4863 1988 The ultimate GORP recipe; it's not just raisins and peanuts. Boys' Life, 78(8) (August): 63.

Recipe "used recently for a raft trip through the Grand Canyon", for 16 people. GORP: Good Ol' Raisins 'n' Peanuts.

Daniel, Joseph E.

- 4864 1988 Grand Canyon. Buzzworm, 1(1) (Summer): 54-.

Rafting.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Furmaniuk, Zygmund W., Jr.

- 4865 1988 A grand squirting river trip. American Whitewater, 33(2) (March/April): 36-37, 47.

Geslin, Ned, AND Merritt, Jim

- 4866 1988 For a Hollywood script analyst and an Arizona river rat, ain't love grand, canyon style? People Weekly, 30(19) (November 7): 161-162, 164, 166.

Lavender, David, AND Edwards, David

- 4867 1988 Niches in time; side-trip adventures in the Grand Canyon. Arizona Highways, 64(7) (July): 24-31.

Lopez, Barry

- 4868 1988 Crossing open ground. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 208 pp. [Also reprinted by Vintage Books (New York, 1989).]

See "Gone Back Into the Earth", pp. 41-54; from Lopez (1981).

Rennicke, Jeff

- 4869 1988 The Colorado River; Grand Canyon. In: Rennicke, Jeff (contributing ed.), River days : travels on western rivers : a collection of essays. Golden, Colorado: Fulcrum, Inc., pp. 34-43.

Reprinted slightly revised from River Runner (not seen).

1989

Carrier, Jim

- 4870 1989 Down the Colorado : travels on a western waterway. Boulder, Colorado: Roberts Rinehart, Inc., 141 pp. (Copyright The Denver Post Corporation.)

FG/Media

- 4871 1989 Rafting the Grand Canyon. Ross, California: FG/Media. Frank Gerin, writer, narrator. 30:00.

Wilderness River Adventures video; title from box cover, no title or formal credits in film.

Fowler, Don D.

- 4872 1989 The western photographs of John K. Hillers: Myself in the water. Washington, D.C.: Smithsonian Institution Press, 166 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

Grua, Kenton

- 4873 1989 The ramp at the Ferry has seen some pretty strange trips rigging out but this one had to take the prize. Grand Canyon River Guides [newsletter], 2(1) (May): 4. [Issue number erroneously marked 2(2).]

AZRA, Tour West, and Grand Canyon Expeditions motor rigs with some 25 crew, "one or two from just about every company in the Canyon", ready for the first annual GCRG Guides' Training Seminar.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Nash, Roderick Frazier

- 4874 1989 The big drops : ten legendary rapids of the American West. Boulder, Colorado: Johnson Books, revised ed., 216 pp.

O'Connor, Stephen

- 4875 1989 Rescue. New York: Harmony Books, 180 pp. [Dust jacket title: Rescue : stories by Stephen O'Connor.]

See "A Current in the Earth" (pp. 127-171), a prose and verse rendition of the Powell expeditions.

Pyle, Betsy

- 4876 1989 Paddling an open boat through the Grand Canyon—not your typical vacation for a couple. American Whitewater, 34(2) (March/April): 42-.

1990

Annerino, John

- 4877 1990 Aventura en el Rio Colorado. Geomundo (Mexico): 14(8): cover, 172-181. [In Spanish.]

Calvin, William H.

- 4878 1990 De rivier die tegen de berg opstroomt : een reis naar de oorsprong van de aarde en de mens. (Ronald Jonkers, translator.) Amsterdam: Bert Bakker, 692 pp. [In Dutch.]

Translation of The River That Flows Uphill (Calvin, 1986).

Dimock, Brad

- 4879 1990 Havazoo. Grand Canyon River Guides [newsletter], 3(4) (October): 6.

Fowler, Don D., AND Fowler, Catherine S.

- 4880 1990 John Wesley Powell's journal: Colorado River expedition 1871-1872. Canyon Legacy (Dan O'Laurie Museum), (5): 2-12.

Hood, Charles

- 4881 1990 Red sky, red water : Powell on the Colorado. Tucson: SUN/gemini Press, [unpaginated]. (A Sun Lizard/Desert Southwest Book.) [Paperback (stiff gatefold wraps), hardback, and "Special Signed Edition" states (from the fly leaf). "Of an edition of 500, 50 are trade bound and 25 are specially bound, signed, and lettered." (last page).]

Dated verses, following the narrative of John Wesley Powell's Exploration of the Colorado River and Its Tributaries (1875). A 1990 date is indicated on title-page and in Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data (title-page verso); title-page verso also indicates, "copyright 1991 by Charles Hood (Introduction, Text, and Notes)." Cover painting in oil, "Horizon", by Rose Mary Mack, 1978. Calligraphy by Barbara E. Nielsen, based on the handwriting of Samuel F. Dellenbaugh. Drawings by Charles Hood.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Jacka, Lois, AND Jacka, Jerry

- 4882 1990 Canyon magic. Arizona Highways, 66(4) (April): 10-15, outside back cover. [Also reprinted 2018.]
Rafting the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Kraus, Manfred

- 4883 1990 Grand Canyon : ein Schwimmer trotz dem Colorado. Munich: Komplett-Video. Video. [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon: a swimmer in spite of the Colorado')

1991

Bombeck, Erma

- 4884 1991 When you look like your passport photo, it's time to go home. New York: HarperCollins, 256 pp.
[1st ed., 1st state is a larger format with embossed dust jacket.]
See "Rafting Down the Grand Canyon", pp. 150-158.

Garber, Pat

- 4885 1991 Canyon wall. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 4(2) (Summer): 18.

Grove, Ed

- 4886 1991 The Colorado's red hair turns gray. Canoe, 19(2): 42-.

Maurer, Bruno

- 4887 1991 Der Grand Canyon des Colorado. Kanu-Sport (Wien), (January): 17-21. [In German.]
(transl. 'The Grand Canyon of the Colorado')

Moody, Tom

- 4888 1991 Being a boatman. Grand Canyon River Guides [newsletter], 4(1) (February): 14.

Short, Vaughn

- 4889 1991 A boatman's prayer. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 4(2) (Summer): 14.

Steiger, Lew

- 4890 1991 Glory days; a boatman's story. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 4(2) (Summer): 10-12.

Suran, William C. [Suran, Bill]

- 4891 1991 The Kolb brothers of Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Natural History Association, 60 pp. [Cover adds subtitle: Being a collection of tales of high adventure, memorable incidents, and humorous anecdotes.]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Swift, E. M.

- 4892 1991 Simply grand; roughriding in the Grand Canyon can be both unbelievable and unforgettable. (Photographs by Mark Gamba.) Sports Illustrated, 75(1) (July 1): 60-72, 74.
Rowing trip through Grand Canyon.

1992

Anonymous

- 4893 1992 The mother of all takeouts. Hibernacle News, 1992: 10-14. [Item signed "Vince".]

Bennett, Jeff

- 4894 1992 (CONTRIBUTING ED.) Class five chronicles : things mother never told you 'bout whitewater. Portland, Oregon: Swiftwater Publishing Co., 256 pp.

See pp. 51-58, 208-209.

Canyon State Video Productions

- 4895 1990 Georgie : "Woman of the River". Canyon State Video Productions. 35:00.

- 4896 1992 Lady of adventure. Georgie Clark, narrator. Video. 35:00

Dierker, Daniel H. [Dierker, Dan]

- 4897 1992 Triple your pleasure, triple your fun. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(4) (Fall): 8-9.
Triple rigs.

Erhart, Margie

- 4898 1992 Watching the water: Grand Canyon journal. In: Niemi, Judith, and Wieser, Barbara (eds.), Rivers running free : canoeing stories by adventurous women. Seattle, Washington: Seal Press, pp. 275-282. [Reprinting of Erhart (1987). Also 2nd ed., Adventura Books (Seattle, 1997).]

Ghiglieri, Michael P.

- 4899 1992 Canyon. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, 311 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]
Narratives of running the Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

Helin, Nancy Coker

- 4900 1992 By the light of the silvery moon. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(4) (Fall): 6.

Kempster, Jano

- 4901 1992 All women's trip. Hibernacle News, 1992: 17. [Item signed "Jano".]

Kron, John

- 4902 1992 Matkatamiba. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(4) (Fall): 24.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Michelmore, Peter

- 4903 1992 Capsize at Crystal Rapids; a river adventure meant to draw a family closer now threatened to destroy it. Reader's Digest, 141 (October): 68-73.

Moody, Tom

- 4904 1992 Moving up to second boatman. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(2) (Spring): 2.

Murphy, Shane

- 4905 1992 On big boats without water. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(2) (Spring):.

Porter, Marianne Mullins

- 4906 1992 White knuckle holiday; rafting the Colorado. Adventure West, (Summer/Fall) [Premier Issue]: 18-24.

[Reynolds, Steve]

- 4907 1992 Rudi interviews Wren. Hibernacle News, 1992: 20.
Crystal Rapid, June 27, 1983.

Ross, Laurie

- 4908 1992 [Untitled.] The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 5(4) (Fall): 19.

Valentine, Dan

- 4909 1992 What is a dory cook? Hibernacle News, 1992: 16.
Left in the Stone Creek mailbox, dated August 6, 1988.

Westwood, Richard E. [Westwood, Dick]

- 4910 1992 Rough-water man : Elwyn Blake's Colorado River expeditions. (Foreword by Bruce Babbitt.) Reno, Nevada: University of Nevada Press, 259 pp.

White, James

- 4911 1992 Passage through the great cañon of the Colorado (1867) (as told to Dr. Charles C. Parry and Alfred R. Calhoun). In: Carmony, Neil B., and Brown, David E. (eds.), Tough times in rough places : personal narratives of adventure, death and survival on the western frontier. Silver City, New Mexico: High-Lonesome Books, pp. 148-161.

1993

Conlin, Steve

- 4912 1993 A fortuitous winch. In: Paddle Tales [SECTION]. Paddler, 13(6) (December): 20.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Cowan, Bruce

- 4913 1993 Challenging the Rio Colorado. Arizona Highways, 69(6) (June): cover and back cover [wrap-around], 4-13.

Finkbine, Bob

- 4914 1993 Mosi-Oa-Tunya (smoke that roars) : poems of the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], 124 pp.
Includes prose story of a river trip.

Hallowell, Patti Auguste

- 4915 1993 River ride. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 6(4) (Fall): 5.

Harris, Don; Harris, Mary; Dimock, Brad; AND Steiger, Lew

- 4916 1993 River water in his blood. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 6(3) (Late Summer): 1, 26-34.
Don and Mary Harris interviewed by Dimock and Steiger; additional material from Don Harris' talk at 1993 Guides Training Seminar; transcription by Teresa Yates; edited by Brad Dimock.

Ledbetter, Jeri

- 4917 1993 GTS river trip. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 6(2) (Summer): 19-20.
Guides Training Seminar.

Litton, Martin, AND Steiger, Lew

- 4918 1993 "My God, it's Waltenberg!" The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 6(1) (Winter 1992/1993): 22-26.
Litton interview. See also comment by Don Hatch, 6(2) (Summer): 4. Reprinted in Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(1) (Winter 2014-2015 [sic, Spring 2015]): 42-46.

Melville, Bob

- 4919 1993 A boatman's love affair. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 6(3) (Late Summer): 25.

Saylor, Valerie

- 4920 1993 A researcher's day in the Canyon. Colorado River Studies Office, Newsletter, 5 [6] (Spring): 3-5.
[Volume misnumbered; should be 6.]

Willoughby, Otis

- 4921 1993 A night a river and a friend. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 6(2) (Summer): 11.

1994

Braxton, Lowell, AND Winn, Pete

- 4922 1994 Coffee at Crystal. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 57-63.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Calvin, William H.

- 4923 1994 Der Strom, der bergauf fließt : eine Reise durch die Evolution. (Friedrich Griese, translator.) München: Carl Hanser Verlag, 707 pp. [In German.]

Translation of The river that flows uphill (Calvin, 1986).

- 4924 1994 De rivier die tegen de berg opstroomt : een reis naar de oorsprong van de aarde en de mens. (Ronald Jonkers, translator.) Amsterdam: Ooievaar Pockethouse, 692 pp. + advertisements. [In Dutch.]

Translation of The River That Flows Uphill (Calvin, 1986).

Catotti, Donna

- 4925 1994 Recurring nightmares of a GCD cook. Hibernacle News, 1994: 21.

Grand Canyon Dories.

Cooper, Tim

- 4926 1994 An exploration of the Little Colorado River Gorge. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 18-32.

- 4927 1994 The story. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 96-101.

Crumbo, Kim, AND Steiger, Lew

- 4928 1994 Kim Crumbo. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 8(1): 1, 29-38.

Crumbo oral history interview.

Crux, Lauren

- 4929 1994 When I reach the place I'm goin', I will surely know my way. Women and Therapy, 15(3/4): 217-227.

Women's Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Dimock, Brad

- 4930 1994 Old timers trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(4): 10-11.

The Duncan Group, Inc.

- 4931 1994 Rafting the Grand Canyon. Susan Templin and Chip Duncan, producers; Ernest Wood, narrator. Milwaukee, Wisconsin: The Duncan Group, Inc. Rand McNally Video Expeditions Collection. Video. 55:00.

Eiseman, Margaret

- 4932 1994 Wild ride: the high water of 1957. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(4): 17.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Erskine, Kent

- 4933 1994 A river tale. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 93-95.

Exranger, Ebb

- 4934 1994 Smoked boogers, eggs, and sudden discomfort; kayaking the Canyon in January. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 116-122.

Ghiglieri, Michael P.

- 4935 1994 [Crystal Rapid.] In: Cassady, Jim; Cross, Bill; and Calhoun, Fryar, Western whitewater : from the Rockies to the Pacific : a river guide for raft, kayak, and canoe. Berkeley, California: North Fork Press, p. 273.

Goldwater, Barry M.

- 4936 1994 Barry Goldwater. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(4): 1, 24-29.
Oral history interview.

Halvorson, Pete

- 4937 1994 Got to see it. (Photos by Charly Heavenrich.) Boatman's Quarterly Review, 8(1): 9.
Rockfall at Nankoweap witnessed and photographed.

Hauselt, Eleanor

- 4938 1994 Sonnet. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(2) (Spring): 15.

Heavenrich, Charly

- 4939 1994 GTS river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(3) (Summer): 8-9.
Grand Canyon River Guides' Guides Training Seminar.

Helin, Nancy Coker

- 4940 1994 By the light of the silvery moon. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 48-50.
Reprinting of Helin (1992).

Holmstrom, Buzz [Holmstrom, Haldane]

- 4941 1994 Down the Colorado. The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 7(1) (Winter 1993/1994): 1, 27-34.
Abridged from Holmstrom diary, October 4-November 21, 1937, by Brad Dimock.]

Houston, Pam

- 4942 1994 A week of rapids, a new reality. Headwaters, (Summer): 17.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Johnson, John, AND Johnson, Tom

- 4943 1994 Rafting the Canyon. Canyon Magazine, 1(1): 26-33.

Kempster, Jano

- 4944 1994 Where the stern line ends . . . Hibernacle News, 1994: 19. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

McCallum, Dick, AND Steiger, Lew

- 4945 1994 Dick McCallum. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(2) (Spring): 1, 22-25.
McCallum oral history interview.

McDonald, Howard

- 4946 1994 The Boston Whaler and the rapids. In: Carr, John N. (collector), It was a rough road! . . . and other Arizona Game and Fish stories. Phoenix: Heart Track Publications, pp. 187-189. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Arizona Game and Fish Department anecdotes. This story pertains to an ill-fated survey for bighorn sheep in the western Grand Canyon, April 1968. Two boats, a "fiberglass hulled outboard" and a Boston Whaler—"All of us knew our Boston Whaler was not designed to go up rapids"—were trailered to Diamond Creek, and an uprun was begun on the river. The Boston Whaler was swamped and submerged in Three Springs Rapid, throwing equipment and personnel into the river.

Melville, Bob

- 4947 1994 The truth or tomatoes? A loose story about a loose boat. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 103-105.

Moody, Tom

- 4948 1994 Time and the river flowing; of long days, long trips, and naps in the afternoon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(3) (Summer): 18-20.

Murphy, Shane

- 4949 1994 On big boats without water. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 78-81.
- 4950 1994 Jumping with mice. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 136-142.
- 4951 1994 Driving a "baloney boat". NORS Currents (National Organization for River Sports), (Summer): 5-6.

Quist, Bob, AND Steiger, Lew

- 4952 1994 Bob Quist. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(3): 29-31.
Quist oral history interview.

Sadler, Christa

- 4953 1994 (ED.) There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, 182 pp.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

- 4954 1994 Blacktail. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 64-67.

Sadler, Christa, AND Edwards, Dave

- 4955 1994 High water. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 125-135.

Sanderson, Jerry; Sparks, Tony; Steiger, Lew; AND Whitney, Tim

- 4956 1994 Sanderson and Sparks: Where it all started. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(3) (Summer): 1, 24-29, 32-34.

Jerry Sanderson and Tony Sparks oral history interview; moderator Tim Whitney.

Short, Vaughn

- 4957 1994 Two worlds : recollections of a river runner. (Illustrated by Joanna Coleman.) Tucson: Two Horses Press, 166 pp.

- 4958 1994 The ballad of the one armed boatman. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 7(2) (Spring): 18-19.

From Two Worlds.

Sojourner, Mary

- 4959 1994 Flip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 8(1): 22-23.

Steiger, Lew

- 4960 1994 Havasu. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 82-87.

- 4961 1994 Glory days; a boatman's story. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 109-115.

- 4962 1994 Speed. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 143-177.

Stevens, Jafer

- 4963 1994 [Untitled.] The News (Grand Canyon River Guides), 7(1) (Winter 1993/1994): 16.

Stevens, Larry

- 4964 1994 Farvana. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 11-15.

"Excerpt from The Book of Lesser Delights: Chapter 17, preceding the section entitled, 'Bowling for Sheep'".

Teal, Louise

- 4965 1994 Breaking into the current : boatwomen of the Grand Canyon. Tucson and London: University of Arizona Press, 179 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Westwood, Richard E. [Westwood, Dick]

- 4966 1994 Georgie White; legend of the Colorado River. The Confluence (Colorado Plateau River Guides), 1(3) (Summer): 4-6.

Wilson, Allen

- 4967 1994 Gone! In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 33-38.
- 4968 1994 After the trip. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 178-179.

Winn, Pete

- 4969 1994 Randy's Rock. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 68-75.
- 4970 1994 My favorite river hat. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 123-124.

Yates, Teresa

- 4971 1994 Wild kingdom. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: Red Lake Books, pp. 16-17.

Wilderness Adventure Films

- 4972 1994 Dare the wildest river : once upon a time in Grand Canyon. Joe Munroe, producer; Don Sherwood, narrator; Vince Pitelka, music; Martin Litton, Paul Guerlings, and Joe Munroe, cameramen). Orinda, California: Wilderness Adventure Films, Inc. 16-mm film, color. 19:00. With teacher's guide. (Also released in Super8-mm format.)

1995

Aleshire, Peter, AND Griffin, Fred

- 4973 1995 Drifting and dreaming: a boatman's life for me. In: Along the Way [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 71(2) (February): 2.

Barbieri, Rhonda

- 4974 1995 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 8(3): 25.

Beer, Bill

- 4975 1995 We swam the Grand Canyon. St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands: 15 Minute Press, 171 pp.

Bond, Ruth

- 4976 1995 Granny shoots the rapids. In: Bond, Marybeth (ed.), A woman's world. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, Inc., pp. 145-148.

Reprinted by permission of the author, copyright 1987.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Clayton, Bernard, Jr.

- 4977 1995 Bernard Clayton's new complete book of breads. New York: Simon and Schuster, revised and expanded, 748 pp. (A Fireside Book.)

See "California sourdough whole-wheat bread", pp. 292-293. Author's first sale of a recipe, to an editor of Sunset magazine on a Grand Canyon rafting trip.

Corbin, George

- 4978 1995 The toilet trail. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 8(3): 25.

Don Briggs Productions

- 4979 1995 River runners of the Grand Canyon : the human story of the Colorado River. Charlie Pearson, writer, narrator. San Francisco: Don Briggs Productions. Video. 120:00.

Gloeckler, Bill; Winter, Bruce; AND Steiger, Lew

- 4980 1995 Gloeckler and Winter. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 8(2): 1, 36-45.

Gloeckler and Winter oral history interview.

Grua, Diane

- 4981 1995 Old-timers river trip. Check It Out (Cline Library, Northern Arizona University), 3(1) (January 3): 1-2. [Year on cover is printed in error as 1994; fide Richard Quartaroli, Cline Library.]

Koll, Chris

- 4982 1995 Compulsive paddler? Float the Grand Canyon. In: Sedivy, Bill (ed., compiler), River's end : a collection of bedtime stories for paddlers. Newbury, Ohio: Big Dog Publications, pp. 34-45.

Murphy, Shane

- 4983 1995 On big boats without water. Paddler, 15(6) (December): 32.

Ruskin, Herbert B.

- 4984 1995 Grand Canyon, grand trip: going the white-water way. Experience (American Bar Association, Senior Lawyers Division), (Spring): 47-48.

Schumann, Roger

- 4985 1995 A grand idea: Sea kayaking the Colorado River. Sea Kayaker, (47) (August): 50-57.

See also Schumann (1998).

Stark, Jack [Stark, John Thomas]

- 4986 1995 A page from the Doggerel Log. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 8(2) (Spring): 48.

First attributed to Robert P. Sharp, but actually by Jack Stark; see Errata for this item, 8(3): 15. "The Doggerel Log of a Canyon Trip", by Stark, is the manuscript commemorative log of the Carnegie Institution of Washington-California Institute of Technology Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon, in 1937, organized to study the geology of the metamorphic geology of the inner gorges. The colored, illustrated original is in the Special Collections and Archives, Cline Library, Northern Arizona University; it is now digitized online at <http://archive.library.nau.edu/digital/collection/cpa/id/33498> (accessed June 8, 2022).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

U.S. Geological Survey

- 4987 1995 Program of lectures and discussions. In: Carter, L. M. H. (ed.), Energy and the Environment—Application to Geosciences to Decision-Making; Program and short papers; Tenth V. E. McKelvey Forum on Mineral and Energy Resources, 1995. U.S. Geological Survey, Circular 1108, pp. v-vi.
- See p. vi: "Adjournment session: Formal Luncheon—Palladian Room; 'John Wesley Powell's 1869 Grand Canyon Expedition'". (ENTIRE NOTE)

Westwood, Richard E. [Westwood, Dick]

- 4988 1995 Georgie White Clark: Legend of the Colorado River. O' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 6(4) (April): 1-5.

Wickberg Productions

- 4989 1995 Through the Grand Canyon : Lee's Ferry to Lake Mead. Leonard Wickberg, III, producer, editor; James McCarty and Leonard Wickberg, III, videographers; music by Dan Costello. Flagstaff, Arizona: Wikberg Productions. Video. 12:00. [No narration. Box title: Through the Grand Canyon; subtitle from video.]

Zwinger, Ann Haymond

- 4990 1995 Downcanyon. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, 318 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

1996

Anonymous

- 4991 1996 Bandit Run im Grand Canyon. Kanu-Magazin (Stuttgart), (April): 41. [In German.]
- 4992 1996 19' Racing Runabout can be rode hard and put up wet. Brass Bell (Antique Boat Club), 22(2) (Summer): 4-5.
- Chris-Craft boat on Colorado River in Grand Canyon. Photographs by William Belknap, Jr.
- 4993 1996 In the money; Grand Canyon boatman Mark Thatcher couldn't keep his flip-flops on, so he invented the Teva. People Weekly, (September 9): 103.

Beer, Bill; Steiger, Lew; AND Robertson, Jeff

- 4994 1996 Bill Beer. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 9(4): 1, 20-28.
- Beer oral history interview.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Bruno, Lelivoldt [pseudonym] [Abrahams, Marc]

- 4995 1996 [Photograph.] In: Annual swimsuit extravaganza. Annals of Improbable Research, 2(2) (March/April): 2.

Photograph of Earle Spamer in quicksand at Little Colorado River. Humor. "Text by Lelivoldt Bruno", but legend with this photo, except for first line, written by Spamer. Marc Abrahams is the editor of the Annals of Improbable Research.

Burke, Fred, AND Steiger, Lew

- 4996 1996 Somewhat different stories; Fred Burke. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 9(2): 1, 17-22, 27-30.
Burke oral history interview.

Calvin, William H.

- 4997 1996 Der Strom, der bergauf fließt : eine Reise durch die Evolution. (Friedrich Griese, translator.) München and Wien: Hanser, 707 pp. [In German.]

Translation of The River That Flows Uphill (Calvin, 1986).

Fritts, Stewart W.

- 4998 1996 River ranger's soliloquy. Nature Notes (Grand Canyon National Park), 12(4) (Winter): 4.
"Paraphrased from William Shakespeare's 'Hamlet.'"

Glen Canyon Environmental Studies

- 4999 1996 Grand Canyon beach habitat/building test flow, 1996. Dave Wegner, executive producer; Sherry Jacobs, field production. San Diego, California: NADEP Video. Video. 62:00.

Hayes, Ronn

- 5000 1996 Dog day at Crystal, 1970. Hibernacle News, 1996: 2.

Henry, George T.

- 5001 NO DATE Row away from the rocks. [No imprint], 92 pp. [Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 1996.] [Hardbound (limited ed.) and paperbound states.]

Holmes, Joseph, AND Powell, John Wesley

- 5002 1996 Canyons of the Colorado. (Photographs and essays by Joseph Holmes; text excerpted from "The Exploration of the Colorado River and Its Canyons", by John Wesley Powell; foreword by David R. Brower.) San Francisco: Chronicle Books, 136 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

Kesselheim, Alan S.

- 5003 1996 Riding the spike. Canoe and Kayak, 25(5) (October): 34.

Kuhn, Tom, AND Danley, Richard L.

- 5004 1996 The irresistible challenge of the wild Rio Colorado. Arizona Highways, 72(8) (August): cover, 1, 4-13.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Lott, Casey

- 5005 1996 From the Little Colorado to the foot of Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 9(4): 9.
A modern rewrite of this part of the Powell narrative.

Nash, Rod [Nash, Roderick], AND Steiger, Lew

- 5006 1996 Somewhat different stories; Rod Nash. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 9(2): 1, 31-46.
Nash interview.

Plueddeman, Charles

- 5007 1996 Biker hikers; cruise where other boats fear to tread. Boating Magazine, (December): 88-92.
Jet Ski travel on Lake Mead in lower Grand Canyon.

Roeder, Lynn

- 5008 1996 Bridge Canyon. Hibernacle News, 1996: 3.

Shaw, George H.

- 5009 1996 Message from the Chair. Union College, Geology Department Newsletter, (70) (November): 1-2.
Includes notice of trips as a boatman on Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Smith, Wesley; Steiger, Lew; Edwards, Dave; AND Dimock, Brad

- 5010 1996 Wesley Smith. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 9(3): 1, 25-32.
Smith oral history interview.

Thevenin, Paul; Steiger, Lew; AND Quartaroli, Richard D.

- 5011 1996 Paul Thevenin. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 9(1): 1, 10-24.
Thevenin oral history interview.

Whitmer, Brian D.

- 5012 1996 Pirates of the Colorado. In: Hodgson, Michael (ed.), No shit! There I was. . . Gone wild. Merrillville, Indiana: ICS Books, Inc., pp. 112-123. (No Shit! There I Was. . . Series, Volume 3.)
[Ellipses are part of titles.]

Zwinger, Ann Haymond

- 5013 1996 It flows along forever. Orion (Orion Society and the Myrin Institute, Great Barrington, Massachusetts), 15(3) (Summer): 29-32.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1997

Barbieri, Rhonda

5014 1997 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(1): 13. [Issue "Winter 1996-1997" mailed February 1997.]

5015 1997 Columbine Falls. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(4) (Fall): 18.

Bennion, Lee Udall, AND Dant, Doris R.

5016 1997 Lee Udall Bennion: A quiet interview. Brigham Young University Studies, 36(2)(1996-1997): 117-136.

See pp. 124-126, Bennion's remarks on a Colorado River trip during which he was life-flighted out but hiked back in down Havasu Canyon to rejoin the trip.

Boyer, Jim

5017 1997 Wrestling Bedrock Rapid in the Colorado River. (Illustration by Jeff Jones.) Arizona Highways, 73(7) (July): 3.

Bremner, Dugald

5018 1997 A series of portraits by Dugald Bremner. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(3) (Summer): 1, 20-26, 30, 44.

David Brower, pp. 1, 30; Les Jones, 21; Martin Litton, 22; Bill Beer, 23; Don Harris, 24; Tad Nichols, 25; Bob Euler, 25; Garth and Shirley Marston, 26; John Cross Jr. and Sr., 44.

Breskin, David

5019 1997 Grand Canyon; a brief history of the river. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 14.

See also Breskin (1998).

Bruno, Lelivoldt [pseudonym] [Abrahams, Marc]

5020 1997 [Photograph.] From: Annual swimsuit extravaganza. In: Abrahams, Marc (ed.), The best of Annals of Improbable Research. New York: W. H. Freeman and Co., p. 169.

Photograph of Earle Spamer in quicksand at Little Colorado River. Humor. Reprinted from Annals of Improbable Research, 2(2): 2 (see Bruno, 1996). "Text by Lelivoldt Bruno", but legend with photo actually written by Spamer.

Burton, Jim

5021 1997 Excerpts from . . . the Grand Canyon Yahoo II expedition. DDRC Current News (Dallas Downriver Club, Texas), 24(9) (November): 3. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Burton, Lisa

- 5022 1997 Excerpts from . . . the Grand Canyon Yahoo II expedition. DDRC Current News (Dallas Downriver Club, Texas), 24(10) (December): 1. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Calvin, William H.

- 5023 1997 Der Strom, der bergauf fließt : eine Reise durch die Evolution. (Friedrich Griese, translator.) München: Deutscher Taschenbuch Verlag, 707 pp. [In German.]

Translation of The river that flows uphill (Calvin, 1986).

Collins, Chet

- 5024 1997 Matkatamiba. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 14.

Cross, John, Jr.

- 5025 1997 Hard hulled adventure. John Cross Jr. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 1, 34-38.

Oral history interview. Continuation on p. 34 titled, "The voyage of the Venture". See also "A post-script on the Venture", by John Cross, II, p. 39.

Csia, Susan R.

- 5026 1997 Rollin', rollin' down the river. In: Letters [SECTION]. Michigan Alumnus (University of Michigan), 103(5) (Summer): 10.

Comment prompted by reading the item by Lois Jotter Cutter (1997).

Cutter, Lois Jotter

- 5027 1997 Update from an intrepid adventurer. In: Letters [SECTION]. Michigan Alumnus (University of Michigan), 103(3) (Early Spring): 6.

Regarding the differences between her 1938 Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon and the "Old Timers" trip of 1994. See also letter from Susan R. Csia, 1997.

- 5028 1997 Then and now. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(4) (Fall): 38-39.

Cutter, Lois Jotter, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5029 1997 Lois Jotter Cutter. (Brad Dimock, ed.) Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(4) (Fall): 1, 28-37.

Cutter oral history interview.

Fletcher, Colin

- 5030 1997 River : one man's journey down the Colorado, source to sea. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 400 [401] pp. [Reprinted Vintage Books (New York, 1998).]

Holt, Nancy D.

- 5031 1997 Rapid transit; for adventure and camaraderie, just add whitewater. ABA Journal (American Bar Association), 83 (April): 98-99.

Includes Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Janecek, Tom (TJ)

- 5032 1997 Parked in the no parking zone. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(4) (Fall): 19-21.
Flash flood at mouth of Havasu Creek.

Johnson, Mark

- 5033 1997 Swimming Crystal. American Whitewater, 37(4) (July/August): 74-.
Crystal Rapid.

Kaufman, Cynthy

- 5034 1997 Revealing the river. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 33.

Lee, Katie; Steiger, Lew; AND Dimock, Brad

- 5035 1997 Katie Lee. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(1): 1, 40-52. [Issue "Winter 1996-1997" mailed February 1997.]
Lee oral history interview.

Lysiak, Oleh

- 5036 1997 Three poems. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(3) (Summer): 27. ["CFS", "Current", and "Women".]

Melville, Bob

- 5037 1997 The best life in the world, it's a hard act to follow. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(1): 12-13.
[Issue "Winter 1996-1997" mailed February 1997.]

Myrick, Robert M., AND Emmett, William W.

- 5038 1997 Geomorphic and sediment processes—the rest of the story. In: Hudson, Hugh H., Cragwall, Joseph S., Jr., and others, A history of the Water Resources Division, U.S. Geological Survey: Volume VI, May 1, 1957, to June 30, 1966 : the years of change. Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, pp. 194-196. (Volume sold by U.S. Geological Survey Information Services, Denver.)
Reminiscences of events during field work. See pp. 195-196, brief recollections from the 1965 hydrographic survey of the Colorado River in Grand Canyon under Luna Leopold.

Reilly, P. T. [Reilly, Plez Talmadge]

- 5039 1997 My high water experience in Marble and Grand Canyons. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 17-19.

Rigg, Bob

- 5040 1997 Hard hulled adventure. Bob Rigg. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 1, 31-33.
Interview. The continuation on p. 31 is titled, "The Rescue of the Esmeralda".

Rink, Glenn

- 5041 1997 Life at the Marble Canyon damsites. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 26-30.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Roberts, Kim

5042 1997 John Wesley Powell. Standing Wave, (1) (Spring): 72-77.

Shoemaker, Gene [Shoemaker, Eugene M.], AND Stieger, Lew

5043 1997 Excerpts from an oral history of Gene Shoemaker. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(4) (Fall): 5-6.
Shoemaker oral history interview. See also Shoemaker (2000).

Sojourner, Mary

5044 1997 Flip; "beginning the world again". Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 33(4) (May/June): 4.

See also Sojourner (1994).

Tyrell, Sally

5045 1997 Sheep like popcorn. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 1(3) (April): 11.

5046 1997 20 X 20 blue flower. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 1(3) (April): 11.

Van Peenen, John

5047 1997 Kilroy. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 15.

Warburton-Lee, John

5048 1997 Roof of the Americas Expedition; challenging Britain's best. Explorers Journal, 74(4): cover, 1, 26-31, back cover.

Prominently includes Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

Westwood, Richard E. [Westwood, Dick]

5049 1997 Woman of the river : Georgie White Clark, white-water pioneer. (Foreword by Roy Webb.) Logan, Utah: Utah State University Press, 304 pp.

Winn, Travis

5050 1997 River fog. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 10(2) (Spring): 14.

1998

Abbey, Edward

5051 1998 "River rats" running the regulated river with Ed Abbey; the past, is it our present and future? The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 2(4) (November): 4-8.

Reprinted from Abbey (1982), Down the River.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Abyssus, C. V. [pseudonym] [Quartaroli, Richard D.]

- 5052 1998 Rubber rafting redux. The Confluence (Colorado Plateau River Guides), 5(2) (Summer): 7, 8.
Colorado River in Grand Canyon used to shoot boating mishap scenes for "Dream West", a CBS mini-series about John C. Frémont. With reference to Bangs (1986).

Bennion, Louisa

- 5053 1998 Leaving the Colorado. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(4) (Fall): 15.

Breskin, David

- 5054 1998 Fresh kills. Cleveland, Ohio: Cleveland State University Poetry Center, 82 pp.
See "Dark Canyon: A Brief History of the River", p. 63. The dedication in this printing, "for Factor Grua", was omitted in the original printing in Boatman's Quarterly Review (see Breskin, 1997). Reprinted here with slightly different title. "Factor Grua" was Colorado River boatman Kenton Grua, also known as "The Factor".

Chávez, Denise

- 5055 1998 Crossing Bitter Creek: Meditations on the Colorado River. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 108-119.

Chesher, Greer K.

- 5056 1998 [Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 73.

Clark, Martha

- 5057 1998 [Colorado River and Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 50.

Claypool, Kim

- 5058 1998 [Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 85.

Corbo, Nicole J.

- 5059 1998 [Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 123.

Dale, Ote

- 5060 1998 [Colorado River and Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 61.

Dubit, Gretchen L. Weiss

- 5061 1998 Operation rescue tube. Paddler, 18(5) (September/October): 42-43.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Ehrlich, Gretel

- 5062 1998 Foreword. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. ix-xv.

Ellerbee, Linda

- 5063 1998 No shit! There I was . . . In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 16-26. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Freeman, Judith

- 5064 1998 The time it takes falling things to land. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 44-50.

Gerdes, Hank

- 5065 1998 Dude rafter. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 2(2) (May): 13.

Goldman, Peter

- 5066 1998 The Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(1) (Winter 1997-1998): 5. [Issue mailed late January or early February, 1998.]

Grua, Diane

- 5067 1998 Bill Belknap—A lifetime of photographs. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(1) (Winter 1997-1998): 14-21, 52. [Issue mailed late January or early February, 1998.]

- 5068 1998 Saving the life work of two daring Grand Canyon photographers: The Emery Kolb Collection at Northern Arizona University's Cline Library. Annotation (National Historical Publications and Records Commission), 26(4) (December): 7-8, 19.

Grua, Kenton, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5069 1998 Kenton Grua. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(1) (Winter 1997-1998): 1, 36-47, 49. [Issue mailed late January or early February, 1998.]

Grua oral history interview.

Heavenrich, Charly

- 5070 1998 Dancing on the edge : a Grand Canyon adventure. Boulder, Colorado: Beyond the Edge Publishing, 222 [224] pp. [Cover subtitle: "A veteran river guide shares the transforming power of the Grand Canyon".]

Hogan, Linda

- 5071 1998 Plant journey. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 61-69.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Jalbert, Linda

- 5072 1998 [Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 99.

Jordan, Teresa

- 5073 1998 Sustenance. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 120-127.

Kesselheim, Alan S.

- 5074 1998 Private trip journal. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 2(2) (May): 2-3.

Kirk, Ruth

- 5075 1998 Of walls and time. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 52-60.

Knox, Patty

- 5076 1998 [Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 78.

Kolb, Emery C.

- 5077 1998 The brave ones. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(3) (Summer): 32.

Lambert, Page

- 5078 1998 Faces of the Canyon. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 6-15.

Ledbetter, Jeri

- 5079 1998 [Colorado River and Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 30.

Lee, Jane

- 5080 1998 This body of water. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 40.

Luck, Jake

- 5081 1998 Jake Luck. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(2) (Spring): 1, 21-33.

Oral history interview by Lew Steiger, edited by Steiger and Brad Dimock. Photos courtesy of Peggy and Jake Luck, Mike Denoyer, and Richard Quartaroli.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

MacRae, Gordon

- 5082 1998 Grand Canyon exchange. Visions (Canada Ministry of Environment, Lands and Parks, British Columbia Parks), 9(3) (June): 11-12.

Information exchange visit to Grand Canyon between representatives from Glacier Bay/Wrangell-St. Elias National Park (Alaska), Kluane National Park (Yukon), and Tatshenshini-Alsek Park (British Columbia), including Colorado River trip.

McCairen, Patricia C.

- 5083 1998 Canyon solitude : a woman's solo river journey through Grand Canyon. Seattle, Washington: Seal Press, Adventure Books, 246 [247] pp.

Mott, Basil J. F.

- 5084 1998 At Stone Creek Falls. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(3) (Summer): 9.

Munger, Julie

- 5085 1998 Why am I here? In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 12.

Negri, Sam, AND Prentice, Randy

- 5086 1998 Grand Canyon West; Diamond Creek to Spencer Canyon; rafting with the Hualapais. Arizona Highways, 74(6) (June): 12-15.

Orvis, Linda

- 5087 1998 I'm 43 years old and afraid of the water—so why am I cliff-diving into the Colorado? (Illustration by Frank Ybarra.) Arizona Highways, 74(6) (June): 3.

Peterson, Brenda

- 5088 1998 River Tao. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 34-42.

Philip, Leila

- 5089 1998 Paddling right. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 69-75.

Rennicke, Jeff

- 5090 1998 Deep in the Canyon. National Geographic Traveler, 15(3) (May/June): cover, 5, 66-75. [Cover tease: "The Colorado! America's Great River Ride".]

Russell, Sharmon Apt

- 5091 1998 Hidden water. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. [xxvi], 1-4.

Ryan, Kathleen Jo

- 5092 1998 (PHOTOGRAPHER, PRODUCER) Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. (Foreword by Gretel Ehrlich.) Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, 134 pp. [Essays by Denise Chávez,

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Linda Ellerbee, Judith Freeman, Linda Hogan, Teresa Jordan, Ruth Kirk, Page Lambert, Brenda Peterson, Leila Philip, Sharman Apt Russell, Annick Smith, Barbara Earl Thomas, Evelyn C. White, Ann Haymond Zwinger, and Susan Zwinger.] [1st American paperback ed., 2004.]

Sadler, Christa

- 5093 1998 [Colorado River and Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 24.

Schumann, Roger

- 5094 1998 Different strokes: Sea kayaking the Grand Canyon. Paddler, 18(1) (February): 84-85.
See also Schumann (1995).

Skårderud, Finn

- 5095 1998 Uro : en reise i det moderne selvet. Oslo: H. Aschenhoug & Co., 461 pp. [In Norwegian.]
(transl. 'Anxiety: a journey into the modern self')
Not seen, but see note with Skårderud (2001).

Slayton, Robyn

- 5096 1998 Sacred ground. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 2(3) (August): 4-5, 17.

Smith, Annick

- 5097 1998 Falling into the Canyon. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 82-89.

Spaulding, Dolly

- 5098 1998 River song. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(1) (Winter 1997-1998): 12. [Issue mailed late January or early February, 1998.]

Thomas, Barbara Earl

- 5099 1998 Making peace. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 90-95.

Traver, Denise

- 5100 1998 [Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 94.

Venable, Justin

- 5101 1998 Excerpts from . . . The Grand Canyon Yahoo II expedition. DDRC Current News (Dallas Downriver Club, Texas), 25(3) (March): 1, 4. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Webb, Roy

- 5102 1998 Nancy Streater Reuling: A passenger's perspective. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(4) (Fall): 1, 24-28.
- Interview, 1990. Pick-up title on p. 24 reads, "Nancy Streater Reuling; The Passenger Experience in the late 1940s".

Welch, Vince; Conley, Cort; AND Dimock, Brad

- 5103 1998 The doing of the thing : the brief brilliant whitewater career of Buzz Holmstrom. Flagstaff, Arizona: Fretwater Press, 291 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.] [4th paperbound printing (2003), 400 copies, with a slight color shift in the cover, mistakenly eliminates both "3" and "4" on the edition line, thus the 4th printing is erroneously indicated as "5th printing 2003". The true 5th printing of 2,012 copies, with a new ISBN number, is indicated as "5th printing 2004"; it includes minor modifications to illustrations, type resetting, and the correction of mistakes and typographical errors. (Fide Brad Dimock, Fretwater Press.)]

White, Evelyn C.

- 5104 1998 Dancing: A Grand Canyon saga. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 28-33.

Williams, Mary

- 5105 1998 [Grand Canyon.] In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, p. 3.

Winn, Travis

- 5106 1998 Havasu. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 11(4) (Fall): 9.

Yeamans, David

- 5107 1998 The rescue of John's boat. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 2(2) (May): 14-17.

Zwinger, Ann Haymond

- 5108 1998 Riversound. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 76-81.
- 5109 1998 Tanner Trail and mesquite thickets. In: Murray, John A. (ed.), The river reader. New York: Lyons Press, pp. 175-188. (A Nature Conservancy Book.)
- Reprinted from Zwinger (1995).

Zwinger, Susan

- 5110 1998 Coming of age in the Grand Canyon. America West Airlines Magazine, 12(11) (January): cover, 64-70.
- 5111 1998 Travertine grotto. In: Ryan, Kathleen Jo (photographer, producer), Writing down the river : into the heart of the Grand Canyon. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northland Publishing, pp. 96-107.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

1999

Anonymous

5112 1999 Grand Canyon: Der Trip der Trips. Kanu-Magazin (Stuttgart), (January): 18, (February): 28. [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon: The trip of trips')

5113 1999 Rituals. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(2) (Spring): 40.
Historic photos of scouting at Lava Cliff Rapids and Separation Rapids.

Abbey, Edward

5114 1999 Ed Abbey; seasonal ranger does a ride-along. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(3) (Summer): 2.
Facsimile of two-page typewritten memorandum from "Seasonal Ranger Abbey" to "District Ranger Palmer", July 1, 1967, "Best Trip: Lee's Ferry to Phantom Ranch". Item submitted by Richard Quartaroli, with photograph from Cline Library.

5115 1999 A journal. In: Blaustein, John, The hidden canyon : a river journey. San Francisco: Chronicle Books, pp. 25-38, 63-69, 109-115.

5116 1999 Down the River. In: Willis, Clint (ed.), Wild : stories of survival from the world's most dangerous places. New York: Thunder's Mouth Press/Balliett and Fitzgerald, Inc., pp. 59-106.
Excerpt from Abbey (1968, Desert Solitaire).

Abyssus, Q. S. O. [pseudonym] [Quartaroli, Richard D.]

5117 1999 Blasts from the past: Historical radio use on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 3(4) (December): 1-7.

Barbieri, Rhonda

5118 1999 Homesick. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(1) (Winter 1998-1999): 13.

Bennett, Jeff

5119 1999 The Grand Canyon. In: Long, John, and Sponholz, Hai-Van K. (eds.), The liquid locomotive : legendary whitewater river stories. Helena, Montana: Falcon Publishing, Inc., pp. 74-81.
Reprinted from Bennett (1992).

Blaustein, John

5120 1999 The hidden canyon : a river journey. (A Journal, by Edward Abbey; Introduction, by Martin Litton). San Francisco: Chronicle Books, 144 pp. (including 106 plates).
Reissue of Blaustein (1977), with new preface, revised introduction, some new photos, text reset, new dust jacket. Points (fide Richard Quartaroli): paperback, black spine.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Boyer, Marion

- 5121 1999 Ballad of Bessie Hyde. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(1) (Winter 1998-1999): 12.
- 5122 1999 Grand Canyon lullaby. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(1) (Winter 1998-1999): 13.
- 5123 1999 The ballad of Bessie Hyde. Paddler, 19(3) (May/June): 36.

Bremner, Dugald

- 5124 1999 Beauty and power; a photo retrospective of the late Dugald Bremner. River, (August/September): 86-93, 102.

Brown, Nikolle L., AND Victor, Bill

- 5125 1999 Stone Creek floods: '99. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 3(4) (December): 9.

Bruno, Lelivoldt [pseudonym] [Abrahams, Marc]

- 5126 1999 Das Star-Modell der alljährlichen Badeanzug-Ausgabe. In: Abrahams, Marc (ed.), Der Einfluß von Erdnußbutter auf die Erdrotation—Forschungen, die die Welt nicht braucht. (Gabriele Herbst, translator.) Basel, Boston, and Berlin: Birkhäuser Verlag, p. 143. [Cover title: Einfluß von Erdnußbutter auf die Erdrotation : Forschungen, die die Welt nicht braucht : Best of Annals of Improbable Research.] [In German.]

Photograph of Earle Spamer in quicksand at Little Colorado River. Humor. Volume is a translation of Abrahams (1997), The best of Annals of Improbable Research.

- 5127 1999 Festival estivo degli usi e costumi da bagno i redattori di AIR percorrono il mondo senza sosta, alla ricerca di bellezze naturali, eccone due. In: Abrahams, Marc (ed.), La scienza impossibile : il meglio degli "Annals of Improbable Research". (Sylvie Coyaud, translator.) Milano: Garzanti, p. 263. [In Italian.]

Photograph of Earle Spamer in quicksand at Little Colorado River. Humor. Volume is a translation of Abrahams (1997), The best of Annals of Improbable Research.

Byrd, James

- 5128 1999 Kayaking through the world's grandest schoolhouse. American Whitewater, 39(4) (July/August): 71-.

Collier, Joe

- 5129 1999 When the shoe fits: the Teva story. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, 17(6): 12.
Mark Thatcher, Colorado River boatman, invented Teva sandals first for the river running community.

Donaldson, Bob

- 5130 1999 Fall launch. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(3) (Summer): 3.

Dubit, Gretchen L. Weiss

- 5131 1999 Operation rescue tube. In: Northwest River Supplies, Inc., NRS : 1999 paddlesports equipment guide. Moscow, Idaho: Northwest River Supplies, Inc., pp. 90-91.
Supply catalogue. Reprint of Dubit (1998).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Ellerbee, Linda

- 5132 1999 "No shit. There I was . . ." In: Long, John, and Sponholz, Hai-Van K. (eds.), The liquid locomotive : legendary whitewater river stories. Helena, Montana: Falcon Publishing, Inc., pp. 127-133. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
- Reprinted from Ellerbee (1998).

Farquhar, Francis P.

- 5133 1999 Otis Reed Marston; running the Colorado River; an oral history by Francis P. Farquhar. The Confluence (Colorado Plateau River Guides), 6(1) (Spring): 18-23.
- With introductory paragraph by John Weisheit. "Mr. Marston edited this oral history himself and his corrections were incorporated into this manuscript." (p. 18)

Ghiglieri, Michael P.

- 5134 1999 The Green Room; don't even think about doing this. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 40-43.
- Reprinted from Ghiglieri (1992).
- 5135 1999 Thunder. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 102-109.
- Reprinted from Ghiglieri (1992).
- 5136 1999 Jackass Canyon; sunset waits for no one. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 220-224.
- Reprinted from Ghiglieri (1992).

Goldberger, Gail

- 5137 1999 Under Lava; this is the one place you do not want to be. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 211-219.

Goldwater, Barry M.

- 5138 1999 Odyssey on the Colorado River. (Illustrations by Greg Hargreaves.) In: Arizona Highways Classics [FEATURE]. Arizona Highways, 75(4) (April): 28-31.
- Reprint of Arizona Highways article by Goldwater (1941).

Graham-Clark, Charlotte

- 5139 1999 A river runs through it. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(3) (Summer): 11.

Gregory, Stephanie

- 5140 1999 The boat builder; River Benz; running the Colorado in style—and in one piece. In: Going to the source [FEATURE]. Outside, 24(8): 56.
- Regan Dale.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Hebner, Logan

- 5141 1999 Hoping for river magic on a trip with Dad. High Country News, (May 10): 11.

Heller, Peter

- 5142 1999 An improbable expedition; a journey down the Grand Canyon. River, (August/September): 42-45.

Janecek, Tom (TJ)

- 5143 1999 Flash flood; on the Colorado River, everything can change in an instant. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 203-210.

Reprinted from Janecek (1997).

Johnson, Worth

- 5144 1999 Canyon morning. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(1) (Winter 1998-1999): 12.

Kier, Jerry

- 5145 1999 The Colorado River from Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek. DDRC Current News (Dallas Downriver Club, Texas), 26(12) (December): 4.

Long, John, AND Sponholz, Hai-Van K.

- 5146 1999 (EDS.) The liquid locomotive : legendary whitewater river stories. Helena, Montana: Falcon Publishing, Inc., 264 pp. [Cover and spine list only Long as editor.]

Lopez, Barry

- 5147 1999 Gone back into the earth; the Canyon becomes music for the spirit. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 14-24.

Reprinted from Lopez (1988).

Martin, Richard ("Ricardo")

- 5148 1999 Here is a short serpentine [sic] tale. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 3(1) (February): 21.

Serpentine Rapids hole.

Martin, Tom

- 5149 1999 "Brick" Mortenson and the flood of 57! The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 3(4) (December): 13.

Vernon Mortenson.

McArthur, Eldon

- 5150 1999 Eldon McArthur's big adventure. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(4) (Winter): 10-15.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

McCairen, Patricia C.

- 5151 1999 Whitewater; a solo rafter finds her home on the Colorado River. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 63-77.

Reprinted from McCairen (1998).

McElya, Bruce W.

- 5152 1999 Solo sojourn. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 3(1) (February): 8-13.

McLean, Chauncy

- 5153 1999 [No title.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(4) (Winter): 18.

Mortenson, Dave

- 5154 1999 The story of "The Sub". The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 3(3) (August): 1-4.

About the Flavell II.

Neff, Don, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5155 1999 Don Neff. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(3) (Summer): 1, 14-21.

Neff oral history interview.

Nichols, Quentin

- 5156 1999 Grand Canyon—Colorado River '99; a personal view. Bristol Canoe Club Magazine (Bristol, U.K.), (Summer):.

Philip, Leila

- 5157 1999 Paddling right. In: Manske, Laura (ed.), Family travel : the farther you go, the closer you get. San Francisco: Travelers's Tales, pp. 231-236. (Travelers' Tales Guides, James O'Reilly and Larry Habegger, series eds.)

Reprinted from Philip (1998).

Potochnik, Andre

- 5158 1999 Dog days of summer; a boatman's journal. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(3) (Summer): 26.

Quayle, Amil D.

- 5159 1999 Shawn. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(2) (Spring): 6.

Rennicke, Jeff

- 5160 1999 Grandest ride on earth; no roller coaster has the awesome power of America's wildest rapids. Reader's Digest, 155 (September): 118-125.

From Rennicke (1998).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Rogers, Katrina

- 5161 1999 Grand Canyon Trust landscape artists' Colorado River trip. Colorado Plateau Advocate, (Winter): 24.

Roland, Ariel

- 5162 1999 My Grand Canyon trip; rafting through the Grand Canyon was like riding nature's wildest roller coaster! (Photos by C. C. Lockwood.) Ranger Rick, 33(7): 34-39, back cover.

Author is 12 years of age. A motorized commercial trip with Grand Canyon Expeditions. (Also, see an extended newspaper write-up about Roland, the trip, and her family, by Laurie Smith Anderson, in the "People" section of the Sunday Advocate (Baton Rouge, Louisiana), July 18, 1999, pp. 1H, 7H.)

Ryan, Kathleen Jo

- 5163 1999 Writing down the river. Kathleen Jo Ryan Productions and Santa Fe Ventures, Inc., VHS video. 57:00.

Sadler, Christa

- 5164 1999 Blacktail ghost; there are lessons in the sounds of the night. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 225-228.

Reprinted from Sadler (1994). Blacktail Canyon.

Skårderud, Finn

- 5165 1999 Uro : en rejse i det moderne selv. (Nina Bolt, translator.) København: Tiderne Skifter, 476 pp. [\[In Danish.\]](#)
(transl. 'Anxiety: a journey into the modern self')

Translation of Skårderud (1998). Not seen, but see note with Skårderud (2001).

Slayton, Robyn

- 5166 1999 Surfacing. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 3(2) (May): 20-22. ("Private Trip Journals" feature.)
- 5167 1999 Keeping it straight. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 3(4) (December): 16-17.

Starr, Michelle

- 5168 1999 Mother Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(1) (Winter 1998-1999): 13.

Stevens, Larry, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5169 1999 Larry Stevens. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(1) (Winter 1998-1999): 1, 34-39.
Stevens oral history interview.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Teal, Louise

- 5170 1999 Lava Falls—at night! In: Long, John, and Sponholz, Hai-Van (eds.), The liquid locomotive : legendary whitewater river stories. Helena, Montana: Falcon Publishing, Inc., pp. 187-194.
Reprinted from Teal (1994).

Trush, Tom

- 5171 1999 Into the white water—Patricia McCairen. Sweat Magazine, 8(6): 27.

White, Georgie, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5172 1999 Georgie. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 12(2) (Spring): 1, 28-36.
Georgie White oral history interview.

Woodward, Bob

- 5173 1999 A trip to remember. Whitewater Paddling, 1999: 34-42.

Zazzera, Bob

- 5174 1999 Chair's corner: "A Grand Experience". Paddle Splashes (Appalachian Mountain Club, New York-Northern New Jersey Chapter Canoe Committee), (August/September): 2, 4.

Zwinger, Ann Haymond

- 5175 1999 Fishing eagles; few see the Canyon this way. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 125-134.
Reprinted from Zwinger (1995).

Zwinger, Susan

- 5176 1999 Travertine grotto; a dory trip with the grand master of the Colorado River. In: O'Reilly, Sean, O'Reilly, James, and Habegger, Larry (eds.), Grand Canyon : true stories of life below the rim. San Francisco: Travelers' Tales, pp. 86-91.
Reprinted from Zwinger (1998) in Ryan.

2000

Abyssus, Q. S. O. [pseudonym] [Quartaroli, Richard D.]

- 5177 2000 Blasts from the past, Part II; Emery Kolb, Goldwater and Ripley's "Believe It or Not". The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(1) (Spring): 22-24.
- 5178 2000 "We carry a radio set and several types of life preservers"; historical use of radio on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon. Arizona Antique Radio Club News, 17(3) (Fall): cover, 4-15.
- Reprinted from The Waiting List.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Beer, Bill

- 5179 2000 Rapids, icewater and fire. In: Fleck, Richard F. (ed.), A Colorado River reader. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press, pp. 131-143.
From We Swam the Grand Canyon (Beer, 1988).

Belknap, Bill

- 5180 2000 You think 8,000 cfs is tough? Find the runs here! Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 15.
Belknap photographs of 1,000 cfs flows, August 1963.

Boyer, Marion

- 5181 2000 Grand Canyon lesson. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(1) (Winter): 17.

Clark, Hazel

- 5182 2000 Empty boat solos lava with ease. In: Newswire quarterly review. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(1) (Spring): 25.
Originally distributed electronically via gcpba Newswire, February 5, 2000.

Dimock, Brad

- 5183 2000 Harry Aleson/Georgi [sic] White. In: Swimmers of the century [FEATURE]. Paddler, 20(5) (September/October): 19.
Harry Aleson and Georgie White.
- 5184 2000 Manfred Kraus. In: Swimmers of the century [FEATURE]. Paddler, 20(5) (September/October): 20.
- 5185 2000 Bessie, woman of the river. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 42.
Bessie Hyde.
- 5186 2000 When river guiding was grand. In: Editors of High Country News (compilers), Living in the runaway West : partisan views from writers on the range. Golden, Colorado: Fulcrum Publishing, pp. 83-85.

Finkbine, Bob

- 5187 2000 Smoke that roars : stories and poems about the Grand Canyon. [Arizona: Bob Finkbine], 197 pp.
Includes prose story of a river trip.

Fleck, Richard F.

- 5188 2000 (Ed.) A Colorado River reader. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press, 192 pp.

Ghiglieri, Michael P.

- 5189 2000 Canyon. In: Kuhne, Cecil (ed.), The armchair paddler : an anthology of canoeing, kayaking, and rafting adventures. Birmingham, Alabama: Menasha Ridge Press, pp. 55-63.
Excerpt from Ghiglieri (1992).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Harkless, Megan

- 5190 2000 For the first time. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(3) (Fall): 20-21.
Short story format, about first visit to Grand Canyon; also including river trip event.

Hayes, Joe

- 5191 2000 Always above Lava. American Whitewater, 40(4) (July/August): 91-.

Henderson, David

- 5192 2000 Visions of the river. Colorado River Life, 1(1): 16-21.
5193 2000 Rafting through a river wonderland. Colorado River Life, 1(1): 24-26, 28.

Hogan, Linda

- 5194 2000 Plant journey. In: Fleck, Richard F. (ed.), A Colorado River reader. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press, pp. 185-187.
Reprinted from Writing Down the River (Hogan, 1998).

Jordan, Teresa

- 5195 2000 Field notes from the Grand Canyon : raging river, quiet mind : an illustrated journal. (Foreword by Ann H. Zwinger.) [No imprint], [56] pp. (Printed by Johnson Printing, Boulder, Colorado.)

Knies, Scott

- 5196 2000 Bass camp. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 46.

Kolb, Ellsworth L., AND Kolb, Emery C.

- 5197 2000 Experiences in the Grand Canyon. In: Schlesinger, Arthur M., Jr., and Israel, Fred L. (eds.), Grand Canyon experiences : chronicles from National Geographic. Philadelphia: Chelsea House Publishers, pp. 1-90.
Reprint of Kolb and Kolb (1914 in National Geographic).

Lorentz, Halli

- 5198 2000 The real thing; a trip through the Grand Canyon. INmagazine (College Marketing Bureau, Glencoe, Illinois), 15(2): 26.

Martin, Richard ("Ricardo")

- 5199 2000 Who's in charge? The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(3) (Fall): 1-4.
Motor rig stranding on Whale's Rock, Hance Rapid.

Mayfield, Karla Linn

- 5200 2000 Mile 75.5: SOS. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 14.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

McElya, Bruce W.

- 5201 2000 Rock slide!! The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(3) (Fall): 5-6.

Merrifield, Karla Linn

- 5202 2000 Mile 95.5: I do. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 17.

- 5203 2000 Mile 213.5: Stranded. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 52.

Munsell, Steve

- 5204 2000 Blacktail. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 39.

Nichols, Tad [Nichols, E. Tad]

- 5205 2000 Tad Nichols. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(2) (Spring): 1, 36-41.
Oral history interview.

Ross, Doug

- 5206 2000 The thing about dories. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(1) (Spring): 20.

Shoemaker, Eugene M.

- 5207 2000 Gene Shoemaker. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(1) (Winter): 1, 28-41.
Oral history interview, published posthumously. See also Shoemaker and Steiger (1997).

Staley, Alice

- 5208 2000 Rapids. Metamorphosis. Vishnu. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 49.

Stam, Cathy

- 5209 2000 Grand Canyon rafting trip. On the Run (South Coast Roadrunners Running Club, Orange County, California), (September): 2-4.

Tibbits, Connie, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5210 2000 Connie Tibbits. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(3) (Fall): 1, 22-37.
Tibbits oral history interview.

Zwinger, Ann Haymond

- 5211 2000 Badger Creek and running rapids. In: Fleck, Richard F. (ed.), A Colorado River reader. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press, pp. 156-166.
From Zwinger (1995).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

2001

Anonymous

5212 2001 [Haiku verses, "by passengers and crew on a trip last summer".] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(1) (Spring): 2, 7, 12, 13, 19-21, 46, 47, 53.

5213 2001 [Comments.] In: Questions and answers—What happens when you go left at Bedrock? [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(2) (Summer): 30. [Two items, signed "Sven a.k.a. Svengali" and "Roger".]

Albertson, Lee [Albertson, Leland C., Jr.]

5214 2001 Rowing through 232 (rapid "2 thirty-tooth["]). The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 12(1) (January/March): 9-10.

Allen, David

5215 2001 A daring voyage down the Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 4-9, 52.

Russell-Monett trip on the Colorado River. Reprint of Allen (1908).

Bruno, Lelivoldt [pseudonym] [Abrahams, Marc]

5216 2001 [Photograph of Earle Spamer in quicksand at Little Colorado River.] From: [Annual swimsuit extravaganza]. In: Abrahams, Marc (ed.), 泡沫; <<搞笑诺贝尔奖>> 面面观 [Pao mo : "Gao xiao Nuobei'er jiang" mian mian guan]. (Xu Junpei, translator.) Shanghai: 上海科技教育出版社 [Shanghai Scientific and Technological Education Publishing House], p. 283. [In Chinese.]

Humor. Photograph of Earle Spamer in quicksand at Little Colorado River. Volume is a translation of Abrahams (1997), The best of Annals of Improbable Research.

Buchheit, Mike

5217 2001 Down then out: Floating Grand Canyon's lower half. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 7(3) (Fall): 2-3.

Christensen, Matt

5218 2001 Running sweep; the pleasure of being behind. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 5(3) (Fall): 8-9.

Crouch, Dee

5219 2001 The power and the dory. In: River runner different strokes [SECTION]. Paddler, (March/April): 65-66.

Dale, O'Connor, AND Steiger, Lew

5220 2001 O'C Dale. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(1) (Spring): 1, 24-39.

Dale oral history interview.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Davidson, Chris

- 5221 2001 They swam it. Water Log (Washington Recreational River Runners Newsletter), 5(8) (September): 5-6; (9) (October): 4-6.
John Daggett and Bill Beer, Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Dimock, Brad

- 5222 2001 Sunk without a sound : the tragic Colorado River honeymoon of Glen and Bessie Hyde. Flagstaff, Arizona: Fretwater Press, 288 pp. [Pagination hardbound state: [flyleaf I with endpaper printing, II blank], [i-ii blank], [iii-x], xi-xii, [xiii-xiv], [1]-288. Pagination paperbound state: [flyleaf I with endpaper printing, II with "Advance Praise" testimonials], [i-ii blank], [iii-x], xi-xii, [xiii-xiv], [1]-288, [289-290 blank], [flyleaf III with "The Author", IV with endpaper printing]. Title-page in each is p. [vii]; advance praise testimonials in hardbound ed. printed on front leaf of dust jacket; "The Author" information in hardbound ed. printed on back leaf of dust jacket.] [Also a 2nd printing, 2001, paperbound, with embossed main title on front cover and minor emendations to text.] [6th printing (2014) with "updated afterword, one new picture, a few corrections, and a few changes" (vide Brad Dimock).]

Dolnick, Edward

- 5223 2001 Down the great unknown: John Wesley Powell's 1869 journey of discovery and tragedy through the Grand Canyon. New York: HarperCollins, 367 pp.

Edwards, Dave, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5224 2001 Dave Edwards. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 1, 30-46.
Edwards oral history interview.

Eldridge, Maury

- 5225 2001 September 2000; river trip poetry. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 5(3) (Fall): 27.

Elliott, Rob

- 5226 2001 There is this wave. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(2) (Summer): 11.

Frazier, Dan

- 5227 2001 The man who walked in water; inventor of Teva sandals recalls humble beginnings. Flagstaff Tea Party, 2(2): 1, 17-18. [Also a related story, by Frazier, "Made in China", pp. 15-16.]
Colorado River boatman Mark Thatcher.

Goddard, John

- 5228 2001 The survivor : 24 spine-chilling adventures on the edge of death. Deerfield Beach, Florida: Health Communications, Inc., 245 pp.
See "Devil's Highway—The Demonic Colorado River", pp. 189-201; "White-Water Death Trap", pp. 202-206.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Grand Canyon Trust

- 5229 2001 Painting down the rapids : Grand Canyon expressions : exhibit at Forbes Gallery. New York, and Flagstaff, Arizona: Forbes Gallery, and Grand Canyon Trust, 52 pp. [Also a Catalog supplement, 16 pp. (2001).]

Helin, Nancy

- 5230 2001 River running. Flagstaff, Grand Canyon: Poppy Ray Music. CD.

Hendrick, Jimmy, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5231 2001 Jimmy Hendrick. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(3) (Fall): 1, 18-32.
Hendrick oral history interview.

Jaehne, Dennis

- 5232 2001 An early aesthetic for seeing the Grand Canyon: The diaries of Jack Hillers on the Powell expeditions, 1871-72. In: Short, C. Brant, and Hardy-Short, Dayle (eds.), Proceedings of the Fifth Biennial Conference on Communication and Environment. Flagstaff, Arizona: Northern Arizona University School of Communication, pp. 377-392.

Jones, Les [Jones, Leslie Allen]

- 5233 2001 Les Jones. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(2) (Summer): 22-31.
Oral history interview. Interviewer not identified.

K., Dana

- 5234 2001 [Comments.] In: Questions and answers—What happens when you go left at Bedrock? [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(2) (Summer): 30.

Knies, Scott

- 5235 2001 Inside. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(2) (Summer): 5.

Marley, Bob

- 5236 2001 [Comments.] In: Questions and answers—What happens when you go left at bedrock? [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(2) (Summer): 30.

Martin, Richard ("Ricardo")

- 5237 2001 What happens when you go left at bedrock? In: Questions and answers—What happens when you go left at bedrock? [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(2) (Summer): 28-29.

- 5238 2001 What's it all about? Why I love to boat. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 5(3) (Fall): 13.

Martin, Richard, AND Dimock, Brad

- 5239 2001 The brilliant, (not so) brief whitewater career of Brad Dimock. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(4) (Winter 2000-2001): 4-10.
Dimock interview.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Mayer, Elizabeth Lloyd

- 5240 2001 On "telepathic dreams?": An unpublished paper by Robert J. Stoller. American Psychoanalytic Association, Journal, 49(2): 629-657.

See p. 645, regarding Stoller's discussion of a Colorado River trip, specifically at Lava Falls, and a subject's dream.

McElya, Bruce W.

- 5241 2001 Art in the corridor—solo excursion, number six. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 5(1) (Spring): 14-23.

Montano, Ursula

- 5242 2001 Dam the lava. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(2) (Summer): 45.

Mortenson, Dave

- 5243 2001 Yesterday and today on the Colorado River; private trip journals—Dave Mortenson. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 5(1) (Spring): 6-10.

Oliver, Tim

- 5244 2001 Oliver's travels; or, "not bad for a bunch of hippies". The Paddler (Carolina Canoe Club), (January/February):.

Paden, Glenn

- 5245 2001 Grand Canyon DXing. Scope (Palomar Amateur Radio Club, Vista, California), (December): 3-4.

Main base at Pearce Ferry. Also included are a drive to Diamond Creek, followed by a non-DXing canoe trip upriver to the Bat Cave area and to Separation Canyon on Colorado River. (DX: Distance Unknown. DXing: communicating with far-away radio stations.)

Running, John P.

- 5246 2001 GTS river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(2) (Summer): 18-19.

Guides Training Seminar.

Schroedl, Judy

- 5247 2001 Riding the rapids on the Colorado River transforms a doubting mother in a role reversal. In: Along the Way [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 77(6) (June): 49.

Scott-Graham, Elizabeth

- 5248 2001 Reflections. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 14(2) (Summer): 19.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Skårderud, Finn

- 5249 2001 Nerimas : klajonės po modernųjį aš. (Translated from Norwegian by Aušra Bagočiūnaitė.) Vilnius: „Tyto alba“, 485 pp. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. ‘Anxiety: a journey into the modern self’)

Translation of Skårderud (1998). See in section “Džiugioji beprotystė, Gyventi pavojingai” (transl. ‘Joyous madness, living dangerously’); specifically, “Ramybė pskui” (‘Peace of mind’) (p. 433), which reflects on a raft trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon. (The original Norwegian, and the Danish translation (1999), have thus far not been seen for this bibliography.)

Smith, Drifter

- 5250 2001 [Comments.] In: Questions and answers—What happens when you go left at bedrock? [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(2) (Summer): 29, 31.

Van Peenen, John

- 5251 2001 Cryptogamic soil. Boatman’s Quarterly Review, 14(2) (Summer): 35.

Walton, Doug

- 5252 2001 [Comments.] In: Questions and answers—What happens when you go left at bedrock? [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(2) (Summer): 29-30.

White, James

- 5253 2001 Passage through the great cañon of the Colorado (1867) (as told to Dr. Charles C. Parry and Alfred R. Calhoun). In: Carmony, Neil B., and Brown, David E. (eds.), Tough times in rough places : personal narratives of adventure, death and survival on the western frontier. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press, pp. 148-161.

Williams, Raymond

- 5254 2001 Grand trip. The Paddler (Carolina Canoe Club), (January/February):.

2002

Anonymous

- 5255 2002 Lava’s hungry jaws . . . ; a collection of Lava tales gathered from gcpba@yahoogroups.com. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 15-17. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [Issue distributed March 2002.]

Items signed by “Riverider” [2 items], “Ed ‘Bigger is Better’”, “Steve” [two items], “Doc”, “Bob W”, and “Rafterjim”; conventionally signed items by Paul Martzen, David Levine, John Wells, and “Ricard o” (Richard Martin).

Abbey, Edward

- 5256 2002 “River rats” running the regulated river with Ed Abbey; the past, is it our present and future? The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 6(1) (Summer/Fall): 42-46. [Special Issue: Reflections—Five Years of Fun—A Waiting List Anthology.]

Reprinted from Abbey (1982), Down the River.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Bray, John Randolph

- 5257 2002 John Randolph Bray speaks. From: Langer, Mark, John Randolph Bray; animation pioneer. In: Bachman, Gregg, and Slater, Thomas J. (eds.), American silent film : discovering marginalized voices. Carbondale and Edwardsville, Illinois: Southern Illinois University Press, pp. 107-114.

Text of Langer's interview with Bray, May 17, 1975. See p. 113, Bray's remarks on his production of the never-released Bride of the Colorado, filmed on the river through Grand Canyon (see Pathé Exchange, Inc., 1928).

Dierker, Dan, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5258 2002 Dan Dierker. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(1) (Spring): 1, 34-43.

Dierker oral history interview. See also comment by Robin Slayton-Martin, 15(3) (Fall): 6.

Discovery Channel

- 5259 2002 Grand Canyon mystery. Carol Williams (executive producer), John Schreiber (senior producer), Robert Ferrard (broadcast producer), Roberta Oster Sachs (producer), Dawn Fratangelo (writer, narrator). NBC News Productions, and Discovery Channel. 59:00.

Regarding Glen and Bessie Hyde.

Dolnick, Edward

- 5260 2002 Down the great unknown : John Wesley Powell's 1869 journey of discovery and tragedy through the Grand Canyon. New York: Perennial (HarperCollins), 367 pp.

- 5261 2002 Down the Great unknown : John Wesley Powell's 1869 journey of discovery and tragedy through the Grand Canyon. London: HarperCollins, 452 pp.

Eldridge, Maury

- 5262 2002 Canyon perspective. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 9. [Distributed March 2002.]

Garvey, Dan

- 5263 2002 From the Colorado: the 2002 alumni raft trip. Transitions (Prescott College), (Summer): 22-24.

Hamilton, Lynn

- 5264 2002 River runner photos. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(4) (Winter 2002-2003): 44.

Hayes, Joe

- 5265 2002 Always above Lava. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 10-14. [Distributed March 2002.]

Reprinted from Hayes (2000).

Kolb, Emery C.

- 5266 2002 "A Wild Ride" (text written on back of photo by Emery Kolb). The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Pioneers Society), 13(2) (April/June): 1.

From 1914.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Kolb Brothers [Kolb, Ellsworth L., AND Kolb, Emery C.]

- 5267 2002 Kolb Brothers: Grand Canyon pioneers : filmed and photographed by Ellsworth and Emery Kolb : a Steiger Bros. production. Don Collier, narrator. Tempe, Arizona: KAET-TV, video and DVD. 36:00.

Marston, Otis Reed "Dock"

- 5268 2002 The Sportyak II expedition, Grand Canyon, August 5-31, 1963; the journal of Otis "Dock" Marston. (Transcribed by Rosalyn Jirge; John Weisheit, ed.) The Confluence (Colorado Plateau River Guides), (26) (December): 26-32, inside back cover [33].

Martin, Richard ("Ricardo")

- 5269 2002 [Item.] In: Lava's hungry jaws . . . ; a collection of Lava tales gathered from gcpba@yahoogroups.com [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 17. [Ellipsis is part of title. Issue distributed March 2002.]

Martzen, Paul

- 5270 2002 [Item.] In: Lava's hungry jaws . . . ; a collection of Lava tales gathered from gcpba@yahoogroups.com [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 16. [Ellipsis is part of title. Issue distributed March 2002.]

Mason, Lorna

- 5271 2002 The River: A journal entry. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(1) (Spring): 31.

Moody, Tom, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5272 2002 Tom Moody. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(2) (Summer): 1, 18-33.
Moody oral history interview. See also correction by Joan Nevills Staveley, 15(3) (Fall): 5.

Mortenson, Dave

- 5273 2002 The story of "The Sub"; bleach bottles, styrofoam and plywood. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 6(1) (Summer/Fall): 18-21. [Special Issue: Reflections—Five Years of Fun—A Waiting List Anthology.]

About the Flavell II. Reprinting of Mortenson (1999).

Munger, Julie

- 5274 2002 Riverboard ecstasy. Rescuer, (36) (January/March), pp. 1-3.

- 5275 2002 Riverboarding. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(1) (Spring): 16-19.

Norman, Roger

- 5276 2002 Report from DSA's first Grand Canyon rafting/geology field trip! Design Science Association Newsletter, (October 19): 2-3.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Reilly, P. T.; Reilly, Suzie; Steiger, Lew; AND Underhill, Karen

- 5277 2002 Curmudgeons' chronicles; the dark side of river history. (Introduction by Brad Dimock.) Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(4) (Winter 2002-2003): 40-42.
Compilation from oral history interviews with P. T. Reilly and Suzie Reilly.

Reilly, P. T.; Reilly, Suzie; Steiger, Lew; Underhill, Karen; Quartaroli, Richard; AND Dimock, Brad

- 5278 2002 P. T. Reilly. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(4) (Winter 2002-2003): 28-39. (See also "Scuttling the Fleet", p. 48.)
Compilation from oral history interviews conducted with P. T. Reilly and Suzie Reilly. Introductory paragraph by Brad Dimock.

Ross, Doug

- 5279 2002 The thing about dories. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 6(1) (Summer/Fall): 33. [Special Issue: Reflections—Five Years of Fun—A Waiting List Anthology.]

Siegel, Gilbert

- 5280 2002 Gilbert and Teresa's 2001 Grand Canyon river trip. San Diego Kayak Club, 3(12) (April): 1, 5-6, 8; (13) (May): 1, 4-5.

Stewart, Sharon

- 5281 2002 Grand Canyon rafting. In: Life Beyond Academia [SECTION]. Perspectives on Issues in Higher Education, 5 (October): 13-14.

Summers, John B.

- 5282 2002 [Notes.] Helpmate Bulletin (284th Field Artillery Battalion WWII, Official Newsletter) (St. Louis, Missouri), 2(3) (June 16): 1-4 [entire issue].
Includes note relating to a recently deceased man identified as "Babe", who with his wife had gone "on lots and lots of trips, including a float trip down the Grand Canyon—an 18 day ordeal, in my opinion." (ENTIRE NOTE)] (The Helpmate Bulletin is written entirely by the author.)

Tuscano, Ambrose

- 5283 2002 A grand adventure. American Whitewater, 43(4) (July/August): 56-59.

Underwood, Sally

- 5284 2002 GTS river trip 2002. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(2) (Summer): 12-13.
Guides Training Seminar.

Weaver, Alex

- 5285 2002 Riverboarding the Grand Canyon. Part 1: Glen Canyon Dam to Phantom Ranch. The Spray (Colorado White Water Association), 44(2) (March): 7, 17.
5286 2002 Riverboarding the Grand Canyon. Part 2: Phantom Ranch to Pierce Ferry. The Spray (Colorado White Water Association), 44(3) (May/June): 1, 20.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

- 5287 2002 Riverboarding the Grand Canyon. The Eddy Line (Georgia Canoeing Association), 37(6) (June): 15-17.

Reprinted from The Spray (Weaver, 2002, above).

Wells, John

- 5288 2002 [Item.] In: Lava's hungry jaws . . .; a collection of Lava tales gathered from gcpba@yahoogleroups.com [FEATURE]. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 5(4) (Winter 2001-2002): 16. [Ellipsis is part of title. Issue distributed March 2002.]

Whippo, Harry

- 5289 2002 Rafting in Grand Canyon rapids—one way to battle the heat. Traveling Times (Boeing Employees' Travel Club Newsletter), 9(6) (June): 3, 6.

Whitworth, Tim

- 5290 2002 At Boucher Creek. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 15(1) (Spring): 15.

2003

Anonymous

- 5291 2003 Faltbootgeschichten; Teil 1: Grand Canyon 1965. Kanu-Magazin (Stuttgart), (March): 84. [Subsequent part(s) not located.] [In German.]
(transl. 'Folboat stories; Part 1: Grand Canyon 1965')

Ashbaugh, Donna

- 5292 2003 Confronting Hance Rapid and other uncertainties. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 28-29.

Barminski, Robert

- 5293 2003 Red Wall dawn. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 27.

- 5294 2003 The music of the canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 29.

Buchheit, Mike

- 5295 2003 R&R at the LCR. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 9(1) (Winter): 2-3.
Rest and Recreation at the Little Colorado River.

Covert, Brenda

- 5296 2003 Grand Canyon 2002—trip report. Kansas Paddler (Kansas Canoe Association), 31(1) (Winter): 2, 14.

See also "Actions n' Captions" photo page, p. 7.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Crossman, Anne Snowden

- 5297 2003 Young at heart : aging gracefully with attitude. Veedersburg, Indiana: Hara Publishing Group, Inc., 422 [425] pp.

Cover includes subtitle, "61 extraordinary Americans tell how to defy age with zest, work and healthy lifestyles". See "Georgie Clark", pp. 82-91, 408-409.

Davis, Dan, Sr., AND Steiger, Lew

- 5298 2003 Dan Davis, Sr.; an interview at Grand Canyon River Guides' Guides Training Seminar—April 1993. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(3) (Fall): 26-30.

DeLong, Margie

- 5299 2003 Grand Canyon, Colorado River boating. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 44.

Elliott, Rob

- 5300 2003 Before you met the river. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 14.

- 5301 2003 Hidden until now. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 41.

Ghiglieri, Michael P.

- 5302 2003 Put me in, Coach—I'm ready to play the game. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 28-29.

See also letter by Sarah Krall, 16(2): 4.

- 5303 2003 Moses tripped. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(2) (Summer): 10-12.

Hall, Jimmy

- 5304 2003 Jimmy Hall. (Brad Dimock, ed.) Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 1, 30-40.

Hall oral history interview.

Hart, Denise

- 5305 2003 A river guide's ride. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 42.

Hatch, Ted, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5306 2003 Ted Hatch. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(2) (Summer): 1, 24-40.

Hatch oral history interview.

Holmstrom, Buzz [Holmstrom, Haldane]

- 5307 2003 Every rapid speaks plainly : the Salmon, Green and Colorado River journals of Buzz Holmstrom, including the 1938 accounts of Amos Burg, Philip Lundstrom, and Willis Johnson. (Brad Dimock, ed.) Flagstaff, Arizona: Fretwater Press, 252 pp. (Colorado River Chronicles, 2.) [Also released in slipcased edition with The Brave Ones (Kolb and Kolb), Colorado River Chronicles, 1; slipcased ed. of 200 numbered sets, and 11 lettered sets released only to libraries.]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Houston, Pam

5308 2003 Redefining strength. O (The Oprah Magazine), (April):.

Howard, Benjie

5309 2003 Prayer. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(2) (Summer): 23.

5310 2003 Waking. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(3) (Fall): 41.

5311 2003 An old man. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 44.

Kolb, Ellsworth L.; Kolb, Emery C.; AND Lauzon, Hubert R.

5312 2003 The brave ones : the journals and letters of the 1911-1912 expedition down the Green and Colorado Rivers by Ellsworth L. Kolb and Emery C. Kolb, including the journal of Hubert R. Lauzon. (William C. Suran, transcriber, ed.) Flagstaff, Arizona: Fretwater Press, 180 pp. (Colorado River Chronicles, 1.) [Also released in slipcased edition with Every Rapid Speaks Plainly (Holmstrom), Colorado River Chronicles series, 2; slipcased ed. of 200 numbered sets, and 11 lettered sets released only to libraries.]

Mannering, Guy

5313 2003 Grand Canyon uprun : jet boats conquer the Colorado. [Sydney, New South Wales, Australia]: Black Magic Media, DVD.

Re-issue of the motion picture film (Mannering, 1961).

Marx, Oscar "Chip"

5314 2003 Two worlds, one foot. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 4.

Mason, Lorna

5315 2003 The river: A journal entry. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 47.

McCairen, Patricia C.

5316 2003 Wilde Wasser des Grand Canyon : eine Frau allein in den Strudeln des Colorado. (Stefanie Mierswa, translator.) München: National Geographic, ein Buch der Partner Goldmann und National Geographic Deutschland, 221 pp. [In German.]

(transl. 'Wild waters of the Grand Canyon: a woman alone in the whirlpools of the Colorado')

Translation of McCairen (1998, Canyon Solitude).

McIntosh, Bonnie

5317 2003 Mud dwellers. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 7.

5318 2003 Dawn. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 7.

Merrifield, Karla Linn

5319 2003 One hard lesson. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(2) (Summer): 12.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Mills, Keri

- 5320 2003 A river odyssey. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 6(2) (Winter 2002-2003): 27.

Newcom, S. Joshua

- 5321 2003 Getting to know the Great Unknown: A personal look at white water boating on the Colorado River. River Report, (Summer):.

Obermiller, Rick

- 5322 2003 Transform me, oh River. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 23.

- 5323 2003 Faces in the stone. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 42.

Pollock, Joe

- 5324 2003 GTS river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(2) (Summer): 16-17.
Guides Training Seminar.

Purdy, Emily A., AND Purdy, Bess M.

- 5325 2003 Musings out loud : Emily A. Purdy and ballads by Bess. New York, Lincoln (Nebraska), and Shanghai: iUniverse, Inc., 200 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

See "Paddling the Colorado. The Means of Travel: An Adventure in Time" (pp. 67-83).

Quayle, Amil D.

- 5326 2003 Sons and rivers. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 27.

Rechel, Diane

- 5327 2003 Down the river; Bledsoe drawings nab nature. Flagstaff Live!, 9(22) (May 29-June 4): 11.
Steve Bledsoe.

Rennicke, Jeff

- 5328 2003 The mother of all white water; Lava Falls is a maelstrom of river, rock and terror—offering one of the greatest of all thrills. In: Experiences of a Lifetime [FEATURE]. National Geographic Traveler, 20(7) (October): 66, 68.

Richardson, Rachel

- 5329 2003 Who painted the sunlight? Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 4.

Roberts, Whitney

- 5330 2003 A youth's perspective of a Grand Canyon Youth experience. Currents (Grand Canyon Youth Newsletter), 1 (Fall): 2.

Taylor, Jan

- 5331 2003 Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 4.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

5332 2003 Green. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 19.

Walthall, Stuart

5333 2003 The canyon's heart. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 4.

5334 2003 Desert maw. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(4) (Winter): 27.

Welch, Vince

5335 2003 The travails of Charlie—first inflatable raft through Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(3) (Fall): 20-23.

Whitworth, Tim

5336 2003 At Boucher Creek. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(1) (Spring): 23.
Reprints Whitworth (2002).

5337 2003 The man in the maze. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(3) (Fall): 41.

Yazzie, Darien

5338 2003 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 16(3) (Fall): 17.

2004

Anonymous

5339 2004 Airport art takes off. In: News and Views [SECTION]. USA Weekend, (July 23-25): 14.
Includes "Writing Down the River" exhibit at Phoenix airport.

Abbey, Edward

5340 2004 River rats. In: Engelhard, Michael (ed.), Hell's half mile : river runners' tales of hilarity and misadventure. Halcottsville, New York: Breakaway Books, pp. 29-40.
Reprinted from Abbey (1982), Down the River (miscredited, p. 8, as Downriver).

Ashcroft, Gwyn

5341 2004 The Grand Canyon. Friends of Durham University Canoe Club (Durham University, Durham, County Durham, United Kingdom), (4) (Autumn): 4-5.
Kayak trip on Colorado River.

Beer, Bill

5342 2004 This river is out to get me. In: Engelhard, Michael (ed.), Hell's half mile : river runners' tales of hilarity and misadventure. Halcottsville, New York: Breakaway Books, pp. 189-203.
Reprinted from We Swam the Grand Canyon (Beer, 1988).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Briggs, Don, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5343 2004 Don Briggs. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 17(3) (Fall): 1, 24-38.
Briggs oral history interview. See also comment by Ivo Lucchitta, 17(4): 5.

Brzeski, Ben [Brzeski, Benjamin Howard]

- 5344 2000 The Grand Canyon Semester. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 13(1) (Winter): 12-13.
Four poems: "Time and Canyons", "Genesis", "Faces in the Muav", and "River". With photographs by Michael Collier.

- 5345 2000 River poetry. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association), 4(2) (Summer): 19.

Dellenbach, Jeanot

- 5346 2004 Echos des randonnées d'ailleurs: La descente du Colorado: «Un voyage en trois dimensions». L'écho des Montagnes (Association de Randonneurs, Bulletin d'Information; Te fetia o te mau mato) (Papeete, Tahiti), (12) (April): 8-9. [In French.]
(transl. 'Echoes of hikes from elsewhere: The descent of the Colorado: "A journey in three dimensions".')

Subtitle and slogan for the association are, in translation from French, "Informational Bulletin [or Newsletter] of the Hikers' Association", and from Maori, "Rock Stars". This item includes remarks about hikes during a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon. Not illustrated.

Dimock, Brad

- 5347 2004 Memories afloat; old boats of the Grand Canyon. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (October): 10-13.

Engelhard, Michael

- 5348 2004 (ED.) Hell's half mile : river runners' tales of hilarity and misadventure. Halcottsville, New York: Breakaway Books, 272 pp.

Frey, Joe, AND O., Thomi

- 5349 2004 Mit einer Tonne Eis durch den Grand Canyon (auf den Spuren des Bruder Klaus!). Kanu-Club Zug, Club Organ (Switzerland), 20(3) (December): 23-28. [In German.]
(transl. 'With a ton of ice through the Grand Canyon (in the footsteps of Brother Klaus!')

Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

Ghiglieri, Michael P.

- 5350 2004 Andy Hall, 1869 hero of the Colorado River in Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 15(1) (January/March): 5-9.

Excerpt from First Through the Grand Canyon (Ghiglieri, 2003; see in Part I of this bibliography).

Harker, Peter

- 5351 2004 The chance of a lifetime—the Grand Canyon. Friends of Durham University Canoe Club (Durham, County Durham, United Kingdom), (3) (Spring): 4-5.

Report on a kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Houston, Pam

- 5352 2004 Redefining strength. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 6(4) (Winter/Spring): 20-24.
Reprinted from Houston (2003).

Kean, Tony

- 5353 2004 The ballad of Bill Hamilton. Kaiapoi, New Zealand: Spiderweb Publishing, [28] pp.
Young-reader title. Includes the Grand Canyon jet boat uprun. See also Kean (2008).

McAlpine, Ken, AND Wu, Norbert

- 5354 2004 Climb atop the great, twisting snake of the Colorado River as it slithers and strikes through the Grand Canyon's depths and take the ride of your life. (Photographs by Norbert Wu.) American Way (American Airlines), (May 1): 28-33.

NicBride, Morag

- 5355 2004 Call to the Morrigan. A Druid Missal-Any (An Un-Official Publication of the Reformed Druids), 20(7) (Samhain, Year 42) (October 30, 2004): 830-832.
About ravens. Grand Canyon, Colorado River trip note, p. 832. (Samhain celebrated sundown October 31-November 1.)

Perry, Michael

- 5356 2004 Running the river righteous. Backpacker, 32(9) (December): 60-67, 98-99, 103, 105, 111.

Rappaport, Walter

- 5357 2004 Private trip journals; Notes from the bow of the boat. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(1) (Fall): 36.

Riske, Dave

- 5358 2004 Confronting Lava Falls. Desert Oracle (Paralyzed Veterans of America, Arizona Chapter, Phoenix), 6(4) (April): 17.

Roush, Eric

- 5359 2004 Colorado River trip; Grand Canyon. River Log (Missouri Whitewater Association Newsletter), (July/August): 12-13.

Sadler, Christa, AND Edwards, Dave

- 5360 2004 High water. In: Engelhard, Michael (ed.), Hell's half mile : river runners' tales of hilarity and misadventure. Halcottsville, New York: Breakaway Books, pp. 63-71.

Thybony, Scott

- 5361 2004 Marble Canyon, the back door. In: Engelhard, Michael (ed.), Hell's half mile : river runners' tales of hilarity and misadventure. Halcottsville, New York: Breakaway Books, pp. 251-258.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Vaaler, Jim

- 5362 2004 Rowing soothes. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 40(1) (January/February): 4.

Vermillion, Lisa

- 5363 2004 Life on earth; as seen on a trip down the Colorado River, which becomes a voyage of discovery for an Evergreen student. Evergreen (Evergreen State College, Olympia, Washington), 25(1) (Winter): cover, 3, 10-15.

Welch, Randy

- 5364 2004 [Letter to the editor.] American Whitewater, 45(4) (September/October): 4.
Kayaking Grand Canyon.

Welch, Vince

- 5365 2004 The mother of all takeouts. In: Engelhard, Michael (ed.), Hell's half mile : river runners' tales of hilarity and misadventure. Halcottsville, New York: Breakaway Books, pp. 225-235. [Reprinted from Hibernacle News (otherwise unspecified).]

Yarrington, Liz

- 5366 2004 Not in the Grand Canyon blues. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(1) (Fall): 42.

2005

Anonymous

- 5367 2005 Grand Canyon: Im Kajak durch den Grand Canyon. Kanu-Magazin (Stuttgart), (January): 12. [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon: Kayaking through the Grand Canyon')

- 5368 2005 Grand Canyon; wildwasser abenteuer auf dem Colorado. GeoSaison, (September):. [In German.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon; whitewater adventures on the Colorado'.)

- 5369 2005 First Lady receives unique work of art. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 11(3) (Fall): 2.
Laura Bush receives painting of Colorado River scene painted on an oar blade by Bruce Aiken.

Abbey, Edward

- 5370 2005 Down the river. In: Huser, Verne (ed.), River reflections : an anthology. Albuquerque: University of New Mexico Press.

Angell, Lisa

- 5371 2005 Encountering archdruids. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 9.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Bedrossian, Carlos W. M.

- 5372 2005 A memorial symposium; George L. Wied, MD, FIAC (1921-2004). Focus (Papanicolaou Society of Cytopathology), 12(2) (October): 13.

Includes note in passing of Wied's arrival for a Grand Canyon rafting trip wearing suit and tie.

Brooke, James

- 5373 2005 Anatomy of a flip; day 16—River Mile 179.3—March 2004. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(2) (Winter): 22-23.

Burke, Fred

- 5374 2005 Pitch 'til you win : Fred Burke in his own words. [No imprint], 82 pp.

From title-page verso: "Oral history copyright 2005 Lew Steiger; All articles copyright original authors; Cover painting copyright Susan Kliewer; Photographs from collection of Pam and Tim Whitney; Book Design by Brad Dimock; November 2005; edition of 200 copies". Volume includes reminiscences by other authors.

Carlos, Mari

- 5375 2005 Grand Canyon diary, July 8, 2004. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 10-11.

Chidester, Brook

- 5376 2005 Tapeats, August. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(1) (Spring): 5.

Cooper, Catharine

- 5377 2005 Up Kanab. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 8.

Dale, Regan, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5378 2005 Regan Dale. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(2) (Summer): 1, 24-35.

Dale oral history interview. See also brief comment by Roy Young, 18(3) (Fall): 6.

Detering, Hank

- 5379 2005 River rats. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 6.

Doolittle, Linda

- 5380 2005 I call it paradise. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 7.

Doty, Cherril

- 5381 2005 Impressions. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 6-7.

Eilber, Scott

- 5382 2005 Do you guys do this every day? Hibernacle News, 2005: 32-34.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Ellerbee, Linda

- 5383 2005 Take big bites : adventures around the world and across the table. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 302 pp. [Reprinted 2006 Berkeley Books (New York).]

See "No shit. There I was." Reprinted from Ellerbee (1998).

Elliott, Rob, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5384 2005 Rob Elliott. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(1) (Spring): 1, 28-43.

Elliott oral history interview.

Fahey, Matt

- 5385 2005 2005 GTS river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(2) (Summer): 10-13.

Guides Training Seminar.

Fedarko, Kevin, AND Markus, Kurt

- 5386 2005 Ain't it just grand? Outside, 30(6) (June): 66-72, 74, 76, 78-80, 139-140, 149.

Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon with Martin Litton.

Field, Maile

- 5387 2005 Getting it together or let's go trippin'. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(2) (Winter): 12-13.

Franso, Katie

- 5388 2005 Writing the Waves; a poem from the "White Water Writing" program. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(3) (Fall): 19.

Gillett, Simon

- 5389 2005 Rafting the Colorado. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 3.

Gourley, Geoff

- 5390 NO DATE River journal. Flagstaff, Arizona: Hakatai Press, 64 pp. [2005.]

Wirebound book containing eight photographic postcard views by river guide and photographer Gourley.

Hobbs, Greg [Hobbs, Gregory J., Jr.]

- 5391 2005 Colorado : mother of rivers : water poems by Justice Greg Hobbs. Denver: Colorado Foundation for Water Education, 190 pp.

See: "Powell's Run" (p. 15), "Mappers" (p. 16), "Grandfather" (p. 27), "A Colorado River Journey" (pp. 30-32), "The Great Unconformity" (p. 111), "Sam and Leonard" (pp. 168-169).

Hopka, Shirley

- 5392 2005 Back to civilization. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 9.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Kruger, Verlen, AND Frentz, Brand

- 5393 2005 The ultimate canoe challenge : 28,000 miles through North America. New York: iUniverse, 229 pp.
- See Chapter 14, "Up the Grand Canyon; Yuma to Lees Ferry, Arizona; March 18-April 27, 1983, 40 days, 500 miles" (pp. 180-197). Not so much a day-by-day travelogue, although some stretches do cover daily incidents. The trip up the lower Colorado River between Yuma and Hoover Dam is hardly discussed. The passage by Hoover Dam is by portage on a service road. The passage through Grand Canyon pays particular attention to the very difficult portage past Sockdolager Rapid (April 22) and a forced paddle up through Sheer Wall Rapid (April 27). The passage by Glen Canyon Dam is by portage through (inside!) the dam. Notably, the Colorado River trip to Glen Canyon Dam was coincidentally partly on the historic high water of 1983.

Levy, Stu

- 5394 2005 Side canyons of the Colorado. LensWork (Anacortes, Washington), (59) (July/August): cover, 4, 73-87.
- Photography portfolio.

Maier, Craig

- 5395 2005 Variations on Spring. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(1) (Spring): 24.

Morgan, Jeff [Morgan, Jeffrey]

- 5396 2005 Lure. Grand Canyon River Runner, (1) (Fall): 3.

Paine, Justin

- 5397 2005 Boiling rapids in the Grand Canyon. Gone Paddling (New South Wales Canoeing, Glebe, New South Wales, Australia), 1(1) (August): 11-12.

Petro, Joseph

- 5398 2005 (WITH Jeffrey Robinson) Standing next to history : an agent's life inside the Secret Service. New York: St. Martin's Press, 292 pp. [Also reprinted by Thomas Dunne Books (New York, 2006).]
- See pp. 254-256, Vice President Dan Quayle's family trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Rist, Samantha

- 5399 2005 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(1) (Spring): 44.

Sanderson, Bill, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5400 2005 Bill Sanderson. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(3) (Fall): 1, 26-31, 37-40.
- Sanderson oral history interview. See also Lois Sanderson (below).

Sanderson, Lois

- 5401 2005 A Sanderson trip journal. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(3) (Fall): 32-36.
- Accompanies the Bill Sanderson oral history interview. Photos with legends; motorboat trip through Grand Canyon that included Bob Euler (archaeologist Robert C. Euler).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Schoenemann, Meg

- 5402 2005 Rafting on the Colorado River. Bootprints (Pioneer Valley Hiking Club, Southwick, Massachusetts), 9(5) (September): 1, 3-5.

Smithsonian Folkways Recordings

- 5403 2005 Songs and stories from Grand Canyon : authentic voices from America's best loved places. Washington, D.C.: Smithsonian Folkways Recordings. CD. 58:00. With 24-p. "Track Notes" pamphlet annotated by Hal Cannon (with Introduction by Hal Cannon, p. 6). ("Conceived, compiled, and produced by Hal Cannon and Taki Telonidis for the Western Folklife Center" [Elko, Nevada].)

Includes: "Song of the Boatman", Katie Lee; "Zuni Emergence Song", Nawetsa; "Grand Canyon Gold", Alger Greyeyes (Navajo); "Major John Wesley Powell and Flow Gently Sweet Afton", Hal Cannon and Tom Bopp; "Rafting Down the Colorado", Hal Cannon and Teresa Jordan"; "Row", D Squared; "Lava Falls", Vaughn Short. (See also Smithsonian Folkways Recordings, 2005, in Part II of this bibliography.)

Webb, Roy

- 5404 2005 (ED.) High, wide, and handsome : the river journals of Norman D. Nevills. (Foreword by Brad Dimock.) Logan, Utah: Utah State University Press, 308 pp. [Hardbound and paperbound states.]

Whitney, David

- 5405 2005 Cold turkey in the Grand Canyon. Ye Olde RF Output (Mount Vernon Amateur Radio Club, Alexandria, Virginia), 18(9) (September): 4.

Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon, away from radios.

Witt, Linda

- 5406 2005 Grand rafting—river run spells high adventure and then some. In: Burke, Fred, Pitch 'til you win : Fred Burke in his own words. [No imprint], pp. 51-59.

Reprinted from Chicago Tribune, Sunday, April 7, 1985, Travel Section.

2006

Anonymous

- 5407 2006 Grand adventure. Coastal CaNEWS (Coastal Canoeists, Richmond, Virginia), (Summer): 1.

Anderson, Fletcher

- 5408 2006 The big sneak; a record passage (illegal as hell) through the Grand Canyon. (Illustrated by Gary Barnard.) Mountain Gazette, (123) (April/May): 37-43.

Reprinting of the anonymously published article (see "[Anderson, Fletcher]" 1978), this time with by-line, following the death of the author. With addendum by Brad Dimock, p. 43; and see obituary for Fletcher by Ann Hopkinson, pp. 15-16.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Annerino, John, AND Hillers, John K.

- 5409 2006 Rowing home; an adventure photographer follows in the wake of a Grand Canyon explorer. Arizona Highways, 82(8) (August): 10-17.

Babits, Sadie

- 5410 2006 The call of the whitewater; a newcomer becomes immersed in the river world. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (July): cover, 6, 10-17, 60-61, 63.

Bagiński, Zbigniew

- 5411 2006 Wielki Kanion Colorado. Gościńiec (Polskiego Towarzystwa Turystyczno-Krajoznawczego, Warszawa), 2(23): 133-137. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon of the Colorado.')

Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon, Lees Ferry to Whitmore pad.

Beasley, Dennis

- 5412 2006 Looking at the world a different way. The Legend (Over The Hill Gang, International; Colorado Springs, Colorado), (Spring): 1, 3.

Begins with a reminiscence from Colorado River trip in Marble Canyon.

Bledsoe, Steve, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5413 2006 Steve Bledsoe. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(3) (Fall): 1, 10-26.

Interview; includes Bledsoe artwork.

Braxton, Lowell, AND Winn, Pete

- 5414 2006 Coffee at Crystal. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 57-61.

Brown, Mathieu

- 5415 2006 Wet ankles. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 121-123.

Burch, Ghia

- 5416 2006 Sweet reunion. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 83-87.

Butler, Elias, AND Myers, Tom

- 5417 2006 Backpacking the Colorado. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(3) (Spring/Summer): 46-49.

"From the forthcoming biography on Harvey Butchart, tentatively titled 'One Who Dared', by Elias Butler and Tom Myers, to be published by Puma Press, 2006". (The volume was published as Grand obsession : Harvey Butchart and the exploration of Grand Canyon, which is listed in Part II of this bibliography.)

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Cooper, Tim

- 5418 2006 An exploration of the Little Colorado River Gorge. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 25-34.
- 5419 2006 The story. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 111-114.

Dimock, Brad, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5420 2006 Brad Dimock. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(2) (Summer): 1, 26-45.
Dimock oral history interview. See also correction by Steiger, 19(3) (Fall): 2.

Eldridge, Maury

- 5421 2006 Blacktail Narrows. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(3) (Spring/Summer): 11.
- 5422 2006 Canyon perspective. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(3) (Spring/Summer): 33.
- 5423 2006 Trinity Camp. The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(3) (Spring/Summer): 33.

Erskine, Kent

- 5424 2006 A river tale. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 109-110.

Exranger, Ebb

- 5425 2006 Smoked boogers, eggs and sudden discomfort—kayaking the Canyon in January. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 135-139.

Gallagher, Bonnie

- 5426 2006 The Grand Canyon in an open boat: Intrepid Gallagher finds heaven. Waterlines (Poudre Paddlers Club, Fort Collins, Colorado), (December): 2-3, 18.

Giese, Jeff

- 5427 2006 Larger than time. Grand Canyon River Runner, (3) (Fall): 15.

Hanauer, Creek

- 5428 2006 A hero story. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 119-120.

Hellin, Nancy Coker

- 5429 2006 By the light of the silvery moon. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 15-16.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Henderson, Bart

- 5430 2006 Bart Henderson. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(1) (Spring): 1, 31-43.
Oral history interview with Lew Steiger. Includes cover photo explanation by John Kramer (p. 43); photo in Sumatra.

Holland, Al

- 5431 2006 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(4) (Winter 2006-2007): 39.

Janecek, Tom (TJ)

- 5432 2006 A red-tailed friend tale. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 19-23.

Kovalik, Karen, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5433 2006 [Interview with Karen Kovalik.] In: Vladimir Kovalik [INTERVIEW]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(4) (Winter 2005-2006): 41, 43.

Accompanies the Vladimir Kovalik interview (see below).

Kovalik, Kyle, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5434 2006 [Interview with Kyle Kovalik.] In: Vladimir Kovalik [INTERVIEW]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(4) (Winter 2005-2006): 37, 39.

Accompanies the Vladimir Kovalik interview (see below).

Kovalik, Vladimir, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5435 2006 Vladimir Kovalik. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 18(4) (Winter 2005-2006): 1, 26-36, 38, 40, 42.

Transcript of portions of an oral history interview with Kovalik in January 2005, with editorial interjections; and with separate sidebars of interviews with others, "Kyle Kovalik", pp. 37, 39; and "Karen Kovalik", pp. 41, 43.

Magdaleno, Rita Maria

- 5436 2006 River run. Arizona Highways, 82(12) (December): 15.

Matheson, Teresa Yates

- 5437 2006 Wild kingdom. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 17-18.

- 5438 2006 Slithering company. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 101-103.

McHenry, Chuck

- 5439 2006 Grand Canyon—a combined trip with KCKA and MWA members. The Kansas Paddler (Kansas Canoe and Kayak Association, Lawrence, Kansas), 33(1) (Winter): 3-5.

MWA: Missouri Whitewater Association.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Melville, Bob

- 5440 2006 The truth or tomatoes? A loose story about a loose boat. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 115-117.

Minard, Anne

- 5441 2006 Below the rim; time slows down and life gets real on a rafting trip through Grand Canyon National Park. National Parks, 80(3) (Summer): cover, 1, 46-51.

Murphy, Shane

- 5442 2006 On big boats without water. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 97-99.
- 5443 2006 Jumping with mice. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 141-145.

Newhart, Jan

- 5444 2006 Rafting wild and wonderful in the Grand Canyon. The Outrigger (Outrigger Canoe Club, Honolulu, Hawaii), (February): 16-17.
- Bright Angel Creek to Lake Mead.

Niemi, Nels, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5445 2006 Nels Niemi. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(4) (Winter 2006-2007): 1, 26-39.
- Niemi oral history interview.

Oakes, Christine, AND Bojorquez, Christina

- 5446 2006 Ode to the river. Grand Canyon River Runner, (3) (Fall): 2.

Oko, Dan

- 5447 2006 Careening through the Grand Canyon. US Airways, (April): 76, 78, 80, 83-84.
- Bright Angel Creek to Diamond Creek.

Peterson, Nancy

- 5448 2006 Some thoughts on exiting the Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (3) (Fall): 11.

Peterson, Phil, Sr.

- 5449 2006 All things are possible : the Verlen Kruger story: 100,000 miles by paddle. Cambridge, Minnesota: Adventure Publications, Inc., 304 pp.
- See "Chapter 12: 1983; Up the Grand Canyon", pp. 124-129; regarding an upstream journey by canoe. Refer to Kruger and Frentz (2005).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Prochazka, Tanya

- 5450 2006 Good vibrations . . . Sabbatical with a twist. In Tune: Words On Music (University of Alberta, Department of Music), 17(2) (Winter 2006-2007): 9. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
- String quartet concert tour on Colorado River through Grand Canyon, June/July 2005.

Quayle, Amil D.

- 5451 2006 Old boatmen. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(4) (Winter 2006-2007): 40.

Robinson, Jim

- 5452 2006 Canyon memories. Grand Canyon River Runner, (2) (Spring): 2.

Ryberg, Erica

- 5453 2006 (WITH FURTHER REPORTING BY Mary Lin) We sent our students down the river; WELS course retraces John Wesley Powell's arduous journey down the Green and Colorado rivers. Transitions (Prescott College), 27(2) (Winter/Spring): 15-16.
- WELS: Wilderness Exploration and Landscape Studies.

Sadler, Christa

- 5454 2006 (ED.) There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., 216 pp. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
- 5455 2006 Blacktail. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 67-69.

Sadler, Christa, AND Edwards, Dave

- 5456 2006 High water. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 147-154.

Sansone, Marie

- 5457 2006 The Grand Canyon prayer. Grand Canyon River Runner, (3) (Fall): 5.

Scott, Keri

- 5458 2006 Diamond down. The Confluence (Colorado Plateau River Guides), (28) (Winter): 15-16.
- Colorado River trip below Diamond Creek.

Senior, Jeanienlar

- 5459 2006 Around the world and back; Mary Jean Lord still enjoys seeing how people live in foreign lands. Klickitat (Klickitat Public Utility District, Klickitat County, Washington), (May): 4-5.
- Includes notes about a Colorado River rafting trip in Grand Canyon.

Steiger, Lew

- 5460 2006 Havasu. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 93-96.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

5461 2006 Glory days; a boatman's story. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 129-133.

5462 2006 Speed. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 155-178.

Steiger, Lew [AND Kolb, Emery]

5463 2006 Rescue!! Grand Canyon River Runner, (2) (Spring): 4-5.

"From an interview with Emery Kolb, recorded at Kolb studio July 31, 1962. (Tape number 69 in the NPS archives at the South Rim Visitor Center.)"

Stevens, Larry

5464 2006 Farvana. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 7-10.

"Excerpt from The Book of Lesser Delights: Chapter 17, preceding the section entitled, 'Bowling for Sheep'".

Trainor, Greg

5465 2006 Four poems by Greg Trainor. The Confluence (Colorado Plateau River Guides), (28) (Winter): 22.

See "Poet's Lyric"; dated "September 8, 2002 Grand Canyon, June 1-June 18, 2002".

Van Kirk, Craig W.

5466 2006 Greetings from Craig Van Kirk. Newsletter, Petroleum Engineering (Colorado School of Mines, Department of Petroleum Engineering), 11(1) (September): 1-4.

Includes remarks on a recreational Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

Vitkus, Aleksas

5467 2006 Colorado upe per Grand Canyon. Draugas (Chicago), 97(24) (February 4): 5, (25) (February 7): 5, (26) (February 8): 5, (27) (February 9): 5, (28) (February 10): 5, (29) (February 11): 5, (30) (February 14): 5, (31) (February 15): 5. [In Lithuanian.]
(transl. 'Colorado River through Grand Canyon')

A 1978 river trip, Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek.

Walker, Charles

5468 2006 The final run. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(1) (Spring): 21.

Welch, Vince

5469 2006 Don't let your children grow up to be boatmen. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 187-194.

Welt, Cynthia

5470 2006 The girl and the grampa do the Grand—and THEY LIVED! The Waiting List (Grand Canyon Private Boaters Association Quarterly), 7(3) (Spring/Summer): 10-11. [Item signed "Cynthia Welt (The Travelbum)".]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

White, Adam, AND Meadows, Ori

- 5471 2006 The GTS river trip 2006. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 19(2) (Summer): 8-10.
Guides Training Seminar.

White, Stephanie

- 5472 2006 Flood at Matkatamiba. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 79-80, 82.

Williams, Tyler

- 5473 2006 Mix-up in the Ditch. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 51-55.

Wilson, Allen

- 5474 2006 Gone! In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 35-38.
- 5475 2006 After the trip. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 179-180.

Winn, Pete

- 5476 2006 Randy's Rock. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., pp. 71-76.
- 5477 2006 My favorite river hat. In: Sadler, Christa (ed.), There's this river . . . : Grand Canyon boatman stories. Flagstaff, Arizona: This Earth Press, 2nd ed., p. 125.

2007

Anonymous

- 5478 2007 The trip of a lifetime. Ranching for Profit Newsletter (Ranch Management Consultants, Inc., Fairfield, California), (92) (Spring): 1.
Remarks on a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon. Written in the first person but not otherwise identified.
- 5479 2007 Saints of the Colorado. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring): 13.
- 5480 2007 Egg day. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(3) (Fall): 13.
"Ode to female swampers by male motor guide, 'anonymous'".

Grand Canyon River Runner

- 5481 2007 My Best Day in the Grand Canyon [FEATURE]. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring):.
Various signed remarks by passengers on Colorado River trips.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Berg, Erik

- 5482 2007 "The best trip I've ever been on"; the 1937 Carnegie-Caltech Colorado River expedition. Journal of Arizona History, 48(4) (Winter): 375-402.

Billingsley, Susan, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5483 2007 Susan Billingsley. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(3) (Fall): 1, 26-38.
Billingsley oral history interview. Photos courtesy of George Billingsley. See also corrections by Latimer Smith, 20(4): 3.

Birdsall, Marlene, AND Birdsall, Jack

- 5484 2007 Grand Canyon rafting trip : July 2007—6 days : Marlene Birdsall's journal. [No place]: Lulu.com, 52 pp. [Cover title: Grand Canyon rafting trip : July 2007.] [An on-demand publication.]

Boli, Teresa

- 5485 2007 The Grand Canyon; paddling the beautiful big ditch. San Diego Kayak Club, 9(1) (January): 1-5.

Colligan, Doug

- 5486 2007 In over his head. Willie Stewart had no business kayaking the Colorado River. But he went for it anyway. Reader's Digest, (April): 112-119.
Stewart kayaked the Colorado through Grand Canyon just after having received a prosthetic left arm.

Cranson, Rod

- 5487 2007 From the Editor's desk. SOI News (Scamp Owners International, Lansing, Michigan), 9(4) (Fall): 2.
Includes brief note of Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon. (Scamp Travel Trailers.)

Dale, Ote, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5488 2007 Ote Dale. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(4) (Winter 2007-2008): 1, 30-41.
Dale oral history interview.

Davis, Wade, AND Davis, Tara

- 5489 2007 One river, two generations; Wade and Tara Davis on their Grand Canyon adventure. MacGillivray Freeman's Grand Canyon Adventure, (2) (July 27): 1-2 [entire issue].
Promotional for the IMAX film.

Dimock, Brad

- 5490 2007 The very hard way : Bert Loper and the Colorado River. Flagstaff, Arizona: Fretwater Press, 457 pp.

Findley, John M.

- 5491 2007 In over his head? Arizona Highways, 83(9) (September): 36-39.
Tubing Colorado River in Grand Canyon (swimming, with tubes for carrying supplies).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Fritzinger, Carol (Fritz), AND Steiger, Lew

- 5492 2007 Fritz. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(1) (Spring 2006-2007) [sic]: 1, 20-37.
Fritzinger oral history interview.

Glenn, Robert

- 5493 2007 The Grand. Good News Paper (Shepherdstown Ministerial Association, Shepherdstown, West Virginia), (Fall): 10. [Cover displays title as "Good Shepherds Good Town Good Newspaper".]
Recounting a six-day Colorado River trip, Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

Gründler, Sebastian, and Reinhold, Jens

- 5494 2007 Der Grand Canyon des Colorado. Kanu-Sport (Wien), (February): 18-23. [In German.]
(transl. 'The Grand Canyon of the Colorado')

Hey, David

- 5495 2007 Canyon withdrawal. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring): 14.

Hirsch, Emile

- 5496 2007 Into the cinema. Hollywood takes on a survival classic. Backpacker, 35(8) (October): 13.
Interview with actor Emile Hirsch. Includes comment on kayak running on Colorado River in Grand Canyon during filming of Into the Wild.

Honchariw, Nick

- 5497 2007 Lets [sic] go boating. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring): 14.

Kuhn, Sarah

- 5498 2007 Tales From the Truck—Diamond Creek chaos. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(4) (Winter 2007-2008): 20-21.
Inaugural article in Tales From the Truck series.

Ladd, Gary

- 5499 2007 Into the maw; Hermit Rapids teaches the meaning of life—and the value of fear. Arizona Highways, 83(6) (June): inside front cover-1, 44-47.
- 5500 2007 Hitchhiking by boat through the Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring): 4-5.

Miller, Steve

- 5501 2007 Day 21, Mile 225. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(2) (Summer): 3.
See also Miller (2017).

Mohr, Rebecca

- 5502 2007 River rider. Viking Views (Hoover High School, North Canton, Ohio), 57(10): 25.
Pamela Mathues.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Munger, Julie, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5503 2007 Julie Munger. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(2) (Summer): 1, 28-41.
Munger oral history interview.

Noteman, Laurali

- 5504 2007 Song of the canyon wren. Grand Canyon River Runner, (5) (Fall): 11.

Sadler, Christa

- 5505 2007 Canyon ghosts; a boatman's tale turns on sounds in the dark in a hidden slot. (Illustration by Joseph Daniel Fiedler.) Arizona Highways, 83(6) (June): 50.
Blacktail Canyon.

Sagmyr, Ellen

- 5506 2007 Staff page—The wild waters of the Grand Canyon. (Photos by Drew Thate and Ellen Sagmyr.) Beyond Basecamp (Montana Yellowstone Expeditions), (November): 5-6.

Vaaler, Jim

- 5507 2007 Lava Falls right. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 43(3) (May/June): 8.

Walker, Charles

- 5508 2007 The final one. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 20(4) (Winter 2007-2008): 26.

Webb, Rachel

- 5509 2007 My Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (4) (Spring): 12.

Wiggins, Scott, AND Grove, Ed

- 5510 2007 Grand finale. Coastal CaNEWS (Coastal Canoeists, Richmond, Virginia), (Spring): 1, 8-10.

2008

Anonymous

- 5511 2008 [Notice of talk by Jerry Cooper about a Colorado River rafting trip, "Page" to Phantom Ranch.] In: Columbia/Franklin Chapter [SECTION]. Tennessee Trails (Tennessee Trails Association), 39(4) (April): 3.

- 5512 2008 River rats enjoy the Colorado. MountainBrook Village Mountaineer (MountainBrook Village, Gold Canyon, Arizona), (November): 13.

Note of past trip and announcement for future trip. Hualapai-conducted river trip, Diamond Creek to Lake Mead. MountainBrook Village is a nationwide syndicate of adult-living communities.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

- 5513 2008 Grand Canyon whitewater rafting adventure, September 2008. The Scuttlebutt (Scottsdale Sea and Ski Club), (November/December): 21. [Item signed "Sue".]

Angell, Lisa

- 5514 2008 Travels with Jake. Grand Canyon River Runner, (7) (Fall): 14.

Aronson, Jeffe

- 5515 2008 High water of 1983. In: 1983; the 25th anniversary [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(1) (Spring): 36-41.

- 5516 2008 1983 DVDs available. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(2) (Summer): 47.
DVD of 1983 high water flows on the Colorado River.

Benninghoff, Diane Brown

- 5517 2008 Boatman. Grand Canyon River Runner, (7) (Fall): 7.

- 5518 2008 After two weeks on the river. Grand Canyon River Runner, (7) (Fall): 15.

Bennion, Joe

- 5519 2008 Not your usual take-out. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(2) (Summer): 48.
Helicopter removal of dory from top of Deubendorf Rapid (rapid not shown).

Broom, George

- 5520 2008 Warren Picket Travel Awards; rafting on the Colorado River. The Epsomian Magazine (Epsom College, Epsom, Surrey, England), 2007-2008: 90-91.

Brulle, Robert V.

- 5521 2008 Engineering the space age : a rocket scientist remembers. Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama: Air University Press, 268 [269] pp.

See pp. 24-25; passing note of B-25 flight in 1952, buzzing Hoover Dam and Lake Mead, and flying up Grand Canyon at river level.

Currey, Jack, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5522 2008 Jack Currey. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(2) (Summer): 1, 32-46.
Currey oral history interview.

Derr, Aaron, AND Heptig, Vince

- 5523 2008 Grand slam; a Scout adventure grip to the Grand Canyon turns into an extreme test of physical and mental toughness. Boys' Life, 98(6) (June): cover, 1, 16-21. [Cover title: "Grand Champs! Scouts Conquer the Canyon By Rock and By Rapid".]

Boy Scouts of America, Troop 717; Colorado River trip and hike out on Bright Angel Trail.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

DeWeese, Chelsea, AND Stewart, Lucia

- 5524 2008 Christmastime on the Colorado; dispatches from a holiday season on the river. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (December): 14-19, 54-55.

Dimock, Brad

- 5525 2008 The mysterious Hum Woolley or river history as told by obsessive compulsives. In: Berger, Todd R. (ed.), Reflections of Grand Canyon historians; ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon Association, Monograph 14, pp. 67-72. (2nd Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 25-28, 2007, Grand Canyon National Park.)

Fedarko, Kevin, AND Markus, Kurt

- 5526 2008 They call me "groover boy". But it isn't because of my dance moves. My life at the helm of a Colorado River latrine raft. Outside (July): 99-102, 104, 118-120.
- See also: Photos: Grand Canyon in Between the Lines [SECTION], p. 16 [this is a reference to additional photographs that are available online]; and notes about photographer Kurt Markus in Between the Lines [SECTION], p. 18. See also "We're number two" in Letters [SECTION], by Brian Sutton, Doug Thompson, and Lynda Kuppler, preceded by editors' note, (September): 22.)

Green, Nancy [Green, Nancy Rivest]

- 5527 2008 Historic boats tour. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 19(2) (Fall): 9-10.
At South Rim.

Halverson, Karen

- 5528 2008 Downstream : encounters with the Colorado River. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, 142 [143] pp.
- Seventy large-format color photographs.

Helin, Nancy Coker

- 5529 2008 Flash flood. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(2) (Summer): 2.
- "For a Deer Creek Cottonwood".

Johnson, Bob

- 5530 2008 Rafting in Grand (Canyon) style. The Interchange (Idaho Transportation Department, District 4 Monthly Newsletter), (September): 2.

Kean, Tony

- 5531 2008 The ballad of Bill Hamilton. Kaiapoi, New Zealand: Drakonian Publishing, in association with The Original Jet Boat Co., [28] pp.
- Young-reader title. Reprinting of Kean (2004). Includes the Grand Canyon jet boat uprun.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Keller, L. Lynn

- 5532 2008 Equipment haul to Phantom Ranch; the Grand Canyon National Park Service called Western River Expeditions in the spring of 1980 asking if the company would be willing to haul some heavy equipment from Lee's Ferry to Phantom Ranch. Grand Canyon River Runner, (6) (Spring): 6-7.
By the CEO of the company.

MacGillivray, Greg; Hübner, Ingo; AND Neumann, Michael

- 5533 2008 "Wasser gibt mir Seelenfrieden". 4-Seasons.de (Das Globetrotter Magazin) (Hamburg), (19) (Autumn): 6, 10-21. [In German.]
(transl. 'Water gives me peace of mind.')
- Colorado River in Grand Canyon. MacGillivray interviewed by Hübner. Photographs by MacGillivray and Michael Neumann. Table of contents gives title as "Träume Leb'n: IMAX-Filmer Greg MacGillivray" (transl. 'Living dreams: IMAX filmmaker Greg Macgillivray'). See also corresponding article by Neumann (below).

MacGillivray Freeman Films

- 5534 2008 Grand Canyon : river at risk. (Greg MacGillivray, producer; Robert Redford, narrator; featuring songs and music by Dave Matthews Band.)
- Created for exhibition in IMAX Theatres. 3-D format. See also video release, 2010.

Magneson, Moira

- 5535 2008 Green Room, Havasu. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(4) (Winter 2008-2009): 21.

Mangiapane, Victoria

- 5536 2008 Ode to our boatmen. Grand Canyon River Runner, (7) (Fall): 15.

Neumann, Michael

- 5537 2008 Grand Canyon de luxe. 4-Seasons.de (Das Globetrotter Magazin) (Hamburg), (19) (Autumn): 22, 24-25. [In German.]
- Trip on the Colorado River in Grand Canyon. See also corresponding article by MacGillivray et al. (above).

Mattson, John

- 5538 2008 Dancing on the edge of an endangered planet : wild tales of adventure and a bit of inspiration : from a farm boy who found his soul in the mountains and canyons of the world. [No imprint] [Farm Boy Publishing Co., Nederland, Colorado]: pagination [8] pp. color plates, 9-252, [8] pp. color plates. [Privately published.] [Cover title cited. Page 9 title: Dancing on the edge of an endangered planet : a very diverse collection of adventure stories and inspirational quotes.]
- See in particular, "Too Much Fun; How Kayaking Ruined my Climbing Career", pp. 83-96 + p. [5] of second series of color plates. (Colorado River in Grand Canyon.)

Moreland, Tamie

- 5539 2008 Rivers hardly ever. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(4) (Winter 2008-2009): 20.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Muniz, Vik

- 5540 2008 Campana brothers. BOMB (X Motion Picture and Center for New Art Activities, New York), (102) (Winter):.

Interview with Brazilian sculptors Humberto and Fernando Campana. Includes brief note by Humberto Campana about a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon, when a boat flip led him the next day to design his "first [sculptured] chair", "made from iron plates cut in a swirling pattern", which he fashioned on returning to Brazil.

Nicholson, Steve

- 5541 2008 The three day Grand trip of 1983. In: 1983; the 25th anniversary [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(1) (Spring): 24-25.

Petschek, Rudi

- 5542 2008 Filming the flip for the IMAX movie Hidden Secrets, September 1, 1983 on 28,000 cfs. In: 1983; the 25th anniversary [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(1) (Spring): 42.

Poulson, Don, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5543 2008 Don Poulson, aka Wolf. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(4) (Winter 2008-2009): 1, 24-39.
Poulson oral history interview.

Rew, Paul

- 5544 2008 Rafting into history; Paul Rew, 60, a solicitor from Shropshire, bravely takes on the rapids—and wins—in the Grand Canyon. In: Palin, Michael, "Writes of passage". High Life (British Airways), (April):.

Sharber, Joe, AND Ranney, Wayne

- 5545 2008 Memories of the "way too fast trip". In: 1983; the 25th anniversary [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(1) (Spring): 19-21.

Sherman, Laura

- 5546 2008 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(4) (Winter 2008-2009): 20.

Smith, Michael S.

- 5547 2008 A canoeist visits the Colorado. Canyon Echo (Sierra Club, Grand Canyon Chapter), 44(3) (May/June): 8.

The author on the Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

Smith, Steve

- 5548 2008 The river. Grand Canyon River Runner, (6) (Spring): 2.

- 5549 2008 The journey. Grand Canyon River Runner, (6) (Spring): 12.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Taylor, Jan

5550 2008 Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (6) (Spring): 7.
Reprints Taylor (2003).

5551 2008 Green. Grand Canyon River Runner, (6) (Spring): 7.
Reprints Taylor (2003).

Thybony, Scott

5552 2008 Crystal Rapid, 1983—Georgie goes for the big one. In: 1983; the 25th anniversary [FEATURE].
Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(1) (Spring): 17-18.
Georgie White.

5553 2008 A boatload of wild burros, cowboys, and Catahoula Curs. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(2)
(Summer): 20-23.

Webb, Roy

5554 2008 The Kennedy Hatch trip. Grand Canyon River Runner, (6) (Spring): 10-11.
Robert F. Kennedy. "Story and photos from the upcoming revised 3rd edition of Riverman, the Story of Bus Hatch, by Roy Webb. Fretwater Press, 2008."

Webb, Sarah

5555 2008 The fifth wave. Grand Canyon River Runner, (7) (Fall): 7.
Hermit Rapid.

Whitney, Tim, AND Steiger, Lew

5556 2008 Tim Whitney. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 21(3) (Fall): 1, 24-38.
Whitney oral history interview.

Wildeshaus, Gina

5557 2008 It's only water . . . Zwölf Tage im Grand Canyon. Intern (Kanu-Club Zugvogel Blau-Gold Köln, Vereinszeitschrift) (Köln), (April): cover, 6-12. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [In German.]
(transl. 'It's only water . . . twelve days in the Grand Canyon')
Kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, Lees Ferry to Lake Mead.

Wiegandt, Dan

5558 2008 1. "The Groover Experience". In: Footnote [SECTION]. Outside, (September): 22.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

2009

Bates, Mason

- 5559 2009 Mason Bates : Digital Loom. Newtown, Connecticut: MSR Classics (MSR Music LLC). CD. (MSR42.)
- Includes "Red River for mixed ensemble & electronica", produced by Mason Bates, recorded at Sear Sound by Paul Zinman for SoundByte Productions, NYC. "Red River", for violin, clarinet, cello, piano, and electronics, had its world premiere performed by the chamber ensemble Antares at the Greenwich Music Festival, Cole Auditorium, Greenwich (Connecticut) Library, June 3, 2007. "Red River traces the journey of the great Colorado River to its various destinations in the Southwest—Las Vegas, the Grand Canyon, the California desert—where its overuse is a source of endless controversy." (from the Program notes for the world premiere). In four movements: "The Continental Divide", "Interstate 70", "Zuni Visions from the Canyon Walls", "Hoover Slates Vegas", "Running Dry on the Sonoran Floor".

Benninghoff, Diane Brown

- 5560 2009 Span of ages. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(2) (Summer): 27.

- 5561 2009 The pinch. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(2) (Summer): 27.

- 5562 2009 The National shimmy. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(3) (Fall): 45. [National Canyon.]

- 5563 2009 Men who wear aprons. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(3) (Fall): 45.

Bobinski, Cliff

- 5564 2009 R2-ing the Grand Canyon. American Whitewater, 49(6) (November/December): 12. [Author and title from Contents page.]
- 12-foot Avon SB Scout inflatable raft.

Briesen, Derek von

- 5565 2009 Into the Grand; twelve days on the river. Northern Arizona and Beyond, [inaugural issue?]: 8-9.

Carstens, Tom

- 5566 2009 Rafting the big water in Grand Canyon. Applegater (Applegate Valley Community Newspaper, Jacksonville, Oregon), (Summer): 19.

Chappelle, Zoe

- 5567 2009 Grand Canyon. The Paddle (Mason-Dixon Canoe Cruisers, Hagerstown, Maryland), (Spring): 2.
- See also p. 3, photo, "Zoe and her mom, Sheila", taken at Deer Creek overlook.

Denoyer, Mike, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5568 2009 Mike Denoyer. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(2) (Summer): 1, 30-44.
- Denoyer oral history interview.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Kaido, Betsy

- 5569 2009 Hiking and rafting the Grand Canyon. The Blade (Northern New York Paddlers, Schenectady, New York), (July 1): 2-3.

Kirkwood, Allen

- 5570 2009 Rafting the Grand Canyon (at least half of it). Bowlines (Bluegrass Wildwater Association, Lexington, Kentucky), (January/February): 1, 3-7.

Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

Maple, Leslie

- 5571 2009 Low County Paddlers meeting minutes, November 17, 2008. The Yakker (Low Country Paddlers Club Newsletter, Charleston, South Carolina), (January): 3-4.

Includes notice of presentation by Wendy Wicke on a Grand Canyon rafting and paddling trip.

Mukai, Junichi [向井 淳一]

- 5572 2009 グランドキャニオン川下り：泥まみれの谷底旅行記：米国駐在ファミリーの [Gurando kyanion kawa-kudari : coromamire no tanizoko ryokō-ki : beikoku chūzai famirī no]. Grand Canyon rafting : a wonderful journey on the Muddy River. [Chicago?]: Junichi Mukai, 176 pp. [Privately published. Printing by InstantPublisher.com; printed in U.S.A. 1st printing, June 22, 2009; 2nd printing, August 31, 2009. Slip with table of contents translated into English included in at least American sales.] [In Japanese, with bilingual title.]

Regarding a commercial trip on the Colorado River, Lees Ferry to South Cove, August 10-16, 2008.

Paulson, Beth

- 5573 2009 An unforgettable summer adventure. Grand Canyon River Runner, (9) (Fall): 15.

Reeder, Ben

- 5574 2009 GTS river trip 2009. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(2) (Summer): 14-16.

Guides Training Seminar.

Schwab, Claudia

- 5575 2009 Grand Canyon of the Colorado River. Eddyline (Vancouver Kayak Club, Vancouver, British Columbia), (Fall): 12-13.

Colorado River rafting trip in Grand Canyon.

Short, Vaughn, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5576 2009 Vaughn Short. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(3) (Fall): 1, 26-35.

Short oral history interview.

Siber, Kate

- 5577 2009 A grand initiation; entering the cult of the Grand Canyon river runner. Inside/Outside Southwest, 12(6) (June): cover, 5, 8-11.

"For an expanded version visit InsideOutsideMag.com" (p. 11).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Sibley, George

- 5578 2009 "Stilts and Redtails on the River"—for John Presley. In: Back of the Boat—The Whale Foundation News Bulletin. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(2) (Summer): 24.

Staveley, Cam, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5579 2009 Cam Staveley. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(4) (Winter 2009-2010): 1, 28-40.
Cameron Staveley oral history interview.

Steiner, B. [Steiner, Bambi]

- 5580 2009 Immersion : a Haiku journey through the Grand Canyon. Gualala, California: AHA Books, 150 pp.
Colorado River trip.

Stoner, Ruthie; Stoner, Jon; AND Steiger, Lew

- 5581 2009 Ruthie Stoner. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 22(1) (Spring): 1, 30-45.
Ruthie Stoner oral history interview.

2010

Anonymous

- 5582 2010 Visite du Grand Canyon en kayak. Le P'tit Rappel (Club de Canoë-Kayak d'Eau Vive de Montréal), (Autumn): 3-5. [Date is not indicated on this issue; established from other issues.] [In French.]
(transl. 'Tour of the Grand Canyon by kayak.')
- 5583 2010 Invited guest lecturer Aron Ralston. Hand Surgery Quarterly (American Association of Hand Surgery, Arlington Heights, Illinois), (Autumn): 6.
Notes, in passing, that Ralston "became the first amputee to row a raft through the Grand Canyon."

Bechtel, Jim

- 5584 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., pp. 260-261.

Bechtel, Jim, AND Belknap, Bill

- 5585 2010 It was in the afternoon—. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(3) (Fall): 48.
Photo by Bill Belknap; Jim Bechtel and Georgie White face-to-face at Elves Chasm, during the jet boat uprun. With excerpt from letter, Jim Bechtel to Marty Anderson, explaining the photo.

Belknap, Bill

- 5586 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., pp. 260-261.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., pp. 257-258.

Belknap, Buzz [Belknap, William, III]

5587 2010 The 1960 Grand Canyon jet boat expedition—Part 2: My summer vacation and the upstream run. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(3) (Fall): 32-37.

For Part 1 see Smith, Philip M., 23(1): 40-46. See also item by Bechtel and Belknap, 23(3): 48.

5588 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., p. 259.

Belknap, Buzz, AND Quartaroli, Richard D.

5589 2010 Buzz Belknap. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(3) (Fall): 1, 16-31.

Belknap oral history interview.

Buchheit, Mike

5590 2010 Tackling Tuckup: GCFI river runners move to higher ground. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 16(2) (Summer): 8-9.

Tuckup Canyon. Grand Canyon Field Institute.

Cady, Robert

5591 2010 Robert Cady's white water Grand Canyon trip, August 17-September 5, 2010. The Rambler (Wasatch Mountain Club, Salt Lake City), 89(10) (October): 34-37.

Castelli, Mike

5592 2010 Mike Castelli; interviewed by Allen Wilson. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(2) (Summer): 43-45.

Entire item is in the first person, by Castelli alone.

Clark, Gail

5593 2010 Rafting the Colorado River. Washington Inland Sea Kayaking Club Newsletter, (3) (September 6): 1-2.

[Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition]

5594 2010 Grand Canyon uprun: 50th Anniversary Edition 1960-2010. Accompanying: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap) (Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed.). [Pennant Hills, New South Wales, Australia]: Black Magic, DVD.

Elliott, Andrew

5595 2010 You are as pollen. Starlight (Sophia Foundation of North America, San Francisco), 9(2) (Fall): 21.

Thoughts after a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Findley, John M.

- 5596 2010 Just lucky. Bloomington, Indiana: AuthorHouse, 623 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
See "Swimming the Grand Canyon", pp. 590-623, regarding the author's three attempts.

Gallagher, Betsyann

- 5597 2010 Balance. Starlight (Sophia Foundation of North America, San Francisco), 9(2) (Fall): 22.
Thoughts after a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

Gentry, Wayne

- 5598 2010 The Grand Canyon torqueathon—squirt boats invade the Grand Canyon. The Eddy Line (Georgia Canoeing Association, Atlanta, Georgia), 45(4) (July/August): 7.

Hamilton, Jon

- 5599 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., pp. 248-253.

Hamilton, Jon; Steiger, Lew; AND Dimock, Brad

- 5600 2010 Jon Hamilton. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(1) (Spring): 1, 2, 24-39.
Hamilton oral history interview. Includes the Colorado River uprun.

Hamilton, Joyce

- 5601 2010 White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition : 50th Anniversary Edition, 1960-2010 (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap). Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., 264 pp. + DVD. [Dust jacket also notes, "Includes a special edition Colorado Uprun DVD"; disk in pocket affixed to rear flyleaf of dust jacket. Title on DVD: Grand Canyon Uprun, Black Magic, producer (Australia)
For 1st ed. see Hamilton (1963); see also Hamilton (no date) listed under "Date Undetermined" in this bibliography.

Hamilton, Lynn

- 5602 2010 The boats will speak: Introducing the Grand Canyon River Heritage Coalition. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(2) (Summer): 16-17.
At South Rim.

Heinsius, Ryan

- 5603 2010 Converging visions; cinematographer Ed George captures southwestern artists at the moment of collective inspiration. Flagstaff Live!, 16(34) (August 26-September 1): 12-13.
Includes Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Hite, Stefani

- 5604 2010 Nothing but the water : a Grand Canyon adventure : September 2010. [No imprint], [31] pp. [An on-demand publication.]
Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon; Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

Hobbs, Greg [Hobbs, Gregory J., Jr.]

- 5605 2010 Colorado River poems; by Justice Greg Hobbs, Colorado Supreme Court[,], written on Hatch Expedition motorized trips 2000 and 2007. Grand Canyon River Runner, (10) (Summer): 14.
"A Colorado River Journey", "The Great Return", and "Mother of All Canyons".

Kean, Tony

- 5606 2010 Afterword. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., p. 264.

LaFrance, Paul

- 5607 2010 Hiking to Thunder River. Grand Canyon River Runner, (11) (Winter): 10-11.
River trip hike.

Lauck, Zeke

- 5608 2010 Whirlpool waltz (Mile 157, October, 1992) in 3/4 time. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(1) (Spring): 4.

Law, Steven Wesley

- 5609 2010 [2009 Wilderness S-rig flip in Pearce Ferry Rapid.] In: Tales from the Truck [SECTION]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(3) (Fall): 15.

Lee, Katie, AND Martin, Richard

- 5610 2010 At the confluence of life and time. Grand Canyon River Runner, (10) (Summer): 6-7.
Visit to the 1956 crash site of a TWA Constellation airliner. Includes an excerpt from Katie Lee's river journal, July 13, 1956, ten days after the collision of the Constellation and a United DC 7 over Grand Canyon.

MacGillivray Freeman Films

- 5611 2010 Grand Canyon : river at risk. (Greg MacGillivray, producer; Robert Redford, narrator; featuring songs and music by Dave Matthews Band.) [No place]: Image Entertainment, DVD, Blu-ray 3D, DTS Surround Sound, widescreen (DTS-HD Master Audio 5.1). 45:00.
Video release of the 2008 IMAX film. Also released with subtitles in numerous languages.

Mannering, Guy

- 5612 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., pp. 234-245.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Mannering, Margie

- 5613 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., p. 246.

Martin, Tom

- 5614 2010 The first fiberglass kayak run through Grand Canyon, 1960. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 21(4) (Fall): 3-5.

Morrison, George

- 5615 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., p. 247.

Powell, Robert

- 5616 2010 Pilgrimage to the Grand Canyon and journey to Turkey. Starlight (Sophia Foundation of North America, San Francisco), 9(2) (Fall): 12-14.

Thoughts after a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

Rose, Molly

- 5617 2010 Journey into the Grand Canyon and the Heart of the Mother. Starlight (Sophia Foundation of North America, San Francisco), 9(2) (Fall): 15-16.

Thoughts after a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

Sadler, Christa

- 5618 2010 Whitewater women; the female river runner perspective. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (March): cover, 6, 12-15, 48.

Smith, Philip M. [Smith, Phil]

- 5619 2010 The 1960 Grand Canyon jet boat expedition—Part 1: Planning and the downstream run. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(1) (Spring): 40-46.

See also comments by Latimer Smith, 23(3): 5. For Part 2 see Belknap, Buzz, 23(3): 32-37.

- 5620 2010 [Comments.] From: Uprun Accounts from other Expedition Members. In: Hamilton, Joyce, White water : the Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition. (Tony Kean, ed.; foreword by Phil Smith and Buzz Belknap.) Christchurch, New Zealand: Joyce Hamilton and Tony Kean, 50th anniversary ed., pp. 254-256.

Sohn, Jackie

- 5621 2010 Reflections on the pilgrimage to the Grand Canyon. Starlight (Sophia Foundation of North America, San Francisco), 9(2) (Fall): 17-20.

Thoughts after a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon. Includes verses.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Stoner, Jon, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5622 2010 Jon Stoner. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(4) (Winter 2010-2011): 1, 30-45.
Stoner oral history interview.

Strazza, Suzanne

- 5623 2010 The lost art of being a slut, or: I am a dory whore. Mountain Gazette, (167) (May): 9-10.

Tinney, Steve

- 5624 2010 Ode to Ted Hatch. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(2) (Summer): 4.
Printed as a sidebar to a Hatch memorial by Roy Webb (pp. 3-5).

Welch, Gwen

- 5625 2010 Home is where the river is. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(3) (Fall): 13.
15-year-old author.

Wilson, Allen, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5626 2010 Crazy Al. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(2) (Summer): 1, 26-43. [Cover title: Allen Wilson.]
Wilson oral history interview. See also comments by David Kashinski, 23(3): 5.

Wogan, Kelsey

- 5627 2010 GTS river trip 2010! Boatman's Quarterly Review, 23(2) (Summer): 9-12.
Guides Training Seminar. See also photos by Paul Hirt (pp. 10-11) and Kathy Bennett (p. 12).

Wooldridge, Frosty

- 5628 2010 Rafting the rolling thunder : journey through the Grand Canyon. Bloomington, Indiana: AuthorHouse, 141 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

2011

Anonymous

- 5629 2011 Rafting the Grand Canyon. In: Minutes. The Adventurers' Club News (Los Angeles), 55(8) (August): 19-21.

Synopsis of a presentation given to the club by Dave Gunn, July 14; with photos by Gunn.

Ashbaugh, Donna

- 5630 2011 My most memorable day on the Colorado River. Grand Canyon River Runner, (12) (Spring): 13.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Barnes, Scott

- 5631 NO DATE It must be . . . (A Grand Canyon trip) : drawings and thoughts from a winter trip from Lee's Ferry to Diamond Creek (December 19, 2010-January 2, 2011). [No imprint], [48] pp. [Ellipsis is part of title.] [An on-demand publication.] [2011?]

Barone, Dan

- 5632 2011 Thoughts leaving Diamond Creek. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(4) (Winter 2011-2012): 8.

Bass, William Wallace

- 5633 2011 Adventures in the canyons of the Colorado by two of its earliest explorers, James White and W. W. Hawkins, with introduction and notes by William Wallace Bass, the Grand Canyon guide. (Foreword by George Wharton James.) Lexington, Kentucky: Dunda Books, 43 pp. [Cover title: Dunda Books Classic. Adventures in the Canyons of the Colorado. William Wallace Bass.] [An on-demand publication.]

Reprinting of Bass (1920). Text reset, with illustrations; original title-page reset, p. 2. Bass, pp. 7-14, 16, 34-35, 39-43; Hawkins, pp. 15, 17-33 (including facsimiles of original journal pages); White, pp. 36-39 (including facsimile of original letter); James, pp. 3-6.

Beer, Bill

- 5634 2011 Lava Falls. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 129-136.

Reprinted from We Swam the Grand Canyon (Beer, 1988).

Billingsley, George, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5635 2011 George Billingsley. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(1) (Spring): 1, 30-4
Billingsley oral history interview.

Blanchette, Catherine

- 5636 2011 Épopée sur le Grand Canyon. Le P'tit Rappel (Club de Canoë-Kayak d'Eau Vive de Montréal), (Autumn): 9-11. [In French.]
(transl. 'Grand Canyon epic.')

Private trip on the Colorado River.

Boguth, Tatjana

- 5637 2011 Einhundert ist gleich vierzig—Heiße Wüste und eiskaltes Wasser. KSR—Nachrichten (Kanusportringe Nordwest und Südwest, Mitteilungsblatt) (Schneverdingen, Germany), (September/October): 3-17. [In German.]
(transl. 'One hundred equals forty—Hot desert and freezing water.')

Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Burchmore, Jill

- 5638 2011 Groovin' in the canyon. (Tree Cooper and Maggie McNallya, eds.) [No place]: Lulu Press, Inc., 257 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Carman, Rick

- 5639 2011 Trip report: Grand Canyon. Oregon Whitewater Association (Portland, Oregon), 12(7) (September): 1, 4; (8) (October): 1, 6-7, 11.

Colorado River trip, Lees Ferry to Pearce Ferry.

Collins, Gail G.

- 5640 2011 Outside the box; the 'ammo box' art and other works of Simone Stephenson. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (November): 28-30.

Ammo can art.

Creation Ministries International

- 5641 2011 Rafting in the Grand Canyon : catastrophic evidence of Noah's Flood : featuring Richard Fangrad. [No place]: Creation Ministries International. DVD. 64:00.

Creationist perspective.

Dimock, Brad

- 5642 2011 Brothers, boats and a river grand; the famed river run of Ellsworth and Emery Kolb. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (April): 18-23.

Eiseman, Fred [Eiseman, Fred B., Jr.]; Eiseman, Maggie [Eiseman, Margaret]; AND Steiger, Lew

- 5643 2011 Fred and Maggie Eiseman. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(2) (Summer): 1, 2, 32-46, 48.

Eisemans oral history interview. See also response by Alisa Quist, 24(3) (Fall): 5.

Farnsworth, Janet Webb

- 5644 2011 Hualapai River Runners adventure. In: Farnsworth, Janet Webb, and Heath, Bernadette, Grandma needs a four-wheel drive : adventure travel for seniors. Tucson: Wheatmark, pp. 107-112.

Flavell, George F.

- 5645 2011 The log of the Panthon. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 142-152.

Selection reprinted from The Log of the Panthon (Flavell, 1987), regarding Flavell's 1896 Colorado River trip.

Glocker, Stephan, AND Neumann, Michael

- 5646 2011 La mère de toutes les gorges; descente du Grand Canyon en kayak. Outdoor Guide (Altstätten, Switzerland) [French ed.], (Summer): 58-69. [In French.]

(transl. 'The mother of all gorges; descent of the Grand Canyon by kayak.')

- 5647 2011 Die Mutter aller Schluchten; im Kajak durch den Grand Canyon. Outdoor Guide (Altstätten, Switzerland) [German ed.], (Summer): 58-71. [In German.]

(transl. 'The mother of all canyons; kayaking through the Grand Canyon.')

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Gorospe, Raymond

- 5648 2011 Crystal @ 72,000 . . . Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(1) (Spring): 44-46. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
Crystal Rapid at Colorado River flow of 72,000 cubic feet per second.

Hanauer, Creek

- 5649 2011 Tales from the truck—That day in Crystal. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(4) (Winter 2011-2012): 26-27.

Haraden, Tom

- 5650 2011 The cataract boats; Hardy survivors of Norm Nevills's Grand Canyon expeditions. WoodenBoat (WoodenBoat School, Brooklin, Maine), (219) (March/April): 38-43.

Helin, Bruce, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5651 2011 Bruce Helin. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(4) (Winter 2011-2012): 1, 2, 28-45.
Helin oral history interview.

Hobbs, Greg [Hobbs, Gregory J., Jr.]

- 5652 2011 Into the Grand. The Docket (Denver Bar Association), 33(5) (May): 20-21.
Colorado River trip.

Hogan, Linda

- 5653 2011 Plant journey. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 177-179.
Reprinted from Writing Down the River (Hogan, 1998).

Holmstrom, Christine

- 5654 2011 Grand Canyon pilgrimage. Starlight (Sophia Foundation of North America, San Francisco), 11(1) (Easter): 58-66.
2010 Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon, Lees Ferry to "Meadview" (i.e., Pearce Ferry). Followed by an article by Molly Rose, pp. 66-70 (see below).

Jett, Brandon

- 5655 2011 A grand jouney [sic] into the Big Ditch; 23 days of introspection, relaxation and beer! Bowlines (Bluegrass Wildwater Association, Lexington, Kentucky), (May/June): 1, 3-11.
Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Keller, L. Lynn

- 5656 2011 A river runner's life. [No imprint], 244 pp. + CD-ROM in pocket.
Autobiography of owner and CEO of Western River Expeditions. CD-ROM is performance of "Ghost Riders in the Sky" by Stan Jones, performed by Keeter Stuart, nephew of Jones.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Kenney, Stephen

- 5657 2011 River people. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(4) (Winter 2011-2012): 2.

Kida, Jeff; Kramer, Kelly; AND Stieve, Robert

- 5658 2011 What's right with Arizona; Best of AZ 2011. Arizona Highways, 87(8) (August): cover, inside front cover, 18-51.

See photo by Tom Brownold, pp. 28-29 (rafter in House Rock Rapid).

Law, Steven Wesley

- 5659 2011 Tales from the Truck—It goes downhill fast: A crash course in rowing Lava Falls. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(2) (Summer): 22-27.

- 5660 2011 A crash course in rowing the Grand Canyon's Lava Falls. Outdoor Sports Guide (Salt Lake City), 29(4) (Late Summer): cover, 4, 10-11.

Cover tease: "Surviving Lava Falls; Rowing the Grand Canyon's Fastest Rapid" (although the cover photo depicts "Canyoneers river guide, Jake Snyder, [driving] his 37-foot C-Craft boat through the tail of House Rock Rapid in Grand Canyon").

Livingston, Haven

- 5661 2011 A grand and revealing journey. Of the many warning signs at Lee's Ferry put-in for the Grand Canyon, one is missing: Caution! Following this river may change the course of your life. Adventure Sports Journal, (June/July): 20-24.

Lopez, Barry

- 5662 2011 Gone back into the earth. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 108-114.

Reprinted from Crossing Open Ground (Lopez, 1988), which in turn is from Lopez (1981).

Marean, R. P.

- 5663 2011 The way things worked in 1969. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(2) (Summer): 10-11.

Facsimile reproduction of 6 June 1969 letter from Marean to C. Martin Litton, regarding purposely controlled flows from Glen Canyon Dam to aid Litton's runs in Grand Canyon rapids; ". . . I hope the flows were to your satisfaction." Most of the letter relates to plans for similarly adjusted flows to accommodate Litton's forthcoming trip on the Upper Colorado River. Marean was Chief, Operations Division, U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, CRSP (Colorado River Storage Project) Power Operations Office—Region 4, Montrose, Colorado.

Maurer, Bruno

- 5664 2007 Traumziel Grand Canyon. Kanu-Sport (Wien), (February): 16-23. [In German.]
(transl. 'Dream destination Grand Canyon')

McCairen, Patricia C.

- 5665 2011 Canyon solitude. In: Newman, Lance (ed.), The Grand Canyon reader. Berkeley, Los Angeles, and London: University of California Press, pp. 95-103.

Reprinted from McCairen (1998, Canyon Solitude).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Morgan, Jeff [Morgan, Jeffrey]

5666 2011 Will. Grand Canyon River Runner, (12) (Spring): 14. [2003.]

Newby, Neal

5667 2011 Lost in the Grand Canyon. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 22(4) (Fall): 1, 2, 6-13.

Neal Newby and Frank Moltzen Colorado River trip, 1956, using one-man life rafts; Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

Petrillo, Rick

5668 2011 Cliff edge. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(1) (Spring): 21.

5669 2011 Waterways. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(1) (Spring): 29.

5670 2011 Sticks. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(1) (Spring): 29.

Price, Beverly B.

5671 2011 Nude rafting the Grand Canyon. N (Nude and Natural) (Naturist Society, Oshkosh, Wisconsin), 32(2) (Winter): cover, 2, 3, 14-19

Commercial trip, with Hatch River Expeditions. [NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).]

Quayle, Amil D.

5672 2011 Upset in Upset. (Foreword by Christa Sadler.) St. Anthony, Idaho: Henry's Fork Books, 20 pp.

Richter, Brad

5673 NO DATE American landscapes for guitar : with guest artist David Finckel, cello. [No imprint], CD. [2011. Recorded May 2010.]

Web-posted music; CD and sheet music available through the artist <http://bradrichter-guitar.com>. Hear the section of tracks, "River Songs (homage to the Colorado), comprising "Snowmelt", "Confluence", "Leaving Marble Canyon", "Lava Falls", "Ebb and Flow", and "Storm Chaser", all composed by Brad Richter.

Rose, Clair Anna

5674 2011 Go chase your own Light 8! Riding the rapids with a boatload of artists . . . The Noise, (121) (June): 44-45. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Rose, Molly

5675 2011 From the Grand Canyon to Washington D.C. and beyond: Pilgrimage reflections four months later. Starlight (Sophia Foundation of North America, San Francisco), 11(1) (Easter): 66-70.

See pp. 66-67, regarding a 2010 Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon. Follows the article by Christine Holmstrom, pp. 58-66 (see above).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Royle, Ian

- 5676 2011 A "grand" day out; paddling the Grand Canyon, August 2011. Trasher (Kingfisher Canoe Club, Abingdon, Oxford, United Kingdom), (3rd Quarter): 13-16.

Sadler, Christa, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5677 2011 Christa Sadler. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(3) (Fall): 1, 28-41.
Sadler oral history interview.

Shearin, Laura

- 5678 2011 [Comments.] In: Memories and photos from the 2011 GTS river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(2) (Summer): 18.
Guides Training Seminar.

Smith, Latimer

- 5679 2011 Emery Kolb runs Crystal. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(4) (Winter 2011-2012): 21-23.
Kolb joined a Grand Canyon Expeditions trip, May 20-23, 1974, from the Little Colorado River to lower Tuna. Includes a facsimile of Kolb's signed Liability Release/Photo Release form.

Solomon, Maudie

- 5680 2011 The last night. Grand Canyon River Runner, (12) (Spring): 14.
Dated 2007.

Southern Paiute Consortium

- 5681 2011 The rivers and canyons of the Colorado. Tucson: University of Arizona, Bureau of Applied Research in Anthropology, VHS video and DVD formats. 35:09.
Southern Paiute connections to the Colorado River, and work of the Glen Canyon Dam Adaptive Management Program.

Svobodová, Terka "Blup"

- 5682 2011 Grand Canyon splněný sen; 3 týdny po Colorado river na raftech a kajacích. H<sub>2</sub>O Maniaks Production Team News (Czech Republic), 2011: [1]. [\[In Czech.\]](#)
\(transl. 'Grand Canyon a dream come true; 3 weeks along the Colorado River on rafts and kayaks'\)
Rowing and kayak trip on the Colorado River, Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek.

Trainor, Greg

- 5683 2011 Blacktail Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(4) (Winter 2011-2012): 15.

Visbak, Jorgen

- 5684 2011 [Comments.] In: Memories and photos from the 2011 GTS river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(2) (Summer): 17.
Guides Training Seminar. Visbak was a speaker and one of the original 200 on the Dock Marston list of Colorado River runners who traversed the entire Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Watters, Kate [Watters, Katherine]

- 5685 2011 Deer Creek patio; worshipping at the church of desert creeks. In: Full Frontal [SECTION]. Flagstaff Live!, 17(22) (June 2-8): 4.

Webster, Matt

- 5686 2011 Tales from the truck. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 24(1) (Spring): 24-29.
Double-wrapping of boats in Crystal Rapid, August 6-7, 2010.

Westergard, Jim

- 5687 2011 Oddballs: The remarkable true stories of forty unique, strange, peculiar, extraordinary and generally odd people. [Vancouver, British Columbia]: Heavenly Monkey, 96 pp. ("This book has been set in Dante and Dante Titling. The text has been printed at Heavenly Monkey by Rollin Milroy on dampened Guarro paper with a Washington press. The wood engravings were printed by the artist in his Red Deer studio on Zerkall paper. The binding is by Claudia Cohen. Oddballs is published in an edition of 30 copies, uniform in content and binding, plus 5 hors de commerce copies (marked H.C. 1-5). This copy is number [number written] [signed] Jim Westergard" (colophon).]

Includes Georgie White.

Wildeshaus, Gina

- 5688 2011 Zwölf Tage im Grand Canyon. Kanu-Sport, (September): 14-17. [In German.]
(transl. 'Twelve days in the Grand Canyon')

Kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, Lees Ferry to Lake Mead.

Wilmart, Gary

- 5689 2011 Adapt and conquer. Stroke Connection (American Heart Association, AmericanStroke Association), (July/August): cover, inside front cover, 8-11, 14.

Author is stroke survivor. Article includes Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Wimpissinger, Tobias

- 5690 2011 Big river man. Sport Magazin (Wien), (November): 84-89. [In German, with item title in English, thus.]

Martin Strel. Includes note of Grand Canyon swim of 2012.

Wooldridge, Frosty

- 5691 2011 How to live a life of adventure : the art of exploring the world. Bloomington, Indiana: AuthorHouse, 380 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

See particularly, Chapter 14, "Raging and Terrifying Stretch of Water in the Grand Canyon", p. 70-75. See also in "Bucket List in No Particular Order", p. 194, "1. Raft trip down the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon. Lee's Ferry to Diamond Creek takeout or Lake Powell [sic]."

Yearick, Mark

- 5692 2011 Goodbye canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (12) (Spring): 14.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

2012

Anonymous

5693 2012 Grand Canyon: May 21-27. In: Alumni Adventures; Miners Playing Hard [SECTION]. Mines (Colorado School of Mines), 102(2) (Fall): 28.

Ron Wolf, Steve Sonnenberg, and Charles Boettcher on Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon.

5694 2012 Big water–little boats presentation. Pinyon Press (Xanterra South Rim, L.L.C., Grand Canyon), 2012(21) (October 17): 4.

Announcement for a presentation by Tom Martin based on his new book, Big Water, Little Boats: Moulty Fulmer and the First Grand Canyon Dory on the Last of the Wild Colorado River.

Bob, Tayanita

5695 2012 Tayanita Bob, 15, moderate hearing loss, Salem, Oregon. In: Barkeley, Bill, The young faces of hearing loss. Hearing Loss Magazine (Hearing Loss Association of America, Bethesda, Maryland), 33(1) (January/February): 30, 41.

Brief essay written after a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon with other hearing-impaired teens, sponsored by Hear the World's Sound Academy program.

Brooks, Geri

5696 2012 "My Twin Sister". Twinless Times (Twinless Twins Support Group International, Ypsilanti, Michigan), (Winter): 19.

Commitment to deceased twin, Sheri Johnson, to comingle their ashes after death, to be "tossed off the Navajo bridge in Arizona." Notes their Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon that celebrated their 50th birthday.

Eddy, Clyde

5697 2012 A mad, crazy river : running the Grand Canyon in 1927. Albuquerque: University of New Mexico Press and Avanyu Publishing, 210 pp.

Reprint, under new title, of Eddy (1929), Down the world's most dangerous river.

5698 2012 The Clyde Eddy expedition 1927: Down the Colorado River in a rowboat. Albuquerque: Avanyo Publishing, Inc. DVD. 8:00.

Reproduced from Eddy's 1927 Kodak Cinegraph silent film, "Down the Colorado River in a Rowboat". Promoted with advertising depicting the cover of the book, A mad, crazy river : running the Grand Canyon in 1927 (see above).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Emanuelson, Emeli

- 5699 2012 Go West! Äventyra i USA. Kasta paraplydrinken och fäll ihop solstolen. Semestern handlar om mer än lata dagar på beachen. Häng med ToppHälsa västerut till äventyrssporternas paradiset USA. ToppHälsa (Stockholm), 2012 (___): 106-108. [In Swedish.]
(transl. 'Go West! Adventure in the United States. Throw away the umbrella drink and fold up the deck chair. The holidays are about more than lazy days at the beach. Come along with ToppHälsa [TopHealth] to the adventure sports paradise of the western USA.')
- See "Forsränn i Grand Canyon" (transl. 'Rafting in the Grand Canyon'), p. 108.

Evans, Loie Belknap, AND Quartaroli, Richard D.

- 5700 2012 Loie Belknap Evans. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 25(3) (Fall): 1, 2, 26-42.
Belknap oral history interview.

Feinberg, Mandi

- 5701 2012 Mandi Feinberg, 18, moderate hearing loss, Mt. Airy, Maryland. In: Barkeley, Bill, The young faces of hearing loss. Hearing Loss Magazine (Hearing Loss Association of America, Bethesda, Maryland), 33(1) (January/February): 28-29.
- Brief essay written after a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon with other hearing-impaired teens, sponsored by Hear the World's Sound Academy program.

Fowler, Don D., AND Fowler, Catherine S.

- 5702 2012 (EDS.) John Wesley Powell's Journal; Colorado River exploration, 1871-1872. In: Fowler, Don D. (ed.), Cleaving an unknown world : the Powell expeditions and the scientific exploration of the Colorado Plateau. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press and Utah State Historical Society, pp. 1-32.

Gallenson, Art, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5703 2012 Art Gallenson. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 25(2) (Summer): 1, 34-45.
Gallenson oral history interview.

Gomez, Kellynette

- 5704 2012 Kellynette Gomez, 17, severe hearing loss, Lawrence Massachusetts. In: Barkeley, Bill, The young faces of hearing loss. Hearing Loss Magazine (Hearing Loss Association of America, Bethesda, Maryland), 33(1) (January/February): 29-30.
- Brief essay written after a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon with other hearing-impaired teens, sponsored by Hear the World's Sound Academy program.

Heinsius, Ryan

- 5705 2012 Water born; Flag kayaker Harlan Taney attempts a speed record in the Grand Canyon and pushes more than just the boundaries of sport. Flagstaff Live!, 18(50) (December 13-19): 12, 20.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Hoover, David

- 5706 2012 David Hoover, 16, severe hearing loss, Bend, Oregon. In: Barkeley, Bill, The young faces of hearing loss. Hearing Loss Magazine (Hearing Loss Association of America, Bethesda, Maryland), 33(1) (January/February): 29.

Brief essay written after a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon with other hearing-impaired teens, sponsored by Hear the World's Sound Academy program.

Hunter, Tony

- 5707 2012 One on one with . . . Tony Hunter; for the Kinase King and River Rat, the challenges aren't just in the lab. Inside Salk (Salk Institute for Biological Studies, La Jolla, California), (November): 12-15. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Interview. Includes running the Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

Jensen, David

- 5708 2012 Quiet time. Grand Canyon River Runner, (13) (Winter): 13.

Jimink, Daan

- 5709 2012 The Grand Canyon as experienced by Daan Jimink. Otter Bar Lodge Online Newsletter (Otter Bar Lodge and Kayak School, Forks of Salmon, California), 2012: [10]-[11].

Personal reflections on Colorado River trips, illustrated, as a promotion for future Otter Bar Lodge-sponsored trips.

Martin, Tom

- 5710 2012 Big water, little boats : Moulty Fulmer and the first Grand Canyon dory on the last of the wild Colorado River. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, LLC, 240 pp.

McAlpine, Ken

- 5711 2012 The seduction of solitude; to her boiling whitewater goes the glory, but there's a quiet side to the Colorado as she cuts a primordial swath through the Grand Canyon. Ventana Monthly (Ventura County, California), (May):.

The same text, slightly edited, as in McAlpine and Wu (2004).

McGivney, Annette, AND Richardson, Whit

- 5712 2012 Jobs with benefits; a day in the life of seven people who live and work in Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon Journal, 2012: 30-31.

Chris Streit, Preventative Search and Rescue Ranger; Bernie Hiemenz, Conductor, Grand Canyon Railway; John Lindsey, shuttle bus driver; Tom Ratz, server, El Tovar restaurant; Dean Reese, Backcountry Ranger; Katreena Haswood, bike rental attendant; Chris Burns, fire lookout, Grandview Tower, Kaibab National Forest.

Melville, Bob

- 5713 2012 The Grand Canyon : the stories and photography of Bob Melville. (John Cassidy, ed.) [No imprint], 70 pp. [Two states (available simultaneously)]: large format (11 × 13 inches), small format (8½ × 10 inches). An on-demand publication, produced through blurb.com (p. 70). "All proceeds to benefit Bob Melville." (p. 70); a benefit arranged on behalf of Melville for palliative care.]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Morgan, Jeff [Morgan, Jeffrey]

- 5714 2012 Poetry. Grand Canyon River Runner, (13) (Winter): 11.
"The next run; 2003", "I am a Boatman; 2007", "Postcards; 2003", "Fear; 2009".

Nofzinger, Cinda Marie

- 5715 2012 Vacation views: Tourist photographs of the American West, 1945-1980. Master's thesis, University of Iowa, 404 pp.
See particularly: Chapter 3, "The West Through the Windshield: Photographs of Family Road Trips" (pp. 106-203); Chapter 4, "Shooting the Rapids: Photographing the Grand Canyon's Colorado River" (pp. 204-301).

Pinkham, Patty

- 5716 2012 The Big Ditch adventure (part 1 of 2). The Spray (Colorado Whitewater Association, Denver), 58(6) (November/December): 4, 9-11.
Part 2 is perhaps in the January/February 2013 issue, which was not available for examination (later issues from 2013, which were seen, do not include the second part).

Smith, Latimer

- 5717 2012 Ken, the two Arts, and Ron. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 25(2) (Summer)2-13.
Ken Sleight, Art Gallenson, Art Fenstermaker, Ron Smith.

Sorensen, Jeff A.

- 5718 2012 Visions of Grand Canyon—a river runner's perspective. [No place]: Blurb, 80 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
Chiefly pictorial; occasional text and verse.

Strel, Martin, AND Sturm, Alexander

- 5719 2012 Alles im Fluss. Financial Times Deutschland, (January 27): 27. [In German; with serial title thus.]
(transl. 'All in the flow')
Interview with Martin Strel, swimmer. Includes photo of Strel swimming in Marble Canyon, with note of a plan to swim the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Supplee, Serena, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5720 2012 Serena Supplee. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 25(1) (Spring): 1, 28-41.
Supplee oral history interview. Article and issue are illustrated with Supplee's artwork: [No title given], p. 1 [cover]; "Blooming Strength", p. 4; "Moonflower", p. 11; "Run Lava Run", p. 30; "A Yabba Dabba Do Time!", p. 35; "Violet Vitality", p. 36; "You Gotta See This", p. 38; "River Rapture", p. 39; "Riverside Attractions", p. 41.

Taylor, Jan

- 5721 2012 River recollection. Grand Canyon River Runner, (13) (Winter): 7. ("Ed. Note: The above is an excerpt from an unfinished manuscript.")

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Thybony, Scott

- 5722 2012 Deep winter, deep canyon; a grand adventure on the river and beyond in the snowy season. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (December): 22-25, 40.

Toothill, Chris

- 5723 2012 Canoeing, my escape to freedom. Blofield News (St. Andrew and St. Peter Parish, Blofield, and All Saints Parish, Hemblington, Norwich, United Kingdom), (August): 15.

Notes, briefly, having paddled through Grand Canyon twice.

Wise, John

- 5724 2012 Stay in the magic : a voyage into the beauty of the Grand Canyon. Phoenix: John Wise, 305 [306] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

About an 18-day Colorado River trip in dories.

2013

Anonymous

- 5725 2013 The guiding life. What does it take to be a Grand Canyon boatman? Probably not what you think. Our crew of veteran rafting guides shares their wisdom on one of the best, toughest jobs in the natural world. Grand Canyon Journal, 2013: 26-30.

Andre Potochnik, p. 27; Christa Sadler, p. 28; Dennis Smoldt, p. 29; Erica Fareio, p. 29; Emma Wharton, p. 30; Robby Pitagora, p. 30; and topical sidebars.

- 5726 2013 Arizona—southern. eNTS (Native Tree Society), 3(1) (January): 199-203.

Item byline is "tsharp"; communicated by email. See pp. 202-203, comments on driving to Pearce Ferry to pick up the writer's wife after a 26-day trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, with brief remarks on the trip.

- 5727 2013 Grand emotions. If you ever cross the Grand Canyon by boat, you are in danger of getting carried away; [sic] by the intense sensations that inevitably follow / Διασχίζοντας το Grand canyon με βάρκα, κινδυνεύετε να παρασυρθείτε. Όχι από το νερό, αλλά από τα έντονα συναισθήματα που θα σας πλήμμυρισουν. In: Latitudes, Great trips [SECTION]. 2board (The Official Athens Airport Magazine), (21) (April/June): 43-44. [In parallel English and Greek texts.]

- 5728 2013 From your Chairperson [COLUMN]. EHDI E-Mail Express (American Academy of Pediatrics, Early Hearing Detection and Intervention Program), (August): [1]. [Item signed "Al"; Chairperson not otherwise identified in issue.]

The author includes comments about having just spent 14 days without any technology on a trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

- 5729 2013 The Ross Wheeler. Grand Canyon River Guides (E-newsletter), (November): 3.

Text from Grand Canyon River Heritage Museum website. Photographic reproduction of painting of the Ross Wheeler, shown in memory of the artist, Arline Tinus, who died in Fall 2013.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Belknap, Buzz [Belknap, William, III]

- 5730 2013 Part II: The uprun begins. From: Smith, Philip M., and Belknap, Buzz, Audacity, logistics, and skill: The 1960 jet boat trip in the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 47-50.
- 5731 2013 Postscript. From: Smith, Philip M., and Belknap, Buzz, Audacity, logistics, and skill: The 1960 jet boat trip in the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 50.

Bellwood, Lucy

- 5732 2013 Grand adventure. Portland, Oregon: [no imprint], [28] pp. [Distributed by buyolympia.com (Buyolympia Corporation).]
- "In August of 2013 I joined a crew of 5 intrepid rafters to row through the entirety of the Grand Canyon in 3 weeks. The trip was one I had been planning with my childhood best friend for almost 14 years—since the days when she dreamed of becoming a river guide and I a cartoonist. This trip was her 70th down the river and my first. The following journal comic was drawn at the end of each day and generally colored before breakfast the following morning." (p. [3]). See also Bellwood (2015).

Blaustein, John; Steiger, Lew; AND others

- 5733 2013 John Blaustein. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(1) (Spring): 1, 2, 28-45.
- Blaustein oral history interview. "This Adopt-a-Boatman interview was started in the fall of 2007 at the OARS warehouse in Flagstaff and added onto in the fall of 2010, sitting around the fire at the camp on the left across from Blacktail Canyon." See also letter from Peter Hayes, 26(2) (Summer): 4-5.

Cassard, Richard

- 5734 2013 [Letter, regarding his song, "Boatman".] In: Dear Eddy [SECTION]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(3) (Fall): 3.
- 5735 2013 Boatman. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(3) (Fall): 18. [Song lyrics.]
- "This song is a tribute to Martin Litton and the boatmen/women of the Grand Canyon, inspired by a 16-day dory trip from Lee's Ferry to Lake Mead in May of 2012." Article includes digital link for listening to the song, which was no longer accessible on June 23, 2022.

Cooper, Catharine

- 5736 2013 Float trip: Dam down. Grand Canyon River Runner, (15) (Spring): 14-15.
- Glen Canyon Dam to Lees Ferry.

Fedarko, Kevin

- 5737 2013 The Emerald Mile : the epic story of the fastest ride in history through the heart of the Grand Canyon. New York, London, Toronto, Sydney, and New Delhi: Scribner, 415 [417] pp.
- "Emerald Mile" is a boat name. Regarding a trip made during the high-water emergency flow from Glen Canyon Dam.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Guthrie, Joseph

5738 2013 Once upon the river. Grand Canyon River Runner, (15) (Spring): 9.

5739 2013 Twoday on the river. Grand Canyon River Runner, (15) (Spring): 9.

Hamilton, Lynn, AND Crossey, Laura

5740 2013 Guides Training Seminar river trip: Cooperation and learning in action. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(2) (Summer): 16-17.

Holloway, Jon

5741 2013 Rafting the Grand Canyon; "river time". Greenwood (Greenwood, South Carolina), (July/August): contents page, 14-21.

Howe, Ryan

5742 2013 Pontificating deep space frog. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 30.

Hughes, Jerry

5743 2013 Whale and Snake. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(2) (Summer): 18-19.
Curtis Hansen ("Whale") and Jerry Hughes ("Snake").

Hylton, Teresa "TDawg"

5744 2013 Riverboarding Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(1) (Spring): 16-17.

Keil, Annelie

5745 2013 Die Trommel des Schamanen; im matten Schein des Mondes schaute mich stumm das Gesicht eines alten Indianes an und lehrte mich: Der Mensch kann alle Stimmen hören und die eigene erheben. Publik-Forum (Oberursel, Germany), (19): 52-53. [\[In German.\]](#)
(transl. 'The Shaman's Drum; in the dim glow of the moon the face of an old Indian looked at me mutely and taught me: Man can hear all voices and raise his own')

Begins with note of Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Kemper, Don

5746 2013 Grand Canyon run. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 31.

5747 2013 Canyon moon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 31.

Kober, Amy

5748 2013 Wild Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (15) (Spring): 4.

Ledbetter, Jeri, AND Steiger, Lew

5749 2013 Jeri Ledbetter. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 1, 32-45.
Ledbetter oral history Interview.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Lee, Jung Sun [이정선]

- 5750 2013 아름다운 미국 여행의 추억 [aleumdaun migug yeohaeng-ui chueog] [Beautiful American travel memories]. 영원한 친구들 [yeong-wonhan chingudeul] / Lasting Friends (사단법인 한미우호협회 (KAFS) [sadanbeob-in hanmiuhohyeobhoe] / Korean American Friendship Association, Seoul), (184) (March): 19-24. [In Korean, with bilingual serial title and publisher's information.]

Includes remarks on an aircraft tour to Grand Canyon and a rafting ride on the Colorado River.

Mannering, Guy; Mannering, Margie; AND Latham, Nikki

- 5751 2013 Guy : the adventures of New Zealand photographer Guy Mannering. (Nikki Latham, ed.) [No imprint] [Hawea Flat, New Zealand: Nikki Latham], 374 [377] pp. (Printed by Blue Print Ltd.)

Cover adds: "Written from his diaries by Margie Mannering and Nikki Latham". (Margie is Guy's wife; Nikki his granddaughter.) Includes Colorado River Jet Boat Expedition, pp. 20-77.

Mapel, Tiffany

- 5752 2013 Below Glen Canyon Dam—The Grand Canyon. In: Klocki, Pete, and Mapel, Tiffany, A wild red river tamed : a brief history of the Colorado River and Lake Powell. Bloomington, Indiana: iUniverse, pp. 92-108.

A loose travelogue of a Colorado River trip, Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek.

McGivney, Annette

- 5753 2013 Take me to the river; rafting Grand Canyon is equal parts excitement and inspiration. Grand Canyon Journal, 2013: 5.

McMillin, Laurie Hovell

- 5754 2013 Words, times, and worlds: Nine days in the Grand Canyon. ISLE: Interdisciplinary Studies in Literature and Environment, 20(4) (Autumn): 885-896.

Rowing trip on the Colorado River, joined after hiking down Bright Angel Trail.

Merrifield, Karla Linn

- 5755 2013 Lithic Scatter and other poems. [No place]: Mercury HeartLink, 87 [89] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

See in "Walkabout Rivers": "I. The Colorado", pp. 41-44, comprising "Mile 0: For Starters", p. 41; "Mile 75.5: SOS", p. 42; "Mile 166: Canyon Colors", p. 43; "Mile 213.5: Stranded", p. 44.]

Mitchell, Mike

- 5756 2013 The Dunn Party. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(3) (Fall): 16-17.

Joe Dunn. Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Mortenson, Dave

- 5757 2013 The biggest water ever run. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 31-37.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Petrillo, Rick

- 5758 2013 By seasons. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 19.
"Rick Petrillo ©2010".
- 5759 2013 Local reports. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 25.
"Rick Petrillo ©2010".
- 5760 2013 Tongues. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 30.
"Rick Petrillo ©1972 Catching It Whole".

Ross, Tracy

- 5761 2013 This is what whitewater kayaking looks like to Erik Weihenmayer [BLACK PAGE]. The world's most accomplished blind adventurer has jumped out of airplanes, mountain-biked Leadvill, and summited Everest. But nothing has proven to be as challenging as his current goal: to solo-kayak the Grand Canyon. Outside, (August): cover, 2, 72-77. (Cover and p. 2 photographs by Carlos Serrao.) [Table of Contents title: "What does kayaking look like to Erik Weihenmayer?" Cover tease: "A blind man kayaks the Grand Canyon".]

Scotter, Alicia

- 5762 2013 Grand Canyon river trip; June 15-July 2, 2013. The Rambler (Wasatch Mountain Club, Salt Lake City), (September): 16-19.

Smith, Drifter, AND Stieger, Lew

- 5763 2013 Drifter Smith. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(3) (Fall): 1, 26-39.
Smith oral history interview.

Smith, Latimer

- 5764 2013 Tales from the Truck—Bobcat trip: Going feral. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(1) (Spring): 26-27.
Delivering a Bobcat Trackhoe by raft, Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

Smith, Philip M. [Smith, Phil]

- 5765 2013 Part I: Planning and the downrun. From: Smith, Philip M., and Belknap, Buzz, Audacity, logistics, and skill: The 1960 jet boat trip in the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 43-47.

Smith, Philip M., AND Belknap, Buzz

- 5766 2013 Audacity, logistics, and skill: The 1960 jet boat trip in the Grand Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), A rendezvous of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts : proceedings of the Third Grand Canyon History Symposium, January 2012. Flagstaff, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 43-50.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Timmerman, Wes, AND Kida, Jeff

- 5767 2013 This photo reflects well. In: Photography [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 89(8) (August): 9.
Photo by Timmerman, "Evening Sandbar, Granite Rapids, Grand Canyon"; with commentary by Kida, Arizona Highways photo editor.

Tomforde, Rosie

- 5768 2013 River songs. Grand Canyon River Runner, (15) (Spring): 8.
Lyrics for "Cremation", "Good Hydration", and "River Song".

Walthall, Stuart

- 5769 2013 Living walls. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 26(4) (Winter 2013-2014): 30.

Zappa, Andrea

- 5770 2013 Affrontando le rapide. L' uomo è sempre stato legato all'acqua e al suo scorrere. Se in passato questo legame era strettamente vincolato a questioni di sostentamento e trasporto, oggi viene vissuto in modo più ludico e sportivo. Un rapporto antico che spesso può essere alimentato tenendo una pagaia in mano, meglio se per cornice si ha il Grand Canyon e il fiume si chiama Colorado. Club Milano (Milano), (15) (July/August): 54-55. [In Italian.]
(transl. 'Facing the rapids. Man has always been linked to water and its flow. If in the past this bond was strictly linked to issues of sustenance and transport, today it is experienced in a more playful and sporting way. An ancient relationship that can often be nurtured by holding a paddle in hand, preferably with the Grand Canyon as a frame and the river is called Colorado.')

2014

Anonymous

- 5771 2014 A military aviator tribute. Straight Scoop (Pacific Coast Air Museum, Santa Rosa, California), 19(2) (February): 11-12.
Anonymously published with editor's note, "Because we are certain (no really, we're certain!) that none of our membership ever engaged in the dubious shenanigans described, we present this purely as a historical study of the odd social dynamics that can occur among people to habitually strap on several tons of aluminum and explosives and fly it on the deck into a combat zone. Or into any zone for that matter." See p. 12: "I miss flying upside down in the Grand Canyon and hearing about flying so low boats were blown over." (ENTIRE NOTE)
- 5772 2014 Kajakiem przez Jeden samotnie przepłynął kajakiem Ocean Atlantycki, inni spłynęli rzeką Kolorado przez Wielki Kanion. Aleksander Doba i Tomasz Jakubiec z Akademickiego Klubu Turystki Kajakowej "Bystrze" AGH z Krakowa opowiedzą o swoich przygodach podczas gliwickich obchodów Światowego Dnia Turystyki—3 października w Centrum Kultury Studenckiej MROWISKO (ul. Pszczyńska 85). Gliwice, Miejski Serwis Informacyjny (Urząd Miejski w Gliwicach, Gliwice, Poland), 2014(40) (October 2) (711): 7. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'One kayak crossed the Atlantic Ocean alone, the others paddled along the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon. Aleksander Doba and Tomasz Jakubiec from the "Bystrze" Academic Canoe Tourist Club of AGH from Krakow will talk about their adventures during the World Tourism

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Day celebrations in Gliwice — October 3 at the MROWISKO Student Culture Center (ul. Pszczyńska 85 [address])

Extended promotional piece for a forthcoming presentation by Aleksander Doba and Tomasz Jakubiec on kayaking around the world, with a focus on the first Polish kayaking expedition on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

5773 2014 Class News [SECTION]. Bowdoin Magazine (Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine), 85(2) (Winter):.

See "1979", note and photo of Steve Amstutz ('79), Annie Gronnigsater McKinley ('77), and others on a paddle trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon (p. 47); and "1986", note and photo of Liz Brimmer, Tim Smith, and Ted Johnson on Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon (p. 49).

Bates, Mason

5774 2014 Excelsior. Fifth House Ensemble. CD.

Includes "Red River, for mixed ensemble and electronics". In four movements: "The Continental Divide" (4:18), "Interstate 70" (3:54), "Zuni Visions from the Canyon Walls" (4:34), "Hoover Slates Vegas" (3:50), "Running Dry on the Sonoran Floor" (2:47). See also remarks with Bates (2009).

BBC Two

5775 2014 Operation Grand Canyon with Dan Snow. (Presented by Dan Snow; Ben Duncan, Martin Johnson, directors, producers.) United Kingdom: BBC Two. 60:00. (A BBC and Discovery Channel co-production.)

Two-part series; Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon aboard reconstructed Whitehall boats, recreating John Wesley Powell's expedition. First broadcast January 5, 2014.

Bedwell, Lonnie

5776 2014 First blind kayaker to complete Colorado River journey does it again! Challenge Magazine (Disabled Sports USA, Rockville, Maryland), 19(3) (Fall): 15.

Bedwell interview.

Bigham, Michael F.

5777 2014 "Groover" blues. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(3) (Fall): 20.

Brennen, Christopher Earls

5778 2014 The far side of the sky. [No place]: Dankat Publishing Co., 366 pp. [Privately published.]

See Chapter 48, "Greatest Canyon of All", pp. 341-355. (Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon).

Currey, CoCo

5779 2014 2014. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(2) (Summer): 17.

Verse commemorating the 2014 Guides Training Seminar.

D'Arrigo, Stephen, AND Smith, Latimer

5780 2014 Tales from the Truck—Crystal, August 2013. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(1) (Spring): 16-18.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Edwards, David; Martin, James Q.; Ryan, Catherine; AND Whitis, Duwain

- 5781 2014 Rapid reactions; great shots and stories from grand river trips. Northern Arizona's Mountain Living Magazine, (April): cover, 6, 7, 10-17.

Fisk-Williams, Alan

- 5782 2014 Evolution of Grand Canyon passengers—a warped 45-year history; and interview with Alan Fisk-Williams. Grand Canyon River Runner, (17) (Summer): 7-8.

Gianelli, Sarah

- 5783 2014 It's the arts. The Noise (Flagstaff, Arizona), (155) (UltraSuperMega Edition) (April): 17-.
See p. 17, regarding an exhibition of the work of the late Arline Tinus at West of the Moon Gallery, Flagstaff, including (illustrated) her "Finding the River Magic".

Grass, Björn

- 5784 2014 Laufen und leben auf der Überholspur. Hamburg: tredition, 232 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
[In German.]
(transl. 'Run and live in the fast lane')
See "Im Höllentempo durch den Grand Canyon" ('Through the Grand Canyon at breakneck speed'), pp. 204-210; Grand Canyon speed run.

Gulliford, Andrew

- 5785 2014 White water, scorpion stings, and a steep hike out: Welcome to Grand Canyon. In: Gulliford, Andrew (ed.), Outdoors in the Southwest : an adventure anthology. Norman, Oklahoma: University of Oklahoma Press, pp. 261-264.

Hansen, Brian, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5786 2014 Brian Hansen. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(3) (Fall): 1, 2, 28-40.
Hansen oral history interview.

Hellerman, Chris

- 5787 2014 Down and up the Grand Canyon. Bowlines (Bluegrass Wildwater Association, Lexington, Kentucky), (March/April): 1, 3-12.
Colorado River private trip.

Hobbs, Greg [Hobbs, Gregory J., Jr.]

- 5788 2014 Good morning, Grand! Grand Canyon River Runner, (17) (Summer): 9.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Jakubiec, Tomasz "Tomanek"

- 5789 2014 Kanion zdobyty. Biuletyn AGH (Akademii Górniczo-Hutniczej, Kraków), (74) (January): cover, 3, 14-17. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'The canyon conquered')

Cover tease: "Kanion zdobyty o wyprawie 'Bystrza' do Wielkiego Kanionu Kolorado" (transl. 'The canyon conquered; about the 'Fast' expedition to the Grand Canyon'). Regarding the author's kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Landsiedel, Emma

- 5790 2014 From Emma Landsiedel. In: Grand Canyon Youth Update [SECTION]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(4) (Winter 2014-2015): 14.

Untitled verse and remarks from a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon with Grand Canyon Youth's "Grand Inspiration" (or "GRIN") program. Also illustrated with two watercolors by the author, aged 19.

Marcovecchio, Faith

- 5791 2014 The Belknaps: A Grand Canyon family from river to rim. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Association), 21(2) (Spring): 8-9.

Marston, Otis Reed "Dock"

- 5792 2014 From Powell to power : a recounting of the first one hundred river runners through the Grand Canyon. (Tom Martin, ed.) Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, 532 pp. [Hardbound, with dust jacket; 100 copies, signed and numbered by the editor. Also a trade paperback.]

Mauch, Scott

- 5793 2014 [Pastoral letter.] Blessings Trinity Lutheran Church (Lebanon, Indiana), (August): [1]-[2].

Report on a dory trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon. Item signed only as "Pastor Scott"; surname acquired from church website.

McDonnell, Anne Haven

- 5794 2014 River lessons. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(2) (Summer): 24-25.

McMillan, Carol

- 5795 2014 White water, red walls : rafting the Grand Canyon : poems, paintings, and photos. Bellingham, Washington: Village Books, 53 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Panos, Rob

- 5796 2014 [Brief essay.] In: Kayaking Blind [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(4) (Winter 2014-2015): 22-23.

"Kayaking Blind" feature includes comments about supporting the Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon by blind kayakers Erik Weißenmayer and Lonnie Bedwell. Photos by James Q. Martin. See also accompanying brief essays by Harlan Taney and Katie Proctor.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Quayle, Amil D.

- 5797 2014 Poetry by Amil Quayle. In: Quayle, Amil D. [BIOGRAPHICAL FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(1) (Spring): 38-41.

"[F]rom Amil's book Grand Canyon and other Selected Poems, Black Star Press" (2009). Selected poems relating to Grand Canyon include: "Ode to Shorty Burton and Upset Rapid", "Brautigan Farewell 1985".

Rusch, Rebecca

- 5798 2014 (WITH Selene Yeager) Rusch to glory : adventure, risk and triumph on the path less traveled. Boulder, Colorado: Velo Press, 280 pp.

Grand Canyon, see p. 3; pp. 31-39 (river-boarding trip through Grand Canyon); and pp. 270, 274.

Salamon, Justin, AND Williams, Tyler

- 5799 2014 Our speed(y) trip through (most of) Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(1) (Spring): 25-27.

Group of kayakers travel the Colorado River from Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek on a 37,000 cfs flow from Glen Canyon Dam, November 2013.

Semerad, Gretchen

- 5800 2019 On the Colorado (Grand Canyon). Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(2) (Summer): 20.

Slack, Joseph A.

- 5801 2014 A river trip. Waterways (Coos History Museum, North Bend, Oregon), (Summer): 2-3.

Regarding a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon from Phantom Ranch, and Buzz Holmstrom.

Stube, David

- 5802 2014 Swamping Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(3) (Fall): 19.

Taney, Harlan

- 5803 2014 [Brief essay.] In: Kayaking Blind [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 27(4) (Winter 2014-2015): 20-21.

Kayaking Blind feature includes comments about supporting the Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon by blind kayakers Erik Weihenmayer and Lonnie Bedwell. Photos by James Q. Martin. See also brief essays by Katie Proctor and Rob Panos.

Wheeler, Kat, AND Martin, James Q.

- 5804 2014 Immeasurable visions; blasting through barriers, blind on the Colorado River. Flagstaff Live!, 20(41) (October 9-15): 1, 3, 16-19.

Blind kayakers Erik Weihenmayer and Lonnie Bedwell paddled the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Woodward, Forest, AND Woodward, Doug

- 5805 2014 Back circling. In 1970 Doug Woodward paddled his homemade kayak through the Grand Canyon. though he continued to run rivers over the next four decades, he never expected to feel the

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

whitewater of the Colorado again. Hi son Forest would change that outlook. Canoe and Kayak, 41(6) (December): 60-68, 161.

Wright, Jonathan

- 5806 2014 White water adventure; Dan Snow tells us about his gruelling journey that recreated a key event in the exploration of the American West. Operation Grand Canyon with Dan Snow; TV BBC Two, scheduled for January. In: TV and Radio [SECTION]. BBC History Magazine (Bristol), (January): 75.
- Re-creation of John Wesley Powell's expedition of 1869 (see BBC Two, 2014).

2015

Anonymous

- 5807 2015 From the Archives—you got it! ECOS News (Prescott College Alumni and Friends eNewsletter), (January):.
- Regarding the identification of a photo from the Prescott College Archives published in the Fall 2014 edition of Transitions magazine. Photo shows six men portaging surplus landing raft on their heads by a rapid. Identified as as from the "first-ever Prescott College river trip in the Grand Canyon", with Greg Rice, John Wright, John Updike, Guerdon Smth, Jack Willis, Kent Madin, Jeff Salz, Dave Lovejoy, Vern Taylor, "and others (unrecalled)". Photo at "possibly the bottom of Lava Falls."
- 5808 2015 Zveme vás; na fotografickou besedu na téma 450 km Grand Canyonem po Colorado river aneb další splněný vodácký i fotografický sen. Lysolajský Zpravodaj (Praha-Lysolaje, Úřad městské části), (January/February): 16. [In Czech.]
- (transl. 'We invite you—to an illustrated lecture about 450 km through the Grand Canyon along the Colorado River, or another fulfilled boating and photographic dream.')
- Illustrated announcement of presentation by Tomáš Mähning.
- 5809 2015 [Report on Ed Grove's (Class of 1955) private Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.] In: 1950s [SECTION]. Torch (University of Minnesota at Crookston), 47(3) (Fall): 26-27.

Acheson, Guy

- 5810 2015 A Grand Canyon trip to remember! Sand, sand, sand everywhere . . . ! Worth placing on your bucket list. GP News (The Publication for the General Practitioner) (California Academy of General Dentistry, Oakley, California), 39(3) (September): 14-16, 24. [Ellipsis is part of title.]

Ashurst, Ed

- 5811 2015 Mavericks. (Illustrated by Mike Capron.) [No place]: Ed Ashurst Publishing Co., 135 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
- Ranching life in Arizona, chiefly. See "Dave Ericsson", pp. 76-84, which includes removing feral burros on rafts down the Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

Bedwell, Lonnie

- 5812 2015 (WITH Joel Canfeld) 226 : how I became the first blind person to kayak the Grand Canyon. Wilmington, Delaware: Pro Player Publishing, xviii, 147 pp. [Cover reads: Lonnie Bedwell : blind adventurer : 226 mile Grand Canyon adventure : Lonnie Bedwell's amazing kayak adventure

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

through the Grand Canyon.] [An on-demand publication. First printing (not stated) September 2015.]

Bellwood, Lucy

- 5813 2015 Rim to river. Portland, Oregon: [no imprint], [20] pp. (Printed by Colorhaus Printing, Portland, Oregon.) (Distributed by buyolympia.com (Buyolympia Corporation).)

"In August of 2015 I teamed up with Arizona River Runners to produce a travelogue comic about one of their motorized, seven-day whitewater rafting trips through the Grand Canyon. From Lees Ferry to the Whitmore helipad, our crew shepherded sixteen passengers through whitewater rapids, up steep side canyons, and into hidden waterfalls. It was utter bliss—even in 115 degrees of desert heat. The journal that follows was drawn freehand during the ten days I was with the crew, then watercolored upon my return to Portland." (p. [2]). See also Bellwood (2013).

Black, Elizabeth

- 5814 2015 Historical art. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(4) (Winter 2015-2016): 7.

Regarding her painting (illustrated), "Bessie and Glen in the Valley of the Shadow, Horn Creek Rapid, 1928". Glen and Bessie Hyde.

Blaustein, John

- 5815 2015 The hidden canyon : a river journey. (A Journal, by Edward Abbey; Introduction, by Martin Litton; Afterword, by Kevin Fedarko). Petaluma, California: Cameron and Company, 160 pp. (including plates)

Pictorial stiff wraps, with added stiff gatefold dust jacket containing different illustrations than those on the stiff wraps. Stiff wraps have no text except that on spine. Points (vide Richard Quartaroli): paperback, black spine.

Clokey, Mikenna, AND Mckay, Taylor

- 5816 2015 Big day at Diamond Creek. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(3) (Fall): 27-29.

Regarding 10,000-cfs flash flood from Diamond Creek August 7, 2015, and its impact on passing trips on the Colorado River.

Dillon, John

- 5817 2015 History in the making—River outfitters run hybrid-electric motor through entire Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 10-12.

See also comments by George Rhee, 28(3): 7-8.

Eastwood, Greg

- 5818 2015 Tales From the Truck—Pull cords and the Randy's rock redo. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(1) (Winter 2014-2015 [sic, Spring 2015]): 22-23.

Gibbs, Pete, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5819 2015 Pete Gibbs. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(3) (Fall): 1, 30-45.

Gibbs oral history interview. "This Adopt-A-Boatman interview was conducted March 3, 2009, at Pete's home in Salt Lake City. It was edited for publication by Richard Quartaroli."

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Hood, Charles

- 5820 2015 August 16, 1869. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 98.
- From Hood (1990).

Kahn, Ben

- 5821 2015 Whitehalls on the Colorado; following John Wesley Powell through the Grand Canyon. Small Boats Monthly, (November): cover, _____. [Seen as a web posting.]
- Regarding the reconstructed whitehall boats used in filming of the BBC Two production, Operation Grand Canyon with Dan Snow, a recreation of John Wesley Powell's expedition of 1869 (see BBC Two, 2014).]

Kaptur, Konrad

- 5822 2015 Upał i hotel pod gwiazdami. Gazeta Polkowicka (Gminy Polkowice, Poland), 2015(22) (468) (October 29): 10. [In Polish.]
(transl. 'Heat and a hotel under the stars')
- Summary of lecture given by Sławomir Bieniek on October 20 at the Polkowice library, regarding his kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon. This item not illustrated.

Kenney, Stephen

- 5823 2015 Walking away (a guide's reason why). Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(3) (Fall): 11.

- 5824 2015 A state of grace (for Bronco). Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(3) (Fall): 17.

Laug, Kathie

- 5825 2015 [Brief report of Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.] In: Trip Tales [SECTION]. Mohican (Adirondack Mountain Club, Mohican Chapter, Bedford, New York), (September/November): 3.

Law, Steven Wesley

- 5826 2015 Polished. Bloomington, Indiana: WestBow Press (Thomas Nelson and Zondervan), 118 [122] pp.
(Printed by Bookmasters.) [Cover title: Polished : poems.]

Lawton, Rebecca

- 5827 2015 The Great Unconformity. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 71-72.

- 5828 2015 Swimming Grand Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 102-104.

Georgie White.

Levy, Buddy, AND Martin, James Q.

- 5829 2015 Blind faith. Nothing intimidates blind adventurer Erik Weihenmayer more than the chaotic whitewater of the Grand Canyon, so why can't he walk away? Canoe and Kayak, (March): 34-43.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Mackay, Walker David

- 5830 2015 Tales from the truck; Karma, fate and rediscovery—Grand Canyon style. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(3) (Fall): 16-17.

Regarding the recovery and return of a person's ammo can four years after its loss by "Bruce"; discovered at 110.5 Mile camp. Item includes excerpt from Bruce's river journal from 2011, after having lost his ammo can during a flip in Serpentine Rapid.

Magdaleno, Rita Maria

- 5831 2015 River run. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 81.

Martin, Terry

- 5832 2015 What you think about rafting through the Grand Canyon on the eighth day of rain. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 96-97.

Mnookin, Wendy

- 5833 2015 The river scrapes against night. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 109.

Mortenson, Dave

- 5834 2015 Running down the Colorado River when it was dynamic and wild. Grand Canyon River Runner, (18) (Winter): 7-10.

Newton, Matthew

- 5835 2015 High-flow fun. Fancy a ride on one of the world's great river trips through the spectacular Grand Canyon? It will be more than the view that leaves you breathless. Australian Geographic Outdoor, (January/February): cover, 9, 62-71.

Noble, Bill

- 5836 2015 In Blacktail Canyon. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 94-95.

Parker, K.

- 5837 2015 Our personal poem for a Grand Canyon. Grand Canyon River Runner, (18) (Winter): 13.

Phelps, Andrew

- 5838 2015 Cubic feet/sec. Salzburg: FOTOHOF edition, [108] pp. [Galerie des Fotohof, Salzburg, Austria.] [Back cover adds: "135 days, 9 trips, 8 cameras, 4 decades, 2 lives, 1 river". Inside front gatefold wrap indicates, "Photographs from the archives of Andrew and Brent Phelps, 1979-2013"]

Gatefold heavy paper pictorial wraps, open spine with sewn signatures glued. Principally photographs without legends, from nine Colorado River trips through Grand Canyon, 1979, 1984, 1985, 1990, 1998, 2001, 2002, 2009, 2013; with map on pp. [4]-[5] depicting color-coded locations of campsites during these years. Brief texts by the author ("The Grand Canyon. 1979-2013", pp. [2]-[3], signed "A.P.") and by Brent Phelps ("From my notes. Winter 1984-85", p. [102]).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Powers, Cameron

- 5839 2015 Naked, wild and free in the Grand Canyon : rowing and roaming. Boulder, Colorado: GL Design, 101 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

"This book contains a small taste of the adventures enjoyed by a communal group of friends from Steamboat Springs, Colorado. The author was fortunate enough to be included on four river trips which took place between 1969 and 1975." (back cover). Not entirely in Grand Canyon but includes other rivers of the Colorado River basin. [NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).]

Ranney, Wayne; Dimock, Brad; [AND Wheeler, George M.]

- 5840 2015 The Wheeler Survey in Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 1, 2, 30-46, 48.

Regarding George M. Wheeler's upriver survey on the Colorado River to Diamond Creek, in 1871. Includes reprint of Wheeler's (1889) section, "Ascent of the Colorado River and Exploration of the Grand Cañon to the Mouth of Diamond Creek in 1871."

Randall, Margaret

- 5841 2015 The lens frames this image. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 26-27.

From Into Another Time: Grand Canyon Reflections (West End Press, 2004).

- 5842 2015 Bass Camp, Mile 108. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 108.

From Into Another Time: Grand Canyon Reflections (West End Press, 2004).

Read, Barry

- 5843 2015 River reflections. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(4) (Winter 2015-2016): 12-13.

Reeder, Ben

- 5844 2015 Tales from the truck—A bad day in Badger Falls. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(4) (Winter 2015-2016): 16-17.

Ripley, Bruce

- 5845 2015 Spring's here and things are heating up! In: President's Corner [COLUMN]. Oregon Whitewater Association (Portland, Oregon), 16(4) (April): 3.

Includes remarks on an upper-half trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Rogers, Elizabeth Barlow

- 5846 2015 Time and place: Deep thoughts on a journey down the Colorado River. In: Strange Beauty: Landscapes of the American West [FEATURE]. SiteLines (Foundation for Landscape Studies, New York), 10(11) (Spring): 3-6.

Rose, Daniel Asa

- 5847 2015 Beetle juiced; river rafting through the Grand Canyon with a tiny passenger in my ear. (Illustration by Yuta Onoda.) American Way (American Airlines), 48(4) (April): 65-68, 70.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Ross, Andrea

- 5848 2015 Bessie's honeymoon, 1928. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 99-100.
- Bessie Hyde.

Saxifrage, Carrie

- 5849 2015 The big swim : coming ashore in a world adrift. Gabriola Island, British Columbia, Canada: New Society Publishers, 181 [182] pp.
- See Chapter 11, "River Creatures" (pp. 139-160), regarding a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Schlie, Kasper

- 5850 2015 Fanget i Grand Canyon. I 1869 stævner ti mand op ad Coloradofloden for at udforske den sidste hvide plet på USA's landkort. Ingen af mændene har før prøvet at besejle en flod, og de har valgt de værst mulige både. Historie (København), 2015(7): 34-41. [Author's given name misspelled "Kasper".] [\[In Danish.\]](#)
- (transl. 'Caught in the Grand Canyon. In 1869, ten men gathered along the Colorado River to explore the last white spot on the United States map. None of the men have tried to ride a river before, and they have chosen the worst possible boats.')*

The spread-page artwork on pp. 34-35 is credited to "Gregory Manchess & Getty Images". The artwork depicting Powell and his men riding rapids is the same as on the cover of the young-reader title by Stuart Waldman, The Last River : John Wesley Powell and the Colorado River Exploring Expedition (Mikaya Press, New York, 2005).

Shapiro, Doug

- 5851 2015 Glory days—then and now. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 19-21.
- Colorado River trips in Grand Canyon.

Short, Vaughn

- 5852 2015 Lava Falls. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, p. 101.

From Songs and Stories from the Grand Canyon (produced by Hal Cannon; see Smithsonian Folkways Recordings, 2005).

Stovall, Roy

- 5853 2015 Grand Canyon—trip of a lifetime. Pack and Paddle (The Ozark Society, Little Rock, Arkansas), (Fall/September): 1, 5-6.

Motorized raft trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Weihenmayer, Erik

- 5854 2015 Blind courage; inside the mind of the world's most amazing adventure athlete, Erik Weihenmayer. In: Domier, Kelsey Elgie (compiler), ADVENTUREtech Presented by Aspect Solar [SECTION]. Innovation and Tech Today (Denver), (Summer): 69-71.

Interview; includes remarks on Weihenmayer's kayak trip through Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Welch, Vince

- 5855 2015 Remembering big: A brief, yet mostly true, account of the life cycle of river stories, yarns, and other confabulations. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(1) (Winter 2014-2015 [sic, Spring 2015]): 16-17.

Wendt, George, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5856 2015 George Wendt. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 28(4) (Winter 2015-2016): 1, 2, 26-43, 48.
Wendt oral history interview.

Wofford, Philip

- 5857 2015 In the river. In: Anderson, Peter, and Kempa, Rick (eds.), Going down Grand : poems from the Canyon. [Fruita, Colorado?]: Lithic Press, pp. 90-91.
From Wofford (1972).

2016

Allen, Tim

- 5858 2016 Lava Falls. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(2) (Summer): 16-17.
Recollections of running Lava Falls Rapid, including the trip on which a pontoon rig flipped, which scene was captured on film by Kenneth Klementis (photo reproduced with this article). This is the photo first published in 1970 in Life (see Editors of Life Magazine, 1970).

Barlow, Vicky; Astles, Pete; Catterall, Pete; Cooper, Doug; Cooper, Lara; Jones, Katy; Jones, Paul (PJ); Roisseter, Dave; Tipper, Laura; AND Whiting, Andrew "Snakey"

- 5859 2016 The Grand Canyon. Ceufad (Canoe Wales, Journal; Canw Cymru, Cylchgrawn) (Bala, Gwynedd, Wales), (126) (March): cover, 3, 34-39. [Text by Barlow; photos by the other authors and Barlow.]
Kayaking trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Barry, Pat

- 5860 2016 Rowing the Grand Canyon for the first time. Oregon Whitewater Association (Portland, Oregon), 17(9) (November): 1, 4-6.

Blank, Norbert

- 5861 2016 The American dream; mit handicap durch den Grand Canyon; 360 Kilometer Wildnis, haushohe Weilen und keine Spur von Zivilisation. Der Grand Canyon gilt vielen Paddlern als Traumtrip schlechthin, verlangt aber auch uneingeschränkte Outdoor-Tauglichkeit. Seit einem Verkehrsunfall fehlt Klaus Riester zwar ein Bein, den Traum vom Grand Canyon hat er sich trotzdem nicht nehmen lassen. Kanu-Magazin (Stuttgart), (February): 70-75. [In German.]
(transl. 'The American dream; with a handicap through the Grand Canyon; 360 kilometers of wilderness, towering stretches and not a trace of civilisation. For many paddlers, the Grand Canyon is a dream trip par excellence, but it also requires unrestricted outdoor fitness. Klaus Riester has been missing a leg since a traffic accident, but he still didn't let the dream of the Grand Canyon be taken away from him.')

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Blaustein, John

- 5862 2016 Deep down inside. Arizona Highways, 92(5) (May): cover, 1, 16-29
- Colorado River in Grand Canyon. See also remarks in "Contributors" section, p. 3; and see also the interview with Jeff Kida, p. 9. See also letter from Larry Orwig, (9) (September): 4.

Bolin, Rose Ann

- 5863 2016 Right to Risk. In: Aronson, Jeffe, and Steiger, Lew, Jeffe Aronson and Jumping Mouse [oral history interview]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(3) (Fall): 35.
- "By Rose Ann Bolin (cerebral palsy) for David Schaefer (youngest participant; cerebral palsy)[.] From Right to Risk (KTSP 'On the Arizona Road,' Ch. 10, Phoenix, ca. 1994)."

Bolte, Charles

- 5864 2016 The voyage of the DRIFTWOOD. In: Martin, Tom, The voyage of the DRIFTWOOD. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 27(3) (Summer): 8-20.
- Journal a 1954 river trip "from Aspen, Colorado, to Lake Mead via the Colorado River, as conceived and modified along the way by Earl Eaton & Charlee Bolte" (Bolte), as transcribed by Margaret Marston (Mrs. Otis "Dock" Marston).

Casimiro, Steve

- 5865 2016 Grand Canyon slow ride; in 1976 a group of friends spent more than three months running the Colorado, a feat that will never be repeated. Adventure Journal (Monarch Beach, California), (3) (Winter 2016/2017): 20-21.

Crouch, Nina

- 5866 2016 Redwall. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(2) (Summer): 24.

Egan, Timothy

- 5867 2016 (WITH Casey Egan; PHOTOS BY Corey Arnold) Unplugging the Selfie Generation; a father and son raft down the Grand Canyon and hike in Joshua Tree, revealing the challenges—and rewards—of getting young people into parks. National Geographic, 230(4) (October): cover, 1, 30-55. (The Power of Parks. A Yearlong Exploration. [SERIES])
- Colorado River, Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

Falany, Henry; Falany, Gracie; AND Quartaroli, Richard D.

- 5868 2016 Henry Falany. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(2) (Summer): 1, 2, 30-45.
- Principally Quartaroli's oral history interview with Henry Falany. See also remarks by CC Lockwood, (3) (Fall): 7-8.

Forrester, Cheri

- 5869 2016 On returning from the canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(1) (Spring): 16.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Friend, Madeline

- 5870 2016 We are West. High Country News, 48(19) (November 14): 35.
Essay by the winner of the 2016 Bell Prize. Includes running the Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

- 5871 2016 What, really, are rapids for? Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(4) (Winter 2016-2017): 16.

Grande, Jan

- 5872 2016 Mit dem Schlauchboot durch den Grand Canyon. Roadrunner (Fliegerischen Ausbildungszentrums der Luftwaffe, Zeitung) (Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico), (August): 22-25. [In German.]
(transl. 'With the rubber boat through the Grand Canyon')

Hernley, CJ

- 5873 2016 In over my head : a Grand Canyon rafting adventure on the Colorado River. [No imprint], 168 pp.
[An on-demand publication.]

Kempa, Rick

- 5874 2016 After the river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(1) (Spring): 25.

Kerler, Jim

- 5875 2016 From the Chair [COLUMN]. The Muir View (Sierra Club, John Muir Chapter, Madison, Wisconsin), [April]: 2. [Issue does not print month or year on it.]
Includes remarks on a six-day mid-winter backpack trip on the Tonto Plateau, Grand Canyon.

Langlois, Krista

- 5876 2016 Love in the current; water was where they connected, and water took them where they needed to go. Adventure Journal (Monarch Beach, California), (3) (Winter 2016/2017): 86-87.
Essay includes a January private trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, during which she married on day 15.

Lee, Katie

- 5877 2016 Traveling the canyon's white water highway . . . Arizona Highways, 92(5) (May): 30-37. [Ellipsis is part of title.]
Reprint of Lee (1960), including photographs from Northern Arizona University Cline Library and Tad Nichols.

McCool, Daniel Craig

- 5878 2016 Goodbye ole river, goodbye (an ode to the Colorado River). Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(4) (Winter 2016-2017): 28.

Morrissey, Jenifer

- 5879 2016 Lookin' at Lava : poems inspired by rafting the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. [No place]: CreateSpace, 70 pp. (Copyright Jenifer Morrissey and Willowtrail Farm.) [An on-demand publication.]

Five poems, illustrated with photographs. Title-page verso notes, "With thanks to Tom Morrissey from whom I learned to have a photographic eye making it possible that both our works could illustrate this book."

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Pace, Paul S.

- 5880 2016 To a far shore; Robert Brewster Stanton and the Colorado River railroad survey. The Nevada Traverse (Nevada Association of Land Surveyors), 43(1): 4-6, 24-26; (2) (June): cover, 3, 4-6, 24-25. [Denver, Colorado Cañon & Pacific Railroad.]

Peter, Christian

- 5881 2016 WW-Abenteurer Grand Canyon. Teil 1. Platsch (Solothurner Kajakfahrer, Mitteilungsblatt) (Solthurn, Switzerland), 2016(2): cover, 22-31. [In German.]
(transl. 'Wild water aventure Grand Canyon. Part 1')

Cover tease: "Der ganz grosse Abenteuer in Amerika" (transl. 'The great adventure in America'). For Part 2 see Peter (2017).

Podmore, Zak, AND Stauffer-Norris, Will

- 5882 2016 Confluence; taking the hard way into the sacred, threatened heart of the Grand Canyon. Canoe and Kayak, (Fall): 50-60.

Kayaking the Little Colorado River, Cameron to Colorado River confluence; with hike out (carrying kayaks) on the Salt Trail. Thematic focus is on the debate over the proposed Escalade project on Navajo Nation land at the Little Colorado River confluence.

Quartaroli, Richard D., AND Steiger, Lew

- 5883 2016 Q; Richard Quartaroli. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(1) (Spring): cover, 2, 30-44.

Quartaroli oral history interview.

Richards, Arnie

- 5884 2016 The all-wooden-boat brigade—and the Toroweap mirror flash. The Bulletin (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 20(2) (Spring): 3.

Ripley, Bruce

- 5885 2016 Grand Canyon trip report—fossils galore! Oregon Whitewater Association (Portland, Oregon), 17(4) (April): 1, 4-5, 8.

23-day trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon, Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek, exchanging three at Phantom Ranch. "Fossils" refers to the age of some of the trip members, the "Fossil 5".

Roomful of Teeth

- 5886 2016 The Colorado : music from the motion picture. (Performed by Roomful of Teeth, Glenn Kotche, Jeffrey Zeigler; composed by John Luther Adams, William Brittelle, Glenn Kotche, Paola Prestini, Shara Worden.) [New York]: VisionIntoArt, VIA Records. CD.

Regarding the film see VisionIntoArt (2016).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Sanderson, Jerry; Sanderson, June; Sparks, Tony; Whitney, Tim; Quist, Bob; Dimock, Brad; Sleight, Ken; Moody, Tom; Dierker, Dan; Silva, Dennis; Jensen, Marv; AND Rails, Clifford

5887 2016 Panel discussion vintage 1992. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(4) (Winter 2016-2017): 1, 2, 30-43.

". . . recorded at the GCRG [Grand Canyon River Guides] Guide's Training Seminar in Page, Arizona, at the Wilderness River Adventures warehouse, in the spring of 1992. The moderator is Tim Whitney. The discussion is between Jerry Sanderson, June Sanderson and Tony Sparks." Appended, pp. 40-42, is ". . . a panel discussion at the GCRG Fall Meeting in 1993, held at Ken Sleight's Pack Creek Ranch in Moab, Utah. To fully appreciate this story you have to hear Tony Sparks tell it first, which you can do [in the 1992 panel discussion]." Additional credits in the author field are listed in the order in which they appear first in the transcript.

Stafford, Kim

5888 2016 Water braids a rope : at Ha Tay Gam, the River Colorado. Santa Cruz, California: Peter and Donna Thomas, [unpaginated].

Unique? 9 $\frac{3}{8}$  × 11 $\frac{7}{8}$  ×  $\frac{5}{8}$  inches; verse text leaves facing illustrations. Description of this production from website <http://www.baymoon.com/~peteranddonna/4-water.htm> (last viewed 2 September 2017): "Six watercolors painted in the Grand Canyon. Hand-drawn initial letters. Cover: squirrel-skin tanned by Donna, enamel-over-copper abstract landscape frontispiece. Clamshell box[.] \$1850.00". (Regarding Peter and Donna Thomas see also "Peter and Donna Thomas [firm]", 2007, 2013.)

Stegall, Angie Mattson

5889 2016 Make some room : powerful life lessons inspired by an epic 16-day Colorado River rafting trip through Grand Canyon. Pisgah Forest, North Carolina: Angie Mattson Stegall, 184 pp. [An on-demand publication.]

See also Stegall (2021).

Sullivan, Holly

5890 2016 Reclamation. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 29(4) (Winter 2016-2017): 29.

"On behalf of the Colorado and all the other rivers".

VisionIntoArt

5891 2016 The Colorado. (Murat Eyuboglu, director; William deBuys, advisor and scriptwriter; John Luther Adams, William Brittelle, Glen Kotche, Paola Prestini, and Shara Worden, composers; Mark Rylance, narrator; Christa Sadler, writer; David Sarno, editor; Sylvestre Campe and Murat Eyuboglu, cinematographers; Roomful of Teeth, Glenn Kotche, and Jeffrey Zeigler, performers.) New York: VisionIntoArt, in association with New Amsterdam Presents. Video. 86:00.

"A music-based documentary that explores the Colorado River Basin from social and ecological perspectives across history." See also music CD (Roomful of Teeth, 2016).

Woodward, Forest

5892 2016 Grand Canyon journal; a father and son share 280 river miles. Adventure Journal (Monarch Beach, California), (2) (Summer): [80]-[91].

Doug Woodward and his son, Forest. Introductory page followed by 11 pages displaying photographic reproductions of pages of a Colorado River guidebook that include notations and photos.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Zickl, David

- 5893 2016 Getting your face wet; a portfolio. Arizona Highways, 92(9) (September): 42-47.
- Photographs of boatmen, taken aboard boats, in Grand Canyon rapids. Brad Dimock, Jay Healy, David "Stinny" Stinson, and Margeaux Bestard.

2017

Anonymous

- 5894 2017 De Grand Canyon. Het Peddelblad (Clubblad Utrechtse Kano Club, The Netherlands), 33(2) (August): 7-9. [Item signed only as "Bobby".] [\[In Dutch.\]](#)
- February 2017 trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon, Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek. Includes sidebars with quotes from "Bobby", "Sil", "Cor", "Maarten", "Anna", and "Logan". See also Kooten (2020).
- 5895 2017 Colorado River whitewater rafting trip. COAlition (Millis Council on Aging, Millis, Massachusetts), 19(7) (September): [1].
- Notice of multi-media presentation by Janice and Bob McCoy, on an 8-day rafting trip, Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek.

Banks, David

- 5896 NO DATE A better way forward. In: Africa Forward year in review 2016. Arlington, Virginia, and Nairobi, Kenya: The Nature Conservancy, p. 1. [\[2017.\]](#)
- Focus is reminiscences of a trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Barnes, Joel

- 5897 2017 The river in you. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(2) (Summer): 29.

Bean, Brenna

- 5898 2017 Exploring the great unknown; a story of adventures and discovery on the Colorado River. Our Own Everest (Daring Adventures, Phoenix), 4 (Summer): 1-6.
- Daring Adventures, Adaptive Recreation Program; Mainstream Expedition, "a multi-day rafting trip through the heart of the Grand Canyon for adults who live life with different abilities, limitations and life challenges."

Bochmann, Max

- 5899 2017 Life is short; play naked. N (Nude and Natural) (Naturist Society, Oshkosh, Wisconsin), 36(3) (Spring):.
- Includes remarks on a Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon with the Arizona Wildflowers naturist club in 2015, after cancer surgery and placement of a permanent stoma and ostomy pouch. No illustrations published from the trip, but the author does take note, "The photo on the cover of the 2017 Naturist Society calendar is of our 'other' boat, shot from the boat we were on." [NOTE: Publication contains material for mature audience (nudity).]

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Borges, Marty

- 5900 2017 The other speed run. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(1) (Spring): 16-19.
Attempt to break the record for fastest Colorado River run through Grand Canyon by the U.S. Men's Whitewater rafting team, on a "custom built, 48-foot cataraft. (An accident in Lava Falls interfered with the attempt; the run was completed in 39 hours, 24 minutes).

Boyle, Mike, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5901 2017 Mike Boyle. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(1) (Spring): 1, 2, 30-45.
Boyle oral history interview.
- 5902 2017 My drowning (and other inconveniences). In: The Meaning of Life: Let Go [FEATURE]. Outside, 42(9) (September): 126-133.
Based on the author's near-drowning in Lava Falls.

Cassard, Rick

- 5903 2017 Down in the Canyon again. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(4) (Winter 2017-2018): 17.
Song lyrics.

Fredricks, Leon

- 5904 2017 Rivers and canyons of flowing color. The watercolors of Erica Fareio; a current of affairs. In: It's the Arts [SECTION]. The Noise (Clarkdale, Arizona), (195) (seorsum Mundos édition) (November): cover, 5, 20-21.

Gnarly Bay [firm]

- 5905 2017 The time travelers. Brendan Leonard and Forest Woodward, directors. Westerly, Rhode Island: Gnarly Bay. 24:00.
Documentary about the U.S. Men's Rafting Team attempt to break the speed record for rowing the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Gross, Pete, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5906 2017 Pete Gross a.k.a. "Dirtbag". Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(2) (Summer): cover, 3, 30-45.
Gross oral history interview.

Gulley, Aaron, AND Judge, Jen

- 5907 2017 Information freeze. Outside (December): 92-97, 126.
Regarding technology-free experiences. See p. 94, brief note of "best vacation", a "2012 paddle trip through the Grand Canyon" with "no [phone] service for ten continuous days."

Hanson, Rachel

- 5908 2017 Ode to a Grand Canyon boatman of thirty-six-years. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): 18-19.
"This poem is for Ray Pope, who retired June 20th, 2017 from a 36-year career as a boatman in the Grand Canyon."

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Henkenius, Anna

- 5909 2017 [Untitled Colorado River verse.] In: Wharton, Emma, Grand Canyon Youth update. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(2) (Summer): 6.

Writer is a Grand Canyon Youth program participant, 13 years of age.

Hobbs, Will

- 5910 2017 Roll on Colorado (to the tune of Woody Guthrie's "Roll On Columbia"). Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): 14.

Howe, Ryan

- 5911 2017 Pachamama. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): 26.

Johnson-Sullivan, Kaylene

- 5912 2017 Canyon pioneer—Dick Griffith's early days of rafting and his final run on the Colorado River. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(1) (Spring): 22-29.

Written in advance of Griffith's self-proclaimed final trip on the Colorado River, planned for April 2017.

Jůzl, Jiří "Karas"

- 5913 2017 Z Trutnova na Colorado River : splněný vodácký sen : Česko-slovensko-americká expedice 2017. Trutnov, Czech Republic: Jiří Jůzl, 103 pp. [Privately published.] [\[In Czech.\]](#)
(transl. 'From Trutnov to the Colorado River: a boating dream come true: Czech-Slovak-American expedition 2017')

Paddle trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon to Diamond Creek.

Knapp, Gunnar

- 5914 2017 Canyon dream. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): 7.

Kuhne, Cecil

- 5915 2017 River master : John Wesley Powell's legendary exploration of the Colorado River and Grand Canyon. New York: The Countryman Press (W. W. Norton and Co.), 269 [270] pp. (American Grit.)

Martin, Robyn S.

- 5916 2017 From private oar boater to commercial motor passenger: Observations along the route. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): 12-13.

Matthews, Mike, AND Neville, Chris

- 5917 2017 Grand Canyon—nine days below the rim. Answers, 12(4) (July/August): cover, 50-67.

Recounting a nine-day Creationism-focused Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Miller, Steve

- 5918 2017 Mile 225. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): 27.

A different perspective of Miller (2007).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Munger, Julie

- 5919 2017 Riverboarding Grand Canyon—an incredible experience, and not “extreme”. Boatman’s Quarterly Review, 30(4) (Winter 2017-2018): 10-11.

See also remarks by William Mooz, 31(1) (Spring 2018): 8.

Peter, Christian

- 5920 2017 WW-Abenteuer Grand Canyon. Teil 2. Platsch (Solothurner Kajakfahrer, Mitteilungsblatt) (Solthurn, Switzerland), 2017(1): 16-34. [In German.]
(transl. ‘Wild water aventure Grand Canyon. Part 1’)

Cover tease: “Der ganz grosse Abenteuer, Teil2” (transl. ‘The great adventure in America, part 2’). For Part 1 see Peter (2016). This part includes “Grand Canyon-Hikes” by Reto Schläppi (pp. 32-33).

Potochnik, André

- 5921 2017 André Potochnik. (Introductory note by Richard Quartaroli.) Boatman’s Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): cover, 2, 28-44.

Oral history.

Reheis, Marith

- 5922 2017 2017 President’s message. Colorado Scientific Society, Newsletter, (April): 4.

Includes remarks on a recent Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Schläppi, Reto

- 5923 2017 Grand Canyon-Hikes. Platsch (Solothurner Kajakfahrer, Mitteilungsblatt) (Solthurn, Switzerland), 2017(1): 32-33. [In German.]

River trip hikes. Appended to part 2 of Christian Peter’s article (see above).

Schrag, Myles

- 5924 2017 Visionary; blind adventurer to speak on embracing a No Barriers Life. Flagstaff Live!, 23(18) (April 27-May 3): 18-19.

Blind Colorado River kayaker Erik Weihenmayer to speak about his experiences and book, No Barriers : a blind man’s journey to kayak the Grand Canyon, at the Orpheum Theater, Flagstaff, Arizona. (Refer to Weihenmayer and Levy, 2017.)

Schuppe, Joe

- 5925 2017 Navigating America’s Big Ditch. Vision (Hurt and Proffitt, Inc., Lynchburg, Virginia), (March/April): 2-4.

Solo canoe trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, January 2017.

Sgamma, Phil

- 5926 2017 Whitewater time. Boatman’s Quarterly Review, 30(4) (Winter 2017-2018): 9.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Skinner, Bill, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5927 2017 Bill Skinner. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(4) (Winter 2017-2018): cover, 2, 26-42.
Skinner oral history interview, 1998; with brief "Addendum", p. 42. See also remarks by William Mooz, 31(1) (Spring 2018): 8.

Skyship Films

- 5928 2017 La sap da ya kya, la' gi, e sha maldeah : A:shiwí lak Chimikyanakyadaya:ah / Then, now, and forever: Zuni in the Grand Canyon. (Daniel Byers, director.) Skyship Films. 27:36.
- Film title is in Zuni and English. Documentary, filmed during a Colorado River trip in Grand Canyon. The Skyship Films promotional webpage for this film notes: "Throughout their history, the A:shiwí people have made a pilgrimage through the Grand Canyon to leave offerings at traditional sites, gather materials for their cultural practices, and visit the place where their ancestors first emerged from the four Underworlds and into the light of day. • • • The film was created under the direction of the Zuni Elders, to share with the world the importance of the Grand Canyon to the Zuni people's heritage and culture, and advocate for its environmental and cultural conservation."

Smith, Matt, AND Smith, Karen

- 5929 2017 Dories, ho! Floating the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon. [No imprint], 257 pp. [An on-demand publication.]
Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch.

Sumner, Ray [Sumner, Raymond V.]; Carpenter, Geoff; Crossey, Laura; AND Karlstrom, Karl

- 5930 2017 An extract of an Aquitard's journal: A photo essay of the 2017 GTS river trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(2) (Summer): 20-22.
Photos by Laura Crossey, Amy Martin, and Ray Sumner. Guides Training Seminar.

Tinsley, Jody

- 5931 2017 Doing nothing at Stone Creek. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(1) (Spring): 10-11.

Watters, Kate [Watters, Katherine]

- 5932 2017 Rowing for her life; a friend's healing journey. In: Letters From Home [SECTION]. Flagstaff Live!, 23(12) (March 16-22): 4.
Essay on herbalist friend and fellow Grand Canyon enthusiast Kristin's five-year fight against breast cancer.

Weihenmayer, Erik, AND Levy, Buddy

- 5933 2017 No Barriers : a blind man's journey to kayak the Grand Canyon. (Foreword by Bob Woodruff.) New York: Thomas Dunne Books (St. Martin's Press), 459 pp.
Title refers to No Barriers USA, "a nonprofit organization in Fort Collins, CO, [which] organizes life-changing experiences for youth, veterans, and people with disabilities" (from the organization's website).
- 5934 2017 Blindes Vertrauen : mit dem Kajak durch den Grand Canyon—wie ich die größte Herausforderung meines Lebens meisterte. (Vorwort, Bob Woodruff; Martin Bayer, Franka Reinhart and Ursula Held,

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

translators.) Ostfildern, Germany: DuMont Reiseverlag, 361 pp. + [5]-pp. advertisement. [In German.]

(transl. 'Blind Faith: Kayaking the Grand Canyon—how I overcame the greatest challenge of my life')

Translation of No Barriers (2017). Book includes attached ribbon bookmark. Dust jacket main title, Blindes Vertrauen, is embossed in Roman font and in Braille.

Welch, Vince

5935 2017 The tale of the wreck of the Niagara. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(2) (Summer): 7-15.

Dory Niagara, at Lava Falls, September 1980 at 17,000-18,000 cfs. Article includes a QR code and link to "video clip of the actual 'Niagara's Last Run'", <https://goo.gl/WYNCAM>. See also letter from John Lawson, 31(1) (Spring 2018): 8.

Wildaiua [pseudonym]

5936 2017 A Grand scout. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 30(3) (Fall): 2.

"[I]nspired by Horn Creek at 6000 cfs, May 1, 2017".

2018

Anonymous

5937 2018 An evening with Erik Weihenmayer, author of "No Barriers: A Blind Man's Journey to Kayak the Grand Canyon", March 28, 7-8:30 P.M. In: Entertainment [SECTION]. CSU Life (Colorado State University), (March): 9.

Announcement.

Conley, Patrick, AND Quartaroli, Richard

5938 2018 Patrick Conley. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(1) (Spring): cover, 30-46.

Conley oral history interview.

Curtis, Chet

5939 2018 Blinded Veterans complete kayaking Grand Canyon's Colorado River. In: Operation Peer Support (OPS) News [SECTION]. The Bulletin (Blinded Veterans Association, Alexandria, Virginia), 73(6) (November/December): 6-8.

Steve Baskis, Kathy Champion, Brian Harris, Lonnie Bedwell, and Travis Fugate, five blinded veterans from Blinded Veterans Association, supported by Team River Runner, complete a trip from Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek, 1-12 September.

Dent, Rufus

5940 2018 Warren Picket Adventure Awards; The Grand Canyon. The Epsomian Magazine (Epsom College, Epsom, Surrey, England), 2017-2018: 55-56.

Colorado River trip.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Dimock, Brad

- 5941 2018 "Even at first sight, if you take a good long look, the Grand Canyon may claim more of your life than you can afford."—Martin Litton. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of the National Park Service, November 2016 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association, pp. 76-79.

Dye, Bob, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5942 2018 Bob Dye. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(2) (Summer): 1, 2, 29-46.
Dye oral history interview.

Dyer, Janelle

- 5943 2018 The timeless and insignificant journey of a day in the Grand. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 229-230.

Esry, Hilary

- 5944 2018 Don't fuck up. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 70-77.

Field, Maile

- 5945 2018 Liquid addiction. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 173-187.

Gibbon, Amanda

- 5946 2018 Take a chance on me. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 66-69.

Graber, Kyle

- 5947 2018 My Grand Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(1) (Spring): 9.

Hester, Sharon, AND Quartaroli, Richard

- 5948 2018 Sharon Hester. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(3) (Fall): cover, 2, 30-46.
Hester oral history interview.

Hughes, Jerry

- 5949 2018 Whale. In: Linford, Dick, and Volpert, Bob (writers, compilers), Halfway to halfway and back : more river stories. Bend, Oregon: Halfway Publishing, pp. 276-293.
Curt (Curtis) Hansen. Includes Grand Canyon.

Ingram, Jeff

- 5950 2018 A backpacker takes a ride. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 39-43.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Jacka, Lois Essary

- 5951 2018 Canyon magic: White-water adventure and calm contemplation work their spell on Grand Canyon rafters. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 182-185.
- Reprinting of Jacka and Jacka (1990).

Jones, Bert, AND Steiger, Lew

- 5952 2018 Bert Jones. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(4) (Winter 2018-2019): cover, 26-42.
- Jones oral history interview.

Joseph, Easy

- 5953 2018 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(1) (Spring): 8.

Jůzl, Jiří "Karas"

- 5954 2018 Colorado River 2017. Grand Canyon—když se vysloví tato dvě slova, téměř každému se vybaví Severní Amerika a v ní Spojené státy americké, zvané zkratkou USA. O něco méně lidí ví, že se kaňon nachází v severní Arizoně, v jednom z padesáti členských států USA, nepočítáme-li federální distrikt Washington D.C. Každý jistě ví i to, že touto, z hlediska geologie a geografie, jedinečnou přírodní lokalitou protéká řeka. Pádler (Záboří nad Labem, Czech Republic), (Winter): 40-43. [In Czech.]
- (transl. "Colorado River 2017. Grand Canyon—when these two words are uttered, almost everyone thinks of North America and the United States of America, called the USA. Slightly fewer people know that the canyon is located in northern Arizona, one of the fifty U.S. states, not counting Washington D.C. Everyone certainly knows that a river flows through this geologically and geographically unique natural site.")*

Paddle trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon to Diamond Creek. See also book-length treatment in Jůzl (2017).

Kida, Jeff

- 5955 2018 (ED.) A river so long; a portfolio. Arizona Highways, 94(5) (May): cover, 1, 24-37.

Knapp, Lloyd

- 5956 2018 The packing party. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 44-53.

Konings, Mark, AND Spaulding, Travis

- 5957 2018 The Ballad of the Santa Ana. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(4) (Winter 2018-2019): 46.
- Colorado River dory.

Kurtz, Beverly

- 5958 2018 Where I belong. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 122-131.
- Includes notes of Grand Canyon.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Lawson, John

- 5959 2018 In reference to the article, The Tale of the Wreck of the Niagra [sic], in BQR Volume 30 Number 2, Summer 2017. In: Dear Eddy [SECTION]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 31(1) (Spring): 8.
- In response to the article by Vince Welch (2017), "The tale of the wreck of the Niagara". Brief note with photo of a second dory Niagara having run a Grand Canyon trip "last winter".

Linford, Dick

- 5960 2018 Bryce Whitmore. In: Linford, Dick, and Volpert, Bob (writers, compilers), Halfway to halfway and back : more river stories. Bend, Oregon: Halfway Publishing, pp. 134-146.
- Includes Grand Canyon.
- 5961 2018 Vladimir Kovalik. In: Linford, Dick, and Volpert, Bob (writers, compilers), Halfway to halfway and back : more river stories. Bend, Oregon: Halfway Publishing, pp. 276-293.
- Includes Grand Canyon.

Magneson, Moira

- 5962 2018 In Marble Canyon. In: Linford, Dick, and Volpert, Bob (writers, compilers), Halfway to halfway and back : more river stories. Bend, Oregon: Halfway Publishing, pp. 176-177.
- 5963 2018 Green Room, Havasu. In: Linford, Dick, and Volpert, Bob (writers, compilers), Halfway to halfway and back : more river stories. Bend, Oregon: Halfway Publishing, pp. 198-199.
- Reprints Magneson (2008).

Mortenson, Dave

- 5964 2018 Running the Big Red. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 16-28.

Muench, Josef

- 5965 2018 White water adventure. (As told to Joyce Rockwood Muench. Photographs by Josef Muench.) Arizona Highways, 94(5) (May): 16-23.
- Reprinting of Muench (1965). See also letters by Bob Klages, Gini Gregg, and Robert M. Lauzon in July issue.

Muench, Joyce Rockwood

- 5966 2018 Georgie White. In: Stieve, Robert (ed.), Grand Canyon National Park : 10 decades of stories and photographs from Arizona Highways : 1919-2019. Phoenix: Arizona Highways, pp. 117-120.
- Reprinting of Muench (1965).

Rakha, Naseem

- 5967 2018 Everything is stardust. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 231-237.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Ringel, Jayson

- 5968 2018 Rafting through cancer on the river of no return. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 219-228.

Includes notes of Grand Canyon.

Ross, John F.

- 5969 2018 The promise of the Grand Canyon : John Wesley Powell's perilous journey and his vision for the American West. New York: Viking (Penguin Random House LLC), 381 pp.

The author and his family retrace the Powell expedition. See also Ross (2019).

Serac Adventure Films

- 5970 2018 The weight of water. (Michael Brown, director, producer; starring Lonnie Bedwell, Steven Mace, Timmy O'Neill, Rob Raker, Harlan Taney, Erik Weihenmayer, Skyler Williams; Michel Brown, Vickie Curtis, Roxanne Harbitter, Aubry Hollingshead, Buddy Levy, writers.) Boulder, Colorado: Serac Adventure Films. (79:00.)

A documentary of the kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon by Erik Weihenmayer, who is totally blind.

Yarnell, Julie

- 5971 2018 A boater's story. In: Kurtz, Beverly (ed.), Why we boat : running rivers on our own. Flagstaff, Arizona: Vishnu Temple Press, pp. 154-166.

2019

Anderson, Lori

- 5972 2019 Hearts (and shirts) on fire—GTS river trip 2019. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(2) (Summer): 10-13.

Guides Training Seminar.

Annerino, John

- 5973 2019 In the chasms of water, stone, and light : passages through the Grand Canyon. Atglen, Pennsylvania: Schiffer Publishing Ltd., 176 pp.

Interjects personal experiences with retellings of historic Colorado River expeditions. Illustrated.

B., R.

- 5974 2019 Cooking days. Hibernacle News, 2019: 11.

". . . memories of the worst of 1970s GCD." (Top ten worst Grand Canyon Dorries meals).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Blagden, Tom, Jr.

- 5975 2019 The Grand Canyon : unseen beauty: running the Colorado River. New York: Rizzoli International Publications, Inc., 224 pp.

Title-page includes imprints of Grand Canyon Expeditions Company and Grand Canyon Conservancy. Principally photographs.

Bronco [pseudonym] [Brucke, Bill]

- 5976 2019 One last dory trip with Martin. Hibernacle News, 2019: 21-23.
Martin Litton.

Catotti, Donna

- 5977 2019 Reflections of an old dory cook, getting older. Hibernacle News, 2019: 10.
With background painting on pp. 10-11 by Catotti.

Childs, Craig

- 5978 2019 In the wake of Powell. Arizona Highways, 95(5) (May): 18-22.
Colorado River trip.

Cooper, Tim

- 5979 2019 Sockdolager. Hibernacle News, 2019: 33-35.

Dion, Mitch

- 5980 2019 Rowing flat water. Hibernacle News, 2019: 14-15.
Includes remarks on Grand Canyon Dories in Grand Canyon.

Edmondson, Brad

- 5981 2019 Reading the river; letter from the Grand Canyon. The American Scholar, 88(2) (Spring): 6-11.
Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Fareio, Erica

- 5982 2019 The Journey. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(3) (Fall): 8.
Illustrated by a painting by Fareio, "The Journey". This issue also illustrates other paintings by Fareio: "Satori", p. 6; "Our Only One", p. 11.; and an interview with Fareio, pp. 12-13. See also another item in the same issue by Fareio (below).
- 5983 2019 Eye of Odin. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(3) (Fall): 21.
Illustrated by a painting by Fareio, "Eye of Odin". See also another item and paintings in the same issue (above).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Finkle, Phil

- 5984 2019 Local resident takes dream trip, rafts the Grand Canyon. Lassen County Times (Susanville, California), 41(50) (October 1): 1A, 10A; (51) (October 8): 10A-11A.

Article is written in the first person.

Goldwater, Barry M.

- 5985 2019 An odyssey of the Green and Colorado; the intimate journal of three boats and nine people on a trip down two rivers. Arizona Highways, 95(5) (May): 32-41.

Reprinted from the January 1941 issue (Goldwater, 1941). See also letter by Van Pruitt, 95(7) (July): 4.

Grabe-Taffe, Lisa

- 5986 2019 Colorado River trip inspires Grabe family to support the Grand Canyon Endowment. Colorado Plateau Advocate (Grand Canyon Trust), (Fall/Winter): 29.

Hendricks, J. Robert

- 5987 2019 [Correspondence.] In: Letters [SECTION]. Arizona Highways, 95(8) (August): 4.

Recollects a 1970s Colorado River trip in which the writer's boat flipped in Lava Falls.

Ladd, Gary

- 5988 2019 Gary Ladd's wild ride. Hibernacle News, 2019: 48-50.

Regarding a high-water trip in 1983.

Larmer, Paul

- 5989 2019 A grand beginning. High Country News, 51(8) (May 13): 11.

On the occasion of High Country News's forthcoming 50th anniversary in 2020, remarks on the writer's "first Grand Canyon experience" on a river trip, Lees Ferry to Phantom Ranch, with Jim Enote, Zuni.

Matheson, Teresa Yates; Yates, Betty; AND Steiger, Lew

- 5990 2019 Teresa Yates-Matheson. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(4) (Winter 2019-2020): cover, 26-41.

Matheson oral history interview.

Muzlanova, E. S. [Музланова, Е. С.]

- 5991 2019 Английский язык : 10 тренировочных вариантов экзаменационных работ для подготовки к единому государственному экзамену [Angliyskiy yazyk : 10 trenirovochnykh variantov ekzamenatsionnykh rabot dlya podgotovki k yedinomu gosudarstvennomu ekzameni] [English language : 10 training options for examination papers to prepare for the Unified State Exam]. Москва: Издательство АСТ [Moskva: Izdatel'stvo AST] [Moscow: AST Publishing House]. (ЕГЭ-2020 [YeGE-2020].) [ЕГЭ = Единый государственный экзамен (Yedinyy gosudarstvennyy ekzamen) (Unified State Exam).] [In Russian.]

See "Вариант 1. Раздел, Раздел 2. Чтение" [Variant 1. Razdel, Razdel 2. Chteniye] [Option Section 1, Section 2. Reading] (pp. 12-15), a reading and comprehension quiz based on an English-language text regarding a kayak trip through Grand Canyon by Willie Stewart, a man with a prosthetic left arm. The text is credited, "Adapted from 'Kayak Adventurer on the Colorado River' by Doug Colligan". No publication by that title has been identified;

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

however, the text comprises excerpts from the Reader's Digest article by Colligan (2007). The test text is in English; otherwise the volume is in Russian.

Nicholson, Doc

5992 2019 Prez blurb. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(2) (Summer): 2-3.

Principally a recounting of a first trip of the year on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Petschek, Rudi, AND Welch, Vince

5993 2019 Long ago and far away; an ongoing email interview with Rudi. Hibernacle News, 2019: 37-43.

Podmore, Zak

5994 2019 Confluence : navigating the personal and political on rivers of the new West. Salt Lake City and Torrey, Utah: Torrey House Press, 154 [158] pp.

See "The Confluence", pp. 65-96; regarding a kayak trip down the Little Colorado River to the Colorado River, and packing out to the rim.

Pupic, Tamara

5995 2019 Overcoming adversity (for real); Erik Weihenmayer; the world's first blind person to reach the summit of Mount Everest, on what it means to live "a no barriers life". Entrepreneur Middle East (Dubai, United Arab Emirates) [English ed.], (November): 42-43.

Includes Weihenmayer's kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

5996 2019 «بال عوائق» التغلب على الصعاب (حقاً). إريك واينماي. أول شخص ضرير في العالم يصل إلى قمة جبل إفرست تحدث عن . [altaghalub ealaa alsieab (hqa). 'iiryk waynamayr. 'awal shakhs darir fi alealam yasil 'iilaa qimat jabal 'iifrist tahadath ean maenaa aleaysh »bal eawayq<.] [Overcoming difficulties (really). Erik Weihenmayer. The first blind person in the world to reach the summit of Mount Everest spoke about the meaning of living "without obstacles"]. Entrepreneur الإلكترونية [Entrepreneur Middle East] (Dubai, United Arab Emirates) [Arabic ed.], (November): 42, 44. [In Arabic, with serial title in mixed Roman and Arabic orthography, thus.]

Includes Weihenmayer's kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.] [Author's name in Arabic orthography: [تمارا بوبيش.]

Ross, John F.

5997 2018 The promise of the Grand Canyon : John Wesley Powell's perilous journey and his vision for the American West. New York: Viking (Penguin Random House LLC), 381 pp.

The author and his family retrace the Powell expedition. See also Ross (2019).

5998 2019 Retracing an explorer's journey down the Colorado River; following John Wesley Powell's pioneering 1869 trip, a writer and his family are swept along by more intimate currents. The National (Amtrak), (April/May): 72-78. [See also Ross (2018).

Schallau, Adam

5999 2019 Journey through the center of the earth; a portfolio by Adam Schallau. Arizona Highways, 95(5) (May): cover, inside front cover-1, 24-31, back cover.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Schaller, David

- 6000 2019 Sound, not silence. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(2) (Summer): 25.
The Groover poem.

Sevigny, Melissa L.

- 6001 2019 The wild ones. People said that women had no place in the Grand Canyon and would likely die trying to run the Colorado River. In 1938, two female scientists set out to prove them wrong. The Atavist Magazine, (96) (October):. [Online only? <https://magazine.atavist.com/the-wild-ones-grand-canyon-colorado-river-first-women>.]
Botanists Elzada Clover and Lois Jotter; Nevills Expedition.

Shapiro, Neal; Steiger, Lew; AND Quartaroli, Richard D.

- 6002 2019 Bear aka Neal Shapiro. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(2) (Summer): cover, 2, 30-45.
"Bear" oral history interview. Interviews with Steiger and with Quartaroli done at different times; this text edited by Quartaroli.

Sleight, Ken; Savino, Ryann; AND Smith, Latimer

- 6003 2019 Ken Sleight. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(1) (Spring): cover, 24-43.
Sleight oral history interview.

Tibbetts, Ellen, AND Williams, Mary

- 6004 2019 Ellen Tibbetts. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(3) (Fall): 1, 2, 26-45, 48.
Tibbetts oral history interview. Item illustrated with various pieces of Tibbett's artwork.

Townsley, Carrie Gleeson

- 6005 2019 Lessons from the Grand Canyon: Living in peace. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 32(2) (Summer): 18-20.

Valentine, Dan

- 6006 2019 What is a dory cook? Hibernacle News, 2019: 6.
Reprinting of Valentine (1992). See also photocollages of dory cooks, pp. 7, 9.

Weihenmayer, Erik, AND Levy, Buddy

- 6007 2019 No barriers : a blind man's journey to kayak the Grand Canyon. (Foreword by Bob Woodruff.) New York: St. Martin's Griffin, 200 [201] pp.
Cover adds: "The young adult adaptation". This is a younger-reader adaptation of Weihenmayer and Levy (2017). (Title refers to No Barriers USA, "a nonprofit organization in Fort Collins, CO, [which] organizes life-changing experiences for youth, veterans, and people with disabilities" [from the organization's website].)

Woodall, Greg

- 6008 2019 The Shiver-Yer-Wits takeout. Hibernacle News, 2019: 56.
The last Grand Wash Bay takeout, with a "scenic detour" to Twin Point on the Shivwits Plateau.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

2020

Anonymous

6009 2020 NAU Geosciences alumni and friends in Grand Canyon 2019; whitewater adventure on the Colorado River. Division of Geoscience Updates (Northern Arizona University), (Winter): 6-7, 8.

6010 2020 Persönlichkeiten aus Karlsfeld: Heinz Osterholzer; Autos, Ahnenforschung und Musik sind seine Leidenschaft. Journal K (Bürgerinformation der Gemeinde Karlsfeld) (Karlsfeld, Germany), (37) (September): 20-21. [In German.]
(transl. 'Personalities from Karlsfeld: Heinz Osterholzer; Cars, genealogical research and music are his passions.')

Includes quote from Osterholzer that his "nicest vacation" was a raft trip through Grand Canyon: "Er reiste nach Japan und vor 20 Jahren erfüllte er sich seinen Traum „Mit dem Schlauchboot durch den Grand Canyon“. „Das war mein schönster Urlaub“, so Osterholzer." (transl. 'He traveled to Japan and 20 years ago he fulfilled his dream "Through the Grand Canyon in a rubber dinghy". "That was my best holiday," says Osterholzer.')

Allbaugh, Jacky

6011 2020 [Four poems from a Grand Canyon river trip, September 2017.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(4) (Winter 2020-2021): 14.

"Stone and Sand; day 5", "Walls and Sky; day 5", "Moonlight Glow; day 7", "Cliffside; day 8".

Alpin Film Festival

6012 2020 Alpin Film Festival : Braşov-Buşteni-Predeal : film, carte, fotografie : data: 24.02.-01.03.2020. (Ediția a 5-a. Primul festival de film și cultură montană din România. International Alliance for Mountain Film.) [No place]: Alpin Film Festival, 48 pp. [including wraps]. [In parallel English and Romanian texts.]

Under "Competiția Internațională/International Competition", see p. 22, "The Weight of Water/Greutatea Apei", pertaining to the film directed by Michael Brown (Serac Adventure films, 2018), about blind adventurer Erik Weihenmayer's kayak trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Arnst, John

6013 2020 A legacy of tyrosine; Tony Hunter, the Salk Institute biochemist who discovered this amino acid's phosphorylation, was scheduled to speak about his work at EB 2020. ASBMB Today (American Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology), 19(5) (May): 22-27.

Article concerns Hunter's presentation of the 2020 Tang Prize Award Lecture at the Experimental Biology conference in San Diego, which was cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic, but includes remarks and photos of his rowing trips in Grand Canyon.

Bryant, Christina

6014 2020 [Remarks.] From: Segment H [July 13-31, 2019; Lees Ferry to Pearce Ferry]—Personal Vignettes [SECTION]. In: Scott, Annie, and Snow, Eleanor, The 150th anniversary of the 1869 Powell Expedition; USGS participation in the Sesquicentennial Colorado River Exploring Expedition and reflections from the ~1,000-mile journey down the Green and Colorado Rivers. U.S. Geological Survey, Circular 1475, p. 78.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Burgi, Philip H.

- 6015 2020 1983 flow emergency at Glen Canyon Dam—the fastest boat through the Grand Canyon. In: Ahmad, Sajjad, and Murray, Regan (eds.), World Environmental and Water Resources Congress 2020 : Nevada and California Water History : selected papers from the World Environmental and Water Resources Congress 2020, Henderson, Nevada, USA, 17-21 May 2020. Reston, Virginia: American Society of Civil Engineers, pp. 23-33.

Also discusses the Colorado River speed run through Grand Canyon, by Kenton Grua, Steve Reynolds, and Rudi Petschek in the Emerald Mile. Figure 15B (p. 32) is not a photo from the 1983 speed run, but an edited photo at another time, by Rudi Petschek (fide Richard Quartaroli, 8 January 2022). The conference was cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic, but the proceedings volume was published to make its information available.

Clark, Malcolm

- 6016 2020 Travels on the wilder side : a collection of adventure stories spanning fifty years (with chapters following in the footsteps of Lawrence of Arabia and the nineteenth-century explorers Major John Wesley Powell and Captain Richard Francis Burton). [No place]: Malcolm Clark (An Amazon Publication), 164 pp. ("Typesetting and initial printing by Stramongate Press Ltd, Anyam Mills, Little Anyam, Kendal, Cumbria LA9 7AH" [p. iii].) [There is also a "Black and White Edition".]

See cover and in "Part One—The Geology Years": "Alone in the Grand Canyon", pp. 14-24, regarding his two-week 1973 solo trip on the Colorado River between Diamond Creek and Pearce Ferry. (See Clark in Part 21 of THE GRAND CANON Volume 1 for his Grand Canyon geology publications.) The legend for the cover illustration indicates (p. iv), "Exploring the Lower Granite Gorge of the Grand Canyon"; however, the view is upstream from a position above the mouth of Deer Creek, thus must be from another time.

Colligan, Doug

- 6017 2020 In over his head. Willie Stewart had no business kayaking the Colorado River. But he went for it anyway. In: Editors of Reader's Digest, The best of Reader's Digest : humor, heart-warming stories and dramatic tales. New York and Montreal: Reader's Digest, pp. ____.

Reprinting of Colligan (2007). For a peculiar printing of excerpts in Russian see also Muzlanova (2019).

Colton, Lora

- 6018 2020 Time for Mother Nature. In: QuaranZine [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 54.

This introduces "A poem for Patatūānuku—Mother Earth by Ngāti Hine/Ngāphui writer Nadine Anne Hura, and recently shared by Jacinda Ardern, Prime Minister of New Zealand."

Cruz, Margarita

- 6019 2020 A river runs through it; the art of boat building. Flagstaff Live!, 26(11) (March 5-11): 5. Brad Dimock (misspelled "Dimmock") and Fretwater Boatworks.

Diamond, Pat; Diamond, Leslie; AND Steiger, Lew

- 6020 2020 Pat Diamond. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): cover, 8-19. Pat Diamond oral history interview.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Eggert, Charles

- 6021 2020 The last canyon voyage : a filmmaker's journey down the Green and Colorado Rivers. Salt Lake City: University of Utah Press, 353 pp., [8] pp. color plates between pp. 108/109.

With "Acknowledgments" by Sebastian Eggert (pp. xi-xv), "Foreword" by Roy Webb (pp. xvii-xxvi), "Introduction" by Alfred E. Holland, Jr. (pp. 1-31), "Endnotes" by Roy Webb (pp. 327-342, credited p. viii), and "Afterword : After the River" by Sarah McDaniel Holcombe (pp. 343-353). Principally about a 1955 expedition to retrace the Powell Expedition and document the rivers before the construction of dams, creating Eggert's film, A Canyon Voyage. Text focuses on the Upper Colorado River Basin; but see the conclusion of Chapter 27, "Rainbow Bridge to Lee's Ferry (pp. 303-319); and Chapter 28, "L'envoi—Grand Canyon" (pp. 320-325), concerning a 1956 trip, during which was created the sequel film, Danger River. The section of color photos is from the 1956 Grand Canyon trip.

Gray, Owen

- 6022 2020 Grand Canyon 7/9/20. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(3) (Fall): 44.

- 6023 2020 Grand Canyon 7/10/20. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(3) (Fall): 44.

Hamilton, Kristen, AND Glover, Anna

- 6024 2020 Then and now; river travel. In: Scott, Annie, and Snow, Eleanor, The 150th anniversary of the 1869 Powell Expedition; USGS participation in the Sesquicentennial Colorado River Exploring Expedition and reflections from the ~1,000-mile journey down the Green and Colorado Rivers. U.S. Geological Survey, Circular 1475, pp. 58-59.

Hebert, Elli

- 6025 2020 Lava saga. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(3) (Fall): 18.

Dated 2019.

Hughes, Dave

- 6026 2020 Bill Austin: jet boatman, explorer, caver. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(4) (Winter 2020-2021): 6.

"This vignette is in further reference to the 1960 jet boat uprun of the Grand Canyon as detailed in the Spring 1010 BQR, Volume 23, Number 1 [i.e. Philip Smith, 2010]; in the Fall 2010 BQR, Volume 23, Number 3 [Buzz Belknap, 2010]; and in White Water: The Colorado Jet Boat Expedition by Joyce Hamilton [1963, 2010]."

Kerkering, Heather

- 6027 2020 [Remarks.] From: Segment H [July 13-31, 2019; Lees Ferry to Pearce Ferry]—Personal Vignettes [SECTION]. In: Scott, Annie, and Snow, Eleanor, The 150th anniversary of the 1869 Powell Expedition; USGS participation in the Sesquicentennial Colorado River Exploring Expedition and reflections from the ~1,000-mile journey down the Green and Colorado Rivers. U.S. Geological Survey, Circular 1475, pp. 80-81.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Kooten, Sonja van

- 6028 2020 Mijmeren in Coronatijd. Het Peddelblad (Clubblad Utrechtse Kano Club, The Netherlands), 36(1) (April): 28-29. [\[In Dutch.\]](#)
(transl. 'Musing in Corona time')

Recounting a February 2017 trip on Colorado River through Grand Canyon, Lees Ferry to Diamond Creek. See also Anonymous (2017, Het Peddelblad, 33(2) (August): 7-9).

Lauck, Zeke

- 6029 2020 The piece I'm missing. In: QuaranZine [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 47.

Mackay, Walker David

- 6030 2020 The first trip. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(4) (Winter 2020-2021): 7-9.

The author's reflections on leading the first trip on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, a one-boat motorized trip, following the 81-day closure of the river due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Marshall, Dan

- 6031 2020 Can a question be a poem? Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(4) (Winter 2020-2021): 14.

Munger, Julie

- 6032 2020 Julie Munger, riverboarder. From: Interviews [SECTION]. In: Dundas, Zach (ed.), Grand Canyon : "the ages at work". Austin, Texas: Wildsam Field Guides, pp. 96-97.

Myers, Tom [Myers, Thomas M.]

- 6033 2020 Hard not to panic, ain't it? The story of Ron Mitchell, first to hike through Marble Canyon. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 3-6.

Newman, Brad

- 6034 2020 A lot to think about. In: QuaranZine [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 48.

Lyrics for a song, written in the third person. "The tune is played in a Bluegrass-y kinda stomp!" (No musical notation.)

Newton, Ray

- 6035 2020 Country doctor celebrates a lifetime of memories in northern Arizona; ninetieth birthday crowd delivers stories about Dr. George Yard, a man who delivered many. In: Community Profile [SECTION]. Flagstaff Business News (Flagstaff, Arizona), 13(4) (April): 12, 31.

Interview (p. 31) includes: "What is your most memorable experience? 'Taking a pontoon boat trip down the Grand Canyon with my wife. My son, since he was a river-runner, made arrangements and accompanied us in another boat.'" (ENTIRE NOTE)

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

O'Brien, John, AND Quartaroli, Richard

- 6036 2020 John O'Brien. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(1) (Spring): cover, 32-46.
O'Brien oral history interview.

Otto, Elise

- 6037 2020 Unfinished business: The ghost of projects future. In: QuaranZine [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 48
- 6038 2020 [Verse, illustrated with drawings.] In: QuaranZine [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 59.

Out, Edward

- 6039 2020 Not this day. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(4) (Winter 2020-2021): 16-18.

Phair, Scott

- 6040 2020 Grand Canyon magic. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(1) (Spring): 14-15.

Running, JP

- 6041 2020 Chasing the seasons with Orion. In: QuaranZine [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 47.

Salamon, Justin

- 6042 2020 Into the darkness and back again: The story of the 2020 speed run. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(1) (Spring): 16-22.

Eight people on a specially built cataraft, 40 feet long, 12 feet wide, attempted to break the speed record on the Colorado River through Grand Canyon.

Sanders, John

- 6043 2020 This big one didn't get away! Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(1) (Spring): 15.

While fishing at the boat beach at Phantom Ranch, Sanders "caught" with his sinker an absent party's boat that had drifted loose. Includes photo; also a photo of his catch of a trout.

Schaefer, Sara

- 6044 2020 Grand : a memoir. New York, London, Toronto, Sydney, and New Delhi: Gallery Books (Simon and Schuster), 279 [281] pp.

From the publisher's blurb: "When Sara Schaefer is in first grade, her father warns her to always tell the truth because one lie leads to another and soon you will find yourself in a hole you can't escape. A few years later, the Schaefer family is completely upended when it's revealed that their grand life is based on a lie. Her parents become pariahs in their upper middle class community and go from non-religious people to devout church members. The idea of good and evil as binary, opposed forces is a lesson she never forgets. The year she turns forty, Sara decides to take each member of her family on a one-on-one vacation culminating with a whitewater rafting journey through the Grand Canyon with her sister. The only problem is she's terrified of rafting. Along the way, she grapples with unresolved grief over the death of her mother and the family scandal that changed the trajectory of her life."

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Schaller, David A.

- 6045 2020 The 1967 Kennedy river trip; looking back. In: Quartaroli, Richard D. (compiler, ed.), Celebrating 100 years of Grand Canyon National Park, February 2019 : a gathering of Grand Canyon historians : ideas, arguments, and first-person accounts. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Association [and Grand Canyon Historical Society], pp. 67-74.

Robert Kennedy family trip on the Colorado River.

Schmidt, Rachel, AND Williams, Mary

- 6046 2020 Rachel Schmidt. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(3) (Fall): cover, inside front cover, 24-42.

Schmidt oral history interview.

Stafford, Cindy

- 6047 2020 Ode to a short haul. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(3) (Fall): 44.

Dated 2019. Reflection on the writer's helicopter medevac from the canyon.

Wharton, Emma

- 6048 2020 Essential. In: QuaranZine [FEATURE]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 33(2) (Spring [sic, Summer]): 58.

Zirner, Ana

- 6049 2020 Rivertime : allein auf dem Colorado von den Rocky Mountains bis nach Mexiko. [No place]: Malik, 285 [288] pp. ("© Piper Verlag GmbH, München 2020".) [In German.] (transl. 'Rivertime: alone on the Colorado from the Rocky Mountains to Mexico')

2021

Crumbo, Kim

- 6050 2021 On the river with Seldom Seen: A 1,000 CFS adventure. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(2) (Summer): 18-19.

Low-water Grand Canyon river trip with Ken Sleight, 1977. See also photos from Bob Whitney showing Badger Creek Rapid and Lava Falls Rapid at 1,000 cfs, 34(3) (Fall): 2.

Danison, Sophie

- 6051 2021 GTS river trip 2021. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(2) (Summer): 4-9.

Guides Training Seminar.

Davidson, Monique

- 6052 2021 Connected to the Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(3) (Fall): 8-9.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Dimock, Brad, AND Kish, Dawn

- 6053 2021 Learning the ropes. Arizona Highways, 97(5) (May): cover, 1, 44-51.
See also additional remarks on photographs by Kish, p. 3; and see also remarks on Kish's cover photo by Robert Stieve (p. 2).

Eeden, Mandela Leola van

- 6054 2021 The meditation of riverboarding during Covid-19. (Photos by Dawn Kish.) Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(1) (Spring): 8-11.
Colorado River in Grand Canyon.

Gibbon, Jocelyn

- 6055 2021 These days. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(3) (Fall): 9.
Dated June, 2016.
- 6056 2021 Blacktail Canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(3) (Fall): 9.
Dated June, 2018.
- 6057 2021 On rowing with friends, and then marrying one—after falling in love. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(3) (Fall): 24.
Dated June, 2016.

Gist, Sally, AND Steiger, Lew

- 6058 2021 Mustang Sally. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(3) (Fall): cover, inside front cover, 30-44.
Gist oral history interview, which "took place over a couple of Zoom calls in mid-May of 2020".]

Jacobson, Abbi

- 6059 2021 Dory on the river. In: My Travel Tales [SECTION]. American Way (American Airlines), 54(6) (June): 122.
Colorado River in Grand Canyon, when the writer was aged 17.

Jones, David

- 6060 2021 Thoughts on the Grand Canyon. In: Minckley, Thomas, Kikut, Patrick, and Flock, Jessica, A river out of time. [No place]: Blurb, pp. 129-. [An on-demand publication.]
Sesquicentennial Colorado River Exploring Expedition (SCREE Expedition) of 2019.

Kearney, Bill, and Zickl, David

- 6061 2021 The odyssey: Traversing the Colorado River on a wooden dory. American Way (American Airlines), 54(6) (June): 5, 74-76, 78-82.
The online version of this article has the title, "Bespoke, on the water: Cruising down the Colorado River on a custom wooden dory." Regarding Brad Dimock's Fretwater Boatworks in Flagstaff, Arizona, building mini-dories, and a run in Glen Canyon upstream from Lees Ferry. See also Abbi Jacobson in same issue (above).

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Kelly, Kevin

- 6062 2021 The canyon journey. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(4) (Winter 2021-2022): 19.

Kranz, Jim

- 6063 2021 The roaring twenties. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(1) (Spring): 7.
Reflections on coincidences in the author's life on and off river, which involve the number 20, including a 17-day river trip in 2000.

Lawton, Rebecca

- 6064 2021 Swimming Grand Canyon and other poems. Georgetown, Kentucky: Finishing line Press, 29 pp. (New Women's Voices Series, No. 160.) [An on-demand publication.]

Martin, Tom, AND Brown, Peter

- 6065 2021 Before Powell? A descent of the Colorado River through the Grand Canyon on a tule reed raft. The Ol' Pioneer (Grand Canyon Historical Society), 32(2) (Spring): 10-12.
The authors take a tule reed raft through the Grand Canyon.

McCool, Weston C.

- 6066 2021 Reflections on the river. In: Minckley, Thomas, Kikut, Patrick, and Flock, Jessica, A river out of time. [No place]: Blurb, pp. 115-. [An on-demand publication.]
Thoughts from the Sesquicentennial Colorado River Exploring Expedition (SCREE Expedition) of 2019.

Menand, Betsy

- 6067 2021 February Light, 24x36, acrylic gouache. Canyon Views (Grand Canyon Conservancy), 28(2) (Fall/Winter): 32. [After the view from the Nankoweap granaries.]

Out, Edward

- 6068 2021 Mile 76.5. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(2) (Summer): 22-25.
See also "Editorial Apology", 34(3) (Fall): 6. Part of the middle of the story hidden under a photograph; the full article has been posted to the Grand Canyon River Guides website, gcr.org/bqr.php (direct link is <https://gcr.org/bqr/pdfs/76.5.pdf>) (accessed October 1, 2021).
- 6069 2021 Mile 179. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(4) (Winter 2021-2022): 20-22.

Rist, Wally [Rist, Walter], AND Steiger, Lew

- 6070 2021 Wally Rist. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(2) (Summer): cover, inside front cover, 30-44, 46.
Rist oral history interview. See also letter from Cort Conley, (3) (Fall): 1, regarding bird-rattlesnake combat mentioned herein.

Ryan, Mike

- 6071 2021 Mike Ryan; river legacy society member and supporter for nearly 35 years. In: Q+A My Life Needs Rivers [SECTION]. The Source (American Rivers, Washington, D.C.), (Spring): 7.
Interview format. Includes brief remarks on first-time kayaking on the Colorado River in Grand Canyon, 1983.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Stegall, Angie Mattson

- 6072 2021 Making your life some room : a Colorado River rafting trip through Grand Canyon. [No imprint], [124] pp. [An on-demand publication.]

Chapters begin with thoughts from a 2013 rowing trip through Grand Canyon, followed by a usually more substantial "Beyond the Canyon" section. See also Stegall (2016).

Torgenson, John

- 6073 2021 [Untitled.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(1) (Spring): 2.

Beginning: "The Grand Canyon is not a tour. / It is not an attraction. / It is real."

Turner, Rich, AND Quartaroli, Ricahrd

- 6074 2021 Rich Turner. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(4) (Winter 2021-2022): cover, inside front cover, 28-40.

Turner oral history interview.

Votel, Missy

- 6075 2021 Fear, loathing and a pink bikini. The Gulch (Durango, Colorado), (16) (Summer): 46-49.

Colorado River trip through Grand Canyon.

Wegner, Dave; Steiger, Lew; AND Dimock, Brad

- 6076 2021 Dave Wegner. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 34(1) (Spring): cover, inside front cover, 26-44.

Wegner oral history interview. "This interview encompassed two sessions at Dave's office in Flagstaff in 1998, with Brad Dimock and Lew Steiger; and also a follow-up session at Dave's house in Tucson in 2020."

2022

Agee, Erin

- 6077 2022 Picture repairing a hole. Circa 1975. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(1) (Spring): 44.

Poem, with explanatory text and photograph of former Hatch guides John Kramer and Russell Agee repairing a hole in a raft below Horn Creek.

Boner, Kelly

- 6078 2022 Deep in the canyon. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(3) (Fall): 13.

"This poem as written by Kelly Boner in Grand Canyon in April 2022. She guides on rivers in Colorado. It was submitted on her behalf with permission by Mike Bronson, a '70s Grand Canyon river guide."

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Brown, Peter M., AND Martin, Tom

- 6079 2022 Before Powell? A journey through the Grand Canyon on a tule reed boat. In: Proceedings of the Colorado River Basin History Symposium, 2021, hosted by The Grand Canyon Historical Society. Grand Canyon, Arizona: Grand Canyon Historical Society, pp. 28-30.

The authors' experience on a 30-day trip through Grand Canyon in January 2021.

Clark, Martha, AND Williams, Mary

- 6080 2022 Martha Clark. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(2) (Summer): cover, 22-46.

Clark oral-history interview. [See also letter from Rob Elliott, 35(3) (Fall): 2.]

Conway, F. Michael

- 6081 2022 Get to the boats! Fatal debris flow at Grand Canyon's Tawahatch Beach 14 July 2021. Arizona Geology, 43(1) (Summer): 1-12.

Doss, Summer

- 6082 2022 Moving downstream together. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(1) (Spring): 45.

Artwork for Grand Canyon River Guides 2022 T-shirt.

Gillberg, Allen

- 6083 2022 [Photographs.] Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(3) (Fall). [Untitled, raptor in flight, p. 5; "Confluence", p. 6; "Boat entering Waltenberg", p. 31; "Jim Hall in Hermit", p. 45; "Mom and Kids—Conquistador Aisle" (bighorns), p. 46.]

Giovanni, Melissa

- 6084 2022 Sego lily in Tapeats Creek enroute to Thunder River. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(2) (Summer): inside front cover.

- 6085 2022 Reflecting on the Confluence. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(2) (Summer): 18.

Kohli, Megan

- 6086 2022 The catch. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(3) (Fall): 44.

Meierding, Mark

- 6087 2022 The Inner Canyon (Stone Creek Camp, Grand Canyon). Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(1) (Spring): 26.

Menand, Betsy

- 6088 2022 Little Colorado River. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(1) (Spring): 46. [Painting.]

Roussis, Orea

- 6089 2022 Grand Canyon trip July 2022. 13 days of fun, rain almost every day and beautiful clouds. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(3) (Fall): inside front cover.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Sparks, Tony, AND Steiger, Lew

- 6090      2022      Tony Sparks. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(3) (Fall): cover, 32-43.
Sparks oral history interview.

Toner, John, AND Reeder, Ben

- 6091      2022      John Toner. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(1) (Spring): cover, inside front cover, 27-43.
Toner oral-history interview.

Watson, Clay

- 6092      2022      From a dedicated reader. In: Dear Eddy, [SECTION]. Boatman's Quarterly Review, 35(3) (Fall): 2-3.
Regarding a private trip after 25 years absence from the Colorado in Grand Canyon; specifically, about support and camaraderie from other trips on the river.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Date Undetermined

Items that are undated, but for which the years have been determined, have been listed in this bibliography under those years.

Anonymous

- 6093 NO DATE Early Grand Canyon river runners : John Wesley Powell, Norman Nevills, Glen and Bessie Hyde, Georgie White, Martin Litton, Katie Lee, Buzz Holmstrom, Bert Loper. Memphis, Tennessee: Books LLC, 29 pp. [Cover title: Early Grand Canyon river runners: John Wesley Powell.] [A print-on-demand publication, from an "online edition". "The online version of this book is part of Wikipedia, a multilingual, web-based encyclopedia." (p. v).] [Copy acquired new in 2010.]

Buchan, C. E.

- 6094 NO DATE "River rats" on the Colorado River in Cataract Canyon and Grand Canyon : shots from the movies by C. E. Buchan. [No imprint], 6 pp. [1953 or before.]

Colmont, Bernard de; Seynes, Antoine de; AND Colmont, Geneviève

- 6095 NO DATE Voyage by Bernard de Colmont, Antoine de Seynes, Geneviève de Colmont on the Green River and the Colorado River : Sept., Oct., Nov. 1938 / Voyage de Bernard de Colmont, Antoine de Seynes, Geneviève de Colmont sur le Green River et le Colorado : Sept., Oct., Nov. 1938. [No imprint] (printed by Hélio E. Aulard, Paris), 16 leaves [including wraps]. [Photos with legends in English and French, and bilingual title.]

Hamilton, Joyce

- 6096 NO DATE Diary kept during the upriver conquest of the Colorado River, June/July, 1960. [No place]: Buehler Turbocraft, 30 pp.

See also published accounts (Hamilton, 1963, 2010).

Kolb, Ellsworth L., AND Kolb, Emery C.

- 6097 NO DATE [Grand Canyon film show.] (Emery C. Kolb, narrator and producer.) 45:00.

Film produced from Kolbs' 1911 Colorado River expedition and other Grand Canyon explorations. Not "published" per se but viewed at Kolb Studio over more than 60 years and shown in earlier years on tour. Northern Arizona University, Cline Library, Special Collections and Archives holds Beta and VHS format copies with sound; color with black-and-white sequences. See also Kolb Brothers (2002).

Learn and Discover

- 6098 _____ My rafting trip with Dad down the Grand Canyon. San Francisco: Learn and Discover.

Film for youth; part of the My Trip With Dad series. Year undetermined; 19—.

The Grand Canyon!

III. Down (and Up) the Colorado River

Lee Keedick [firm]

- 6099 NO DATE Lee Keedick presents Clyde L. Eddy, journalist, explorer and lecturer : leader of an epochal exploration expedition through the rapids of the Colorado River. New York: Lee Keedick, [4] pp.
Agent's promotional brochure.

Ryan, John, AND Ryan, Kathleen Jo

- 6100 _____ Right to risk: A 15 day journey through Arizona's Grand Canyon. Coupeville, Washington: KJR Media. DVD.

Standard Oil Company

- 6101 NO DATE Through the Grand Canyon by boat. Standard Oil Co., 16-mm film, color, sound. 19:00.
Norman Nevills 1942 trip through Grand Canyon.
-

ABOVE: *Fine detail from “The Transept, Kaibab Division, Grand Cañon An Amphitheater of the Second Order”, by Thomas Moran. Sheet 18 in Clarence E. Dutton, Atlas to Accompany the Monograph on the Tertiary History of the Grand Cañon District (U.S. Geological Survey, Washington, 1882). (Julius Bien and Co., Lithographers, New York.) Moran may have included himself in this picture (right, sketching).*

---

BACK COVER: *Detail from “Tourists in the Colorado Cañon”. Page 183 in Charles Dudley Warner, Our Italy (Harper and Brothers, New York, 1892). (Engraved by W. Clark.)*

