PUBLICATIONS FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES

Publications for and which relate to the interests and needs of people with various impairments

- SECTION 1 Publications produced especially for the blind and vision-impaired
- SECTION 2 Conventional publications that relate to the experiences of or information of interest to the blind and vision-impaired
- SECTION 3 Publications that relate to people with hearing impairments
- SECTION 4 Publications that relate to people with mobility or activity impairments, and publications pertaining to special-needs resources

THE GRAND CANON

PART 5. PUBLICATIONS FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES (GRAND CANYON AND LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGIONS)

OVERVIEW

Section 1: Publications produced especially for the blind and vision-impaired. This section contains citations mostly for items that are in large-print or Braille formats and audio materials made expressly by agencies who produce materials for the blind and vision-impaired. Other, unusual formats are included, too; for example, tactile material in Moon Type. Many citations have been derived from Library of Congress catalogue records, and of course this part of the bibliography should not be construed to be comprehensive because there are likely to be many products for this audience that are not in accessible catalogs.

Section 2: Conventional publications that relate to the experiences of or information of interest to the blind and vision-impaired. Unlike the publications cited in Section 1, these works are not in special formats for the blind or visually impaired, but are conventionally printed books and serials. Topically, they concern the experiences of blind and visually impaired people, and information of interest to them. Various citations may be repeated here from other parts of this bibliography.

Section 3: Publications that relate to people with hearing impairments. The publications cited here concern the experiences of the deaf and hearing impaired within the region covered by this bibliography. They are relegated to their own section also to bring attention to readers the perspectives and needs of these people, who might otherwise be overlooked among other people with impairments. The citations are repeated here from other parts of this bibliography.

PART 5. PUBLICATIONS FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES (GRAND CANYON AND LOWER COLORADO RIVER REGIONS)

Section 4: Publications that relate to people with mobility or activity limitations, and special-needs resources. Citations in this section identify those publications that relate the Grand Canyon or Colorado River experiences of people with mobility or activity limitations, and publications that pertain to area travel information specifically for these people, and for people with special needs. By considering mobility or activity limitations as either physical or cognitive in nature as the result of congenital condition, chronic or acute disease, accident, or age-related condition, the definition embraces a wide spectrum of people. The citations are repeated here from other parts of this bibliography.

Not included here are publications that pertain to people who may experience socially related difficulties; for example, at-risk youth or people with mental health concerns or social distresses like physical or sexual abuse and personal emotional troubles. Publications pertaining to any of these issues as they may be addressed within the region covered by this bibliography will be found in Part 14, which includes the subject area of sociology, and Part 15, which addresses various aspects of physical and mental health. However, publications pertaining to certain programs that can address either or both physical and emotional concerns—such as the Wounded Warrior programs that conduct therapeutic trips on the Colorado River for military veterans who are physically wounded or suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) or other emotional conflicts—are consolidated in this appendix, repeated from scattered citations in other parts of this bibliography.

Sections 2–4 repeat citations that are included in other parts of the bibliography. Each citation is renumbered here with the PART 5. prefix.

NOTES FOR PART 5, SECTION 1

Refer to PART 27 (AUDIO WORKS) for conventional mass-market audio recordings.

While it might be desirable to include publications that are available in digital formats (for example, BRF, an electronic Braille format for users with appropriate hardware or with speech output from digital files), most such products are directly and only available online. For more information see the Library of Congress webpage for BARD—the Braille and Audio and Reading Download from the National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled (NLS) at <https://www.loc.gov/nls/about/services/braille-audio-reading-download-bard/>

The “National Library Service (NLS) is a free braille and talking book library service for people with temporary or permanent low vision, blindness, or a physical, perceptual, or reading disability that prevents them from using regular print materials. Through a national network of cooperating libraries, NLS circulates books and magazines in braille or audio formats, that are instantly downloadable to a personal device or delivered by mail free of charge.” (from the NLS website).

As with “ebooks” and similar products such as those that would be cited elsewhere in this bibliography, the fact that they may not be available in the future precludes listing them herein; they are not physically acquirable at this time. Readers interested in these resources should consult their library for the blind or websites that may offer these products.

Many of these publications are transcribed or voice-recorded from previously published conventional publications, which are cited in other parts of this bibliography. Titles prepared for use by readers with dyslexia may be found in Section 4 of this part of the bibliography.

Howe, S. G. [Howe, Samuel Griley]

1836 5.134

⠠ a geographical and statistical description of the earth, & the various countries upon its surface: for the use of the blind : by s. c. howe. executed by s. p. ruggles of the n. e. institution for the education of the blind[.] boston, 1836.

Boston: S. P. Ruggles , New England Institution for the Education of the Blind, 174 [175] pp. [Stephen Preston Ruggles, printer.] [Heavy-paper leaves, single-sided, upon which raised script is embossed on recto in specially-shaped Roman characters, without capitalizations, for tactile use. Page [175] comprises “postscript” and “errata”.] [See p. 14; interjections in [square brackets] are added here: “the second natural [physical] division [of North America] is below the 40th parallel; being all high & rather level land, called table land of mexico.” (ENTIRE NOTE) This comprises the sole mention in this volume of the physical geography of the greater Grand Canyon region, even if so very broadly defined. It is cited so as to document, within the focus of this bibliography, an unusual format and early date for tactile publications for the blind. (The section, “mexico”, pp. 58-60, contains nothing pertinent to this bibliography.)] [NOTE: There is also an 1837 “atlas of the united states printed for the use of the blind, at the expense of john c. gray; under the direction of s.g. howe. at the n.e. institution for the education of the blind” (in the same format, 27 text pages, 24 maps pages), but it includes only states east of the Mississippi River and some western states bordering the Mississippi. The New England Institution is today the Perkins School for the Blind, Watertown, Massachusetts.]

NOTE TO PART 5, SECTION 2

Unlike the publications cited in Section 1, these works are not in special formats for the blind or visually impaired, but are conventionally printed books and serials. Typically, they concern the experiences of blind and visually impaired people, and information of interest to them. Various citations may be repeated here from other parts of this bibliography.

To assist users with vision limitations the general page layout for Section 2 is modeled after display pages on website of the Library of Congress's National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled, <https://www.loc.gov/nls/>.

SECTION 4. PUBLICATIONS THAT RELATE TO PEOPLE WITH MOBILITY OR ACTIVITY LIMITATIONS, AND PUBLICATIONS PERTAINING TO SPECIAL-NEEDS RESOURCES

NOTE FOR PART 5, SECTION 4

THE citations in this appendix identify those publications that relate the Grand Canyon or Colorado River experiences of people with mobility or activity limitations, and publications that pertain to area travel information specifically for these people, and for people with special needs. By considering mobility or activity limitations as either physical or cognitive in nature as the result of congenital or developmental condition, chronic or acute disease, accident, or age-related condition, the definition embraces a wide spectrum of people. The citations are repeated here from other parts of this bibliography.

Publications pertaining to certain programs that can address either or both physical and emotional concerns — such as the Wounded Warrior programs that conduct therapeutic trips on the Colorado River for military veterans who are physically wounded or suffer from post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) or other emotional conflicts — are consolidated in this appendix, repeated from scattered citations in other parts of this bibliography.

While some people may consider that publications by or about amputees, for example, who perform activities as well as fully-limbed people, should not be itemized in this Section, they often relate stories or information about special functions or devices—and personal perseverance—that allow affected individuals to be successful in these activities. Accordingly, the publications are added here for the sake of readers who may be encouraged by them.

Not included here are publications that pertain to people who may experience socially related difficulties; for example, at-risk youth or people with mental health concerns or social distresses like physical or sexual abuse and personal emotional distresses. Publications pertaining to any of these issues as they may be addressed within the region covered by this bibliography will be found in Part 14, which includes the subject area of sociology, and in Part 15, which addresses various aspects of physical and mental health.

[and] experienced physical challenge, solitude, and almost overwhelming natural beauty." But see Helmy (2024, ITEM NO. 5.426), who confirms, "Quinn Brett and Erin Drake recounted a trip along the Grand Canyon National Park's Rim-to-River trail, told from Brett's perspective as a person who uses a wheelchair for mobility."]

Through their devotion to artmaking and, in some cases, the courage to overcome seemingly impossible obstacles, these four exceptional artists have given the world the tremendous gifts of their artistic vision and their cultural pride [FEATURE]. American Indian (Smithsonian Institution, National Museum of the American Indian), 3(4) (Fall/Winter): 23. [About artist Tyree Honga, a Hualapai paralyzed from the neck down since 1990. Describes the method by which he creates, and takes note of pieces done of places on the Hualapai Reservation and Grand Canyon, from “his mind’s eye”. Also quoted: “Did you know, in my teens I jogged down Havasupai Canyon during the annual Peach Festival with a beaded crown for the tribal queen?” Honga says. ‘I had a deadline—I made it before they chose the queen.’”] |
